J. W. FORD,
Markdale.
244-56

LOOK!

Look! Look!

James G. Russell's
NOTED JEWELLERY STORE,
FLESHERTON,

Is the place to buy

Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.

A large assortment just to hand.

A 1 Solid Silver Watches, Full Jewelled, from $8.50 up to $26, worth from $10.50 to $32.00, warranted from two to five years.

It will pay you to come twenty miles to have your Watch or Clock repaired by Russell.

☞ Satisfaction guaranteed every time.

217-269 JAS. G. RUSSELL.

EUGENIA HOTEL.

EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.

J. McAleer, - - Prop.

The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57.

Lumber and Shingles.

THE undersigned has constantly on hand all kinds of lumber and first-class cedar shingles for sale. Mill 3½ miles North of Markdale, 11th line Euphrasia.

250-63 FORD & STINSON.

WM. G. GUTHERIE,

Plain & Ornamental Plaster

Opposite the new

Presbyterian Church Markdale.

Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

MARKDALE

Woolen Mills.

We, the undersigned, would respectfully intimate to our customers and friends that we are still here and prepared to attend to all who may favor us with a call in anything we can do in our line with the best possible satisfaction. Also we will get yarn for those who allow us to do their weaving. ☞ All kinds of merchantable farm produce taken in exchange for work at market prices.

248-4m F. J. RITCHIE.

CONSTANCE KENT.

The Story of a Confessed Murderess Said to be Related to the Queen.

The other day the cable brought an item of news which revives the memory of one of the most remarkable crimes recorded in the history of English trials. The item ran to the effect that Constance Kent, convicted twenty-five years ago of the Roade murder, had received a ticket-of-leave. The woman thus briefly mentioned was at the time of the commission of the crime a young girl of 15 or thereabouts, and the victim was her 3-year-old half-brother, Arthur Kent. The event acquired unusual prominence owing to the relationship all the parties immediately concerned bore to the queen.

William Kent, the father of Constance and the murdered child, was a gentleman of private fortune, living at a place called Roade. He was said to be, and the statement was never contradicted, an illegitimate son of the duke of Kent, fourth son of George III. and father of Queen Victoria, and his private fortune was supposed to have come from his royal source. Mr. Kent was a gentleman of quiet and cultivated tastes, enjoying a life of lettered ease. His first wife, mother of Constance, having died when she, the eldest of his children, was about 10 or 11 years of age, he employed a lady of education as governess and superintendent of his family. This lady he married, and by her had a son, young Arthur. All seemed happy in the Kent family, though the eldest daughter, Constance, was occasionally subject to fits of moodiness, for which she assigned no reason.

Early one Sunday morning in summer the nurse girl, whose name is not recalled, alarmed the sleeping household with her outcries. She had awakened to find her young charge, little Arthur, who slept in a cot by her bedside, lying dead, his throat cut from ear to ear. The horror-stricken parents at once sent for assistance. The police and the coroner were promptly on the spot, and investigations commenced. It was then noticed that though there were traces of blood on the blanket on which the child lay, there was no saturation such as would have been the case had the murder been committed while he lay sleeping. Further examination revealed the fact that the child had been taken to a water-closet in the house, and that there the butchery had been performed. A carving-knife, sharpened almost to a razor edge, was also found with traces of blood upon it.

Of course, all these circumstances tended to fasten suspicion on the unfortunate nurse-girl, for who else could have carried the child to the scene of the murder without causing him to make some outcry. At the time of the alarm being given it was shown that every one else in the house was sleeping peacefully, including Constance, against whom suspicion was not once directed. An attempt was also made to fasten suspicion on Mr. Kent, the unhappy father, and the whole of England took sides, one in favor of this, the other in favor of that theory. Finally, the testimony clearly exonerated Kent, so there was nothing left but the conclusion that the servant was the guilty party. It is true that no motive could be shown for the deed; that she was of a most amiable disposition and a great favorite with all the children, but there were the facts. The conclusion was irresistible, and the poor girl was arrested and thrown into prison to await her trial.

Meantime the Kent household was broken up, the bereaved parents trying to seek relief from sorrow in travel. Constance was sent to a sort of conventual school at Brighton, on the south coast. This school was an attachment to a high ritualistic Episcopal church, the rector to which had established the confessional as a part of his church discipline. The time came nigh for the trial of the imprisoned nurse-girl. Controversy waxed warmer and higher as the day set came nearer. When it arrived the papers were full of correspondence on the subject, and all sorts of theories were broached to account for the deed without the intervention of the accused. Various arrests were made, but always without result. Finally the girl was tried and convicted. But the public was not satisfied, and the home secretary was persuaded to grant a respite pending further investigation.

The case seemed hopeless, however, until one morning Constance Kent, accompanied by one of the Sisters of a convent school, called on the rector of the church above spoken of, and the two asked a private audience. Constance had come to confess. She had evidently already told her story to the Sister. She then, calmly and lucidly, as the clergyman afterwards said, told the whole story of the crime. She had deeply resented her father's second marriage, though she had given no outward sign of her resentment. Her anger was still more heightened when her young half-brother was born. She had studiously concealed this feeling. But her jealous hate grew in intensity as he grew from infancy into laughing childhood. Gradually hate matured into design, and she determined to destroy the little fellow. Providing herself with the sharpened knife, shortly after dawn she had slipped into the nursery bedroom Stooping over the cot she awoke the child with a kiss, and, wrapping him in his blanket, carried him with her to closet. Here the knife was used in such a way that the flowing blood went down the pipe. When life was extinct and the blood had ceased to flow she gently returned to the nursery, replaced the little corpse in its cot, wiped and restored the knife to its place in the kitchen, and then went to bed and to sleep. One can imagine the horror and excitement this awful confession created. Thousands refused to believe it, saying the girl was demented, and pointing to a supposed hereditary taint of insanity which had come to her from her grandfather, George III., as an argument. She was, however, tried and not only maintained the truth of her confession, but pointed out corroborating circumstances which had escaped the notice of the police. Of course, she was convicted, and the other poor girl pardoned for the crime, she had never committed. Then Constance was sentenced to death, but interests were made in favor of a commutation. Her youth and beauty pleaded strongly for her; so did a certain feeling that, while confession was clearly proven not to have resulted from inherited insanity, the deed itself might have done. Her sentence was commuted to penal servitude for life, and good behavior brought the ticket-of-leave mentioned. A niece in blood, though not by marriage, of the queen, she has spent all the best years of her life in a convict prison. Put such a story in a novel, and what critic would not scout at is too absurd for anything?

Elegant Hands.

A pretty hand can no more be unfashionable than a pretty face, but just now, we are told, it is particularly "the fashion" to display a pretty hand.

That elaborate box of nonsense, the nail-case, made of plush or satinwood and filled with attractive little implements never used, is in more than usual request.

Girls spend an hour at a time polishing away with pink powder and a bit of chamois leather, or carefully pushing back with an instrument for the purpose the slight film of skin that obscures the white crescent at the base of the nail. A freckle on the back of the hand fills them with dismay, and causes an instant demand for lemon-juice.

A red hand sets the owner to searching domestic recipes for the proper composition of almond-paste. A tendency to knobbiness of wrist or knuckles plunges the victim into despair.

There is good in all this, but the thing may be carried too far. A young lady's hands should always be well-cared for and pleasing to behold, but there are some blemishes possible upon its beauty which no one should become unwilling to incur. Such is that roughness of the forefinger which is apt to follow much use of the needle.

Such also is the puckered appearance of the hand of a young lady who has recently washed dishes, or the stained fingers of the preserve-maker; and who would not regard the row of blisters along a rosy palm that has not disdained to grasp a flat-iron as honorable scars, no more to be considered a disfigurement than the sword-cut on the forehead of a soldier?

The prettier your hands the better, young ladies, until they become too pretty to be useful. The white, smooth hand with a ring upon it is a charming thing, but the hand that is redder and rougher, and does good work, has the first claim upon our admiration.

Agnes Hedenstrom.

One of the best known among English philanthropic institutions is the Scandinavian Temperance Sailors' Home in London, and one of the most interesting biographies of the century would be that of its foundress, Agnes Hedenstrom.

Left an orphan when quite a young child, she was brought up in the house of wealthy relatives in Upsala. Here she was petted and indulged to the last degree.

"Let the child have her own way!" said he friends. "She has no parents, poor thing!"

All her pranks were overlooked, and she grew up animated largely by the desire to enjoy herself and have her own way. Still a sense of dissatisfaction would make itself felt in her life. She was not quite happy, though she could have given no reason for her despondency.

One day, however, she listened to an eminent Swedish preacher, and then, for the first time, became conscious of the religious element lacking in her own life, and of the fact that she only needed to fill her idle hours with thought and labor for others.

She began preaching to her countrymen in the North, where no woman had been allowed to speak in public, first addressing small meetings, and finally vast assemblages.

For some years she continued this work, becoming at last persuaded that it was her duty to go as a missionary to India. But while in London, awaiting an opportunity to engage in work abroad, she was impressed with the great need of laborers among the poor in East London. She began preaching to them in the streets, and it was there that the sound of her own language broke on her ear, half-smothered or inarticulate. There homeless, drunken Scandinavian sailors were ensnared by the hundred, in horrible pitfalls of evil.

For two years she worked among the sailors, preaching and persuading.

She still shudders at the recollection of her first address to some of her countrymen, at a place called the Strangers' Rest. Twenty drunken sailors had been collected in this room, and, alone and trembling, their country woman addressed them, while they shrieked and blasphemed.

One after another, they became quiet, until the whole company was finally subdued. Next evening they came, bringing some comrades with them, and it was not long before a Scandinavian lecture-room was permanently established.

It was some years before Miss Hedenstrom could raise sufficient funds for a larger establishment, but in 1880 the Home was founded.

Of this Miss Hedenstrom is sole manager. She corresponds with the members of her company, when they are abroad on voyages, receives and invests their money, and aids many a captain in picking out his crew.

Beyond all this, she superintends the Home and entertains the "boys" who are temporarily on shore. For their benefit, bedrooms are kept in order, meals are served in a large dining-room, and plenty of space is provided for them to pass their leisure hours amid books and newspapers. In short, the Home is an immense boarding-house, though of course it cannot be entirely self-supporting, some of its patrons being quite destitute.

Miss Hedenstrom says of her charges:

"I have never yet had a sailor among the five thousand that have been in this home, who has returned from it to his former haunts; and, thank God! there are at present a good many decent dressed men among the Scandinavian sailors in London, whereas, when I began my work, there was not a single one of all that came under my notice who did not look ragged or slipshod.

"I can do little to raise funds; but never yet have I asked anything in vain from my Heavenly Father."

It requires strong character for a work like this. But this woman seems to possess it, and to owe to it her fitness for her calling.

Legends of the Strawberry.

The people of Bohemia are the oldest dwellers in Europe, and retain many of the most curious superstitions. Some are unique and are scarcely to be traced elsewhere. For instance, certain fruits have curious fancies connected with them. The strawberry is especially reverenced. When the first crops are gathered in the first handful is set aside for the poor, and placed upon a tree or stump or convenient spot in the open air, whence they can be fetched away. If a mother has lost her child during the previous year, she must gather no strawberries before St. John's day, for if she does her child will not be permitted to join the blessed children when they go with the Virgin to pick strawberries in the fields of Heaven. Another version of the same superstition says that the child may have a few, but not so many as others whose mothers have refrained from eating. The Virgin will say to her: "See, darling, your share is small, because your mother has eaten them." In a valley at Tetschen there is a crag which the villagers say is in the form of a human bust, and which is called the Stone Strawberry Lass, because a legend asserts that on St. John's day, in 1614, a certain willful maiden persisted in dancing and eating strawberries instead of going to mass, and added to her sins by laughing at her grandmother when she chid her. Thereupon the old lady said, "I wish thou wert a stone," and the lively maiden became transformed. The legend further asserts that she will return to flesh and blood whenever a pure and pious youth is found, who has never neglected his church from his seventh year, nor looked at a maiden during service, who will strike the stone three times while high mass is being said. However, the flesh is weak, we know, and the youth is yet to be found who has kept his eyes in his prayer-book from his seventh year, so the maiden remains petrified.

A Boy's Wish.

I do wish I was a clock—got a face and don't have to wash it—got hands and don't have to keep them clean, and just gets to be looked up to by everybody—just runs all the time, and dad never once says, "now don't run the legs off of you, boy." Reckon its a boy, seems to be pretty good on the strike, or may be its a mill-hand—anyhow its a pretty nice thing to be; of course it can't eat! No good fried "taters" for you clockie! No licorice water, either. You've got hands that might shake it, but no mouth for to drink with. Neither can you go barefoot. Oh I'd hate that. But then you don't have to wear an overcoat, or mittens on your hands, I hate that, too! One of your hands is smaller than the other, I wouldn't like that—wouldn't like to be "unformed," 'twould be such a plague—all the boys would find it out.

Tick! Tick! Tick! Tick! My what a runner you are! I bet if you was running on a two dollar pair of shoes that dad had to pay for you'd be stopped mighty quick.

My dad ain't a bad man, but there is something about him that I do not like, and its his name, and I don't know why either. Only, the big boys at school asked me, one day, what my father's name was, I said, Mr. Schütz; then they said I was only a "half shot," and laughed so.

"Shoot Folly as She Flies,"

was the way it appeared in the proof-slip. The argus-eyed proof-reader, however, knew the quotation intended and changed it to read: "Shoot Folly as she flies."—Pope. Of course it was an error, yet how many are daily committing much graver errors by following the first symptoms of consumption to go unheeded. If afflicted with loss of appetite, chilly sensations, or hacking cough, it is suicidal to delay a single moment the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," —the great and only reliable remedy yet known for this terribly fatal malady. Send two letter stamps for Dr. Pierce's complete treatise on this disease. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Japanese inventor makes paper from seaweed, which from its thickened transparency, can be colored to an excellent imitation of stained glass.

"Laugh and Grow Fat," is a precept easily preached, but not so easy to practice. If a person has no appetite but a distressing nausea, sick-headache, dyspepsia, boils, or any other ill resulting from inaction of the bowels, it is impossible to get up such a laugh as will produce an aldermanic corpulence. In order to laugh satisfactorily you must be well, and to be well you must have your bowels in good order. You can do this and laugh heartily with Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," the little regulators of the liver and bowels and best promoters of jollity.

It is impossible for that man to despair who remembers that his helper is omnipotent.

Delicate diseases radically cured. Consultation free. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

The qualities we possess never make us so ridiculous as those we pretend to have.

If the public are fairly and faithfully dealt with they will come to appreciate it sooner or later. This fact is well illustrated in the experience of Messrs. Tuckett & Son, with their well known "Myrtle Navy" tobacco. Throughout the manufacturers of T. & B. have stood firmly by their original idea to give the public the best article possible, at at the lowest possible price, and in the large demand for their tobacco the public have manifested their appreciation.

Nothing cuts like neglect. There is a proverb that it "pierces the shell of the tortoise." On the other hand, nothing heal wounds, and softens trial and cheers the soul like sympathy.

They Speak for Themselves.

PICTON, Feb, 17.—This is to certify that I have used Polson's NERVILINE for rheumatism, and have found it a valuable remedy for all internal pain, and would greatly recommend it to the public.—N. T. KINGSLEY.

LEEDS COUNTY, Jan. 9.—We are not in the habit of puffing patent medicines, but we cannot withhold our testimony as to the great value of Nerviline as a remedy for pain. We have pleasure in recommending it as a never-failing remedy.—REV. H. J. ALLEN, BENJ. DILLON, and many others.

P. A. Churchill states:—There seems to be no end to the success of Nerviline. I send you a few testimonials and can send you plenty more if of use to you.

Sold everywhere.

Everyone loves power, even if they do not know what to do with it.

☞ Alma Ladies' College, St. Thomas, Ont., has full staff and complete courses in Literature, Music, Fine Arts, and Commercial Science. Re-opens September 10, 1885. For 50 pp. announcement, address Principal Austin, B.D.

Let us respect gray hairs; but, above all, our own.

No such evidence.

Can be offered for any other preparation as supports our claim that Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is the best and safest corn cure remedy in the world. Dr. Consadine, Port Dalhousie, writes:—"I can testify to its efficacy together with many others here." This is a universal opinion. Try Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor and avoid poisonous and cheap substitutes. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine.

"If you marry a red-headed woman with a fiery temper, my son, sheol make it hot for you."

Prevention Better Than Cure.

Many of the diseases so prevalent in these days are caused by using soap containing impure and infectious matter. Avoid all risk by using PERFECTION Laundry Soap, which is absolutely pure. Ask your grocer for PERFECTION. Manufactured only by the Toronto Soap Co.

A.P. 240.

FARMS FOR SALE.—All kinds.—Send for list. JOHN J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IMPERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACKING

PURE BRED AYRESHIRES for sale, two cows, two yearling heifers and one bull. Write for description, price and pedigree to G. F. BAKER, [illegible]

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—100 acres 4½ miles east of the city of St. Thomas. For particulars address J. J. Lewis, New Sarum, Ont.

TO RENT—WEST HALF LOT 33, CONCESSION 6th, Ninety-seven acres clear, good for grain or grazing, half-mile from corporation Uxbridge. Apply to M. MUNRO, Uxbridge P. O.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, Temperance St., Toronto. Patrons, Gov. Gen. of Canada, Lieut.-Gov. of Ontario. The most successful Veterinary Institution in America—Over five hundred graduates in successful practice. All experienced teachers. Session begins Oct. 21. Fees Fifty Dollars. Principal, PROF. SMITH, V.S.

THE BLIND afflicted SEE.—Those who ... get Williams' Eye Water, it cures all ... that are curable, even Color Blindness ... your druggists for it. Wholesale by Lyman ... Montreal. Send for circular to see the ... cures effected in Montreal to GEO. WILLIAMS, ... Lawrence street, or at GARDNER'S Drug Store, ... near McGill and Notre Dame street

"CRESOLINE!"

The Royal English Horse and Cattle Liniment, wash for Domestic Animals just introduced from England, where it has been in use over 12 years. Cures skin diseases, heals cuts, bruises, and sores, mange on dogs, and when used in the bath ... teaspoonful to a bath) positively destroys fleas, lice, all insects on dogs, poultry and other animals. 25c. 50c. and $1 each. Circulars free; write for ... NESS & CO., 759 Craig St., Montreal. Agents wanted everywhere. Good inducements to good men. Apply at once for terms and particulars.

WATER — STAR AUGER — $20 Per Day — WELL BORING — has no superior; 20 feet per hour; hand or horse power; combined boring and rock drilling ... grand success; first prizes and diplomas. Send for catalogue. 68 Mary Street, Hamilton, Canada.

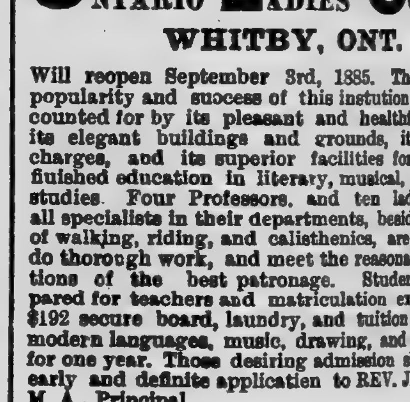
FOR PLEASANT SEWING —USE ONLY— Clapperton's Spool Cotton. Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. ☞ For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.

JAMES PARK & SON, Pork Packers, Toronto. L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Hams, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock.

CANADA PERMANENT LOAN & SAVINGS COMPANY. INCORPORATED A. D. 1855.

SUBSCRIBED CAPITAL ....
PAID UP CAPITAL ....
RESERVE FUND ....
TOTAL ASSETS ....

OFFICE:—Co'y's Bldgs. Toronto St., Toronto.



STRAIGHT LOANS, OR CREDIT FONCIER PLAN. The Company has a large amount of money to lend on Real Estate securities at the lowest current rate of interest, repayable either in one sum or by instalments as may be desired by the borrower. Applications may be made direct to the undersigned by letter or otherwise, or to the local representatives of the Company throughout Ontario. As the Company always has funds on hand no delay need be experienced. Expenses reduced to minimum. Mortgages and Municipal Debentures Purchased. HERBERT MASON Managing Director.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships. Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N. F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia fortnightly. For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; S. Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N.B.; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. A. Allan, Proprietor Boston Montreal.

ONTARIO LADIES' COLLEGE, WHITBY, ONT. Will reopen September 3rd, 1885. The increasing popularity and success of this institution may be accounted for by its pleasant and healthful location, its elegant buildings and grounds, its moderate charges, and its superior facilities for affording a finished education in literary, musical, and fine art studies. Four Professors, and ten lady teachers, all specialists in their departments, besides teachers of walking, riding, and calisthenics, are prepared to do thorough work, and meet the reasonable expectations of the best patronage. Students are prepared for teachers and matriculation examinations. $192 secure board, laundry, and tuition in English, modern languages, music, drawing, and calisthenics for one year. Those desiring admission should make early and definite application to REV. J. J. HARE, M. A., Principal.

J. & J. TAYLOR, TORONTO SAFE WORKS. ESTABLISHED 1855. MANUFACTURERS OF FIRE AND BURGLAR PROOF SAFES. STEEL VAULTS, VAULT DOORS, COMBINATION BANK LOCKS, Prison Locks, and all kinds of Fire and Burglar Proof Securities. Patentees and sole manufacturers of Flange Safes, with Non-Conducting Steel Flange Doors, which have been demonstrated by actual tests to be the best fire-resisting safes now made. A number of Second-hand, Fire-proof Safes now in stock at low prices—also, Five Second-hand, Burglar-proof Safes, suitable for Private Bankers or Jewellers. FACTORY AND SALESROOM, 117 & 119 FRONT STREET EAST TORONTO.

CAUTION. Each Plug of the MYRTLE NAVY IS MARKED T. & B. In Bronze Letters. NONE OTHER GENUINE.

The Rapid Washer ... trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents ... clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it ... to wash calicoes in five minutes, cotton goods in ... 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees ... facturers. 78 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada.

Tell You Your Fortune, Pr...

"I'll tell you 'your fortune,' pretty mai...
"You may, if you tell it true."
"Well, I can see that you love right we...
A lad in sailor's blue.
A sailor lad with a bright black eye,
And a heart both kind and strong."
"Nay, gossip," she said, with a merry ...
"You never were further wrong.

The lad I love has a bright blue eye;
A better lad never was born.
... isn't to match behind a plough,
... yet in the hay or corn.
... never was in a tossing ship;
... never was near the sea;
... home, it stands in a field of wheat,
... under an apple tree."

... farmer boy! And you love him well ...
Ah, that is a better fate.
... cross my hand, and I'll tell you, chi...
How long you will have to wait
... you shall smile at the wedding ring,
And the bridal morn shall see,
... go to the home in the wheat field
... under the apple tree.

... is not long, if the stars speak true—
And when do they speak in vain?—
... will marry the farmer boy you love
When the Summer comes again."
... merrily rang a mocking laugh—
"Ah, gossip, how little you know!
... my farmer boy and I were wed
... year and a half ago!

Whatever of good may come to us,
Whatever grief or ill,
... not from any planet or star—
... comes from our Father's will.
... joy or sorrow of the future years
No mortal could ever show;
... knoweth the way that we shall take,
And that is enough to know."

...TORM AND SUNSH...

CHAPTER IV.—(CONTINUED...

...ate on the following afternoon I ... through the fields as fast as my li... ...ry me, my hat in my hand, the ... supposed to be carrying to old ...arter of a mile behind me, stuck ...ge near her cottage, a flush of ha... ...asurable excitement burning ...eks. I have only two hours to ... Vicarage and back again, and I ...ch to tell Judith! I shall not be ... half I want to say before I am ...un home.

...ortunately I overtake her in th... field next to the road, on her w... ...llie's cottage.

"My dear child, you have raced y... ...o a perfect fever!" she exclaims t... ...at she looks at me. "Do put o... and sit down for a minute or two ... make yourself ill."

"Oh, Judith, I have had such a ... time!"

"I am glad to hear it. But do not ... me while you are out of breath."

"And I missed you so much. ... next time I go to Velfry you are to ..."

"Who said so?" she asks, smiling ...

"Erroll says so, and I say so; ... make Mrs. Rutherfurd do anythi...se."

"Is it 'we' already?" she says, p... curls back from my hot forehead.

"Oh, Judith, I like him so much, ... me!"

"If the first is true, the last is ver...ate."

"It is quite true. I liked him the ... evening, and now——"

"And now?" Judith finishes, looki...

"Now I love him. And, oh, Judit... made me so happy! I never ... it was to be really happy until ... She turns her head away. I fancy ... a little. It is cruel of me to t... joy upon her—she whose love ha... so fortunate as mine!

"Judith, I have told you my secret, ... I can guess yours."

She looks at me swiftly, the blood ru... her face.

"You care for Ralph, don't you?"

"For Ralph?" she repeats monotono...

"Erroll told me. He guessed it long ... before he went to China."

"Erroll guessed it?"

"Yes. And he thinks his mother g... too—that was why she did not ask ... Velfry any more."

"Erroll told you all this?"

"Yes. You do not mind me, Jud... ... would not have said it to any ..."

"I think he might have found someth... to say to you!" she exclaims, wi... ...tench of scorn in look and voice. ... ...t of his way to tell you a thing ...

"He did not go out of his way. It ... to excuse his mother for not hav... you there, I think."

"Excused her? There was no excuse ... Why should we not like each oth... —as you and Erroll like each othe... should I have been turned out of ... any more than you?"

... scorn frightens me—the flash of ang... great golden-brown eyes.

"... will tell you why," she goes on, wit... ...ving time to answer. "Because y... ...ch and I am poor; because y... ...ney and dress and jewels, and I ha... ...gh even enough to dress mys... ...dy without patching and darning a... ...y old gowns till there is nothing le... ...n to darn! If I had been an heire...

...LIND afflicted ... Williams' Eye Water ... are curable, even ... Send for circular ... Montreal to GEO. WILLIAMS ... or at GARDNER'S ... and Notre Dame street

"CRESOLINE!"
... English Horse and Cattle Liniment ... it has been in use over 12 years ... heals cuts, bruises ... dogs, and when used in the ... to a bath) positively destroys ... on dogs, poultry and other animals ... $1 each. Circulars free ... 759 Craig St., Montreal ... Good inducements to good men ... terms and particulars

...TER STAR AUGUR $20 Per Day WELL BORING
...superior; 20 feet per hour; ... combined boring and rock drilling ... first prizes and diplomas ...
...Mary Street, Hamilton, Canada.

PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
...erton's Spool Cotton!
FULL Length, and to run smooth on ... See that CLAPPERTON'S name is ... For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.

...ES PARK & SON,
...rk Packers, Toronto.
...con, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, ... Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, ... Cheese, Family or Navy Pork ... Pails. The Best Brands of ... Dairy Salt in Stock.

...ADA PERMANENT
...AN & SAVINGS COMPANY
INCORPORATED A. D. 1855.
...BED CAPITAL ...
...P CAPITAL ...
...E FUND ...
...ASSETS ...
...Coy's Bldgs. Toronto St., Toronto
...TRAIGHT LOANS,
...CREDIT FONCIER PLAN.
...any has a large amount of money to lend on ... securities at the lowest current rate of ... able either in one sum or by instalments ... desired by the borrower. ... may be made direct to the undersigned ... otherwise, or to the local representatives of ... throughout Ontario. As the Company ... funds on hand no delay need be expected ... reduced to minimum.
... and Municipal Debentures Purchased.
... HERBERT MASON Managing Director.

...ne Royal Mail Steamships,
...ring winter from Portland every Thursday ... every Saturday to Liverpool ... from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's ... Glasgow lines sail during winter ... Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia ... Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow ... Philadelphia fortnightly. ... passage, or other information ... Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; ... Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's ... Thomson & Co., St. John, N.B. ... Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, ... Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., ... Wm. Brookie, Philadelphia; H. A. ... proprietor Boston Montreal.

...RIO LADIES' COLLEGE, WHITBY, ONT.
...September 3rd, 1885. The increasing ... and success of this institution ... by its pleasant and healthful location ... buildings and grounds, its modern ... its superior facilities for affording ... education in literary, musical, and fine art ... our Professors, and ten lady teachers ... in their departments, besides ... riding, and calisthenics, are prepared ... work, and meet the reasonable expectations ... best patronage. Students are ... teachers and matriculation examinations ... board, laundry, and tuition in English ... languages, music, drawing, and calisthenics ... Those desiring admission should make ... definite application to REV. J. J. HARE ... principal.

... J. TAYLOR
...ORONTO SAFE WORKS.
ESTABLISHED 1855.
...FACTURERS OF FIRE AND ...LAR PROOF SAFES
...L VAULTS, VAULT DOORS, COMBINATION BANK LOCKS, ...ocks, and all kinds of Fire and Burglar Proof Securities.
... and sole manufacturers of Fire-proof ... Non-Conducting Steel Flange Doors ... demonstrated by actual tests ... existing safes now made. A number ... Fire-proof Safes now in stock ... Five Second-hand, Burglar-proof ... Private Bankers or Jewellers.
...FACTORY AND SALESROOM,
... FRONT STREET EAST TORONTO

...UTION
Each Plug of the
...RTLE NAVY
IS MARKED
... & B
In Bronze Letters.
... OTHER GENUINE

...GOLD BAKING POWDER PURE GOLD MANUFACTURING CO. 18 FRONT ST. EAST

... given. Ladies make good ... every lady will buy after trying ... in five minutes ... Address, FERRIS & CO., ... Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada.

I'll Tell You Your Fortune, Pretty Maid.

"I'll tell you 'your fortune,' pretty maid!"
"You may, if you tell it true."
"Well, I can see that you love right well
A lad in sailor's blue.
A sailor lad with a bright black eye,
And a heart both kind and strong."
"Nay, gossip," she said, with a merry laugh,
"You never were further wrong.

"The lad I love has a bright blue eye;
A better lad never was born.
He isn't to match behind a plough
Nor yet in the hay or corn.
He never was in a tossing ship;
He never was near the sea;
His home, it stands in a field of wheat,
And under an apple tree."

"A farmer boy! And you love him well?
Ah, that is a better fate.
Just cross my hand, and I'll tell you, child,
How long you will have to wait
Ere you shall smile at the wedding ring,
And the bridal morn shall see,
And go to the home in the wheat field
Set under the apple tree.

"It is not long, if the stars speak true—
And when do they speak in vain?—
You will marry the farmer boy you love
When the Summer comes again"
Then merrily rang a mocking laugh—
"Ah, gossip, how little you know!
For my farmer boy and I were wed
A year and a half ago!

"Whatever of good may come to us,
Whatever grief or ill,
Comes not from any planet or star—
It comes from our Father's will.
The joy or sorrow of the future years
No mortal could ever show;
He knoweth the way that we shall take,
And that is enough to know."

STORM AND SUNSHINE.

CHAPTER IV.—(CONTINUED.)

Late on the following afternoon I am racing through the fields as fast as my limbs can carry me, my hat in my hand, the basket I am supposed to be carrying to old Mollie a quarter of a mile behind me, stuck into the hedge near her cottage, a flush of haste and pleasurable excitement burning in my cheeks. I have only two hours to get to the Vicarage and back again, and I have so much to tell Judith! I shall not be able to say half I want to say before I am obliged to run home.

Fortunately I overtake her in the very first field next to the road, on her way from Mollie's cottage.

"My dear child, you have raced yourself into a perfect fever!" she exclaims the moment she looks at me. "Do put on your hat and sit down for a minute or two! You will make yourself ill."

"Oh, Judith, I have had such a delightful time!"

"I am glad to hear it. But do not try to tell me while you are out of breath."

"And I missed you so much. Judith, next time I go to Velfry you are to come too."

"Who said so?" she asks, smiling incredulously.

"Erroll says so, and I say so; and we can make Mrs. Rutherfurd do anything we please."

"Is it 'we' already?" she says, pushing the curls back from my hot forehead.

"Oh, Judith, I like him so much, and he likes me!"

"If the first is true, the last is very fortunate."

"It is quite true. I liked him the very first evening, and now——"

"And now?" Judith finishes, looking at me.

"Now I love him. And, oh, Judith, it has made me so happy! I never knew what it was to be really happy until now!" She turns her head away. I fancy she frowns a little. It is cruel of me to thrust my joy upon her—she whose love has not been so fortunate as mine!

"Judith, I have told you my secret, and I think I can guess yours."

She looks at me swiftly, the blood rushing to her face.

"You care for Ralph, don't you?"

"For Ralph?" she repeats monotonously.

"Erroll told me. He guessed it long ago before he went to China."

"Erroll guessed it?"

"Yes. And he thinks his mother guessed it too—that was why she did not ask you to Velfry any more."

"Erroll told you all this?"

"Yes. You do not mind me, Judith. Erroll would not have said it to any one else."

"I think he might have found something better to say to you!" she exclaims, with a little touch of scorn in look and voice. "To go out of his way to tell you a thing like that!"

"He did not go out of his way. It was only to excuse his mother for not having asked you there, I think."

"Excused her? There was no excuse for it! Why should we not like each other, as—as you and Erroll like each other? Why should I have been turned out of the house any more than you?"

Her scorn frightens me—the flash of anger in her great golden-brown eyes.

"I will tell you why," she goes on, without giving time to answer. "Because you are rich and I am poor; because you have money and dress and jewels, and I have nothing—not even enough to dress myself decently without patching and darning and turning old gowns till there is nothing left of them to turn! If I had been an heiress like you I should not have been put out of Velfry. Oh, no! I should have been petted and made much of, and spoilt; and parties would have been given for me, and expeditions organized, in which I was always put to walk and row and dance, and play tennis with the son of the house. But I am a nobody, and you—you are Miss Warburton, an heiress! Trust a good, pious, high-principled woman like Mrs. Rutherfurd to find out the difference between us."

"But you are not angry with me, Judith?"

"Angry with you, you poor little thing? No. But I am angry with them, and—and with myself."

"You have no reason to be angry with yourself. If they are so blind——"

"They don't know how blind they are!" she laughs quite heartily—Judith's moods are as changeable as the wind. "I will outwit them yet, poor and obscure as I am; I will teach Mrs. Rutherfurd that even a worm will turn when it is trodden upon."

"But, Judith, she never said a word against you. She as much as said, this morning at breakfast when I mentioned your name, that she was sorry any stop had been put to the old intercourse. And she said to me afterwards that the fact was she had always thought you too pretty and attractive to have you much at Velfry, as Erroll had absolutely nothing—at present; and marriage with a girl equally poor would simply have ruined him."

"Must every girl who sees her sons fall in love with them?"

"I suppose she thinks so. But I think she was more afraid of their falling in love with you."

"Ralph has money enough to marry a beggar girl, if he pleased."

"She did not mention Ralph's name. She only seemed to think of the danger to Erroll."

"She only cares for Erroll. But she will give her darling to you! If you were old and ugly, she would give him to you just the same—she would encourage you to run after him; she would force him to make love to you. And all for the sake of a few paltry thousands. Bah!"

"Judith, you frighten me—you make me miserable! Don't let us talk about her any more," I sob, leaning my face down on her shoulder.

"I am sure I do not want to talk about her. Tell me all about your visit, and how much you enjoyed it. And what did she say to your aunts when she brought you back?"

"I don't know what she said," I smile through my tears; "but I think it was something they all liked. They think there is nobody in the world like Mrs. Rutherfurd."

Judith's red lip curls, but she does not indulge in any more invective—she seems anxious to make me forget the burst of passion which had so distressed and frightened me by bestowing upon me an extra amount of petting, and smoothing the tangled curls out of my eyes, kissing my tear-stained cheeks, blaming herself for having given me such a reception—I who had hurried over to see her first of all.

"You poor little thing!" she says, with an odd mixture of tenderness and something like cruelty which makes her so puzzling to people who do not know her as well as I do. "It was a shame not to have listened to your love-story, wasn't it, and to have tried to make you believe that they only wanted your money? But you love Erroll; and, if you think he loves you, what are the odds whether he does or not? Girls like you never know. If a man tells you once he loves you, you go on believing to the end of the chapter—ay, and die happy in the belief! And Heaven knows you are more to be envied than we miserable creatures who want so much more than we are ever likely to get!"

"Erroll loves me," I say simply. "He would never have kissed me as he did last night, if he had not loved me more than any one else in the world."

"Did he kiss you?" she asks, but without looking at me. We are walking back slowly through the fields towards Osierbrook, my arm round Judith's waist, her hand on my shoulder—she is so much taller than I that we generally walk like this.

"Of course he did. Judith, will you tell me one thing? Do you care as much for Mr. Rutherfurd as I care for Erroll? I will never tell any one—not even Erroll—if you will only whisper it to me."

"If I cared for any one else, Lisle, I should care more for them a million times than you could ever care. I am not made of such slight elements as you are child—to love any one with me means to love them with every pulse of my heart, with every breath I draw, so long as my life shall last."

"I love Erroll like that," I say, looking up into her dark flushed face.

"I hope not."

"Why do you hope not?"

"Because it is not a happy thing to love any one like that. Such idolatry brings its just punishment with it always. But I am not unhappy about you, Lisle. You will never love any one more than is good for you."

CHAPTER V.

"Well, Judith, didn't I tell you I would have you here? You can't say Mrs. Rutherfurd isn't good-natured now!"

"She can afford to have me here now that Erroll is out of harm's reach." Judith laughs.

She is standing before the glass in her room—we have both come over "by invitation" to spend a couple of days at Velfry.

It was very kind of Mrs. Rutherfurd to ask Judith just to please me, which I am sure was her reason. She seems to think she can never do enough to make me happy. I know she likes me for my own sake, notwithstanding Judith's hateful insinuations. But I am sure she will be glad if Erroll and I marry each other, as I suppose we shall some day. I know the dearest wish of her heart is to see Erroll settle down into a steady respectable member of society; and she has told me, smiling, that I shall make "a dear little wife."

"You look very well to-night, Judith," I say, watching her as she puts the finishing touch to her dress.

I thought I had looked very well myself when I left my room a few minutes ago; but my faith in my own appearance is just a little shaken as I look at the tall slight figure in the simple black net dress, with the square-cut bodice and knots of gold-coloured ribbon, and the cluster of over-blown faint Gloire de Dijon roses on her shoulder.

Judith dresses in a bold picturesque style which would not suit my little figure and childish face at all. She can wear more effective bouquets, and larger hats, and longer trains, and higher ruffles, and a mingling of colors which my aunts would call "audacious" and yet they always look well upon her, though they would make a perfect fright of me. Her dress to-night is quiet enough, and yet its effect is not quiet as she comes into the drawing-room and is introduced to Erroll by his mother as "your old playmate," though I think they must have met before, for neither gives more than a casual glance towards the other, and, a moment later, Judith is talking to Mr. Rutherfurd, whom she has of course been in the habit of meeting at church on Sundays and occasionally at other houses, since those old days when he was a grown-up young man and she a child who came to play with his little sister, and to tease his younger brother with threats of excluding him from their girlish games.

Erroll of course takes possession of me, and, though I cannot be blind to the fact that Judith is a thousand times more attractive than I am, he at all events does not seem to see it as he leans over the back of my chair whispering tender speeches into my silly delighted ears. He seems so glad to have me back again at Velfry, and I am so glad to be back—the evening seems to fly past as if it had wings.

Mrs. Rutherfurd is fond of music, and Mr. Ralph Rutherfurd also seems to enjoy it, though he generally listens from a chair in some distant corner, and never either thanks the performer or makes any comment on the performance. To night Miss Irvings sings and plays for hours with the most indefatigable good nature, both Mrs. Rutherfurd and Ralph listening with thorough appreciation to classical "arias" and "all gros," which give Erroll an opportunity of whispering a great many sweet speeches to me that the accompanying music only seems to make sweeter, if we heard it at all.

"Perhaps I ought to 'do the pretty' to Miss Irving now for a little while, since Ralph has taken himself off," Erroll says at last. "It won't do to neglect her altogether, will it?"

"Oh, I don't think Judith minds! She is not that kind of girl."

"No; she seems quite willing to cover our 'asides' with any amount of fortissimo chords, and to endure our whispering through her songs with the most philosophic indifference! But I really must go and turn over her music for a little while—noblesse oblige!"

He saunters across the room to the piano, looking very tall and fair and handsome in his simple evening dress, with a moss-rose-bud in his buttonhole, his crisp hair carefully parted, his blond moustache carefully curled. As he bends over Miss Irving I cannot help thinking—"What a handsome pair!"

"I think you must all be tired of my music!" Judith declares, turning round on the piano stool.

Mrs Rutherfurd had left the room with Ralph, and I am constrained to say I am not tired, though I do not care to sit by myself on the sofa while Erroll turns another girl's music, even though that other girl be my own familiar friend.

"Sing something," Erroll suggests, as Judith's hands wander at random over the keys.

"What shall I sing?" she asks, looking up at him absently, while she plays on in a slow, dreamy fashion, as if she were composing.

"Anything you like. I don't know your songs."

She is still looking up as he looks down, with that far-off expression in her great gold-brown eyes. I do not think she knows she is looking at him, she is listening to her own music with an odd half smile on her red curved lips.

As she turns her profile towards me she makes a pretty picture—the close-clinging black gown, the cluster of creamy overblown roses, the odd, fascinating face, the soft cloudy dark hair. I wish I could paint her, but not with Erroll bending over her, though his fair head contrasts so well with her dark one as she looks up and he looks down.

"I will sing you a song which you may perhaps be able to explain, but which has been an enigma to me ever since I got hold of it," she remarks at last, smiling, as she turns over the sheets of music on the floor beside her.

After some searching she finds the song and sets it on the desk; it slips down, and Erroll picks it up and makes it remain up, and then she plays the prelude, and, when the prelude is finished, begins to sing in her full mezzo-soprano voice.

"The heart I ask from thee, love,
A secret gift must be;
The world must never see, love,
The links 'twixt me and thee.

"'Still, when our hearts are aching,
We two our pain must hide;
Nor, when our joys are waking,
Can tell them, side by side.'"

"I do not see anything very difficult to understand in that," Erroll declares, as she runs through the interlude in her clear, crisp way.

"Do you not?" she smiles.

"'The thought thy heart holds nearest,
Keep it from others' view;
Enough for thee, my dearest,
To know that I am true.'

That is simple enough," she laughs, as he turns the page.

"'We may not watch like lovers
For stolen glances sweet;
Envy around us hovers,
We dare not smile and greet.

"'Go, hush with stern reproving
Thy heart, whose throbs I see,
And tell it that our loving Must still a secret be.'"

"Is that all?" Erroll asks in a low tone.

"Not quite all. Do you like it?"

"I cannot say I like it; but——"—"But what?"

"I will tell you some other time. Go on with the song."

"'A word, a look unguarded
Has oft brought danger nigh;
Scarce is our secret warded
From search of jealous eye.

"'Still must the warning be, love,
That erst I gave to thee;
The heart I ask from thee, love,
A secret gift must be.

"Thank you," Erroll says, as she rises from the piano. She crosses the room towards me, and he follows her; and, for a moment, I fancy he looks paler than usual; but Judith is laughing.

"My poor little child, who has banished you to this distant corner?"

"I have been here all the time."

"And how did you like my song?" she asks, sitting down beside me on the sofa.

"It is an odd song; I did not like it much."

"I do not care about it myself. Is it really eleven?"—as the little time-piece rings out the hour in its musical chime. "How quickly the time has passed!"

"Thanks to you," Erroll says, looking at her as he stands before us.

"To my music, you mean. It is a pleasure to me to play upon such an instrument; my own piano saw its best days more than twenty years ago."

"How shall we amuse ourselves to-morrow?" Erroll asks. "Do you play tennis?"

"Not well; I have had no opportunity for practice."

"I will give you any odds you like."

"Thanks; I like a fair field and no favour in the games I play," Judith laughs, looking at him. I cannot see her eyes, but his look handsomer than ever, I fancy, as they meet that laughing glance.

"Then shall we pull down the river—or rather float down, and pull ourselves back again? It is a long time since we explored the abbey ruins together, is it not?"

"A long time. What fun we used to have on that island when we were children!"

"Yes—when I was Robinson Crusoe, and you were Friday, and we made May be the savages!" Erroll laughs. "Then let us arrange to go to the island; we can easily be back by luncheon-time, if we start directly after breakfast."

"What does Lisle say?" Judith asks, looking at me.

"I like whatever you like," I answer at once. "I only want you to have a pleasant time."

"Oh, I am sure to have a pleasant time at Velfry! It is enough for me to revisit the places where I was happy as a child."

"Have you never been happy at Velfry since you were a child?" Erroll asks, smiling.

"None but children are ever really happy," Miss Irving answers carelessly.

"I do not agree with you there. I am happier now than I ever was as a child."

I do not know why Judith should change colour at this speech, but change colour she certainly does.

"I suppose you have a good reason to be happy," she says, looking not at him but at me.

"I have a very good reason."

"There is only one thing that can make a man or woman really happy in this world."

"And what is that?"

"To know that the person one loves returns that love in kind."

"But if I happen to have that knowledge?"

"Then doubtless you are very happy for the time being?"

"I am intolerably happy."

She does not flinch from his steadfast look. There is passion as well as pleasure in my lover's handsome eyes as he looks down—what there is in hers I cannot say.

"You are very fortunate," she laughs in her cool, negligent way. "It is not every lover who is happy, except by fits and starts."

"You seem to know all about it—this 'rose of love, the wasp inside, and all.'"

"I know so much that I do not want to know any more! Doesn't somebody say—

"For love is a thorny flower; it breaks, and we bleed and smart.
The blossom falls at the fairest, and the thorn runs into the heart?"

I am not surprised that Erroll should be fascinated by the cleverness, the fearless expression of opinion, the strong individuality, which had fascinated me in this girl from the very first hour in which I made her acquaintance. But at the same time I am rather glad when Mrs. Rutherfurd comes back and Judith goes away to talk to her; I had said once that I had never been jealous, but I am childish enough to be jealous now of every word and look Erroll gives to anyone else.

"You do not hate her now, Erroll, do you?" I ask a little wistfully.

"I do not like her"—sinking into the chair beside me.

"You do not! I thought you looked as if you liked her very much, just now."

"You little jealous thing!"

"Oh, I don't mean as if you love her, of course!"

"Love her!" he echoes, shrugging his broad shoulders. "I love no one but you, Lisle, and you ought to know that very well."

The assurance comforts me. I admire Judith so much myself that I can scarcely believe any one could see her without falling in love with her. But, after all, if Erroll really cares for me, however he may be interested or amused, he can never love any one else.

I would not be interested or amused by any other man, let him be ever so attractive, if Erroll were in the room; but men are not like women—love with them is only part of their life, while with us it is the whole of existence. If Erroll loves me better than any other girl in the world, surely I may be very well content!

. . . .

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Why Indians Love the Warpath.

Colonel Royall of the army is one of the best known Indian fighters in the service. He is now on leave, his health being much impaired by many years' life on the frontier. Speaking of the present disturbances and the love for murder which every Indian seems to possess in a greater or less degree, he said: I once asked a remarkably intelligent Indian who was known to have killed a white man some years ago, why it was that his race enjoyed so much going on the war-path and killing people. The conversation which ensued ran something like this, the Indian beginning: 'Did you ever shoot a rabbit?'

"'Yes.'

"'Did you ever shoot a deer?'

"'Yes.'

"'Didn't you get more fun out of killing the deer than the rabbit?'

"'Yes, I guess so.'

"'Well, there's a heap more fun for an Indian to kill a man than a deer.'

"That was Indian logic, and pretty good logic, too, I should say," Colonel Royall remarked, and added: "My experience has been that the minute an Indian sheds human blood, it seems to affect the whole tribe in the same way that the smell of blood would a pack of wild beasts. It intoxicates them. They become devils. They are bereft of all reason. They must satisfy their lust for murder, and the settlers on the trail they take become their victims."

Wire Siege Guns.

Siege guns built of wire are the newest description of ordnance for the national service. A very tough steel wire is used, having a breaking strength of 100 tons to the square inch, which is wound over a steel tube as tape may be bound on a reel, being frequently fastened off to secure its cohesion, and so neatly put together as to look precisely like solid metal. An experimental howitzer has been made upon this principle, and passed a satisfactory proof at the Royal Arsenal. It has a calibre of 10 ins., but weighs only about 70 cwt. In its trial this howitzer threw a shell of 360 lbs with a charge of 28 lbs, and attained a velocity of 1000 ft per second—a result may be compared with two guns of a similar weight which are at present in the service. One of these is the 8 in. howitzer, which fires a shell of just half the weight—viz., 180 lbs—with a velocity of 950 ft; and the other is the 100-pounder gun of 6.6 calibre, which, with its light shot of 100 lbs, manage to reach a velocity of 1390 ft per second. The trial weapon seems in no way impaired by the strain to which it has been subjected.

In all things throughout the world the men who look for the crooked will see the crooked, and the men who look for the straight will see the straight.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued every Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column.....	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column.....	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space.....	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequents insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the option of the publisher.

JOB PRINTING.

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Creasor & Morrison,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS. CONVEYANCES, &c. &c.

OFFICES in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolf's Store and in

MARKDALE;

Over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday and Friday of each week.

☞ Funds to lend on reasonable terms.

JOHN CREASOR, Q. C., DUNCAN MORISON
Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-ly

Alexander Brown,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Sept. 17. 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
MARKDALE, - - ONT.
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

SAMUEL WARDELL,
WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.

THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

Store to Rent in Markdale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or
JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Ont.

Medical.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel. Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.
122-47.

W. C. RICHARDS,
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.
124ly

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.

Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.
126-ly.

ISAAC STINSON,
Builder and Contractor
In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.
—THIS NEW—
Patent Process Flouring Mill
Is now completed at great expense, on the
Most APPROVED
plans, and with the best machinery manufactured, making it, in every sense of the term, "A Model Mill."

I am therefore in a position to give the public a Superior Article of Flour.

A fair trial respectfully solicited and I have no fear but the result will be eminently satisfactory.

Cash paid for good hard Wheat.

☞ Flour, Bran, Shorts, etc, etc, for sale wholesale & retail.

ANGUS PLEWES.
219

For Sale by Walker Bros.

FARMERS,
Reapers & Mowers.
USE
McCOLL BROS.
Lardine Machine Oil.
MARKDALE.

YOU CAN SUBSCRIBE
For any of the
FOLLOWING PAPERS
AT THIS OFFICE:

Daily or Weekly Mail,	Toronto.
Daily os Weekly Globe,	Toronto.
Daily or Weekly News,	Toronto.
Daily World	Toronto.
Family Herald and Weekly Star,	Montreal.
American Agriculturist,	Monthly.
Farmers' Advocate,	Monthly.

☞ Subscription can commence at any time.

STANDARD OFFICE,
MARKDALE.

M. W. DUNHAM
Wayne, Du Page Co., Illinois,
HAS IMPORTED FROM FRANCE
Percheron Horses valued at $3,000,000, which includes
75 PER CENT OF ALL HORSES
Whose purity of blood is established by their pedigrees recorded in the STUD BOOKS OF FRANCE.
EVER IMPORTED TO AMERICA.

STOCK ON HAND:
150 Imported Brood Mares,
250 Imported Stallions, Old enough for service,
100 COLTS, Two years old and younger.

Recognising the principle accepted by all intelligent breeders that, however well-bred animals may be said to be, if their pedigrees are not recorded, and cannot be authentically given, they should be valued only as grades, I will sell all Imported Stock at Grade Prices when I cannot furnish with the animal sold pedigree verified by the original French certificate of its number and record in the Stud Book in France. 140 Page Catalogue sent free. It is illustrated with Six Prize Horses of the Exhibition of the Societe Hippique Percheronne of France, 1884; purchased by M. W. Dunham, and drawn from life by Rosa Bonheur, the most famous of all animal painters.

NEW GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.

Having just received a
Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF
Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c,
Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.

I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.

193 J. PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mills.

The subscriber begs leave to announce to the farmers of the surrounding country that he is turning out flour equal to any other roller mill.

No more waiting while the grist is being ground.

The following is the scale of exchange:—

Wheat Weighing	62 lbs,	40 lbs. Flour.
" "	61 "	39 " "
" "	60 "	38 " "
" "	59 "	37 " "
" "	58 "	36 " "
" "	57 "	35 " "

with offal in proportion to amount of flour.

I find the average weight of new wheat to be 60 lbs. to the bushel, and the most of it, if properly cleaned, would weigh 61 or 62 to the bushel.

John W. Ford.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
=PUMPS,=
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied

Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.

☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

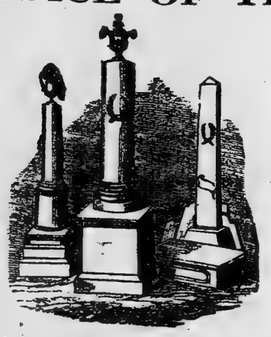
OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.

JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.



Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS,	DIZZINESS,
DYSPEPSIA,	DROPSY,
INDIGESTION,	FLUTTERING
JAUNDICE.	OF THE HEART,
ERYSIPELAS,	ACIDITY OF
SALT RHEUM,	THE STOMACH,
HEARTBURN,	DRYNESS
HEADACHE,	OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

OFFICE OF THE
Flesherton Marble Works.

And Granite

E. VANZANT,
All kinds of Marble and Monumental Works, such as Monuments, Tomb Tables, Headstones, Counter and Table Tops,—in American and Italian Marble, and made on short notice. Also Mantles in Marble and Marbeleized Slate, &c., &c.

Satistaction Guaranteed in Every Respect

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS
Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R
OWEN SOUND BRANCH
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect Monday, July 27th,

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 40pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 27 "
Charleston.....	9 25 "	6 45 "
Orangeville..Arrive..	9 50 "	7 03 "
Orangeville..Leave...	10 05 "	7 22 "
Orangeville Jun..	10 17 "	7 34 "
Shelburne.....	10 45 "	8 04 "
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 30 "
Flesherton.....	11 36 "	8 55 "
Markdale.....	11 51 "	9 10 "
Williamsford	12 03pm	9 22 "
Chatsworth	12 28 "	9 49 "
Owen Sound.....	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound.....	5 20am	2 45pm
Chatsworth.....	5 50 "	3 15 "
Williamsford.....	6 05 "	3 30 "
Markdale.....	6 27 "	3 52 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 06 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 31 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 57 "
Orangeville Jun...	8 00 "	5 23 "
Orangeville..Arrive...	8 12 "	5 35 "
Orangeville..Leave...	8 35 "	5 55 "
Charleston.....	8 55 "	6 13 "
Cardwell Junction.	9 07 "	6 27 "
Toronto.....Arrive	10 45 "	8 35 "

ROBT. ASKIN
MARKDALE,
Has opened out a First-Class
UNDERTKING ESTABLISHME
And therefore has supplied a want long COFFINS, CASKETS, SHROUDS
and all
FUNERAL FURNISHING supplied on the shortest notice.

A Splendid Hears
for hire at moderate rates.

—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMI
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN

ROBERT S. RA
TAILOR
Sydenham Street
MARKDALE

TO SCHOOL TRUSTE
The undersigned is manufacturing a cellent assortment of
School Furniture
Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DE TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the design and most approved pattern. recommended by School Trustees and ers, for cheapness, comfort and compa wherever tried. An assortment of Fan School Bells kept always on hand. catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW M

FARM FOR SALE
LOT 19, Con. 12, Glenelg, containi acres, 30 cleared, fenced and cul tivation, balance chiefly hardwood 4½ miles from Markdale; saw-mill ex also school. The farm is well water suitable for either a dairy or grain farm be sold cheap and on easy terms. For particulars apply on the premises to
JOHN GALLAGHER,
247 60

Local and Other Item

Cases in these columns intended to l Individual or Society will be charg line for the first insertion an line each subsequent insertion.

Smallpox is raging in Montrea

TODAY, 20th, is Durham's day.

BARGAINS cheaper than ever at J ple's.

CIVIL war has broken ou Soudan.

NEVER trouble trouble until tro comes you.

LORD LANSDOWNE is making a through Ontario.

The Chatsworth News shows st stations of decline.

ARTHUR WELLINGTON returned Milford last Saturday.

DOMINION PILLS will not gripe or si are a thorough cathartic.

Crops in England are suffe largely from want of rain.

PROSPERITY'S right hand is indu Her left hand is frugality.

MR. RUTLEDGE, Sr., returned after a few months absence.

MEETING of Glenelg Agricult Society will be held to-day (Thursd

Low prices tell the tale. Cash s Raising every day at J. R. Trumb

MASTER Eddie Reynolds is ho Mr. Norwood spending his holid

The secret of success is to k to deny yourself and other peo

MISS JESSIE BURNS, of Toronto, spending a few days in Ma

Dr. SUMPHUR SOAP should be fo every toilet. It is cleansing strengthening.

PEOPLE should inform themse on the tariff. It is every ma

Office stools, Whatnots, Hat Shells stands go to Grant & Sale.

The Government estimates the to of the North-west rebellion 5,000,000.

WILL You SUFFER with Dyspep Liver Complaint? Shilo cure is guaranteed to cure y by A. Turner & Co.

ADIAN PACIFIC
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.

TIME TABLE

ing effect Monday, July

GOING NORTH.

ATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.	Mixed
o....Leave	7 20am	4 40pm	.....
ell Junction	9 07 "	6 27 "	.....
ston.....	9 25 "	6 45 "	11 45am
e- Arrive..	9 50 "	7 05 "	12 10pm
Leave...	10 05 "	7 22 "	12 55 "
ville Jun..	10 17 "	7 34 "	1 14 "
rne.....	10 45 "	8 04 "	2 10 "
lk	11 10 "	8 30 "	3 05 "
rton.....	11 36 "	8 55 "	4 06 "
ale.....	11 51 "	9 10 "	4 33 "
nsford	12 03pm	9 22 "	4 45 "
forth.....	12 28 "	9 49 "	6 37 "
Sound.....	1 00 "	10 20 "	6 30pm

GOING SOUTH.

ATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.	Mixed.
Sound.....	5 20am	2 45pm	6 30am
orth.....	5 50 "	3 15 "	7 25 "
nsford.....	6 05 "	3 30 "	7 54 "
le.....	6 27 "	3 52 "	8 35 "
ton	6 42 "	4 06 "	9 00 "
k	7 06 "	4 31 "	9 46 "
ne	7 31 "	4 57 "	10 45 "
ville Jun..	8 00 "	5 23 "	11 50 "
) Arrive...	8 12 "	5 35 "	12 15pm
Leave...	8 35 "	5 55 "	12 40 "
ston.....	8 55 "	6 15 "	1 26 "
ll Junction.	9 07 "	6 27 "	2 08 "
.....Arrive	10 45 "	8 35 "	.....

OBT. ASKIN

MARKDALE,

Has opened out a First-Class

ERTKING ESTABLISHMENT

erefore has supplied a want long

NS,

CASKETS,

SHROUDS,

and all

NERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

—All kinds of—

TURE FRAMING

Done on short notice.

ROBT. ASKIN.

OBERT S. RAE,

AILOR

ydenham Street

ARKDALE

SCHOOL TRUSTEES

dersigned is manufacturing a cellent assortment of hool Furniture.
ng of SCHOOL SEATS and DES ERS' DESKS, etc., of the la nd most approved pattern. Ha ended by School Trustees and heapness, comfort and compac r tried. An assortment of Farm Bells kept always on hand. Sa e to Chatsworth P. O.
ANDREW McGIL

RM FOR SALE

19, Con. 12, Glenelg, containing res, 30 cleared, fenced and under balance chiefly hardwood tim from Markdale; saw-mill conv ool. The farm is well watered for either a dairy or grain farm.
heap and on easy terms. For rs apply on the premises to
JOHN GALLAGHER,
Markdale, P.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 258. MARKDALE, ONT., AUGUST 20, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH. }

THIS SPACE BELONGS TO

W. A. BROWN,

The People's Reliable Jeweller

MARKDALE.

Local and Other Items.

Notices in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

Smallpox is raging in Montreal.

To-day, 20th, is Durham's civic holiday.

Organs cheaper than ever at J. R. Trimble's.

The civil war has broken out at Carlsruhe.

Never trouble trouble until trouble troubles you.

Lord Lansdowne is making a tour through Ontario.

The Chatsworth News shows strong indications of decline.

Arthur Wellington returned from Hanford last Saturday.

Dr. Pills will not gripe or sicken, are a thorough cathartic.

Crops in England are suffering seriously from want of rain.

Prosperity's right hand is industry, her left hand is frugality.

Mrs. Rutledge, Sr., returned last week after a few months absence.

A meeting of Glenelg Agricultural Society will be held to-day (Thursday).

Low prices tell the tale. Cash sales increasing every day at J. R. Trimble's.

Master Eddie Reynolds is home from Norwood spending his holidays.

The secret of success is to know how to deny yourself and other people.

Miss Jessie Burns, of Toronto, has been spending a few days in Markdale.

Low's Sulphur Soap should be found on every toilet. It is cleansing and healing.

People should inform themselves about the tariff. It is every man's duty.

For office stools, Whatnots, Hat & Umbrella stands go to Grant & Co., Markdale.

The Government estimates the total cost of the North-west rebellion at $5,000,000.

Will You Suffer with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

Always Required—A good cathartic medicine. National Pills will not disappoint you.

Mr. W. A. Luke, of Brampton, is spending his holidays with friends in this district.

No extra duty charged on Teas, Sugars and Tobaccos, at J. R. Trimble's for spot cash.

Mr. R. H. Byers and family, of Rochester, N. Y., are visiting friends in this place.

Freeman's Worm Powders are safe, sure and speedy to remove worms from children or adults.

Poundmaker has been sentenced to three years in jail. He wishes to be hanged instead.

For Newel Posts. Stair Balusters, Hand Railing, and Table Legs go to Grant & Co., Markdale.

E. E. Knott of Toronto, formerly of Euphrasia has got into difficulty and left for the States.

Another case of large clear Bacon just opened at F. Sargeant's butcher shop. Sold cheap for cash.

The editor of the Advance has discovered a slight difference between a pine tree and a potato stock.

All kinds of lumber for sale or sawed to order at Berkeley Steam Mill.—James Lackey, Prop.

Mr. Thos. McNea returned from Fort William Wednesday, accompanied by Mr. Jas. McDougall.

For Bed Suits, Side Boards, Bureaus, Tables, Lounges, and Camp Stools, go to Grant and Co., Markdale.

Dr. Metcalfe, of Kingston, was stabbed by a lunatic last Thursday and died from the effects on Sunday.

S. Damude, Sec.-Treas. East Grey Agricultural Society, will accept thanks for a copy of prize list for 1885.

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

A giant Chinaman is now in Toronto. He measures eight feet two inches tall, weighs 420 lbs., and speaks ten languages fluently.

W. McLeod has, without doubt, the largest stock of No. 1 Roxton Falls Sole Leather ever before brought to Markdale.

Sir Francis Hincks is seriously ill with small-pox, and is not expected to recover. Later—Sir Francis died at 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

J. R. Trimble has just received and opened up two cases very fine tweeds for Fall and Winter Suitings: don't fail to see them.

The Financial District Meeting of the Methodist Church of Owen Sound District will be held in Flesherton on Wednesday, Sept. the 2nd.

J. R. Trimble, of the Mammoth House, Markdale, will sell you goods for cash cheaper than any merchant doing business in the County.

Dufferin Post made the startling announcement last week, that Riel was found guilty and sentenced to be hung. Nothing like enterprise.

School Books.—A complete assortment of new Readers and other School Books just received at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

Spring wheat appears to be generally struck with rust. We hope it will not prove as bad as it is reported, it is doubtless, however, very serious.

Sleepless Nights, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

The Hectic Flush, pale hollow cheeks and precarious appetite, indicate worms. Freeman's Worm Powders will quickly and effectually remove them.

Remember the lawn party in the agricultural grounds on 21st inst., by the Ladies Aid of Presbyterian church. The Band will be in attendance. No pains have been spared to make it a success.

Park lot in Markdale for sale Beautiful location, will be sold on reasonable terms. Apply to R. Freeborn, Williamsford, or enquire at this office. 125-tf

A number of Markdaleites are this week camped out near Bell's lake fishing hunting and fowling, Andrew McFarland has been fortunate in capturing an eight pound one.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

Eleven of the rebel prisoners at Regina have been sentenced to seven years' imprisonment, three have been sentenced for three years, four for one year, and six have been discharged, to appear for sentence when called.

Croup, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

Rib Broken.—We were sorry to state that Mrs. W. H. Wilcoxson, Glenelg, had the misfortune to fall down cellar and break one of her ribs last week. Mrs. W. is also suffering from nervous prostration caused by the shock of the fall.—Grey Review.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is Sold by A. Turner & Co. on a guarantee. It cures consumption. z

Four men came to an untimely end in Toronto Sunday last. H. P. Gisborne was drowned in the bay; Richard Walker was fatally injured at York station; Wm. Horwood found a watery grave in the Humber river; J. G. Parker was suffocated by gas at Parkdale.

That Hacking Cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

Mr. J. T. Quinn, pump manufacturer of this village, has introduced steam power to run his factory, and is manufacturing a large stock of all kinds of well and cistern pumps. Parties in need of such should give Mr. Quinn a call. By good workmanship and close application, his business is greatly increasing.

Catarrh Cured, health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

The list of lands liable to be sold for taxes should be published in each local paper, at least so much of it as relates to the district where each paper circulates. As it is, the papers published in the county town have a monopoly of the advertisement and very many interested never see the list.—Dundalk Herald.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Consumption, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

Some of the ladies of Markdale have kindly consented to give a social in aid of the Bible Army at their barracks on Thursday, 27th inst., when the General and other officers are expected to attend. Refreshments from 7 to 8 o'clock. Admission, adults 10 cents; children 5 cents. Come one, come all and have a good time.

Up till Sunday evening last, 95 of those persons who were "brought in" during the recent revival, had publicly enrolled themselves as members of the Methodist church here. We understand a number more, who were not present at the quarterly meeting services, have signified their intention of joining the same church.—Flesherton Advance.

The first three months experience of the moderate High License Law passed by the Wisconsin Legislature shows excellent results. In 100 towns there has been a decrease of 267 in the number of liquor shops and an increase of $224,000 in the public revenue. Crime has also diminished. The effect of a similar law in other States has been even more encouraging. It seems to be the most practical temperance measure yet enforced in the West.

Good Luck.—The Rev. M. Shirran, M. A., of Dundalk, has struck luck. He came out from Scotland about two years ago and settled at Shrigley. Last January he commenced teaching a Public School in Proton, but resigned a few days ago, on receiving word from Scotland that a fortune of ten thousand dollars had been left him. Mr. Shirran will leave for the old country next month.—Shelburne Free Press.

Fluid Lightning does not take a day or an hour to remove Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, Lumbago or Rheumatism, but will do it instantly, and without carrying your head in a poultice for a day or using greasy liniment. Try a 25c. bottle from Hill Bro's. 4

Fire.—Mr. Geo. Firth, of Glenelg, had the misfortune to have a threshing machine separator and the building in which he kept it burned last night. Incendiary is strongly suspected as the first intimation of the fire was a loud explosion which awakened Mrs. Firth, and a wooden bar used for fastening the door was found away from the building. The house had a narrow escape. Loss about $800. Insured for $150.—Review.

The virtue of Carbolic Asid for healing, cleansing and purifying is well known; but from the many modes of applying it, the public is uncertain how best to use it. To meet that want, McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate is prepared, and may be used with confidence. Do not be misled. Take only McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Sold at Hill Bro's. 4

Shoddy Outwitted.—The other day a Proton farmer, who had purchased some cloth from Mr. Shoddy, waited on that gentleman (?) and informing him that some persons had been taken in by a hay fork man, requested to be allowed to see his note, so that he might satisfy himself there was nothing crooked about the transaction. Mr. Shoddy of course complied, when the wily farmer managed to get hold of the note, and quickly securing it, pitched the cloth to Mr. Shoddy, telling him to take the blamed stuff, and go to (guess it was Halifax.) That farmer deserves a medal.—Dundalk Herald.

John McNassar, Bondhead, writes: "Whenever I feel out of sorts, bilious, or my liver not working wright, or racked with a headache, I take Chase's Mandrake Dandelion Liver Cure. There is more real benefit from one dose of your Liver Cure than in many bottles of some medicines." Sept.

A Hitch at the Altar.—Says the Hanover Post: "A wedding was announced for Thursday evening last, the contracting parties being Mr. Russell, who lives on the South Line, a youth of 72 years, and Miss Barbara Litt, a maiden of 25 summers. As an inducement to enter the mystic circle, Barbara was offered fifty acres of land, which offer caught her to a nicety. She thought before taking the final step, however, that the lawyer should be visited, to learn how the farm had been deeded, and when she found that in the event of her marrying or dying after Mr. Russelle's death the farm would revert to his heirs, she declared all negotiations off. Good head, Barbara.

One every week.—The brass band serenaded W. J. McFarland, Esq., one evening last week and were treated to a complimentary address, together with a sumptuous luncheon and a V. On Tuesday evening last they drove to the residence of Mr. Walter Tailor, two miles out, and treated him and his neighbors with another serenade, when Mr. Tailor and his lady served up a rich and toothsome repast and also handed the treasurer $5. Mr. T. has an excellent farm and in the best condition, first-class buildings, and fences, and has every necessary comfort. He is one of the most prosperous farmers in the district, and we only wish him continued success and happiness, the merited reward of industry and economy.

A RADICAL CHANGE.

The best eradicator of foul humors of the Blood is Burdock Blood Bitters. A few bottles produces a radical change for the better in health and beauty. It removes the blood taint of Scrofula, that terrible disease so common in this country.

Newspaper readers can often and easily do a friendly and encouraging act to publishers, such as many would cheerfully do when it is suggested. Simply in this way: When a business advertisement attracts attention and leads to business correspondence or personal intercourse with the advertiser, kindly mention the name of the paper in which you saw it. Such references are often alike encouraging to the advertiser and publisher.

Mrs. Robert Hooper, of Kinloss, county of Bruce, in a letter, says: "I have been troubled with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaints for a number of years, and am glad to say to the public as well as friends that McGregor's Speedy Cure brought me around, and I am now all right, thanks to McGregor's Speedy Cure. Hundreds of like testimonials are frequently received, and are daily proving that this is truly a wonderful remedy, curing Sluggish Liver, Bilious Headache and Costiveness, where all else fails. Sold at Hill Bro's. Trial bottles given free. 4

Bureau of Industries.

Toronto, August 15th, 1885.

The reports of the fall wheat crop just harvested indicate that generally within the principal fall wheat area of the Province—which comprises the whole of the central and southern lake district—the return has been a good one, both in the yield per acre and in quality of grain. The average will be almost as high as that of the fine crop of last year. On wet and poorly cultivated soil the early summer growth was generally retarded by late spring frosts and cold weather; and this, with other influences of a more local character, such as storms, excess of rain or the want of it, and in some places the prevalence of hot blighting winds, was of sufficient extent to affect the general result. With these exceptions, fall wheat all through western Ontario came to the harvest a full and well ripened crop, in good condition. The prospect was poorest in the north-western part of the Province, particularly in the counties of Grey and Bruce, where the injury from winter killing and rust was considerable. The yield in this district will not probably reach an average, and the sample is generally shrunken and discoloured. There was an occasional appearance of rust all through western Ontario, wherever it had a chance to work in late and thin fields; but outside of the two counties mentioned it was not so general as to do any serious injury. In the eastern part of the Province the area of fall wheat grown is comparatively small, and there was considerable loss from winter killing. Wherever the crop survived the effects of the winter, however, it grew and ripened well. In this portion of the Province there was an almost total immunity from rust, so that even the thinnest fields came to full perfection in point of plumpness and colour of grain. Attacks of insect pests were confined to a few localities where midge, weevil or wire worm appeared to some extent, but not so as to do any serious damage. Harvesting was several days later than usual, and at the time of reporting, the bulk of the crop, excepting in some of the earlier counties in south-western Ontario, was still in the shock. Pretty general mention is made of the heavy storm of wind and rain which set in on the 3rd instant, which retarded operations considerably, though as it was followed by cool, dry, breezy weather there is not much fear of any appreciable damage from sprouting.

The following table gives the statistics of those crops for the years 1885 and 1884, according to the returns made to the Bureau:

		Acres.	Bushels.	Bush. per acre
Fall Wheat	1885	877,745	20,433,758	23.3
	1884	864,740	20,717,631	24.0
Spr Wheat	1885	799,299	14,372,719	18.0
	1884	721,647	14,609,661	20.2
Barley	1885	598,318	17,047,530	28 5
	1884	700,472	19,119,041	27.3
Oats	1885	1,517,779	59,285,340	38.3
	1884	1,481,828	57,696,304	38.9

It should be borne in mind that the figures of the yield of crops for 1884 are the final results, while those for 1885 are estimates based on the present promise.

HUNG FROM THE YARD-ARM.

The Execution of Three Alleged Mutineers on Shipboard.

"I was a boy in the United States Navy, on the brig 'Somers,' in 1842, when those three men where hung that were referred to some time ago," said John W. Davis. "The sight of those three young men hanging at the yard-arm, and their burial at sea at night, has haunted me all my life. It often comes up before me when I m walking along the street. I can never forget it. I knew Spencer, the midshipman, well. He was a wild, dare-devil sort of a fellow, about 19 years of age, but good natured and not maliciously inclined. I think the execution of all the men was a grave mistake, and in looking back at it now believe that it was foul murder.

"We sailed from New York on the 13th of September, 1842, for the coast of Africa, but first began cruising in the West Indies. In the latter part of November, before we reached St. Thomas, Midshipman Spencer, who was the son of the Secretary of War, was suddenly seized one day, put in double irons and kept a prisoner in close confinement. Two other men, the boatswain's mate, who was acting as boatswain, and whose name was Cromwell, and a seaman, who was captain of the maintop, named Small were arrested a day or two atterward, followed by the arrest of four others. All were put in double irons. we had no marine guard on board. The officers appeared to be frightened to death about something, and the men of the ship's compan were afraid to be seen talking to each other. After Spencer's arrest it was noised about decks that he had formed a plot to seize the ship, along with a few of the ship's crew, nd he communicated his plan to the purser's steward, who got a list of the conspirators and told the whole story to Lieut. McIntosh, the executive officer.

"Two or three days after the arrests a number of the officers met in the ward-room and called in a number of the ship's crew and examined them. The statement and even the opinions of each were taken down but the accused men were not allowed to face their accusers; were not told what the charges were in detail, and were not granted any opportunity for explanation or denfense. On the 1st of December, four days after Spencer's arrest, he along with Cromwell and Small, were told to get ready to die; that they were going to swing at the yard-arm at once. Spencer and the captain of the top acknowledged their guilt, and were willing to die; but the acting boatswain protested his innocence to the last, and Spencer declared, also, that he, Cromwell, had nothing to do with the plot. 'Call all hands to witness execution,' said the first lieutenant The ship's company sullenly ranged themselves on the quarter deck and at other points, while the officers of the ship stood around with drawn and sharpened swords to cut down any one who faltered in inflicting the awful penalty. When everything was ready Spencer and his two companions were allowed to bid their friends good-bye, then Capt. Mackenzie gave the signal, a gun was fired, the colors were hoisted, and at the same time three men, with caps over their faces, were swung out on the main yard-arm. It was a horrible sight to look at. All of the men died game. Capt. Mackenzie then made a speech to us about the necessity of discipline and the awful crime of mutiny. At night funeral services were read, by the aid of the battle lanterns, and the bodies were put on the 'tilting board' and dropped into the sea. It was a solemn scene, I assure you, and it made an impression on my youthful mind that can never be eradicated. In a day or two we ran into St. Thomas, and then set sail for New York, arriving there on the 14th of December.

"There was a deal of excitement when the news of the mutiny and hanging got noised around and hundreds of people came down to the ship to see us. All of the others arrested were dismissed from custody. Capt. Mackenzie was court-martialed about a month afterward, and the court sat for forty days, but acquitted him. It was composed of his brother officers. Mackenzie was not liked by the men. He was a brutal martinet, anyhow. Flogging was allowed in the navy in those days, and he was very fond of administering the 'cat' for trivial offenses. The friends of the executed men tried to have Mackenzie indicted in New York for murder, but the judge decided that the civil law was not applicable to his case."

"Now," said a college professor, "before I begin I want some one to give me his idea of an angel." The young men looked at each other and snickered, but no one said anything. "Dear me," said the good man, "has no one even heard of Lucifer?" "Oh, yes," said the book worm of the class, "Lucifer was the man that started the German reformation."

While Edward T. Taylor, the seaman's friend, was delivering one of his temperance lectures recently, a well-known drunkard present, disliking some of his remarks commenced hissing. Father Taylor turned the attention of the audience to him, and then said in his own peculiar way, as he pointed to him: "There is a red nose got into cold water; don't you hear it hiss?"

CANADA ABROAD.

The Prince of Wales Visits the C. P. R. exhibit.

The Royal Agricultural Show of England, held at Preston, Lancashire, in the middle of July, passed off with more than usual eclat this year, owing to the visit on two of the principal days of the Prince of Wales, and other noble and distinguished visitors. His Royal Highness, on entering the grounds, first visited the handsome stand of the Canadian Pacific Railway, organized by Mr. Alevander Begg, one of the Company's chief representatives in Europe, the exhibit being specially railed off on the occasion for the convenience of the Royal party. First to attract the Prince's attention were the grains from the Canadian Pacific railway experimental farms west of Moose Jaw, which he examined minutely, the exact locality of growth being indicated on the map. The mineral specimens and the varied and numerous samples of prairie grasses from the Northwest next claimed attention, and this led the Earl of Lathom, who formed one of the party, to direct his Royal Highness' attention to the nutritious qualities of these for stock raising—a subject on which he speaks with authority, being associated with Mr. Stavely Hill. Q. C., M. P., in some of the finest of the Alberta ranches. Not less surprising to the Royal party was the series of views giving an excellent idea of the wealth of scenery along the line of the Canadian Pacific railway throughout the Northwest and Rocky Mountains, in examination of which his Royal Highness spent some time. Expressing his gratification at the comprehensiveness of the exhibit, the Prince then proceeded to inspect the other sights of the show which has altogether proved one of the most successful on record.

A fond mother had been exhibiting the cleverness of her pretty little daughter of 4 years, who had learned a variety of historical facts. Many questions had been promptly and correctly answered, and the happy mother asked: "Who were Noah's sons?" Immediately the wee child answered "Shem" —and there was a pause. After some seconds the mother suggested "Ham," and the little one said, "Oh, yes; Shem, Ham, and Corned Beef."

$500 Not Called For.

It seems strange that it is necessary to persuade men that you can cure their diseases by offering a premium to the man who fails to receive benefit. And yet Dr. Sage undoubtedly cured thousands of cases of obstinate catarrh with his "Catarrh Remedy," who would never have applied to him, if it had not been for his offer of the above sum for an incurable case. Who is the next bidder for cure or cash?

The bashful man always holds a "flush."

A Wonderful Freak of Nature is sometimes exhibited in our public exhibitions. When we gaze upon some of the peculiar freaks dame nature occasionally indulges in, our minds revert back to the creation of man, "who is so fearfully and wonderfully made." The mysteries of his nature have been unraveled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, and through his knowledge of those mysteries he has been able to prepare his "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a specific for all blood taints, poisons and humors, such as scrofula, pimples, blotches, eruptions, swelling, tumors, ulcers and kindred affections. By druggists.

Some admirable brass fire-gilt mantles, broad and lofty, and constituting imposing mineral decorations, are finding their place in modern mansions.

* * * * Rupture, pile tumors, fistulas, and all diseases (except cancer) of the lower bowel radically cured. Book of particulars two letter stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Oh, you can laugh," exclaimed Fenderson, with a show of impatience, "but I am not quite so much of a fool as you think I am." "Tell you the truth," said Fogg, "I didn't believe it could be possible."

Rochester, N. Y.,

Contributes its quota of praise as to the genuine merit of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Henry Heib, Oct. 23rd. 1883, writes:—"Send a dozen for distribution among my friends, for it is as claimed, sure, safe and painless, send quickly." Beware of poisonous substitutes and get only the genuine. Putnam's Corn Extractor, made by Polson & Co., druggists, Kingston.

An exchange has this heading to a long article: "Insanity and Divorce." But the writer does not tell why marriage should be called insanity.

The base burner stove, the telephone and other improvements of a like kind have worked a domestic and social revolution within the last few years. Among these improvements it is not unfair to include the "Myrtle Navy" tobacco. The great majority of men smoke tobacco; have done so for centuries past and will continue to do so. It is important, therefore, that they should smoke the best quality of the article. That is what they are supplied with in the "Myrtle Navy." All smokers who have used it know that its flavor cannot be surpassed, that its quality is always uniform and that the only care they have to exercise in its purchase is to see that the trade mark T. & B. is stamped on the plug.

The presiding officer at a political meeting is probably called "the chair" on account of the apparently very general desire to sit upon him.

Alma Ladies' College, St. Thomas, Ont., has full staff and complete courses in Literature, Music, Fine Arts, and Commercial Science. Re-opens September 10, 1885. For 50 pp. announcement, address, Principal Austin, B.D.

Heat and Cold

Is a never failing cause of disease. At this season of the year neuralgia, toothache, and a host of similar diseases are rampant. The great question, then, is to find the quickest, surest, and most economical remedy. Polson's NERVILINE exactly fills these requirements. It is prompt, efficient, and most economical, for it exceeds in power every known remedy, and is as cheap as inferior articles. A 10 cent sample bottle will give every person a chance to test it. Large bottles only 25 cents.

Very nobby—A boarding-house bed.

Prevention Better Than Cure.

Many of the diseases so prevalent in these days are caused by using soap containing impure and infectious matter. Avoid all risk by using PERFECTION Laundry Soap, which is absolutely pure. Ask your grocer for PERFECTION. Manufactured only by the Toronto Soap Co.

Popinjay says that he wishes he could induce his wife to try the early-closing movement on her mouth.

A. P. 241.

FARMS FOR SALE, CHEAP.— All kinds.—JOHN J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
IMPERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACKING

PURE BRED AYRSHIRES for sal two cows, two yearling heifers and one bull. Write for description and pedigree to G. F. BAKER, Trafalgar.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—100 acres, 3½ miles east of the city of St. Thomas. For particulars, address J. J. Lewis, New Sarum. Ont.

TO RENT—WEST HALF LOT 33, CONCESSION 6th, Ninety-Seven acres clear. good for grain or grazing, half-mile from corporation Uxbridge. Apply to N. MUNRO, Uxbridge P.O.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
Clapperton's Spool Cotton!
Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. For sale by all Dry-Goods Dealers.

WATER STAR AUGUR
$20 Per Day
WELL BORING
has no superior; 20 feet per hour, hand or horse-power combined boring and rock drilling machine; grand success; first prizes and diplomas. Send for Catalogue. 63 MARY STREET, HAMILTON CANADA

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships

Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland an Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's N.F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia, fortnightly.

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; S. Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B.; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

To Farmers' Sons:

We offer you a means of making from $10 to $30 per week, right along, in your own neighborhood, by acting as Agent for our Teas and Coffee. We guarantee them to please or we will refund the purchaser's money. No capital needed—just a little push. The Teas need only to be shown and they will sell themselves. Send name and address at once. Only one Agent will be appointed in each district. Lose no time.

PETER WESTON,
London Ont.

GRAND DOMINION
AND FORTIETH
Provincial Exhibition
UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE
Agriculture and Arts Association of Ontario
TO BE HELD AT LONDON
FROM THE
7th to 12th Sept., 1885.

$30,000 IN PREMIUMS AND MEDALS

Owing to the Dominion grant of $10 000, a supplementary edition of the Prize List has been issued, making an entirely new list for the first 40 pages. From page 40 first edition will be used.

Exhibits to come from the North-West and the Maritime Provinces. On these exhibits transport will be paid.

One fare for passengers and freight on all principal roads in the Dominion.

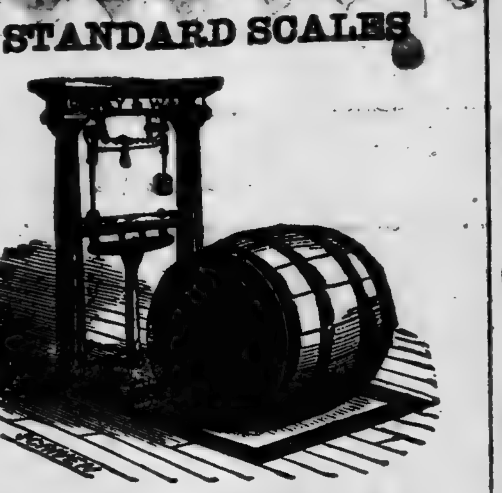
Entries to be made in all classes of Live Stock and Farm Products by Aug. 22; Horticultural Products, Ladies' Work, etc., by Aug 29

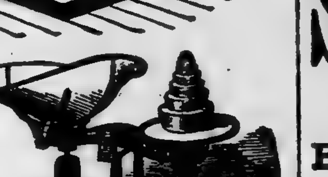
Exhibition to be opened by His Excellency the Governor-General.

Prize Lists, both editions, and Blank Forms can be had by applying by post card or otherwise to the Secretary,

HENRY WADE, Toronto.
GEO. MOORE, President Waterloo.

TRY PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER
Pure Gold Manufacturing Co.
31 FRONT ST. EAST Toronto.





The Eagle Steam Washer is the only Washing Machine invented that a weakly woman or girl 14 years old, without the use of a wash board, can with ease wash 60 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent for trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear on clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in 20, bedclothes 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 78 Jarvis Street. TORONTO Canada

CAUTION!
EACH PLUG OF THE MYRTLE NAVY
IS MARKED
T. & B.
IN BRONZE LETTERS.
NONE OTHER GENUINE.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE—Temperance St., Toronto. Patrons, Gov. Gen. of Canada, Lieut.-Gov. of Ontario. The most successful Veterinary Institution in America. Over five hundred graduates in successful practice. All experienced teachers. Session begins Oct. 21st. Fees Fifty Dollars. Principal, PROFESSOR SMITH, V.S.

GURNEY & WARE'S
STANDARD SCALES

Are the Best, Attested by the Fact that there are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' & Butchers' Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.

Housekeepers, Consult Your Best Interests

By purchasing a scale, and in buying one be sure to get the best. Our scales are fully warranted in every particular. All sizes Railroad, Warehouse and Mill Trucks. Alarm Money Drawers.

For sale by the Hardware Trade generally. Illustrated Catalogue and Price List forwarded upon application.

GURNEY & WARE
HAMILTON.
WAREHOUSES—Montreal and Winnipeg.

"CHEMOLINE!"
THE ROYAL ENGLISH HORSE AND CATTLE LINIMENT AND WASH FOR DOMESTIC ANIMALS
Just introduced from England, where it has been used over 30 years. Cures all skin diseases, ... and sprains; cures mange on dogs, ... hats, (about a teaspoonful to a ...) strong. Ileas, lice, and all insects on ... any other animal ... write for them ... Montreal. Agents wanted ... to good men. Apply ...

JAMES PARK & SON,
Pork Packers, Toronto.
L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Hams, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, ed Tongues, Cheese. Family or Navy Pork, Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Dairy Salt in Stock.

CUT THIS OUT.
The New Co-Operative
Sewing Machine
—IS THE—
BEST IN THE MARKET.
NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE!
Latest Improved Attachments.
Agents price for similar machines ...
Our price only $25 each.
Before buying send us stamp for our ... and sample of sewing.
Machines guaranteed for three years and ... trial
Any lady wanting a machine will do well to ...
The Co-Operative
Sewing Machine Co.
22 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON.

THE "SUNBEAM" WRINGER

ONLY $3.00.
THE CHEAPEST IN THE MARKET.
Warranted first-class, or money refunded. Send direct to manufacturers, or procure from your Hardware or House Furnishing dealer.

ONLY ...
CLO HESW ...
OF ALL KIN...
"Royal ... ian," "In... l," "King" ...
Mangles, ...
Roller and ...
Roller, Wi...
particulars.

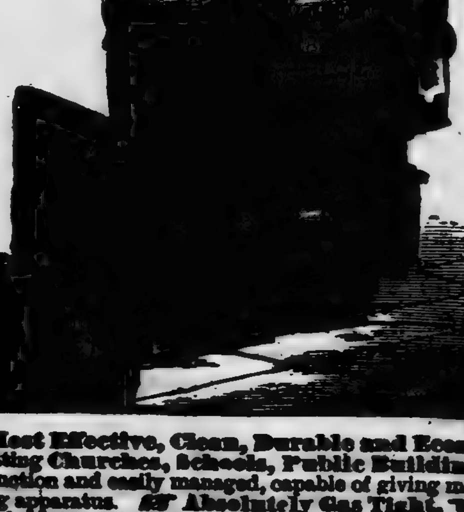
Hamilton Industrial Works Co., Manufacturers, Hamilton, O...

ALBERT COLLEGE,
(IN AFFILIATION WITH VICTORIA UNIVERSITY, COBOURG,) BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.

This College, founded in 1854, has had in attendance over 3,000 different students. It offers unusual facilities for "general culture" and for matriculation in Arts, Law, etc., at a moderate cost. The Collegiate Course embraces both "matriculation work" and selected studies in Science and Philosophy. The ... of Music has awarded 26 diplomas of graduation in three years. It was never so popular as now. The Business College is under the direction of a practical accountant. Ornamental penmanship a specialty. School of Art is in affiliation with the Ontario School of Art, and teaches its courses.

A special course of lectures for conference students of the Methodist Church, in which the ... Carman, Jeffers, the Rev. J. B. Clarkson, M.A., and others take part, will be given during the winter.

A reduction in fees of 10 per cent. (instead of a definite sum as formerly) is granted to students ... two or more Departments. Both ladies and gentlemen admitted. Fall terms begins September 8th.



FOR "ANNUAL ANNOUNCEMENT" AND CIRCULARS, ADDRESS
REV. W. P. DYER, M.A., President.

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO.,
—MANUFACTURERS OF—
PEERLESS
AND OTHER MACHINE OILS.

Gold Medals and First Prizes Wherever Exhibited. | Queen City Oil Works TORONTO.

$10 Reward for the Conviction
Of Dealers who Sell in- ferior Oil of Other Manufacture ...
McCOLL'S
THE ABOVE REWARD
LARDINE
MACHINE OIL.
Eureka, Cylinder, Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. | For sale by all leading dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co. Toronto.

Examine Their Superior Merit!
GURNEY'S
NEW HARRIS HOT AIR FURNACES
FOR WOOD

The Most Effective, Clean, Durable and Economical Heaters in the Market for warming and ventilating Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Stores and Private Residences. Simple in construction and easily managed, capable of giving more heat with less consumption of fuel than any other heating apparatus. Absolutely Gas Tight. Seven sizes are made and can be set in Brick or Portable Form. Correspondence solicited. For Catalogues and further information address

THE E. & C. GURNEY CO.
(LIMITED.)
HAMILTON.

THE FARM.

Corn Song.
... the ... o'er the ...
... the ... fills ...
... wage a ... the weeds,
... laid by."

"No ... no corn," so runs the saw,
We work then with a will;
Who works not, reaps not," is a law
... still.

... up at dawn and far away
The soil to lightly turn,
For there is never time for play,
While June's bright sunbeams burn.

Like ribbons shim'ring in the light,
The leaves weave many a maze,
Of fact and fancy, dark or bright,
About the busy days.

... soldiers marching down the li...
With pennons flutt'ring free,
I make these ranks, where green blade...
A mighty host for me.

And they shall win from sun and sho...
Of wealth a goodly store;
Shall bring me Ease—Position, Power...
Possessions vast;—aye more,

A home—where love shall e'er abide
Be mine or soon or late.
May weal with those bright blades bet...
To help me conquer fate!

High over all the warm sun shines,
The breeze stirs on the hill;
In softly undulating lines,
The heat goes wav'ring still.

The breeze comes softly mur'muring by,
The long leaves whisper free,
"Work on;" "Fruition lingers nigh;"
Success is waiting thee."

How to Plow.

...any farmers do not take the int... work they should, owing parti...rance, or they do not want ... trouble to accomplish this work ...ally, supposing there is nothing ... about it. Yet a great difference ...ed in good and bad plowing, a... is invariably the result; hence a... ...terest should be taken in this wor... ...ld some farmers follow the ex... ...n at some plowing matches, it ... great benefit to them. ...is usually the case that plowing i... ...ced at full depth by turning a fu... and thrown against the fence, mor... be taken from the fence. Also w... is plowed in lands, a full-furrow is ...p when back-furrowing, which m... ...e through the field, heavy for the ...raw, and often causes trouble after ...etimes the mowing machine is ru... ...the ridge, the guards making mar... dirt, the sections working lively a... ...mall stones which sometimes crac... ...k them

...other disadvantage is, in case of a... ...n, when plowed on such back-furr... ...ry difficult to keep the plow in... ...nd. Leaving a double dead-furrow ...idea, in my estimation; it can be a... almost any shaped field, by worki... down to an equal width from en... and then finish in a manner I shall ...allude to. The ridge can be avoide... ...ways: One way is to set the plow ...only one-third deep the first ro... next two-thirds, the third round ...e depth you intend to plow; by ta... course you have a level back-furr... there is the usual strip of land cove... ...r the first round not plowed by ... ...furrowing, and a strip of weeds is of... in summer fallows or small grains ... this, set the plow one-third deep; ...ning turn the new dirt back into ...w you made, and more with it; ... furrow out throw on top of the ot... then set the plow at half depth on ...g, the depth you intend to plo... the plowing is commenced proper... ...e ridged back-furrow or strip of la... ...ed over.

...other good feature in plowing is to ke... ...urrows straight, and this can be do... time is saved by so doing. You sa... work. Where lands are struck o... ...ly in long or square fields, it will th... ...qual at the finish. When at two fu... wide, set the plow at half depth acro... ...ce, then set it the whole depth retur... then strike out another land one-thi... By so doing the plow is at the othe... ...the field. Then set the plow ha... to bring back the half farrow left o... ...her land; thus you have a single dead... ...w. Then go to the other land one... deep, turn the dirt back on the furrow ...ext top of that, then half depth, nex... depth. When the last land is to be ...no other furrow to strike out, you must ... the other end of the field without ...g. In order to bring back the last ...w. Should it be a three cornered ...owing field, and you intend to finish ...centre, and the work coming together ...narrow part of the field, let the plow ...t of the furrows at about two fu... ...wide, set in on the other side, leaving ... through the piece, the widest part, ...d down to two furrows wide. Should ...y part be in or near the centre, go to ...d of the piece to commence by setting ...w to finish, as I have before stated. ...ou have a single dead-furrow in most ...aped field. Time is saved by doing ...ay, rather than to do as some do— ...wo or three extra rounds plowing in ...ack-furrows, turning up sod, or what... ...e top might be doing more hurt than ... When making the single dead-fur-

"CHEMOLINE!" ... ROYAL ENGLISH HORSE AND CATTLE ... WASH FOR DOMESTIC ANIMALS ...

AMES PARK & SON
Pork Packers, Toronto.
Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, ... Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Hams, ... Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, ... Tongues, Cheese. Family or Navy Pork, ... and Pails. The Best Brands of ... Salt in Stock.

UT THIS OUT
The New Co-Operative
Sewing Machine
—IS THE—
ST IN THE MARKET
NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE!
est Improved Attachments ts price for similar machines
Our price only $25 each.
...e buying send us stamp for our elegant ... and sample of sewing. Machines guaranteed for three years and ...
lady wanting a machine will do well to ...
The Co-Operative
Sewing Machine Co.
JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON.

WRINGER!
ONLY $3.00
CLOTHES WRINGERS OF ALL KINDS.
"Royal Canadian," "Improved," "King," ... Mangles, ... Roller and ... Roller. Write ... particulars.
...ufacturers, Hamilton, Can.

COLLEGE, (COBOURG,) BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.
...000 different students. It offers ... Law, etc., at a moderate cost. The College ... ies in Science and Philosophy. ... It was never so popular as now. ... Ornamental penmanship a specialty ... teaches its courses. ... the Methodist Church, in which the Rev. ... part, will be given during the winter ... as formerly) is granted to students ... Fall terms begins September 8th.
ND CIRCULARS, ADDRESS
...DYER, M.A., President.

...RS & CO.,
...LESS
...HINE OILS.
...n City Oil Works
TORONTO.

...e Conviction
...L'S ...ferior Oil of Other Manufacture ...
...INE
...E OIL.
...dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co. Toronto.

...erior Merit!
...Y'S
...IR FURNACES
...eaters in the Market for warming ... and Private Residences. ... less consumption of fuel than any other ... izes are made and can be set either ... logues and further information address
...RNEY CO.
...TON.

THE FARM.

Corn Song.

When pipes the plover o'er the [illegible]
Away to the [illegible] hie,
We wage a war upon the weeds,
Till the corn is all "laid by."

"No care, no corn," so runs the saw.
We work then with a will;
"Who works not, reaps not," is a law
Nature enforces still.

So up at dawn and far away
The soil to lightly turn,
For there is never time for play,
While June's bright sunbeams burn.

Like ribbons shim'ring in the light,
The leaves weave many a maze,
Of fact and fancy, dark or bright,
About the busy days.

Armed soldiers marching down the line,
With pennons flutt'ring free,
I make these ranks, where green blades shine
A mighty host for me.

And they shall win from sun and shower,
Of wealth a goodly store;
Shall bring me Ease—Position, Power;
Possessions vast;—aye more,

A home—where love shall e'er abide
Be mine or soon or late.
May weal with those bright blades betide
To help me conquer fate!

High over all the warm sun shines,
The breeze stirs on the hill;
In softly undulating lines,
The heat goes wav'ring still.

The breeze comes softly mur'muring by,
The long leaves whisper free,
"Work on;" "Fruition lingers nigh;"
Success is waiting thee."

How to Plow.

Many farmers do not take the interest in this work they should, owing partially to ignorance, or they do not want to take the trouble to accomplish this work scientifically, supposing there is nothing important about it. Yet a great difference is observed in good and bad plowing, and the crop is invariably the result; hence a great interest should be taken in this work, and should some farmers follow the example shown at some plowing matches, it would be a great benefit to them.

It is usually the case that plowing is commenced at full depth by turning a full-furrow and thrown against the fence, more than can be taken from the fence. Also when a field is plowed in lands, a full-furrow is turned up when back-furrowing, which makes a ridge through the field, heavy for the team to draw, and often causes trouble afterward. Sometimes the mowing machine is running on the ridge, the guards making marks in the dirt, the sections working lively among the small stones which sometimes crack and break them.

Another disadvantage is, in case of a dry season, when plowed on such back-furrow it is very difficult to keep the plow in the ground. Leaving a double dead-furrow is a poor idea, in my estimation; it can be avoided in almost any shaped field, by working a strip down to an equal width from end to end, and then finish in a manner I shall further allude to. The ridge can be avoided in two ways: One way is to set the plow to plow only one-third deep the first round, the next two-thirds, the third round the whole depth you intend to plow; by taking this course you have a level back-furrow, but there is the usual strip of land covered under the first round not plowed by such back-furrowing, and a strip of weeds is often seen in summer fallows or small grains. To avoid this, set the plow one-third deep; on returning turn the new dirt back into the furrow you made, and more with it; the next furrow out throw on top of the other, then set the plow at half depth on returning, the depth you intend to plow. Thus the plowing is commenced properly, and no ridged back-furrow or strip of land covered over.

Another good feature in plowing is to keep the furrows straight, and this can be done and time is saved by so doing. You save short work. Where lands are struck out equally in long or square fields, it will then be equal at the finish. When at two furrows wide, set the plow at half depth across the piece, then set it the whole depth returning; then strike out another land one-third deep. By so doing the plow is at the other end of the field. Then set the plow half depth to bring back the half furrow left on the other land; thus you have a single dead-furrow. Then go to the other land one-third deep, turn the dirt back on the furrow, next top of that, then half depth, next whole depth. When the last land is to be finished, no other furrow to strike out, you must go to the other end of the field without plowing, in order to bring back the last furrow. Should it be a three cornered or bowing field, and you intend to finish in the centre, and the work coming together at the narrow part of the field, let the plow run out of the furrows at about two furrows wide, set in on the other side, leaving a strip through the piece, the widest part, and down to two furrows wide. Should the wide part be in or near the centre, go to the end of the piece to commence by setting the plow to finish, as I have before stated. Thus you have a single dead-furrow in most any shaped field. Time is saved by doing this way, rather than to do as some do—make two or three extra rounds plowing in the back furrows, turning up sod, or what at the top might be doing more hurt than good. When making the single dead-furrow it is nearly filled by the drill or dragging, and is better for the crop and machinery.

[illegible] Proverbs Concerning Women.

The number of proverbs and sayings existing concerning the fair sex would fill a book, did any one take the trouble to collect them from the works of all nations. The following are chiefly foreign and unknown here:

Anacreon is supposed to have written that "A beautiful woman can triumph over iron and fire."

A Persian proverb says, "Woman is like your shadow; if you run after her she flies; if you fly, she runs after you."

A French proverb says, "Without woman youth and age would be without succor and middle life without pleasure."

An old English saying does not agree with these proverbs, for it remarks, "Like blood, like good, and like age make the happiest marriage.

This is pretty, from Limayrac's writings: "The heart of a maiden in love is a sanctuary of gold, in which usually reigns an idol of potter's clay."

An Oriental proverb says, "Fear more the love of woman than the hate of man; while an Indian one says, "A woman in love is never wise."

A true saying of St. Prospero is that "A woman's heart is like an instrument of music; the beauty of its sound depends upon the player."

And another charming saying by Duvay is "The mind of woman is like the Garden of Eden; it produces beautiful flowers without any cultivation."

Here is a sad prophecy for the professional beauties: A handsome young woman is always an ugly old one." This is both German and Italian.

Dionysius Cato accuses women of always disliking their husbands' friends; while Plato says that "Money makes men into slaves and renders women overbearing."

A German proverb says, "The beauty of women, of the forest, and of the rainbow last but a moment." An Italian one on the same subject is prettier: "Beauty is like a flower—it quickens, it blooms, and it dies."

Another Italian proverb was perhaps the original cause why men marry women younger than themselves:

> If of thy wife thou wouldst be master,
> Thou must by many years be past her.

The Talmud writes—"Ascend a step to take a friend, but descend one to take a wife." The Turks have a proverb, "Let thy wife be thy inferior; and do not marry thy daughter to a man superior to thyself."

"Woman and moon—to-day serene, to-morrow cloudy;" "Woman and wine—sweet in the evening, but acid in the morning," are Tuscan proverbs. Another Tuscan proverb must have been the original of "Punch's" famous advice to those about to marry—namely, "Don't!" for it runs, "Who marries does well, who doesn't does better."

An Indian proverb, which was most remarkable for its astuteness and its undoubted truth, is the following: "It must always be the women who are in the wrong, and not the men, because men have reserved to themselves the right to decide what is right and what wrong."

RASCALLY REDSKINS.

George McIver Tells the Story of the Indians Attack.

F. Frazer Tims, J. P., of Swift Current, took the deposition of George McIvor, who was shot by Indians a short time ago. The substance of the deposition was as follows:—Mr. McIvor (who is a man about 30 years of age) was on his way from British Columbia, where his parents reside, to visit two of his brothers residing at Prince Albert. On arriving at Calgary he constructed a boat, in which he came to Medicine Hat. After remaining there about a week he left on Monday, 20th. When some thirty miles west of Saskatchewan Landing, one day about noon, as he was leaning over his camp fire, he heard a bullet whistle past. It came so near as to pierce his vest and shirt. He immediately ran to his boat, seven or eight more shots being fired in the meantime. He shoved the boat out from shore and proceeded a short distance, when the boat ran upon a sand-bar. The water being shallow, an old Indian waded out after him, pointed his muzzle-loading gun close to his side, and fired, starting for shore as soon as he had done so. McIvor followed and on reaching the shore picked up his axe, which was lying in a log. The old Indian was by this time reloading his gun; but McIvor seized the gun with one hand, and with the other wielding his axe, brought it down upon the Indian's head with such force as to dash out some of his brains. He then returned to his boat, shoved it off, lay down and floated down the river until Mr. Tims' men picked him up on Friday, about 24 hours after he had been wounded, during which time he had probably floated thirty or forty miles. When found his clothes were full of blood, though he had staunched the wound as well as he could with his handkerchief. He saw three Indians and heard a fourth. Want of ammunition is thought to be the reason why the others did not fire. McIvor has since died.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Woman's Work.

It has long been proved, to woman's satisfaction, at least, that she is mentally man's equal, and with this knowledge, in many cases, has come the desire to prove the equality by persistently pushing herself into his functions. Such persistency goes a great way, in my mind towards proving her ignorance and inferiority.

Man and woman were created with distinctive individual characteristics, but it is only when each recognizes this fact and acts in sympathy with it, that a perfect harmony is produced.

There work is as distinct as there mental and physical peculiarities; but the nobler, grander work falls to the lot of woman.

What can be more divine than the forming and training of the human intellect. What privilege greater than that of making a refined and beautiful home, which might and should be a little centre of loveliness and joy?

Is it any wonder we are surprised and disgusted to hear woman clamoring for more rights and higher privileges? But what is the cause of all this restlessness and foolish striving? We are convinced that the answer may be found in the ignorance of the significance of her work, as designed by God and nature. To appreciate this correctly she must possess a knowledge of the laws of Physiology and Psychology. How many a loving, devoted mother has failed in her home work simply through ignorance of these essentials. She does not understand how largely her children partake of her mental as well as physical temperament, nor fully appreciate her awful responsibility in their early training. She exerts herself to supply their corporal needs, but gives no thought to their mental environment.

How different this would be if each woman understood the proper development of the child mind, and could intelligently direct and guide its unfolding; properly determining what powers should first be brought in activity, and wisely and skillfully guiding them from one stage of development to another. Now, the teacher is expected to do all this and we, mothers, are so surprised that our angelic children are found fault with, and cannot conceive what kind of a teacher it is that complains of their fancied misdemeanors. Surely she cannot understand her business, and we feel it our immediate duty to inform the School Board of the mistake and have matters righted.

Out of the 168 hours in a week, the children are under the teacher's direct influence only about 30, and there are generally from 30 to 50 little ones to call for her thought and attention. What opportunity has she for studying each individual child so as to wisely determine how to deal with it most intelligently? Almost none, compared with a mother's, and it is directly upon her that the responsibility rests.

But many women will say: "We have no time to study our children or anything else, and we are not blameworthy for our lack of knowledge. It requires all our strength to perform the necessary work of life; and as long as we are required to do this we must give the mental training of our children to others."

True, the domestic work of life must be done, for proper food and clothing are absolutely necessary for our comfort. But after all, every woman may acquire wisdom if she can't be learned. It is not so much what is read as what is thought of that makes the difference between intelligence and ignorance.

With a proper system of management there are few women of to-day, who cannot find some time for reading and study. House work is of such a nature that much of it can be made mechanical. The hands may hold a broom while the mind absorbs or conceives a noble thought.

Mothers are directly responsible for the proper development of their children's minds and no amount of work can excuse them from this, their highest, holiest duty. Ignorance is not a thing to be lightly overlooked and excused. It is a sin.

Our educational papers are full to overflowing of assertions concerning the teacher's work, the teacher's duty, but little or nothing is said to the thousands of mothers, who are carelessly leaving the mental training of their children to others, while they pursue the more important employment of adorning their bodies.

We would not have one word less written for the teacher.

It is impossible too highly to estimate the importance of his work; but we would have the mothers of our land feel the responsibility in the matter of education and arouse themselves to the sense of their most solemn of all duties, for the performance of which God will hold them directly accountable.

The only way for a rich man to be healthy is to exercise abstinence—to live as if he were poor.

Reflexion is a flower of the mind, giving out wholesome fragrance; reverie is the same flower when running to seed.

There are houses where people are bright without mistrusting it; there are others where people are stupid in spite of themselves.

His Little Dan.

Not all convicts in prison cells have hardened hearts. We do not know of the trials and temptations, the cruel want, the better souls of men who sometimes do desperate deeds. There is something pathetic in the life of every man within prison walls. It may be found in the story of a neglected and uncared-for childhood, or in a lifelong struggle with adverse fates. We untried souls are less charitable than we should be to men whose daily life is one of dejection and discouragement, in the midst of which they sin. The warden of a penitentiary tells the following touching story of a man sentenced to ten years at hard labor, for a crime in the committing of which there were many extenuating circumstances.

His name was Hixon. One day a letter came for him, neatly addressed in a woman's hand.

The warden read it first, as was his duty. This was all there was of it:

"DEAR JOHN,—Our little Dan died to-day.
"MARY."

The warden read the affecting message to Hixon. "Dan" was the convict's little boy, and "Mary" was his wife.

"What—what?" said Hixon. "Danny dead? My little Dan? No, no, no! It cannot be!"

But it was true. Another sorrow was added to the many he already knew. He sat for a long time with bowed head, his face in his hands, his heart quivering.

"I've said many a time," he said, at last, "that it would be better if Danny did die before he was old enough to know and feel his father's shame. I suppose it is best, but it is hard to bear after all. My little Dan!"

The man broke down again. A little later he took a small photograph from his pocket, carefully wrapped in tissue paper. He gazed long and earnestly at it. The tears ran over his pale cheeks, and fell on the smiling face of the boy. He brushed them away with his trembling hand, and gave the photograph to the warden.

"That was Danny," he said.

It was the sunny little face of a boy about two years old. A pretty boy he must have been, with the short curls clinging close to his head, and the large bright eyes—now forever closed, closed to the knowledge of the truth that he was a convict's boy. Surely it was better so, for now that penitent convict father may meet his little Dan in the land where there is no knowledge nor remembrance of the sins that made sorrowful our earthly lives.

DOGS THAT LIVE IN CLOVER.

Owners of pugs pay $3 a week board for them in some White Mountain hotels.

A Newfoundland dog affiliates with a goat at Schooley's Mountain, and they are driven tandem by a little girl to a pretty wagon.

The largest dog on Long Island is in all probability the St. Bernard at the Canoe Place Inn. He is a tremendous fellow, but very gentle.

A shepherd dog belonging to Mr. Schalk, of Monmouth Junction, N. S. plays ball. He never "muffs," no matter how the ball is thrown.

A lady from Newark has her Skye terrier with her at the Hotel Kaaterskill and has regular board paid for him. The animal cost in England $3.000.

Puck, the beautiful pug of Mrs. A. L. Eakin of Halifax, has his dainty meals prepared for him as regularly as his mistress has hers. His early name, Punch, was too plebeian, and if he is called by it he cries.

Zip, the famous Scotch terrier of Mrs. George W. Childs, has his meals brought to him on a burnished tray, drives out with Mrs. Childs behind a dashing team, and takes his ocean bath at Long Branch regularly.

At an Asbury Park hotel a lady's pet dog sleeps upon a silken pillow at her feet. He proved useful as well as ornamental by giving notice recently of the presence of a thief who was about to seize the lady's diamonds.

BALD-HEADED JOKES.

The saying, "There is always room at the top," was invented by a bald-headed man.

The bald head that is not susceptible to the patter of a fly's festive-feet is an unfeeling mockery.

A thoughtful mind can find fodder for much rumination in the announcement that 72 per cent. of the bald-headed men in this country are married.

The Lord made nothing in vain, but why, oh why, did he make flies with such an execrable insanity for mistaking a bald head for a parade ground.

A bald-headed man who has heard that the hairs of a man's head are numbered wants to know if there is not some place where he can obtain the back numbers.

The bald-headed man has a hard time of it in church these days. The sermon inclines him to drowsiness, but the flies insist upon keeping him awake.

> His head I know is hairless,
> But his heart I am sure is pure.
> And to lighten human misery
> Much pain he would endure.
> But, alas, he speaks profanely
> When he cannot sleep a wink,
> And the flies upon his bald pate
> Make a busy skating rink.

Batoche Sufferers.

All reports from Batoche and the country generally that was the centre of the trouble in the spring agree that the deluded men who took up arms in rebellion at the instigation of Riel and his associates have completely changed their views since the date of the fight. Up to that time they firmly believed that Riel was divinely inspired, and that all the benefits he promised would surely follow their obeying his commands. The result of the conflict—the knowledge that troops were massed on every side of them—the abject terror that Riel displayed when he found power slipping from his hands—the helpless condition in which they found themselves when driven out of their rifle pits and put upon the move, combined to force upon them the conviction that they had been deceived, and that in taking up arms they had forfeited their lives and property without securing anything in return. At his bidding they had neglected their work during the most of the winter, relying on his assurance that the Government he was going to inaugurate on the Saskatchewan would supply all their wants, but when spring came, and with it a dispelling of the illusion that had kept them up, they found themselves without the means of putting in even such crop as the lateness of the season would yet permit of being planted with a reasonable hope of reaching maturity. The

DESPERATE STRAITS

to which they were reduced set them thinking and their esteem and admiration for Riel as the patriot who was to make them all wealthy, was changed to hatred and condemnation of the mountebank who had deluded them, accompanied by the keenest regret that they had given ear to his teachings. They can scarcely realize the idiocy that led them to believe in his mummeries and absurd pretensions, and are to-day as eager to see him hanged as were the troops on the field of Batoche to see him shot. So high is this feeling amongst those who were his most devoted followers, that it would be safer to set Riel free amongst the men who fought against him than to send him back to his seat of government on the South Branch amongst those whom he deceived. How far the expression of feeling is true, and how much prompted by the ever-prevalent desire to kick a man when he is down, we shall not attempt to decide. Instead of finding their condition bettered they see when too late that in their madness they destroyed the very sources out of which they made their living. They paralyzed trade, so that there is no freighting; they so impoverished their country that none are able to give them employment. In their extremity they are some going to Qu'Appelle and other districts in which they have friends, others crossing the line, in the hope that amidst new surroundings they may be able to make the living they deprived themselves of at home. They all bear testimony to the magnanimity and forbearance of the troops, who spared their lives when they might easily have taken them. So long as they had arms in their hands they had to take the chances of war, but when they were beaten and forced to surrender they looked upon it as a matter of course that they would be killed. Riel had told them so, and such had been the custom in all the wars on the plains in which they had previously been engaged. That it was not so—that they were spared as soon as they laid down their arms, is something they do not fully realize. They did not look for defeat, but when they met it they did look for the annihilation of themselves and families. But it was far otherwise. Riel proved himself a false prophet; the white soldier was more merciful than they knew or hoped—more merciful than the rebels would have been had the victory been on their side. It is better for all parties that it should be as it is; and had it not been that they instigated the Indian to his deviltry, their own crimes and folly would have been the more easily overlooked.

LEAVING THE COUNTRY,

PEARLS OF TRUTH.

A miser'y father makes a prodigal son.

In tracing the shade we shall find out the sun.

Doubt indulged soon becomes doubt realized

A man must stand erect, and not be kept erect by others.

Mind and night will meet, though in silence, like forbidden lovers.

Argument, however excellent, will never cure the evil of the age.

There is no art whereby to find the mind's construction in the face.

There are truths which are to be proved only by faith and feeling.

A picture is an intermediate something between a thought and a thing.

Wrong none by doing injuries, or omitting the benefits that are your duty.

Desperation will often suffice to fill the post and do the work of courage.

There is but one Creator; all we can do is to collect and combine his creations.

A friend is a being that is willing to bear with us in all our faults and failings.

Teach your child to obey, and you will give him the most precious letter that can be given to a child. Obedience is the grandest thing in the world to begin with.

The Standard.

MARKDALE AUGUST 20, 1885.

OBITUARY.

James Kerr, Esq., of the township of Euphrasia, was born in Ireland in 1811 and emigrated to Canada with his father's family in 1832, settled in Chingaucousy township, where he resided fourteen years, removing to Euphrasia in 1846. Soon after coming to this township he began to identify himself with local public affairs, and in 1853 was elected to the township council. Next year he was elected to the Reeveship, which position he held for four consecutive years, and again for six years, commencing three years later, making ten years in all. Mr. Kerr was a prosperous farmer, and a man of intelligence, and one of the best specimens we have of self-made men—having begun life poor—whose good abilities and steady application, earned for himself and his family the advantages of all temporal comforts, and a reputation of which any man might be justly proud of. He died at his residence on Thursday, the 6th inst., after a few days illness, at the ripe age of 74 years. His remains were followed to their last resting place by a very large concourse, and interred in Thornbury cemetery.

Unlicensed Pedlars.

For a long time past it has been apparent to us that something will have to be done to abate the pedlar nuisance. The country is being overrun by a horde of itinerant vendors of small wares and shoddy goods, many of whom have no license. The generous-hearted farmer and his equally generous spouse frequently make great mistakes in harboring and encouraging these persons, who, nine times out of ten, are not deserving of the charitable service rendered them in the way of meals, lodging, or the purchase of their goods. Seeming fit subjects for charity they are in many instances lazy, good-for-nothing tramps who are neither "too proud to beg" nor "too honest to steal."

In regard to this pedlar nuisance we think many of our good people are acting in a very inconsistent manner, for while they would discountenance the sale of intoxicating liquor without license and probably lay information against anyone who would sell the same, dragging, it may be, certain otherwise respectable persons into the witness box to prove their case, they forget the fact that they themselves are assisting other unlicensed vendors, viz., the pedlars, in breaking the law and injuring bona fide merchants in their own midst,—likewise putting a premium on dishonesty and laziness.

These thoughts have been suggested by instances which have come under our own notice during the past few weeks, and we would like to see the public rise as one man and sit right down on the pedlar nuisance. A community stands in its own light when it encourages illegal trade of any kind. —Shelburne Economist.

A Three Thousand Dollar Stocking Bank Deposit.

Wm. Cormack, a wealthy cattle dealer, of Chelsey, Ont., complained to the police that he shipped a drove of cattle to the Old Country from Montreal on Wednesday, and shortly after boarded a Grand Trunk train for home with the snug little sum of $3,000, the proceeds of the sale. He deposited three $1,000 bills in his sock and retired to his berth in the sleeping coach, when the train was about thirty miles out of Montreal. After removing his stockings he threw them to one side, forgetting about his money. Three minutes after he had got into bed he remembered his money in the sock and arose, but his money was gone. He requested the conductor to lock the doors and search the other passengers, but that official did not deem this his duty. When the train arrived in this city the police were notified.—Globe.

Berkeley.

From a correspondent.

The barn of Mr. John Sargent, near this village, was burned last Thursday night together with contents, consisting of about ten tons of hay, one buggy, horse rake and several other articles. Loss about $2,000; insured for 1,000. The origin of the fire is unknown. Some think it was struck by lightning, while others are of opinion that it was caused by a tramp smoking while lodging for the night.

Mr. D. Abby has his new house completed and will occupy it shortly.

Spring wheat is rusted badly in this neighborhood.

Williamsford.

From a Correspondent.

The first Holland Centre monthly fair was held in our village last Saturday. There was quite a large attendance of cattle and buyers, but little changed hands. Honor is due to Mr. C. Price for securing us this blessing, and we hope the people in the surrounding country will recognize its worth and patronize it. You have secured a market near home now, and need not waste time driving your cattle great distances. It is important to have a fair near the centre of the township, and now that you have it, come out and assist in making it a success.

Rev. I. McAlpine, of Chatsworth, exchanges pulpits with Mr. Dobbin on Sabbath next. The rev. gentleman from Chatsworth dispenses the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at Williamsford village in the morning.

Our village is steadily growing Mr. Bailey and Mr. Spears are erecting two fine dwelling houses, while the new house, Mr. Crowther, Sr., is having built is causing loud whispers, about a "pleasant happy event."

Yours.

NIB BOD.

A NATIONAL EVIL.

There is no question but that Dyspepsia is a national disease of our country, and when complicated with diseases of the Liver and Kidneys is the cause of untold misery. Burdock Blood Bitters will almost invariably cure the worst case known.

Entrance Examination.

At the recent examination there were 30 candidates at Durham, 45 at Meaford, and 240 at Owen Sound. The following is the list of those who passed at the respective places:—

DURHAM.

Lizzie Macdonell 492, Viola O'Neil 475, Christina Scott 466, Maggie J. Scott 473, Mary Smith 449, A. W. E. Ball 395, W. E. Black 386, Jas. G. Moore 424, Alex. McMillan 427, Robt. Smith 387.

MEAFORD.

Annie M. Albery 433, Elizabeth Arthur 386, Lydia Brown 543, Kate Galbraith 450, Amy Gaudin 566, Mary A. Gifford 506, Mary L. Hartman 452, Emma Lang 425, Maggie H. Lang 386, Lillie Long 404, Anna McCarter 409, Rebecca Paul 409, Lavinia Rumley 489, Mary Stevenson 427, Annie L. Sheet 376, Rachel Sunter 431, Mary York 441, Alexander Douglass 411, Irving Gaudin 568, George Hartman 459, William Hartman 405, George H. Keys 505, William McRae 508, Hector Robertson 517, Benj. Robt. Scanlan 492, Robert A Shannon 504.

OWEN SOUND.

Mina Boselly 394, Isabella M. Bothwell 407, Aggie Burt 449, Emma Calvert 450, Lizzie Calvert 382, Margaret Jane Campbell 490, Helen Coates 375, Maggie Cobean 406, Eleanor Corbet 385. Annie Cunningham 461, Mary Doherty 452, Delia Dunham 469, May Dunn 411, Jennie Edgar 418, Edith Fraser 427, K. Gallihier 379, Cassie Glass 380, Minnie Green 400, Sarah Hopkins 381, Lottie Lee 478, Louisa Manery 389, Ida Miller 444, Maggie Moore 384, Bell Mullan 379, Florence Mullan 392, Minnie McWilliams 416, Lizzie Rushton 470, Letitia Vick 438, Martha Ward 396, Wm. J. Abercrombie 444, Neil Beaton 375, Edwin W. Bishop 404, Isaac Blake 443, Isaac Brinkman 279, Walter Cameron 379, James P. Caton 493, Thomas H. Collins 391, William Davidson 550, Alexander Dewar 413, Arthur Dowsley 382 George J. Elliott 528, William J. Elliott 397, Jas. Fletcher 418, Hugh Lewis Fletcher 411, Allan Forcester 440, William Forsyth 389, George Frizzell 387, Alex. Goodwin 450, Charles H. Griffiths 390, Francis W. Harron 415, Wilmot Hogarth 455, William A. Mason 439, Alex. Mitchell 481, James Moffitt 407, Mark Morton 388, David McClare 375, John McEwen 392, David B. Neely 480, David W. Reid 391, John W. Ross 448, John Soady 417, John Spencer 420, David Sprague 394, Heber Stephens 379, Colin Stewart 498, William H. Stinson 381, Alex. Sutherland 409, Wm. P. Telford 520, Albert E. Thompson 517, David John White 393, Robert B. Wright 433, Tom Wright 407.

These admissions are provisional only, and may be modified by the High Schools Inspectors in cases in which the candidate though taking a sufficient total, fails to obtain one-third in some particular subject.

SPRING AND SUMMER.

Prepare the body for health and vigor by taking Dr. Chase's Liver Cure. No Spring Medicine equals it. It stimulates the Liver aids digestion, and purifies the blood. Large bottle and Recipe Book, $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Sept.

Saugeen Presbytery.

This presbytery met in Mt. Forest, on the 14th ult. Mr. Smith presented the Home Mission Report, which was very satisfactory. He was instructed to visit Ayton and East Normanby and get them to assume all their own expenses for the current year. Mr. Crozier was instructed to visit Black's Corners and get the congregation to provide the student with a house. A suitable minute, anent the translation of Mr. Chisholm from Osprey to Nicola Valley, B. C., was adopted, and a copy ordered to be sent to Mr. Chisholm. It was agreed to receive Mr. Madill, of Markdale, as a catechist, and recommended for work inside the bounds. Mr. J. A. Ross, licentiate, agreed to take Dundalk and Fraser, as ordained missionary, for two years, and arrangements were accordingly made for his ordination and induction on the 29th, at 2 p.m., in Dundalk. The call from Singhampton and Maple Valley to Mr. McLeod was considered in due form, and declined by Mr. McLeod, after which it was laid aside. The presbytery agreed to make application to the next meeting of the General Assembly to receive Mr. Daryent into the ministry of the Church, and meanwhile recommended him to the Church for work. Dr. Campbell reported that the arrears of salary to Mr. McMillan were paid. He also recommended that the following re-arrangement of the congregations be made so as to secure connection for Woodland, which was thrown out of supplies by the union in Mount Forest, viz., Woodland and Fairbairn; Holstein and Centre Normanby; Amos and St. Andrew's church, Proton. Messrs. Baikie and Aull were appointed to visit these fields with a view to the consummation of the above re-arrangement, and report at the next ordinary meeting of presbytery. Dr. Campbell obtained extension of time to enable him to complete his report in reference to Mr. McMillan's gratuity. The congratulations of the court were tendered him on his recent accession to the high literary distinction of "Doctor of Philosophy." The sympathy of the presbytery was extended to Mr. Young, whose wife has been for some time seriously ill, with an expression of the hope that she would soon be restored to health. The next ordinary meeting was appointed in Durham, on Sept. 15th.

NONE BETTER.

There is no more wholesome or delicious fruit on earth than the Wild Strawberry, and there is no more effectual remedy for Cholera, Dysentery, Cramps and other summer complaints of infants or adults, than Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Easily Pleased.

"I must congratulate you on your marriage, Mr. Pugsby. Your wife is a charming woman."

"She is, indeed; loving, amiable, and accomplished, and is easily pleased."

"Oh, I knew that when I heard that she was about to marry you."

A HEARTY ENDORSEMENT.

The people, the press and the profession all heartily endorse the merits of Burdock Blood Bitters as the best Blood and Liver regulator and purifying tonic now in use.

ON THE RISE.

"Leaves have their time to fall," says the poet, but Wild Strawberry leaves are on the rise just now, being utilized in such enormous quantities in making Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry—the infallible remedy for Cholera Morbus, Diarrhœa, and other Summer Complaints.

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuine

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their quality but it further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER & Co., - - Chemists and Druggists

MARKDALE, ONT,

The only place in town where they can be obtained.

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 78	to	0 80
Barley	50	to	67
Peas	55	to	58
Oats	29	"
Butter	10	to	12
Eggs	10	to	00
Apples	50	to	75
Potatoes	30	to	40
Hay	0 00	to	8 00
Pork	5 00	to	5 00
Flour	3 75	to	4 25
Wool	17	to	18

BIRTHS.

McFARLAND—In Markdale, on the 18th inst., the wife of Mr. Andrew McFarland, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

OSBORNE—McGEE—By the Rev. A. Wilson, at the manse, Markdale, on the 12th inst., Mr. Samuel Osborne, to Miss Ellen McGee, all of Osprey.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,

Druggist,

Durham.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,

Barristers,

253-tf Goderich.

THE CELEBRATED Dr CHASE'S MANDRAKE DANDELION LIVER CURE

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a deranged liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with many other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood. 500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Books were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman, and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Recipe Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful recipes pronounced by medical men and druggists as invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25 cts. per box.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS

T. MORRISON & CO., Sole Agents, Brantford.

RIE

May not swi

but, we are det mined to add names to our s scription list, have therefore cided to give

Standard to cash paying scribers the ance of the for 25 CENT

Hand in th

mount at onc mail it in sta with name address. If are now a scriber, send copy to a fri

We will for it free of pos to any addre

America.

NAUGHTY KNOTT.

A Real Estate Agent Suddenly Leaves the City.

HIS CREDITORS ANXIOUS TO KNOW WHERE HE HAS GONE TO.

The friends, acquaintances, and creditors of E. E. Knott, real estate agent, 48 Adelade street east, are extremely desirous of knowing where he is, particularly the creditors. Mr Knott has carried on business at the above address for some time, and was widely known through the city. He was especially known to real estate men, and was considered perfectly sound, being one of the directors of the Central Bank. But last Saturday he left the city rather hurriedly, and to day his office was besieged by people, most of then creditors all anxious to know where Mr. Knott is. When leaving, he said that he was going to the United States, but would return here to settle his affairs. Last Friday he sold his house, 23½ Winchester street, and nearly all his furniture, getting cash for them. Mrs. Knott accompanied him, and yesterday she telegraphed from Rochester to a friend in the city. Before leaving Knott borrowed a large sum of money from a well-known saloon keeper. It is understood that James Reynolys, a relative, is out to the extent of $5,000, and that other relatives lose smaller amounts. Herbert Tilley, a former partner, is looking for $500 due him. Mr. Wordley, the butcher at the corner of Church and Carleton streets, Kingsbury, the Church street grocer, and other tradesmen have also large accounts against Mr. Knott, which they would like to have settled. A gentleman to-day received a letter from him dated New York.—Toronto News.

(The above Knott was once reeve of Euphrasia.—ED. S.)

Glenelg Council.

Council met in the Town Hall, Glenelg, June 15th, 1885, pursuant to adjournment. All the members present; the Reeve in the chair.

Moved by Mr. Dunsmore, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that the petition of the Police Trustees and others of the village of Markdale in regard to drainage by-law be left over till next meeting.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. Neil, that Henry Burnet be paid $30 for keep of Mrs. Anderson, an indigent, up to the 16th of June, as per agreement.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Neil, that John Fallice be paid $2.16 for wood for use of Hall.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Dunsmore, that the Clerk be instructed to notify Moses Leslie, pathmaster in road division 70, to have all timbers and obstructions removed off road opposite Barrhead Mills.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. Dunsmore, that Rowsell & Hutchinson's account of $2.86 be paid.—Carried, Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that Geo. Moore be paid $50 on account of contract on Saugeen bridge, D. R., as per agreement.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. McCuaig, that J. H. Hull be paid $3 for rent of Hall for Division Court purposes.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. McCuaig, that James Miller's account of $3, for legal advice, be paid.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. McCuaig, that the Reeve and Mr. Neil be a committee to have the road at Barrhead Mills repaired.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. McCuaig, that the Clerk be paid quarter's salary, $37.50, and postage, $2.43.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. McCuaig, that the Clerk be paid $10 for drawing plans of village of Markdale and Priceville for the use of the township.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. Dunsmore, that the Reeve and Mr. McCuaig be paid for two days committee work, each $4.—Carried.

Council adjourned to meet on July 27th, at 10 a. m.

J. S. BLACK,
Clerk.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, Baggage Express and Carriage hire and at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms up at a cost of one million dollars, re at $1.00 and upwards per day. n plan, Elevator, Resturant supplied best. Horse cars, stages and elevat to all depots. Families can live ss money at the Grand Union t any other first class hotel in Glenelg Council.

Council met pursuant to adjournment in the Town Hall, Glenelg, July 27th, 1885. All the members present, the Reeve in the chair. Cheques were issued as follows:—

Alex. Murchison, repairing bridge at lot 43, con. 2, N. D. R., $10; Hugh McDonald, repairing bridge at lot 47, con. 2, N. D. R., $55; John Morrison work on hill at lot 40, con. 3, N.D. R, $6; Alex. Beaton, culvert at lot 16, D. R., $8; Wm. Scarf, covering bridge at lot 21, G. R., $8. Malcolm McMillan, repairing bridge at lot 25, con. 5, $93, also for repairing road at lot 33, con. 3, N. D, R., $24; A. Priel, building bridge and filling at lot 5, town line Glenelg and Holland, $21; Geo. Henderson, covering crossway at same place, $9; Malcolm Campbell, removing jamb at lot 15, con. 5, $10; Donald McDonald, work at Barrhead Mills, $29.80; Thomas Morrow, repairing bridge at lot 101, W. T. & S. R., $6; Angus McVicar, timber for bridge at lot 13, con. 5, $8.50; C. W. Rutledge, printing voters' lists, advertising and municipal blanks, $35; A. H. N. Jenkins, advertising Court of Revision, $1.50; Glenelg Agricultural Society, grant for 1885, $25; George Henderson, interest on award for road crossing, lot 4, con. 12, $2.45; J. S. Black, to be expended for benefit of Mrs. McIsaac as charity, $5; Commissioner for ward No. 3 was authorized to expend $20 on town line north of Irish Lake, providing Artemesia grant an equivalent; council granted $20 to meet Egremont's grant on town line opposite lots 17 and 28.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. McCuaig, that Henry Williams be paid $5 for keeping of Mrs. Anderson, an indigent, and that no further sum be granted for her keep while not a resident of this township.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Dunsmore, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that the petition of the Police Trustees and others in regard to drainage in the village of Markdale, be not now entertained.—Carried.

The committee appointed at September meeting, 1884, to build a bridge on Saugeen, Durham Road, handed in their report; council went into committee of the whole on same; Deputy-Reeve in chair; committee rose. Council resumed.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. Dunsmore, that the report No. 1 of the committee appointed to erect a bridge across Saugeen on Durham Road be adopted.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. McCuaig, that commissioner for ward No. 4 be paid $4 for letting and inspecting work on town line Glenelg and Holland; Patrick Neil, $6, committee work; Arch. McCuaig, 3 days on committee, $6, and the Reeve five days on committee, $10.—Carried.

Council adjourned till Aug. 24th at 10 a. m.

J. S. BLACK,
Clerk.

Kitchen Wrinkles.

SOME NEW AND SOME OLD, AND ALL WORTH REMEMBERING.

Be economical.

Clean caster bottles with shot.

Wash the hair in cold sage tea.

To brighten and clean old alpaca wash in coffee.

To remove ink stains soak in sour milk over night.

To brighten carpets sprinkle with salt before sweeping.

Mix stove polish with vinegar and a teaspoonful of sugar.

To polish a stove rub with a newspaper instead of a brush.

When cooking beans add one half teaspoonful of saleratus.

To remove tea stains from cups and saucers scour with ashes.

For burns apply flour wet with cold water, as it quickly gives relief.

When sponge-cake becomes dry it is nice to cut in thin slices and toast.

If the oven is to hot when baking place a small dish of cold water in it.

To remove mildew, soak in buttermilk and spread on grass in the sun.

If nutmegs are good, when picked with a pin oil will instantly ooze out.

To clean furniture thatis not varnished rub with a cloth wet with kerosene.

To prevent mustard-plasters from blistering, mix with the white of an egg.

To prevent flat-irons from scorching, wipe them on a cloth wet with kerosene.

To brighten and clean silver or nickel-plated ware, rub with a woollen cloth and flour.

Water in which borax is dissolved is good for the hair, and also to whiten the face and hands.

When there is a crack in the stove it can be mended by mixing ashes and salt with water.

To make paper stick to a wall that has been whitewashed, wash in vinegar and saleratus water.

When clothes are scorched, remove the stain by placing the garment where the sun can shine on it.

Starched shirts will iron easier if you let them dry after starching so you will have to sprinkle them before ironing.

The wings of turkeys, geese and chickens are good to wash and clean windows, as they leave no dust nor lint, as cloth.

To brighten the inside of a coffee or tea-pot, fill with water, add a small piece of soap and let it boil about forty-five minutes.

To remove grease from wall paper lay several folds of blotting paper on the spot and hold a hot iron near it until the grease is absorbed.

To exterminate bedbugs dissolve alum in water and apply to the bedstead with a feather. Be careful not to touch the paint or varnish.

A WISE PRECAUTION.

During the Summer and Fall people are liable to sudden attacks of bowel complaints, and with no prompt remedy or medical aid at hand, life may be in danger. Those whose experience has given them wisdom, always keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry at hand for prompt relief, and a Physician is seldom required.

Monthly Fairs.

Markdale—Saturday before Flesherton.

Chatsworth—Monday before Durham.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

A Warning

To

Fathers & Mothers

To

Brothers & Sisters,

To LOVERS OF FREEDOM AND LIBERTY.

You will be called upon again by persons who imagine they are doing a great good, but as has been proved in many counties, only to be a failure and expense. They will ask you to sign a Petition for the submission of the Scott Act. They ask you to sign away two of your most sacred privileges: these are your freedom and liberty of opinion. I give a few reasons for condemning the Scott Act, and could give many more.

It has proved itself to be a failure, expense, and a curse wherever tried.

It causes perjury and lawlessness which never happens under a license law.

It is a law unworthy of a civilized country.

It causes more drunkenness than a license law.

It does away with a very large revenue.

It is the hot-bed of low groggeries.

It causes free trade in the worst kind of liquor.

It causes many to become drunkards who never knew the taste of liquor under a license law.

It causes extra taxation to all.

It causes a serious depression in all trades.

It greatly depreciates the value of real estate.

It causes a serious reduction in the price of some of our most valuable farm products, and the worthlessness of raising such crops.

It makes enemies of friends.

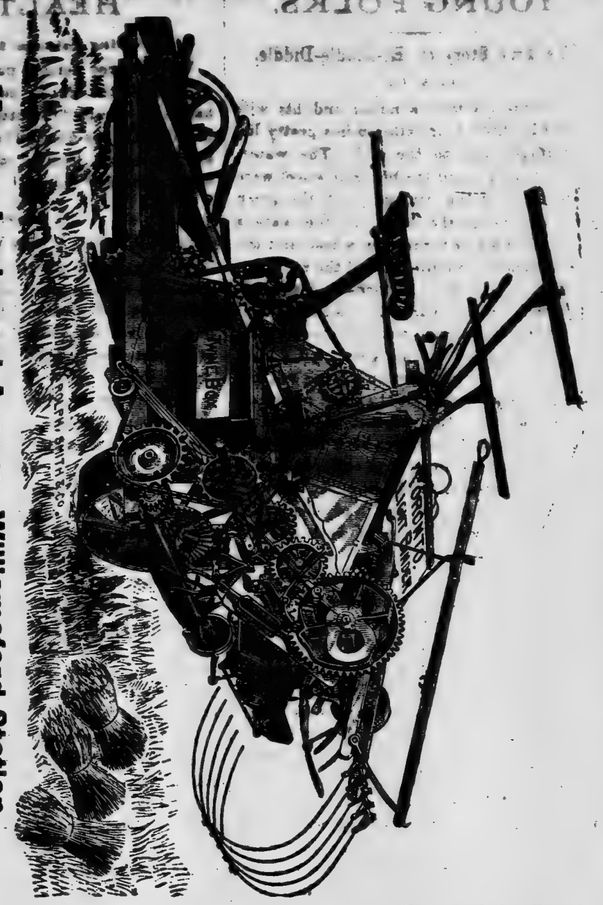
It runs many, both in and out of the liquor traffic, and when carried produces no good results to counterbalance the above serious charges.

The supporters of the Scott Act will tell you of the many faults of the liquor traffic, of deeds that have been done by men and women under the influence. No person will deny but that there are acts done by such persons which would be better if left undone.

The supporters of the Scott Act will not tell you that there are as many and more serious acts done by men and women who, to perform such deeds, must be perfectly sober.

I ask you to seriously think over the above facts and you cannot but be convinced that each and every one is as represented. All you can expect or desire is that people will be temperate and not abuse that liberty and freedom which is allowed them by a good license law.

Electors, should our Country ever be unfortunate enough to have the Scott Act voted upon, I ask one and all to give these facts your serious thought and come to the Poll, and I am sure your vote will be against the act.



You have had the Dunkin act in force in your County. I ask you how did it work? Your answer cannot be any other than that it was a curse and a failure.

I do not ask you to take my word for the above facts, but before you sign any paper for the submission of the Scott Act, find out from places where it has been carried, and you will be convinced that each and every statement is true.

I might suggest to the promoters of the Scott Act that they would do more to promote temperance by kindness and persuasion to those who are in the habit of abusing the use of liquor.

I remain,

A LOVER OF FREEDOM AND LIBERTY.

Massey Implement Agency, Williamsford Station.

Toronto Binder, six-foot cut; Toronto Light Binder, five-foot cut; Massey Low-down Binder, five-foot cut; Massey Harvester; Massey Mower; Toronto Mower; Toronto Mower, 1 horse; Sharpe's Rake. A full stock of repairs for above machines always in stock. Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Also agent for Watson's Patent Churn.

Thos. Willscroft, - Williamsford Station.

Voters' List for 1885.

Municipality of the Township of Holland, County of Grey.

NOTICE is hereby given, that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in the third and fourth sections of "The Voters' List Act," the copies required by said sections to be transmitted or delivered of the list made, pursuant to said act, of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality at Elections for members of the Legislative Assembly, and at Municipal Elections; and said list was posted up at my office Holland Centre, Township of Holland, on the 11th day of August, 1885, and remains there for inspection

Electors are called upon to examine the said list, and, if any omissions or any other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

CARSON PRICE,
Clerk of the said Municipality.

Dated the 11th day of August, A. D. 1885.

57-59

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared, well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING,
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT North half of 2, con. 7, Euphrasia, containing 100 acres more or less, about 80 acres cleared, balance hard wood; frame barn and hewed log house; Well watered with running spring water; fairly fenced; soil, clay loam; well adapted for stock or grain. Situated 5 miles from Markdale; an important station on the C. P. R. For further particulars apply to

D. C. CRAWFORD,
Alton P. O., Ont.

258-60

Speddings Speedy Saw

THE GREAT ONE MANS SAW. IT HAS no equal, average weight 35lbs., a boy ten years of age can run it. One man sawed 3 cords of hard wood in three hours and forty minutes. Agents write for particulars and secure territory at once. Address

SPEEDY SAW WORKS,
Byng. P.O., Ont.

June 30th, '85. 152-65

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL

CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual remedy for Worms in Children or Adults

LOOK! Look! Look!

James C. Russell's

NOTED JEWELLERY STORE,

FLESHERTON,

Is the place to buy

Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.

A large assortment just to hand.

A 1 Solid Silver Watches, Full Jewelled, from $8.50 up to $26, worth from $10.50 to $32.00, warranted from two to five years.

It will pay you to come twenty miles to have your Watch or Clock repaired by Russell.

☞ Satisfaction guaranteed every time.

217-269 JAS. C. RUSSELL.

EUGENIA HOTEL.

EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.

J. McAleer, - - Prop.

The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

Lumber and Shingles.

THE undersigned has constantly on hand all kinds of lumber and first-class cedar shingles for sale. Mill 3½ miles North of Markdale, 11th line Euphrasia.

250-63 FORD & STINSON.

WM. G. GUTHERIE,

Plain & Ornamental Plaster

Opposite the new

Presbyterian Church Markdale.

Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

MARKDALE Woolen Mills.

We, the undersigned, would respectfully intimate to our customers and friends that we are still here and prepared to attend to all who may favor us with a call in anything we can do in our line with the best possible satisfaction. Also we will get yarn for those who allow us to do their weaving. ☞ All kinds of merchantable farm produce taken in exchange for work at market prices.

248 4in. F. J. RITCHIE.

YOUNG FOLKS.

The True Story of Hi-Diddle-Diddle.

BY A. DAD.

Once upon a time a miller and his wife lived with their four children in a pretty little cottage, close to the mill. The water and the bridge, and the big mill-wheel were all in front of the cottage; and the green lawn sloped gently down to the water's edge. The water turned the wheel, and the wheel turned the mill—not all the mill, you know—but only the millstone—and the miller turned out the flour. The miller's sons Jack and Ned, turned out the cow, and the little girls turned out the geese and ducks. At seven o'clock in the morning, the miller's wife turned everybody out of bed; so that, if they had been turners instead of millers every one would have known his trade. Sometimes, in the morning, the children didn't want to get up, and again, at night, they often wouldn't go to bed, and Ned, who was a smart boy, asked his brother what was the use of getting up when they had to go to bed again. His brother couldn't answer this but asked Ned that night, what was the use of going to bed when they had to get up again. They never quite understood how that was, but it didn't trouble them much anyway, and they were a happy family and quite as contented as if they were as rich as their Uncle Tom, who had lots of money and no children. The little girls were the youngest, and, if ever they did anything wrong—and it was very seldom they did—the old miller took their part, and said they were only babies. But the boys did things that were not quite right—and this was pretty often—then the mother took their part saying, that boys would be boys. So they all got along very well, and were never more happy than in the summer time when they could play out of doors with Carlo, and amuse themselves all day long. In the summer, too, in the holidays, Uncle Tom came every year to see them, and when he appeared on the bridge four pair of legs trotted off to meet him, and as many pair of arms offered to carry his travelling bag. This bag was known to hold things to eat, and things to play with, and some that you could play with first and eat afterwards, and others, that if you eat first or last you would be sick afterwards. But that made no difference; and Uncle Tom was a man to be known and liked by children right away. He never failed to come on the right day, and was never known to forget any one, or not to bring the very thing that was wanted.

Well, one hot afternoon—the very day Tom was expected—the miller's wife said she would go to the village, and get some things for tea, and if the little girls were good they could have such a nice plate of strawberries out on the lawn under the big, big tree; and that Jack and Ned could have another, after they brought home the cow. So the little girls clapped their hands twice, and said they would be good, good; and mamma went off to the village, after telling old Jane about the strawberries for her good children. Jack and Ned knew nothing of all this, but they knew that Uncle Tom was coming, and that was enough for them. They had been around all day with Carlo, and not a cat or a rat or a dog dare put out its nose.

"I wonder," says Ned, "what will uncle bring me."

"I don't know," says Jack, "you are only a little boy, but he'll bring me something good I'm sure."

"I want a train of cars," says the little fellow, "or a steamboat, and I must have sugar candy."

"What would you do with a steamboat?" says Jack; "get him to give you a whistle, or a horn."

"I won't have no whistle," says Ned, in a shaky voice. I will have the best thing he brings, as I'm the littlest."

"You are a great baby," says Jack; "you should go over there with the girls under the tree."

But Ned wouldn't go and play with little girls, so both the boys started off toward the mill, and their father told them it was time to drive home the cow. Away both went with the dog barking ahead of them, and running and jumping in the look out for cats or anything that could be chased or worried.

A little after sun-down old Jane came out of the cottage and crossed over the lawn to the big tree where there was a little table. She had plates and spoons and a dish with something in it, and then the little girls walked over, not pretending to see Jane, and looking very serious.

"I'm glad you've come to spend the evening," said Milly, in a strange voice, to her sister, "as I sent mamma out to the village and was quite lonesome. Won't you sit down and take off your things?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

As malarial air may endanger a good constitution, so bad companions endanger a good character.

Despise not any man, and do not spurn anything; for there is no man that hath not his hour, nor is there anything that hath not its place.

Never confide your secrets to paper; it is like throwing a stone in the air, and if you know who throws the stone, you do not know where it may fall.

HEALTH.

Putting Coins in the Mouth.

We often see persons put a piece of money between the lips to hold it while their hands are occupied in putting on their gloves or adjusting the dress. It is not only untidy, but it is unsafe, because coins may thus convey the seeds of disease.

Leprosy.

Drs. G. H. Fox, of New York, and Graham of Toronto (Medical Record), after a visit to Tracadie, in New Brunswick, where there are, at present, twenty-four inmates confined in the lazaretto, which is under the charge of the Sisters of Charity, submit the following propositions:

1. Leprosy is a constitutional disease, and in certain cases appears to be hereditary.
2. It is undoubtedly contagious by inoculation.
3. There is no reason for believing that it is transmitted in any other way.
4. Under certain conditions a person may have leprosy and run no risk of transmitting the disease.
5. It is not so liable to be transmitted to others as syphilis in its early stage. There is no relation between the two diseases.
6. Leprosy is usually a fatal disease, its average duration being from ten to fifteen years.
7. In rare instances there is a tendency to recover after the disease has existed many years.
8. There is no valid reason for pronouncing the disease incurable.
9. Judicious treatment improves the condition of the patient, and often causes a disappearance of the symptoms.
10. There is ground for the hope that an improved method of treatment will in time effect the cure of leprosy, or at least it will arrest and control the disease.

The Thyroid Gland.

This is situated on both sides of the trachea (windpipe), near its top, the two parts being joined by a so-called isthmus just below "Adam's apple." It is relatively much larger in infants than in adults. It averages about one and a half inches in length, and is about half as thick as long. It is larger in females than males. It is sometimes wanting; and in aged it sometimes wholly degenerates.

While secreting glands have ducts, through which they empty their secretions, either out of the body or into some cavity within, the thyroid and some others—the spleen, for instance—are ductless. They simply withdraw some elements from the blood, effect a chemical change on them, and then give them back, through the absorbents, into the circulation.

Among the affections to which these glands are liable is goitre, in which they become enlarged. The enlargement may be slight, or it may be so great as to reach upward to the ears, and extend downward to the breast. One case is recorded in which it reached below the thighs! In some parts of the world the affections are quite rare; in others quite common, though in the latter it is largely confined to certain districts.

In England its prevalence in Derbyshire has given it the name of the "Derbyshire neck." It markedly connects itself with some mountains, and yet it occurs in some level tracts. It is generally thought to be due to something in the drinking water—some say magnesian limestone, but it is more probably due to some metallic substance.

In many cases the goitre may be merely a deformity. In others it may obstruct the breathing by pressing against the windpipe; or may cause headache, dizziness, fulness of the head, singing in the ears, by hindering the circulation in the vessels of the neck; or it may interfere with swallowing, by pressing on the œsophagus (gullet).

It is quite frequently associated with cretinism—that peculiar idiocy in which the brain ceases to grow, and the whole body becomes stunted and hideously deformed, but the latter is often found without the former. Doubtless each is due to a common cause.

The most effective treatment consists in the removal of the patient to another locality.

SAINTS AND SINNERS.

Losing chants—A breaking-down choir.

A good chants for flirtation—In the choir.

The church choirs are enjoying their annual vacation, and people now attend church from purely religious motives.

A fashionable church has a lady cornetist. She finds it a very uncomfortable task, as she is unable to flirt with the male portion of the choir while she is engaged in playing.

A philosopher wants to know why it is that the man who whangs an old copper cent into the contribution-box generally leans back with a twenty-dollar look of benevolence.

Never size up a man by the amount he puts in the contribution box. Some fellows never put in a cent unless they think the eyes of the whole congregation are upon them.

Account not him a saint
Who goes to church and prays,
Then lays aside his Sunday paint,
And lets a weaker brother faint
Through intervening days.

Remarkable Predictions.

For one prediction that comes true many hundreds fail, of which we never hear. Many a fond mother predicts a professorship, or judgeship, or bishopric for a favorite son, who, nevertheless, slinks through the world among the crowd of unknown people. For all that, sundry remarkable predictions have at various times been uttered which have come true, and yet nothing miraculous has been attributed to them.

Sylla said of Cæsar, when he pardoned him at the earnest entreaty of his friend, "You wish his pardon—I consent; but know that this young man whose life you so eagerly plead for will prove the most deadly enemy of the party which you and I have defended. There is in Cæsar more than a Marius." The prediction was realized.

Erasmus wrote a composition at twelve years old which was read by a learned friend of Hegius, and he was so struck by its merit that he called the youth to him and said, scanning him keenly, "My boy, you will one day be a great man."

Cardinal Morton, Archbishop of Canterbury, early predicted the greatness of Sir Thomas More. Pointing to the boy one day, he said to those about him, "That youth will one day be the ornament of England."

Cardinal Wolsey, though a butcher's son, had an early presentiment of his future great eminence. He used to say that if he could but once set foot at Court he would soon introduce himself there. And scarcely had he obtained admission at Court, the possessor of a humble benefice, than he did not hesitate to say that henceforth there was no favor to which he dared not aspire.

Marshal Turenne in his early youth prophetically foretold the distinction in arms to which he would raise. But, doubtless, there are few youths who enter the army, full of ardor and courage, who do not predict for themselves the career of a hero and a conqueror.

Fighting Death.

The Greenville Banner tells the following pathetic story of a man fighting death, that he might live long enough to say good-bye to his wife, his best-beloved, but the effort was a vain one:

Conductor Frazer, of the International and Great Northern Railroad, tried to fight off death a few hours in order that he might see his wife once more. He had been shot by a tramp, and had been taken to Tyler, Texas, in a dying condition.

"Help me fight back this cruel death, boys, until my wife gets here," said the dying man, cheerily.

The doctors had already told him he could live but a few hours. With a calm courage he heard the verdict, and called all of his wonderful force to his aid in the struggle to live until his wife arrived.

"Tell me exciting stories," he said to the boys around his bed, "for I must make this run till she comes."

And the boys did laugh and tell big stories, poor fellows, when their stout hearts were filled with sad regret. The hours sped rapidly by; the merry voice of the conductor grew fainter and fainter, but his courage never faltered.

A telegram from his wife, in answer to one sent to her some hours before, was brought into the room and read. She was coming on a special train, the road was cleared for her passage, and with lightning speed her train was annihilating distance. What a race! A young woman in the full flush of love and a new life pitted against the king of terrors. The news nerved Frazer for a moment, and his efforts to keep up were renewed. A little later another telegram.

"Old boy," whispered a brakeman, "she will be here in an hour."

"Turn me over, boys," he said.

It was done. He whispered to an attendant,—"Charley, I cannot run on this schedule—good-by!"

He was dead.

A Telling Temperance Lecture.

Two colored barbers, one an old man and the other a young one. The young one took off his apron and started out of the door.

"Yo's gwan to get a drink, Jim?" asked the elder.

"Dat's what I's gwan to do."

"Go and git yo' drink. I yoost ter do de same ting when I wuz young. When I wuz fust married dah was a gin-mill next to de shop wha' I wucked, and I spent in it 50 and 70 cents a day outen de dollah a' half I eahned. Wall, one mawnin' I went into de butchah shop, and who shood cum in but de man wat kep' de likker shop.

"'Gib me ten or twelve pounds po'terhouse steak,' he said.

"He got it and went out. I sneaked up to de butchah and looked to see what money I had lef.'

"'What do you want?' said de butchah.

"'Gib me 10 cents wuf of libber,' wuz my remark.

"It wuz all I could pay fur. Now you go and git yo' drink. You'll eat libber, but de man wat sells yo' de stuff will hab his po'terhouse steak. De man behin' de bar eats po'ter house—de man in front eats libber. I ain't touched de stuff fo' thirty yeahs, and I am eatin' po'terhou' myself."

SCIENTIFIC AND USEFUL.

Orchids have been found in British Guiana 5,000 feet above the level of the sea, flourishing as in a garden.

A man in harness has lifted 3,500 pounds by allowing every muscle to act simultaneously, under the most favorable circumstances.

A late device for checking the collections of street car conductors is a photograph apparatus that at intervals photographs the interior of the car and its passengers.

In telephone lines phosphor bronze has about 30 per cent. of the conducting power of copper, silicon bronze about 70 per cent., while steel in wires has only 10.5 per cent.

A vessel made of paper and driven by steam has been constructed at St. Petersburg. She is twenty-five feet in length and five in width, and her draught is but a few inches.

Two Troy men have invented a machine which, it is claimed, will practically revolutionize match-making. It has been operated to make twenty-four thousand perfect matches in a minute, and its capacity is expected to reach fifteen millions in ten hours.

The Medical Journal states that a few handfuls of common salt thrown daily into closets, and an occasional handful into wash-basins, goes far toward counteracting the noxious effects of the omnipresent sewer gas.

A chesnut tree at the foot of Mount Etna is thought to be the oldest tree in Europe. It is ninety-two feet in height and two hundred and twelve feet in circumference. The trunk is hollow and two carriages driving abreast can pass through it.

M. Perey, a Dijon astronomer, offers a novel explanation of the frequency of the earthquakes which have produced so much disturbance on the surface of our planet of late. His theory is that they are caused, like the tides, by the attraction of the sun and moon.

The Microscope describes a pretty experiment. Upon a slip of glass put a drop of liquid auric chloride, or argentic nitrate, with half a grain of metallic zinc in the auric chloride, and copper in the silver. A growth of exquisite gold and silver ferns will form beneath the eye.

A full-grown man's heart, according to Professor Huxley, should beat seventy-five times, and his lungs inhale fifteen times a minute. His skin should throw off eighteen ounces of water, three hundred grains of solid matter, and four hundred grains of carbonic acid every twenty-four hours, and his weight should be one hundred and fifty-four pounds.

The Zulfikar Pass.

Zulfikar, or Zulfigar, is on the right bank of the Heri Rud and close to the river. From Sarakhs southward on the left or western bank, is Persian territory, a distance of about 70 miles, thus giving Russia a wider clasp in her embrace of Khorassan, a province expected to be absorbed, or at least utilized, when the advance on Herat and India takes place. The Pass of Zulfikar is a long, narrow defile, which at the northern end divides into two roads, one turning to the Garmab Pass on the west and the one on the right tends toward Kungrus'li and the salt lakes which have been much talked of in relation to the frontier. The road comes out at the south and very little above the level of Heri Rud, and the ground, although with some elevations upon it, is somewhat level. About ten or twelve miles to the south are the Chahar Dowli, four prominent peaks; these are on the banks of the Heri Rud, where the Stoi range comes down from Persian side, and among them is the Tengri Daria or gorge of the river, at which place the roads on both sides leave the stream. On the east of the Chahar Dowli, the elevations are not so high, and the usual road runs south to the Nialsheni Pass, and the great plain leading to Herat is reached. From Zulfigar the branch of the Paropamisian range trends to the south-east. It ought to be remembered that the ground between Pul-i-Khatum and the south entrance of the Zulfikar Pass contains within its space the most important strategical position between Sarakhs and Herat. This fact will explain the desire of the Russians for its possession.

Watching for a Shot.

There is, probably, no country on the face of the globe that affords a richer field for the hunter and sportsman than Africa, "the game" including all kinds of wild beasts, from the elephant down to the rabbit. The following extract from the journal of a recent explorer may give some idea of what a keen sportsman may expect to see in the Soudan:

There being a moon, two of our party watched some hours by the water, perched more or less uncomfortably on the branches of trees, in hopes of getting a shot at some animals coming to drink. Occasionally, after watching in vain for a long time, a noise, as of some large animal approaching, is heard. To reach the water, it must pass within a few feet of where you are sitting. From the noise it makes in the bushes, it must be large game.

At last the unknown animal stands out in the moonlight; and it is only a hyena, after all! Such was their fate that night, but soon afterwards they heard a tremendous crashing through the jungle, which set every nerve tingling. They felt sure the noise could be caused by nothing less than a herd of buffaloes, and that was indeed the case. The animals, however, got their wind, and went off at a gallop, with their thirst unquenched.

For some time longer they waited, in hopes either that they would return, or some other herd make its appearance, or, perchance, that a single bull-buffalo might visit the pond; for often the largest and fiercest bulls separate themselves from the herd, and wander about alone. None, however, arrived. Elephants, rhinoceri, giraffes, panthers, crocodiles, baboons, and scores of other beasts were prowling around, but, unfortunately, were not thirsty that night, or else went elsewhere to satisfy their needs.

They heard a lion roar, and thought they were going to have a visit from the king of beasts; but the roar gradually became fainter and fainter, as he evidently made off in an opposite direction.

At last a gentle rustling was heard in the grass, and a dik-dik, the smallest of the antelope tribe, and not much bigger than a hare, made its appearance, looking timidly about it for a hidden enemy, before daring to drink, and at the same time uttering the peculiar cry from which it has obtained its name. They did not disturb it, but let it quench its thirst in peace; and then, having had sufficient excitement for one night, and the moon having gone down—it being then three o'clock in the morning—they returned to their tents.

A Family Turtle.

"I owned a turtle," said the judge, "when I was living at Cedar Keys, that would rather lay over yours, colonel. It was a big loggerhead, and weighed about four hundred pounds. It was very fond of the children, and used to romp and play with them all the time. School was about a mile away from my house, and just about 7 o'clock every morning, when there was school, Pomp, the old turtle, would come a-wobblin' up to the door, and the children would get on his back and off they'd go to school a frolickin' and laughing. You know how sudden these Florida showers come on! Well, you might think the children'd get wet. No, no; old Pomp knew a trick worth two of that. He'd just stop in the road, let the children get off, and then he'd raise up his top shell and they'd all crawl under, and the rain couldn't tech 'em. They used to call it his roof and said it was mighty comfortable and warm lying in there among the grisle and things. I traded him off for a lot of law books when I left there, for I couldn't bring him along. And fish! Why you don't now any hing about it. All I had to do was to hand him a basket, and off he'd go. I had a basket made purpose for him. It had a hole in the top just big enough to put a good-sized fish through. He would swim out till he struck a school of fish; then he'd sink down and fill his basket just as fast as he could. He knew how to pick 'em out, too, and got the best every time. It was the same way with oysters. I 'low he was the best oyster-getter in Levy county. One day I told him to go after oysters and he didn't want to go. I insisted on it, and so he crawled off. When he came back, I tried the oysters and found they were milky and unfit to eat, so I threw them away. Old Pomp looked at me as if to say, 'Now I hope you are satisfied that I know more than you do about oysters,' and then went off and sulked all the afternoon."

The Pain of Being Hung.

Dr. Taylor states that "death from hanging appears to take place very rapidly, and without causing any suffering to the person." Prof. Tidy, also, speaks of the painless nature of death by hanging; while Prof. Haughton, in his paper read before the Surgical society of Dublin, says that "the old system of taking a convict's life by suffocation is inhumanely painful, unnecessarily prolonged and revolting to those whose duty it is to be present." Those who speak of the painless nature of death by strangulation arrive at this conclusion from the fact that many cases of suicide are not completely suspended, and that if they wished they could easily relieve the constriction by assuming the erect posture, and in other cases of recovery from attempted suicide by hanging there is no recollection of any suffering. It should be remembered, however, that there is a great difference between the mental attitude of the suicide and one who is about to suffer the extreme penalty of the law. In the former case he is regardless, and perhaps also not very sensitive, of a little suffering, while in the latter every nerve is braced up to resist the inevitable result. Moreover, in these cases of recovery the loss of recollection of suffering does not prove that there was none. It might almost as well be said that, because in many cases of recovery from meningitis there was no remembrance of any suffering, therefore there was none. No doubt the pain in hanging can under no circumstances be very acute, yet when we see a culprit heaving his chest and almost raising the whole body in his struggles for breath, we must conclude that there is at least a considerable amount of mental torture.

A House Without Chil

"To let, part of a house, where there dren, to a neat family without children Street."—Advertisement.

A house without children, did you ev
Is a desolate mansion overshadowe
The lone, silent chambers re-echo your fo
And shadowy spectres flit oft through

There dyspepsia is rampant, the blue you,
And troubles crowd thickly of like k
There the chaise of the doctor is oft
And crape on the knocker tells of so

A house without children! pray don't Keep the street and the number a secre
Let the clock tick in silence the few fleeti
You have yet in your lonely apartme

I wonder if any one knows of a dwelling
Where the neighbors would like to he glee?
I could bring them, I'm sure, in our Mabel Delightful companions, if they'll notif

For the sun breaks upon them the first in
And the birds they love dearly to come
And pick up the crumbs which their little ter.
When, bounding with life, they run o

Does anyone know of any such dwelling?
It needs must be small, for our means ar
Where the landlord, God bless him! for t
the children,
Will throw in the rent at a nominal char

STORM AND SUNSH

CHAPTER V.—(CONTINUED

I go down to breakfast the next in one of my prettiest Paris confec
tress of creamy washing silk trimme lace and flots of turquoise-blue rib survey myself in the long mirrors a downstairs—such a dainty little figu present to me, with a face like a flow great innocent blue eyes and gold-hair curling like a child's hair ov pretty head

I hope I shall find Erroll in the bre room, as I found him once or twice when we had rambled out into the gardens yet sparkling with dawn-de Erroll had gathered a bouquet for me o ers to match my dress. But in this am disappointed. The urn hisses breakfast-table, the cat purrs on the the French window stands wide ope there is no one in the room—the m letters lie untouched by the plates o owners—I am evidently the "early though my early-rising has not met wi traditional reward.

The smile fades from my face as I in the window. It would have been s delicious morning for a stroll through green alleys, if only Erroll had not be lazy. He may come yet; it is only past nine. But no—the clock ticks o to a quarter to ten—ten! Mrs. Ruthe comes in with her key-basket, kisses admires my early rising and my blue ribb and then proceeds to make breakfast.

Almost simultaneously Judith Irving app at the open window—Judith, in a long w gown, with a great bunch of pure w Provence roses in her hand and a beau damask color in her cheeks.

"You out?" I exclaimed regretfully.
I wish I had known! I have been here alone for the last half-hour."

"I thought it a pity to waste suc morning in bed," Miss Irving smiles, s ping in through the window.

"So did I. And I am so sorry I did know you were in the garden! We wo have had such a delicious ramble! I think once I heard voices——"

"I have been visting some of my haunts," Judith says, without waiting me to finish, "and talking to old Knox, gardener. He remembered my passion roses, and presented me with these."

She glances half-apologetically at Mrs. Bu rfurd as she lays the roses on the table; ad thought Mrs. Rutherfurd looked d leased when she first caught sight of the flo in Judith's hands; and yet, though it mig have been taking a liberty to gather ther could not think she would begrudge her v or a few roses. Now, however, she smil most benignly; and not only that, b gives Judith permission to help herself fre from garden and greenhouse, addin pleasantly that the flowers with which sh adorns herself are certainly not gathered i vain.

Erroll comes down to breakfast rathe late. It seems he too has been out, thoug he comes in by the door and not by the win low—I discover the fact by noticing th little sprig of fresh rosemary in his coat.

"Oh, yes; I was in the stables," he an swers carelessly, glancing at the rosemary and I came in by the garden door! What morning it is for our expedition!"

"What expedition?" his mother asks.

"We thought of spending the morning on the river," Erroll tells her, with, however, certain amount of deference to any pro-she might have in view plainly express-in his tone. I think Erroll is just a little afraid of his mother.

"I had intended taking the girls over to Lightwood after an early luncheon."

"Oh, very well! We can go down the river to-morrow just as well."

"But I must go home to-morrow," Judith says.

"Oh, no; not to-morrow!" Mrs. Rutherford declares. "You must have your ex-

A House Without Children.

"To let, part of a house, where there are no children, to a neat family without children. Apply at— Street."—Advertisement.

A house without children, did you ever observe it?
Is a desolate mansion overshadowed by gloom;
Its lone, silent chambers re-echo your footsteps,
And shadowy spectres flit oft through your room.

There dyspepsia is rampant, the blues they assail you,
And troubles crowd thickly of like kith and kin;
There the chaise of the doctor is oft seen standing,
And crape on the knocker tells of sorrow within.

A house without children! pray don't advertise it;
Keep the street and the number a secret, my friend;
Let the clock tick in silence the few fleeting moments
You have yet in your lonely apartments to spend.

I wonder if any one knows of a dwelling
Where the neighbors would like to hear voices of glee?
I could bring them, I'm sure, in our Mabel and Annie,
Delightful companions, if they'll notify me.

For the sun breaks upon them the first in the morning,
And the birds they love dearly to come day by day
And pick up the crumbs which their little hands scatter.
When, bounding with life, they run out to play.

Does anyone know of any such dwelling?
It needs must be small, for our means are not large;
Were the landlord, God bless him! for the sake of the children,
Will throw in the rent at a nominal charge.

STORM AND SUNSHINE.

CHAPTER V.—(Continued)

I go down to breakfast the next morning in one of my prettiest Paris confections—a dress of creamy washing silk trimmed with lace and flots of turquoise-blue ribbon. I survey myself in the long mirrors as I trip downstairs—such a dainty little figure they present to me, with a face like a flower, and great innocent blue eyes and gold-colored hair curling like a child's hair over the pretty head.

I hope I shall find Erroll in the breakfast room, as I found him once or twice before, when we had rambled out into the sunny gardens yet sparkling with dawn-dew, and Erroll had gathered a bouquet for me of flowers to match my dress. But in this hope I am disappointed. The urn hisses on the breakfast-table, the cat purrs on the rug, the French window stands wide open, but there is no one in the room—the morning letters lie untouched by the plates of the owners—I am evidently the "early bird" though my early-rising has not met with the traditional reward.

The smile fades from my face as I stand in the window. It would have been such a delicious morning for a stroll through those green alleys, if only Erroll had not been so lazy. He may come yet; it is only half-past nine. But no—the clock ticks on; it is a quarter to ten—ten! Mrs. Rutherfurd comes in with her key-basket, kisses me, admires my early rising and my blue ribbons, and then proceeds to make breakfast. And almost simultaneously Judith Irving appears at the open window—Judith, in a long white gown, with a great bunch of pure white Provence roses in her hand and a beautiful damask color in her cheeks.

"You out?" I exclaimed regretfully. "How I wish I had known! I have been here all alone for the last half-hour."

"I thought it a pity to waste such a morning in bed," Miss Irving smiles, stepping in through the window.

"So did I. And I am so sorry I did not know you were in the garden! We would have had such a delicious ramble! I did think once I heard voices——"

"I have been visting some of my old aunts," Judith says, without waiting for me to finish, "and talking to old Knox, the gardener. He remembered my passion for roses, and presented me with these."

She glances half-apologetically at Mrs. Rutherfurd as she lays the roses on the table. I had thought Mrs. Rutherfurd looked displeased when she first caught sight of the flowers in Judith's hands; and yet, though it might have been taking a liberty to gather them, I could not think she would begrudge her visitor a few roses. Now, however, she smiles upon her benignly; and not only that, but gives Judith permission to help herself freely from garden and greenhouse, adding pleasantly that the flowers with which she adorns herself are certainly not gathered in vain.

Erroll comes down to breakfast rather late. It seems he too has been out, though he comes in by the door and not by the window—I discover the fact by noticing the little sprig of fresh rosemary in his coat.

"Oh, yes; I was in the stables," he answers carelessly, glancing at the rosemary as I came in by the garden door! What morning it is for our expedition!"

"What expedition?" his mother asks.

"We thought of spending the morning on the river," Erroll tells her, with, however, a certain amount of deference to any proposition she might have in view plainly expressed in his tone. I think Erroll is just a little afraid of his mother.

"I had intended taking the girls over to Easterwood after an early luncheon."

"Oh, very well! We can go down the river to-morrow just as well."

"But I must go home to-morrow," Judith says.

"Oh, no; not to-morrow!" Mrs. Rutherfurd declares. "You must have your expedition; and, besides, I never intended to let you go to-morrow."

We spend the morning in the library looking at the photographs, and I suppose Judith looks at them; but Erroll seems to me to, look at nothing but her.

"How you stare at Judith, Erroll!" I cannot help remarking once, a little jealously.

"I look at her just as I might look at a picture," he answers, with a smile.

And certainly she does look like a picture in her long white gown, with her dusky hair falling in a cloud over her forehead, her great tawny eyes, her pale cheeks, her curved red lips. Some people might not like her face—might say the eyes had a disagreeable expression, that the forehead was too low for the other features, that her face was too long, her complexion too pale. But I admire her, and I fancy Erroll admires her. As to Ralph, I do not know whether he ever looks at her or not. I am beginning to think Erroll was wrong when he thought Judith cares for his brother, or he for her.

We drive to Knightswood after luncheon—we three ladies—returning to dinner at seven o'clock. There is a small dance in the evening; but, though Judith looks superb in her simple black gown, with a great bouquet of white roses, Erroll does not seem even to see her, but devotes himself entirely to me.

CHAPTER VI.

We all sleep late on the following morning—at least I find them all at breakfast when I come down. But they tell me I look as fresh as a daisy, while I fancy Judith looks rather pale. It may be by contast with the knot of clove carnations which she wears to-day, instead of her favourite roses—a vivid spot of colour on the dead white of her gown.

"Charlie West said he would come over this morning," Erroll remarks carelessly as we rise from the table. "I suppose you have no objection to our taking him in the boat?"

As he glances from Judith's face to mine I feel constrained to answer, though Mr. West's coming or not coming will make most difference to her.

"I certainly have no objection. But perhaps Judith doesn't care about him?"

"I don't suppose she cares about him!" Erroll laughs, looking at her; "but four will be better company than three, and it is a stiff pull up the river with only one man in the boat."

So it is arranged, and, as Charlie West turns out to be a most amusing companion, we spend a delightful hour floating down the river in a big boat, all taking our ease in the sunshine, laughing and talking, pulling in long-stalked waterlilies with their bronze-sheathed buds, dipping our hands in the bright water, singing snatches of serenades or boat-songs—Judith especially delighting us by her exquisite rendering of my favourite "Clear and cool."

"I think you might sing something now," she laughs when her song is ended, turning to Erroll as he lounges lazily in the stern of the boat, with his hands clasped behind his head.

"Does Erroll sing?" I ask, surprised.

"Have you never heard him? Then he must sing something for you!" Judith says, looking at him. He smiles back at her, shaking his head.

"Can he sing, really?" I ask again. It seems odd that I should not have known it before.

"Certainly he does. He has rather a good tenor voice—if he would only practise a little more."

"Then I wish he would sing something."

"He will—if he does not think we are particularly anxious to hear him?"

Erroll, still looking at her, and without changing his position, begins to sing. His voice is sweet and deep, and every word thrills through my heart.

"I think of all thou art to me,
I dream of all thou canst not be;
My life is curst with thoughts of thee,
For ever and for ever.

"Perchance if we had never met
I had been spared this wild regret,
This endless striving to forget,
For ever and for ever.

"Perchance if thou wert far away—
Did I not see thee day by day—
I might again be blithe and gay,
For ever and for ever.

"Ah, no! I could not bear the pain
Of never seeing thee again;
I cling to thee, though all in vain,
For ever and for ever.

"Ah, leave me not: I love but thee,
Blessing or curse, which'er thou be!
Oh, be as thou hast been to me,
For ever and for ever."

I wish he had looked at me and not at Judith while he sang! But then Judith is sitting exactly opposite to him, and he may not have been conscious of looking at her at all. Only I wonder why singing makes him grow so pale. He surely cannot be nervous! Even if he had broken down he need not have cared, with only an audience of three. But he had not broken down, he had sung the ballad very well indeed, though he entirely refuses to comply with our "encore."

We land on the green island and saunter up to the ruins two and two, Mr. West leading the way with me, the others following.

"I suppose you often come here from Veltry?" my companion says.

"I have only been here once before."

"It is a jolly place for pic-nics."—"Yes."

"I was here at a pic-nic last summer, and I thought it awfully jolly."

"Yes."

"Do you like pic-nics?"—looking around at me.

"Sometimes."

"I think they are jolly things—especially if they wind up with a dance."

The voices of the pair behind us have ceased suddenly. Turning my head, I see that they have strolled away in a different direction, taking a path which leads more directly to the ruins than the one we have chosen.

"We had better follow them," I suggest hastily.

"Do you think so? We shall meet presently in any case!"

"But if we should lose them?"

"We shan't lose them unless they want to be lost!" the youngman laughs. "And it's stupid following each other like so many sheep. Don't you think so?"

I think it will be very stupid for me if I am left very long to the sole enjoying of this chattering boy's society! I did not think Judith would have treated me so badly; and I doubt if Erroll will like such an arrangement, remembering the happy hour we spent by the river the last time we were here together. No time he could spend with Judith could be so sweet to him as that time had been—

"When the sweetness of a hundred Junes Seemed gathered up in the summer weather."

But, though I look round eagerly when we reach the ruins, I cannot see a trace of them; only the cry of the cuckoo, and the soft cooing of the wood-pigeons, and the murmur of the river among the moss and sedge.

"They must have gone down to the wood," Charlie West says dubiously. "There are half a dozen paths down there, at the other side of the island."

"Shall we walk on in the same direction?"

"Just as you like."

I suppose he can see that I am anxious to join the others, and feels piqued. At all events he ceases to make any effort to amuse me, and, as we walk entirely round the island without catching a glimpse of the truants, I spend rather a dull time of it.

Just as we reach the little bay where we left the boat they appear at last, sauntering leisurely toward us, Judith with her hands full of honeysuckles and pink dog-roses.

"We have been looking for you everywhere!" West tells them sulkily.

"Looking for us?" Judith repeats, opening her great bright eyes. "We have been sitting on the old bridge, not a hundred yards aways, ever since, wondering what had become of you."

"You don't look happy, Charlie," laughs Erroll, who does look very happy.

"Miss Warburton seemed to think we ought not to have lost sight of you."

"It would have been pleasanter if we had all kept together," I remark, pouting a little.

"But we were waiting for you!" Judith says in a conciliatory tone, drawing near to me. "We thought of exploring the wood on the other side of the river, if you had come back in time."

We do not separate again, but the pleasure of the day is spoilt for me. I am angry with Mr. West, angry with Judith, angry with Erroll, angry with myself for being angry. I suppose I ought not to expect Erroll to neglect his old playmate altogether for the pleasure of being with me, and I should not have minded so much if we had kept together. But to have left me with a comparative stranger—a stupid boy of whose conversation I do not care a button—and that for more than an hour, was too much.

I will not be cajoled out of my ill-humour even by the undivided attention which Erroll bestows upon me during our homeward voyage, Judith electing to take his oar, to leave him at more liberty to devote himself to me. Even when we reach Veltry I am still too sulky to join in the game of tennis Erroll proposes, and retire to my own room after luncheon on the plea of having a bad head-ache, Mrs. Rutherfurd following me to offer all kinds of remedies, and to close the window curtains with her own hand, blaming herself all the time for having allowed me to go out under such a broiling sun.

I do not hear their voices in the tennis-court under the window as I lie in the darkened room with my tear-stained cheek buried in the pillows; but the more I fancy Erroll misses me the more determined I am to make him suffer—he can play tennis with Miss Irving; very likely they have gone to walk in the garden together. But no. The door opens softly and Judith comes in, without any hat on. She has not been out since luncheon, she tells me. Mr. Erroll Rutherfurd has gone away with Charlie West. They were all very dull, would I not bath my forehead with eau de Cologne and come down to the drawing-room?

Mollified by the knowledge that others were not enjoying themselves while I made myself miserable, I allow her to brush my hair, to bathe my forehead, to arrange my tumbled ribbons, to lead me downstairs like a child who has been very naughty but who promises not to be naughty anymore. And then we have tea in the cool green drawing-room, and some visitors come, and so the afternoon passes. And neither at dinner, nor after dinner, does Judith so much as glance at my lover, nor does he seem to care whether she does or not, spending the whole evening playing draughts with me.

I think it must be rather dull for Judith; but then she had a pleasant day and I had not. Not that she looks at all dull in her little plush-covered chair by the reading-lamp, with the last number of the Cornhill in her hand. She looks particularly well satisfied, I think, with her dark head thrown into relief by the crimson cushion, and her eyelashes throwing a shadow on her cheek as she reads. But I can scarcely see her or rather I cannot see her without turning my head. But Erroll can amuse himself by fancying what a picture she would make, whenever I am a long time making up my mind about a move.

. . . . . .

We are to leave Velfry after luncheon to-day. I fancy Mrs. Rutherfurd has a motive in her evident desire to keep Judith with her all the morning, and to leave Erroll at liberty to devote himself to me. I daresay she wonders he has not come to her already with the news of our engagement.

However that may be, I am certain she will be greatly surprised if he allows me to go away without having come to some definite understanding, without having won a promise—depending of course on the consent of my friends and guardians—that I some day will be his wife.

I am sure it is to facilitate some such proposal on Erroll's part that she takes Judith for a tour of her greenhouse and orchid-house and conservatory, and has Knox all the morning packing slips and cuttings and cut flowers for her, allowing her to choose what she likes from among her most special treasures. But either I am shy or Erroll is nervous, for the morning passes while we play tennis under the drawing-room windows, and then I discover that I have some packing to do if we are to start immediately after luncheon. And when Mrs. Rutherfurd comes into the house alone just before luncheon, doubtless pluming herself on the certainty that Erroll and I are wandering, lover-like, hand-in hand among the roses, I am in reality cramming my trinkets hastily into my big-jewel box, wondering if I am a fool to have run away.

Just before the luncheon-bell rings I go out again to look for Judith. I do not find her in the garden; the tennis-courts are deserted, the boat rocks idly at her moorings, no voice no footstep disturbs the green quiet of the wilderness.

"Where can she be?" I wonder vaguely, hurrying down the long green alley towards the rosary.

There I come to a stand again, struck with a new idea. She may be in her own room all the time—how stupid of me not to have looked there first of all! I turn back, walking slowly; I have run so fast that I feel rather out of breath.

The sun lies warm and golden on the mossy path, on the walk of clipped beech and holly—just here two straight walks run parallel to each other, only divided by the tall green hedge. I love Velfry, and all its quaint gardens and wildernesses, its gray vied walls, its sunny terraces, the wide shallow sparkling river, the deep old woods. I shall be sorry to go back to Osierbrook, with its prim narrow garden, and flat mossy square lawn, and formal rows of trees. But I shall be more than sorry to leave Erroll—to exchange the delight of being with him, of hearing him say sweet loving things, of listening to his gay laughter, for the grim companionship of my four old maiden aunts.

And yet Osierbrook can never feel so tiresome again nor the company of my aunts so dull. For have I not the delightful consciousness ever present with me that Erroll loves me—that sooner or later he will come to me and ask the question he once told me he intended to ask—the question whose answer is ready in my heart, though it may not come so readily to my lips by-and-by? Erroll loves me! The three words are a panacea for every possible evil, a talisman against every possible ill.

Suddenly the sound of voices approaching—the voices of two people walking on the other side of the beech hedge—breaks in upon my blissful reverie. They are Erroll and Judith's—I can distinguish them perfectly, though both are speaking in rather a low tone, or so I fancy. Smiling to myself, I think how I shall startle them presently, when I rush round upon them out of my ambuscade.

(To be continued.)

"Mamma," he said, "what makes people die, anyway?" "Everybody's got to die," said the mamma, in the usual evasive way in which people answer children's questions. "If God made people what does He mean by making them die?" "My child, you forget that people must die to make room for the new children that are always being born. There would not be room for the new people if nobody died." "That's so," said the little fellow, contemplatively, "and then there's so many dogs."

Harvest-time in England.

But whether wheat is 30 or 60 shillings a quarter, whether the farmer drinks sherry or is thankful for small beer, the harvest month is still to many the best of all the twelve. There is a mellowness in the August air that is found in none of its predecessors, and can scarcely be looked for in that portion of the waning year which succeeds it. There is an inexpressible balminess in the golden mornings, and the long twilights of August soothe the mind as if the scutterer among the corn-fields were breathing some subtle other. Flowers there are still in plenty. The wild mint stands "like a nymph knee-deep in water," and the purple loosestrife shows its gorgeous spikes in the moist places under the hedgerows, while the lake and river pools, covered with the white water lilies, seem in places as if they were little bits of a forgotten fairyland. The midday sun may be sultry, but there are apples for the plucking, and before the last week comes the orchard will be laden with plums so juicy that, like Justice Shallow's pippins, they are a fruit to be remembered. Still, the bright tints of May are gone, and the exuberant wealth of June blossoms has given place to a display more befitting the sober times that are coming. The rush of leaf and bloom is no more. Old age with its scarness is afar off. Yet the slightly russet hue which the foliage is here and there assuming and the reddening berries in place of the gay flowers seem, as it were, better in keeping with the sedateness of middle age. There is a peace, a quietude, a feeling of calm which is indescribable. The very harvest moon seems less inconstant than the moons which have gone before. The birds have not left us. But they, like every other creature, recognise that in August they ought to behave themselves less skittishly than when the cares of maternity were all before them, and the autumn flight was only a tradition of the hedgerows. The thoughtless songsters are silent. Philomel is still here, but he sings no longer, and seems, like the twittering flocks of migrants on the church roof, to be meditating a southward journey. These and a hundred other characteristics of harvest time are never likely to leave us, but the man who gained his first impressions of August thirty or forty years ago would nowadays have some difficulty in recalling the familiar features of his youth. Where are now the ragged bands of Irishmen who crossed every autumn to reap the northern harvests? Most of them are now in America, or in Australia—prosperous farmers, on their own account, let us hope. For their former craft there is no longer any room. The hand sickle is now almost as obsolete as the one-stilted plow. The reaping machine has taken its place, and in a few years the reader of Thomson may require the aid of the commentator before he can understand how "in form'd array the reapers move nor shrink for heat or toil, by emulation urg'd."

The painter continues to portray the band of shearers stretching across the ridges. In another generation the artist may be able to recognize the poetry of the reaping machine, the thrashing mill, and the tedder and the silo, though the little curved hook, the wooden rake, the stalwart binder, and the bronzed harvester seem to our uneducated eyes the more picturesque elements of a picture.

A Waterloo Medal Found.

An extremely rare and curious military medal was recently found under the kitchen on the premises of E. R. Chapman, at Charleston, S. C. On one side it has the words: "For courage, good conduct and faithful service. Hindostan. 71st Highland Light Infantry. Ten years' service." On the other side are the words: "Peninsula, Roleia, Vimiera, Vittoria, Almaraz, Nive, Pyrenees, Orthes, Waterloo, Fuentes D'Onor."

The medal is made of composition metal, and is about one and a half inches in diameter. Above and below the words "71st Highland Light Infantry" are a crown and a hunting horn respectively, and on the other side is an oval-shaped figure inclosing the cross of St. Andrew, beside which is standing a barefooted pilgrim, the beauty of whose visage is destroyed by the abrasion of the metal and the lapse of time. As may be inferred from the names Vittoria, Vimieria and Waterloo, the original possessor of the medal was one who followed the English flag through the Spanish Peninsula in the war which ended at Waterloo in 1815. The other legend of the medal indicates that the battle-scarred Highlander won new honors and laurels in a later service in East India. How the medal got to Charleston would be hard to divine, but it is evidently a genuine military relic. It tells us a very eloquent tale, and is the mute historian of an old soldier's proud record in peace and in war. It resembles many good things of fiction and romance only in the respect that it is anonymous. The kilted warrior left everything but his name to tell the story.

In Canterbury, England, the other day, a curious brass box was dug up. Its name and purpose was a mystery until, being opened, there was found inside three buttons, a piece of tin, and a scrap of paper. Then they knew that it was an ancient contribution box.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued evesy Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column.....	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column.....	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space.....	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequents insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the option of the publisher.

JOB PRINTING.

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Creasor & Morrison,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYANCES, &c. &c.

OFFICES in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolf's Store and in
MARKDALE;
Over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday and Friday of each week.

☞ Funds to lend on reasonable terms.

JOHN CREASOR, Q.C. DUNCAN MORISON
Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-ly

Alexander Brown,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.
Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
MARKDALE, - - ONT.
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

SAMUEL WARDELL,
WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

Store to Rent in Markdale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or
JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143 tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

Medical.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel. Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.
122-47.

W. C. RICHARDS,
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.
124ly

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.
Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.
126-ly.

ISAAC STINSON.
Builder and Contractor
In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.
—THIS NEW—
Patent Process Flouring Mill
Is now completed at great expense, on the
Most APPROVED
plans, and with the best machinery manufactured, making it, in every sense of the term, "A Model Mill."

I am therefore in a position to give the public a Superior Article of Flour.

A fair trial respectfully solicited and I have no fear but the result will be eminently satisfactory.

Cash paid for good hard Wheat.

☞ Flour, Bran, Shorts, etc, etc, for sale wholesale & retail.

ANGUS PLEWES.
219

For Sale by Walker Bros.

FARMERS, Reapers & Mowers, USE McCOLL BROS. Lardine Machine Oil.

MARKDALE.

YOU CAN SUBSCRIBE
For any of the
FOLLOWING PAPERS
AT THIS OFFICE:

Daily or Weekly Mail,	Toronto.
Daily os Weekly Globe,	Toronto.
Daily or Weekly News,	Toronto.
Daily World	Toronto.
Family Herald and Weekly Star,	Montreal.
American Agriculturist,	Monthly.
Farmers' Advocate,	Monthly.

☞ Subscription can commence at any time.

STANDARD OF ICE,
MARKDALE.

M. W. DUNHAM
Wayne, Du Page Co., Illinois,
HAS IMPORTED FROM FRANCE
Percheron Horses valued at $3,000,000, which includes
75 PER CENT OF ALL HORSES
Whose purity of blood is established by their pedigrees recorded in the STUD BOOKS OF FRANCE.
EVER IMPORTED TO AMERICA.

STOCK ON HAND:
150 Imported Brood Mares,
250 Imported Stallions, Old enough for service,
100 COLTS, Two years old and younger.

Recognizing the principle accepted by all intelligent breeders that, however well-bred animals may be sold to be, if their pedigrees are not recorded, and cannot be authentically given, they should be valued only as grades, I will sell all Imported Stock at Grade Prices when I cannot furnish with the animal sold pedigree verified by the original French certificate of its number and record in the Stud Book in France. 140 Page Catalogue sent free. It is illustrated with Six Prize Horses of the Exhibition of the Societe Hippique Percheronne of France, 1884; purchased by M. W. Dunham, and drawn from life by Rosa Bonheur, the most famous of all animal painters.

NEW GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.

Having just received a Choicee, Fresh and Select
STOCK OF
Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c,
Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.
I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.
193 J. PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mills.

The subscriber begs leave to announce to the farmers of the surrounding country that he is turning out flour equal to any other roller mill.

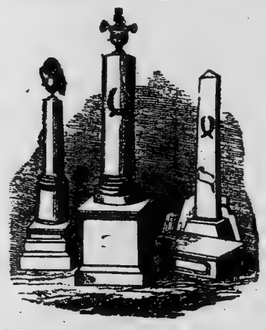
No more waiting while the grist is being ground.

The following is the scale of exchange:—

Wheat Weighing 62 lbs,	40 lbs. Flour.
" " 61 "	39 "	"
" " 60 "	38 "	"
" " 59 "	37 "	"
" " 58 "	36 "	"
" " 57 "	35 "	"

with offal in proportion to amount of flour.

I find the average weight of new wheat to be 60 lbs. to the bushel, and the most of it, if properly cleaned, would weigh 61 or 62 to the bushel.



John W. Ford.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied
Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble
☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,
And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,
T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

OFFICE OF THE
Flesherton Marble And Granite Works.

E. VANZANT.
All kinds of Marble and Monumental Works, such as Monuments, Tomb Tables, Headstones, Counter and Table Tops,—in American and Italian Marble, and made on short notice. Also Mantles in Marble and Marbeleized Slate, &c., &c.
Satistaction Guaranteed in Every Respect

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS
Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. R.
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect Monday, August 3rd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 45pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Caledon	9 25 "	6 45 "
Orangeville } Arrive	9 50 "	7 03 "
Orangeville } Leave	10 05 "	7 22 "
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	7 34 "
Shelburne	10 45 "	8 04 "
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 30 "
Flesherton	11 36 "	8 55 "
Markdale	11 51 "	9 10 "
Williamsford	12 12pm	9 32 "
Chatsworth	12 28 "	9 49 "
Owen Sound	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 35pm
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 10 "
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 30 "
Markdale	6 27 "	3 52 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 06 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 31 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 57 "
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "	5 23 "
Orangeville } Arrive	8 12 "	5 35 "
Orangeville } Leave	8 35 "	5 55 "
Caledon	8 55 "	6 13 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Toronto....Arrive	10 45 "	8 20 "

Special Steamship Express leaves Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays for Toronto and Points East, on arrival C.P.R. Steamship from Port Arthur and Points in Manitoba and North-West.

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.
A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.
—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.
The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of School Furniture.
Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW McGILL.

FARM FOR SALE.
LOT 19, Con. 12, Glenelg, containing 100 acres, 30 cleared, fenced and under cultivation, balance chiefly hardwood timber; 4½ miles from Markdale; saw-mill convenient also school. The farm is well watered and suitable for either a dairy or grain farm. Will be sold cheap and on easy terms. For further particulars apply on the premises to
JOHN GALLAGHER,
247 60 Markdale P. O.

THIS SPACE BELONGS TO
W. A. BROWN,
The People's Reliable Jeweller
MARKDALE.

OL. 5.--No

Local and Other Ite

NOTICES in these columns intended to ... individual or Society will be charged ... cts a line for the first insertion and ... cts a line each subsequent insertion.

APPLES are plentiful on the m...

THRESHING machines are now ... ove.

THE Markdale House is bein... inted.

DR. SPROULE is having his resi... painted.

THE Montreal smallpox epidem... creasing.

THE late rains have destroyed ... all potatoes.

MARKDALE public school has ... rovided with a bell.

MR. DOUGLAS' brick house is ... pproaching completion.

MRS. WM. MASON is visiting fri... Boulton and vicinity.

A NUMBER of farms for sale ... ur advertising columns.

NATIONAL PILLS will not gripe or s... t are a thorough cathartic.

THE 22nd September is the ... olland Council meeting.

MR. WARD, Conservative, was ... d in East Durham Tuesday.

MISS MARY PORTER is gone to at... he Normal School in Toronto.

MR. and MRS. John Reid and ... ertie are visiting in Markdale.

PROTON township authorities are ... oring vaccination among childre...

LAST week's Chatsworth News ... he most interesting we have yet s...

A YOUNG man who gets the mi... apt to be guilty of contempt of co...

FOUR car loads of Prime Salt ... rrived at J. R. Trimble's, cheap ... ash.

LOW'S SULPHUR SOAP should be fo... with every toilet. It is cleansing ... ealing.

For office stools, Whatnots, Hat ... umbrella stands go to Grant & ... Markdale.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BONNELL, ... Walter's Falls, were in town ... Saturday.

For Newel Posts, Stair Baluste... Hand Railing, and Table Legs go ... Grant & Co's, Markdale.

PACIFIC R. R.
OUND BRANCH.
E TABLE.
Monday, August 3rd, 1885.
DING NORTH.

NS.	Mail.	Exp.
re.....	7 20am	4 45pm
n.....	9 07 "	6 30 "
.....	9 25 "	6 45 "
.....	9 50 "	7 08 "
.....	10 05 "	7 22 "
.....	10 17 "	7 34 "
.....	10 45 "	8 04 "
.....	11 10 "	8 30 "
.....	11 36 "	8 55 "
.....	11 51 "	9 10 "
.....	12 12pm	9 32 "
.....	12 28 "	9 49 "
.....	1 00 "	10 20 "

DING SOUTH.

S:	Exp:	Mail:
.....	5 20am	2 35pm
.....	5 50 "	3 10 "
.....	6 05 "	3 30 "
.....	6 27 "	3 52 "
.....	6 42 "	4 06 "
.....	7 06 "	4 31 "
.....	7 31 "	4 57 "
.....	8 00 "	5 23 "
.....	8 12 "	5 35 "
.....	8 35 "	5 55 "
.....	8 55 "	6 13 "
.....	9 07 "	6 30 "
e.....	10 45 "	8 20 "

hip Express leaves Owen ys, Thursdays and Sundays Points East, on arrival C. P. m Port Arthur and Points
North-West.

ASKIN, DERTAKER, KDALE,
FURNISHINGS
n the shortes notice.
ndid Hearse
t moderate rates.
ll kinds of—
E FRAMING
on short notice.
OBT. ASKIN.

T S. RAE, LOR, am Street.
KDALE.

OL TRUSTEES. is manufacturing an ex-assortment of Furniture.
OOL SEATS and DESKS,
SKS, etc., of the latest pproved pattern. Highly hool Trustees and Teach-comfort and compactness, n assortment of Farm and lways on hand. Send for worth P. O.
ANDREW McGILL.

FOR SALE.
2, Glenelg, containing 100 red, fenced and under cul-chiefly hardwood timber;
kdale; saw-mill convenient farm is well watered and a dairy or grain farm. Will on easy terms. For further n the premises to GALLAGHER,
Markdale P. O.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 259. MARKDALE, ONT., AUGUST 27, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH. }

THIS SPACE BELONGS TO
W. A. BROWN,
The People's Reliable Jeweller
MARKDALE.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

APPLES are plentiful on the market.

THRESHING machines are now on the move.

THE Markdale House is being repainted.

DR. SPROULE is having his residence repainted.

THE Montreal smallpox epidemic is decreasing.

THE late rains have destroyed the small potatoes.

MARKDALE public school has been provided with a bell.

MR. DOUGLAS' brick house is fast approaching completion.

MRS. WM. MASON is visiting friends in Boulton and vicinity.

A NUMBER of farms for sale; see our advertising columns.

NATIONAL PILLS will not gripe or sicken, but are a thorough cathartic.

THE 22nd September is the next Holland Council meeting.

MR. WARD, Conservative, was elected in East Durham Tuesday.

MISS MARY PORTER is gone to attend the Normal School in Toronto.

MR. and MRS. John Reid and Miss Bertie are visiting in Markdale.

PROTON township authorities are enforcing vaccination among children.

LAST week's Chatsworth News was the most interesting we have yet seen.

A YOUNG man who gets the mitten is apt to be guilty of contempt of court.

FOUR car loads of Prime Salt just arrived at J. R. Trimble's, cheap for cash.

LOW'S SULPHUR SOAP should be found with every toilet. It is cleansing and healing.

For office stools, Whatnots, Hat & Umberella stands go to Grant & Co., Markdale.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BONNELL, of Walter's Falls, were in town on Saturday.

For Newel Posts, Stair Balusters, Hand Railing, and Table Legs go to Grant & Co., Markdale.

THE Industrial Exhibition will open in Toronto on the 7th September and close the 19th.

ALWAYS REQUIRED—A good cathartic medicine. National Pills will not disappoint you.

MR. and MRS. Gable, of Oakville, have been the guests of Mr. R. Askin the past week.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS are safe, sure and speedy to remove worms from children or adults.

DR. SPROULE is preparing to erect an addition to his tenement house on Toronto Street.

ALL kinds of lumber for sale or sawed to order at Berkeley Steam Mill.—James Lackey, Prop.

MALONEY, the lunatic, who stabbed and killed Dr. Metcalfe in Kingston, has been committed for trial.

REV. J. WARD, of Markdale, and Rev. Mr. Edgar, of Clarksburg, exchanged pulpits last Sunday.

A CERTAIN YOUNG MUSICIAN is so squeamish that he refuses to play on anything but an upright piano.

For Bed Suits, Side Boards, Bureaus, Tables, Lounges, and Camp Stools, go to Grant and Co., Markdale.

A MEETING of the directors of Centre Grey Farmers' Institute will be held in Markdale on the 22nd September.

MR. J. PINCH, carriage maker, is having a dwelling house erected in the northwestern portion of the village.

MR A. ELLIOTT, Sr., an old resident, and one of the most highly respected citizens of the community, is seriously ill.

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

MR. E. O'BRIEN, Artemesia, has a colt rising two years which received a very bad cut in the knee on a scythe in the field last week.

GRAVE ROBBING.—A grave in Hanover was recently robbed of the remains of a lady which was buried thirteen years ago.

MR. McCONNELL, Mrs. McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald and Miss Fannie Coleman, of Bay View, visited this district last week.

MOFFAT BROS., of the Markdale foundry, have several handsome patterns for cresting, and are supplying the neighboring towns.

J. R. TRIMBLE, of the Mammoth House, Markdale, will sell you goods for cash cheaper than any merchant doing business in the County.

THE Financial District Meeting of the Owen Sound Methodist church to be held in Flesherton, is postponed from the 2nd to the 16th Sept.

FOUR papers in Grey Co. have decided already to reduce their size, leaving only those in incorporated towns larger than double demy.

School Books.—A complete assortment of new Readers and other School Books just received at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

MESSRS. JOHN ORR, of Glenelg, and Wilson Benson, of Markdale, will leave on a trip to Ireland next week. We wish them a pleasant and safe trip.

THE fall show of Collingwood, East Grey and South Grey, all comes on the 29th and 30th of September. Wonder how this grand mistake was made.

THE HECTIC FLUSH, pale hollow cheeks and precarious appetite, indicate worms. Freeman's Worm Powders will quickly and effectually remove them.

MR. and MRS. W. J. McFarland started on a trip up the lakes on Saturday. They purpose calling at various points between here and Port Arthur.

PARK lot in Markdale for sale Beautiful location, will be sold on reasonable terms. Apply to H. Freeborn, Williamsford, or enquire at this office. 125 tf

A GENTLEMAN asked a negro boy if he wouldn't take a pinch of snuff. "No," replied darky, very respectfully, "me thank you: Pomp's nose not hungry."

THERE is no business man with an ounce of spunk about him who will procure away from home what he can get in his own town or village at the same rates.

DR. LAWRENCE, of Honeywood, near Shelburne, is going into the cultivation of pepper-mint and has procured a still to extract the oil from the herb. So says the Free Press.

THE C. P. R. will issue return tickets on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th Sept. in connection with Owen Sound races, good to return up to 5th inclusive, at one and one third fare.

NOTWITHSTANDING the existing business depression the growth of the A. O. U. W. steadily continues. Members reported in good standing in monthly statement for July, 9061.

OUR Mr. Jackman leaves to-day (Thursday) on a trip to New York and will visit other places of note before returning. We wish him a pleasant trip and safe return.

MR. DRINKWATER, the notorious appletree agent, has been arrested in Chicago. Mr. Deleree, of Walter's Falls, left here on Monday last to identify as well as witness against the above agent.

STILL ANOTHER.—The brass band serenaded our respected citizen, Mr. Wm. N. Haskett, last Wednesday evening, and were treated in a very hospitable manner and also presented with the customary V.

WHERE moth and rust doth not corrupt, is where to lay up treasure; the farmers have missed the mark this year in regard to spring wheat, which a month ago was considered a valuable treasure, but since has badly rusted.

DR. OLDHAM, of Chatsworth, and Mr. Ramage, of the celebrated Chesley flour mills, were in town on Tuesday last. The latter came to see Mr. Plewes' new patent wheat cleaning machine, leaving his order for one. They both returned same day.

How some business men can have the gall to accept a gratuitious notice of their business, and the first traveller comes along give him an order for their letter heads and any other printing they may require, is more than we can understand; still they do it.

THE first quarterly meeting for the present year of the Euphrasia Methodist Mission was held last Sunday in the Providence church. The congregation was large, and the meeting throughout was a time of refreshing coming down from the presence of the Lord.

THE phrase "printer's devil" owes its origin to the fact that the first errand boy employed by William Claxton, the first printer, was the son of a gentleman of French decent named De Ville, or Deville, and the name thus came to be applied to printers' apprentices.

ILL LUCK.—One night recently a two year old colt belonging to Mr. John O'Brien, of Euphrasia, being tied with halter shank to sirsingle to hinder his jumping fences, got its hind foot over the strap and became so used up in its efforts to get extricated that it died from the effects.

John McNassar, Bondhead, writes: "Whenever I feel out of sorts, bilious, or my liver not working wright, or racked with a headache, I take Chase's Mandrake Dandelion Liver Cure. There is more real benefit from one dose of your Liver Cure than in many bottles of some medicines." Sept.

A LARGE stock of fine linen paper for letter heads, also envelopes, shipping tags, &c., at the STANDARD office. Our business men who require anything of this kind will kindly remember when a city traveller calls on you and solicits your order, that we can and will do them as cheap and as well, besides you have a right to patronize home.

POISONED.—On the 18th John B. Holden a child 4 years old, son of B. Holden, of 10th line, Osprey, was poisoned by Rough on Rats which had been put on the window for fly poison. Coming in he drew his finger across the plate, licked it off, and died within three hours.—Collingwood Bulletin.

A WORLDLY-WISE EXHIBITOR at a late agricultural show divided a bushel of peaches, entering one half in his own name, and the other in the name of a gentleman of some prominence in the place. His own half was unnoticed, but the other half bushel took the prize, proving that there is something in a name.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. Hamilton Malcolm, sawyer in Webster's saw-mill, 9th line Eupbrasia, happened with a serious accident on Tuesday last. It appears he accidentally backed against a circular saw, receiving a severe cut of nine inches in length in the flesh part of the hip. Dr. Carter was sent for and dressed the wound.

THE Markdale lodge of A. O. U. W. is in a healthy and prosperous condition. They were out in force last Monday evening at the regular meeting, when a pleasant hour was spent. Mr. R. H. Byers, of Rochester, N. Y., and Mr. James McDougall, of Fort William, were present, being old members of this lodge.

SOME of the ladies of Markdale have kindly consented to give a social in aid of the Bible Army at their barracks on Thursday, 27th inst., when the General and other officers are expected to attend. Refreshments from 7 to 8 o'clock. Admission, adults 10 cents; children 5 cents. Come one, come all and have a good time.

PROBLEMS OF NATURE.—This is the name of a paper published in New York semi-monthly at $1.50 per year. It is devoted to scientific discussion and investigation; is well printed, ably written and deeply interesting. It cannot fail to be highly appreciated by the readers. H. B. Philbrook, Editor, 21 Park Row, New York.

THE Durham Chronicle says, McAlister gave a barrel of his fine old ale to a party of five, last Monday morning. The result was a fight, after which the whole party lay down in the shed to sleep off the effects of their debauch. We were almost forgetting to add, that they were pigs, but they acted much the same as men under similar influence. ("He knows how it is himself.")

A PARAGRAPH from the Weekly News—"The week's news, as compressed in THE WEEKLY, is complete. THE WEEKLY, together with your local paper, will give you all the doings of the world. While talking about local papers, let me tell you to take your country paper whether you take THE NEWS or not. A man who is too poor to take a local paper is either too poor or too mean to keep a dog."

WARNING.—Here's another warning for our farming friends. Two strangers meet at a farmer's house to stay all night, and during the evening they get up a trade between themselves, which requires a witness, and the farmer is asked to sign the papers simply to witness the trade. If he does so he soon finds that his name is signed to a note which he has to pay. The law does not appear to touch these cases, and farmers should hang the first man caught at it.

MR. JOHN HOPKINS, saddler here, when living at the Sauble some six or seven years ago lost a small white mare, and although diligent search was made for her he heard nothing of her until a few weeks ago, when Mr. James Fleming of Kilsyth, drove her into the village. Mr. Hopkins and several others who had formerly known the beast at once recognized her, and Mr. H. proceeded to trace out the various hands through which she had passed when he discovered that she had been sold by an Indian for $2.50, and had several times since changed hands, falling into Mr. Fleming's possession through a trade. Mr. W. B. Simpson was armed with a warrant and last Tuesday he brought her to Chatsworth and delivered her to the proper owner.—Chatsworth News.

MR. and Mrs. D. E. Wright, of Toronto, are visiting friends in Markdale and Flesherton.

GARDEN PARTY.—On Friday evening last the Presbyterian garden party was held in the Agricultural Grounds, and, notwithstanding the very heavy rain in the early part of the day and threatening aspect of the weather through the afterpart of the day and evening, followed with another downpour in the evening, a good number turned out and the party was a success. The band was in attendance, and all enjoyed themselves, having taken shelter in the hall. Proceeds $24. The ladies wish to thank the band for their attendance and appreciated aid.

THERE are many deaf and dumb children whose parents are not aware of the liberal provision made by the Province for such afflicted ones. Every deaf and dumb child in Ontario, of suitable age and capacity, may have instruction and training in intellectual culture and in some useful occupation, by attending the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb at Belleville. There were 240 pupils in attendance last session, but as a number completed their education and left in June, there will be room for all for whom admission is desired when the Institute reopens in September.

ARE YOU MADE miserable by indigestion, Consumption, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

THE GRIP PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY, of Toronto, have just issued two magnificent lithographs, printed in five colors, of the Battles of Fish Creek and Cut Knife Creek. They are companion pictures to "The Capture of Batoche," and having been compiled from the most authentic sources, they can be relied on to be true representatives of these memorable engagements. Every Canadian who takes an interest in the history of his country should possess a copy of these plates, which will be sent post free by the publishers upon receipt of price, viz: 50c. each. The Toronto News Co'y are wholesale agents.

FOR DYSPEPSIA and Liver Complaint, you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

MUNICIPAL matters in Euphrasia are, as usual, commencing to be agitated several months before election time. Mr. Myles is spoken of as a probable candidate for the reeveship in opposition to the present reeve, Mr. Gilray. The latter is just getting the finances of the township into a good shape, and we think it would be very unwise to remove him from his present position. Mr. Shepherdson is mentioned as a candidate for deputy-reeveship, also W. J. Black and Henry Hurd, any of which would be preferable to the present one, Mr. Fawcett: no doubt the latter is a "jolly good fellow" but this stamp of men are as a rule mere tools in a public capacity, and Mr. F. is no exception to the rule. Since the above was put in type we had a conversation with Mr. Black, who stated that he has no intention of seeking election to the deputy-reeveship the coming year.

THE administration have taken a very necessary step to secure the safety of the settlers in the North-West by putting in force the measure passed last session in reference to the sale of ammunition to Indians. Any one selling fixed ammunition or ball cartridges to Indians without permission of the Superintendent-General of Indian affairs is liable to $200 fine and six months imprisonment. This provision of the law ought to be rigidly enforced, and it is to be hoped that the granting of the necessary permission will not become such a farce as the giving of liquor permits by Lieut.-Governor Dewdney. Anybody can obtain a whiskey permit by paying for it, and if the business of supplying the redskins with powder and lead is worked on the same principle, the only effect of the law will be to put money into the pockets of government officials.

HOUSEHOLD.

A Delicious Summer Drink.

Tea is one of the most delicious of summer drinks, but few persons know how to prepare it so that it is refreshing, palatable, and, in a certain sense, æsthetic. Common custom in this country makes its preparation one of the servant's duties. It therefore comes to the table almost always black with too much strength and steeping, if, perchance, it has not boiled. It then has an herby flavor, and no more resembles genuine tea than the electric light is comparable to moonlight. Tea should always be made on the table, and three minutes will suffice for its compounding. Secure a small copper kettle of boiling water, with an alcohol lamp beneath, a pretty tea caddy of choice tea—for good tea is really economical—a delicate china pot and cups and saucers, and lastly a pair of fair hands that serve a graceful and gracious lady, and you have the ingredients for a cup of tea in which the possibilities of æsthetic pleasure are only limited by the sensibility of the recipient. Take a tiny lump of sugar, if you please, and even a thin slice of lemon, but do not spoil the exquisite flavor and winelike color by even a drop of milk or cream. If iced tea is desired pour the freshly made tea into a glass in which there are lumps of ice and sugar. It is often prepared and put away to stand in the ice chest till required, but by this means the delicate aroma of the tea passes away, and there is a consequent flatness perceptible to every one who knows how to make and appreciate the rightly made cup of tea.

Notes for Housekeepers.

The best way to brighten a carpet is to put half a tumbler of spirits of turpentine in a tub basin of water and dip your broom in it and sweep over the carpet once or twice, and it will restore the color and brighten it up until you would think it new.

Lemon juice will whiten frosting, cranberry or strawberry juice will color it pink, and the grated rind of an orange strained through a cloth will color it yellow.

Silver spoons that have become discolored, in contact with cooked eggs, may be easily brightened by rubbing with common salt. A lump of gum-camphor in the closet where silver or plated ware is kept will do much toward preventing tarnish.

CUCUMBER PICKLES.

A correspondent gives some timely hints in regard to making cucumber pickles. He says that cucumbers for immediate use may be pickled by making a brine—a saturated solution of salt—covering the cucumbers with it, and adding water, if necessary. This strong brine will act sufficiently in one night if poured on hot; if cold, give it twenty-four hours. Drain off the brine and pack in a jar with scalded vinegar, cloves, cinnamon, and a lump of alum as big as a marble for each two gallons of cucumbers. Pour the spiced vinegar hot on the cucumbers, and add a piece of horseradish root as large as a man's finger, and, if desired, two or three green peppers. These pickles will be ready for use in three days, and will keep for years. When cucumbers are packed for market only strong brine is necessary; for, when needed for use, they are taken out of the brine, freshened, and then put into vinegar, with spices etc.

Knitted Cradle or Carriage Afghan.

This soft white blanket is knitted with leviathan wool, which is composed of many strands, and is very thick and soft. With the wool is mingled a strand of light blue rope silk. The knitted centre is surrounded with a narrow crochet edging, through an inch-wide blue satin ribbon is drawn. With coarse wooden knitting needles cast on the number of stitches necessary for the size of afghans desired, and knit in forward rows only; at the end of each row knit the wool and silk together. 1st row.—* Put the silk round the needle, knit 2 stitches with the wool, put the last of them on the left hand needle, and purl it with the silk; repeat from *. 2d row.— . . Knit the next stitch with wool, but omitting the silk put over in the last row, take the stitch on the left hand needle and with silk purl the silk put over and the stitch together, then put the silk around the needle, knit the following stitch with wool; repeat from . . Continue to knit as in the last row, but alternate the pattern as shown in the illustration. Cast off the stitches after the last row, and then work around in single crochet about the edge, in the course of which work around the ends of wool and silk knotted at the side edges. 2d round.—4 chain stitches, then by turns a double crochet on the following 2d stitch and 1 chain; close with a slip stitch on the 3d of the first 4 chain. 3d round.—By turns 7 chain and a single on the following 2d double in the last row. 4th row.—Work with silk by turns a single on the next double omitted in the last round, and 7 chain, but after working the last of the 7 chain drop the stitch from the needle and take it up again through the next chain scallop in the last row before working the next single; close with a slip stitch on the first single. The full-sized illustration plainly shows the manner of workihg.

A HERO OF THE COLLIERIES.

A Gallant Rescue of Miners Imprisoned in a Coal Shaft.

A young Irishman, named James Nolans, performed a noble deed of daring in a sudden mining catastrophe, which happened at the coal-pits situated near the villages of Niddry and New Craighall, in the neighbourhood of Newmills, Dalkeith. About two o'clock one afternoon the rumor was spread that the pits were filling with water. It was confirmed by a gush and fall of water from a height of 130 fathoms, with a din which struck despair into the hearts of the weary miners. They were just about to ascend the shaft, and the man at the pit-head had discovered that something had gone wrong. There were sixty-three men and boys at work, of whom thirty-eight escaped to the neighbouring pit, while twenty-five who were on the opposite side of the torrent remained. These ran through a portion of the workings as yet free from flood, but found their escape cut off, turn where they would, and exhaustion took the place of despair. At last they awaited their fate in a level communicating with another pit, measuring only five feet broad by five feet high. The shaft was nearly filled with water, and a volume of water was rushing down upon them; but here they waited two mortal hours, until, seeing no chance of the flood diminishing so as to give hope of their escape, seven of them dashed under the water, and through the hole whence it came, leaving their companions in the belief that they were lost. They were, however, mercifully saved, reaching the shaft where anxious friends were awaiting them, after battling in the dark with the seething waters. But what of the eighteen that remained? One by one, twelve of them ventured their lives as their comrades had done—braved the waters and the dark hole, and were similarly rescued. But four men and two boys were still left behind. Three more hours passed, while friends above were vainly signalling and calling to them to follow their comrades, example. They were the more hopeless because they believed their mates had perished, and that such signals as reached them from the roof were warnings to remain where they were. The lamps were kept burning with difficulty. Three more hours passed, and the rescuing party saw that something must be done to draw them from their living grave. Some one must force a passage through the water, but who? "I will go if some one will push me through, for the current is so strong," volunteered our young Irish hero, James Nolans; and a mate named Smellie put his feet against his back, and he forced himself through the water. He reached his imprisoned comrades, spoke to them cheerfully, bade them follow on, and placing the boy Kerr, aged thirteen, on his back, dashed back again. Saved! All but one! Where was the lad Walker? Nolans did not pause to consider, but ventured again through the waters. He found the boy in the dark, alone, abandoned to death. "Eh! and may God bless you!" were the words breathed into his ear as he took him also on his back, and bore him safely through the torrent. It was eleven o'clock at night when this daring deed was accomplished, and cheers of welcome greeted our collier hero.

Keeping the Light in Motion.

The keeper of the light at Pointe de Monts relates: "Just imagine that towards the close of the fall, at the first snow, my family was attacked by typhoid fever. The first stroke of the disease was to put seven of us in bed, and very soon all the others followed. I was the only one able to work. My nearest neighbor (at Egg Island) was twenty miles off, and as bad news travels without much wind, this lighthouse was avoided even by Indians as an infested place. One man, however, was touched by my misfortunes, and volunteered to help me. Things were better then for a while; but as we were then at the last days of navigation, fogs and snow combined against me, and obliged us to fire the cannon every half-hour, or even every quarter-hour. The vibration was terrible in the tower, seventy-five feet high, and our patients could not endure it. It was necessary to go up the five stories of the tower, transformed into an infirmary [hospital], before every shot, to notify the poor fellows, and stuff cotton into the ears of the most nervous. Days and nights thus passed, without bringing anything else than pain, anxiety, and sleeplessness Laurent and I were ready to lose our senses, doing the service of the light and the hospital like machines, when the Lord took pity on us, and in His mercy sent us some rest and joy in a general convalescence." The light at Egg Island shows a revolving white light, visible fifteen miles, and giving a flash every minute and a half. "All sailors know how important it is that a flash light should revolve with mathematical accuracy; otherwise one light might be taken for another, and a wreck might be the fatal consequence of such an error. One night, toward the close of the autumn of 1872, a pivot broke in the clock-work regulating these revolutions. The season was too far advanced to get help from the Ministry of Marine at Quebec; the only thing to be done was to replace the machine by human energy, and the keeper and his family devoted themselves to the task. During five weeks of that autumn and five other weeks of the next spring, man, wife, girls, and boys turned the machine by hand. Cold and fatigue stiffened the hands, sleep weighed on their eyelids, but nevertheless they must turn, turn, without haste and without rest, all through those long watches, in which the order was to become an automaton and keep turning the machine. Not one, from the child to the master, either complained or shirked his duty, and the light at Egg Island continued each minute and a half to flash its protecting light over the tempestuous Gulf."

FEMININE GOSSIP.

The average enameled watch hanging at the waist-belt of the average girl contains a powder-puff—nothing else.

"One High Jene and Fizzeoligy" was a North Carolina school teacher's requisition for a new manual just published by the State.

Mrs. Mary Beneman, sister of the famous Commodore Perry, is still enjoying good health at the age of 112. She is living in Iowa.

If 32,000,000 women should clasp hands they could reach around the globe, but they had better be at home attending to family matters.

Mrs. Hayes and Miss Cleveland is the Presidential ticket for 1888 nominated by the Sixteenth Amendment, a paper published at Buffalo.

The craze among young ladies for military buttons has brought together several collections, which include army insignia from every nation in the world.

Christiana, Lancaster county, Pa., has a "housekeepers' club," whose members meet weekly to discuss the latest thing in cooking and exchange recipes.

The Philadelphia Times, an authority on such matters, says girls who do not flirt as a rule die young. The girls may govern themselves accordingly.

"They say there is nothing new under the sun," said the old maid as she stood before the mirror, "but I know better; that wrinkle wasn't there yesterday."

Fencing is becoming a craze among girls. Those of us who have seen a girl trying to get over a barbed-wire fence know that there is plenty of room for improvement.

Placards denouncing the present style of female apparel as "more in harmony with votaries of the shrine of Babel than the humble penitent seeking peace with God" have been posted on all the churches of Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, who unkindly declares that the Christian religion hasn't benefited women to any considerable extent, is reminded by the literary woman of the Boston Transcript that it has at least given them a place in which to display their millinery.

At a spiritual seance a woman desired to communicate with her dead husband. "Is it really such a dreadful place, John?" "Not at all; Heaven is a delightful place." "Mr. Medium," said the widow, turning to that personage, "you have called up the wrong party."

A society paper gave an account of a society event, and in speaking of one beautiful lady, of quite large proportions, it said: "Mrs.——possessed a form that a Juno might envy." The editor went home and left a subordinate to get out the paper, and the next morning he read in his paper that "Mrs. —— possessed a form that Jumbo might envy."

The Troops at Suakim.

A little time ago we were enabled by a correspondent at Suakim to give the public some idea of what our soldiers, both British and Indian, are suffering at that delectable spot. Another communication shows that the lowest depth was by no means reached at the time when our correspondent first wrote. "We are having severe times of it in this awful heat," he now writes; "the thermometer registers 125 degrees in the tents, and we have neither tatties nor punkahs." Even the most acclimatised Anglo-Indian feels suffocated when the thermometer rises 100 degrees inside his bungalow, and what, then, must be the misery of human life when the temperature is 25 per cent. higher? We are not at all astonished to hear that the European battalion has dwindled from 900 to 500 men, or that the survivors "are going out like flies." Nor are the native troops apparently much better. They do not suffer so much as the Europeans from the terrible heat, but homesickness has set in among them as we prophesied it would, and there is no more certain cause for sickness than that. All that they ask for is the fixing of some date for their embarkation. They were brought to the Red Sea littoral for a specific purpose, that of fighting Osman Digma, and they consider it a flagrant breach of engagement for the Government to keep them literally "stewing in their own juice" for an indefinite period after their proper work has been long finished. To make matters worse, the supply of ice has run so short that it can no longer be issued.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR AND STATE REQUIREMENTS

NORTHEY & Co. TORONTO, ONT.

STEAM PUMPS, FIRE PUMPS, BOILER FEEDS

& PUMPS FOR ALL PURPOSES.

J. & JAMES, ENGINEERS, &c.

$10 Reward for the Conviction

Of Dealers who offer for and Sell In- McCOLL'S Inferior Oil of Our Manufacture

The Above Reward LARDINE

MACHINE OIL.

Eureka Cylinder, Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. | For sale by all leading dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co. Toronto

ALBERT COLLEGE

(In Affiliation with Victoria University, Cobourg) Belleville, Ont.

This College, founded in 1854, has had in attendance over 3000 different students. It offers unsurpassed facilities for "general culture" and for matriculation in Arts, Law, etc., at a moderate cost. The Collegiate Course embraces both "matriculation work" and selected studies in Science and Philosophy. The Academic Course has awarded 26 diplomas of graduation in three years. It was never so popular as now. The Business Course is under the direction of a practical accountant. Ornamental Penmanship a specialty. The School of Elocution in affiliation with the Ontario School of Art, and teaches its courses.

A special course of lectures for conference students of the Methodist Church, in which the Rev. Dr. Sheldon, Jeffers, the Rev. J. B. Clarkson, M.A., and others take part, will be given during the winter months.

A reduction in fees of 10 per cent. (instead of a definite sum as formerly) is granted to students taking two or more Departments. Both ladies and gentlemen admitted. Fall Term begins September 9th.

FOR "ANNUAL ANNOUNCEMENT" AND CIRCULARS, ADDRESS

REV. W. P. DYER, M.A., PRESIDENT

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Peerless

AND OTHER MACHINE OILS.

Gold Medals and First Prizes Wherever Exhibited. Queen City Oil Works TORONTO.

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF

It is the only preparation of the kind which contains all the nutritious, together with the stimulating properties of beef, and the only one which possesses the power to supply nourishment for brain, nerve and muscle.

THE "SUNBEAM" WRINGER

ONLY $3.0.

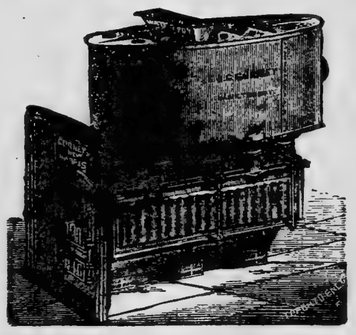
The Cheapest in the Market.

Warranted first-class, or money refunded. Send direct to manufacturers, or procure from your Hardware or House-Furnishing dealer.

ONLY $

Clothes wringers of All kinds

"Royal Canadian," "Imperial," "King" Mangles, Roller and Box Roller. Write for particulars.



HAMILTON INDUSTRIAL WORKS CO., MANUFACTURERS, HAMILTON.

Examine Their Superior Merits

GURNEY'S

NEW HARRIS HOT AIR FURNACE

FOR WOOD

The Most Effective, Clean, Durable and Economical Heaters in the Market for warming and ventilating Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Stores and Private Residences. Simple in construction and easily managed, capable of giving more heat with less consumption of fuel than any other heating apparatus. Absolutely Gas Tight. Seven sizes are made and can be set in Brick or Portable Form. Correspondence solicited. For Catalogues and further information address

THE E. & C. GURNEY CO.

(LIMITED.)

HAMILTON.

CAUTION!

Each Plug of the

MYRTLE NAVY

IS MARKED

T. & B.

In Bronze Letters.

NONE OTHER GENUINE

The Eagle Steam Washing Machine is the only Washing Machine invented that a weakly woman or girl 12 years old, without the use of a washboard, can with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent for trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear on clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in 20, bedclothes in 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 70 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada

Cheap Telescope

A Portable Achromatic Telescope that will show the time of the church clock in Toronto as three miles off, with extra astronomical eye piece and rack motion for astronomical use. It will show Jupiter's moons, the spots on the sun, mountains in the moon, &c. Sent to any address on receipt of $5.50.

CHAS. POTTER, Optician

31 KING ST. EAST, TORONTO.

[ESTABLISHED 30 YEARS.]

CANADA PERMANENT

LOAN & SAVINGS COMPANY

INCORPORATED A.D. 1855.

SUBSCRIBED CAPITAL.....

PAID UP CAPITAL.....

RESERVE FUND.....

TOTAL ASSETS.....

OFFICE:—Cor'y Bldgs. Toronto St., Toronto

STRAIGHT LOANS,

OR CREDIT FONCIER PLAN.

The Company has a large amount of money to loan on Real Estate securities at the lowest current rate of interest repayable either in one sum or by instalments as may be desired by the borrower.

Applications may be made direct to the office of the Company by letter or otherwise, or to the local representatives always has funds on hand no delay need be apprehended. Expenses reduced to minimum.

Mortgages and Municipal Debentures purchased.

J. HERBERT MASON, Managing Director.

STATE REQUI
TORONTO
FIRE PU SEEDS
ALL PURPOSES
the Conviction
OLL'S ferior Oil of Co
Manufacture
DINE NE OIL.
ading dealers. | McColl Bros. & C
Toronto
OLLEGE
Y, COBOURG) BELLEVILLE, O
000 different students. It offers unsurpassed etc., at a moderate cost. The Collegiate iences and Philosophy. The Academy of never so popular as now. The Business Penmanship a specialty. The School of urses.
he Methodist Church, in which the Rev. Dr.
part, will be given during the winter months.
rum as formerly) is granted to students
Fall Term begins September 8th.
ND CIRCULARS, ADDRESS
.A., PRESIDENT
ERS & CO.,
RS OF
less CHINE OILS.
een City Oil Works
TORONTO.
HNSTON'S FLUID BE the only preparation of the kind which ll the nutritious, together with the stimul rties of beef, and the only one which has to supply nourishment for brains, and uscle.
" WRINGER
ONLY $ Clothes wri of All Kind
"Royal Ca
lian," "Im al," "King," Mangles,
Roller and T
Roller. Write
particulars.
UFACTURERS, HAMILTON, C
perior Merit
EY'S
AIR FURNACE
Heaters in the Market for warmi
s and Private Residences. Simp with less consumption of fuel than any sizes are made and can be set atalogues and further information addr
URNEY CO.
TON.
eap Telescope
ble Achromatic Telescope that will e church clock in Toronto at three extra astronomical eye piece and sun omical use. It will show Jupiter's he sun, mountains in the moon, &c.
dress on receipt of $5.50.
S. POTTER, Optic
ING ST. EAST, TORONTO.
[ESTABLISHED 30 YEARS.]
ADA PERMANE
OAN & SAVINGS COMPANY
INCORPORATED A.D. 1855.
RIBED CAPITAL.....
UP CAPITAL.....
VE FUND.....
ASSETS.....
:—Coy's Bldgs. Toronto St., Toron
STRAIGHT LOANS.
CREDIT FONCIER PLAN.
pany has a large amount of money to e securities at the lowest current rate yable either in one sum or by ired by the borrower.
ions may be made direct to the r otherwise, or to the local any throughout Ontario.
funds on hand no delay reduced to minimum.
s and Municipal Debentures
HERBERT MASON, Managing

YOUNG FOLKS.

The True Story of Hi-Diddle-Diddle.

(CONCLUDED.)

"Oh, no," says Tiny, in a strange voice
, I must be going, I left no one at home my new girl. You can't conceive," says little midget, "what trouble my servants e me." And Tiny sat down with her her's shawl on dragging three feet bed, and holding an old parasol over her d.

"I quite pity you," says Milly, who has a and one glove, and a huge bonnet on, told Jane last night, that I positively ld endure it no longer, and I have given notice. But I haven't asked you yet ut the children. Has the baby got rid of cough yet? the little dear."

"Oh, no," says Tiny, nearly bursting, "I nk yes she is quite well thank you. How "The strawberries are all ready," says ly, in her own voice, "let's be done.

e, you dear, dear, good old girl, have you sugar and everything?"

ane had the sugar and everything, and ly and Tiny dropped their strange voices, shawl, and the bonnet, and took up their ons.

ust then Jack and Ned, with Carlo and cow, appeared at one end of the bridge;
, who should appear on the other, but le Tom, holding up his bag in one hand, the prettiest little fiddle you ever saw,
he other. He shouted to Jack and Ned, they shouted back, fifty "Uncle Tom"
he flourished the fiddle in the air.

he girls didn't know what to do—the cow d still, and was ready to bolt in any diion. Mamma appeared at the gate, and old miller put his head out of the mill, threw a boot at something. It was a cat;
Carlo saw the cat. He made one dash abby, and they both started off, across road, down the lawn, under the table, over the bridge, before you could count
They tipped over the table and spilled rything, cream, berries and all; and the es, and the dish, and the spoons went ng down the hill side into the water.
y scraped by Uncle Tom, who flourished iddle at them, and brushed the cat's tail it; they crossed the bridge, and in and of the cow's legs, and horns, and tail; got away from every kick and hook, and ed away around the mill and back again, the poor cow couldn't stand any more, e made two jumps, first to one side and back again; and dashed off as if fifty and cats were after her; and when she e to the bars thought no more of jump-ver them, than if they were just nothing
l. Little Milly was very fond of the and kept her eye on her during the cat dog race, and watched her jump over ars—ever so much higher than there ny need for. Now, the big round moon getting up, and shone with its fat face between the parts where the bars were, really looked as if the cow jumped over oon.

e miller came out to see Tom, and the came with him; and every one was ng and asking questions, all at once, o one getting or giving an answer. Card got back from his chase after the cat, was lying on the bridge, puffing and ng, with his tongue out.

Mamma," said Milly, quite in earnest, ow jumped over the moon."

Over the gate, you mean," says Jack.

No I don't," said Milly, "I saw her over the moon; and there is the big just getting up."

on" says Ned, "and there is Carlo on ridge, with his tongue out, laughing."

Oh ho!" says Uncle Tom, "we have the nd the fiddle, the cow jumped over oon. I wonder what next. The little ughs to see the sport. Eh, Ned?'

Well, well!" said the mother, "whatever is there in that? My beautiful berries d, the dishes and spoons thrown all on the grass, and maybe lost. There, are, is the dish floating down on the
."

There's a spoon in the dish," says Jack, dish is running off with the spoon."

the miller went down with a long pole drew out the runaway dish and spoon, Uncle Tom and the whole family went ea. That night, all the children ht about it, and dreamt about it; and morning Uncle Tom put it into rhyme e for each child—and that is the way er it now.

OSTO, 1885.

---

hemical paradox—That Prussian blue l make tea green.

ina, whose language is flowery, called s "a daisy," during their engage-; during their honeymoon he called a pink," and now when she meets him a roll-pin, at 2 o'clock in the morning, s her a "night-blooming serious."

k (to Mr. Isaacstein in back room)— Isaacstein, der shentlemans who is g at dot beautiful $17 coat says he a clergymans." Mr. Isaacstein—e dot shentlemens who vas a clergy-no per cend. discount off." Clerk—shentlemans says he vill give five toldot coat, und not a cent more." Mr.
stein—"Let him have dot coat, but dond make no discount off."

ROMANCE OF A LIGHTHOUSE.

The Light-Keeper's Daughter at Long Point.

Excursionists from Erie have all noticed the first object on the other side which greets the eye, the high light tower, on the extreme end of Long Point, but none of them, probably, know anything about the romantic story concerning the light keeper's daughter. The girl is a sturdy, swarthy-faced maid, with a wealth of black hair flowing down her back, the ends bound together by a ribbon as black as the hair itself. Her dress is a loose gown of black, made in the simplest style, and reaching only to her ankles. She is only about 26 years, but her expression is that of a woman of 40 whose years had been full of trouble. She is known simply as Bessie by the simple dwellers on the mainland. Upon her devolves all the work and dangers of the position her father holds, and once a week a little cat-rigged boat darts out from the point and bobs away for a fresh supply of provisions. Sometimes it heads for Erie, across the lake, and sometimes for Port Colborne. Whenever the boat is seen by persons familiar with the lake and its surroundings they know that the silent figure sitting in the stern is Bessie the daughter of the old man who keeps the lighthouse. They remember when she was the most light-hearted girl in Ontario, when bright ribbon bedecked her hair and dress, and when her face always wore a smile. At that time she guided her boat close in shore, laughing and joking with the villagers who ran down to the water line to greet her. These villagers tell why she changed from a gay, laughing girl into a serious woman.

In the fall of 1879, they say, a jaunty little steam yacht puffed up the lake. It carried a group of young men who had come from Buffalo to enjoy a week's shooting along the Canadian shore. The men had many narrow escapes from the rocks and bars, and reached the sheltered water north of the point sadly in need of rest. After they had anchored there most of the party landed and started inland to seek provisions. Two of the party were left on board the yacht to look out for things, and bring the commissary party on board when it returned. A great storm came with the darkness, and the wind swept up the lake and lashed the water into white-capped waves. The little yacht was beaten about like an eggshell. The anchor was too small to hold it, and the men on board discovered that she was rapidly drifting on the rocks that fringed the edge of the point. The storm increased in violence, and at midnight when the darkness was so intense the men could not see the length of the little vessel, a big wave lifted her up and dropped her down on a mass of rocks. The bottom was shivered, and a few minutes later she went apart and the men were in the water.

Bessie had seen the yacht at her anchorage, and when she climbed the tower to light the lamps, saw a bank of clouds that told her plainly enough that a storm was at hand. So, when the next morning broke clear and bright, and the yacht had disappeared, she knew that the waves had beaten it apart. She started down the narrow irregular path to see what had driven ashore. First she saw a little group of men on the mainland with their hands above their eyes, looking out anxiously over the water. Then she came to a broken mast and a battered hull. A minute later she saw the form of a man stretched out, with his face buried in long, damp grass. She turned him over and saw that he was still alive. Then she sprang out on a rock and waved her hands and shouted with all her might for a boat. After a few minutes a boat left the shore, and two pairs of strong arms urged it toward her. It contained two of the villagers. They told her that one of the yachtsmen had reached the mainland after the yacht went to pieces, and succeeded in dragging his companion out of reach of the waves. Then he had given the alarm, but the waves were so high that no small boat could be launched before morning.

"Where shall we take the man?" asked one of the boatmen.

"Put him into the boat and row him around to the lighthouse," Bessie said. "We have room enough and time to take care of him."

The best bed in the lighthouse was arranged for him, and Bessie became his nurse. The man's friends visited him twice, and then, seeing that he was in good hands, left him. In a few days the young man was able to sit up. He was a good-looking young fellow, tall and slim, with large grey eyes, and a tawny mustache. He said his name was Edward Clayton, that he was an Englishman, and had no relatives in America. He grew stronger day by day, and with health came affection for his nurse.

"Bessie," he said to her one evening after they had lighted the lamp in the tower, "I love you. Be my wife."

The girl's eyes dropped. Then she told him she could not leave her father.

"There will always be a place for him at our fireside. He will come with us and be my father, too," he answered.

They told the father of their love for each other, ending it with a request for the old man to make his home with them.

"For 50 years," he said, "I have lived here. I know no other part of the world except the village back here, where I grew into manhood. I am too old to stand replanting now, and shall stay till I die. Bessie must not leave me, for without her the lamp could not be cared for, and if that was neglected another man would come here and drive me away."

The old man was inexorable, saying in answer to all appeals: "I cannot desert my post."

When the young couple met the next day Edward asked her to go with him, saying that when her father was removed they could care for him. "He should not ask you to pass your youth out here on this barren stretch of land. It is selfish for him to wish it," he added.

"I cannot do that," replied Bessie, with tears. "If, in a storm at night, the lamp should not be lit, a vessel would be driven upon the rocks and lives might be lost. Then I would be responsible. No, I cannot go with you."

The young man pleaded, but Bessie only shook her head in reply. She longed to hear him offer to live upon the point while her father lived, but he made no such offer, and the next day he went away.

For a year afterward Bessie visited the post-office every week, but she never received a letter from Edward, and has never seen him since. So she grew into a prematurely aged woman, who is always clad in somber raiment. The light in the tower never fails to burn at night. But for that Bessie and her father would be as utterly forgotten by the little world around them as though tombstones and not the lighthouse tower, marked their resting place.

CANNIBAL RITES.

Horrible Festivals after Warlike Raids in Dahomey.

The system of "warfare" followed by the Dahomians is the usual barbarous one of surprise. When the king declares war—a formality which he carefully observes year after year—he rarely tells even the chief "caboceers" the name of the town he intends to attack. The army marches out, and when within a day's journey or so of its unhappy objective point silence at pain of instant death is enjoined, and no fires are permitted to be lighted. All stragglers are taken prisoners, and the army is led through the bush, and not along the regular highways. The town is surrounded in the dead of night, and just before daybreak a rush is made, and every man, woman and child not killed in the melee is captured, if possible, and sent to the Dahomian capital, Abomey, where some grace the succeeding custom (annual sacrificial ceremonies), and others are sent as slaves to distant parts of the kingdom. Cannibalism, or something that approaches it very nearly, enters into the rites of the ninth or concluding ceremony of the yearly custom. Four men, known as the menduton or cannibals, each furnished with sharpened sticks by way of fork and knife, are stationed in front of the platform from which the victims are thrown before decapitation. When the first captive is beheaded they take the body and cut off pieces of flesh, which they rub with palm oil and roast over a fire kindled in the square before the platform. The human flesh is then skewered on a pointed stick and carried round before the crowd, after which these fiends parade before the State prisoners, and go through the action of eating the sickening morsels. They chew the human meat before the terrified captives, but do not swallow it; and when they have worked on the fears of the poor wretches for a sufficient time, they retire, and spitting out the chewed flesh, take strong native medicine, which acts as an emetic; and it is to be hoped that the dose is by no way stinted. Does it not seem hard to realize that in this day of grace 1885 so atrocious a monarchy as favours such horrors as these exists and has its being within a few miles of territory living under French influence, and constantly visited by their representative from Lagos?

HUMORS OF THE TIME.

To the vixens belong the broils.

No man can carry a feather bed and look graceful.

Oil producers know how to get along well. All they have to do is to drill it deep.

In olden times warriors were proud to be in the van. Nowadays if a man fights and gets in the van he quickly calls on his friends to come and bail him out.

"A girl who permits of no familiarities by the gentleman of the house" advertised for a situation, and she received 580 answers in two days.

"There's plenty of room at the bottom," said the undertow, as it tried to yank the dude off his pins; but the dude having plenty of room at the top, declined with a gurgle.

Clerk—"What do you say? A shovel engineer on the railway! You mean a civil engineer." She—"Oh, dessay you're right, sor. It's him that shovels coal into the engine."

What is the difference between weathering a storm in a pleasure craft and sitting carelessly in a ship's boat? One is yachting in a squall, and the other is squatting in a yawl.

NEWSY NOTES

Mr. John Roach, the Philadelphia shipbuilder, is an Irishman from the neighborhood of Mitchellstown, in the county of Cork.

Brandy used to be the drink par excellence of the Southerner. It was displaced by whiskey; and now whiskey is giving way to wine, ale, and beer.

An organ of the London printing trade reminds its readers that Lord Salisbury was a strong opponent of reduction of duties on newspaper stamps and paper, so that printers have no cause to love him.

Prince Louis of Battenberg is an excellent practical printer, and once when his ship reached a small port where no one was competent to print the programmes required for a dance given by the officers, the Prince came forward and undertook the work.

Clams to the number of a dozen or so fell recently from a clear sky at Mamscato, Minn, the velocity of their decent shattering the shells. The clams were alive and about four inches in length. The phenomenon, it is said, was witnessed by several trustworthy men.

Capt. Richard G. Luce, who died at Vineyard Haven, Mass., last week, was, during his life, at sea 310 months, or nearly twenty-six years. He landed in New Bedford 38,000 barrels of whale oil, 8 500 of sperm oil, and 393,000 pounds of whalebone, and he was called the champion of the whale fishery.

An Indian headstone, about the size of a large water pitcher, and similar in shape, except that the top is oval, was found in the Housatonic River lately by a resident of Brookfield, Conn. On the oval shape part are wrought two distinct hieroglyphics. On the sides of the stone are also curious carvings. Experts pronounce it one of the finest specimens of Indian headstones in the country.

The colored people of New Bedford had a memorial meeting in honor of Gen. Grant the other evening, at which addresses were made by several clergymen. One of the speakers electrified the assemblage with this declaration: "I believe that when such names as Hannibal shall have been lost in the vortex of revolution, the name of U.S. Grant shall shine like the morning star in the military diadem."

A preacher in Youngstown, Ohio, having declared from his pulpit—"on the authority of a prominent physician"—that "no less than six ladies belonging to the best circles require his attendance every month for delirium tremens," the doctors have held a meeting, pronounced the statement to be ridiculous, and demanded that the name of the "prominent physician" shall be given. This the clergyman promises to do.

An entirely new kind of bank note, printed in colors, instead of the black and white of the Bank of England notes, is being prepared for issue by the Bank of Scotland. The chief novelty of the new note is in its colors, which will, of course, make reproduction by photography impossible, and, it is believed, will prevent forgery. The paper on which the bank note is printed is made by the same firm that produces the Bank of England note.

The place of the Keeper of the Royal Tennis Court is vacant through the death of the Right Hon. W. Beresford, the last holder of the sinecure, which is worth $6,000 a year. For this pittance the Governor is expected to visit the court once a year and see that it still exists. A somewhat similar sinecure is the Governorship of Duck Pond Island, a piece of ground about as large as the assembly room in the Cooper Institute, created by the Merry Monarch, the salary is $7,500.

A London paper says: "A telegram from Belgium, to the effect that the dock laborers on the Scheldt have consented to the erection of a grain elevator, reminds one that less than 'sixty years since' such an exhibition of labor-saving machinery as that now being held at South Kensington would have been impossible. If attempted, it would have been wrecked by an infuriated mob A good deal of enlightenment on the subject of machinery and hand labor has taken place since then."

Crinoline seems to be exceedingly ancient. Hesiod, who wrote in the eighth century before Christ, must have observed something of the kind, for he advises young men not to be led astray by certain women of his day who wore their clothes puffed out behind. If dress improvers were actually worn by the Greek women of Hesiod's day it is not improbable that they were also worn 200 years earlier, and that Helen, when she fled with Paris to troy, wore some primitive kind of crinoline.

San Francisco continues one of the healthiest cities in the world, with an annual death rate of 19.58 per thousand, which is lower than the death rate in thirteen foreign cities and eleven American cities selected for comparison—that is to say, of foreign cities, London, Liverpool, Manchester, Sheffield, Leeds, Hull, Stockholm, Buenos Ayres, Dublin, Belfast, Berlin, Munich, and Hamburg; and of American cities, New York, Boston, Pittsburg, Washington, St. Louis, New Orleans, Charleston, Baltimore, Savannah, and Richmond.

The champion family for elaborate names it is to be found near Hardee, Ark. The father's name is Elisha Shirley, his wife's name is Harriet Susannah Maria Jane Shirley, and their oldest daughter, 15 years old, is called Ann Elizabeth Dixie Shirley. Then comes Benjamin Kirby Smith General Hardee Shirley, aged 13; Robert Enos Napoleon Bonaparte Lee Wilkes Booth Shirley, who is 9 years old; John Thomas Emanual Forest Champion Gatewood Shirley is 7 years old, while Joseph Wheeler Zollicoffer Stonewall Jackson Sam Hildebrand Sterling Prince Shirley is 5 years old. The family ends with Mary Virginia South Carolina Florida Georgia Alabama Louisiana Shirley, who is 3 years old. Surely it would be hard to beat this.

The Tobacco Habit.

The tobacco habit is one of the forms of both sedative and stimultaion, which seem to be regarded by the rudest, as well as the most accomplished being. Something in man impels him to be happier.

The rude Mexican pounds the century plant till he can get fermentation in it, and then he drinks himself drunk.

The methodical Chinaman, who has a duty for every day in the year, and saves his money better than the miser, had the citadel of his nature stormed by opium, and against the command of his government and his religion, he sits down and smokes himself into stupefaction.

The Turk, precluded from liquor by his religion, tortures himself between the harem and the pipe.

The English beer-drinker comes to a place where malt and hops will no longer satisfy, and he must drug his beer to make it palatable, and the publichouse which he frequents obliges him in that respect by opening the bung-hole and dropping in tobacco or pepper, or something sufficiently strong.

Nothing is more remarkable in the United States than the growth of the cigar business. Before the Rebellion, Havana manufactured the best, and probably the most of our cigars. After the duties were made high, the cigar-making business was transferred within our revenue jurisdiction, first to Key Wes, and then to New York. The war itself was provocative of the smoking habit, as it multiplied excitement, and left hundreds of thousands of men in tents, waiting for battle; and there they smoked because they had no other form of enjoyment.

So the growth of tobacco was introduced into the Northern States, and now the North raises the best smoking tobacco for cigars, and the tobacco interest in some of the Western States, amount to millions per annum.

There are said to be 50,000 persons in New York, rolling cigars or stripping the leaf. In almost every little village there are cigar factories.

The Germans and Spanish were formerly the most smokeful of nations, but we are close upon them, now, although it is common in this country to find men who never smoked a cigar, and I have often noticed that some men who drank to excess had never put a cigar in their mouths.

The drunkard fancies that he is to save his life, notwithstanding the liquor, by rejecting some other bad habit. The best cure for both liquor and tobacco, is the open air, and not the open air of cities, so much as that of the country.

Country people are inclined to chew tobacco instead of smoking it. A ride of thirty miles through the open country is a cure, in part, for both liquor and tobacco.

General Grant kept this open-air treatment up nearly all his life. Either on horseback or in a carriage, he has ridden constantly, and down to a very late period, and his trip around the world, in steamers, vessels and vehicles, gave him inspiration of the same sort.

The Slips of Orators.

Irish orators are peculiarly liable to trip in their imagery. The extreme mobility of the Celtic mind, the rapidity with which it accomplishes its processes, while highly conducive to fluency and vivacity, is answerable at the same time for a large share of the bulls and blunders which Irish speakers are notoriously liable to commit, and which even the most finished Irish orators have not always been successful in guarding against. Half the so-called Irish bulls are mixed metaphors. The Home Rule member who spoke of a recent measure as "another link added to the chain of Irish freedom," may be said to have added another gem to the crown of Hibernian rhetoric, and the agitator who complained about the same time that "innocent men are being constantly sent to the gallows, where their blood was shed by the English hangman," showed the boldness in his dealings with language to which Anglo-Saxon speakers never rise Nor could Sir Boyle Roche himself have improved on a passage in a speech of one of the Land League orators in which he drew a harrowing picture of the woes of his country. "Ireland," he said among other things, "is overrun with absentee landlords. The cup of her misery is overflowing—aye, and it is not full yet."

Ill humor often comes like chemical preparations, from a retort.

The Standard.

MARKDALE AUGUST 27, 1885.

CHANGE IN THE SIZE.

We expect to reduce the size of the STANDARD shortly; yet, when we compare the amount of space taken up by advertisements with that in other local papers, we will be giving more reading matter even with the new size than the majority of them.

It is a strange fact that, notwithstanding the large and general circulation of the STANDARD through the district surrounding Markdale, there is not one of our merchants who has a standing advertisement in the paper, and this is the reason we are obliged to make the above change.

We regret to take this step, but cannot, nor will not run the concern at a loss. We expect to make the STANDARD as interesting and valuable, and, by a little boiling down, make it contain as much news matter (though in smaller compass) as heretofore, and feel assured that our numerous patrons will be fully satisfied.

THE HARVEST.

The recent very weat weather, together with the partial failure of spring wheat, caused by rust, is causing a general feeling of despondency throughout agricultural districts as well as villages, which latter is wholly dependent upon the surrounding country for support. This is not to be wondered at when taking into consideration the hard times of the past two years, yet when we look the present state of affairs straight in the face, the outlook is not so discouraging as many would have us believe. The hay crop has been an average, and saved in the best possible condition. The fall wheat, though not a great breadth sown, is fully up to an average yield, and a good sample. Spring wheat is (as far as we can learn) not more than half in value what it would have been had nothing happened it, yet when we consider that there was a good prospect three weeks ago for fully twenty-five per cent. over an average crop, it will be easily seen that the yield may yet run over half an average crop.

Barley is heavy, but the color is so injured that twenty-five per cent. may be deducted from an ayerage crop. Oats and peas are largely sown, and a universal good yield and fine sample. The season has been favorable for dairying, though the prices of both butter and cheese rules low; stock is also slow on the market; roots have a very promising appearance, and fruit is below the average. Now, taking the whole, we consider that the season's operations will be very little, if any, below the average in point of profit, though it is best to step with caution and continue to practice economy, yet there is no valid reason for allowing despondency to take the place of cheerfulness and hope.

WILL RIEL HANG?

The above is doubtless the universal question of the day in Canada. It is also one impossible to answer with any degree of certainty. If the question was, shoufd Riel be hung? we believe the answer from every loyal British subject would be, Yes, most decidedly. He had as fair a trial as it was possible for any criminal to receive; an intelligent jury weighed the evidence carefully, and pronounced him guilty. Now the very least the authorities can do in the interests of their country, not only, of the North-West, but of the entire Dominion is, to carry out the sentence.

A RADICAL CHANGE.

The best eradicator of foul humors of the Blood is Burdock Blood Bitters. A few bottles produces a radical change for the better in health and beauty. It removes the blood taint of Scrofula, that terrible disease so common in this country.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

Tobermory, Aug. 12, 1885.

DEAR SIR,—Since my first letter to the STANDARD I have had a more extended experience of this part of this Indian peninsula.

In the townships of Eastnor, Lindsay and St. Edmunds there are some very fine lands. As my mission extends through St. Edmund and part of Lindsay, I have a good opportunity of getting acquainted with the advantages and disadvantages of these townships. One great drawback is the want of good roads; in St. Edmunds especially the settlers have to use "jumpers" as they call them, in summer as well as in winter, consequently many of the settlers here are doomed to hard times unless the government takes the matter in hand, and construct good roads, so as to give the settlers a communication with the lakes. There are several places on the Georgian Bay, and also on Lake Huron, where good safe harbors could be constructed which would give the inhabitants of these townships the advantage of selling their timber as they do in other places. The construction of a railway through this peninsula I think would be a great advantage and a remunerative enterprise. Tobermory at the extreme end of this peninsula, would be the best terminus, as it is one of the best harbors in Canadian waters. Here you can harbor one thousand vessels of the largest tonnage. The depth of water is from 40 to 80 feet, with a perpendicular rock 40 feet below the water. The vessels can lie up close to the rock, and made fast by cable rings drilled into the rocks. The rock comes level with the gun hole, making it very easy for loading and unloading. Here, too, a vessel need remain no time waiting on wind, for by the aid of a steam tug for half an hour she can be toed out where she can have plenty of wind to sail to any point, whereas at other harbors along the Georgian Bay vessels has to be toed a long distance before they can help themselves. Elevators could be built close enough to the water so as to bring the vessels within at least six feet of the elevators. Again, the construction of a railway through this peninsula would shorten the route to Chicago and the North-West by at least 60 miles, which is a very important item. There are some other important interests connected with this place. The land not adapted for agricultural purposes, could be used to good advantage for cattle ranches. Upon the rocks I have noticed with a very thin coating of clay, a very good crop of timothy hay. The country is well watered; it abounds with rivers and lakes. Another remunerative article is stone. The lime-stone of this place is the best I have ever seen, more like free-stone than lime-stone, in squares and thicknesses of various sizes. Even now American vessels take stone from this peninsula. Before I close there are one or two more articles, Mr. Editor, which I wish to mention, and which I think are very little benefit to any country. I know they are very disagreeable to me in my travels through these roads, I mean the bears and the rattle-snakes. More anon.

P. SPARLING.

Rambling Notes.

The STANDARD having given a description of the A. O. U. W. trip to Wiarton 'tis unnecessary to enlarge on it. I, however, stayed over at Wiarton, which is rather a smart little place, though business men complain of dulness even worse than in Markdale. Wiarton has found the necessity of building a roller mill by one of its enterprising citizens, which will certainly give the place the increased business activity you can see Wiarton needed. Being in County Bruce, the Scott Act is in full operation here, and I was sorry to notice that although a dinner was difficult to get on the excursion day, the soaky citizens of Wiarton had no difficulty in obtaining whisky and intoxicants ad libitum. I noticed next morning more people "Just so, you know," than I would see in a month at Markdale. I observed a good many Indian settlers came into town with good horses and buggies, &c., and concluded the Franchise hit its mark here any how.

The country from here to Harriston and Palmerston is a fine agricultural country, with crops about the same as round Markdale, and was sorry to observe that rust was as bad on the spring wheat nearly all through Bruce as here, if not worse. In fact rust, was the farmers complaint, clear to Guelph. Through Bruce and Wellington Counties, even into Halton, it is impossible to travel through this fine section without admiration of its growth and progress—smiling fields, neat progressive villages and towns, churches and manufactories—all indicating a district of rich agricultural resources and industrious, prosperous settlers. Chesley, Tara, Harriston, Palmerston and several other places, show more marked rapid advancement in a shorter period than otherwise noticed north of Toronto. I spent my Sunday at Harriston, a neat, pretty town, showing umistakable signs of rapid advancement and acquired wealth. Here are the splendid mills of Mr. Ramage, run with rolls; oatmeal and pearl barley manufacture, &c.; and I must add that the hotel accommodation of the Collison House, a traveller gets a Sunday's repose in that quiet and comfort and treatment rare to obtain in city or country. Although no Scott Act here, sobriety and quietness is the marked characteristics of this quiet retreat.

I may here remark that in Bruce, the Scott Act was more marked by the breach than the observance of its laws. As to business generally, for its size Markdale holds its own with well defined success equal to any place of its size I visited. One indication of Canada's enterprises and rapid advancement, I came across more than a dozen real wealthy and several retired farmers whom I had formerly known as poor English farm hands and laborers, now wealthy, cosy, contented and retired. To fully enumerate these successes in this tour would fill your paper.

Arriving at Acton, in Halton Co., the scenes of my Canadian early days I found had grown from a small settlement to a very neat, pretty large village, being surrounded by a rich agricultural district, whose early settlers were of that industrious, enerjetic kind makes a country bloom, blosom, and advance so fast. Acton now complains much of business depression generally. Some attribute this thus, Acton has no roller or real good flour mill, other places around it has, hence Acton's merchants and business men suffer, while neighboring villages hold their own and advance.

It matters not what scene or spot
Of ramble or retreat,
This is the place of early days,
And in all season sweet;
For there's a charm, attachment warm,
Fond cherishes and still,
Where'ere I roam, I feel that HOME,
And think of Acton mill,

ANTHONY HOMESPUN.

"WHAT SAY YOU TO A PIECE OF ROAST BEEF AND MUSTARD?"

Well, there is much to be said. The question being asked of the banqueter at the average boarding house, calls up reminiscences of close contiguity to the horns, and beefstake three cuts south thereof. He, of course, will pass unless it occurs to him that he needs a hinge for his trunk. Should there be any suffering, the effects of an indulgence is such sinuous fare use McGregor's Speedy Cure, a sure and effectual remedy for Dyspepsia, Constipation and all affections of the stomach and liver. Sold by Hill Bro's. Trial bottles free. 5

Is Louis Riel a Madman?

Is Louis Riel a madman? Both the judge and the jury by whom he has been tried have answered this question in the negative; and in all probability ninety-nine out of every hundred who have read the reports of the trial which have been published in the newspapers have come to the same conclusion. It may be indeed that he is not perfectly sane; there are probably very few who are in that position. To say that he is a crank, is only to affirm of him what is true of a very considerable proportion of mankind. It is only the skilful physician of very large practice who has any idea of how very small number of human beings, comparatively, enjoy perfect health, and perhaps the number of those who are of perfectly sound mind is not very much larger. Most of us have fixed ideas which interfere with the proper exercise of our judgment. But this, wherever it exists, is insanity as far as it goes. It may have its root in prejudice or passion, it may result from a wrong condition of the blood or of the brain, but so long as it gives an abnormal coloring to the objects of thought and an improper bent to the mind the result is insanity, and the subject of the fixed idea, though not necessarily a madman is, in this particular, a crank.—Truth.

A NATIONAL EVIL.

There is no question but that Dyspepsia is a national disease of our country, and when complicated with diseases of the Liver and Kidneys is the cause of untold misery. Burdock Blood Bitters will almost invariably cure the worst case known.

B. LAURANCE'S
Spectacles and Eye-Glasses
—ARE THE ONLY—
GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES
—IN THE—
CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities, but it further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER & Co., - - Chemists and Druggists,
MARKDALE, ONT,

The only place in town where they can be obtained.
☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

We will send the "Standard" to any address the balance of the year for 25 cents cash.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 78	to	0 80
Barley	50	to	55
Peas	55	to	56
Oats	29	o
Butter	10	to	12
Eggs	10	to	00
Apples	50	to	75
Potatoes	30	to	40
Hay	0 00	to	8 00
Pork	5 00	to	5 00
Flour	3 75	to	4 25
Wool	17	to	18

A SURE THING.

A SURE CURE FOR SUMMER COMPLAINTS —Procure from your druggist one 37½-cent bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and use according to directions. It is infallible for Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus, Cankers of the Stomach and Bowels, and Cholera Infantum.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,
H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GILBERT S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Goderich.

THE CELEBRATED DR. CHASE'S MANDRAKE & DANDELION LIVER CURE

HAVE YOU
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a deranged liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a speedy and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY
The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with some other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood. 500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Books were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman, and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE
Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Recipe Book (84 pages), containing over 800 useful receipts pronounced by medical men and druggists to be invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 1500 pages.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

☞ EDMANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Toronto.

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourbon, Ind., says: "Both myself and wife owe our lives to SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE." Sold by A. Turner & Co. 1

School Matters.

As a number of the trustees are under a misapprehension relative to the recent school legislation with regard to the payment of Teachers' salaries, we think a few words of explanation not amiss. In the County of Dufferin where a Mr. Gordon is Inspector, a Teacher, Mr. Sutherland, demanded his salary quarterly, and showed the Trustees the recent change in the School law. They refused to borrow money, and said they would pay as heretofore at the end of the year, except the grants. The Inspector was appealed to, and he said that the law was that the Trustees must pay Teachers' quarterly. The Trustees then appealed to the Minister of Education, and he said the law was not at all compulsory, but simply permissive. Therefore Trustees are not at all compelled to pay till the end of the year. —Thornbury Standard.

SPRING AND SUMMER.

Prepare the body for health and vigor by taking Dr. Chase's Liver Cure. No Spring Medicine equals it. It stimulates the Liver aids digestion, and purifies the blood. Large bottle and Recipe Book, $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Sept.

Go to Your Local Fair.

Well-to-do farmers, who can afford the expense, makes it a point to go to the Provincial Exhibition and Industrial Fair, and to exhibit there. This is commendable, provided such farmers do not entirely ignore the county, or other local fair. The local fairs really do more for the improvement of agriculture than do the large fairs. to make them useful, all the farmers should exhibit at them, and for their best. The good done at these fairs, where the majority of visitors know one another, through their social opportunities—allowing farmers and their wives to meet one another, and talk over matters of mutual interest, is incalculable. By all means go to the local fair, and exhibit the best you have. If some one takes the premium you expected—all the better. Find out why you failed. Make a day at the fair, giving it to learning from what is exhibited by others, and to teaching by what you have to exhibit. Be ready to listen and to talk. Be sure and take the children.

ON THE RISE.

"Leaves have their time to fall," says the poet, but Wild Strawberry leaves are on the rise just now, being utilized in such enormous quantities in making Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry—the infallible remedy for Cholera Morbus, Diarrhœa and other Summer Complaints.

Shelburne.

BRILLIANT HONOURS TO A CANADIAN YOUNG LADY AT NEW ORLEANS.

SHELBURNE, Aug. 21.—Miss Airth, a young lady whose home is at Shelburne, Ont., but who is at present visiting relatives in Florida, has recently received from the management of the World's Exposition in New Orleans a diploma and award of merit for a beautifully etched table which she had on exhibition there. Considering the magnitude of the Exposition, in which works of art were ranged in competition from all parts of the world, Miss Airth's success is highly creditable, not alone to herself, but to Canadian art as well.

NONE BETTER.

There is no more wholesome or delicious fruit on earth than the Wild Strawberry, and there is no more effectual remedy for Cholera, Dysentery, Cramps and other summer complaints of infants or adults, than Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

A Cellar for Summer.

A cellar is the best method of preserving coolness in summer. It can be kept as cool as the lowest summer temperature, and as the grounds is, which is doing as well as is possible, without artifical methods of cooling. A cellar should be made in a dry place, and well protected from the sun's heat; it should have good means of ventilation, and can always be kept dry by the use of freshly burned lime, of which one peck put into a damp cellar, will absorb four quarts of water, before it will appear in the slightest degree damp. A bushel of fresh lime, weighing eighty pounds, will absorb dry powder. A cellar can thus be very easily kept dry. The lime is still valuable for use for plaster, or as manure.

Fall Shows 1885.

Industrial, Toronto, Sept. 7th to 19th.

Glenelg, Markdale, Oct. 1st and 2nd.

East Grey, Flesherton, Sept. 29th and 30th.

South Grey, Durham, Sept. 29th and 30th.

Euphrasia, Rocklyn, Oct. 9th.

Osprey, Maxwell, Oct. 8th.

Holland, Chatsworth, Oct. 6th.

Proton, Dundalk, Oct. 5th & 6th.

WHY WILL YOU cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief. Price 10 cts., 50 cts., and $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

Fatal Cyclone in Muskoka.

BRACEBRIDGE, Aug. 24.—A cyclone passed over the north end of Muskoka district on Friday evening last, which literally swept everything out of its path, mowing down the trees, unroofing houses, barns, etc. Its course was from west to east. Several narrow escapes have been heard of and two deaths, children of Mr. Crowder, who resides on Skeleton lake, in the township of Stephenson. The bodies of the children were discovered under a fallen tree.

A HEARTY ENDORSEMENT.

The people, the press and the profession all heartily endorse the merits of Burdock Blood Bitters as the best Blood and Liver regulator and purifying tonic now in use.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan, Elevator, Resturant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

Prospects of the C. P. R.

Montreal, Aug. 24.—Geo. Stephen, President of the Canadian Pacific railway, who has just returned from England, says there is a very much better feeling in England towards the enterprise. He does not expect much this year from emigration, but believes a fair basis has been laid for the future.

Ottawa, Aug. 24.—The Pacific railway syndicate announce that they will not require the five millions of treasury bills granted them under the act of last session. They have been able to float fifteen millions of bonds.

A WISE PRECAUTION.

During the Summer and Fall people are liable to sudden attacks of bowel complaints, and with no prompt remedy or medical aid at hand, life may be in danger. Those whose experience has given them wisdom, always keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry at hand for prompt relief, and a Physician is seldom required.

Heavy Frosts in the Northwest.

A cold wave struck the Northwest on Saturday, accompanied by heavy frosts at night. Fortunately the crops are too far advanced for any serious damage to be done, seeding having been unusually early this year. The wave extended throughout the Northwestern states, taking in the whole of Minnesota.

Poultry Keeping as a Business.

A hen well cared for, will return a clear profit of at least one dollar, if eggs are only twelve cents a dozen, and chickens ten cents a pound. One hundred eggs are a fair product for a year from a well-fed hen, kept as it should be. This dollar will buy all the feed that is required. Ten pounds of chickens, or two birds, on the average of five pounds each, is a very small product from each hen of a flock, and this will make the other dollar for the profit. The "know how," is all that is needed. This comes through practice and experience, with preliminary study. An Egg Farm, by H. H. Stoddard, is a very good little book to study, to learn how to keep fowls well and profitably.

HAMILTON HAPPENINGS.

There is now being manufactured here an article for instantly removing pain of any acute external nature, and it is certainly the most perfect cure for Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache and the like that has ever been tried. It is called Fluid Lightning from the rapid manner in which it acts, and is manufactured by McGregor & Parke. Sold in Markdale by Hill Bro's. 5

LOCALS.

SHILOH'S CURE will immediately relieve Croup Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

THERE is nothing more heard from the notorious E. E. Knott in the shape of encouragement or consolation for his creditors, which latter are very numerous. They are cropping up in all parts, Markdale not excepted.

IT is just possible that there will be no STANDARD next week.

THERE IS NO EXCUSE.

There is no excuse for the many pale, sallow, weary looking females throughout our land. when Burdock Blood Bitters will regulate their troubles and renew their health, strength and vigor at so small a cost.

MRS. MONTGOMERY, Markdale, will have an auction sale on Saturday next, 29th, when the following and other articles will be sold, viz., 8 stoves, 3 tables, 3 bed steads, cupboard, chairs &c. Sale to commence at 4 o'clock p. m.

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY—a positive cure for Catarrh, Dipthrie, and Canker Mouth. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x SHIP WRECK.—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McFarland left per Francis Smith on a trip up the lakes intending to stop off a few days at Sault St. Marie; the following telegram came yesterday from W. J. "Francis Smith wrecked passengers saved, rescued by Atlantic" We have not yet learned further particulars.

A NASAL INJECTOR free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

FIELD FIGHT.—The war whoup was raised on our streets last Tuesday night to the great annoyance and disgust of our more peaceful citizens. It appears about a dozen rowdies were in the melee, many of whom is recognizable yet, by the trophies they carried off in the shape of battered and scratched faces.

McGREGOR & PARKE.

Of Hamilton, Ont., are the manufacturers of the greatest healing and purifying compound known for Sores, Burns, Cuts, Scalds, Salt Rheum, Frost Bites, etc. It is called McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Be sure and get the genuine McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate sold by Hill Bro's. at 25c. a box. 5

A FRUITFUL SEASON.

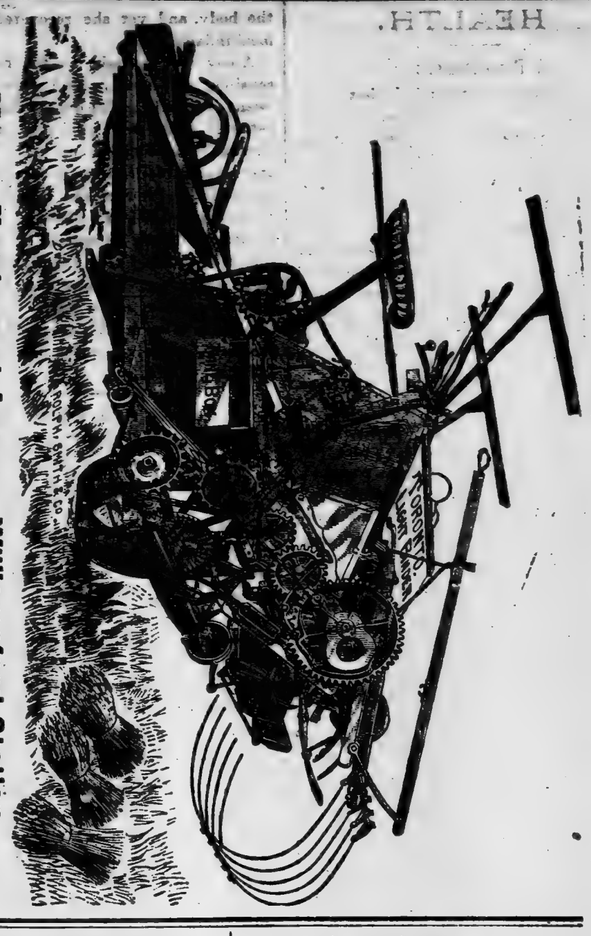
The fruitful season of the year is prolific with many forms of Bowel Complaints, such as Diarrhœa Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, &c., as a safe-guard and positive cure for those distressing and often sudden and dangerous attacks nothing can surpass that old and reliable medicine Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Cheapest First-class Music in the United States.

Look at this list of some of the most popular music published. Printed on the best heavy music paper, good clear print; full sheet music size, and the same as generally retailed all over the United States at thirty to seventy-five cents per copy. Our price is FIVE CENTS per copy, or by mail one cent added for postage. We give the retail price, but remember our price is but FIVE cents. We will send catalogue of 1,000 best selling pieces published, free. Don't pay high exorbitant prices when you can get the same music for about one eighth the price; see the following:

SONGS.

Alice, Where art Thou?	Ascher	30c
Angles Ever Bright and Fair	Handel	35c
Answers	Blumenthal	50c
Blue Alsatian Mountains	Adams	50c
Bridge	Carew	50c
Bridge	Lindsay	35c
Brook	Dolores	35c
Cherry Ripe	Horn	35c
Clang of the Wooden Shoon	Molloy	40c
Dream Faces	Hutchinson	35c
Esmeralda	Levy	35c



INSTRUMENTAL.

Chop Sticks, waltz	De Lulu	25c
Black Hawk, waltz	Walsh	50c
Corn Flower, waltz	Cooke	50c
Queen's Lace Handkerchief	Strauss	40c
Raquet, galop	Richards	40c
Home, Sweet Home	Slack	50c
Shepherd Boy	Wilson	40c
Warblings at Eve	Richards	40c

And 1,000 other songs and instrumental pieces equally as good as the above only six cents per copy, post free. Send for a copy of our Musical Journal, $1.25 per year; sample copy twelve cents.

In sending orders always send cash, post-office order, or postal note, as we get so many stamps we cannot use them, also in all cases mention the paper you saw our advertisement in, so we may do justice to those papers that furnish us business. Address

J. H. THOMAS, Publisher,
259-62 Albany, N. Y.

Massey Implement Agency, Williamsford Station.

Toronto Binder, six-foot cut; Toronto Light Binder, five-foot cut; Massey Low-down Binder, five-foot cut; Massey Harvester; Massey Mower; Toronto Mower; Toronto Mower, 1 horse; Sharpe's Rake. A full stock of repairs for above machines always in stock. Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Also agent for Watson's Patent Churn.

Thos. Willscroft, Williamsford Station.

Voters' List for 1885.

Municipality of the Township of Holland, County of Grey.

NOTICE is hereby given, that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in the third and fourth sections of "The Voters' List Act." the copies required by said sections to be transmitted or delivered of the list made, pursuant to said act, of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality at Elections for members of the Legislative Assembly, and at Municipal Elections; and said list was posted up at my office Holland Centre, Township of Holland, on the 11th day of August, 1885, and remains there for inspection

Electors are called upon to examine the said list, and, if any omissions or any other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

CARSON PRICE,
Clerk of the said Municipality.

Dated the 11th day of August, A. D. 1885.
57-59

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared, well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING,
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT North half of 2, con. 7, Euphrasia, containing 100 acres more or less about 80 acres cleared, balance hard wood; frame barn and hewed log house; Well watered with running spring water: fairly fenced! soil, clay loam; well adapted for stock or grain. Situated 5 miles from Markdale, an important station on the C. P. R. For further particulars apply to

D. C. CRAWFORD,
258-60 Alton P. O., Ont.

Speddings Speedy Saw

THE GREAT ONE MANS SAW, IT HAS no equal, average weight 35lbs., a boy ten years of age can run it. One man sawed 3 cords of hard wood in three hours and forty minutes. Agents write for particulars and secure territory at once. Address

SPEEDY SAW WORKS,
Byng. P.O., Ont.
June 30th, '85. 152-65

FREEMAN'S
WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LOOK! Look! Look!

James C. Russell's
NOTED JEWELLERY STORE.
FLESHERTON,

Is the place to buy

Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.

A large assortment just to hand.

A 1 Solid Silver Watches, Full Jewelled, from $8.50 up to $26, worth from $10.50 to $32.00, warranted from two to five years.

It will pay you to come twenty miles to have your Watch or Clock repaired by Russell.

☞ Satisfaction guaranteed every time.

217-269 JAS. C. RUSSELL.

EUGENIA HOTEL.

EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.

J. McAleer, - - Prop.

The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

Lumber and Shingles.

THE undersigned has constantly on hand all kinds of lumber and first-class cedar shingles for sale. Mill 3½ miles North of Markdale, 11th line Euphrasia.

250-63 FORD & STINSON.

WM. G. GUTHERIE,

Plain & Ornamental Plaster

Opposite the new

Presbyterian Church Markdale.

Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

Monthly Fairs.

Markdale—Saturday before Flesherton.

Chatsworth—Monday before Durham.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.

Orangeville—The second Thursday in each month.

Priceville—Monday before Durham

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.

Hanover—Monday before Durham.

Walkerton—Last Wednesday in every month.

Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.

HEALTH.

A Presentiment.

Is an impression on the mind, that some thing is going to take place, and usually such is the case; perhaps we may say without exaggeration, that something always does occur, after a presentiment is formed, if such were not the fact, we cannot conjecture what would become of everybody. Just imagine for a moment, that something did not take place in such a large world as this!

Presentiments love weak places, hence they flourish among weak-minded people, not necessarily weak-minded by nature, but made so by a diseased body. We are told of a young lady at Kinderhook, who was visited by an apparit on two years ago, at dead hour of night, which announced to her in solemn accents, that in two years she would be the inhabitant of anoth r world; this circumstance had such a depressing influence on her mind, that she pined away by degrees and did die, at the term named, and was buried a few days after.

An eminent clergyman, on parting from another said: "I have a strong presentiment that we shall never meet again," and within a few hours he perished at the Gasconade on the Pacific Railway.

An almost infallible cure for presentiment, however violent, is a good emetic, a grubbing hoe, with a few days' bread and water diet. For ourselves, we would omit the emetic, as we do not patronize physic, except by proxy.

The reason we give medicine at all is that people are always in a hurry, not exactly to get well, but to get able to eat; if they c n only eat, nine out of ten think they are getting along famously. Everybody wants to get well in a minute, and for the bare chances of doing so, with a slight degree of assurance to that effect from any knave who is willing to promise, it having the wit to see at a glance that the assurance must be father to the fee—we repeat, with a very slim assurance of being made well in a short time, the large majority of invalids would swallow a quart of Shakespeare's soup thrice a day, said soup being made, as the reader may remember, by several old witches, of such things as newt's eyes, frogs toes, lizard wings, stings of rattle-snakes and other ingredients not necessary to be named, but all brought to the climatic point by—onions.

An emetic will dissipate a presentiment in five minutes, while the vigorous use of the grubbing hoe in the open air, would work off the extra and thick blood, abu e accumulation in the brain generates these disea ed imaginings, while the diet of bread and water would supply a pure article of blood in the place of the impure material.

Who ever heard of a healthy, out-door, day laborer, having a "presentiment" in the pursuit of his occupation? The fact is, they have not time to be moping about such tom-fooleries; the only presentiment that ever troubles them is a veritable fact, a tangible reality. "Root pig, or die" is their ever living ghost.

Presentiments do not exist except in connection with one of the three following things—1 A weak mind. 2. A diseased body. 3. An idle condition of life.

Loafing and gluttony are the great orginators of this unfortunate condition of mind and its almost certain removal follow intemperate eating, combined with physical activity. If unattended to, and friendly death does not step in to save from a greater calamity, insanity winds up the history.

To the reflecting, we suggest a fact which dissipates the mystery which hangs around "presentiments.' In ordinary cases, a thing is not baptized as a "presentiment," until the coincidence of the fact. Superstitious minds, in which presentiments m l, take no note of the countless impressions that certain things might take place, which did not afterwards take place one such coincidence makes an impression against a million non-concurrents.

The Body's Tolerance.

Sometimes a slight blow on the head has resulted in death, or, what is worse, in the permanent loss of reason. A mere scratch on the hand, or a sliver in the foot, or a grain of dust lodging in the eye, or the tiniest fi h-bone entering the wind-pipe, has proved fatal. Such facts may lead us to accept the poet's statement, "The spider's most attenuated thread is cord, is cable, to man's hold on life." But there is another class of facts quite as surprising, that are diff rent from these.

An iron bar has been driven through the brain, with a considerable loss of brain sub stance, and yet no permanent harm has come to body or to mind. The fact is, while a mere prick in a particular part of the brain (the medulla oblongata) may cause death, the great bulk of the brain is exceedingly tolerant of many forms of injury.

Even the heart is much more tolerant than is generally thought. The physician may thrust his fine instrument through it with safety. An insane woman sought to kill herself by piercing it with a hairpin, but wholly failed of her purpose, although the pin interfered with the natural movements of the heart.

A woman swallowed a paper of pins. The pins traversed various organs and tissues of the body, and yet she recovered from the local inflammation.

A boy was brought to the hospital insensible, and nearly dead from asphyxia (want of breath). The doctor having run a catheter down the wind-pipe, a piece of chesnut was coughed up. The next day there was evidence that another piece was lodged in anoth r of the bronchial tubes. It was impossible to dislodge it. There followed all the symptoms of acute consumption (phthisis): high temperature, sweating, emaciation, copious expectoration of offensive matter, and a large cavity. Yet the boy in three months returned home convalescent, and six months later the cavity had disappeared.

Tobacco as an Antisymasic.

M. Pecholier in the Montpelier Medical considers that the use of tobacco preserves one from an infinity of contagious diseases. He thinks that as typhoid fever is due to a ferment, the pollulation and life of which in the organism is the initial cause of the disease, tobacco is the most powerful destructive agent, and that its action is due to nicotine; he declares that a number of smokers have been protected from epidemic influences through tobacco. Perhaps it is for this reason that Willis recommends the use of tobacco in armies, as a preservative against certain epidemic diseases.

Five Editors Welcomed the Poet

The paper had gone to press and the editors were leaning back in their chairs fanning themselves and wondering if sheol could be any hotter than terra when a seedy-looking man with a red nose entered the room, and said timidly:

"Here is a poem—"

Instantly five editors sprang to their feet and five clubs were waving in the air.

"On Beautiful Snow," continued the seedy man.

"What!" simultaneously from five voices.

"A poem on Beautiful Snow," repeated the seedy man, with deliberation.

Five clubs dropped to the floor and five men crowded around the poet and shook him by the hands and patted him on the shoulder, and fairly overwhelmed him with attention. Then the editor-in-chief led the poet to the best chair, and said:

"Read it to us."

The poet placed his hat, with his handkerchi f in it, on the desk, put on a pair of rusty rimmed spectacles, and, unfolding his manuscript, cleared his throat, and began to read.

As he spoke of the fleecy flakes descending in soundless showers, of the whitened fields, the northern blast whistling o'er the world, the editors put aside their fans; then they rolled down their sleeves. As he proceeded with his description of the terrors of the frost king, the fury of the storm, and the frozen corpse found beneath the snow next morning (a poem on Beautiful Snow without a frozen corpse would be incomplete), the editors shivered and arose and put on their coats.

When the poet ceased the thermometer in the office had fallen thirteen and one-half degrees.

Then the editor-in-chief arose and said:

"A poet who in the strength of the sweltering heat of a summer day brings into a newspaper office a poem on Beautiful Snow deserves a monument. As you are not apparently in any special need of a monument at present, come out and we'll stand up the beer for you." Then the glad procession took its way to the subterranean depths of the nearest hostelry.

A Legacy of the Slave Trade.

Yellow fever is the direct result of the slave traffic, the dread scourge having been unknown in America till brought here by that trade. The African disease, intensified by the filthy habits of human cargoes, came first to the port of Vera Curz, with a slave ship in 1699, and in like manner was transferred to all the West Indies. In Vera Cruz, whenever an old wall is taken down or a street dug into, the fever is sure to break out with redoubled force in that locality, thus showing that the germs are always present, though sometimes dormant until disturbed.

Among the numerous yellow fever stories with which Vera Cruzans are wont to cheer visiting strangers they tell that once a vessel drifted into port, apparently at random, and without hoisting any of the usual signals. Rumors ran through the town that a pirate ship had arrived, or some foreign embassy on a secret mission; but finally the strange craft was boarded by the authorities, who found it to be a charnel-house of decomposing corpses, for every soul on board had perished of vomito.

Summer resort hotels are putting on big adjectives and otherwise keeping pace with the season. Mossenbaum, who keeps the "Boudoir," was taken to task for stretching his advertisement too much. "Hi there, Mose," said a friend, "I see you advertise that your rooms have been enlarged." "So dey had." "But there have been no carpenters at work on your place." "No! Wait till I tole you; I haf scraped der paper off dose wall. See?"

THREE BLEEDING VICTIMS.

Scene of the Killing of Mrs. Sanders, Her Son and Brother.

The accident at St. Thomas by which Mrs. Fred Sanders, her son, a bright little fellow of 5 years, and Mr. J. C. Dempsey, her brother, an employee of the Hamilton, Ont., post office, was one of the most appalling ever recorded in this district. The accident, as is known, occurred on the L. & P. S. railway crossing The scene after the collision between the buggy and the locomotive was a terrible one. The horse was thrown seventeen yards and lay on the east side of the track with its spine broken. The buggy was thrown about twice the distance and was a complete wreck. The body of Mrs. Sanders lay 54 yards north of the crossing on the east side of the track, her feet towards the ditch. Her head was completely severed from her body and lying alongside of it with the mangled and bleeding neck pointing upward. Her body was horribly mutilated and presented a sickening spectacle. He chest and sides were crushed in, one arm torn from the body and the other broken and mangled. Her legs were likewise both broken in several places, and she presented the appearance of being rolled and tumbled along the track, which for a distance of ten feet was strewn with the blood and brains of the victim. A gentleman picked up her collar broken in two at the back and covered with blood. Mr. N. Webb, whose story of the accident has been published, found her locket with the monogram "F. C. S." inscribed up. on it, in the sand between the ties. The body of Dempsey lay on the same side of the track as that of Mrs. Sanders, about one hundred yards from the crossing, or twice as far as that of Mrs. Sanders. He also lay with his head towards the track and his feet pointing eastward. His skull was crushed in oth at the back and front, and there was a gash across his body, while blood gushed from his mouth and eyes. The child, it appears, was thrown from the buggy upon the cowcatcher, and it was not until the train was stopped that the body was found on the beam supporting the cowcatcher. There the little fellow lay upon his back, in his neat and braided suit of blue, with on- hand upon his forehead as if to protect himself from some approaching danger. His countenance was calm and placid, and he looked as if in a quiet sleep, but from his neck and head the crimson blood flowed down the beam upon the track. Many a rough and hardened heart among the scores of spectators who hurriedly crowded to the scene was melted as his eyes caught the visage of the child. Mr. Sanders, the afflicted husband and father, is prostrated by the shock. No inquest was held, as no blame attaches to the railway employees.

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

An ancient mausoleum of circular form, about 115 feet in diameter, has been discovered recently near Rome, outside the Porta Selara.

At a recent meeting of specialists for the discussion of the cholera question Dr. Koch, the German investigator, reiterated, as the general result of his researches, that the comma bacillus manifests itself nowhere but in cholera cases, and is never absent from them.

The Microscope describes a pretty experiment: Upon a slip of glass put a drop of liquid auric chloride or argentic nitrate, with a half grain of metallic zinc in the auric chloride, and copper in the silver. A growth of exquisite gold and silver ferns will form before the eye.

A Frenchman has patented a process of making butter by passing a current of electricity through milk, thus rendering the operation of churning unnecessary; a similar method is to be used for cheese making and to restore ancient butter to its original sweetness and flavor.

The missionaries of Uzigay, in the equatorial lake region of Africa, report that the use of a sort of beer made of bananas has been used by them with excellent results as a prophylactic against malarial fever. Owing, as they suppose, to its use they have enjoyed in that pestilent region the best of health. The matter seems worthy of investigation.

The digestibility of various meat and fish foods, as compared with beef, has been ascertained to be as follows: That of beef being assumed at 100; veal, 96; mutton, 92; chicken, (light meat) 87; chicken, (dark meat) 84; salmon, 92; mackerel, 86; haddock, 82; trout, 87; young lobster, 88; large female lobster, 79; large male lobster, 69; fresh cod, 72. Light meat is generally more digestible than dark, and raw than cooked.

About ten miles east of Denison city, in Grayson county, Texas, has been discovered an enormous deposit of that rich and valuable metal known as manganese. Two veins have thus far been discovered. One vein is eighteen inches thick, the other four feet. In the latter vein were also found the most beautiful crystallized ore of manganese. This crystallised ore is more valuable than the black oxide, and is called manganite.

A scientific journal says "few fishes die a natural death." That is not our fault. Just as many die a natural death as if we didn't go a fishing.

Life in the Paris Sewers, is possible, for a short time to the robust, but the majority of refined persons would prefer immediate death to existence in their reeking atmosphere. How much more revolting to be in one's self a living sewer. But this is actually the case with those in whom the inactivity of the liver drives the matter of the body to escape through the lungs, breath, the pores, kidneys and bladder. It is astonishing that life remains in such a dwelling. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" restores normal purity to the system and renews the whole being.

It takes a man with keen eyesight and a brain of much scope to see and grasp the golden opportunity before it turns the corner.

Throw Away Trusses

and employ the radical, new method, guaranteed to permanently cure the worst cases of rupture. Send two letter stamps for references, pamphlet and terms. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Nine monuments to Grant will be erected unless some of the present projects fall.

"Her face so fair, as flesh it seemed not,
But heavenly portrait of bright angel's hue,
Clear as the sky, without a blame or blot,
Through a goodly mixture of complexions due,
And in her cheeks the vermeil red did show."

This is the poet's description of a woman whose physical system was in a perfectly sound and healthy state, with every function acting properly, and is the enviable condition of its fair patrons produced by Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." Any druggist.

Heaven is a very big place, else it would be crowded by hanged men who have gone there directly from the gallows.

Alma Ladies' College, St. Thomas Ont., has full staff and complete course in Literature, Music, Fine Arts, and Commercial Science. Re-opens September 10, 1885. For 50 pp. announcement, address Principal Austin, B. D.

Bob Ingersoll is reported as having given a large order to provide his family vaults with fire escapes.

The aim in the manufacture of Messrs. Tuckett & Son's, "Myrtle Navy" tobacco is to develop and retain the natural aroma of the tobacco. This requires great skill and a knowledge of very interesting chemical laws but the results attained are vastly superior to all forms of flavoring extracts.

Mr. Bessemer's steel process patents have yielded him $600,000 a year for twenty-one years.

The Wheel of Fortune

Moves incessantly—the most buoyant to day may be loaded down by adversity tomorrow. One peculiarity of that famous alleviator of human suffering—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, is the fact that in spite of hundreds of imitations and substitutes it has retained its old place in the very front rank as a remedy for corns. This must ever be the case as every person who has used it testifies that it is prompt, painless and certain—three grand essentials which, when combined, as is the case with Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, insures a sure pop corn cure. Sold everywhere.

The first of living French Canadian poets is M. Louis Fechette.

Prevention Better Than Cure.

Many of the diseases so prevalent in these days are caused by using soap containing impure and infectious matter. Avoid all risk by using PERFECTION Laundry Soap, which is absolutely pure. Ask your grocer for PERFECTION. Manufactured only by the Toronto Soap Co.

Thought is the first faculty of man; to express it is one of his first desires; to spread it his dearest privilege.

Joy in Every Drop.

This may be truly said of Polson's Nerviline, the greatest pain remedy of the age. It brings comfort to the weary sufferer when failure has attended the use of every known remedy. Nerviline is an absolute cure for all kinds of pain, internal, external, or local. Purchase a 10 cent sample bottle and try this great remedy, Nerviline, nerve pain cure. Don't forget the name at any drug store.

The extraordinary success which has every year characterized the Toronto Exhibition promises to be repeated this season. In fact, in point of attractions and in the liberality with which the prize list has been prepared, the great Industrial Fair will this year be ahead of any annual exhibition on this continent, if we except, perhaps, the St. Louis Fair. The entries and application for space already made far exceed those of any previous year, and the managers are being put to their wits' end to know how to provide for them all. Cheap rates and excursions will be given on all railways, and our readers will not be disappointed if they make up their minds to pay Toronto a visit at the time of the Fair. All entries must be made on or before the 22nd of August, and intending exhibitors should not fail to make a note of this fact. Prize Lists and any other information can be procured by dropping a post-card to Mr. Hill, the Secretary, at Toronto. The Fair will this year be held from the 9th to the 19th of September.

Our readers will be glad to know that the British American Business College of Toronto re-opens on Tuesday, Sept. 1st. This institution under its present management offers to the business student facilities unsurpassed by any other educational establishment in Canada.

A.P.242

FARMS FOR SALE.—All kinds.—Send for list JOHN J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
IMPERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACKING

PURE BRED AYRSHIRES for sale; two cows, two yearling heifers and one bull. Write for description, price and pedigree to G. F. BAKER, Tradigar.

A SUCCESS AGAINST ALL PREJUDICE
Williams' Eye Water has proved itself a success by all who have used it according to directions, if their eyes were curable, as will be seen by the annexed certificates It cured me, 8 years blind, oculists failed, O. Jourdin; it has cured me, oculist would not try me. Alexander Ward, 8 years blind, Chas. Amiot; 6 years, Elie Dufour; 33 years blind and now I see, John Lecorbx. Ask your druggists for it. Wholesale—Lyman Sons & Co., 384 St. Paul St., Montreal.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—100 acres, 7 miles east of the city of St. Thomas. For particulars address J. J. LEWIS, New Sarum, Ont.

AUGURS WELL BORING
BUY THE STAR.
Will bore 5 to 25 inch hole; hand or horse-power; 10 feet per hour. Our combined auger and Rock Drill a grand success, worked by steam or horse-power. Send for Catalogue.
66 Mary Street. Hamilton, Ont.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
Clapperton's Spool Cotton
Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on botabel. For sale by all Dry-Goods Dealers

JAMES PARK & SON,
Pork Packers, Toronto.
L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT SACHETS, placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc.—They drive away and destroy Moths and other insects, imparting a delightful and delicate perfume to the clothing, carried or worn upon the person they are by their powerful concentrated disinfectant properties, a perfect means of protection against infection of disease, giving off at the same time a most delightful odor; made entirely of satin in assorted colors, very pretty, unique, and neat. Every one should have them. Price 10c each—three for 25c. Thymo-Cresol Soap, the great English disinfectant toilet soap, awarded the gold medal, London, Eng., 1884. Large cakes, price 15c., or 35c per box of 3 cakes, postage paid to any address upon receipt of price. Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 759 Craig St., Montreal. Circulars and descriptions of our English Thymo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application. Agents wanted. Write for terms.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships.
Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N. F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia, fortnightly.
For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; H. Cunard & Co, Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B.; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Fax & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; E. A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

J. & J. TAYLOR,
TORONTO SAFE WORKS.
ESTABLISHED 1855.
MANUFACTURERS OF FIRE AND Burglar Proof Safes,
STEEL VAULTS, VAULT DOORS, COMBINATION BANK LOCKS, Prison Locks, and all kinds of Fire and Burglar Proof Securities.
Patentees and sole manufacturers of Fire-proof Safes, with Non-Conducting Steel Flange Doors, which have been demonstrated by actual tests to be the best fire-resisting safes now made. A number of second-hand Fire-proof Safes now in stock, at low prices—also Five Second-Hand Burglar-Proof Safes, suitable for Private Bankers or Jewellers.
FACTORY AND SALESROOM,
117 & 119 FRONT STREET EAST TORONTO

GRAND DOMINION
AND FORTIETH
Provincial Exhibition
UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE
Agriculture and Arts Association of Ontario
TO BE HELD AT LONDON
FROM THE
7th to 12th Sept., 1885.
$30,000 IN PREMIUMS AND MEDALS
Owing to the Dominion grant of $10,000, a supplementary edition of the Prize List has been issued, making an entirely new list for the first 40 pages. From page 40 first edition will be used.
Exhibits to come from the North-West and the Maritime Provinces. On these exhibits transport will be paid.
One fare for passengers and freight on all principal roads in the Dominion.
Entries to be made for all classes of Live Stock and Farm Products by Aug. 22; Horticultural Products, Ladies' Work, etc. by Aug 29.
Exhibition to be opened by His Excellency the Governor-General.
Prize Lists, both editions, and blank forms can be had by applying by post card or otherwise to the Secretary,
HENRY WADE, Toronto.
GEO. MOORE, President, Waterloo.

CUT THIS OUT
The New Co-Operative
Sewing Machines!
—ARE THE—
BEST IN THE MARKET.
NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE!
Latest Improved Attachments
Agents price for similar machine $60.
Our price only $25 each.
Before buying send us stamp for our elegant photograph and sample of sewing.
Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.
Any lady wanting a machine will do well to write to
THE CO-OPERATIVE
Sewing Machine Co.
22 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON.

FARM FOR SALE—100 acres of the city of St. Thomas. ... J. J. LEWIS, New Sarum, Ont.

WELL BORING ... BUY THE STAR. 25 inch hole; hand or horse-power; ... combined augur and Rock Drill ... worked by steam or horse-power. ... Street. Hamilton, Ont.

PLEASANT SEWING — USE ONLY — ...n's Spool Cotton! ... Length, and to run smooth on the ... See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on ... sale by all Dry-Goods Dealers.

PARK & SON, Packers, Toronto. Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Pails. The Best Brands of English in Stock.

DISINFECTANT SACHETS. ... Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc.— ... and destroy Moths and other insects. ... delicate perfume to the ... worn upon the person they are ... concentrated disinfectant proper... protection against infection ... at the same time a most delight... entirely of satin in assorted colors, ... and neat. Every one should ... 10c each—three for 25c. Thymo... great English disinfectant toilet ... gold medal, London, Eng., 1884. 15c., or 35c per box of 3 cakes, ... any address upon receipt of price. ... COMPANY, 759 Craig St., Montreal ... descriptions of our English Thy... mailed free on application. Write for terms.

Royal Mail Steamships. ... from Portland every Thursday ... Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer ... Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Lo... mails and passengers for Scotland and ... Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's ... fortnightly during summer months ... Glasgow lines sail during winter ... Portland, Boston and Philadelphia ... summer between Glasgow and Montreal ... and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow ... fortnightly. ... passage, or other information ... Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; S. ... Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's ... son & Co., St. John, N. B. ... Chicago; Love & Alden, New ... Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co. ... Lockie, Philadelphia; H. A. ... Boston, Montreal.

TAYLOR, ... SAFE WORKS. ESTABLISHED 1855. MANUFACTURERS OF FIRE AND ... Proof Safes, VAULTS, VAULT DOORS, ... COMBINATION BANK LOCKS, and all kinds of Fire and ... Proof Securities. ... manufacturers of Fire-proof ... Steel Flange Doors, which ... tested by actual tests to be the ... safes now made. A number of ... Proof Safes now in stock, at low ... Second-Hand Burglar-Proof Safes, ... Bankers or Jewellers. ... AND SALESROOM, ... STREET EAST TORONTO

DOMINION ... FORTIETH ... Exhibition ... THE AUSPICES OF THE ... Arts Association of Ontario ... BE HELD AT ... LONDON ... FROM THE ... Sept., 1885. PREMIUMS AND MEDALS ... grant of $10,000, a supple... Prize List has been issued, ... list for the first 40 pages. ... will be used. ... the North-West and the ... On these exhibits transport will ... and freight on all principal ... all classes of Live Stock and ... 22; Horticultural Products, Aug 29. ... opened by His Excellency the ... forms, and blank forms can be ... post card or otherwise to the ... HENRY WADE, Toronto. ... Waterloo.

THIS OUT ... Co-Operative ... Machines! ... THE ... THE MARKET. ... NEW FURNITURE! ... Attachments ... similar machine $60 ... only $25 each. ... for our elegant photo... for three years and sent ... machine will do well to write to ... OPERATIVE ... Machine Co. ... SOUTH, HAMILTON.

BAKING POWDER Pure Gold MANUFACTURING CO., 31 FRONT ST. EAST, Toronto.

Growing Old.

Growing old! The pulses' measure Keeps its even tenor still;
Eye and hand nor fail nor falter,
And the brain obeys the will;
Only by the whitening tresses,
And the deepening wrinkles told,
Youth has passed away like vapor;
Prime is gone, and I grow old.

Laughter hushes at my presence,
Gay young voices whisper lower,
If I dare to linger by it,
All the stream of life runs slower,
Though I love the mirth of children,
Though I prize youth's virgin gold,
What have I to do with either?
Time is telling—I grow old.

Not so dread the gloomy river
That I shrank from so of yore;
All my first of love and friendship
Gather on the further shore,
Were it not the best to join them
Ere I feel the blood run cold?
Ere I hear it said too harshly,
"Stand back from us—you are old!"

STORM AND SUNSHINE.

CHAPTER VI.—(Concluded.)

But the first words I hear distinctly put that project out of my head at once and forever.

"But this cannot go on"—I hear every word, sharp and clear. "She will begin to suspect something. Even yesterday on the island you saw how vexed she was—the child is not a fool, Erroll, though you seem to think she is."

"Of course it is our object to keep her in the dark as long as possible. But any one but a fool would have guessed our secret long ago."

"Your mother does not guess it."

"Because she has persuaded herself that I am in love with Lisle."

"Poor little Lisle!"

It is she who pities me, and not him! Fiend as I think her, I remember that. And yet I loved him so much better than I loved her!

"I wonder how she can imagine for a moment that any man would look at her while you were in the room," Erroll laughs, amused.

"You act very well," Judith's voice answers, with a shadow of reproach in it. "Perhaps you are also amusing yourself at my expense?"

"You think that Judith?"

"No, I do not think it. I know you love me as far as you are capable of loving any woman."

"Judith!"

"I love you," she says simply. "At all events I am sure of that."

"And I love you! Ah, give me one, Judith! You know I love you with my whole heart and soul."

There is a quick kiss, and Judith says hurriedly—

"We must go in, Erroll. If they think we are together all this time!"

"But think of how dearly I pay for these few stolen moments with you, darling!"

"I think it is Lisle who pays for them. Ah, poor Lisle!"

"Lisle has never even dreamed of such love as we feel for each other, Judith."

"I hope not, poor child!"

Poor child! She calls me poor child; but he never utters one single word of pity for me from first to last.

"She will marry somebody else before the year is out, and forget all about me."

"We have treated her cruelly between us, Erroll."

"It could not be helped—we could meet in no other way. If you had let me go to the Vicarage——"

"Don't you think my enemies, persecutors, and slanderers were bitter enough without giving them any real cause for complaint?"

"Well, I acknowledge that you were right about that," he says a little sulkily. "Judith, sometimes I think you do not love me as well as I love you."

"Why do you think so?"

"You think of what people will say. I think of nothing but you."

"Of nothing but yourself, you mean."

"Judith—I who have never cared for any woman but you, who never forgot you in all these years—I wish you loved me even half as well as I love you!"

"You need not doubt the quality of my love," she answers, her quiet tone contrasting curiously with the passion in his. "I love you, Erroll, and I shall love you till the day I die."

"I think you will. I do not think it could be possible for two people to love each other as we do and forget. That is the only comfort I have."

"Erroll, I must go now. No; you cannot come with me! I have to remind you of that so often"—and she laughs.

"It is awfully hard!" he answers impatiently.

I hear her step passing up the alley towards the house. He will probably come round this way. I straighten myself from the crouching attitude in which I have been listening for what has seemed to me an infinity of torment, and turn to meet him like some small miserable wild animal brought to bay by a great dog.

CHAPTER VII., and Last.

"You here, Lisle!" Erroll exclaims, the moment he catches sight of me, standing up in the middle of the long green alley, facing him, my hands clenched, my face deathly pale.

"Yes, I am here."

"And I suppose," he says, looking at me while his own color changes—"I suppose you have been eavesdropping?"

"Yes—if you choose to call it so."

"With the usual result?" he asks, with the first sneer I have ever seen on his handsome mouth.

"I certainly did not hear any good of myself—or of you."

"Perhaps it was just as well that you did hear," he goes on, recovering his composure. "I for one am tired of this little game."

"Oh, Erroll"—it is my last despairing cry—"how could you have pretended to love me? How could you be so cruel, so—so base?"

"I never loved you!"

"I know that now. But I was so young and foolish, and—and I loved you so much!"

"Pshaw!" he exclaims, turning on his heel. "You know no more of what love really means than that little white cloud floating up there in the sky!"

I stand looking after him, but he never turns his head. "I never loved you!" The words ring in my ears, the green alley swims round me, the hedge bobs up and down; I cover my eyes with my hands with one despairing moan, and sink down in a heap upon the mossy walk.

. . . .

They find me a few minutes later, Mrs. Rutherfurd having sent them all to search for me, alarmed by my non-appearance at luncheon. At first they think I am dead, but the Doctor, who is sent for immediately, pronounces it to be a fainting-fit only, probably brought on by the heat of the sun. I do not rave at all, or betray my miserable secret in any way as I return to consciousness, and I am glad of it. But I will not have Judith near me, which surprises Mrs. Rutherfurd, or would have surprised her if she had not accounted for it by the disorder of my brain. Neither will I remain a single hour longer than I can help at Velfry.

Mrs. Rutherfurd is exceedingly anxious that I should stay quietly in my own room there for the next day or two at least, promising that no one shall come near me but herself. But I will not have the carriage countermanded, and Mrs Rutherfurd is afraid to thwart me. Before five o'clock I am lying in my own bed at Osierbrook, with the curtains drawn and aunt Theodosia sitting silently knitting in the big old-fashioned arm-chair at the foot of the bed. Here I can weep and weep and weep, and no one be the wiser. Here I can groan deep in my misery, for dear old aunt Theodosia is too deaf to hear. Judith has had her revenge on Mrs. Rutherfurd; but she has broken my heart!

. . . .

It is three months before I leave that bed again—during some of that time a great many people thought I should never leave it again alive. But youth and a good constitution pulled me through—that and the care those four good women bestowed on the graceless child who had defied them when she was strong and well.

They never grow weary, they are never impatient; they bear with me as my own might—they seem to me like angels, withered and old and homely as they are, when they bend over me through the long weary night-watches, putting cool bandages on my hot miserable forehead, lumps of cold delicious ice on my parched tongue. They are always there, one or other of them; in the dead of the night I see them, sitting in the big chair, the candles throwing their shadows grotesquely upon the opposite wall, their spectacles on their noses, their Bibles open on their knees, their placid old faces so calm and peaceful, shedding an answering peace into my soul.

If I get well, I will be good to them always—never laugh at them, never call them odd, or old, or ugly, never disobey them in thought or word or deed.

If I get well! But if I do not? If I die—I, Lisle Warburton—if I die, and am put into a coffin and buried beside my mother in the shady old church-yard on the hill! I think perhaps that will be better—better even than to live to show my gratitude to my aunts.

They will soon know how grateful I am to them. They must soon die, all of them and in Heaven I can tell them—my mother too—she will tell them——

"This is some nice lemonade, dear. Won't you try to drink it?"

Aunt Theodosia is bending over me. Aunt Anchoretta is standing at the foot of the bed, wiping her spectacles. Aunt Emily is crying silently near the fire.

"What is aunt Emily crying for? Am I going to die? Tell her not to cry. I—I don't mind."

"You are not going to die, dear child. You are going to get well."

"To get well?"

"Yes. But you must not speak—you are very weak yet. Drink this and go to sleep again."

. . . .

"Aunt Anchoretta, why are you shaking your head?"

I am sitting in an arm-chair in the drawing-room at Osierbrook. The window beside me stands wide open, but the October air is warm, and I am well wrapped-up in the fleecy white shawl aunt Anna has knitted for me. My lap is full of flowers, late roses, and stock and mignonnette from aunt Theodosia's garden, which I am arranging into bouquets for the school-children to wear at some fête or other to-morrow. My fingers are not of much use to me yet, they are so stiff and feeble; but I love to touch the flowers, and aunt Emily will tie each bouquet over again afterwards.

"Was I shaking my head, dear?"

"Indeed you were—till I thought it would fall off!"

I laugh feebly at my own joke. Aunt Anchoretta crosses the room to my window.

"Do you remember Judith Irving, Lisle?"

"Yes—quite well."

My heart does not beat faster; I am not conscious of any pang of recollection—only of a vague, numb, curious feeling, such as one sometimes experiences when an old wound is touched which has long since been healed.

"We never liked her," aunt Anchoretta says gravely. "She was not a girl we could esteem. I do not wish to speak uncharitably of any one, but I always had an idea that she would not turn out well."

"What has she done?"

"You remember Erroll Rutherford?"

"Yes," I answer, in the same dreamy, scarcely interested way.

Aunt Ancheretta, looking at me, sighs a sigh of intense relief.

"He was another person of whom I had a poor opinion, though at one time we all thought he meant to turn over a new leaf and—and marry a girl who would have pulled him up instead of dragging him down. But now, it seems, these two have put a climax to all their foolish doings by running away with each other!"

"By running away?"

"So it seems. This letter is from Mrs. Rutherfurd, who is heartbroken about it. It seems that Erroll has nothing, and Miss Irving less. How they are to live nobody knows but themselves."

"Aunt Ancheretta, do you like pink roses and mignonnette together—so?"

I hold up the little bouquet for her inspection, smiling; and she, approving of it, proceeds to make two or three after the same pattern. I do not ask another question, nor does aunt Anchoretta allude to her letter any more, so completely has my old love-dream faded away—so completely have I forgotten the lover whose "Honour, rooted in dishonour, stood, Whose faith, unfaithful, kept him falsely true."

. . . .

"What brings Ralph Rutherfurd here so often?"

It is aunt Theodosia who asks the question. And she asks it of me, looking at me over the edge of the wheelbarrow as she stoops to gather up the pile of weeds she has raked together on the garden walk.

"How should I know, aunt Theodosia?"

"I thought you might, that was all!"

Do I know? I stand by the wheelbarrow, looking down dreamily at the clean-swept path. It is just a year since I came to Osierbrook—a year this very day. The May sunshine lies warm on aunt Theodosia's flower-beds, on the overblown evening primroses, on the budding lily-of-the-valley. I have got on a fresh brown linen gown, prettily made, with big pearl buttons, and a Zulu hat. My hair has grown again; but only into a crop of babyish short curls. And I feel quite strong and well again, and have grown brown and sunburnt, riding my pony over the breezy hills and through the long green winding lanes; but, though my wings that were clipped have grown again, I never feel in the least inclined to fly away. I love Osierbrook—the peace, the serene quiet, the quaint, formal, sunny days, the sweet calm nights through which I sleep so soundly, tired by the loving attendance to give which is the one great object of my life. Those feeble hands shall do nothing that mine can do instead; those faltering steps shall always be steadied by my strong young arm.

They may be peevish sometimes, and obstinate, and apt to think their own old way the best; but I can bear with them—no sharp word shall ever pass my lips, no slight hint that their monotonous, often-repeated stories are not as fresh and delightful to me as the very newest number of my favourite "monthly;" no yawn shall betray how their late hours weary me, no smile show that I am conscious of the quaint mistakes they make, or their still quainter correction of each other. I love them, and I count my service nothing for the love I bear them—they are so good, so old, so near the awful verge of that eternity of which they do not seem to be afraid.

"I guessed he was coming here!"

The words rouse me from my reverie. Ralph Rutherfurd has turned in at the low white gate—is riding up the avenue. At the door he dismounts from his horse; old Taylor takes the bridle. In another minute he is standing beside me in Aunt Theodosia's garden in his plain riding dress, his whip in his hand, but a grave smile in his quiet hazel eyes.

"Are you busy, Lisle?"

"Not very busy," I answer, smiling.

"Because I wanted to speak to you."

"To speak to me?"

He makes no answer to this, moving slowly down the clean-swept garden-walk, and so constraining me to keep him company.

"Lisle, have you ever wondered why I came to Osierbrook so often?"

"I have—sometimes."

"And what reason did you give yourself?"

"I thought you came to ask for me—at first, when I was ill."

"And afterwards?"

"I thought you took an interest in me because I had been so very near death."

"I took an interest in you from the very first day you came to Velfry, Lisle."—"You?"

"Yes, I. But I thought—then—that you cared for some one else."

"So I did!" I answer, smiling.

"You have got over that?"—"Quite."

"So I thought—long ago. But I am so old and grave, Lisle—so much older than you, I mean. Could you ever care for me?"

Have I not been caring for him ever since those convalescent days when he had ridden over to Osierbrook, and sat on the low sill of the drawing-room window, holding his horse's bridle over his arm and talking to me in his grave, pleasant, curiously diffident

"Lisle, could you ever care for me enough to marry me?"

"I might—some day."

"Lisle, my darling, do you care for me now?"

Aunt Theodosia is a little deaf, but she is not at all blind. And I suppose she distinctly sees Ralph Rutherfurd put his arm round me and draw my head down to his breast. Perhaps she even sees him kiss me! But I am so happy that I do not grudge her the satisfaction I know she derives from the proceeding, absurd as it must look to a third party.

"But I cannot leave my aunts, Ralph."

"You shall come to them every day, darling, as long as they live."

And, with this assurance to comfort me, I plight my troth.

THE END.

Degeneration of the Arteries.

The arteries convey the blood from the heart to every part of the body. They are not passive tubes, but have a repulsive action of there own whereby they aid that of the heart. They consist of three coats, besides an enclosing sheath. The middle coat consists of elastic muscular rings, by the contraction and dilatation of which the vessels are successively narrowed and enlarged. The nerves regulate their action. It will be seen that a healthy condition of the arteries is of prime importance. But the arteries may become diseased.

One of their most frequent and serious diseases is a peculiar degeneration of their inner coat. It shows itself at first in thickened patches, causing a bulging toward the interior—the result of some inflammatory action. Later these patches soften and become paste like, whence the name of the disease, atheroma, from a Greek word signifying "meal." This pasty mass may be washed out into the blood; or it may become calcified, and studded with little hard points extending into the blood current. These atheromatous patches may be of different sizes, vary much in number and be confined to a few arteries, or be extensively diffused.

Where the inner coat is thus destroyed, the weakened vessel, under the arteria pressure, may swell out into pouches (aneurisms), or may even burst. When the patch becomes calcified, the blood, flowing against the jutting points, may form fibrinous clots, just as we may form them by stirring blood in a vessel with a stick. This fibrin may fill up an artery, and shut off the flow of blood to a part. This is one of the causes of senile gangrene—the death of, perhaps, the foot in an old man. Or bits of the clot may be carried to remote small arteries, say of the brain, and cause embolism (a plugging), with fatal consequences.

These atheromatous changes may also cause softening of the brain, by merely retarding the flow of blood to it, and thus interfering with its nutrition, and may cause enlargement of the heart—the left ventricle—by the greater labor imposed on it. The calcification of the coronary artery is one cause of angina pectoris.

Intemperate habits, violent exertions, gout, excessive anxiety and mental labor are some of its causes, and these also suggest the habits which tend to prevent the disease.

This is the season when the mercury, as well as the students, takes degrees.

"Captain, I am thinking of going to sea in a whaler. I would like to have your opinion on the step." "As a friend or as a captain?" "As a friend." "Then I would advise you to commit suicide before going."

Young lady to physician—"Can't you give me something to take these horrid spots off my face?" Physician—"Why, let them remain. Spots are fashionable now." Lady—"That so? Well, give me something to bring out more spots."

Conversation on Olive street: Young Swell—"What made you pull us when we were on a little tear last night and have our names put in the papers?" Policeman—"Oh, I was simply unveiling a bust. That's fashionable nowadays."

Remarking on the Weather.

As I was passing o'er a stile,
I and my sweetheart true together,
Said he: "What think you, let me hear,
Will be to-morrow's weather?"
Then stood we on the top step there,
My sweetheart and myself together.

I gazed up to the bright blue sky,
The wind from the West was gently blowing;
And, on the fields of waving rye,
The noonday sun was warmly glowing.

I could not tell, indeed, not I;
I said 'twas knowledge past my knowing;
There might be rain, there might be shine,
Or morrow's troubles past undoing;
So oft, I whispered, every sign
Doth fail for shadows close pursuing.

He kissed my lips as there I stood;
Alas what could I do for blushing!
Then cried I—"Oh, my pretty snood,
You are most rudely crushing!"

He kissed my lips; I knew 'twas wrong,
Yet joy went thro' my heart swift rushing;
He held me in his arms so strong,
My pretty snood quite crushing.

The morrow brought its wealth of beams
And strewed them all the meadows over,
And to my heart brought brighter gleams,
For O, it brought to me my lover.

He kissed my lips; what could I do?
And swore me love heart-true forever;
"Since shadows all so close pursue,"
Said he, "Now list my prayer unto,
And let us haste the wedding over."

The Funny Man's Baby.

The funny man went to his desk to write.
He had watched all day, he would write all night
And finish his work, so he trimmed the light.

In the room adjoining his baby lay,
And they said she was slowly passing away,
And would die ere the light of another day.

So he wrote, with his heart in the other room,
And thought of the babe going out in the gloom
To the shadowy land beyond the tomb.

It was hard to write with death so nigh,
But he ground out jokes as the hours went by,
And closed each page with a grief-born sigh.

It was hard to write out the world must laugh,
So he penned the rhyme and the paragraph,
And even a humorous epitaph!

His pen flew fast and the hours went on Till his night of toil was almost gone,
And the east showed the first faint streaks of dawn.

Then he dropped his pen and raised his head,
"Now the column is finished," the funny man said,
And the nurse, coming in, said, "The baby is dead!"

Righting An Old Wrong.

A singular proof of the old proverb, "Murder will out," is given in a suit before the English House of Peers for possession of the title and estates of the Barony of Lovat. The suit is on behalf of an engineer in the mines of Caernarvon, and the story brought to light by him begins two centuries ago.

The famous Simon Fraser, when the Baron Lovat of that day died without issue, knew that the rightful heir was a hot-headed young cousin of his own, Alexander Fraser. Simon brought forth a false charge of murder against him, and the lad fled to Caernarvon, and there became a miner.

Simon then assumed the title of Lord Lovat, and took possession of the estates. The daughter of the late Lord Lovat, Amelia, was at the time on the eve of marriage with a young nobleman. She claimed to be the chief of her father's clan, and heir to the estates. Simon Fraser, with a body of his retainers, took the young bridegroom prisoner, dragged him to the foot of a gibbet, and forced him to take an oath never to claim the hand of the heiress of Lovat.

Simon then kidnapped the young lady himself, intending to make her his wife, but with the help of her maid, she escaped to the mountains. Determined to have some claim to the Lovat property, he made the mother of Amelia his prisoner in her own castle, and surrounding her with armed men, bagpipes blowing, and pikes and halberds pointed at her breast, compelled her to marry him.

For this outrage he was sentenced to death, a sentence which never was revoked; but his power and keen wit kept him safe during a long life, which he spent in perpetual treachery. He betrayed the English to the French, and the French to the English; he professed devotion to the House of Hanover, while he was supporting the exiled Stuarts. His name was the synonym for traitor for seventy years.

At last he drove his son, a quiet, timid boy of nineteen, into the field, with the Pretender at the head of his clan, and made haste to complain of the lad to the Government, and to swear to his own fidelity. The boy, however, was pardoned, while Lord Lovat at the age of eighty was beheaded. After his death, a starving woman was discovered in a dungeon in his castle, who proved to be his wife, whom he had imprisoned there for ten years.

Now, after two centuries, the heir of Alexander Fraser, the miner, whom he robbed of his title and estates, comes forward, to prove the guilt of the usurper and his own claim to the peerage. "Justice is slow," says the Arab proverb, "but more inexorable than death."

Any man who can umpire a base ball game and please both sides, has in him the main qualifications for a successful politician.

"The large cow," says an agricultural contemporary, "is going to be the coming cow." If that is the case we will gracefully retire over the fence when we see one.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued evesy Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequents insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the aption of the publisher.

—JOB PRINTING.—

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vieker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Creasor & Morrison,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYANCES, &c. &c.

OFFICES in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolf's Store and in
MARKDALE;
Over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday and Friday of each week.

☞ Funds to lend on reasonable terms.

JOHN CREASOR, Q.C. DUNCAN MORISON
Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-ly

Alexander Brown,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.

Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
MARKDALE, - - ONT.
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERF CT FIT GUARANTEED.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.

THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

Store to Rent in Markdale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or
JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

Medical.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel. Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.

122-47.

W. C. RICHARDS,
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.

124ly

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.

Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

126-ly.

ISAAC STINSON.
Builder and Contractor

In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made eqtensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.
—THIS NEW—
Patent Process Flouring Mill
Is now completed at great expense, on the
Most APPROVED
plans, and with the best machinery manufactured, making it, in every sense of the term, "A Model Mill."

I am therefore in a position to give the public a Superior Article of Flour.

A fair trial respectfully solicited and I have no fear but the result will be eminently satisfactory.

Cash paid for good hard Wheat.

☞ Flour, Bran, Shorts, etc, etc, for sale wholesale & retail.

ANGUS PLEWES.

519

For Sale by Walker Bros.

FARMERS,
Reapers & Mowers,
USE
McCOLL BROS.
Lardine Machine Oil.
MARKDALE.

YOU CAN SUBSCRIBE
For any of the
FOLLOWING PAPERS
AT THIS OFFICE:

Daily or Weekly Mail,	Toronto.
Daily os Weekly Globe,	Toronto.
Daily er Weekly News,	Toronto.
Daily World	Toronto.
Family Herald and Weekly Star,	Montreal.
American Agriculturist,	Monthly.
Farmers' Advocate,	Monthly.

☞ Subscription can commence at any time.

STANDARD OF ICE,
MARKDALE.

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.

We, the undersigned, would respectfully intimate to our customers and friends that we are still here and prepared to attend to all who may favor us with a call in anything we can do in our line with the best possible satisfaction. Also we will get yarn for those who allow us to do their weaving. ☞ All kinds of merchantable farm produce taken in exchange for work at market prices.

248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

NEW GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.

Having just received a Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF Teas,
Sugars,
Tobacco, &c,
Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.

I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.

193 J. PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mills.

The subscriber begs leave to announce to the farmers of the surrounding country that he is turning out flour equal to any other roller mill.

No more waiting while the grist is being ground.

The following is the scale of exchange:—

Wheat Weighing	61 lbs,	40 lbs.	Flour.
" "	61 "	39 "	"
" "	60 "	38 "	"
" "	59 "	37 "	"
" "	58 "	36 "	"
" "	57 "	35 "	"

with offal in proportion to amount of flour.

I find the average weight of new wheat to be 60 lbs. to the bushel, and the most of it, if properly cleaned, would weigh 61 or 62 to the bushel.

John W. Ford.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
=PUMPS,=
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied

Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.

☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.

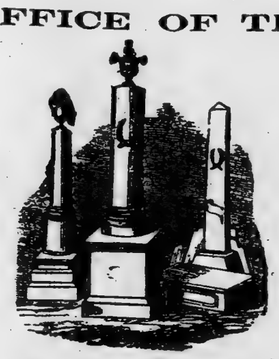
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.

H. B. HARRISON.



Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS,	DIZZINESS,
DYSPEPSIA,	DROPSY,
INDIGESTION,	FLUTTERING
JAUNDICE.	OF THE HEART,
ERYSIPELAS,	ACIDITY OF
SALT RHEUM,	THE STOMACH,
HEARTBURN,	DRYNESS
HEADACHE,	OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

OFFICE OF THE
Flesherton Marble And Granite Works.

E. VANZANT.
All kinds of Marble and Monumental Works, such as Monuments, Tomb Tables, Headstones, Counter and Table Tops,—in American and Italian Marble, and made on short notice. Also Mantles in Marble and Marbeleized Slate, &c., &c.

Satisfaction Guaranteed in Every Respect

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS

Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. W.
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect Monday, August 3rd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 45pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Caledon	9 25 "	6 45 "
Orangeville. Arrive	9 50 "	7 08 "
Orangeville. Leave	10 05 "	7 22 "
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	7 34 "
Shelburne	10 45 "	8 04 "
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 30 "
Flesherton	11 36 "	8 55 "
Markdale	11 51 "	9 10 "
Williamsford	12 12pm	9 30 "
Chatsworth	12 28 "	9 45 "
Owen Sound	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 [illegible]
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 [illegible]
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 [illegible]
Markdale	6 27 "	3 52 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 06 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 31 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 57 "
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "	5 23 "
Orangeville. Arrive	8 12 "	5 35 "
Orangeville. Leave	8 35 "	5 55 "
Caledon	8 55 "	6 15 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 40 "
Toronto....Arrive	10 45 "	8 20 "

Special Steamship Express leaves Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays for Toronto and Points East, on arrival C. P. R. Steamship from Port Arthur and Points in Manitoba and North West.

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.

—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of School Furniture.
Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.

181 ANDREW McGILL

FARM FOR SALE

LOT 19, Con. 12, Glenelg, containing 100 acres, 30 cleared, fenced and under cultivation, balance chiefly hardwood timber; 4½ miles from Markdale; saw-mill convenient also school. The farm is well watered and suitable for either a dairy or grain farm. Will be sold cheap and on easy terms. For further particulars apply on the premises to

JOHN GALLAGHER,
Markdale P. O.

247 80

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 260. MARKDALE, ONT., SEPT. 3, 1885. COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH.

The Markdale Standard

...ay, at the office, Mill ...

...nce: $1.50 if ...

...ness cards one inch ... cents 8 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequents insertion.

Strayanimals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the option of the publisher.

JOB PRINTING.

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.
Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.
A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.
OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Toilet St.; Branch office in Markdale, over Cleland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly
J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Sept. 17. 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.
Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession. 122-17

SAMUEL WARDELL,
WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

W. C. RICHARDS,
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale. 124ly

ISAAC STINSON.
Builder and Contractor
In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
125-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

WM. G. GUTHERIE,
Plain & Ornamental Plaster
Opposite the new
Presbyterian Church Markdale.
Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.
Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.
Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention. 126-ly.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
ONT.
Prop'r.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL
PRICEVILLE, Ont,
Large and commodious Sample Rooms, Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.
EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.
J. McAleer, - - Prop.
The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables and Horse Care. 244-57

Markdale Roller Mills.

The subscriber begs leave to announce to the farmers of the surrounding country that he is turning out flour equal to any other roller mill.

No more waiting while the grist is being ground.

The following is the scale of exchange:—

Wheat	Weighing	62 lbs,	40 lbs.	Flour.
"	"	61 "	39 "	"
"	"	60 "	38 "	"
"	"	59 "	37 "	"
"	"	58 "	36 "	"
"	"	57 "	35 "	"

with offal in proportion to amount of flour.

I find the average weight of new wheat to be 60 lbs. to the bushel, and the most of it, if properly cleaned, would weigh 61 or 62 to the bushel.

John W. Ford.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of School Furniture.

Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.

191 ANDREW McGILL.

MARKDALE HARNESS EMPORIUM

ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.

Thos. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

91y. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

J. T. GUNN,
MARKDALE
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied
Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
☞ Orders by mail promptly attended to. 219

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.

—THIS NEW—
Patent Process Flouring Mill
Is now completed at great expense, on the
Most APPROVED
plans, and with the best machinery manufactured, making it, in every sense of the term, "A Model Mill."

I am therefore in a position to give the public a Superior Article of Flour.

A fair trial respectfully solicited and I have no fear but the result will be eminently satisfactory.

Cash paid for good hard Wheat.

☞ Flour, Bran, Shorts, etc, etc, for sale wholesale & retail.

219 ANGUS PLEWES.

ROBT. ASKIN,

UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.
A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.
—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.

We, the undersigned, would respectfully intimate to our customers and friends that we are still here and prepared to attend to all who may favor us with a call in anything we can do in our line with the best possible satisfaction. Also we will get yarn for those who allow us to do their weaving. ☞ All kinds of merchantable farm produce taken in exchange for work at market prices.

248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS

H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble
☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.

NEW GROCERY STORE

IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed Store.

Having just received a
Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF
Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c,
Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.
Respectfully solicit the public's patronage.

196 J. PLEWES.

I AGREE TO DUPLICATE ANY MAKE OR GRADE OF WATCH IN 3, 4, or 5 Oz. CASE

—AT AS—

Close Figures

—AND—

HONEST Kept WARRANTS

As any city firm, Grange Agent, or Jew pedlar that tries to deal in this section Grey Co.

W. A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

MR. JOSEPH FANNING is home.

THE STANDARD is five years old this week.

POTATOES are an excellent crop in this district.

A FEW more days fine weather will wind up harvesting.

MR. J. G. IRVING and family moved to Guelph this week.

A NUMBER of farms for sale; see our advertising columns.

THE 22nd September is the next Holland Council meeting.

OUR public School is now largely attended, and well conducted.

THE Oddfellows of Markdale intend giving a grand concert shortly.

SEVERAL cases of petty thieving is reported in last week's Advance.

THE drill shed in Owen Sound was destroyed by fire week before last.

MISS EMMA WRIGHT left on Monday to attend the Collingwood High School.

THE Muskoka Herald, published the past seven years, has ceased to exist.

R. O. WHITBY of Markdale has the contract for painting the new church in this place.

MR. S. J. COLEMAN returned from Sault St. Marie accompanied by Miss Girty Wright.

SEVERAL parties looking for dwelling houses in Markdale, but they are difficult to get.

Mr. J. R. Trimble leaves on Friday for London, with a car load of horses for the exhibition.

TEN horses go from Markdale to Toronto Industrial Exhibition to compete for prizes.

TENDERS are asked for by adv. in this paper for the purchase of the old Methodist church.

MRS. R. BURNSIDE returned last Saturday after spending a week with friends north

W. & J. Anderson, Orange Valley, Artemesia, have a horse to sell or exchange for horned stock. See adv.

A MEETING of the directors of Centre Grey Farmers' Institute will be held in Markdale on the 22nd September.

AT the magistrates court last Friday James Henry was fined, $12.60 including costs for assaulting J. C. Caldwell.

JOHN ORR left yesterday (Wednesday) for Ireland, W. Benson has thought the matter over and he rather thinks he wont go.

MR. J. J. IRWIN, Veterinary Sergeon has returned after five weeks rest and looks as if his holidays thoroughly agreed with him.

GUS. TRUSS, our highly respected young druggist, left town on Wednesday for Hamilton, having accepted a situation in that city.

[illegible] cheese factory has [illegible] Tuesday. They still have August make, some 300 boxes.

MR. THOS. MCNEA of this village returned last week to Fort William, where he purchased a tract of land on which is valuable deposits of Gold Silver and Iron mine.

MR. ENNIS and Mr. W. A. Brown filled the pulpit last Sunday, respectively with acceptance, both sermons being practical, interesting and commanding the best of attention.

REPORTS received from sixteen counties in New York State say the condition of the crops shows that in general the yield will be better than in 1884. The grain yield will be about an average, corn fair, fruits very abundant.

FOR pine and maple flooring go to G. Grant & Co.

FINE quadruple plate Silverware just opened in Castors, Pickle Cruets &c., at W. A. Brown's, Markdale.

FOR Bed-Steads, Mattrasses, and Spring Beds, go to Grant & Co.

ROSS & WARLING threshed for Wm. Armstrong adjoining the village last week with their steam thresher. The machine worked like a charm.

MR. J. M. DAVIS left in our office this week a branch of a winter apple tree with apples and blossoms in full bloom on the same branch.

THOSE requiring the services of a first class surveyor, should communicate with John J. Dalton, Chatsworth. See his card in this paper.

A SOCIAL will be held in the Methodist Parsonage on Monday next, 7th inst., to which all are cordially invited. A pleasant time is expected.

THE Francis Smith which was reported wrecked last week, has been repaired at the Owen Sound dock, her damages being slight, and is again on her regular trip.

THE C. P. R. will issue return tickets on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th Sept. in connection with Owen Sound races, good to return up to 5th inclusive, at one and one third fare.

STRAY animals should be advertised without delay. Several has been advertised recently in the STANDARD and in every case the owner found his property by this means.

LILLY KENNEDY, Traverston a little girl of 11 years picked this season a little over 200 lbs. of wild raspberries. That's what we call, patience and perseverance combined with nimble fingers.

CREDIT AUCTION SALE.—On Wednesday, Sept. 9th, at Lot W. ½ 7, con. 9, Euphrasia, commencing at one o'clock, farm stock, household effects, Hay, &c. Mrs. Laird proprietress, Geo. Noble auctioneer.

MRS. MONTGOMERY, Markdale, will have an auction sale on Saturday next, 5th when the following and other articles will be sold, viz., 3 stoves, 3 tables, 3 bed steads, cupboard, chairs &c. Sale to commence at 4 o'clock p. m. This sale should have taken place last Saturday, but was postponed until fair day.

RETURNED.— After nearly two months absence our citizen Mr. Jas. Arnold returned on Monday from a pleasant trip to England, his native land. Mr. A. looks very much invigorated by his voyage. He reports fine grain crops in England, and very favorable weather for harvesting operations.

J. R. TRIMBLE has purchased at the late Trade Sale the following lines of goods which he is offering to Spot Cash purchasers at fully 30 per cent less than their real value. Tweeds, Tweed Pants, Tweed Suits, Over Coats, Boots & Shoes, Hemp Carpets, Dress Silks, great value. Every person ought to see these goods.

A LARGE stock of fine linen paper for letter heads, also envelopes, shipping tags, &c., at the STANDARD office. Our business men who require anything of this kind will kindly remember when a city traveller calls on you and solicits your order, that we can and will do them as cheap and as well, besides you have a right to patronize home.

THE number of this paper is 260; our subscribers will please examine the number on their address label and see how it compares with this number, if it is not as high a number, then you are in arrears, and we would respectfully ask you to renew at your earliest convenience.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. and Mrs. John Moffat of the 8th con. Osprey drove to Markdale week before last to visit their daughter, Mrs. J. C. Irving, who is to moove to Guelph shortly, and Mrs. Moffat remained to visit a week, but before the week was past she became suddenly ill, and died on Thursday morning. She had been troubled with heart disease for a number of years, which was the cause of her sudden demise. Her remains were interred at Feversham on Friday, the funeral being largely attended.

ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday of week while T. Legate of Mar[illegible] con. [illegible] the horses took fright at the noise of the machine and attempted to run away and before they were stopped they ran over Thos. Welsh, son of Mrs. Thos. Welsh, a young man of about 20 years, the knives entering his thigh and the calf of the leg. Dr's. Hixon of Priceville and Sproule of Markdale were sent for and dressed the wounds. The leg may yet have to be amputated. He lies in a critical condition.

John McNasser, Bondhead, writes: "Whenever I feel out of sorts, bilious, or my liver not working right, or racked with a headache, I take Chase's Mandrake Dandelion Liver Cure. There is more real benefit from one dose of your Liver Cure than in many bottles of some medicines." Sept.

A BAD JURY in a law-suit—Perjury.

For office stools, Whatnots, Hat & Umberella stands go to Grant & Co., Markdale.

THE NET to catch a man matrimonially—The brunette.

FOR SALE.—Two double barrel guns, one muzzle and one breach loading. Apply to Smith the barber.

MR. WHITE, the newly elected minister of the Interior, was re-elected for Cardwell by over 400 majority.

For Newel Posts, Stair Balusters, Hand Railing, and Table Legs go to Grant & Co., Markdale.

ALL kinds of lumber for sale or sawed to order at Berkeley Steam Mill.—James Lackey, Prop.

OUR jeweller's window looks immense, being dressed entire with silver plated ware, grand wedding presents. Did you see it?

FOR Bed Suits, Side Boards, Bureaus, Tables, Lounges, and Camp Stools, go to Grant and Co., Markdale.

A YOUNG LADY wants to know the particulars of a handkerchief flirtation. It is very simple. It only requires two fools and two handkherchiefs.—Ex

WILL YOU SUFFER with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

A RESPECTED SPORTSMAN of the far West says that his gun carries such a distance that he salts his shot, else the game would spoil before he got it.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

SANDY MITCHELL, who was stabbed some six weeks ago, is still improving rapidly. He is now able to walk around, and will soon be able to go home.—Chatsworth News.

SEPTEMBER new goods, Waltham and Elgin watches, Gents and Gem Rings, Ladies Watches and Sets, fine rolled plate chains, at W. A. Brown's Markdale.

CROUP, WHOOPING COUGH and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

I HAVE fine lathes, tools and material for repairing fine watches; and claim to be the most scientific and practical watch repairer in Central Grey. W. A. Brown, the reliable watchmaker, Markdale.

SHILOH'S COUGH and Consumption Cure is Sold by A. Turner & Co. on a guarantee. It cures consumption. z

School Books.—A complete assortment of new Readers and other School Books just received at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

PARK lot in Markdale for sale Beautiful location, will be sold on reasonable terms. Apply to R. Freeborn, Williamsford, or enquire at this office. 125-tf

THAT HACKING COUGH can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

HE WAS A DUTCH BARBER on a corner's jury, and after sitting quietly for an hour during the inquest, arose, peared into the face of the corpse, and then, turning to the rest of the jury said: "Dot man ish dead!"

CATARRH CURED, health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

TWO WISHES.—"I wish you would not give me such short weight for my money," said a customer to a grocer, who had an outstanding bill against him. "And I wish you wouldn't give me such long wait for mine," replied the grocer.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER is what you need for Consumption, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

A PRESERVED BODY.— Says the Arthur Enterprise:—Some thirty-five years ago a Frenchmen died near Arthur, and was buried on the 4th line of Collingwood township. The man was a confirmed [illegible] and died while under the influence of liquor. And now comes the strange part of the story. That other day the burial ground in which the old man was interred so many years ago was being surveyed and laid out in lots. It was discovered that the line fence came across the grave of the Frenchman, and the body was exhumed for reburial. The rude coffin in which it was contained on being brought to the surface, was opened out of curiosity, and the spectators were surprised to find the body in a perfect state of preservation. Not a feature was marred, but he lay just as he had been buried 35 years before. Whether the whiskey he had consumed through life or some peculiar quality of the soil had preserved the remains is a matter of conjecture.

IT IS SAID that a little mint will keep rats and mice out of the house. If a fellow owned a mint of ordinary size it would probably "keep the wolf from the door."

I had for years been a miserable sufferer from Dyspepsia, and tried all known remedies and the best medical skill of my acquaintance, but still grew worse, until unable to eat any thing without great suffering, or, do any kind of work. I began to think there was no hope for me, and that I must surely die; when, like a drowning man catching at a straw, I determined to give McGregor's Speedy Cure a trial, I at once began to Improve so rapidly that in two months I was as well as I had ever been in my life.—WM. EVERS LEAMINGTON. Sold by Hill Bro's. Free trial bottles. 6

FOLLOWING is a list of prices at which J. R. Trimble is selling goods for cash only 18 lbs. Bright Sugar $1. 25 lbs. Currents $1. McDonalds No. 1 chewing Tobacco 40 lbs. $1. 25 lbs. Rice $1; Best Brier Tobacco 50c per lb; 3 lbs soda 10c; a choice Japan or Hisson tea only 25c; 3 doz. close pins 10c; 2 papers pins 5c; 2 papers needles 5c; 1 barrel No. 1 Goderich Salt 75c; 5 gal. No. 1 coal oil $1, and all other goods cheaper than any other merchant can or will sell you them, as I am bound to sell, one trial will convince the most sceptical.

Years of experience and successful trials have proved McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate the most complete and satisfactory compound for healing Old Sores, Festerings, Ulcers, Cuts, Wounds, Burns, Frost Bites or Felons, and for keeping out the cold and to cleanse or prevent proud flesh, sloughing or decay. Insist on having McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate, sold at 25c. by Hill Bro's. 6

At the late Teachers' examination in Owen Sound there was seventy-three candidates, of whom one took A of the Second Class, one B of the Second Class, and twelve Third Class certificates. The names of the successful candidates are as follows:—

A of 2, Andrew Melville Stewart; B of 2, Marilla Tupper; 3rd, James T. Luton, Christina Acheton, Lizzie Johnston, William C. Morrison, Maggie Locke, Mary E. Pye, Samuel D. Gaudin, Emma Williams, Charlotte M. Duncan, Esther Florence Ford, Thomas A. Corbett, and Isabella Kelso.—O. S Times.

Fluid Lightning is simply a marvellous Rheumatic Remedy. I was for two months a cripple, unable to get out of the house from Sciatica. One bottle gave me instant relief, and placed me on my feet again. I have driven fourteen miles to-day (something I could not possibly have done were it not for Fluid Lightning) for the express purpose of procuring another bottle. So says Wm. Dixon, Gananoque. Only 35 cents per bottle at Hill Bro's. 6

THE BARRACKS BURNED.—On Friday last shortly before midnight the town was brilliantly illuminated by a fire in Bay Ward, and as soon as the alarm was given, a large number of citizens hurried to the scene of the fire, which proved to be the Drill Shed, which during the past year has been occupied as the headquarters of the Salvation Army. The residence of Col. Brodie was attached to the rear of the drill shed, and along with it, was completely consumed, very little of the contents being saved. The drill shed was built long before our Town Hall, and has often been the scene of concerts, and various other entertainments in days gone by. As the building was entirely built of wood, it was impossible to even make an attempt to save it. Colonel Brodie is a heavy loser by the disaster. We have seldom had such a large and brilliant fire in Owen Sound, and it must have been visible for many miles. The general impression appears to be the work of an incendiary. Since the fire the Army have established themselves in the restaurant building near the C. P. R. station.—O. S. Advertiser.

WORMS cause much sickness among children that Freeman's Worm Powders will surely cure.

Canada's Great Fair.

CONDENSED PROGRAMME OF TORONTO INDUSTRIAL.

Monday and Tuesday, September 7th & 8th. Preperation days, in which exhibitors are expected to complete the arrangements of all exhibits of the first week. The public will not be admitted on these days.

Wednesday, September 9th. Formal Opening of the Exhibition at 2 p. m.

Thursday, September 10th. All the Industrial Departments will be open at 9 a. m.

Friday, September 11th. Continuation of the Great Industrial Exposition.

Saturday, September 12. School Children's Day.

4 P. M.—First Grand Balloon Ascension.

EVENING.—First Illumination of the Grounds and Buildings with 120 Electric Arc Lights.

Monday, September 14th. Citizens' Day. First Day of Exhibition of Live Stock.

EVENING AT 7.—Illumination of the Grounds with Electric Light and Prismatic Fountains.

Tuesday, September 15th. All the Live Stock, Poultry, Dairy Department, Agricultural Products, Fruit, Flowers and other Departments of the Exhibition will be open.

Wednesday, September 16th. Farmers Grand Gala Day, under the Auspices of the Dominion and Provincial Granges, Patrons of Husbandry, and the Farmers Institute throughout the Dominion.

Thursday, September 17. American Visitors' Day.

Friday, September 18. Last Opportunity to Visit Canada's Great Fair of 1885.

Saturday, September 19. Last Day of Canada's Great Fair of 1885.

IF your child is stubborn or hard to administer medicine to, Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup will be appreciated.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Cheese, when excessively acid, is likely to produce alarming gastro-intestinal irritation.

Cold tea should be saved for the vinegar barrel. It sours easily and gives color and flavor.

A pound of sugar is one pint, an ounce of any liquid is two tablespoonfulls, a pint of liquid weighs sixteen ounces.

Hot wood ashes applied to a stove when cold will remove grease. Cover the spot entirely; do not be sparing of the ashes.

Silver spoons that have become discolored from contact with cooked eggs, may be easily brightened by rubbing with common salt.

Lemon juice will whiten frosting, cranberry or strawberry juice will color it pink, and the grated rind of an orange strained through a cloth will color it yellow.

Mosquitoes, flies and other pests will no enter a room in which the castor-oil plan is growing; or, if they should enter it, they are soon found dead beneath the leaves.

A simple test for the detection of lead in drinking water is provided by tincture of cochineal, a few drops of which will color the water blue, if there be the remotest trace of lead present.

One of the best and most convenient receptacles for table cutlery is a canton flannel knife case tacked to the inside of a cupboard door—to be so constructed that there will be a separate compartment for each knife or fork.

A lump of gum camphor in the closet where silver or plated ware is kept will do much towards preventing tarnish. Coal gas, and the near presence of rubber in any form are two things that cause silver to tarnish quickly.

Any one who doubts as to the best way to have clear jelly is assured on strong evidence and many proofs that to allow the juice to drain through a flannel bag without squeezing it, will render this matter easy and satisfactory.

Better than an iron spoon for mixing sponge for bread, and for similar uses is a "mundle" or a piece of oak shaped into a round smooth handle at one end, and the other end flattened like a thick knife blade, then sand-papered smooth.

In a damp closet or cupboard, which is liable to cause mildew, place a saucer full of quick lime, and it will not only absorb all dampness, but sweeten and disinfect the place. Renew the lime once a fortnight, or as often as it becomes slacked.

When a knob comes off a door-handle you can fasten it on again by filling the cavity of the knob with sulpher, then heat the iron end of the handle which goes in the knob just hot enough to melt the sulpher, put the knob in, and let it cool. It will be firmly fixed in place.

The Scientific American states that plush goods and all articles dyed with aniline colors, faded from exposure to light, will look bright as ever after being sponged with chloroform. The commercial chloroform will answer the purpose very well, and is less expensive than the purified.

If children are hungry between meals give them bread or biscuit, as these will "stay the stomach" and not interfere with digestion. I know a family of children who have as much dry bread as they wish between meals, or an apple; never butter or jam or preserve, and they are as healthy and rosy as heart could wish.

Wax beans make a delicious salad. Choose your beans, remove the strings, break in inch long pieces and cook in salt and water. While still warm cover them with a dressing of oil, vinegar, salt and pepper. Be sure and remember in mixing salads the old saying. "A spendthift for oil, a miser for vinegar, a wise man for salt and a mad man for mixing." Use at least twice as much oil as vinegar.

Free and Easy Manners.

When girls assume a swaggering manner upon the street, use coarse expressions, and greet each other with a rough "Hello," they cannot expect much deference from their male friends. A lady's manner always controls that of a gentlemen; and if she does not respect herself he will not respect her. When boys and girls, young men and maidens, are allowed to fall into the absurdities of low foolish, meaningless talk, it seems to dwarf them intellectually; they can find nothing of interest or importance to say, and therefore make up for sense by filling every sentence with needless exclamations, exaggerations, or misused adjectives. It requires much patience to be compelled to listen to half-a dozen folks and hear the strange inappropriate use of language. They will assure each other that it is "awful" warm, or the concert "awful nice; the serman "horrid" dull; a young lady is "awful pretty," but her dress "horrid ugly;" the teacher "horrid strict;" such a young gentleman who called had an "awful swell" team of fast horses. If young people could hear themselves as others hear them, it might result in their reformation.

Refinement in Home and Society.

Refinement of feeling and perception has a much broader field in which to manifest itself in the narrow circles of home than in the wider sphere of society, where there is so comparatively little to cause friction. And she who is not a lady in her deportment to father, mother, daughter, son, sister or brother, cannot be such when she enters the larger arena of society, no mattet what suavity of manner or polish of exterior she may bring to bear with which to charm and delight those about her. Nor is the inner refinement spoken of at all inconsistent with decision of character. In fact, the one possessing it is the one best adapted, because of her clearness of preception, to be firm for the right and against the wrong, insisting upon the former in every case where, by virtue of her position in regard to it, she may in any measure be responsible for the wrong. Such a one rules her home with a gentle grace which, while it records a tender deference to inherent right and wrong in all their relations, insists upon the former.

Disinclination to Marry.

"It is true," said a young lady, "I scarcely know a girl who wants to marry. They are learning something that will interest them as well as support them, two roles in which husbands just now fail. The truth is we are all scared away from any desire to marry by seeing how wretched those who do marry are. Where would we look for husbands? Among the snipes and sports and characterless young men that fill our drawing-rooms? They are insufferable as mere acquaintances or beaux; who could contemplate them as husbands? I have always thought that if I could find a young man at all like my father I could love him and marry him, but that school of men has vanished from the younger ranks.

Women of the Future.

The young men of the future have got to look sharp. In the seminaries and colleges whose doors have been opened to girls it is a notable fact that the girls this year have got away with the honors, by a large majority. As there is no institution thus opened which will close its doors against the girls, young men would do well to take their lesson in time. The girls have knocked the doors open to stay, and, what is more, they are there to make good use of their opportunities.

A GIRL'S WONDERFUL ENDURANCE.

Living For Three Weeks Without Food.

A remarkable instance of endurance and of the possibitity of living without food for three weeks has, the Melbourne (Australia) Argus says, recently come to light. On the 12th of May a girl named Clara Crosby, twelve years old, was lost in the bush in the Lilydale district, about twenty-five miles from Melbourne. The locality in which she disappeared was wild and mountainous, and after several search parties had unsuccessfully scoured it, it was concluded that she had perished in some inacessible spot It is probable, however, that she would have been found promptly had not erroneous information been given to the search parties that she had been seen proceeding in a certain direction. On the 2nd of June, just three weeks after she was lost, two men, who were looking for a strayed horse in some dense scrub in the locality, heard a faint "Coo-ee." The men searched, and soon saw the little girl tottering towards them in an ulster, without shoes or stockings on, and in an emaciated condition. She was, however, strange to say, quite sensible. When she lost herself she was proceeding from a house where she had been staying to her mother's, in the neighborhood, and she subsequently gave the following account of her adventures:

"I got out of the paddocks on to the road all right, and went on a long way; but I did not see mother's house. I followed some sheep, and they ran away from me I lay down and had a little sleep by a path in some long grass, and then I went on again. I got to a house where there was a cart in a shed; but there was nobody at home. I didn't stop till I got into some rushes, which cut my legs, and came to a creek with a tree across it. I lay down in the rushes for the night, and in the morning I crossed the creek on the log. Near the other side a branch broke, and I fell into the water, but managed to cling to the bank. Close by I saw a hollow tree, and I was tired and wanted to sleep, so I went in there. When I woke up I could not look for my way. I went down to the creek five times for water at first. I used to sleep a lot, and as soon as it was night it was day, and when it was day it was night quick again. On moonlight nights I heard people firing guns, and I heard them knocking-making a fence; but when I coo-e-d they did not hear me. I used to sing Salvation Army hymns at first, and pray that someone would come for me. The cows used to come and look at me, but I could not get any milk. I tried to chew a bit of bark, but spat it out, as I thought it would poison me, and I got weaker every day."

Australians are familiar with the agonizing experience undergone by people lost in the bush, and know that in such cases adults, as a rule, do not maintain their mental balance, and that the difficulties of their position are consequently greatly enchanced. This little girl, however—who, by the by, was not accustomed to country life—was actually able to preserve a mental record of the exact number of days during which she was "out of humanity's reach."

The Dead Sea.

The Dead Sea is an old and decrepit salt lake in a very advanced stage of evaporation. It lies several hundred feet below the level of the Mediterranean, just as the Caspian lies several feet below the level of the Back Sea; and as in both cases the surface must once have been continuous, it is clear that the water of either sheet must have dried up to a very considerable extent. But while the Caspian has shrunk only to 85 feet below the Black Sea the Dead Sea has shrunk to the enormous depth of 1,292 feet below the Mediterranean. Every now and then some enterprising De Lesseps or other proposes to build a canal from the Mediterranean to the Dead Sea, and so re-establish the old high level. The effect of this very revolutionary proceeding would be to flood the entire Jordan Valley, connect the Sea of Galilee with the Dead Sea, and play the dickens generally with Scripture geography, to the infinite delight of Sunday school classes. Now, when the Dead Sea first began its independent career as a separate sheet of water on its own account it no doubt occupied the whole bed of this imaginary engineer's lake—spreading, if not from Dan to Beersheba, any rate from Dan to Edom, or, in other words, along the whole Jordan Valley, from the Sea of Galilee and even the Waters of Merom to the southern desert. (I will no insult the reader's intelligence and orthodoxy by suggesting that perhaps he may not be precisely certain as to the exact position of the Waters of Merom; but I will merely commend him just to refresh his memory by turning to his atlas, as this is an opportunity which may not again occur.) The modern Dead Sea is the last shrunken relic of such a considerable ancient lake. Its waters are now very concentrated and so very nasty that no fish or other self-respecting animal can consent to live in them, and so buoyant that a man can't drown himself, even if he tries, because the sea is saturated with salts of various sorts till it has become a kind of soup or porridge, in which the swimmer floats, will he, nill he. Persons in the neighborhood who wish to commit suicide are therefore obliged to go elsewhere; much as in Tasmania, the healthiest climate in the world, people who want to die are therefore obliged to run across for a week to Sydney or Melbourne.

A nearly perfect skeleton of the mosasaurus was recently discovered in a quarry near Mons, in the province of Hainaut, Belgium. It has an extraordinary length of 55 feet 9 inches. It is to be preserved in the Natural History Museum, Brussels.

THE FARM.

Milk! Milk! Milk!

The question with most farmers in a civilized community is, not how much milk can a cow be made to give, but how much will she give on ordinary feed. This surprisingly few farmers know much about. They think, perhaps, that they know, but their knowledge is based upon a slender line of facts. A cow has a big, fleshy, showy udder, and milks fairly. She is set down as a big milker and as a profitable cow; perhaps, reckoned as the most profitable cow in the herd. Near her stands a little cow, with a moderately sized udder, and giving a fair mess of milk, which she keeps up in quantity all through the season, and which in quality and real value makes her yield fully equal to the larger product of the big showy cow. The farmer does not know this fact, and may never find it out, unless he takes pains to learn it by a system of weighing, and testing the milk of different cows. We have never known a herd to be carefully tested in this way, when the estimates of the proprietor and his men, who do the milking and handling of the cows, have not been proved to be incorrect—often greatly to their surprise.

The system to be followed in testing is about as follows: The milk of each cow is drawn separately, and as soon as drawn, the milker takes his pail (which should be of tin), to a good scale, and weighs it, putting down both the gross weight and the net weight, after deducting the weight of the pail. The pail should, by the way, be weighed twice a week, for variations constantly occur. Pails are washed and frequently scoured, so after a few days a slight reduction in weight will be almost always noticed. A slate may be used for recording these weighings, and it is well to have every cow's name written plainly, and scratched in or painted neatly on the slate, and lines ruled for the morning and evening milking. The slate is taken every evening to the office, and the net weights transferred to a book, care being exercised to see that they are correct. If nothing more is done than to keep this record for a year, the information obtained will be invaluable; but this is not enough—far from it. The relative richness of the milk of different cows should be known. This may be ascertained in various ways. The whole of one day's milk of one cow may be set, ripened, and churned whole every day—taking a different cow each day, and being sure to test each cow four or five days before or after she comes in heat. This is perhaps the best plan, but it takes a good deal of milk and considerable time, both of which cannot always be conveniently spared. Besides, a single test for each cow has little valve, compared with several, for there will almost always be found variations in the amount of butter yielded by the same cow, even when the amount of milk is the same. A smaller quantity of milk carefully weighed, will give very accurate results. Thus, eight pounds of milk weighed when fresh, put into a two-gallon bottle and left unstopped until sour, and then churned by shaking, will give very good results. Half the quantity of milk in a one-gallon bottle, will do very well, but the results are less accurate. The best way to manage this bottle churning is, to fasten a strap around the bottle, by which, and a stout cord, it may be suspended at a convenient height from the ceiling. The well stoppered neck is taken in one hand, and the churn swung actively back and forth. After a minute or two, the stopper must be carefully removed to allow liberated gases to escape, as is usual in barrel churns.

Use of Sawdust.

The amount of sawdust made by portable steam sawmills that have been travelling through the timber sections of our country has encouraged farmers to utilize it for farm purposes, but the opinions of its value are not agreed. It has been asserted by some that its absorptive powers were excellent, and that for bedding purposes it served an excellent purpose, and it has been largely used in that manner. But by some it is claimed that ordinary damp sawdust will absorb but little. One who had tried the experiment claimed that sawdust that had not passed through any stage of decomposition, when spread upon mowing land, had killed the grass, although saturated with urine and juices of the manure. If this is so it is a matter of interest.

We had always supposed that if sawdust was used as an absorbent and was well mixed with manure it would become charged with the chemical change of the manure in its decomposition, and so become available with the manure. It is a singular fact that sawdust is very slow of decomposition when left to itself, and this has been verified by one who placed a large quantity in his barn yard in the supposition that it would come out in a little time suitable for manurial purposes, but which, much to his surprise, after remaining there about one year, was found to be about as fresh as when first placed there, and of no possible use as a fertilizer. It would seem as though sawdust well dried would make an excellent dryer in the manufacture of domestic phosphate, and that the acid would tend to reduce it to such condition as would at least prevent any injurious effects upon growing crops. It is pleasant to use for many purposes. Thrown under a shed in winter where hens are kept to get at the sun, it affords a much warmer footing than the frozen earth.

Attend to the Fall Feeding.

When the pastures begin to fall off, some extra food should be provided for all the stock, but especially the cows. Horses are always well cared for, but the cows are too often neglected, both as to food, and a supply of pure water. Those farmers who have provided some soiling crops, will find the benefit of the fresh green fodder; those who have not, will now see the disadvantage of being short of feed just at this season. It is very easy to secure this supply of food for the short season. Every farmer has a neglected piece of land, which is bringing in nothing, and which could be made to produce a very profitable crop of green feed. Such an opportunity should not be neglected. Where the supply has been provided, a liberal feed should be given daily. It is a mistake to suppose that it is better to save the food for winter, and spare it at this season. When any animal is kept short of food, it goes back rapidly, and more food will be required to make up this lost ground, than would have kept the animal in its normal condition. This is especially true as regards swine; if these are permitted to fall off now for lack of food, they will consume much more than the present gain, in recovering the loss. Animals that are intended for fattening, should be kept on full feed now, and those to be wintered over, should be kept in good condition. The old adage should not be forgotten, viz: "an animal that is well summered, is half wintered."

KILLED BY HIS OWN SON.

A Quarrel in a Farm House Over a Game of Dominoes.

The county of Morris, N. J. has another murder case, which, following so closely after the killing of James Laurent by Samuel Wade, causes unusual excitement. Thomas Smith, about 45 years of age, was the farmer who managed White Meadows, the country residence of County Collector Mahlon Hoagland, about two miles from the village of Rockaway. He is very excitable and hot tempered, although not addicted to liquor drinking. He has a son named Lodi, aged eighteen years. Late the other evening this boy came into the village and gave himself up to Constable Daniel Morgan, with the startling information that he had killed his father. The story of the fratricide which the young man gave is as follows:

In the evening his father and mother, Bridget Nolan, the work girl, and himself sat down to play dominoes, the two former and the two latter being partners. The first game was won by the boy and girl, which so incensed the father that he swept the dominoes from the table. The second game was won by the father and mother, which put the former in a more happy mood, but in the third game the boy and girl won, and the fathers anger became uncontrollable. He again swept the dominoes from the table, and struck his wife. He also caught up from her chair a little girl who was sitting at the table, and threw her to the floor. The son fled into another room. The father followed him with a stick of wood, and declared with an oath too horrible to be repeated that he would kill him. The boy then drew a 32-calibre revolver and fired at him. The father turned and made a move to come toward him. The boy fired and second time. Still the father came on, then the boy fired a third shot. With this shot the father fell to the floor. He lived only a short time. He uttered nothing but groans. One bullet had struck him in the left shoulder, another in the upper part of one eye, and the third went into the forehead.

The boy then started for Rockaway at once to give himself up. He expressed regret at what had occurred, and said nothing but a fear of danger to his life would have induced him to do what he did. He had always been a quiet, well-behaved boy, and was much liked in the community. The father was a war veteran. Coroner J. P. Stickler next day commited young Smith to the county jail at Morristown and proceeded to hold an inquest. During the proceedings Smith made a voluntary statement to the jury. The other members of the family corroborated his account of the homicide. The proceedings were adjourned until next Tuesday for further testimony. The son says that his father had on several other occasions abused his family and had threatened the lives of all. Some time ago they were compelled to flee from the house in the evening and they remained hid in a barn throughout the night.

BRILLIANTS.

Expect nothing from him who promises a great deal.

A pleasing countenance is a silent commendation.

Have not the cloak to make when it begins to rain.

The most manifest sign of wisdom is continued cheerfulness.

Love is like honesty—much talked about but little understood.

No degree of knowledge attainable by man is able to set him above the want of hourly assistance.

You may shrink from the far reaching solitudes of your heart, but no other foot than yours can tread them.

One who is content with what he has done will never become famous for what he will do, he has lain down to die.

Plato will have disciples, but Socrates will have adorers; because if the one knew how to think, the other knew how to die.

The Winter's frost must rend the burr of the nut before the nut is seen. So adversity tempers the human heart to discover the real worth.

Those who, without knowing us, think or speak evil of us, do us no harm; it is not us they attack, but the phantom of their own imagination.

Politeness may prevent the want of wit and talents from being observed, but wit and talents cannot prevent the discovery of want of politeness.

The beginning of hardships is like the first taste of bitter food—it seems for a moment unbearable; yet, if there is nothing else to satisfy our hunger, we take another bite and find it possible to go on.

Printers' Errors in Bibles.

The recent revision of the Bible has called attention to Bibles generally, and especially those famous for their curious misprints. The earliest is the "Place-makers' Bible," printed at Geneva in 1561, in which the letter I was substituted for an e in the seventh beatitude. The "Vinegar Bible" was published at Oxford in 1717, the word vineyard being misprinted vinegar. In the "Wicked Bible," only four copies of which are now in existence, the negative was left out of the seventh commandment, and the printer was fined £3,000 by Archbishop Laud, though it is said to have been commuted to £300. The "Persecuting Printers' Bible," in which the Psalmist is made to say "Printers have persecuted me without a cause," dates from 1702. The "Ears-to-ear Bible" was printed at Oxford early in the present century, the mistake occuring in Matth w xii. 43, and no less than three edition, the latest being 1822, transformed the word fishers, in Ezekiel xvii. 10, into fishes, so that the phrase reads "fishes shall stand upon it." There was also what was called the "Breeches Bible" (1579), so called because Gen. iii. 7 was rendered, "The eyes of them bothe were opened......and they sewed figge-tree leaves together, and made themselves breeches."

QUEER WEDDINGS.

"Thought He'd Just Fetch Her Up to the Parson's."

A popular preacher was [illegible] with the hired man in [illegible] a lawn mower over his front lawn. He had paused [illegible] with a handkerchief a salty pearl of perspiration that threatened to drop from his nasal tip to the cavity beneath, and to remark about "all flesh being grass" when a slouchy-looking man stopped at the gate and asked if the preacher lived there.

"I want to be married," he explained "and right away, too." The preacher promised to get ready at once, and go to meet the bride with the groom.

"You needn't mind puttin' on nothin' or goin' nowhere," said the man

"But where's the bride?"

"She's right here. I left her in the alley till I could find you. She's a backward sort of gal, and there's no use trying to get her to no church or into no parlor. But the license is all right, and you come along and tie the knot."

By one of those fortuitous circumstances which so often are meted providentially to the reportorial fraternity, a reporter happened along, and was called as a witness. He followed the coatless preacher and the innocent bridegroom to the head of the alley, and the groom cheerily called to "Claris" to come out. The papers were examined, the blanks filled out in full, and the wedding ceremony performed then and there.

"Do you have many calls of this kind?" was asked of the preacher.

"A great many more than might be supposed. Very often these quiet parties come to my house, usually having first notified me, and are married in the presence of a few witnesses. I had a case of this kind this week, and very reputable people they were. Not long ago I was stopped on the street and called up into a block to marry a couple. After pronouncing them husband and wife, in accordance with my custom, I said 'Let us pray.' The groom abandoned his bride left her standing in the middle of the floor, and walked across the room to a bed, where he knelt throughout prayer. I admired a sentiment which prompted him to a return, no doubt to a boyhood custom, but in pity for the loneliness of the bride I made the prayer unorthodoxly short.

"It hasn't been ten days since a bride and bridegroom drove up to my door in a delivery wagon. The groom was the regular driver, and upon his rounds he called for his Dulcinea and "thought he'd just fetch her right up to the parson's.' He was in his shirt sleeves and work clothes; she was dressed in white, with a great cluster of red ribbons knotted at her side. She looked and acted the part of a bride, but he was more like a last year's groom."

Brown's Little Joke.

"Why, Brown, how short your coat is," said Jones one day to his friend Brown, who wittily replied: "Yes; but it will be long enough before I get another." Some men spend so much for medicines that neither heal nor help them, that new clothes is with them like angels' visits—few and far between. Internal fevers, weakness of the lungs, shortness of breath and lingering coughs, soon yield to the magic influence of that royal remedy, Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery."

The V shaped corsage is very popular in Paris.

$500 Reward.

The former proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for years made a standing, public offer in all American newspapers of $500 reward for a case of catarrh that he could not cure. The present proprietors have renewed this offer. All the druggists sell this Remedy, together with the "Douche," and all other appliances advised to be used in connection with it. No catarrh patient is longer able to say "I cannot be cured." You get $500 in case of failure.

Belts to be fashionable must be very wide.

* * * Stricture of the urethra in its worst forms, speedily cured by our new and improved methods. Pamphlet, references and terms, two three-cent stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Green in various subdued shades will be a leading color in fall and early winter fashions.

☞ Alma Ladies' College, St. Thomas, Ont., has full staff and complete courses in Literature, Music, Fine Arts, and Commercial Science. Re-opens September 10, 1885. For 50 pp. announcement, address Principal Austin, B.D.

All gray greens will be much worn.

Prevention Better Than Cue.

Many of the diseases so prevalent in these days are caused by using soap containing impure and infectious matter. Avoid all risk by using PERFECTION Laundry Soap, which is absolutely pure. Ask your grocer for PERFECTION. Manufactured only by the Toronto Soap Co.

Bustles have probably reached their maximum in size for at least six months to come.

There is not and there cannot be, any smoking tobacco superior to the "Myrtle Navy" brand. A wrapper of bright appearance and higher price it is possible to get, but all wrappers are very poor smoking tobacco, and but a single leaf is wrapped round a plug. The stock used in the body of the "Myrtle Navy" plug is the very best which money can purchase. The powers of the Virginia soil can produce nothing better, and no other soil in the world can produce as fine tobacco as that of Virginia.

White frocks are worn to excess in England.

The Blues.

Despite all we can do, they occasionally come and cast in dark shadow our aims, hopes and expectations. Avoid disappointment by not expecting too much; avoid waste of money by never purchasing the worthless; avoid sore spots in the heart where the heart should be, by always using Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the sure, safe and painless remedy in the world for corns. Beware of substitutes, counterfeits and imitations. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere.

Huge bridal bouquets are no longer in vogue.

Everybody Ho! Ho!

Read this carefully. If you or any friend are suffering from any kind of pain, internal, local, or external, try Polson's NERVILINE, the sure pop pain cure. Nerviline is one of the most elegant combinations ever offered to the public for the relief of pain. Pleasant to take, powerful in effect, sure in results, and cheap because the strongest, purest, and most certain pain remedy in the world. You can test this great remedy by going to a drug store and buying a 10 cent sample bottle. Try it at once.

Sashes are a feature in fall toilets.

A. P. 244

FARMS FOR SALE.—All kinds—Send for list. JOHN J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IMPERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACKING

PURE BRED AYRSHIRES for sale. [illegible]

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—100 acres [illegible]

It is conceded by all that the Dominion Business College, Kingston, is the [illegible] school in Canada.

CHICKS for Sale, from thorough-bred imported Stock. Rose and Single Comb, Brown and White Leghorns, Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes. W. O. G. PETER, Angus.

CLEAN GRAIN—SEND TO MANSON CAMPBELL, Chatham, Ont., for Chatham Fast cleaning fanning mills. Best in Canada. Also warehouse mills and dustless separators.

A 8 CURES AGAINST ALL PREJUDICE Williams' Eye Water has proved itself a success by all who have used it according to directions, if their eyes were curable, as will be seen by the undersigned residents. It cured me, 8 years blind, oculist failed O. Fortin; it has cured me, oculist would not try me, Alexander Wand; 6 years blind, Chas. Amiott; 4 years, Elie Dufour; 33 years blind and now I see, J. B. Lesoix. Ask your druggist for it. Wholesale—Lyman Sons & Co., 384 St. Paul St., Montreal.

FARM FOR SALE—CONSISTING OF NINETY-six acres in the county of Essex, the Garden of Canada, lot 27, 4th concession of Maidstone, about 2 miles from the flourishing town of Essex Centre; over 80 acres cleared and under cultivation, and the rest bush; the quality of the soil is excellent, being a rich clay loam; the outbuildings, barns, etc., are comparatively new, also the dwelling house which is a good storey and a half log; there is also a splendid orchard of over 130 apple trees; price $4,500 on easy terms; cheapest farm yet offered in this locality. Further particulars, apply to JAS. OLIVER, Essex Centre.

WATER STAR AUGUR $20 Per Day WELL BORING

has no superior; 20 feet per hour; hand or horse power; combined boring and rock drilling machine; grand success; first prizes and diplomas. Send for Catalogue.

63 Mary Street, Hamilton, Canada.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING

—USE ONLY—

Clapperton's Spool Cotton

Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on label. ☞ For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.

JAMES PARK & SON,

Pork Packers, Toronto.

L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock.

—ONTARIO—

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

WILL RE-OPEN ON FIRST OCTOBER,

EXAMINATIONS FOR ADMISSION ON 2ND OCTOBER.

Course of instruction SPECIALLY ADAPTED to wants of farmers' sons. For circular giving information as to terms of admission, cost, course of study, etc., apply to

JAMES MILLS, M.A., President Guelph.

(Name this paper)

TRY PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER

PURE GOLD MANUFACTURING CO., 13 FRONT ST. EAST Toronto.

CUT THIS OUT!

The New Co-Operative

Sewing Machine!

—IS THE—

BEST IN THE MARKET

NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE

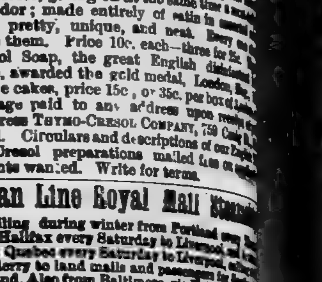
Latest Improved Attachments

Agents price for similar machine $60

Our price only $25 each.

Before buying send us stamp for our elegant photograph and samples of sewing.

☞ Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.



Any lad wantin a machine will do well to write to

THE CO-OPERATIVE

Sewing Machine Co.

22 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, Temperance St., Toronto. Patrons, Gov. General of Canada, Lieut. Gov. of Ontario. The most successful Veterinary Institution in America. [illegible] hundred graduates in successful practice. Experienced teachers. Session begins Oct. [illegible] Fifty Dollars. Principal, PROFESSOR [illegible] trial and territory given. Ladies make good [illegible] clothes, and every lady will buy after trying [illegible] to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in [illegible] 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., [illegible] facturers, 78 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada.

PERFUMED DISINFECTANTS placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, [illegible] They drive away and destroy Moths and [illegible] imparting a delightful and delicate perfume [illegible] clothing, carried or worn upon the person [illegible] by their powerful concentrated disinfectant [illegible] a perfect means of protection against [illegible] of disease, giving off at the same time a [illegible] ful odor; made entirely of satin in [illegible] very pretty, unique, and neat. Every [illegible] have them. Price 10c. each—three for [illegible] Cresol Soap, the great English disinfectant [illegible] soap, awarded the gold medal, London, [illegible] Large cakes, price 15c., or 35c. per box of [illegible] postage paid to any address upon receipt [illegible] Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 759 Craig St. [illegible] treal. Circulars and descriptions of our English [illegible] mo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application. Agents wanted. Write for terms.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships

Sailing during winter from Portland every [illegible] and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and [illegible] from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling [illegible] onderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland [illegible] Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and [illegible] N. F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer [illegible] The steamers of the Glasgow lines sail during [illegible] to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and [illegible] phia; and during summer between Glasgow and [illegible] treal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and [illegible] and Philadelphia fortnightly.

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, [illegible] Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brookie, Philadelphia; H. [illegible] Allan, Proprietor Boston Montreal.

CAUTION

Each Plug of the

MYRTLE NAVY

IS MARKED

T. & B

In Bronze Letters.

NONE OTHER GENUINE

GURNEY & WARE

STANDARD SCALES

Are the Best, Attested by the Fact that there are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' & Butchers' Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.

Housekeepers, Consult Your Best Interests

By purchasing a scale, and in buying one be sure to get the best. Our scales are fully warranted in every particular. All sizes Railroad, Warehouse and Mill Trucks. Alarm Money Drawers. For sale by the Hardware Trade generally. Illustrated Catalogue and Price List forwarded on application.

GURNEY & WARE

HAMILTON.

WAREHOUSES—Montreal and Winnipeg.

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO.

—MANUFACTURERS OF—

PEERLESS

—AND OTHER—

"MACHINE OILS"

GOLD MEDALS AND FIRST PRIZES WHEREVER EXHIBITED.

Queen City Oil Works, Toronto

$10 Reward for the Conviction

Of Dealers who offer and Sell Inferior Oil of Other Manufacture for McCOLL'S

THE ABOVE REWARD PAID.

LARDINE

MACHINE OIL.

Eureka, Cylinder' Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. | For sale by all leading dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co. Toronto

THE "SUNBEAM" WRINGER

ONLY $3.00 The cheapest in the market.

Warranted first-class, or money refunded. Send direct to manufacturers, or procure from your Hardware or House-Furnishing dealer.

Clothes Wringers of all kinds "Royal Canadian," "Imperial," [illegible] also Mangles, [illegible] Roller, and [illegible] Roller. Write for particulars.

Hamilton Industrial Works Co., Manufacturers, Hamilton, Canada.

Examine Their Superior Merit.

GURNEY'S

NEW HARRIS HOT AIR [illegible]

FOR WOOD

The Most Effective, Clean, Durable and Economical Heaters in the Market for [illegible] ventilating Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Stores and Private Residences [illegible] construction and easily managed, capable of giving more heat with less consumption of fuel [illegible] heating apparatus. ☞ Absolutely Gas Tight. [illegible] Seven sizes are made and can be [illegible] Brick or Portable Form. Correspondence solicited. For Catalogues and further information [illegible]

THE E. & C. GURNEY CO.

(LIMITED.)

HAMILTON.

HINTS TO YOUNG HUNTERS.

[illegible] gun shoots where it is pointed.

[illegible] or corroded shells ought never [illegible]

[illegible] bullet never travels in a straight [illegible] a short distance.

A bullet is deflected from its course [illegible] ranges of wind and temperature.

[illegible] hold your gun level. The longer the [illegible] more important this rule becomes.

[illegible] good results should not be expected [illegible] gun and one kind of ammunition at [illegible] ances and for all purposes.

[illegible] gun barrel clamped in a vise will [illegible] its bullets so close together as [illegible] good marksman shoots it from a rest.

Violent exercise just before shooting [illegible] any man's score. Dissipation of [illegible] will have the same effect.

The muzzle of a gun is always dangerous [illegible] not so considered, one soon contracts [illegible] habit of being careless with loaded firearms.

It is any easy matter to shoot when [illegible] is up, or to shoot on the wrong target [illegible] these errors should be guarded against [illegible] each shot fired.

Primers should be seated carefully to avoid [illegible] of fulminate, and when seating [illegible] care should be taken that powder is [illegible] therange of any that may explode.

No one who is afraid of the recoil of a gun [illegible] make a good score. Never wince before [illegible] are hurt; there is plenty of time to [illegible] afterward.

Not one half of the guns made are worn [illegible]; by far the greater number being ruined [illegible] through lack of care or on account of being [illegible] tinkered by their owners.

Examine your firearms frequently to see [illegible] rust has begun to form. Make it a point [illegible] prevent rust rather than remove it. Keep [illegible] away from damp walls, and do not [illegible] them in positions that tend to warp [illegible] stocks.

In shooting, the longest range of the gun [illegible] should be taken into consideration. Ask [illegible] yourself: Where will the bullet drop? The [illegible] who uses a long range rifle to shoot a [illegible] bird in a tree, is either very careless or [illegible] ignorant.

A gun may shoot poorly because it is not [illegible] with fine sights, a fact which some [illegible] is not fully appreciated. For instance, [illegible] telescope, spirit-level and vernier add [illegible] to the accuracy of a gun, but only affect the power of directing shots.

Hold your gun in the same manner every time it is fired; that is, with the same pressure to the shoulder, and do not hold the [illegible] to the shoulder at one time and the heel [illegible] the shoulder at another. The proper way is to hold the centre of the butt plate to the shoulder.

The man that doesn't leave his wits at home is the one who succeeds in any kind of shooting, whether in the field, at the trap, or before the target. Do not imagine that because you are easily excited, it is impossible to keep cool. Try a little enforced coolness; perhaps your excitability may be only a matter of habit.

Powder is very susceptible to moisture of any kind and will be materially injured if left exposed even for a short time in a damp atmosphere. The residuum, that is, the burned powder remaining in the barrel, has the same affinity for moisture and may be as effectually softened by means of breathing in the barrel, as by the application of water.

POINTS OF HISTORY.

In 1607 Virginia was colonized by Sir Walter Raleigh; in 1608 Champlain founded Quebec; and the following year New York was settled by the Dutch. To these settlements, in 1620, was added that of Massachusetts after the historic landing of the "Pilgrim Fathers."

Horace Walpole relates that when the beautiful Countess of Suffolk married Mr. Howard they were both so poor that they went to Hanover, before Queen Anne's death, to pay court to the future Royal Family. Having a party to dinner, and being disappointed of a remittance, the countess was forced to sell her hair to furnish the entertainment. Long wigs were then in fashion, and her hair, being very long, fine, and fair, produced her twenty pounds.

Tea, according to Chinese writers, was first discovered in the 18th century. An impost was placed upon it by the Emperor Te-Tsung in 781. It was introduced into Japan from China in the 9th century. The Dutch introduced it into Europe in 1591; it was used in England on some rare occasions prior to 1657, and was sold at from £6 to £10 per pound. Millions of pounds weight of sloe, liquorice, and ash-tree leaves are every year mixed with Chinese teas in England. The annual consumption of tea in Great Britian is 30,000,000 pounds, while that of all the rest of the civilized world only amount to 22,000,000.

Three attempts have been made to kill French sovereigns by infernal machines one of which has been directed against each of the three last sovereigns. On December 24th, 1800, St. Regent tried to blow up the first Napoleon with a barrel of gunpowder charged with grape shot He missed Napoleon, but hit 73 others, killing 20. Fieschi attempted the life of Louis Phillipe on July 28th, 1835, by firing an infernal machine as the King and his sons rode along the lines of the National Guards on the Boulevard du Temple. The machine consisted of 25 gun-barrels fixed in a frame and [illegible] various missiles, which were [illegible] by a train of gunpowder [illegible]

[illegible] Pieri, R[illegible] made an attempt to kill Napoleon III by means of hand granades: this [illegible] also unsuccessful, and by it two persons [illegible] killed and many wounded.

A paper by Admiral F. S. Tremlett on quadrilateral constructions near Carnac has been read before the Anthropological Institute, London. The enclosures were explored by the late Mr. James Miln. In each case the boundary walls are formed of coarse undressed stones put together without any kind of cement, and have built up within them a series of small menhirs or "standing stones." The enclosures also contain bee-hive structures for cremation purposes, reddened and become friable from the effects of great heat. It would appear that the process of cremation had been a very perfect one, as not a particle of calcined bone was discovered in any of the enclosures.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE
ance St., Toronto. Patron
Canada, Lieut.-Gov. of Ontario.
ful Veterinary Institution hundred graduates in successful perienced teachers. Session begins
Fifty Dollars. Principal, PROFESSOR

rial and territory given. Ladies make clothes, and every lady will buy to wash collars in five minutes,
10c. or one dollar. Address, FERRIS
Farmers, 76 Jarvis Street, TORONTO.

PERFUMED DISINFECTANTS placed in Drawers, Trunks,
They drive away and destroy Moths imparting a delightful and delicate clothing, carried or worn upon the by their powerful concentrated ties, a perfect means of protection of disease, giving off at the same ful odor; made entirely of satin in very pretty, unique, and neat.
have them. Price 10c. each—three Cresol Soap, the great English soap, awarded the gold medal, Large cakes, price 15c., or 25c. per postage paid to any address upon Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, mo-Cresol preparations mailed Agents wanted. Write for terms.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships
Sailing during winter from Portland and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, ondonderry to land mails and passengers
Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax N.F., to Liverpool fortnightly during The steamers of the Glasgow Line to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston phia; and during summer between treal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, and Philadelphia fortnightly.
For freight, passage, or other apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., N.F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St.
Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Allan,
York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans,
Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia;
Allan, Proprietor Boston Montreal.

CAUTION!
Each Plug of the
MYRTLE NAVY
IS MARKED
T. & B.
In Bronze Letters.
NONE OTHER GENUINE

GURNEY & WARE
STANDARD SCALES

Are the Best. Attested by the Fact that there are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' and Butchers' Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.
Housekeepers, Consult Your Best Interests
By purchasing a scale, and in buying one be sure to get the best. Our scales are fully warranted in every particular. All sizes Railroad, Warehouse and Mill Trucks. Alarm Money Drawers. For sale by the Hardware Trade generally. Illustrated Catalogue and Price List forwarded on application.
GURNEY & WARE
HAMILTON.
WAREHOUSES—Montreal and Winnipeg.

ROGERS & CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF—RLESS
—AND OTHER—
HINE OILS
FIRST PRIZES WHEREVER EXHIBITED.
Oil Works, Toronto
ior the Conviction
COLL'S Superior Oil of Other Manufacture for RDINE
HINE OIL.
Sale by all leading dealers. McColl Bros. & Co. Toronto.
EAM" WRINGER
ONLY $2.50
Clothes Wringers of all kinds. "Royal Canadian," "Imperial," also Mangles, Roller, and Roller. Write for particulars.

Co., Manufacturers, Hamilton, Can.
ir Superior Merit
RNEY'S
HOT AI AND COAL.
O.

HINTS TO YOUNG HUNTERS

No gun shoots where it is pointed.

Dan p or corroded shells ought never to be loaded.

A bullet never travels in a straight line, even f r a short distance.

A b llet is deflected from its course n change of wind and temperature.

Hold your gun level The longer the range the more important this rule becomes.

Good results should not be expected with one gun and one kind of ammunition at all distances and for all purposes.

A gun barrel clamped in a vise will not shoot its bullets so close together as when a good marksman shoots it from a rest.

Violent exercise just before shooting will ruin any man's score. Dissipation of any kind will have the same effect.

The muzzle of a gun is always dangerous; if not so considered, one soon contracts the habit of being careless with loaded firearms.

It is any easy matter to shoot when the trap is up, or to shoot on the wrong target; both these errors should be guarded agains at each shot fired.

Primers should be seated carefully to avoid crushing of fulminate, and when seating them care should be taken that powder is out of the range of any that may explode.

No one who is afraid of the recoil of a gun can make a good score. Never wince before you are hurt; there is plenty of time to do that afterward.

Not one half of the guns made are worn out; by far the greater number being ruined through lack of care or on account of being tinkered by their owners.

Examine your firearms frequently to see if rust has begun to form. Make it a point to prevent rust rather than remove it. Keep guns away from damp walls, and do not store them in positions that tend to warp the stocks.

In shooting, the longest range of the gun should be taken into consideration. Ask yourself: Where will the bullet drop? The man who uses a long range rifle to shoot at a bird in a tree, is either very careless or very ignorant.

A gun may shoot poorly because it is not fitted with fine sights, a fact which sometimes is not fully appreciated. For instance, a telescope, spirit-level and vernier add nothing to the accuracy of a gun, but only affect the power of directing shots.

Hold your gun in the same manner every time it is fired; that is, with the same pressure to the shoulder, and do not hold the toe to the shoulder at one time and the heel to the shoulder at another. The proper way is to hold the centre of the butt plate to the shoulder.

The man that doesn't leave his wits at home is the one who succeeds in any kind of shooting, whether in the field, at the trap, or before the target. Do not imagine that because you are easily excited, it is impossible to keep cool. Try a little enforced coolness; perhaps your excitability may be only a matter of habit.

Powder is very susceptible to moisture of any kind and will be materially injured if left exposed even for a short time in a damp atmosphere. The residuum, that is, the burned powder remaining in the barrel, has the same affinity for moisture and may be so effectually softened by means of breathing in the barrel, as by the application of water.

POINTS OF HISTORY.

In 1607 Virginia was colonized by Sir Walter Raleigh; in 1608 Champlain founded Quebec: and the following year New York was settled by the Dutch. To these settlements, in 1620, was added that of Massachusetts after the historic landing of the "Pilgrim Fathers."

Horace Walpole relates that when the beautiful Countess of Suffolk married Mr. Howard they were both so poor that they went to Hanover, before Queen Anne's death, to pay court to the future Royal Family. Having a party to dinner, and being disappointed of a remittance, the countess was forced to sell her hair to furnish the entertainment. Long wigs were then in fashion, and her hair, being very long, fine, and fair, produced her twenty pounds.

Tea, according to Chinese writers, was first discovered in the 18th century. An edict was placed upon it by the Emperor Ta-Tsang in 781. It was introduced into Japan from China in the 9th century. The Dutch introduced it into Europe in 1591; it was used in England on some rare occasions prior to 1657, and was sold at from £6 to £10 per pound. Millions of pounds weight of aloe, liquorice, and ash-tree leaves are every year mixed with Chinese teas in England. The annual consumption of tea in Great Britian is 30,000,000 pounds, while that of all the rest of the civilized world only amount to 22 000,000.

Three attempts have been made to kill French sovereigns by infernal machines one of which has been directed against each of the three last sovereigns. On December 20th, 1800, St. Regent tried to blow up the first Napoleon with a barrel of gunpowder, charged with grape shot He missed Napoleon, but hit 73 others, killing 20. Fieschi attempted the life of Louis Phillipe on July 28th, 1835, by firing an infernal machine as the King and his sons rode along the line of the National Guards on the Boulevard du Temple. The machine consisted of 25 gun-barrels fixed in a frame and loaded with various missiles, which were discharged simultaneously by a train of gunpowder [illegible] Paris, [illegible] in an attempt to kill Napoleon III. by means of hand grenades; this was also unsuccessful, and by it two persons were killed and many wounded.

A paper by Admiral F. S. Tremlett on quadrilateral constructions near Carnac has been read before the Anthropological Institute, London. The enclosures are explored by the late Mr. James Miln. In each case the boundary walls are formed of coarse undressed stones put together without any kind of cement, and have built up within them a series of small menhirs or "standing stones." The enclosures also contain beehive structures for cremation purposes, reddened and become friable from the effects of great heat. It would appear that the process of cremation had been a very perfect one, as not a particle of calcined bone was discovered in any of the enclosures.

A Guardsman's Luck.

"Sentry, will you kindly keep your eyes on my bag for a few minutes? I am going to have a plunge in the Serpentine," said a well-dressed, middle aged gentleman to me, one warm Summer morning a few years ago, as I was on duty at the park gate of Knightsbridge Cavalry Barracks.

"All right, sir," I replied. "If I am relieved before your return, I shall hand it over to the next sentry."

"Oh, I shan't be more than half an hour at the latest, as I am to be in the city by nine. It doesn't contain very valuable property—only a suit of clothes and a few documents of no use to any one but the owner,' as the saying is. All the same, however, I have no desire to lose it." So saying, the gentleman turned away.

The request to look after his property did not in the least surprise me, as numerous robberies from the clothing of persons bathing had for some time before been reported to the police. The barrack's clock struck eight. Fully half an hour had elapsed since the owner of the bag departed, and as yet there was no sign of him; the "quarter past" was chimed from the neighboring clocks, and still he did not turn up. About half past eight I perceived a great commotion in the park. Men were rushing from all quarters in the direction of the Serpentine; and soon afterwards I ascertained from a passer-by that the excitement was caused by one of the numerous bathers having been drowned. An uneasy suspicion was at once excited within me that the person who had come to such a sad end was the gentleman who had left his valise in my charge, which suspicion was intensified when I was relieved at nine, with the article still unclaimed. I handed over the bag to the sentry who relieved me without mentioning to him any of the circumstances of the case.

I went on sentry again at one o'clock and no one had come for it. It was the height of the London Season, and Hyde Park presented its customary gay appearance, but the imposing array of splendidly-appointed equipages, dashing equestrians and fashionably-dressed ladies and gentlemen, which at other times was to me a most interesting spectacle, that afternoon passed by unheeded, as all my thoughts were centred on speculations regarding the fate of the owner of the bag. Before being relieved at three I had it conveyed to my room in the barracks, and after coming off guard placed it for greater security in the troop store.

After stables, I left barracks for my customary walk, and purchasing a copy of the Echo from a juvenile newsvendor, I read the particulars of the fatality of the morning. Friends had identified the body, which was that of a gentleman named Nixon, who had resided at Bayswater.

"Nixon! That corresponds with the initial 'N' on the bag," I thought to myself, now perfectly convinced that the deceased was the person I had seen in the morning. I also ascertained from the newspaper report that a man had been apprehended on suspicion of having attempted to rifle the pockets of the clothes of the drowned man, and who had been roughly handled by the crowd, before a policeman could be procured to take him into custody. After a moment's reflection I decided to call at the address given in the paper, in order to arrange about the restoration of the bag to the relatives of the deceased.

I was shown into a room, and immediately afterward was waited upon by a young lady, the daughter of the deceased, who naturally enough, was perfectly overcome with grief. I explained to her in a few words the object of my visit.

"I am uncertain whether poor papa had a valise of that description when he left this morning," she said; "but possibly you may recognize him from the photograph," submitting one she took from the table for my inspection.

I experienced a strange sense of relief—the features in the photo were those of a person bearing no resemblance whatever to the individual who had left his bag in my charge.

The young lady thanked me heartily for the trouble I had taken in the matter; and I left the house of mourning and returned to the barracks in a very mystified state of mind.

"Could the owner of the bag be the thief who was caught in the act of plundering the dead man's clothes?" I asked myself, but immediately dismissed the idea from my mind, as being absurd and improbable.

After this the bag ceased to interest me, as the valueless character of its contents caused me to speculate less on the unaccountable conduct of its possessor in never returning for it.

Some time afterwards I was on Queen's guard, Westminster. I had just mounted my horse and taken up position in one of the two boxes facing Parliament street, when a gentleman stopped opposite me and scanned me curiously. Addressing me, he said, "Don't you remember me?"

There was no mistaking the voice it was that of the owner of the bag! Otherwise he was greatly altered, as he had denuded himself of the luxuriant whiskers and moustache he wore when I saw him previously.

"What has been wrong?" I asked.

"Oh, I was seized with a fit that morning when I came out of the water, and was taken home in an unconscious state. I have been very unwell ever since, and I have left my house for the first time, to day. I came to get my bag at once. I presume you have it in safe-keeping at the barracks?"

"It's much nearer at hand," I replied—"just across the street from here," and then I conducted him to the police headquarters in a minute or two, and on making enquiries, were directed to the "Lost Property" department. We stated our business, and an official, after receiving an assurance from me that the a plunge was the right system, speedily produced the valise. "Why didn't you see about this before?" he asked, addressing the gentleman.

"Because I was too ill to see about anything," was the reply.

The gentleman then signed a book, certifying that his property had been restored to him, giving as he did so the name of Nobbs.

Having thanked the official, Mr. Nobbs caught up his property and we left the office.

When we got to the door we found assembled a small crowd of men employed about the establishment; for the unusual spectacle of two helmeted, jack booted guardsmen had caused a good deal of speculation as to our business there. Mr. Nobbs hurriedly brushed past them, and gaining the street hailed a passing cab, and the driver at once pulled up. "Here is something for your trouble," he said, slipping a sovereign into my hand. I, of course, thanked him heartily for this munificent douceur. Declining the offer of the driver to place his bag on the dicky, he put it inside the vehicle; then shaking hands with the corporal and myself, he said to the driver: "Euston, as fast as you can," and entered the cab,

The driver released the brake from the wheel, and was whipping up his scraggy horse with a view of starting, when the poor animal slipped and fell. The man belonging to the Scotland Yard who had followed us into the street at once rushed to the driver's assistance, unbuckled the traces, and after pushing back the cab, got the horse on its feet. All the while Mr. Nobbs was watching the operation from the window, and I noticed that one of the men was surveying him very attentively.

"Your name is Judd, isn't it?" the man at length remarked.

"No it isn't.—What do you mean by addressing me, sir?" indignantly replied Mr. Nobbs.

"Well," said the man, who I at once surmised was a member of the detective force, "that's the name you gave anyhow, when you were had up on the charge of feeling the pockets of the gent's clothes who was drowned in the Serpentine a week ago. I know you, although you've had a clean shave."

I started on hearing this statement; my suspicions, ridiculous as they seemed at the time, had turned out to be correct after all; while Mr. Judd, alias Nobbs, turned as pale as death.

"Come out of that cab," said the detective.

"You've no right to detain me," said Nobbs, "I was discharged this morning."

"Because nothing was known against you—But look here, old man, what have you got in that bag?"

"Only some old clothes, I assure you," said the crest-fallen Nobbs.

"Come inside, and we'll see," said the detective, seizing the bag. "Out of the cab—quick! and come with me to the office."

Mr. Nobbs complied with a very bad grace; while the corporal and I followed, wondering what was to happen next.

We entered a room in the interior, and the bag was opened; but it apparently contained nothing but the clothes.

"There is certainly no grounds for detaining this man," said an inspector, standing near.

Mr. Nobbs at once brightened up and cried; "You see I have told you the truth, and now be good enough to let me go."

"All right," said the detective. Pack up your traps and clear out."

Mr. Nobbs this time complied with exceeding alacrity, and began to replace the articles of clothing, when the detective seemingly acting on a sudden impulse, caught up the valise and gave it a vigorous shake. A slight rustling sound was distinctly audible.

"Hillo! what's this?" cried the officer. Emptying the clothes out of the bag, he produced a pocket-knife, and in a trice ripped open a false bottom, and found about two dozen valuable diamond rings and a magnificent emerald necklace carefully packed in wadding, besides a number of unset stones.

The jubilant detective at once compared them with a list which he took from a file, and pronounced them to be the entire proceeds of a daring robbery that had recently been committed in the shop of a West End jeweller and which amounted in value to fifteen hundred pounds.

Mr. Nobbs, alias Judd, now looking terribly confused and abashed at this premature frustration of his plan to clear out of the country with his booty, was formally charged with being in possession of the stolen valuables. He made no reply, and was led away in custody.

Before returning to the guard, I remarked to the inspector: "I thought, sir, when he gave me a sovereign for looking after his bag, that it was more than it was worth: but now I find that I have been mistaken."

"A sovereign!" cried the inspector. "Let me see it."

I took the coin from my cartouche-box, where I had placed it in the absence of any accessible pocket, and handed it to him.

He smilingly examined it and threw it on the table. "I thought as much," he remarked; it's a bad one."

Mr. Nobbs, alias Judd—these names were two of a formidable string of aliases—turned out to be an expert coiner, burglar and swindler, who had long been "wanted" by the police. He was convicted and sentenced to a lengthened period of penal servitude.

A few weeks after Mr. Nobbs had received his well-earned punishment I received a visit from a gentleman, who stated that he was cashier in the jeweller's establishment in which the robbery had been committed. He informed me that his employer, having taken into consideration the fact that I was to a certain extent, instrumental in the recovery of the stolen jewellery, had sent me a present of thirty pounds. I gratefully accepted the money, which, as I had seen enough of soldiering, I invested in the purchase of my discharge from the Household Cavalry.

The timid man, who yet is not a coward, and who has conscience and convictions to inspire his determination, is the man most to be depended on for effective conflict.

A doctor says we take too many baths and keep too clean to be healthy. It is inferred that he has been taking a diagnosis of a live tramp. A tramp is never sick, never bathes and is always provided with an appetite as voracious as a steam sawmill.

A DOUBLE EXECUTION.

Two Hard-hearted Guillotined at Dayb eak Before a Paris Crowd.

The two notorious criminals—Gaspard, who murdered the old Delaunay in the Rue d'Angoulême, and Marchandon, who cut the throat of the Creole lady, whose service he had entered, according to his custom, for the purpose of plunder—were guillotined shortly after daybreak. It was expected that the wretches would be reprieved, as Gaspard had had an accomplice, and Marchandon's friends had made energetic efforts to save him from the guillotine. Their appeals, however, were rejected, and both the criminals were handed over to the common executioner.

At 1 o'clock in the morning the Place de la Roquette, outside the prison of the condemned, was full of people, who, as is customary on such occasions, had remained up all night to witness what, in the annals of recent sensation, was an exceptional sight, namely, a double execution. The police had considerable difficulty in keeping the crowd of sightseers in their places, and the mounted gendarmes were frequently called into requisition to clear the approaches to the places of execution. The usual horseplay, low jokes, and badinage were freely indulged in by the expectant crowd in the roadway, composed as it was of the lowest strata of the Parisian rabble. Snatches of obscene songs were even sung by some of the villainous gamins and vicious girls who pressed through the crowd to obtain a view of a scene which seemed to have no terrors for them.

At 1 o'clock a moving light was seen approaching. It preceded a dark mass scarcely discernible through the enveloping darkness. This was the car conveying the terrible bois de justice, or guillotine, which had once more been removed from its resting place in the vicinity of the prison. It was followed by Deibler and his assistants, and was well guarded by policemen. Turning the corner of the Rue Folie Regnault, the ghastly caravan lumbered heavily into the Place de la Requette, and stopped before the door of the jail.

The guillotine was promptly dismounted and by 2 o'clock everything was ready. Deibler, having superintended the preparatory measures, went into the jail with two of his men, and there was then a long spell of waiting and expectation, during which the day dawned on the impatient and chattering crowd that filled the Place de la Roquette At 4 o'clock the numbers were increased by workmen and others who were obliged to be up early, and barricades were put up by the police to prevent the people from filling up the approaches to the place of execution.

A long narrow basket was now placed near the block of the guillotine, and at ten minutes to 5 the huge, heavy and gloomy doors of the prison swung open amid a deadly silence, only broken by the sharp rattling of the gendarmes' swords as they were drawn from their scabbards. Gaspard was the first of the felons led to death. Tall and muscular, he walked firmly between two priests, whose ministrations he had rejected until the approach of his term.

His face was pale and his features contracted convulsively as he neared the guillotine. Here he stooped toward the prison chaplain, the Abbe Faure, and embraced first the priest and then a crucifix held by the latter in his hand. He was now seized by the executioners, his head was placed in he lunette, and, after an awkward pause, during which Deibler seemed to have lost the momentary control of his instrument, the knife descended, and the headless trunk of the criminal fell away from the bascule. The head was then put into the basket.

The guillotine was now washed, and everything set in order for the next execution. After an interval of seventeen minutes, during which the clamorous crowd seemed to have lost its grotesque gayety, the doors of the prison again opened, and Marchandon, looking like a pale boy of 17, tottered feebly out, supported by the Abbe Faure and the other priest who had assisted Gaspard.

The criminal was evidently more dead than alive. He still wore the patent leather boots with pointed toe caps which he had on when arrested in his country house at Compiegne. After having convulsively embraced he priests he was caught sharply by Deibler and thrust into the lunette. The knife again refused to work, and nearly four seconds elapsed before it fell on the criminal's neck. When it did so a double jet of blood spurted out for nearly two yards, and sprinkled the adjacent ground. The bodies were then taken, escorted by mounted gendarmes, to the Ivry Cemetery for mock burial, after which they were handed over to the School of Medicine for the usual experimental purposes.

Unselfish Heroes.

When, at the battle of Zutphen, the wounded Sir Philip Sidney was given water to quench his thirst he is recorded to have handed it untasted to a dying soldier near him with the exclamation, "Thy necessity is greater than mine." A similar instance of unselfish thoughtfulness during suffering is recorded of the gallant Sir Ralph Abercromby.

Being mortally wounded at the battle of Aboukir, he was placed on a litter and taken on board a ship then lying in the harbor. To raise his head and thus to place him in a more comfortable position, some one took a blanket from a soldier who was standing by and put it under the hero as a pillow.

Sir Ralph immediately experienced great relief from its use, and asked what it was.

"It's only a soldier's blanket," was the reply.

"Yes," said the General, "but whose blanket is it?"

"Oh!" said the person addressed, "only one of the men's."

"I wish," persisted the dying officer, "to be told the name of the man whose blanket this is."

"Well, then, Sir Ralph, it belongs to Duncan Roy, of the 42nd."

"Then see," answered the thoughtful old veteran, "that Duncan Roy gets back his blanket this very night!"

Feelings come and go like light troops following the victory of the present, but principles, like troops of the line, are stolid hearted and stand fast.

A Baltimore man called a letter carrier a liar and was promptly knocked down. He is now punishing the Government by going to the post office for his own mail.

THE LONELY ARCTIC.

Adventures of the "Alert" Among the Bergs.

During the three long weeks in which we were beset in ice, time hung heavily on our hands, although we all had some daily duties to perform. Occasionally we would get a shot at a murre or a gull, or, if the ice opened up a little, a shot at a seal. After living for some time on salt meat, a delicacy like curried gull or seal pie or boiled seal flipped was highly appreciated. For amusement and exercise we were obliged to content ourselves with pitching rope quoits on deck, walking over the ice, or, when a particularly large ice pan was near the ship, by a game of 'rounders.' Those who, like myself, belonged to the great order of landlubbers, would make vain attempts to imitate the sailors in climbing about the rigging, and to impress the crew with the idea that we were old hands at it.

STRANGE ARCTIC SIGHTS.

But in spite of the occasional tedium of our monotonous life while imprisoned in the ice there was much to interest one who had never been in Arctic regions before. At times one would be impressed with the supernatural things which the surroundings would give Everything seems odd and the world upside down and chaos came again, where nothing was to be seen but ice—ice everywhere except where the black rocks of Resolute Island broke the surface. On the evening of June 21, the longest day of the year, I remained a long time on deck. It was bright clear and cold, the thermometer at 8 p.m., registering 31 deg. In that region the variation of the magnetic needle is very great, being 55 deg. to the west of true north. Sunset occured about 10 p. m. on that evening. It was difficult almost to convince myself, knowing the time of the night, that I was not dreaming. And strangest of all the sun was setting east of north by compass. It was a weird, eerie, impressive scene. It almost seemed that the sun had strayed so far from its course that it would wander off into some infinitude of space and never return. Soon after it disappeared behind the ice, as if conquered by obstinate frigidity, the still Arctic twilight shed its pale light about. Clouds, like a funeral pall, hung over the grave of the extinct sun. Solemn, mysterious, gigantic icebergs moved slowly along, carried on by hidden currents which were powerless on the surface. The ghostly procession passed in review while our little ship lay motionless in icy fetters. Resolution Island, black, forbidding, looked like the evil genius of this strange scene. Later on the moon rose and filtered pale, flickering rays through the clouds which, mixed with the peculiar Arctic glow, made the most singular and supernatural light I have ever seen.

Much Croaking about Marriage.

The average society journal devotes about one column per week to the discussion of the so-called marriage problem. In this the tendency toward celibacy is again and again repeated and every remedy which could possibly be thought of is invented at some time and place. In nine cases out of ten, while some responsibility is attributed to men, the blame for the falling off in marriages is placed upon women. They are accused of being vain, extravagant, incompetent, and frivolous, and utterly without qualification for any sterner work than flirting or idling away whole days over sensational novels. The merits of the young man who minds his own business and doesn't get married are lauded to the skies; those of a girl who does exactly the same thing are never mentioned.

Of course, the young men are not to blame for the falling off in the number of marriages. Who ever heard of a young man who was lacking in any single or double respect? As a rule, they never smoke, drink, or idle their time away, but are busy day after day developing their mental qualities by industrious study, and saving their hard-earned wages for the purpose of getting married at a later day. Girls frequent beer saloons, play pool, and organize expensive clubs, but the young man has no time for such frivolous entertainment. If he did he would fall quite to the level of his sister, and such a fate must be escaped at all hazards.

The marriage problem will doubtless solve itself in a little time, as most evils work out their own solution. At any rate, there is no reason to fear the depopulation of the country from the falling of in the number now. Nearly every institution that the world has ever sanctioned at some time or another has passed through some species of trial. The desire for congenial feminine society is natural to every man, and will continue to be gratified in spite of high rents and extravagant markets. And while it is being gratified, just a little less of the one-sided arguments against women would be acceptable.

On the whole, women are as sensible as men,—very often more so,—and given a fair opportunity, with a husband worthy of the name, they are usually able to do their part towards keeping the wolf from the door and making home pleasant for those who share in its happiness.

SUMMER SMILES.

Said the monkey to the dude, "Beware of imitations."

The line that tailors hang clothes on—Masculine.—

Of course, no one-armed man can ever become a two-rist.

We fail to recognize a hermit by the rule that "a man is known by the company he keeps."

Thirteen has always been an unlucky number. Adam's thirteenth rib was the cause of all his troubles.

At the christening of Mr. Crzkyxvitzki's new baby last Sunday the child grabbed his future name in its tender hands, which were severely lacerated.

We hear a good deal said about the quickness of Irish wit, but after all, is it at all strange that an Irishman should say Pat things?

A story is going the rounds that a woman in a car gave Booth, the actor, $50 for a kiss Determined not to be undersold, our price hereafter will be only $40.

An ostrich egg weighs nearly thirty times as much as an average hen's egg, but to hear the hen's remarks after laying an egg one would suppose she had beat the ostrich out of sight. It is a good deal the same way with human beings. Some will make more fuss and brag over their little shell-clad achievements than others do over an invention of work that becomes historical.

MAKING DEATH PAINLESS.

The Practice of Euthanasia Discussed by Physicians.

The fact that narcotics were freely used throughout the illness of Gen. Grant to secure sleep, ease, and freedom from pain, and were asked for by the patient and promised to him openly by his physicians, in the event of their being needed, to procure a quiet and painless death, seems to have been accepted quite as a matter of course by people in general. Only a few years ago, however the idea of moderating the fear or assuaging the pains of death by the use of narcotics or stimulants would have been horrifying to the great majority of Christian people. This rapid and very marked change of opinion, whatever its cause may be and however moderate the degree of attention bestowed upon it by the public, has been very closely observed by physicians, and in the belief of some of them, as stated to the reporter, will bring about an increased use of sedative drugs for distressed and dying patients.

In discussing the matter physicians are necessarily drawn to its logical consequences and these may be summed up in the question, "Have we a right under certain circumstances to cut short our lives?" In one of the recent articles on the subject by Dr. Amick an abstract is given of the question as formulated by a prominent member of the Birmingham Speculative Club. The statement is interesting, from the fact that it is accepted by many medical men as being a fair exposition of the argument. The term euthanasia, or "an easy death," is described as intended to convey the following meaning:

"That in all cases of hopeless and painful illness it should be the recognized duty of the medical attendant, whenever so desired by the patient, to administer chloroform, or other anæsthetic, so as to destroy consciousness at once, and put the sufferer to a quick and easy death, all needful precautions being adopted to prevent any possible abuse of such duty, and means being taken to establish beyond the possibility of a doubt that the remedy was applied at the express wish of the patient."

In defending the act the writer says:

"Cases of this class abound on every hand, and those who have had to witness suffering of this kind, and to stand helplessly by longing to administer to the beloved one, yet unable to bring any real respite or relief, may well be impatient with the easy going spirit that sees in all this misery nothing but "the appointed lot of man," and that opposes as almost impious every attempt to deal with it effectually. Why should all this suffering be endured? The patient desires to die; his life can no longer be of use to others, and has become an intolerable burden to himself. The medical attendant is at the bedside with all the resources of his knowledge, and could bring immediate and permanent relief. Why should his not doing so be recognized as a sovereign duty?"

To the objection that this would violate the sacredness of life the writer says:

"Nature knows nothing of any such sacredness, for there is nothing of which she is so prodigal And man has shown little sense of the value of human life when his passions or lusts or interests have been thwarted by his brother man, or seem likely to be forwarded by his destruction. A sense of the value of his own individual life man has, indeed, seldom been deficient in; and, by a kind of reflex action, this sense has slowly given birth to and always underlies the sense, such as it is, of the value of other men's lives. But in Europe to-day the sacredness of man's life is thrown to the winds the moment national or political passion grows hot. Indeed, it is hard to understand the meaning of the word 'sacred' when applied to life, except in so far as it may signify the duty laid on each man of using his life nobly while he has it. The man who is ever ready to face death for others' sake, to save others from grinding pain, has always been reckoned a hero; and what is heroic if done for another is surely permissible if done for one's own."

The man who could voluntarily give up his life to save another from months of slow torture would win everybody's good word. Why should he be debarred from taking a like step when the person to be rescued is himself? It is furthermore urged that the sacredness of life is violated by existing medical practice, when in cases of extreme and hopeless suffering physicians administer drugs which give present relief at the expense of shortening the patient's life. If it is objected that submission to the will of Providence forbids the shortening of pain by taking life, by the same principle we should submit to the will of Providence, and not seek to escape any pain."

Dr. Amick adds:

"Some approach death with a calm countenance and a serene mind, others are racked with pain and suffering. For hours, and even days, they writhe and groan between life and death. It is in this class of cases in which it is proposed to give the hopeless sufferer respite from his agony, and euthanasia is suggested. A hypodermic injection of morphia in such cases would result in general and lasting sleep, and has the irritation that existed in the body became lessened the mind would gradually relax its hold upon the system, and its departure would be so easy and quiet that a spectator would scarcely recognize it was going until it was gone. Euthanasia is recommended only in those cases where there is continued pain and agony; where there is no chance for recovery and the patient wishes to be freed from his misery."

The Wood Worker mentions a new process for toughening timber, by which white wood can be made so tough as to require a cold chisel to split it. This result is reached by steaming the timber and submitting it to end pressure—technically, "upsetting" it—thus compressing the cells and fibers into one compact mass. It is the opinion of those who have experimented with the process, that wood can be compressed seventy-five per cent, and that the timber which is now considered unfit for use in such work as carriage building, could be made valuable by this means, and more especially since the rapid consumption of our best ash and hickory will sooner or later render some substitute necessary.

When a very mad woman begins practicing with a revolver the wise man always dodges in front of her.

Filtering stone is now made by mixing certain portions of clay with levigated chalk, coarse and fine glass sand, and ground flint. They are moulded and hard burned.

FOREIGN ECHOES.

The newspapers of the world have just been reckoned up at about 35 000, thus giving one to every 28 000 inhabitants.

Under seventeen was the French girl who savagely murdered her father with a club because he would not let her marry her sweetheart.

The Prince of Wales goes to Norway and Sweden next month to see a regatta of a yacht club which has King Oscar for a Commodore, and to hunt elk with a royal party.

Artificial honey imported into England from this country has been found, on analysis, to be made of wheat or corn starch treated with oxalic acid. This fraud cannot be detected by the taste.

President Cleveland keeps a scrap book of excerpts from the newspapers in order to be informed of all sorts of public opinion. It is one clerk's sole employment to collect and preserve these things.

The new Australian Cardinal, Patrick Moran, is a nephew of the late Cardinal Cullen, and was born in Ireland 56 years ago, his mother being sister to the eminent Irish churchman and his father a prosperous farmer.

The French militia having shown themselves in thirteen days of camp training are by competent critics pronounced more like hastily raised bands than an army, so poor was their discipline, and so lacking were they in skill.

A man became bankrupt with liabilities of $20,000, and in the settlement of the estate, which yielded 78 per cent. to the creditors, the costs of the administration amounted to less than $3. This happened away off in Smaland, Sweden.

Joaquin Miller tells how he and Bret Harte stood at the tomb of Dickens. "His left hand sought mine in silence," says Miller, in describing the momentous occasion; "his eyes filled with tears. We had never been friends before."

The American Medical Missionary Society organized in Chicago, aims to provide medical men and women who will devote themselves to the work of healing the body: and thus be auxiliary to the missionaries who work for souls.

Long ago the Portuguese supremacy in the Roman Catholic church in India was bestowed by the Pope, as against the Jesuits, who are now revolting under his control, and the conflict is said to be the most bitter ever known within the Church.

A seemingly dead pigeon was picked up from the ocean near Dover, England, but it revived while lying in the sun, and proved to be a carrier pigeon with a letter. The bird had been waylaid by a hawk while flying from its master's yacht to his home.

The lately deceased Anna, Countess of Meran, widow of the Archduke John of Austtalia, was famous in her youth for a beauty which gained her an aristocratic husband, by enchanting him suddenly as he stopped at the small Post Office kept by her father.

Two New England pastors exchanged pulpits, and one delivered a sermon which the congregation had within a month heard from the mouth of the other. The Baptist Weekly vouches for this story, and would like to know the real author of the discourse.

The tombstone of the Gladstone family, in Leith churchyard, has been restored by Sir Thomas Gladstone, brother of the ex-Premier. The monument is a simple construction, resting on a base having six pilasters with an entablature and intermediate panelling, surmounted by a moulded table.

Being informed that a man whom he had discharged for drunkenness was the sole support of a wife and six children, a Lowell mill superintendent replied: "It happens that the man who takes the place has a wife and seven children. It should be borne in mind that every expulsion of a bummer makes a job for a decent worker."

The Superintendent of the Elmira Reformatory says that drunkenness can be traced in the ancestry of more than a third of the convicts sent there: that only one in four of their parents has received a common school education; and that, as nearly as can be ascertained, the home influence in half the cases has been distinctly vicious.

The Chinese Viceroy of Chen-si and Kansu explains that the earthquakes which have done much damage in his jurisdiction were chiefly occasioned by the mildness of the winter, which caused an excess of the yang or male elemant of nature; but they were due in a measure to the perfunctory performance of their public duties by the local officials, who failed to call down the harmonizing influence of heaven.

Lawn tennis was being played on the Long Branch grounds of a wealthy family, and the game struck a spectator as being inordinately elaborate in its movements. Every pose and stir was laboriously careful in its grace, and at the same time there was a strange disregard of the real progress of the game. A glance at the adjacent veranda revealed an amateur photographer making a series of instantaneous views in which the players would be shown in a succession of attitudes. A hundred prepared plates were in the holders, ready to be exposed one after another, and the scheme contemplated the printing of copies from these numerous negatives so that every person portrayed could have a bound volume of the pictures.

A smart thief has just been convicted in the Rhone Assize Court. His real name is Gretillon, but he travelled under the name of Walton, and pretended to be a rich Englishman. He affected the accent and manners of the Britisher, played high, and lived in the fastest style. In reality he was a convict who had several times been arrested for theft and robbery. One of his recent exploits was to rob the safe of the prison of Chinvari, in Corsica, where he was a prisoner, and from which he escaped with the funds. He was arrested on a charge of robbing several churches in the Department of the Rhone, and was tried upon one of these charges. His manner in court was cool and impudent. He was arrested at the Cafe Morel, one of the most fashionable cafes of Lyons, and when the Court sentenced him to twenty years' penal servitude he smiled contemptuously upon the Judges, and, turning to his lawyer, he said, while he shook hands with him in quite a pleasant and somewhat patronizing manner: "I will see you next year at the same time at the Cafe Morel. Au revoir!"

In the case of a miser it is much easier to take things as they come than part with things as they go.

The Standard.

MARKDALE SEPT. 3, 1885.

THE STANDARD.

This week the STANDARD completes its fifth year—how time flies—five years ago we left the farm and launched our bark on the sea of public journalism, from the plow to the pen; from physical labor to mental employment. We question the wisdom of often changing from one line of business or calling to another, yet have no reason to regret our change. We were successful in agriculture, and are quite satisfied with the degree of success which has attended our efforts in the newspaper business. There is difficulties incident to the life and business of the editor of a country paper, known only to the fraternity; yet, what business or calling is without its due share of losses, crosses and petty annoyances? however, the experience of five years should be valuable, and we hope to use it, not only for the benefit of the STANDARD, but to the advantage of its numerous readers. The paper is a welcome weekly visiter in many hundreds of homes, and it will be our aim to make it indispensible, not only to those who are now subscribers, but to numerous others who should be. We have been unbiassed in politics, sectarionism or nationality, and will continue in the even tenor of our way, reserving however, the right to criticise, or even denounce any party or sect, from an independent standpoint when in our opinion duty calls for it. In conclusion, we would ask the assistance of all our patrons you have each a chance to help to improve the STANDARD, by sending items of news in your vicinity, it may appear trifling but when all those minor items of news are put together, it is astonishing how interesting they become to the public.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

To the Editor of the Standard.

SIR,—Having visited your enterprising village (as well as others west of Toronto) regularly for some years past, I beg a small space in the columns of your paper for a few criticisms anent your village. We have often been surprised at the amount of business done in this village for the size of the place, judging not only from what we see on each visit, but from the size of our order from time to time. The village is very nicely situated, being on comparitively level, yet rolling, ground; just bear enough the railway station, (say 40 rod) the water is excellent. The citizens appear sufficiently divided in nationality, politics and religion to make the society most desirable. The churches (I have visited each) are well attended; and just here I might say a little more attention to strangers would be an improvement. I was very favorably impressed with the get up and general tone of your local paper, which is one of the most desirable acquisitions of a country village: In fact I have not seen its equal in a place of the size of Markdale in Western Ontario. There is however one thing which I deprecate, and that is monopolies whether it be of a national character, a city corporation or confined to a country village.

I find in Markdale, one merchant especially who apparently endeavors to run the whole mercantile business, having in stock dry goods, ready made clothing, groceries, boots and shoes, millinery, hardware, tinware, crockery, books and stationery, patent medicines and I do not know what more. Now I contend, that in a place of the size and dimensions of Markdale, that this kind of thing is having a very injurious effect on the growth of the place: some one will ask, why? just in this way a person is looking for an opening in any of the above minor lines, say the stationary; very well, nearly all the merchants dabbles in stationery and school books, and while this is the case the prospects for success to a man making a specialty of that line of business is very poor, in fact so poor that he will not venture the experiment, and while this keeps another business place out of your midst, it also deprives the citizens of a place where they can procure what they want in that particular line, as none of the merchants keep a full stock. This will apply to any of the various lines which should be classified and divided up, giving community a chance to procure what they require without hunting around from shop to shop and then have to go without, and making an opening for various lines of business in addition to what you have.

A TRAVELLER.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR.—I noticed in last week's Advance, the Markdale correspondent to that paper makes a pitiful whine about the new Methodist church, now in course of construction in this place. He says, "Our fathers, the pioneers of the country, used to worship in log barns, and hold their prayermeeting in their rude log dwellings." We would ask the writer, where he would have them worship? They had no churches, and simply did the best they could under the circumstances. They (the pioneers) have since built for themselves, frame barns and brick dwellings, and are now desirous of having a comfortable place of worship, and why not? Was not the ancient temple, which was built under the supervision of the Almighty, the most costly and exquisitely grand edifice of either ancient or modern history? We consider that as the country advances in every other respect, it is a good sign to see our beloved land dotted with churches, and those places of worship should be fully up with civilization. Churches that are erected now are not built for the last fifty years, but rather for the next. Our village is growing, and what would accomodate the congregation now would be quite too small ten years hence, so that it would be foolishness, to build for the present, with a view of enlarging in a few years, and as for being "ostentatious," there is nothing about the new edifice out of harmony with the size and symmetry of the building, or about the cost out of proportion with the circumstances and liberality of the congregation.

We must, however, not be alarmed to find that there is one chronic grumbler in the community, but would venture to say his subscription corresponds with his expressed views.

T. P.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

DEAR SIR.—The Markdale correspondent of the Flesherton Advance, in last Friday's issue, in referring to the new Methodist church now in course of erection, gives forth some utterances which sound rather strange, in this progressive age. He refers to the fact that "Our fathers, the pioneers of the country, worshiped in log barns and held their prayer meetings in rude log dwellings" implying that their ascendents should not aspire to anything higher, and that these buildings were quite good encugh for the worship of God. Now I submit that we cannot do anything more pleasing to the sight of God, than endeavor to erect buildings, not only substantial and commodious, but beautiful to worship Him in. And as all we possess has been received from the hand of God, why should we not give back to him a portion of that with which He has blessed us so bountifully; and how could we better show our gratitude to him than in the erections of such places of worship, which the correspondent regards as too expensive, and which would grace a city, but too good for the inhabitants of a village or country to worship in. Is the worship of the people of the country or village less acceptable to God, when it is offered up in a substantial, commodious or even beautiful church, than it would be in a city or in a log barn? I think not. When Solomen erected the temple and adorned and beautified it with the offerings of His chosen people. Did God refuse to vouch safe his presence there? did he not come and visit and fill the temple with His glory, thereby sanctioning the efforts of His people in erecting such a house in his name? "The gold and silver are the Lord's and the cattel on a thousand hill," and will God esteem it an injustice of the people to return a portion of that which is already His. Why should a comparatively costly church engender pride? I have witnessed more real humility and sincere, earnest worship, in some of the cathedrals and large churches in cities than I ever did in log barns or less imposing places of worship. Why would not the correspondent or the well-to-do farmers be content to live in the original log shanties or dwellings, instead of building brick or stone, as soon as their circumstances allow them! And should we be less generous to God than to ourselves? The entrance into a beautiful church, dedicated to the worship and service of God, is calculated to inspire with a feeling of awe and reverence. Correspondent says it will burden a generation yet unborn to pay for it. It would tell very badly for the enterprise as well as the piety of this community, if it would even take half a generation to pay off a debt of a few thousand dollars. I fear Correspondent is like many more, who, when they do not want to give towards an object or enterprise, find all manner of fault and thus excuse themselves. I am happy to say that not only the members of the congregation who will worship in the church, but also the leading members of other churches in this village have given nobly towards its erection, and I am pursuaded there are people enough, living within easy distance of this village, to fill three churches of the same capacity. Had the people of the past ages held the opinion of correspondent, no stately edifices or lofty cathedrials would ever have been erected in which to worship, and Isaac Watts would never have given us those beautiful lines:—

"These temples of his grace
How beautiful they stand,
The honors of our native place
And bulwarks of our land."

Thanking you for this space, I remain

JUSTICE.

Flesherton.

From our own correspondent.

RUNAWAY. ONE BOY KILLED.—An accident, the result of which proved fatal, occurred about half way between this village and Flesherton Station, on Friday evening last. Two boys, each about 12 years of age, returning home from Eugenia with Mr. Hogg's team, and having but a single board on the wagon to sit on, the board slipped forward upon the horses, causing them to run, when deceased (son of Mrs. Sinclair, widow, of Flesherton station) was thrown from his seat, the wagon wheel passing over his body, and after a few hours suffering expired. The other boy, son of Mr. Whittaker, managed to retain his seat on the wagon until the team was stopped by his father at the station, he escaped unhurt. The bereaved widowed mother and family have the sympathy of many friends.

The garden party under the auspices of the ladies aid of the Presbyterian church, which was held ot the residence of Mr. Geo. Stewart, last Friday evening, passed off pleasantly, the evening was rather cool but all appeared to have spent a pleasant evening. The Flesherton brass band enlivened the proceedings by several choice selections; our band boys deserve more than praise or thanks for their always willingness to contribute for the pleasure of all on all such occasions.

Mr. Earl Strain has retired from business here, having gone to Collingwood to undergo a course in the Collegiate Institute there.

Maxwell.

From our own Correspondent.

People have been wondering what has became of "Phiz" that he has not been heard from for several weeks. Some think he has gone out of existence altogether, they are complaining greatly on account of not having had any good news. But the problem can be easily solved. There has been no good news, the people have been very quiet lately, and if they did have any fun they kept it to themselves and did not tell Phiz.

A lot of the boys are gone, some girls have gone, the mules have gone, and the Jassack has gone, and John went with them, so our fun has not been much.

The wheat crop is not very good on account of rust, but the other grain is a fair crop. Fruit, such as apples and plumbs, are scarce; bute choke cherries are in abundance and we had the good luck to share in a pie of this kind a few days ago, while at a friends house for tea. Choke-cherry pies are very good if you are a slow eater and have them in a slack time, but for the harvest it will take up too much of your time to sift out the pits.

Mr. A. Sharp, I understand, is away on a visit to Ottawa, probably he will find some pretty little daisy, to accompany him on his return.

Miss Annie Drumond and Miss Ella Kerr, left this morning to attend Collingwood high school, Dunk is back and intends spending a couple of weeks with us.

PHIZ.

Corbetton.

The laying of the corner stone of a Presbyterian church at Corbetton (a small station on the C. P. R., 3½ miles south of Dundalk) took place on Friday last, 28th ult. There were present Rev, Mr. McIntyre, Evangelist, who is now laboring at Dundalk; Rev. A. Wilson of Markdale, Rev. J. Ross of Dundalk, and Mr. Madill who is at present laboring there (caletta.) There were many of the congregation and friends present, to witness the ceremony of laying the stone, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Wilson of Markdale. Immediately after the stone was laid, Rev. Mr. McIntyre gave an impressive and appropriate scriptural address, this was followed by suitable addresses from Rev. Mr. Ross, Rev. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Madill, after which as many as ten persons stood up for the prayers of God's people. The interest so apparent in this place is doubtless owing to the very earnest labors of Mr. Madill, whose work God is owning to the salvation of many. Short addresses were also given by others, after which the benediction was pronounced, and congregation dispensed. Free will offerings amounting to $19, was taken. The church will, when finished, seat 300.

COM.

What we may Expect.

Better harvest weather.

A great breadth of fall wheat sown.

The hum of the threshing machines, and the usual accidents to happen.

Fine fall weather.

Show Fairs in abundance.

Markets to rule low, and times dull in consequence.

WINTER weather prophets, making sad mistakes, as usual.

A pleasant time at the Social.

More big fish stories, but none to beat A. McF.

Riel to escape the gallows.

A wedding in town shortly.

THERE IS NO EXCUSE.

There is no excuse for the many pale, sallow, weary looking females throughout our land, when Burdock Blood Bitters will regulate their troubles and renew their health, strength and vigor at so small a cost.

SPRING AND SUMMER.

Prepare the body for health and vigor by taking Dr. Chase's Liver Cure. No Spring Medicine equals it. It stimulates the Liver aids digestion, and purifies the blood. Large bottle and Recipe Book, $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Sept.

A Hint to Agricultural Societies.

The Highland (Scotland) Agricultural Society has adopted the following system of judging animals at fairs:—Three judges are to be appointed, only two acting, however, the third being in the ring ready to pass his opinion in case the other two do not agree. It will be decided by ballott which two shall act in each class. The advocates of this plan claim that "by this system no exhibitor can tell beforehand which two judges will judge a particular section, and it will stop all attemps to canvass or influence the judges beforehand; it will have an element of fairness which will commend it to exhibitors, which the present system does not always do; and each judge will incur more personal responsibility than when three judges act, as exhibitors and the public will know on whose shoulders a particular decision rests."

A FRUITFUL SEASON.

The fruitful season of the year is prolific with many forms of Bowel Complaints, such as Diarrhœa Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, &c., as a safe-guard and positive cure for those distressing and often sudden and dangerous attacks nothing can surpass that old and reliable medicine Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

PROF. LOW'S SULPHUR SOAP is a cheap and handy form of obtaining the healing virtues of a sulphur bath.

A DANGEROUS CONDITION.

One of the most dangerous conditions is a neglected Kidney complaint. When you suffer from weary aching back, weakness and other urinary troubles, apply to the back a Burdock Porous Plaster, and take Burkock Blood Bitters, the best system regulator known for the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels.

General Gordon.

A BELIEF THAT HE ESCAPED FROM KHARTOUM TO THE EQUATOR.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The belief is growing among military and other friends of Gen. Gordon that he really escaped alive from Khartoum and succeeded in fleeing to the equator. So strong has this faith become that a mission has been organized to search for and rescue him.

TO THE RESCUE.

"When all other remedies fail" for Bowel complaint, Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, etc., "then Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry comes to the rescue." Thus writes W. H. Crocker, druggist, Waterdown, and adds that "its sales are large and increasing."

POISONED.

Scarcely a family exists but that some member is suffering with bad blood and poisoned secretions from constipation giving rise to Rheumatism, Scrofula, Eruptions, Catarrh and other complaints indicating lurking blood poison which a few bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters would eradicate from the system.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 78	to	0 80
Barley	50	to	67
Peas	55	to	58
Oats	29	o
Butter	10	to	12
Eggs	10	to	00
Apples	50	to	75
Potatoes	30	to	40
Hay	0 00	to	8 00
Pork	5 00	to	5 00
Flour	3 75	to	4 25
Wool	17	to	18

Notices of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, twenty five cents.

DEATHS.

MOFFAT—In Markdale, on the 27th, ult., Mrs. John Moffat of Osprey, aged 67 years.

J. J. DALTON.

DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Chatsworth Ont.

FOR SALE.

A GOOD horse for sale, or exchange for cattle. For particulars apply to

W. & J. ANDERSON,
260-63 Orange Valley.

TENDERS.

SEALED tenders will be received up to noon the 30th day of September for the purchase of the old Methodist church, same to be removed from church grounds on the completion of new church. Apply to

G. S. BOWES,
260-63 Markdale, P. O.

Store to Rent in Markdale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 19, Con. 12, Glenelg, containing 100 acres, 30 cleared, fenced and under cultivation, balance chiefly hardwood timber; 4½ miles from Markdale; saw mill convenient also school. The farm is well watered and suitable for either a dairy or grain farm. Will be sold cheap and on easy terms. For further particulars apply on the premises to

JOHN GALLAGHER,
247 60 Markdale P. O.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Godrich.

A SURE THING.

A SURE CURE FOR SUMMER COMPLAINTS.—Procure from your druggist one 37½-cent bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and use according to directions. It is infallible for Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus, Canker of the Stomach and Bowels, and Cholera Infantum.

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared, well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING,
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT North half of 2, con. 7, Euphrasia, containing 100 acres more or less, about 80 acres cleared, balance hard wood; frame barn and hewed log house; Well watered with running spring water: fairly fenced! soil, clay loam; well adapted for stock or grain. Situated 5 miles from Markdale, an important station on the C. P. R. For further particulars apply to

D. C. CRAWFORD,
258-60 Alton P. O., Ont.

Speddings Speedy Saw

THE GREAT ONE MANS SAW, IT HAS no equal, average weight 35lbs., a boy ten years of age can run it. One man sawed 3 cords of hard wood in three hours and forty minutes. Agents write, for particulars and secure territory at once. Address

SPEEDY SAW WORKS,
Byng. P.O., Ont.
June 30th, '85. 152-65

Lumber and Shingles.

THE undersigned has constantly on hand all kinds of lumber and first-class cedar shingles for sale. Mill 3½ miles North of Markdale, 11th line Euphrasia.

250-63 FORD & STINSON.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

LOOK! Look! Look!

James C. Russell's
NOTED JEWELLERY STORE.
FLESHERTON,

Is the place to buy

Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.

A large assortment just to hand.

A Solid Silver Watches, Full Jewelled, from $8.50 up to $26, worth from $10.50 to $32.00, warranted from two to five years.

It will pay you to come twenty miles to have your Watch or Clock repaired by Russell.

☞ Satisfaction guaranteed every time.

217-269 JAS. C. RUSSELL.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. R.
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect Monday, August 3rd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 45pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Caledon	9 25 "	6 45 "
Orangeville, Arrive	9 50 "	7 08 "
Orangeville, Leave	10 05 "	7 22 "
Shelburne	10 45 "	8 04 "
Dundalk	10 17 "	7 34 "
Flesherton	11 10 "	8 30 "
Markdale	11 36 "	8 55 "
Williamsford	11 51 "	9 10 "
Chatsworth	12 12pm	9 32 "
Owen Sound	12 28 "	9 49 "
	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 35pm
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 10 "
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 30 "
Markdale	6 27 "	3 52 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 06 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 31 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 57 "
Orangeville Jun.	8 00 "	5 23 "
Orangeville, Arrive	8 12 "	5 35 "
Orangeville, Leave	8 35 "	5 55 "
Caledon	8 55 "	6 13 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Toronto....Arrive	10 45 "	8 20 "

Special Steamship Express leaves Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays for Toronto and Points East, on arrival C. P. R. Steamship from Port Arthur and Points in Manitoba and North West.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

MARKDALE.

FARMERS,
Reapers & Mowers.
USE
McCOLL BROS.
Lardine Machine Oil.

For Sale by Walker Bros.

Monthly Fairs.

Markdale—Saturday before Flesherton.

Chatsworth—Monday before Durham.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.

Orangeville—The second Thursday in each month.

Priceville—Monday before Durham

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.

Hanover—Monday before Durham

Walkerton—Last Wednesday in every month.

Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

B. LAURANCE'S
Spectacles and Eye-Glasses
—ARE THE ONLY—
GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES
—IN THE—
CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuiness

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University, President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their quality, but it further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER & Co., - - Chemists and Druggists,
MARKDALE, ONT,

The only place in town where they can be obtained.
☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

Massey Implemen Agency, Williamsford Station.

Toronto Light Binder, five-foot cut; Massey Low-down Binder, five-foot cut; Toronto Light Binder, five-foot cut; Massey Low-down Binder, five-foot cut; Massey Harvester; Massey Mower; Toronto Mower; Toronto Mower, 1 horse; Sharpe's Rake. All full stock of repairs for above machines always in stock. Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Also agent for Watson's Patent Binder Twine.

Thos. Willis croft, Williamsford Station.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS

Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Affections of the Heart, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure or Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

YOU CAN SUBSCRIBE
For any of he
FOLLOWING PAPERS
AT THIS OFFICE:

Daily or Weekly Mail,	Toronto.
Daily or Weekly Globe,	Toronto.
Daily or Weekly News,	Toronto.
Daily World	Toronto.
Family Herald and Weekly Star,	Montreal.
American Agriculturist,	Monthly.
Farmers' Advocate,	Monthly.

☞ Subscription can commence at any time.

STANDARD OFFICE,
MARKDALE.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,
H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a deranged liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with many other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood.

500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Books were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Recipe Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful recipes pronounced by medical men and druggists as invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25 cts. per box.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS

E. EDMANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Bradford

Fall Shows 188[illegible]

Industrial, Toronto, Sept. [illegible]

Glenelg, Markdale, Oct. 1st a[illegible]

East Grey, Flesherton, Sept. and 30th.

South Grey, Durham, Sept. and 30th.

Euphrasia, Rocklyn, Oct. 2d.

Osprey, Maxwell, Oct. 8th

Holland, Chatsworth, Oct [illegible]

Proton, Dundalk, Oct. 8th

Holland Centre.—Holland Oct. 5th.

Cheapest First-class Music House in the United States.

Look at this list of some of the popular music published. Printed on the best heavy music paper, good print; full sheet music size, the same as generally retailed all over the United States at thirty to sixty cents per copy. Our price is ten cents per copy, or by mail one cent extra for postage. We give the name of the music but remember our price is ten cents. We will send catalogue of 1,000 best selling pieces published free. Don't pay high exorbitant prices when you can get the same music for about one eighth the price. Some of the following:

SONGS.
Alice, Where art Thou?	[illegible]
Angles Ever Bright and Fair	[illegible]
Answers	[illegible]
Blue Alsatian Mountains	[illegible]
Bridge	[illegible]
Bridge	[illegible]
Brook	[illegible]
Cherry Ripe	[illegible]

Chop Sticks, waltz	Louis 25c
Corn Flower, waltz	Walsh 50c
Queen's Lace Handkerchief	Cooke 50c
Rapid, galop	Strauss 40c
Home Sweet Home	Richards 40c
Shepherd Boy	Slack 50c
Warblings at Eve	Wilson 40c
And 1,900 other songs and instrumental pieces equally as good as the above only six cents per copy, post free. Send for a copy of our Musical Journal, $1.25 per year, sample copy twelve cents.

In sending orders always send cash, post-office order, or postal note, as we get so many stamps we cannot use them, also in all cases mention the paper you saw our advertisement in, so we may do justice to those papers that furnish us business. Address

J. H. THOMAS, PUBLISHER,
259-62 Albany, N. Y.

ANCE'S
Eye-Glasses
NLY—
SH ARTICLES MARKET.
ke p in stock.
s to prove Genuineness.

onials have been received from the d Ex-Vice-President of the Medical the College of Physicians and Sur- Faculty of Laval University; the al Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c. sufficient to prove their qualities.

Chemists and Druggists,
E, ONT,
e they can be obtained. entific principle.

ite, Indigestion, Biliousness, fections of the Liver and Kidneys, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, ases arising from Impure Blood, regular action of the Bowels.

Fall Shows 1885.

Industrial, Toronto, Sept. 7th to 19th.
Glenelg, Markdale, Oct. 1st and 2nd.
East Grey, Flesherton, Sept. 29th and 30th.
South Grey, Durham, Sept. 29th and 30th.
Euphrasia, Rocklyn, Oct. 9th.
Osprey, Maxwell, Oct. 8th.
Holland, Chatsworth, Oct. 6th.
Proton, Dundalk, Oct. 5th & 6th.
Holland Centre.—Holland Centre, Oct. 5th.

heapest First-class Music in the United States.

Look at this list of some of the most popular music published. Printed on best heavy music paper, good clear; full sheet music size, and same as generally retailed all over the United States at thirty to seventy-five cents per copy. Our price is FIVE cents per copy, or by mail one cent additional for postage. We give the retail price, but remember our price is but FIVE cents. We will send catalogue of 000 best selling pieces published free. Don't pay high exorbitant prices when you can get the same music for about one eighth the price; see the following:

SONGS.
[illegible]ce, Where art Thou?........
[illegible]les Ever Bright and Fair....
[illegible]swers........
[illegible]e Alsatian Mountains........
[illegible]

A[illegible]
[illegible]op Sticks, [illegible]
[illegible]ack Hawk, [illegible]
[illegible]rn Flower, [illegible]
[illegible]een's Lace [illegible]
[illegible]quet, galop [illegible]
[illegible]ome, Sweet [illegible]
[illegible]epherd Boy [illegible]
[illegible]
In sending [illegible] post-office order [illegible]
J. H. THO[illegible]
[illegible]9-62

The Markdale Standard [illegible] office, Mill [illegible] in advance; $1.50 if [illegible] months. [illegible] business cards one inch [illegible] advertisements 8 cents per line first [illegible], 3 cents per line each subsequent [illegible], nonpareil measure. [illegible] or notices in local columns, 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents [illegible] subsequent insertion. [illegible] animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for [illegible] advertisement not to exceed twelve [illegible]

[illegible] paper discontinued until all arrears [illegible] except at the option of the publisher.

—JOB PRINTING.—

[illegible] STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders [illegible] with dispatch.

W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

[illegible]NDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),
[illegible]RISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to [illegible] lowest rates of interest.
Offices 16 King Street East, TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
[illegible]RISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.
[illegible] FOR SALE.
[illegible] in Vicker's Block [illegible] Branch office in Markdale, over [illegible] Store, on Friday and Saturday [illegible] 57-ly [illegible] W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown.
[illegible] Licenses, Fire and [illegible] Agent. Commissioner [illegible] and Licensed [illegible] of Grey. Farmers, [illegible] and Land Sales, Punctually at[illegible] made very moderate. [illegible] Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown.
[illegible] OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c [illegible] B. R. &c. [illegible] in all its branches promptly [illegible] and carefully executed. [illegible] Money to Lend on Real Estate se[illegible]

MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
[illegible] OF TORONTO SCHOOL [illegible] will be at the Markdale [illegible] on the 1st and third Wed[illegible] of each month at [illegible] Munshaw's [illegible] following the [illegible] month for the prac[illegible] his profession. 122-47

SAMUEL WARDELL,
[illegible] DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL [illegible] promptly attended to. Resi[illegible] Owen Sound. 122-35

A. HILL,
[illegible]shionable Tailor,
OVER McFARLAND'S STORE.
[illegible] FIT GUARANTEED.

[illegible] C. RICHARDS,
[illegible]LDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHI[illegible] Markdale. 121ly

ISAAC STINSON.
[illegible]der and Contractor
[illegible]

[illegible] G. GUTHERIE,
[illegible] & Ornamental Plaster
[illegible]byterian Church Markdale.
[illegible] and all [illegible] Lime [illegible] attended to.

[illegible]SEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.
Contracts taken for all kinds of
[illegible]K AND STONE WORK,
[illegible] Ornamental Plastering.
[illegible] in all Shades and Colors.
[illegible] moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at the STANDARD office [illegible] prompt attention. 126-ly.

[illegible]NSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
[illegible] Bryan, Proprietor.

[illegible]RKDALE HOUSE,
[illegible]
[illegible] Prop.

[illegible]MERCIAL HOTEL.
[illegible]RICEVILLE, Ont.
[illegible] and commodious Sample Rooms [illegible] Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder [illegible] with the best the market af[illegible] Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

[illegible]GENIA HOTEL.
[illegible]ENIA FALLS - - - Ont.
[illegible]leer, - - Prop.
[illegible] may rely on receiving every [illegible] attention as to Eatables, Drink[illegible] Horse Care. 244-57

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 261. MARKDALE, ONT., SEPT. 10, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH. }

MARKDALE
Roller Mill
Bran $9 a ton
J. W. FORD.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of School Furniture.
Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW McGILL.

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
Thos. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSESHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.
GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND
Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.
LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.
Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied
Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.

—THIS NEW—
Patent Process Flouring Mill
Is now completed at great expense, on the
Most APPROVED
plans, and with the best machinery manufactured, making it, in every sense of the term, "A Model Mill."

I am therefore in a position to give the public a Superior Article of Flour.

A fair trial respectfully solicited and I have no fear but the result will be eminently satisfactory.

Cash paid for good hard Wheat.

☞ Flour, Bran, Shorts, etc, etc, for sale wholesale & retail.

219 ANGUS PLEWES.

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.
A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.
—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.

We, the undersigned, would respectfully intimate to our customers and friends that we are still here and prepared to attend to all who may favor us with a call in anything we can do in our line with the best possible satisfaction. Also we will get yarn for those who allow us to do their weaving. ☞ All kinds of merchantable farm produce taken in exchange for work at market prices.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

NEW GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed Store.
Having just received a
Choice, Fresh and Select STOCK OF
Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c,
Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.
I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.
198 J. PLEWES.

I AGREE TO DUPLICATE ANY MAKE OR GRADE OF WATCH IN 3, 4, or 5 Oz. CASE
—AT AS—
Close Figures
—AND—
HONEST kept WARRANTS
As any city firm, Grange Agent, or Jew pedlar that tries to deal in this section Grey Co.
W. A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

FOR pine and maple flooring go to G. Grant & Co.

176 Scholars are now attending Markdale school.

FAT cattle and sheep for sale. Apply to Mrs. Might, Glenelg. 261-63

MR. W. H. McLeod, of Manitowaning was in town this week.

MEAFORD'S assessment rate will be 15 mills on the $ this year.

McFARLAND'S ponie "Brit," died last Monday, aged 22 years.

FOR Bed steads, Mattrasses, and Spring Beds, go to Grant & Co.

JOHN McVICAR, 5th con. Glenelg, lost three yearling calves. See adv.

LADIES' and Misses' tailor-made ulsters, newest styles out at McFarlands.

Another butcher came to town on Monday last. He is a relative to W. H.

DWELLING house in Markdale to rent, will be vacant 1st Oct. Apply to this office.

THE late James Kerr Esq., of Euphrasia was worth $80,000 at the time of his death.

FOR every man killed in war ten have been sent over the gulf by the aid of the corkscrew.

WORMS cause much sickness among children that Freeman's Worm Powders will surely cure.

W. J. Boyd of Markdale returned on Monday from visiting friends in Parry Sound district.

MARKDALE may incorporate as a town soon, as the population is increasing rapidly, (in pairs.)

FOR SALE.—Two double barrel guns, one muzzle and one breach loading. Apply to Smith, the barber.

THIS would be a better world if the people in it who lose their tempers would never find them again.

FINE quadruple plate Silverware just opened in Castors, Pickle Cruets &c., at W. A. Brown's, Markdale.

A MEETING of the directors of Centre Grey Farmers' Institute will be held in Markdale on the 22nd September.

LOOK HERE.—First class cooking stoves No. 9, trimmed and complete for $19.50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale.

IF your child is stubborn or hard to administer medicine to, Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup will be appreciated.

THE prize list for Glenelg Fall Show is out; parties wishing one should apply to the secretary, Mr. Wm. Haskett.

A son of Mr. Charles Crow got his arm badly cut in a straw cutter on Sunday last while playing with the machine.

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

NOT a dollar's worth of shoddy cotton goods allowed on McFarland's counters, all fresh, clean new goods imported direct.

MISS KING, Dress maker of Walter's Falls has gone to visit friends in Manitoba, and expects to return in a month to resume business.

School Books.—A complete assortment of new Readers and other School Books just received at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

A SOCIAL and tea-meeting will be held in Berkeley church on Monday evening the 14th, when several Reverend and other gentlemen will give addresses, also readings and music by local talent. Tea served from 7 to 8 p. m. Admission 25 cents, children 10 cents.

WE have received copies of Euphrasia Ag. Soc'y prize list for 1885. Thanks to the Soc'y, Mr. Wilson.

ARE YOU MADE miserable by indigestion, Consumption, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

PARK lot in Markdale for sale Beautiful location, will be sold on reasonable terms. Apply to R. Freeborn, Williamsford, or enquire at this office. 125-tf

W. J. AND MRS. McFARLAND returned last week from their trip up the lakes; with the exception of the excitement while shipwrecked, they had a pleasant and enjoyable trip.

SEPTEMBER new goods, Waltham and Elgin watches, Gents and Gem Rings, Ladies Watches and Sets, fine rolled plate chains, at W. A. Brown's, Markdale.

NEW French Plushes, new Dress goods, new Gloves, new Ulsterings, new Cretonnes, new Winceys. All imported direct from manufacturers by W. J. McFarland.

AN Englishman has discovered that kissing to be Scriptural, must be between those of the same sex. It is evident that the Bible needs to be revised just once more.

HON. OLIVER MOWAT and the Hon. A. M. Ross is expected to be present at the opening of the Great Northern Exhibition in Collingwood which will take place on the 29th September,

THE Dundalk Herald has entered upon its fifth year. It has made steady progress in the past, and bids fair for valuable service to Dundalk and vicinity in the future. We wish it every success,

I HAVE fine lathes, tools and material for repairing fine watches; and claim to be the most scientific and practical watch repairer in Central Grey. W. A. Brown, the reliable watchmaker, Markdale.

CHEAP FARE TO THE FAIR.—Special rates to the Industrial Exhibition next week as follows, from Markdale to Toronto and return for $2.25 good to go on 14th and 17th and to return any train up to Monday 21st.

REV. A. WILSON of this place has received a call from the Presbyterians of Tara. The Methodists of that place were anxious to secure Rev. W. Casson this year, they seem to have a hankering for our Markdale ministers.

THE Gospel Army who labored so successfully in Flesherton are expected to commence their labor in Dundalk to-night (Thursday) in the Methodist church. The band consists of Major and Mrs. Sutherland, and Miss. Ellerby.—Herald.

John McNassar, Bondhead, writes: "Whenever I feel out of sorts, bilious, or my liver not working wright, or racked with a headache, I take Chase's Mandrake Dandelion Liver Cure. There is more real benefit from one dose of your Liver Cure than in many bottles of some medicines." Sept.

CHANGE OF DATE.—Owing to the North Grey Exhibition being held on October 1st and 2nd, the Owen Sound Races will take place on Monday and Tuesday, September 28th and 29th, instead of September 30th and October 1st. Entries close on Monday, September 28, at 9 a. m.—O. S. Advertiser.

OUR millers have difficulty in securing a supply of good wheat in order to keep up their shipping business in flour. They have gained for themselves an enviable reputation for a fine grade of flour, and are determined to keep it up if they should have to import their supplies of wheat from Manitoba.

THE C. O. O. F. of Markdale will give a grand concert and literary Entertainment in Haskett's new Hall on Monday evening the 21st inst. The committee are determined to make this a grand success, and are sparing no pains to accomplish that end. See programs for particulars. Admission 25 cents.

ON Thursday last, a son of Mr. Jas. Loughead, 4th line Euphrasia, aged about 10 years, fell from a butternut tree, where he had climed for butternuts, on his way home from school. He was picked up for dead but signs of life returned and Dr. McBride was sent for who is in attendance and the child is recovering.

W. T. JACKMAN has returned after spending two weeks with friends in Toronto and Owen Sound. He informs us that he had a very pleasant and enjoyable trip, and looks much refreshed. The proprietor of the Markdale House has threatened to raise his board 50 cents a week; this speek well for his appetite.

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourbon, Ind., says; "Both myself and wife owe our lives to SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE." Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

THE editor of the Durham Chronicle stated in last week's issue, that the STANDARD was about as small as any paper he knew of, (it being exactly the same size as the Chronicle) the fact is, there were but two larger sheets published in the county than the Markdale STANDARD has been for five years, and the Chronicle was neither of them.

824 persons died from small-pox in Montreal in June, July, and August.

MISS ETTIE FORD has been awarded 2nd class B. at the teachers examination, Owen Sound, as well as 3rd.

PROF. LOW'S SULPHUR SOAP is a cheap and handy form of obtaining the healing virtues of a sulphur bath.

RIEL WILL HANG.—There is every probability that Riels execution will be carried out on the 18th inst. Sir John, says, the law must take its course.

MR. JOSEPH ROULSTON of Williamsford, Ontario, has been for the past few weeks in Dundalk, introducing his new washing and wringing machine and we understand he has met with great success, having appointed five local agents which are all doing well. Mr. Irish of the Dundalk sash and door factory is the sole manufacturer for that part of the country.

A NASAL INJECTOR free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

UPWARDS of 200 lots of fall and winter dry goods are being received and placed in stock by W. J. McFarland. These goods have been purchased by an experienced buyer who visits the European markets twice annually. Cash down has been paid for them in every instance, which will enable him to give his thousands of customers goods at lower prices than ever. COME AND SEE THE NEW GOODS.

FOLLOWING is a list of prices at which J. R. Trimble is selling goods for cash only 18 lbs. Bright Sugar $1. 25 lbs. Currents $1. McDonalds No. 1 chewing Tobacco 40c. per lb. 25 lbs. Rice $1; Best Brier Tobacco 50c per lb; 3 lbs soda 10c; a choice Japan or Hyson tea only 25c; 3 doz. close pins 10c; 2 papers pins 5c; 2 papers needles 5c; 1 barrel No. 1 Goderich Salt 75c; 5 gal. No. 1 coal oil $1; and all other goods cheaper than any other merchant can or will sell you them, as I am bound to sell. One trial will convince the most skeptical.

FOR DYSPEPSIA and Liver Complaint, you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

SOCIABLE.—The Social, at the Methodist Parsonage on Monday evening last was largely attended and much enjoyed. The refreshments were just what should be at all socials, and we hope to see the principle carried out throughout the season, at similar gatherings, viz., tea, coffee and bread and butter or, what is termed "bread and butter" socials: it would save a lot of trouble and needless expense, besides being much more wholesome than the rich pastry and other nick nacks usually served up. The social was given by Mrs. Casson, whose large heart and unselfish nature, together with genial disposition and rare business tact, renders the term "failure" an impossibility, in any movement in which she has the management. Proceeds $15.

WHY WILL YOU cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief. Price 10 cts., 50 cts., and $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

FATAL FIELD FIGHT.—On Sunday night last, five residents of this village left town and entered a field a short distance north of here, waylay'd a neighbor in such a cruel and vicious manner as to cause the death of said neighbor before assistance came. Dr. Irwin was sent for, but he declined to hold a post mortem as the cause of the fatal deed was unquestioned. The reason for the diabolical and bloodthirsty deed is a mystery, though the villainous murderers are known, but we deem it unwise to expose their names at present; yet, fearing the innocent might be wrongfully suspected, we may say they were five village cows, and the unfortunate one was a cow belonging to Mr. Charlie Crow who resides a mile out of town. The guilty ones will doubtless go scot free on the popular plea of insanity.

HYMENEAL.—The constant rain on Wednesday did not prevent a happy event, which was arranged to come off —and did take place—at the residence of the bride's uncle, G. S. Bowes, Esq., of this village. The contracting parties being Miss Lillie Cobban, eldest daughter of the late M. C. Cobban, M. D., to Mr. Chas. M. Freeman, M. D., Muskegon, Mich. BRIDESMAIDS—Miss [illegible] Cobban of Milton, Ont.; Miss Freeman, Georgetown, Ont. GROOMSMEN—Dr. James Laffert[illegible], Hamilton, Ont.; Mr. M. Whyte Cobban, Milton, Ont. DRESSES.—Brides—Dove colored Surah Satin with trimmings of Silk lace to correspond. Handsome wreath and veil. Bridesmaids—Miss A. Cobban, Pink Creepe with pearl front; Miss Freeman, cream satin with lace. GUESTS—Dr. and Mrs. Freeman, Georgetown; Dr. and Mrs. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Hatton, Milton; Mr. and Mrs. Cobban, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. McGeorge, Ayr; Dr. W. F. Freeman, Walkerton; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Casson, Dr. Sproule, M. P. Mr. and Mrs. McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. Dundas, Mr. and Mrs. Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. Cornwall, Mrs. Rutledge, Mr. Mr. J. R. Mathews.

The presents were costly and very handsome. The happy couple left on the evening train South.

Euphrasia Council

The Council met pursuant to adjournment on the 29th of August, '85: Members all present; Minutes of last session of Council read and confirmed.

The Reeve and Mr. Hurd were authorized to take bonds from R. Thompson and W. Stewart, Esqs., for the building of the bridges over Beaver River on the valley road.

Rodger Bowser authorized to expend $25 improving road at Kerr's hill, side line 21 and 22.

Mr. Boyd was authorized to make repairs on Quinton's hill. Mr. Shepherdson and Mr. Boyd, instructed to get repairs made on 24th and 25th side lines, 9th and 10th concessions. Mr. Hurd authorized to let a job on 3rd line on lot 2.

The Clerk was ordered to advertise survey of new road to pass through lots 1, 2, and 3, con. 5.

The Reeve, Deputy-Reeve, Mr. Boyd and the Clerk, were appointed a financial committee to ascertain the assets and liabilities of the Township with a view to the levying of the rates.

Said committee reported that 7 mills in the dollar of the assessed valuation of the Township will be sufficient to meet and cover interest on railway debentures, Sinking Fund to meet said debentures, county rates, school equivalent, roads and bridges, and all other expenses of the Township, except school debentures and rates required by school trustees.

Said report was accepted and approved by council.

By-law 350 to levy the rates for the current year was carried through the differen stages and passed.

By-law 351, appointing James Struthers, Esq., arbitrator on Union school business, was carried through the different stages and passed.

The Reeve's orders were issued on the Treasurer to pay as follows, viz: John Sewell, $5, blasting rock on 27th and 28th side road; Edward Fawcett, $3.95, work on Heathcote bridge; George Emery, $32.50, to pay men for work on town line; A. H. McLean, $50, payment for land taken for road; George Vickers, Esq. $10, to pay for work on 27 and 28th side road; Robert Varey, $5.50, removing stone from 18th and 19th side line; George Craikshank, $6, work on Heathcote bridge; Henry Hurd, $5, to pay for work on 3rd line at lot 2; George Booth, $2.50, protecting Heathcote bridge; Hugh Ferguson, $4.50, work on town line St. Vincent; Hamilton McLean, $25, work on 9th line at lot 23; Robert Conn, $16.90, gravelling 15th and 16th side line; Geo. Richardson, Esq., $4, repairing bridge 9th line; John Pritchard, $14, building culvert and ditching; Robert Drummond, $28.50, covering crossway south line 27 & 28; Edward Manning, $4, repairing road scrapers.

Council adjourned until the last Saturday in September next.

ROBERT DUNLOP.

FLUID LIGHTNING.

All sufferers from the terrible torment, Neuralgia, can be made happy in one moment by a single application of Fluid Lightning briskly rubbed on painful parts, and without using any disgusting medicine day after day with little or no result. Fluid Lightning also cures as effectually Toothache, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Headache, and is only 25 cents per bottle at Hill Bro's. 1

Glenelg Council.

Town Hall Glenelg, August 24th 1885.

Council met this day pursuant to adjournment, all the members present, the Reeve in the chair, minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, Seconded by Mr. McMillan, That James McVicar be paid $15, for repairing Bridge and filling dump at lot 13, con. 5, and Thomas Neil $10.50, for gravelling crossway at same place. —Carried.

Moved by Mr. McMillan, Seconded by Mr. McCuaig, That Angus Black be paid $3, for work on road at lot 41, con. 3, N D R.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McMillian, Seconded by Mr. McCuaig, That B. H. Townsend be paid $1, for advertising Court of Revision.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, Seconded by Mr. Neil, That the Council of Egremont be requested to grant an equivalent to 23 days Statute Labor performed by Glenelg, opposite lots 12 to 23, inclusive on Townline between Egremont and Glenelg. —Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil, Seconded by Mr. Dunsmore, That the arrears of taxes against E½ of lot 3, on the South Side of Mill St. Markdale for 1884, be struck off the Roll, the same having been an error in assessment.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Dunsmore, Seconded by Mr. Neil, That $5, be granted to Robert Bell as charity, the money to be placed in the hands of James Whitmore for expenditure.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McMillan, Seconded by Mr. Dunsmore, That collectors be appointed to collect all municipal rates for the year 1885, as follows viz., Ward No. 1, Thos. McGirr at $25, Ward No. 2, W. H. Arrowsmith at $25, Ward No. 3, Thos. Cook at $30, Ward No. 4, John Hunt at $25, and that they be required to execute Satisfactory Bonds, on or before the 28th September next, and that a By-law be introduced said appointment. —Carried.

By-law No. 233 levying rates, and By-law No. 234 appointing collectors was then introduced and read a first and second time, Council went into Committee of the whole on same. The Reeve in the chair, Committee rose, Council resumed.

Moved by Mr. McMillan, Seconded by Mr. McCuaig, That By-laws No's. 233 & 234 as filled up in Committee be now read a third time, Signed, Sealed, and engrossed on the minutes. —Carried.

By-laws read accordingly, Council adjourned to September, 25th at 10 a. m.

J. S. BLACK,
Clerk.

FOR THE FARMER.

A Harvest Song.

The odor sweet of new-mown hay
Is wafted o'er the land ;
Piled high the sheaves of golden grain,
Wait for the thresher's hand.

Wide, billowy fields of corn uplift
Their banners broad and green,
With plenty's promise graven bright
On each, in glittering sheen.

The leafy vine bends low with weight
Of juicy clusters fair.
Springtime's glad prophecies fulfilled
The burdened orchards bear.

O'er all the land brown-handed Toil
And patient Thrift have wrought
Day after day, till dreams have been
To full fruition brought.

Yet not to them all praise be given,
Not all to Toil and Thrift ;
"Who gives the increase," un to Him
Our grateful hearts we lift.

Who can the richly varied store
Of goodly gifts behold,
Nor say with Israel's prophet bard,
"Thy works, how manifold !"

Let the Boys See the World.

"Is it alive ?"

"It moves."

"When did it get in ?"

Are some of the remarks we happened to overhear not long ago as a crowd of neatly dressed, "fly" young city gents passed by. Glancing across the street we at once saw the object of their merriment. Honest John Plowman had come to town to see the sights and from every indication, was not going home without having accomplished his object.

Now John is one of our acquaintances and as he crossed the street and approached we asked, "John, why don't you pull your pants out of your boot tops, and raise your hat off your ears ? Can't you see those fellows are laughing at you ?" "Let 'em laugh they are a pack of yer city dudes and I can clean out the whole crowd," said he grinding his teeth and shaking his formidable fist No doubt of it, John, but wait a moment ; suppose one of them was to go home with you, wou dn't you smile to see him milking cows with that suit of broadcloth ? wouldn't it amuse you to see him pitch hay in a July sun with that stiff hat and choker ?"

"You bet your life, I'd like to get one of them on a harvester for just one day. I'd make him laugh out of t'other corner of his mouth. I'd show him that it is better to have a pair of legs that are useful, than ornamental."

"Wait a moment John, let me tell you something ; you are not in the least inferior to these boys ; all the difference is, they are educated differently from what you are. Your shoulders are broader, your chest is better developed, your mouth is not deformed by the use of tobacco and liquor, there is a look full of business in your face that at once recommends you much better than all the letters you could carry, were you in quest of a position. The point we wish to make is this : boys raised on a farm as a general rule are not allowed an equal chance in education with their city cousins. When they go to town they feel out of place. They would give anything to be able to walk along the street and not feel that everybody is looking at them.

If they only knew whether to put their hands in their pockets or hold them straight down, they would have learned one very useful lesson in ease and comfort. If they were educated to see the difference, the shrewd clothing merchant could not palm off his last year's coat and two year old vest with a hat of still more ancient pattern upon them. We say give the boys a chance. If you live near a town—and all do now—let Tom and Harry and Rob attend school there one or two winters and learn the ways of city life. But, one objects, we can't afford to send our boys off to town alone, they would get into bad company, learn to drink and fall into all the attending evils of city life. To such we would say, some time they are going to go out from your door to meet all these temptations, and if they have been kept too strictly, without any chance to see the follies of evil or learn to avoid the snares, they will be the very victim the sharper is after ; they will suddenly find themselves turned loose in an unexplored pasture full of snares so artfully concealed by the most tempting baits that he who stears clear of them is indeed a favorite of fortune. The boy who is kept too closely haltered to the farm sickens to it. He longs to go to the exciting scenes of the city where he sees most people wearing good clothes ; in fact he never sees those who wear poor ones, he is so struck with the flash of gold chains, high hats and polished shoes. How much safer it is to let him see and taste all these things while you are able to hold him in check, than to rush him out alone unguided by love's irresistible reins, to turn headlong into them. Besides all boys raised in cities do not come to ruin, nor all boys brought up on farms become angels. We hope if this finds its way to the household of any sturdy old farmer who takes exception to its doctrine, that he will reply to it.

Poultry in Narrow Quarters.

Hens like to have their liberty and to roam over the garden and fields and to select their own nesting places in the barn or among the bushes or grass in the vicinity of buildings, but the profits to their owners under such circumstances are not always sure to be satisfactory. Hens in the garden are generally unmitigated nuisances, surely so if they are your neighbor's hens. Many persons seem to think that poultry cannot be profitable unless they can have their full liberty, and can obtain most of their living from what they can pick up while foraging on their own account. But this is a mistake, Hens running at large, unless closely watched and cared for, seldom pay very well. They often have to scratch too hard for their living, and what eggs they lay are largely lost, or in some way wasted. Then the chickens get caught by hawks, foxes or other animals of prey,

If hens can have good pure air to breathe clean water to drink, and suitable food in abundance, they will get along with very little room for exercise, and will pay well in eggs for the table. But if saving eggs for setting, it would be better to give more, exercise, that the chickens may be more vigorous. We only allude to this experiment, a forced one on our part, to show how small a range a few hens can be kept on and yield a generous profit for the care and keeping. Almost every family has waste scraps from the kitchen that could be utilized in no better way than to feed to a small coop of laying hens,

An Ocean-Bound Home.

Probably the remotest and loneliest spot on earth is the little island of Tristan d'Acunha. This speck of an island, which is only seven miles long and six wide, lies almost midway between Africa and South America, and a thousand miles south of the equator.

When Napoleon was imprisoned on St. Helena, it was thought that the loneliest place in the world had been assigned to him as a prison. But St. Helena is fourteen hundred miles nearer a continent than is Tristan d'Acunha. Many hundreds of miles of ocean lie between it and the smallest island nearest to it. Tristan, in short, is a tiny oasis in a boundless wilderness of water, go from it in which direction you will.

It is a rocky and cliff-girt little isle, with a solitary mountain a thousand feet high rearing itself from the midst. Weeks and sometimes even months elapse, without so much as the film of a ship's sail being espied in the distance from its shores.

Yet on this lonely speck of rock and earth there lives a bright, cheerful, thrifty Christian community which is, seemingly, quite happy in its isolation from all the rest of the world. There are about a hundred inhabitants, all Englishmen and Englishwomen. The oldest inhabitant is a man of seventy eight, who was wrecked on the island fifty years ago, and has ever since dwelt there, and has become the patriarch of the little company.

An English captain, returning from a long voyage in the course of which he anchored at Tristan, has recently given a very interesting account of the community. Those who compose it are one and all farmers, cattle-raisers, and shepherds. In the valleys of the island are fertile fields, where potatoes mainly are grown. On the slopes were grazing some seven hundred head of cattle and as many sheep. The food of the people consists for the most part of beef, mutton, fowls, potatoes, and fish.

As to the dwellings, they are described as being kept very clean and tidy, as we might expect from English people, and the people themselves are healthy, robust and long-lived. They have whaling-boats, and are very adventurous in their sea-roaming after whales. They sometimes row as far as twenty miles out to sea to intercept a passing ship.

It is often the case that that region is assiled by mighty tempests of wind, while the island is subjected at times to what are calldd "rollers"—huge masses of high-raised water which fairly inundate the lofty shores.

Tristan used formerly to produce many fruits and vegetables which can no longer be grown there. The reason of this is that the island is overrun by rats, which escaped from a ship that anchored there, and which the people have never been able to exterminate.

The people have preserved the customs of their English native land. In the centre of the settlement stands the little English church, to which all the inhabitants repair on Sunday morning. Thus the church-bells of England and the prayer and praise of the home churches find a faint echo across the leagues of ocean which stretch between the motherland and the lonely rock of the Southern seas.

The people of Tristan, solitary as their island is, steadfastly refuse to leave it. They look upon it as their home ; to some it is their native land. The ships which now and then touch upon its shores in vain offer to bring them back to the haunts of civilization. They have grown to love their loneliness, and to be content with a lot that is strange and pathetic indeed.

Gipsy Fortune-Telling.

Too many of us have so pronounced a vein of superstition that, in spite of the protests of reason, we ascribe some weight to omens, dreams, and utterances of the fortune-teller. The latter, however, is always allowed a lenient judgment by his victims ; like the oracles of old, he may deliver ambiguous statements, which the credulous are only too anxious to twist into conformity with facts.

A gentleman about to deliver in London a lecture on gipsies was accosted, on entering the public room, by a respectable-looking man, who at once referred to what he considered the miraculous power possessed by gipsy women, of revealing future events.

"I know that these gipsies can reveal the future," he declared, "for I had my fortune told by one of their girls in Greenwich Park, more than twenty years ago."

"That is a long time since. If you have not forgotten what the gipsy told you I should like to hear it."

"Well, sir," began the man, "then I will tell you that twenty years since, I was single, but one day I happened to see a young woman whose appearance and manner produced such an impression on my heart that I resolved to make further acquaintance with her, let her know the state of my feelings, and ask her to become my wife. Just about that time, I was one day in Greenwich Park, when a gipsy woman wanted to tell my fortune. I consented, and gave her a piece of silver, which, you know, they always expect before they begin."

"Oh yes, that is their custom. But tell me what the gipsy said to you."

"She said," continued the man, "I should be married to a young woman who was good-looking, and very fond of me, and would make me an excellent wife. But this was to me the most remarkable and strangest thing, that the description she gave of the hair, eyes, nose, mouth and complexion of my future wife answered to that of the young woman I had seen, and of whom I spoke just now."

"But did you marry the person the gipsy described to you ?"

"I am happy to say I did ; and so you see, sir, the gipsy was right to begin with."

"But what more did she tell you ?"

"A dozen things besides," he replied, "She told me I should prosper in business, and become a man of some importance—for instance, a town councilman ; and that my children would marry well ; but also that I should have a good deal of trouble."

"You married, it appears ; have you any children, and have they married well ?"

"Well, now," said the man, hesitatingly, "on that one point, the gipsy. I must admit was not quite clear. We had but one child and that died in its infancy ; and I regret to say I lost my wife about six years since. But as to my rising in the world, I think I in a fair way for that. I have been messenger of the parish vestry during the last twelve years, and I can assure you, I've seen in my time as many ups and downs as anybody of my own age ; so that you see these gipsies must know more of the future than other folks do, or how could that girl have pictured my future life so truly ?"

Humaanature is, indeed full of weakness ; too often it believes what it wishes to believe.

SUNBEAMS.

The first Hindoo lady who ever went into trade has opened a bookstore in Bombay.

Edward Everett Hale reiterates Bulwer's assertion that three hours of daily brain work as ample to get from a man the best that is in him.

The English language is coming into use by the natives of India ; and, owing to their sources of learning, they leave out and put in Hs like Englishmen.

The residence of an Omaha woman consists of an old organ box, with a dry goods box for an extension, and a broken milk can in one side for an oven.

In seventy-five cities and towns of Wisconsin, since the liquor license fee was raised from $75 to $200 a year, the number of saloons has fallen off 432. But the amount received for licenses has increased more than $224,000.

Frank James, the Missouri bandit, is far gone in consumption. He says that he has received hundreds of offers from showmen, but that he is too old and feeble to learn how to act in a drama illustrating his exploits, as frequently proposed, and he is too proud to become an exhibit in a museum.

Madame Sarah Bernhardt is now forty-five years old, and it is said in London that she looks her age. On the stage her face is unpleasantly painted, although paint and powder hide the wrinkles. Yet this remarkable actress and woman has still a strong hold on popular favor, and it is believed that her American engagement next year will be brilliantly successful.

The discovery has been made that Mormon missionaries do not let their foreign converts know of the polygamous doctrine of the Latter Day Saints until arrival in Utah. A full set of Mormon books and tracts, used in England by a preacher, contained no mention of plurality of wives, and a marriage service in one publication included the familiar proviso of one wife to one husband.

The production of slag wool and the industrial applications of the article appear to be largely on the increase. By the action of strong jets of steam the slag is transformed into a fibrous, whitish silicate cotton, which, being minerals, is incombustib'e, like asbestos ; it is advantageously and extensively used in England in the construction of new houses with Mansard roofs, the space between the interior lath or panelling and the exterior covering of zinc, slate, or tin, being filled with this slag wool, the effect being to protect from the rigor of frost in winter and from intense heat in summer. It is also said to prevent freezing and bursting of taps, spouts, and the water pipes if these are covered by the wool in winter.

A new sugar is now obtained from the seeds of the Laurus persea, a tree growing in the tropics. This sugar has on previous occasions been noticed by chemists, but was supposed by them to be mannite. It is extracted by boiling alcohol, from which it crystallizes on cooling. Its point of fusion is 183.5 to 184 degrees, while that of mannite is twenty degrees lower ; it is very soluble in hot, less so in cold water, and even in concentrated solution it has no action in the polarimeter; on adding borax, however, to a four per cent. solution, it gives a rotation to the right of 0.55 degree. It does not reduce copper solutions, and is not fermentable. Boiling nitric acid converts it into oxalic acid, without the production of mucic acid. There are also some other chemical characteristics peculiar to this new sugar.

He Wanted to Know.

At Willis a tired-looking woman, leading a freckled nosed, tow-headed, ten-year old citizen of the United States, boarded the train and sat down with a sigh that sounded like the exhaust pipe of a tug boat. The boy stared at the passengers while he crowded a green apple into his mouth. Having stowed the cholera bombshell away in the secret recesses of his internal economy, he screwed himself around on the seat, looked hard at a perspiring fat man across the aisle, and said :

"Say, maw, why don't the keers go ?"

"Be quiet, Johnny," said his mother, as she pulled a red bandanna from her pocket and blew a blast on her nose that went echoing and re-echoing down the aisle like a glad cry of a full grown Apache with an important case of cholera morbus and two scalps in his belt.

"Maw, w'at's that fat man's name ?"

"I dunno."

"W'at made his hair come out, maw ? Oh ! maw ; there's a skeeter on his head ! Does it hurt fat men when skeeters bite 'em ?"

The woman took an invoice of snuff, while the boy squirmed around and fixed his eye on a fashionably attired lady who was engaged in the classic pastime of churning a hunk of gum. His lower jaw dropped two inches as he gazed, and then he poked his maternal ancestor in the ribs and inquired

"Maw, is that woman chawin' terbacker : W'y don't she spit ? You allers spits when you chaws terbacker, don't yer, maw ? Say, maw, w'y don't the keers go ?"

The woman took another invoice of snuff and remarked :—

"Shut up ! drat ye, or I'll bust ye !"

That settled him—for four seconds.

Then he gazed at the fat man and asked :—

"W'at makes that man so fat, maw ? Oh ! maw, he spit on the floor ! If this was your house you'd peel him fer it, wouldn't you, maw ? Spose he's readin' 'bout Injuns ? Say, maw, w'y don't the keers go ?"

Then he twisted around, got down and humped himself over the arm of the fat man's seat and said :—

"You aint my pa."

"No, blast you !" howled the sufferer ; "if I was I'd shoot you. Now you go and sit down, and don't say another word or I'll eat you."

The boy winked hard, shuffled his feet upon the floor, sidled back into his seat and remarked :—

"Maw, w'y don't the keers go ?"

A man in a lonely part of Iowa had brain fever in consequence of the death of his wife, and on recovering could not remember where he had buried her. During the interval the three persons who had assisted in the interment became scattered. Very desirous of locating the grave, the widower dug over most of a ten-acre field before finding the remains.

JOURNALISM IN THE WEST.

Graphic Story of Bill Nye's First Experience in the West.

"My first experience in journalism was in a Western town in which I was a total stranger. I went there with 25 cents, but I had it concealed in the linings of my clothes so that no one would have suspected it if they met me. I had no friends, and I noticed that when I got off the train the band was not there to meet me. I got a chance to work on a morning paper. It used to go to press before dark, so I had my evenings to myself, and I always liked that part of it first rate. I worked on that paper a year, and might have continued if the proprietors had not changed it to an evening paper. Then a company incorporated itself and started a paper of which I took charge. The paper was published in the loft of a livery stable. That is the reason they called it a stock company. You could come up the stairs to the office, or you could twist the tail of the iron-gray mule and take the elevator.

"It wasn't much of a paper, but it cost $16,000 a year to run it, and it came out six days in the week, no matter what the weather was. We took the Associated Press news by telegraph part of the time, and part of the time we relied on a copy of the Chyenne morning papers, which we got of the conductor on the early freight. We got a great many special telegrams from Washington in that way, and when the freight train was in late I had to guess at what Congress was doing, and fix up a column of telegraph the best I could. There was a rival evening paper there, and some times it would send a smart boy down to the train and get our special telegrams, and sometimes the conductor would go away on a picnic and take our Cheyenne paper with him.

"Sometimes the Indians would send us in an item. It was most generally in the obituary line. With the Sioux on the north and the peaceful Utes on the south, we were pretty sure of some kind of news during the summer. The parks used to be occupied by white men winters and Indians summers. Summer was really the pleasantest time to go into the parks, but the Indians had been in the habit of going there at that season, and they were so clanish that the white man couldn't have much fun with them, so they decided that they would not go there in the summer. Several of our best subscribers were killed by the peaceful Utes.

"We had a rising young horse-thief in Wyoming in those days who got into jail by some freak of justice, and it was so odd for a horse-thief to get in jail that I alluded to it editorially. This horse-thief had distinguished himself from the common, vulgar horse-thieves of his time by wearing a large mouth, a kind of full-dress, eight-day mouth. He very seldom smiled, but when he did he had to hold the top of his head on with both hands. I remember that I spoke of him in the paper, forgetting that he might criticise me when he got out of jail. When he did get out again, he stated that he would shoot me on sight, but friends advised me not to have his blood on my hands, and I took their advice so I haven't a particle of his blood on my hands. For two or three months I didn't know but he would drop into my office any minute and criticise me, but one day a friend told that he had been hanged in Montana, then I began to mingle in society again, and didn't have to get in my coal with a double-barrel shot-gun any more. After that I was always conservative in regard to horse thieves until we got the report of the vigilance committee.

AT A CORROBOREE.

A Wild and Fantastic Scene in the Colony of Australia.

An eye witness of an aboriginal corroboree which took place at the Adelaide Oval, Australia, thus describes it :—"The black men painted in fantastic fashion with white stripes all over their bodies, went through a pantomimic kangaroos hunt with a good deal of clever burlesquing of the marsupial mannerisms. They hopped and grazed, and sat up as kangaroos do, and then treated the spectators to a show of hunting the animals. Next they planned a sham tribal attack and fight with some effect, and then came that grotesque dance in which the warriors, wearing curious leglets of gum-leaves, stamp and give their lower limbs a rapid tremulous motion while the lubras keep up an incessant nasal chant and perpetual thumping of opossum skins. The spectacle was undoubtedly a strange one, seen beneath the blaze of torches and the fleeting dazzling glare of blue, green, or red lights. An incongruous element was introduced by the appearance of some natives in overcoats, helmets, and trousers and their women in skirts and crinolines, but this was a sign of the social advancement of the people. The dancers, however, wore little more clothing than a breechclout and a coat of paint, a custom calculated to keep the domestic draper's bill down to the minimum. The affair might appropriately be called a whitey-black corroboree, because of the utilization of appliances of civilization in the display. The blacks were frequently applauded, and certainly the scene was not without its picturesque accompaniments and weird effects, the glare of the fires revealing dozens of active, muscular darkey figures strangely painted and bedizened, dancing in wild fashion to an accompaniment of a barbaric chanting, and the whole picture was shown against the darkly shadowed distant background. The majority of the natives are more muscular, plump, and are better formed than the usual type of aborigines, and most of them came from the Coorong, the Murray, and the lake districts, where their mode of life is healthful and where food is abundant. Most of them, from their training at the missions, speak excellent English, and are in every respect superior to the rest of their race."

What is known as the Priory, on high ground at Stanmore, near Harrow, England, has been turned into a hotel, and a coach runs there daily from Charing Cross. The Priory was occupied early in the century by the first Marquis of Abercorn, who lived there in grand style, and entertained all the celebrities of the period. He had a peep hole whence he surveyed new guests, and if they were women and ugly he absented himself. It is recorded that he did so with Jane Porter (authoress of "Thaddeus of Warsaw,' then the rage) and her sister. The present Duke of Abercorn used the place awhile, and then let it to Queen Adelaide, who died there. After that he sold it.

A prize fight was arranged between two young women in Australia. The pugilists came up defiant and jaunty for the first round, which ended in a mutual knockdown, each receiving a blow squarely in the face. At the expiration of the allowable interval the referee called "Time !" but the antagonists had lost all vim, and both were weeping over the possible disfigurement of their faces—a calamity compared with which the loss of the fight was nothing.

The explorers in the Congo Valley are surprised by the crudity of life there. The natives have no domesticated beasts of any sort, nor do they raise or catch any animals to eat, as they know nothing of flesh as food. No semblance of clothing is worn, and diet is practically confined to spontaneous products of the soil. Letters from missionaries say, too, that the negroes there are so low in mentality that any hope of Christianizing them must be based on a long and patient course of intellectual training. They are too densely ignorant to comprehend the simplest statements of doctrine.

"Love Sees No Faults,"

it has been said ; but, when a woman is dragged down, emaciated, wan, and a shadow of her former self, with never a cheerful word, she can be no longer beautiful or lovable. Nature may have been generous in her gifts, and endowed her with all the charms of her sex, but disease has crept in unawares and stolen the roses from her cheeks, the lustre from her eye, and the sunshine from her heart. But to be well again lies in your own power. Take Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," it will cure you ; thousands have been cured by it. Nothing equals it for all the painful maladies and weaknesses peculiar to women. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

To the vixens belong the broils.

A disease of so delicate a nature as stricture of the urethra should only be entrusted to those of large experience and skill. By our improved methods we have been enabled to speedily and permanently cure hundreds of the worst cases. Pamphlet, references and terms, three letter stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

A scientific journal says "few fishes die a natural death." That is not our fault. Just as many die a natural death as if we didn't go a-fishing.

The great diaphoretic and anodyne, for colds, fevers and inflammatory attacks, is Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed ; also, cures colic, cramps, cholera morbus, diarrhœa and dysentery, or bloody-flux. Only 50 cents.

Mr. Bessemer's steel process patents have yielded him $600,000 a year for twenty-one years.

The Way of the World.

That many with the glad consent praise new-born remedies, especially if they pay a larger profit—no one conversant with the substitution practiced in this respect will deny, and when you are told by interested parties that such and such a preparation is as "good or better"—than the great sure pop corn cure—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Just for a moment consider if your benefit prompts the advice, or if the small additional profit secured by the sale of inferior or poisonous substitutes lies at the bottom of the suggestion. We say then, buy only Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor ; the safe, sure and tested remedy for corns will be found in Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. N. C. Polson & Co., Kington, proprietors.

Ill humor often comes like chemical preparations, from a retort.

Demonstrated.

Sometimes it costs hundreds of dollars to convince a man ; very often less is required, but in the case of Polson's NERVILINE, that sovereign remedy for pain, 10 cents foots the bill, and supplies enough Nerviline to convince every purchaser that it is the best, most prompt and certain pain remedy in the world. Nerviline is good for all kinds of pain, pleasant to take, and sure to cure cramps and all internal pains. It is also nice to rub outside, for it has an agreeable smell, quite unlike so many other preparations, which are positively disagreeable to use. Try it now. Go to a drug store and buy a 10 cent or 25 cent bottle. Polson's Nerviline. Take no other.

The first of living French Canadian poets is M. Louis Fechette.

The manufacturers of the "Myrtle Navy" tobacco invite the very closest scrutiny of its quality. The expert whose trained senses teach him to recognize the exact quality of tobacco, and the smoker who judges by his experience in smoking it, will both come to the same conclusion that it is of the very highest quality anywhere to be found. It is made of the very finest of Virginia leaf and is manufactured with the greatest possible care.

Nine monuments to Grant will be erected unless some of the bresent projects fall.

Alma Ladies' College, St. Thomas, Ont., has full staff and complete courses in Literature, Music, Fine Arts, and Commercial Science. Re-opens September 10, 1885. For 50 pp. announcement, address, Principal Austin, B.D.

The highest type of charity is charity towards the charitable.

Prevention Better Than Cure.

Many of the diseases so prevalent in these days are caused by using soap containing impure and infectious matter. Avoid all risk by using PERFECTION Laundry Soap, which is absolutely pure. Ask your grocer for PERFECTION. Manufactured only by the Toronto Soap Co.

A. P. 245.

FARMS FOR SALE, CHEAP.—All kinds.—JOHN J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IMPERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACKING

PURE BRED AYRSHIRES for sal two cows, two earling heifers and one bull. Write for descrip price and pedigree to G. F. BAKER, Trafalgar.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—100 acres, 3½ miles east of the city of St. Thomas. For particulars, address J. J. Lewis, New Sarum, Ont.

It is conceded by all that the DOMINION BUSINESS COLLEGE, Kingston, is deservedly the most popular business training school in Canada.

Rupture & Hernia

Don't be deceived any longer. Throw away your old trusses, and get the best. CHARLES CLUTHE'S PERFECT SPIRAL TRUSS stands without an equal to-day. It has proved itself to be the best truss in existence by its enormous sales. Get relief and solid comfort. Send 6 cent stamp for book on rupture and human frame. Address CHAS. CLUTHE, 118 King Street West, Toronto, Ont. (Some Exhibition Week.)

FOR PLEASANT SEWING —USE ONLY— Clapperton's Spool Cotton ! Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. For sale by all Dry-Goods Dealers.

Ontario Agricultural College

WILL RE-OPEN ON FIRST OCTOBER

EXAMINATIONS FOR ADMISSION ON 3RD OCTOBER

course of instruction SPECIALLY ADAPTED to wants of farmers' sons. For circular giving information as to terms of admission, cost, course of study, etc., apply to

JAMES MILLS, M.A., President. Guelph.

(Name this paper.)

JAMES PARK & SON. Pork Packers, Toronto.

L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, G. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock.

WATER STAR AUGUR $20 Per Day WELL BORING — Just as required; 20 feet per hour, hand or horse-power combined boring and rock drilling machine; grand success, first prizes and diplomas. Send for Catalogue. 38 MARY STREET, HAMILTON CANADA

TRY PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER — Pure Gold Manufacturing Co. 13 FRONT ST. EAST. Toronto.

The Eagle Steam Washer. Is the only Washing Machine invented that a woman or girl 12 years old, without the use of a wash board, can with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent for trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear on clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash calicoes in five minutes, cotton goods in 20, bedclothes 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 78 Jarvis Street, TORONTO Canada

Coleman's Improved Plough Harness ADAPTED TO ORCHARD WORK.

No whiffletrees to injure trees. Easy on man and team. Working qualities guaranteed. Money refunded if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Price, $10 without collars and bridles.

DEWEY & CO, COLBORNE, ONT.

CANADA PERMANENT LOAN & SAVINGS CO.

Incorporated, A. D. 1885.

Subscribed Capital	$3,000 000
Paid up Capital	2 200 000
Reserve Fund	1 100 000
Total Assets	8,600 000

OFFICE: Company's Buildings, Toronto St., Toronto.

The Company has now on hand a large amount of English money which it is prepared to lend on first class securities at low rates of interest. Apply to J. HERBERT MASON, Managing Director.

CUT THIS OUT

The New Co-Operative Sewing Machine ! —IS THE— BEST IN THE MARKET. NEW STAND ! NEW FURNITURE ! Latest Improved Attachments Agents price for similar machine $60 Our price only $25 each

Before buying send us stamp for our elegant photo and sample of sewing. Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial. Any lady wanting a machine will do well to write to

The Co-Operative Sewing Machine Co. 22 JAMES ST. SOUTH. HAMILTON

CLEAN GRAIN—SEND 30 ... BELL, Chatham, Ont, for ... ing fanning mills. Best in Canada ... mills and dustless separators.

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT ... placed in Drawers, Trunks ... They drive away and destroy moths ... imparting a delightful and delicate ... clothing, carried or worn upon the ... by their powerful concentrated disinfec... ties, a perfect means of protection ... of disease, giving off at the same time ... ful odor; made entirely of satin ... very pretty, unique, and sent ... have them. Price 10c each ... Creosol Soap, the great English ... soap, awarded the gold medal, London ... Large cakes, price 15c, or ... sent postage paid to any address ... Address. THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, ... treal. Circulars and descriptions ... mo-Cresol preparations mailed free ... Agents wanted. Write for terms.

Allan Line Royal Mail ... Sailing during winter from Portland ... and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool ... from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool ... donderry to land mails and passengers ... Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax ... N.F. to Liverpool fortnightly during ... The steamers of the Glasgow line ... to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston ... phia ; and during summer between ... treal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston ... and Philadelphia, fortnightly. For freight, passage, or other ... apply to A. Schumacher & Co., ... Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., ... N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. ... Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & ... York ; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans ... Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia ... Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

CAUTIO[N] EACH PLUG OF THE MYRTLE N[AVY] IS MARKED T. & B. IN BRONZE LETTERS NONE OTHER GENUINE

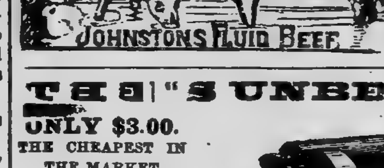
GURNEY & WA[RE] STANDARD SCALES



Are the Best, Attested by the Fact that there are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' ... Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.

Housekeepers, Consult Your Interests

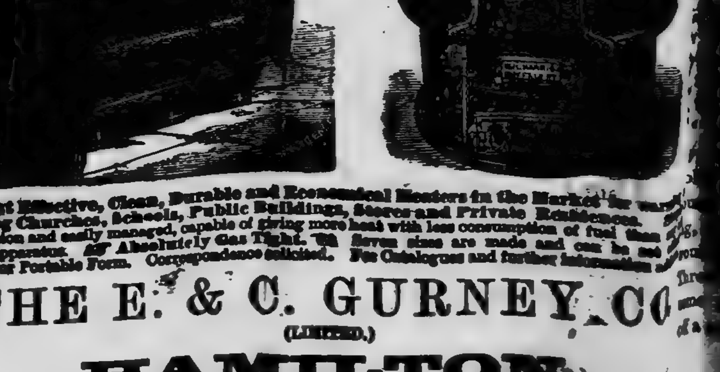
By purchasing a scale, and in buying ... to get the best. Our scales are fully ... every particular. All sizes Railroad, ... and Mill Trucks. Alarm Money ... For sale by the Hardware Trade ... Illustrated Catalogue and Price List ... application.

GURNEY & WA[RE] HAMILTON. WAREHOUSES—Montreal and Winnipeg.

JOHNSTON'S FLUID B[EEF]

It is the only preparation of the kind ... tains all the nutritious, together with ... ing properties of beef, and the only one ... the power to supply nourishment for brain, ... and muscle.

THE "SUNBEAM" WRINGER ONLY $3.00. THE CHEAPEST IN THE MARKET. Warranted first-class, or money refunded. Send direct to manufacturers, or procure from your Hardware or House Furnishing dealer.



Hamilton Industrial Works Co., Manufacturers, Hamilton.

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO., —MANUFACTURERS OF— PEERLESS AND OTHER MACHINE OILS. Gold Medals and First Prizes Wherever Exhibited. | Queen City Oil W[orks] TORONTO.

$10 Reward for the Conviction Of Dealers who Sell in- ferior Oil ... Manufactured ... THE ABOVE REWARD McCOLL'S LARDINE MACHINE OIL. Eureka, Cylinder, Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. | For sale by all leading dealers. | McColl Bros & Co. Toronto.

Examine Their Superior Merit ... NEW HARRIS HOT-AIR FURNACE FOR WOOD

The Most Effective, Clean, Durable and Economical Heaters in the Market for warming and ventilating Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Stores and Private Residences. ... construction and easily managed, capable of giving more heat with less consumption of fuel than ... heating apparatus. Absolutely Gas Tight. Seven sizes are made and can be set ... Brick or Portable Form. Correspondence solicited. For Catalogues and further information ...

THE E. & C. GURNEY CO (LIMITED.) HAMILTON.

VARIOUS TOP[ICS]

Robert Browning again th... country, although he is ... Wales a week after publi... perils of Alpine climbing ... fell down a glacier and w...

Six thousand letters of Pe... have remained under supp... emperor of Russia now permi... of a selection.

The castle of Buda, a home ... monarchy for centuries, is to ... built by the Emperor Franc... cost of $3,250,000.

The head of the Roman Cat... China reports that ten th... converts have been massacre... ears. Five white missionarie...

Prince Leopold, the only so... Prince Frederick Charles of G... started on a long tour in the E... session of $4,000,000 enables hi... leases.

Officers of the Chili navy ... about the anticipated time ... sack San Francisco, and ... seriously to be that a pro... is quite feasible.

The ex Empress Eugenie is ma... European watering places ... de Pierrefonds. The detec... Carlsbad, learning that the a... fictitious, reported her as an ...

Six of the clergymen who mad... bicycle tour of Canada travelled ... miles in a day. The same distan... covered by professional riders in ... on a smooth track with the ... wheels.

The fortifications surrounding ... the lurking places of vaga... scoundrels, whom the military are ... out, at the same time destr... woods and shanties which shelte... from which they saleied forth ...

Twelve mounds of incinerat... bones have been dug up in Fra... point which makes it likely that ... remains of Gaulo-Roman warr... the time of Hannibal, fell in ... Rhone against that General's ...

Big tassels were put by a Mem... man on the ears of her horse, and ... ribbon bow on his tail, in order to ... him to her satisfaction for equest... the liked the adornment so little ... away and threw her off, nearly ki...

The causes of a separation betwe... and wife were that she had u... marriage concealed from him the ... handsome teeth were false, and ... neglected to tell her that he snore... sleep. They could not agree to set ... against the other.

The Rev. Robert Laird Collier ... Henry Irving so closely that, when ... he was mistaken for the actor ... private friends. Mr. Collier says that ... member of the Lyceum Theatre ... talked an hour with him about ... matters, supposing him to be his e...

The worthlessness of the murder... was the only plea made by a Wy... in defence of his client, who had ... lately shot a barroom bully for ... trying him. The Judge said that ... argument was unsound in law, but ... it justify to their minds, a verdict ... acquittal.

An acute grammarian became exc... the incorrect English of a preache... accosting him at the close of a parti... faulty sermon, offered to pay for hi... by a private instructor. The minist... the proposition angrily, and denoun... maker in terms forcible, but at the ... the illustrative of his need of the ...

When it became known that Mr. ... was lying seriously ill at Brentwood, ... Lake, great sympathy was ex... by the people of the district. In... came from all parts of the United Ki... and even from abroad, as soon as the ... was announced. So numerous have th... inquiries become that it has been found... able to issue periodical bulletins, the ... which was issued shortly before noo... day, and gave the welcome intelligenc... although the condition of Mr. Rusk... critical, there was a slight improv... Mr. Ruskin has suffered from simil... illnesses before, but the present one is mu... worst. For a great part of the time ... been unconscious, and it was with grea... difficulty that even the slightest nouris... could be administered.

JOCULARITIES.

A recent poem on a bank clerk ... wherewithal and "Montreal !" rhyme...

People learn wisdom by experience ... man never wakes up his second baby ... laugh.

An Indiana editor complains that ... are so hard he can't even collect his tho...

Guns are only human after all. ... will kick when the load becomes too h...

The cablegrams say Osman Digna ... been deserted by his followers. As h... reported dead some weeks ago, th... weather may account for the action.

A literary man, who was asked to f... Shakespearean motto to be framed ... hung up over the bar of a saloon, sugg... the words—"As you like it."

"An approved method of frosting ... glass is to wash the panes with epsom s..." says an exchange. Taken internally ... times create entirely new pains.

...goods clerk took his girl out for ... the other night, and in a mo... ..., thinking that ... took lemonade and ... you think, that our ... of the period use so ... the only reason Mrs. ... that they may "go... worn in the eve... is the favorite ma... fashion journal. ... slippers are not a ... undressed kid.

... exercise ; what is ... patient—I am a m... you cannot lack exe... ends. Sometimes, ... the day and some...

... Irishman to his ... lump of ice put in the ... "No, sir," replied ... left over from last ... a large lump I thoug... "You did, eh ? you ra... throw it out ! and pu... an' niver agin try to p... on me."

VARIOUS TOPICS.

Robert Browning again thinks of visiting this country, although he is 73.

Within a week after publishing a book on the perils of Alpine climbing, a Vienna lawyer fell down a glacier and was killed.

Six thousand letters of Peter the Great have remained under suppression. The Emperor of Russia now permits the publication of a selection.

The castle of Buda, a home of Hungarian monarchy for centuries, is to be completely rebuilt by the Emperor Francis Joseph at a cost of $3,250,000.

The head of the Roman Catholic missions in China reports that ten thousand native converts have been massacred within ten years. Five white missionaries have been lost.

Prince Leopold, the only son of the late Prince Frederick Charles of Germany, has started on a long tour in the East. The possession of $1,000,000 enables him to do as he pleases.

Officers of the Chili navy talk a great deal about the anticipated time when they may sack San Francisco, and their idea is said seriously to be that a project of that kind is quite feasible.

The ex Empress Eugenie is making a round of European watering places as the Countess de Pierrefonds. The detective police of Carlsbad, learning that the assumed title was fictitious, reported her as an adventuress.

Six of the clergymen who made a recent bicycle tour of Canada travelled a hundred miles in a day. The same distance has been covered by professional riders in ten hours, but on a smooth track with the lightest of wheels.

The fortifications surrounding Paris became lurking places of vagabonds and scoundrels, whom the military are now driving out, at the same time destroying the woods and shanties which sheltered them, and from which they saleied forth to rob.

Twelve mounds of incinerated human bones have been dug up in France, at a point which makes it likely that they are the remains of Gaulo-Roman warriors, who, in the time of Hannibal, fell in defending the Rhone against that General's passage.

Big tassels were put by a Memphis woman on the ears of her horse, and a broad ribbon bow on his tail, in order to decorate him to her satisfaction for equestrian use; but he liked the adornment so little that he ran away and threw her off, nearly killing her.

The causes of a separation between a husband and wife were that she had until after marriage concealed from him the fact that her handsome teeth were false, and that he neglected to tell her that he snored in his sleep. They could not agree to set one fault against the other.

The Rev. Robert Laird Collier resembles Henry Irving so ceosely that, when in London, he was mistaken for the actor by intimate friends. Mr. Collier says that once a member of the Lyceum Theatre company talked an hour with him about dramatic matters, supposing him to be his employer.

The worthlessness of the murdered man was the only plea made by a Wyoming lawyer in defence of his client, who had deliberately shot a barroom bully for merely annoying him. The Judge said that the argument was unsound in law, but the jury felt it justify to their minds, a verdict of acquittal.

An acute grammarian became excited by the incorrect English of a preacher, and, accosting him at the close of a particularly faulty sermon, offered to pay for his tution by a private instructor. The minister took the proposition angrily, and denounced its maker in terms forcible, but at the same time illustrative of his need of the lessons.

When it became known that Mr. Ruskin was lying seriously ill at Brentwood, on Coniston Lake, great sympathy was expressed by the people of the district. Inquiries came from all parts of the United Kingdom, and even from abroad, as soon as the illness was announced. So numerous have these inquiries become that it has been found desirable to issue periodical bulletins, the first of which was issued shortly before noon next day, and gave the welcome intelligence that, although the condition of Mr. Ruskin was critical, there was a slight improvement. Mr. Ruskin has suffered from similiar illnesses before, but the present one is much the worst. For a great part of the time he has been unconscious, and it was with great difficulty that even the slightest nourishment could be administered.

JOCULARITIES.

A recent poem on a bank clerk makes "sorrowful" and "Montreal!" rhyme.

People learn wisdom by experience. A man never wakes up his second baby to see it smile.

An Indiana editor complains that times are so hard he can't even collect his thoughts.

Gods are only human after all. They will kick when the load becomes too heavy.

The cablegrams say Osman Digna has been deserted by his followers. As he was reported dead some weeks ago, the hot weather may account for the action.

A literary man, who was asked to furnish a Shakesperean motto to be framed and hung up over the bar of a saloon, suggested the words—"As you like it."

"An improved method of frosting windows is to wash the panes with epsom salts," says an exchange. Taken internally they also create entirely new pains.

The clerk took his girl out for some [illegible] the other night, and in a moment [illegible] rudeness, thinking that [illegible] She took lemonade and cake.

Why is it, do you think, that our young unmarried ladies of the period use so much powder? Well, the only reason Mrs. J. can think of is in order that they may "go off."

Boots are seldom worn in the evening, and undressed kid is the favorite material for slippers, says a fashion journal. It may be added that slippers are not a favorite material with the undressed kid.

Doctor—you need exercise; what is your employment? Patient—I am a mason. Doctor—But then you cannot lack exercise. Mason—That depends. Sometimes, you know, we work by the day and sometimes by the job.

"Tom," said an Irishman to his office boy, "was that lump of ice put in the water cooler to-day?" "No, sir," replied the youth. "It was left over from last evening, and as it was a large lump I thought it would answer." "You did, eh? you rascal? Throw it out! throw it out! and put in some fresh ice, an' niver agin try to palm off a stale article on me."

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

By the Author of "The Flower Girl," "Lovely Lady Lyndhurst," &c., &c.

CHAPTER I.

She stood on the brow of the hill, a bright spot in the sober landscape, one small brown hand shading her eyes as she glanced expectantly around, the other holding loosely by one cherry-coloured string an old hat, the hideous proportions of which she had effectually concealed by the garland of wheat and ox-eyed daisies which she had twined around it. A short kilted skirt of the same bright hue as her ribbons just showed the turn of her neat ankles encased in coarse black-ribbed stockings. She wore a heavy pair of boots of inferior workmanship, which could not however conceal the fact that the feet they enveloped were small and pretty. The dying rays of the setting sun fell aslant her, bringing out in stronger relief the one bit of colour which had so dark a setting in the pine-wood that stretched beyond and above her. The quaint velvet bodice that had done duty so long was turning from black to russet brown; it was almost, in fact, the same shade as the long tresses of hair which fell in heavy masses below the slim waist.

The girl and her surroundings formed a pretty picture. So at least thought the young man who just then vaulted over a stile and came sauntering towards her. Apparently it was he whose advent had been expected, for the watcher dropped her hand and went forward hastily to meet him.

"How long you have been! I thought you wasn't coming," she said, with the pretty petulance of a spoilt child.

"Did I ever break my word, Dolly?" the new comer questioned softly, though he winced a little at her faulty grammar. "Did I ever say I would come and disappoint you?" he queried again, as she did not speak.

"N-o, perhaps not," she admitted reluctantly; "only I have been waiting, and, oh, the time seemed so long—so long!"

He might have been touched by the new ring of pain in her sweet tones, but that his thoughts were wandering, and he heeded it not.

"And now that I have come," he said, with an effort bringing himself to the present, "let us kiss and be friends, as the children say;" and, suiting the action to the words, he drew her towards him and pressed his moustached lip on her shrinking ones. "What! You do not care for my kisses any longer?" he went on; for there was no mistaking the shiver that passed over her as he released her from his embrace. "Ah, well"—with a shrug of his broad shoulders—"I suppose I must be prepared to hear that there is a more favoured swain! Who is it, Dolly? Young Joe Smith, the gardener, or Tom Larkins, your father's apprentice? Come, which is it?" He put his hand under her chin as he spoke, and tried to turn the averted face towards him; but she steadily resisted his efforts to do do so. "I think you might tell me," he added in an aggrieved tone, "if only for the sake of old times."

"Why of old times?" she questioned, in a constrained voice, still without looking round.

"Oh, well, you know we have been awfully jolly together," he asserted a little lamely—"quite chums in fact!"

"And now we can be so no longer," the girl rejoined, in a tone of bitterness which did not escape him.

"I did not say that."

"But you hinted at it. Ah, you think I don't know!" she went on, flashing round upon him, and speaking quickly enough now. "Certainly I have been slow in finding out what everbody else seems to have known so long!"

"I don't understand. Upon my word, Dolly, you are very mysterious this evening, and I should say a little cross, only——"

"Oh, you needn't apologise!" Dolly interupted scornfully. "I don't want any more fine speeches; I—I——" But here her indignation gave way, and she burst into a torrent of tears.

Captain Braithwaite glanced around cautiously, and bit his lip with vexation. This little girl, in whose company he had passed so many pleasant hours and whom hitherto he had found as gentle as a lamb, was beginning to bore him, and indeed—which was worse still—was likely to prove troublesome. He had come prepared to-day to tell her that it was desirable that their acquaintance should cease, that circumstances had occurred that rendered it expedient that gossiping tongues should not have it in their power to connect his name with hers; and, before he could explain anything, or soften the news that he had come to break to her, she had made a scene.

What would she do when she heard the truth? That reflection rather disconcerted the gallant Captain; and he determined to defer his tidings—perhaps in the meantime she might learn it from some one else, and so a great deal of unpleasantness would be saved him. He was delighted at the idea. Yes; such things were best left to chance, and, after all, what was there to tell? Why should it be necessary to confide his private affairs to this little rustic beauty? What could his future conduct signify to Dolly Jarvis, the blacksmith's daughter? Ah, what indeed? Only with the living present, then had he aught to do; as for the past, a wiser man man than he had said, "Let the dead past bury its dead."

So he knelt down by the girl's side—for she had thrown herself upon the ground, [illegible] felled t[illegible] had hidden her face upon it—and, stretching out a slim white hand, placed it caressingly on the tumbled chesnut locks.

"Little Doll, look up!" he whispered softly. "Child, do not grieve so; there is really nothing which need make you so unhappy. Whatever you may think, always remember I have not changed in my affection for you. Come"—coaxingly—"let me see your bright eyes laugh again!"

Obediently, though rather shame-facedly, she raised her tear-stained face—a very April face it was now, smiles and tears striving for the mastery.

"It was very foolish of me," she said at last a little nervously. "I was afraid you were getting tired of me. I—I—got tired of waiting, I suppose, and—and I heard there were visitors at the Hall"—this in a lower pain-stricken voice—"and I thought maybe you preferred their company to mine."

"Which wasn't true, you see," Captain Braithwaite returned cheerily, "for I left them all to come to you."

"Did you really?" she asked, her eyes flashing now with joy; then more soberly—"It was very wrong of me to doubt you; please forgive me."

A better man than the Captain would have been moved by the simplicity of the girl; but he was only glad to see that a storm was for the present averted.

"I'm not so sure that you deserve forgiveness," he said gaily. "Suppose I require you to do penance before I grant you pardon."

"Penance!" she repeated, puzzled. "What is that?"

He had forgotten for a moment that he was speaking to an an uneducated rustic, instead of a society belle, and he felt half vexed at her for her ignorance and with himself that he had not remembered it.

"Penance," he answered gravely, "is doing something one does not like as a punishment for wrong-doing, and with the hope of afterwards being forgiven. Now don't you think you aught to do penance for doubting my affection for you before I reinstate you in my favor?"

"I will do anything in the world you wish," she said, clasping her hands, and regarding him with earnest wistful eyes.

At the sight of the pretty tremulous lips, the soft gazelle-like eyes, a faint feeling of compunction stirred the worldling for the first time. How she trusted him, and how basely he was about to betray that trust! He moved uneasily,

"You take my words always too seriously, little one," he said, endeavoring to speak lightly, but avoiding her direct gaze. "However, instead of doing penance, suppose you make me a promise instead?"

"What is it?" she asked. "You know I can do so little for you," she went on sadly. "I'm not like your fine folk at the Hall."

"Well, what I am going to ask I hope you will not find difficult to perform. It is this—promise me that you will not believe anything that you may hear said against me. There will be plenty of people to whisper evil things about me to you by-and-by; but you must not believe them."

"Of course not," she said indignantly; "but"—hesitatingly—"why should they say anything bad about you?"

"Oh, I hardly know! But in a little place like this there is so much gossip, and people talk about their neighbors' affairs simply because they have nothing better to do."

"At any rate, I would not believe anything wrong about you," the girl declared confidently.

"And, Dolly, whatever happens, you will always try to think well of me; you will remember that, whatever I do that may seem to you unkind, it will be because I am obliged to do it, because I shall have no choice in the matter; and, above all, do not forget that, notwithstanding appearances may be against me, I loved you—ay, a thousand times better than any one else in the world!

He had not meant to be a villain—five minutes ago he would not have spoken thus; he could not understand himself why he felt this sudden desire to stand well in this simple child's eyes, why he, whose praises were sung by high-born dames, whose society was courted by the mothers of fashionable daughters, should care to shine in the eyes of one of the people—a plebeian—a blacksmith's daughter; nevertheless it was a fact that Dolly's soft shy voice, Dolly's sweet sad eyes, had never proved more attractive, her charms had never seemed so great as at this moment, when he was on the point of renouncing her for ever.

A great fear, terrible even in its vagueness, seized upon Dolly. Why did he speak so strangely? What had he done, what was he going to do? Why did he regard her with that wholly loving yet half pitying manner? Ah, well, he loved her—loved her even better than the proud beautiful girls he met every day at the Hall! Had he not said so? After that, what mattered anything? The sun might cease to shine, the stars might fall, nothing could affect her now. She was bewildered, entranced. Her lowly birth, which placed her so far beneath him, her father's humble calling, her own lack of education—all—all would be bridged over by that one word "love."

She came nearer to him; he felt her sweet breath fan his fevered brow, one little hand stole timidly up to his neck, the glamour of her youth and beauty and innocence was upon him. He looked up; their eyes met, his full of fire and passion, hers timid and half veiled by the white lids which strove vainly to conceal the tale that was told too well.

She drew a long quiverering sigh. The spell was broken. He was but human; he had come to bid her farewell, he remained to console her.

CHAPTER II.

"It is as true as you stand there, believe it or not. Our Sue see'd her. I know'd no good 'ud come of her fine airs. Thinks herself too good to mix with such as us."

"Ay, ay, 'tis a sad pity!" the other woman said, with a shake of her head. "Her mother was a good sort, though a trifle high-minded, I've heard say; perhaps her daughter takes after her in that wise."

"Umph! 'Igh-minded, you call it, do you?" cried Meg Smith, with a scornful toss of her tawny locks. "I should call it low-minded to go gallivanting about with a young man who means no good!"

"Stop, Meg!" the elder woman said, pausing in her occupation of weighing out some soap for the buxom lass who, with her sleeves turned up to her elbows, was leaning against the counter of the little general shop presided over by Widow Lane. "It's a serious charge to make against the child. You forget she has no mother, and, if she is a little thoughtless, well, we cannot blame her much."

"Oh, of course not!" sniffed Meg. "Every one takes her part just because she happens to think herself better-looking than others and her father is fool enough to let her deck herself out in all kinds of fripperies. Even Joe took her part when Sue was talking about her at dinner, and I'm sure she's behaved bad enough to him, and then father put in a word, and I know what he'd say if one of his gals was caught along with their betters a love-making! As for that, I dare say old Adam will kick up a fine fuss when he hears how Dolly is carrying on."

"I tell you what, Meg; I wouldn't interfere in this matter, if I were you," advised the widow. "It's little good will come in setting father and daughter by the ears; and, as I said before, the lass is to be pitied, having no mother to counsel her."

"Oh, I sha'nt say anything to old Adam! I'd as soon go into a lions' den as put him out. He's not the sweetest customer to deal with when he's angry, as we all know. However, he's sure to hear about Dolly sooner or later, and then I'd not stand in her shoes for a pension. Oh, that's the soap, is it? Thank you, and good morning."

Hardly had Meg reached the door when another person entered. This time it was a young fellow of about nineteen or twenty. His naturally fair complexion was tanned by exposure to the sun and air. Without being positively handsome, he had a frank pleasing expression, more attractive than mere beauty, and that made him a general favorite. His blue eyes had a merry twinkle in them, and his gaze was clear and direct. An honest manly youth was Tom Larkins, one of Nature's gentlemen.

To-day, however, there was a little frown on his usually placid brow as he approached Dame Lane's counter and asked, in a strange half-hesitating manner, for nothing more formidable than a ball of string. Then, while the widow severed one from a number hanging on a hook, the uneasy look deepened in his eyes, and he fumbled nervously in his pocket for quite a minute before he produced a threepenny-piece.

"A nice morning, Mr. Larkins; it's to be hoped the weather will pick up a bit now," the dame remarked, cheerily, as she handed him the string and counted out his change. "We've had about enough rain, I'm thinking, for the present."

"Yes—no," Tom said confusedly, not having heard one word of the widow's sentence, his thoughts being occupied in wondering how he should explain the motive of his visit, the string only having been a pretext for obtaining a few minutes' chat with the old dame.

Mrs. Lane looked at him sharply over the top of her spectacles; it was so unlike Tom to be confused; then she spoke briskly.

"You've got something on your mind, Tom, that you want to tell me. Out with it! If I can do anything for you, you know I will." Then more gravely—"You've not been getting into any trouble with old Adam, I hope?"

"No—oh, no; its not about myself I want to speak!" declared the lad. "It's—it's about Dolly."

"Ah!"

It was a very comprehensive "ah"; and Tom glanced up quickly.

"I see," he said sorrowfully; you have heard too."

"Yes; but I don't believe half what people say," responded the widow, who herself was as fond of a little gossip as most folk, though she never indulged in ill-natured scandal. "Dolly is a good girl—I will maintain that—and she has done nothing worse thon act a little thoughtlessly—depend upon that, Tom."

The lad's countenance brightened as he seized the good dame's hand and pressed it gratefully between his own brown palms.

"Thank you for saying that," he murmured. They are all so hard upon her—and Meg Smith's worst of all—just because Dolly is the best-looking lass in the village and because Adam can afford to keep her at home and let her dress better than the others; they hate her, and would do her all the harm they could, poor girl—and she so sweet and gentle as well as pretty! It isn't her fault if—if the quality do take notice of her. Meg's only spiteful because Dolly doesn't care for her brother Joe. As if Dolly couldn't pick and choose whom she will!"

"I doubt me Meg has another cause for grievance," remarked the widow slyly; and poor Tom coloured to the roots of his curly hair. "I'm not surprised at all the lasses getting a little jealous," went on the old woman. "It's rather hard on them that all their sweethearts should leave them to run after Dolly."

"But Dolly doesn't want them!" declared Tom stoutly.

"I didn't say she did," rojoined the widow soothingly, for the young apprentice was beginning to show signs of irritability.

"And I don't believe she cares a fig about the Captain either, notwithstanding Meg's jeers. She's more sense than to listen to any of his soft speeches, knowing he is as good as married already."

"Oh? Then Dolly does know about Miss Mainwaring? I thought p'raps she mightn't have heard."

"Of course she has—everybody has in the village," Tom says irrelevantly. "She's expected at the Hall to-morrow; I met one of the under-grooms just now, and he told me so—he was exercising a horse ready for her to ride. The wedding is to be in the spring."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

HE KILLED SEVEN PEOPLE.

Then Attemps to Kill his wife and Afterwards Cuts his Own Throat.

A man from Johnson City, Blanco county, gives details of a terrible tragedy which occurred there recently. Al Lockie, an old citizen of extensive connection, had a stepdaughter living with him, whom it is alleged he seduced several years ago. Lately his relatives had imputed to him the same crime with his own daughter. Lockie yesterday afternoon left home, intending, as he avowed, to go to John Green's place to borrow money. Green and family were away. He entered the house and took Green's rifle and returned to the residence of his brother, Berry Lockie. He then shot and killed Berry and his (Berry's) wife John Nicholson, a neighbor, rode up just then. He forced Nicholson to go with him to Mr. Stokes's, where he shot and killed Stokes. There Nicholson was lost sight of. His horse was tied there when found, and it is supposed that he was also killed. From there Lockie went to his own house and shot and cut the throat of Mrs. Henry Lockie of Llano county, wife of his stepson, who was on a visit to him. He also shot and killed Mrs. Stokes, wife of the Stokes whom he had already killed. Then he killed his daughter. Lockie next attempted to kill his wife, but, his cartridges being exhausted, he could not fire another shot, and she escaped. He then cut his own throat, mounted his horse, and started in the direction of Johnson City. After riding a few yards he met Thomas Brunswick, whom he attacked with a knife, inflicting fatal wounds. The murderer then rode towards Johnson City, but was arrested within five miles of there. He was still alive at 3 o'clock next morning. By these murders about twenty children are left orphans.

A later despatch says a mob of 75 persons, a few nights afterwards, went to the jail, demanded the keys of the sheriff, and entered the jail and took out Lockie. They hanged him after having obtained from him a statement in regard to his crimes. Lockie declared he intended to kill all the members of three or four families besides those he murdered, and was prevented from doing so only by his cartridges giving out.

A STUDENT'S DUEL.

How the Boys Fight at Gottingen University, Germany.

A student at Gottingen, G. M. Harper, writes the following account of a recent student duel:

"A fight was just about to begin. The combatants, surrounded by seconds, umpires and friends, had already taken their places on the floor. Their breasts and thighs were protected by thick pads, on which the black blood of former encounters had gathered for years past. The veins of the neck were guarded by winding around it a heavy scarf. Iron goggles, with plate glass windows, concealed the eyes, and the arms were covered with wadding. The swords were long and narrow, without points. One of the pair of warriors, a member of the blue-cap corps, was a pale, slender, goodlooking youth. He never spoke a word or took his eyes off his adverary. The latter, one of the red caps, was a big, burly fellow, whom the pads seemed to greatly oppress, perhaps he was frightened, I don't blame him.

"The surgeon stepped back, looking like a butcher, in his long white apron, spotted with blood. There had been another duel before we came. The timekeeper took his place at a little table. The seconds jumped into position, each at the left side of his man, after polite bows to each other in true German fashion. The fifty or sixty corps students who were sitting at little tables around the room, eating breakfast and drinking, rose to see the fight. All was solemnity and the silence was only broken by some dignified fellow's calling to an acquaintance clear across the floor and drinking his health, at the same time bowing profoundly and lifting his cap. There were a few sharp words of command repeated by one second after the other, something like 'Make ready! Go!' and in an instant all one could see was the flashing of the swords and the flying of sparks, and all one could hear was the regular 'whack, 'whack,' of the blows. There seemed to be only one kind of stroke, and each met the other half way. 'Halt!' cries the fat fellow, and the seconds run up to see where he is cut; but it was a false alarm. They rub him a little and let him sweat a moment, then at it again. Dodging with, the head or moving the feet or body is not allowed, and the left arm must be kept behind the back. 'Whack! whack! whack!' as before, but also a clear swish! and the next moment the blood is running from a clean, perpendicular gash in the big fellow's left cheek.

"About this time I wondered how the hotel woman could stand it, for she had been carrying meat and drink from table to table all the time. I also had occasion to see a man who had for two seasons been punished behind the bat on the Princeton base-ball nine, and who had risked his life in one or two Thanksgiving day foot-ball games, walk with uncertain step to the window for a breath of fresh air. It isn't pleasant to see a man's cheek laid open deliberately. The next round proved even more disastrous for the plump red-cap, for he received an ugly gash above the eye, which will go with him as long as the eye itself. Next time his chin suffered, and then his nose. He was out of breath and looked miserable. I went to the window and looked at the clear blue sky and the golden fields, and wondered why human society must so torture itself with useless and cruel conventionalities. But the fascination of the raining blows called me back to see the next round. A hum of interest ran along the gallery front when the cool little fellow was seen to get by far the heaviest blow of the fight across his brow, which was soon covered with blood.

"They took off the goggles and the blood ran into his eyes. Then they mopped it up and he was ready again, and in the next round gave his opponent another gash on the left temple. It seemed to me about time to call a halt for good, and presently they did. Under the rules a fight lasts fifteen minutes of actual fencing, pauses not counted. With pauses reckoned in, this must have lasted about forty minutes. The gladiators carried their bloody heads into another room to receive the doctor's attention, and preparations began for another duel. I asked a student if either of our bloody friends had fought before, and he said laconcially: 'The little fellow has fought nine this term.'"

CUT THIS OUT.

A Preventive and Cure for the Small-pox—Valuable Recipe.

Several years since a correspondent of the Stockton (California) Herald gave the following concerning small-pox and its remedy. I give it as published. "I herewith append a recipe which has been used to my knowledge in hundreds of cases. It will prevent or cure the small-pox through the pittings and filling. When Jenner discovered cow pox in England, the world of science hurled an avalanche of fame upon his head; but when the most scientific school of medicine in the world—that of Paris—published this recipe and panacea for small-pox it passed unheeded. It is as unfailing as fate, and conquers in every instance. It is harmless when taken by a well person. It will also cure scarlet fever. Here is the recipe as I have used it and cured my children of scarlet feverand small-pox. When learned physicians said the patient must die, it cured.

THE RECIPE.

Sulphate of zinc, 1 gr.; fox-glove (digitalis), 1 gr.; ½ teaspoonful of sugar. Mix with two tablespoonfuls of water. When thoroughly mixed add four ounces of water.

Take a teaspoonful every hour. Either disease will disappear in twelve hours. For a child, smaller doses according to age.

For a preventive take a teaspoonful before each meal. Children less quantity according to age.

If countries would compel physicians to use this there would be no need of pest-houses. If you value advice and experience use this for that terrible disease.

The writer has given the above recipe as a preventive when small-pox was prevailing, and found it to correspond with the above statements; it is therefore conceded not only a cure but a preventive. It is hoped the papers will keep the above before the public.

The heir to Mr. W. E. Gladstone's Hawarden estate in England was born only last month.

HOUSEHOLD.

COMMON-SENSE RECEIPTS

ASSORTED CAKES.—One cup butter, two cups sugar, four cups flour, one milk, four eggs, two teaspoons yeast powder.

ANOTHER.—One cup butter, four cups sugar, two cups milk, three eggs, six cups flour, one pound raisins, one teaspoon soda, spices to suit taste.

KATIE HUBBARD'S RYE BREAKFAST CAKES.—One and one-half cupfuls sweet milk, one-half cupful molasses, two cupfuls rye meal; mix very soft. One teaspoonful soda and salt. Bake at once in gem pans.

MRS. SUMMERS' CAKES.—One egg, one cupful sour cream, one and one-third cupfuls white sugar, a little salt; one and one-half cupfuls flour, one small teaspoonful cream tartar, one-half teaspoonful soda; flavor with nutmeg.

VARIETIES.—The above receipt with the addition of citron, currants, raisins or cocoanut is very nice. Can be baked in fancy shapes, or in loaf or sheet. It is also nice for Washington pie. Try it, and you will call it delicious.

FRUIT CAKES.—Two cups butter, one cup molasses, one and one-half cups flour, one cup milk, one teaspoon soda, two eggs, one pound raisins, one pound currants or citron, one teaspoon each kind of spice. Flour to make a stiff batter.

NICE SPONGE CAKE.—Eight eggs, two cups sugar, juice and rind of a lemon. Beat the whites of the eggs to a froth, then put sugar to it and beat; add the yokes well beaten, and a tablespoonful less than two cups of flour. This makes two loaves. Bake about three fourths of an hour.

SPONGE CAKES.—One cup flour, one cup sugar, two eggs, one teaspoon Yeast powder sifted into the flour, one-third cup boiling water. Mix flour, sugar and yeast powder together, beat yolks and whites of eggs separately, then together and stir into the flour; then add the hot water. Flavor with lemon if desired.

CURRANT JELLY FOR MEATS.—Heat the currants and strain off the juice; boil it quietly fifteen minutes; add one-half the weight of it of sugar, and boil eight minutes longer and pour out. A little of this spread on hot beef steak or served with roast pork, veal or lamb, is very nice. Thin slices laid over puddings with sweet frosting are very ornamental.

Home Decoration.

Money spent in making home worth living in is well invested.

Figured designs in relief, executed in terra cotta or lincrusta Walton, are being adopted as friezes.

It is a common idea that the furniture of the dining-room must be heavy, this to a certain extent is quite correct, but it is frequently carried to extremes; what is required are serviceable, comfortable chairs with broad backs and roomy seats stuffed and covered with leather or morocco.

A suggestion in order to change the temperature in roome is to open the windows and hang in them wet cloths.

Ink stains may be removed from anything white by simply putting a little powdered salts of lemon and cold water on the stain, allowing it to remain a few minutes and then wash it out with soap and water.

The time when carpets and upholsterings must all be made to match has gone by.

There is room for every variety of individual taste in making and adorning a screen, a pretty one for a library where there is an open fire is a sheet of jeweled glass in a setting of wood to match the furniture or wood work of the room, it protects from the heat without hiding the cheery blaze.

Amber beads of large size make an effective finish for plush satin sofa cushions.

Rooms entirely finished and furnished in Arabian style are fashionable.

Merely pretty things that please for the moment, but exert no lasting influence, are to be condemned in decoration as in other things.

In the majority of houses the hall is generally a narrow passage connecting the rooms, and only large enough to contain the stair case, but within the past few years there has been a tendency to bring this portion of the house into greater prominence; with a little thought and careful planning it may be converted into a most desirable sitting-room, the stairs may be wholly or partly screened, a treatment giving opportunities for a picturesque effect; give it a tiled or polished floor, with large skins or rugs thrown down, and from the point of beauty and cheerfulness a plea must be entered for the open fire place; we all love to gather around a cheerful glowing fire on the hearth of a cosy home, and exchange pleasant thoughts or dream away twilight hours in the flickering light.

Banner screens fastened to the mantelshelf are best arranged upon rings attached to a cross bar.

Frames of unpolished oak or chestnut without markings are the best for small sketches or etchings.

The Kensington art carpets are likely to continue in demand, owing to their artistic patterns, for which a few tints, often two shades, of the same color suffice.

A Western Volcano.

A volcano has broken forth in the mountains 60 miles southwest of Bishop creek. A party of frightened sheep herders rode into Candelaria a few days ago covered with dust and ashes, and with numerous holes burnt in their clothing. They reported that on one day they were startled by an unusual rumbling noise and trembling of the ground. At first they mistook the noise and rumble for thunder, but it was quickly followed by a tremendous explosion, and on looking up they were appalled at seeing a mountain not far away belching forth a column of flames and smoke several hundred feet in height. The air was soon filled with fiery cinders and hot ashes, which came down upon them in clouds. The affrighted men immediately drove their sheep to a place of safety, and rode to the nearest settlement with the startling news. Several exploring parties have gone to the scene of the eruption. A bright pink glow noticed in the horizon at Virginia city for several nights is believed to have been caused by the eruption.

In speaking of the Junior Class in the University this year the professor said: "The Junior Class will embrace seventeen young ladies." "It will?" exclaimed the young man addressed. "Great Scott! then I shall join the Junior Class."

PERSONAL.

It is said that Beaconsfield had Sir Charles Dilke in his eye when he drew the character of Waldershare in Endymion.

A Canadian poet, M. Frechette, who is also the author of a play which was produced not long ago in New York, has been decorated with the ribbon of the French Legion of Honor.

Dr. Brouardel, a distinguished French physician, thinks that the epidemic at Marseilles is Asiatic cholera. It began in the houses infected last year, and was caused by local uncleanliness.

In spite of his great age, Mr. George Bancroft still rides horseback gracefully. His horse is jet black, and when the venerable historian is on it the two are the observed of all observers.

Lord Tennyson has sent the following dispatch over his own name, to the people of the United States: "I am deputed to ask whether America will organize a subscription for our national Gordon Home for Poor Boys."

An announcement was made not long ago that Mr. Gladstone intended to visit this country in the Autumn. But there appears to be no truth in the report. Similiar announcements are made in reference to many distinguished persons of Europe every summer, nearly always without good reason.

In the wedding presents of Mlle. De Bravura, a young lady connected with the princely Russian house of Suwaroff, who married the Hon. L Stanhope recently, was a quaint little model of a Russian house in gold, with a door of emeralds and diamonds, which, when it is opened, discloses a portrait.

The mother of Mr. Bartley Campbell, an American dramatist who has battled many years for success, and who has finally won it, died several days ago at the age of eighty-three. She died, oddly enough, during the first week of her son's career as a New York manager—a career that Mr. Campbell had looked forward to a long time.

At Mr. Cyrus W. Field's dinner at the Star and Garter, Richmond, there were present, among two hundred and fifty guests, representatives of all the the great English railway and telegraph companies, and representatives of all the leading classes and financial corporations of Great Britain. The editors of many newspapers and magazines were also in the list of guests.

Mr. Labouchere says that Prince Edward Albert Victor, the eldest son of the Prince of Wales, has a countenance in which his father's and mother's facial peculiarities are strangely mingled. The Prince of Wales, the Duke of Edinburgh, and the young Prince Edward Albert all resemble their burly ancestor, Henry VIII. But Prince George, the Prince of Wales's second son, has not a trace of the Guelph or York or Lancaster in his face.

"HEEDLESS OF THE DEAD."

The Traffic in Human Bones.

I remember how disgusted we all were when among the vast supplies of bones brought to certain mills from Russian slaughter houses, it was reported that human bones collected from Crimean battle-fields were freely mixed with those of cattle, and were all ground up together to enrich British soil!

Still more hideous was the recent digging up of that vast human quarry which lay at the back of our national gallery; those horrible pits wherein all the dead of London, victims of the Great Plague, were cast wholesale; thence, after only two centuries, (and while many of the bones yet retained some semblance of human form), to be dug up and spread over Kensington Gardens as a pleasant fertilizing agent to enrich roses and lilies! Thus speedly do all things find their uses.

Doubtless the fields around Paris will for many a year be all the greener by reason of the blood of her murdered sons, poured out like water upon every side. Within three short weeks of those dread days the decree was issued that all those ghastly cemeteries, where hundreds of corpses had been piled in "gruesome" heaps, should be covered with fresh soil, and sown with quick-growing grasses, mustard, and tall sunflowers; such crops as might yield both forage and fuel. It may be that joyous children, toddling knee-deep 'mid those rich grasses, may deem it no rare thing to find a whitening skull upturned by the plough, may even carry it home as some choice play thing.

But it is strange indeed to find a nation such as Egypt was once—the greatest and most civilized of all people—now so literally proving herself (as Ezekiel foretold she would become) "the basest of the nations;" that, not content with converting the bones of thousands and tens of thousands of her ancestors into charcoal, to be used in refining sugar for their degenerate descendants and their foreign taskmasters, she must needs actually make merchandise of her dead These precious mummies, which in the days of her glory were accounted worthy of such exceeding honour that they were considered the very best security on which to lend money (inasmuch as the Egyptian who had been driven to pawn his deceased father or mother would sooner die than fail to redeem his pledge), now in the hour of Egypt's degradation are valued at so much per ton, and sold to strangers and aliens as a suitable manure for foreign soil!

As you journey towards Memphis you might very recently have chanced to meet long strings of camels heavily laden with human bone dust from the tombs. Here, too, from these old Alexandrian catacombs to the merchant vessels in the harbour, barges laden with brown dust ply to and fro; their cargo is carried on board in baskets, and thrown into the hold, and the vessels deliver their choice goods in British ports at £6, 10s. per ton, to be mixed with the guano of Peru, and sold at a considerable profit. Several eye-witnesses have told us how they visited the ancient sepulchres while this work was going on, and saw pieces of human bone, small earthenware lamps, and tear-glasses among the dishonored dust of these myriad Egyptians who were to be carried over the seas to fertilize English fields. We turned away from Alexandrian catacombs marvelling how many generations may elapse before the coming race deals thus with England's dead.

The death of an aged man was caused by the shock of discovering that he was only 90 years old, instead of being the centenarian that he had supposed.

The Standard.

MARKDALE SEPT. 10, 1885.

CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES.

A very important question—viz.—Commercial Union between Canada and the United States, is being generally discussed by the press of Canada. The total absence of any such union, and the present existing high tariff of duties both on Canadian goods going into the U. S. and those of the latter coming to Canada, is a cause, on the part of the consumer on both sides of the line, to look with favor on any means that can be introduced which would overcome this scarious obstruction. The object of a commercial union would be to wipe out the existing duties, except for the purpose of revenue. A certain class will doubtless object to any measure that would point towards political union with the United States, no matter how great the advantages of such a measure would be to our Dominion. There are however, those who would even on that very ground, support a commercial union, and that number is, we believe, much greater than is generally supposed, and increasing year by year. There is no valid reason, under present circumstances, why a measure of union for commercial purposes should be a stepping stone towards annexation. If our relations could be so improved, securing all the commercial benifits that annexation could bring, and at the same time retaining all the advantages of British connection, we believe the scheme would have very little opposition. To say the least, our commercial relations are in a most unsatisfactory state to the consumer, and any improvement would be hailed with satisfaction.

MARKDADE AT THE INDUSTRIAL.

Thirteen horses are entered to complete at the Toronto industrial Exhibition from this place, and we have no doubt, will give a creditable record next week. Mr. J. R. Trimble shipped a car load last week to the Provincial Exhibition at London, and will exhibit also at Toronto next. This was perhaps as fine a car of horse flesh as could be produced by any place of the size in the Dominion. Besides those, there are entered for the Industrial; Angus Plewes' Ponnies, Joseph McLeod's Ponnies, Rev. A. Wilson's Ponnies, and E. Large's single driver, so that we may reasonably expect to have a goodly number of prizes to chronicl for Markdale.

Flesherton.

From our own corresondent.

The Gosple Army Jubilee which was held on the evening of the 2nd inst., in the drill shed here under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church (with the exception of the great faith of the Rev. Mr. Ayers) far surpassed the most sauguine expectation and was of a truth the greatest religious demonstration ever held in this part of the country, and although the ladies had provided provision in abundance and made preparations for seating several hundred people at once, the crush for tea was so great, they were taxed to their utmost to serve all in good time, however that part of the bill was well and satisfactorily filed, the proceeds of which amounted to $115.

When 8 o'clock the hour for the grand march had arrived the Brass Band left the drill shed and followed by several hundered people marched through the principal streets playing and singing gosple hymns, when they returned to the shed it took some time for the monster gathering to get seated, and although every possible accommodation had been made hundreds had to stand in the isles and passages, the building was packed to its utmost capacity there being about 800 people present. At one end of the building a platform was made on which was erected elevated seats, which were occupied by the Ministers, Army, Brass Band and Choir, the meeting was opened by singing the Coronation hymn led by Band "All hail the power of Jesus Name" after which Rev. Mr. Grandy led in prayer, Dr. Christoe was then called to the chair, an Anthum was sang by the Choir and several choice Selections were rendered by the Band also brief eloquent and pithy addresses were delivered by the Reverend's Casson, Grandy and Strongman after which Major Sutherland was placed in charge of the meeting and the regular Salvation Services were hartily entered into when a large number of brief religious testimonies were given. An abundance of provisions being left a social was held in the same place on Friday evening when about 150 gathered together and spent a very enjoyable evening, speeches were delivered 1st by Rev. Mr. Ayres who dwelt upon the Ladies and their kindness, and labor on the present occasion, 2nd by Mr. Richardson who dwelt upon Mr. Ayres and his labors, 3rd by Mr. Fawcett editor of the Advance with his usual brevity and eloquence thanked the chairman for the honor conferred upon him, also said he had enjoyed himself and hoped to have many more jolly good times in the near future. The editor promises well with a little more practice to shine as a platform man. No doubt his bumb for eloquence is growing. 4th. by Dr. Christoe, who after commenting upon the narrow grove in which the former speakers ideas ran proceeded among other things to deliver a discourse upon the heart, lungs, kidneys, liver, blood, or the apparent satisfaction of all. The band enlivened the proceedings by several selections during the evening. Proceeds about $15.

W. F. Doll, who is just recovering from his last severe illness, is at present spending a few days in this village.

Altho. prices were low, a brisk business was done in cattle at the fair on Monday last.

Mr. Geo. Stewart, president of the cheese association, has again proved himself worthy of the position, having just closed the sale of a large lot of cheese at an extra good price, considering the state of the market.

W. H. Elder is having his residence made more comfortable and beautified by brick, clad with an ornamental porch built in front.

Berkeley.

From a correspondent.

Business dull in our town at present.

Gloomy harvest weather, the wheat crops is almost a complete failure in this locality.

The bears has been making mutton scarce. I think lambs will rise in value if bruin keeps on a while.

The boys of our town are looking forward with smiling face as there is a few very stylish weddings coming off soon, no doubt we will all get a bid, why not?

Mr. J. Fanning returned home last Sunday morning from Manitoba; he is looking well and in the best of health.

We had a call from the Rev. Mr. Avison from Manitoba; he started back on the long trip to-day. We wish him a safe voyage.

The notorious disturber of Williamsford got a bad belting last week from a strong muscle young man who was well used to hammering. The man with the sore head took his departure next morning for a more peaceful land.

Mr. G. Dunbar lost a fine cow last week. She was tied down to prevent jumping and made her way in the woods, got strangled and broke her neck.

The remains of our friend Samuel Watson was laid in the Berkeley church yard last Tuesday. Leaves a loving wife and three small children. The deceased was ailing for the last three years from rheumatics and dropsy Mrs. Watson has the sympathy of the community at large.

BERKELEY BOY.

The above came just too late for last week—Ed. S.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day, European plan, Elevator, Resturant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

Glascott Crumbs.

From our own Correspondent.

Harvest is about over in this vicinity; root crops are looking well.

The east side of the lake or "English's Landing" is becoming a great place of resort for pleasure seekers, the first this season was a party from Markdale, who camped and had a good time fishing, hunting, &c., Next came a party from Owen Sound, Ladies and Gents, twelve in all; among the former was a Miss Miller from Toronto. They had a good time boating, fishing and hunting. Now there has another party came, fourteen in all, armed with boats, guns, revolvers, tents, dogs &c.; they are all boys and hail from Durham; among them is Townsend of the Grey Review. They intend staying some time. Sunday with them is just as good as any other day, and—as the Yankee says—a darned sight better. All the wild animals have left and gone south, doubtless imagining a Rebellion had broken out, as four hours steady firing is a common thing. The boys would be all O. K. if they had Riel for a mark—excuse us—for a General.

THERE IS NO EXCUSE.

There is no excuse for the many pale, sallow, weary looking females throughout our land, when Burdock Blood Bitters will regulate their troubles and renew their health, strength and vigor at so small a cost.

Fire At Rocklyn.

At about 3 o'clock last Monday morning fire was discovered issuing from the general store of S. W. Reynolds. The building and all the contents were quickly consumed. The flames cought to the roof of the Euphrasia township hall adjoining, and nothing but the stone walls was left standing. Mr. Reynolds, who was the only occupant of the building, had a very narrow escape. It was with the greatest difficulty that McConnell's hotel was saved, and had it not been for the fact that the night was very calm this building and W. A. Dodson's block opposite would undoubtedly have been consumed. The cause of the fire is unknown, but strong auspicion of incendiarism are entertained. The loss is fully covered by insurance in the Royal Mercantile, and another company.

SHILOH'S CURE will immediately relieve Croup Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. Sold by A. Turner & Co.x

CHOLERA PREVENTATIVE.

In order to withstand Cholera and such like epidemics a perfect purity of blood, and the proper action of the stomach are required. To insure that end, in the cheapest, most available and complete manner, use McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, and Impure Blood. There is no purer, safer or more reliable remedy in existence for indigestion, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, etc. Ask your neighbor or any person who has used it. Sold by Hill Bro's. Trial bottle given free. 1

Osprey Council.

This council met in Singhampton on the 20th inst.; members all present.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From council of Collingwood re burning of school house in union section. J. Rutherford account $25. 25 for printing Voters' List, Collectors Rolls, &c. J. Hannon, account $8, for culvert on 60th sideroad with voucher from A. McIntyre as to nonpayment of same. Estimates and requisitions for levy of School moneys from sections 2, 3, 4, 8, 9 and 10, Co. Treasurer arrears on lands occupied. Co. minutes of June session.

MOTIONS.

Johnson, Potts, That the account of J. Rutherford, $25.25, be paid and the Reeve issue an order for the amount.

Johnson, Hudson. That the Clerk is hereby instructed to procure a copy of the school act 1885.

Potts, Johnson, That J. Hannon receive $3 for building culvert on 60th sideroad south of south line in the year 1882, and that the Reeve issue an order for the amount.

Hudson, Johnson, That the sureties of N. A. McLean, collectors of rates, W. Scutt, D. McKinnon and of J. Elliott collector, G. Davidson and G. Hale be and are hereby approved and accepted by this council and that the bonds be executed before the clerk of this council.

Taylor, Potts, That the Clerk notify the council of Collingwood Tp., that this council agrees to bear its share of expenses (according to its assessment in the union) of an investigation into the burning of the school house in union school section of Collingwood, Osprey and Nottawasaga.

Taylor, Potts, That the Clerk enter on the assesment rolls all lands which he finds omitted.

Johnston, Potts, That this be instruction to the Clerk to ask the Co. Treasurer to erase from his book the taxes charged against lot 41, con. 2, N. D. R., for 1884.

By law 234, to assess and levy rates for County, Townships and school purposes, and 235 to appoint collectors were passed.

The assessment is $644095, and the rate of County, Township and school equivalent is 8 mills.

Council adjourned to meet at Feversham on the first Monday in December next.

W. MILNE,

SPRING AND SUMMER.

Prepare the body for health and vigor by taking Dr. Chase's Liver Cure. No Spring Medicine equals it. It stimulates the Liver aids digestion, and purifies the blood. Large bottle and Recipe Book, $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Sept.

Large Ears.

"Oh say, ma!" exclaimed a bright little girl at the Markdale House, while at dinner the other day, "hasn't that man over there got awful big ears?"

"Hush, child, the gentleman might hear you," cautioned the mother.

"Well, ma," returned the precocious youngster, "if he cculdn't hear me with those ears he ought to haul them down."

A FRUITFUL SEASON.

The fruitful season of the year is prolific with many forms of Bowel Complaints, such as Diarrhœa Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, &c., as a safe-guard and positive cure for those distressing and often sudden and dangerous attacks nothing can surpass that old and reliable medicine Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Business is Business.

Young Bilkins was utterly devoted to business, but somehow found time to fall in love and ask the girl to marry him. The time was set and he called on the old gentleman to get his consent. He had a long talk and that evening came up to see the girl.

"Well," she said, in considerable anxiety, "what did pa say?"

"He said that wheat was going up and there was a fine chance for a man to make a handsome little dot."

"Pshaw! Didn't he say anything else?"

"Oh, yes, we talked about a dozen ventures that might be made, with an excellent chance of coming out ahead every time."

"Bother the business! What did he say when you asked him if you could have me?"

"Wha—Wha—what?" he stammered.

"Why, what did he say about me?"

"By George, Mary, I forgot all about it. I'll go the first thing in the morning and see him about it."

A DANGEROUS CONDITION.

One of the most dangerous conditions is a neglected Kidney complaint. When you suffer from weary aching back, weakness and other urinary troubles, apply to the back a Burdock Porous Plaster, and take Burkock Blood Bitters, the best system regulator known for the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels.

TO THE RESCUE.

"When all other remedies fail" for Bowel complaint, Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, etc., "then Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry comes to the rescue." Thus writes W. H. Crocker, druggist, Waterdown, and adds that "its sales are large and increasing."

HORSEMEN, ATTENTION!

When your horse is galled, scratched or cut, or has an ugly sore, bathe twice daily, and apply McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It is undoubtedly the finest healing and cleansing application for it. Be sure you get McGregor & Parke's. Sold for 25c. per box, at Hill Bro's. 1

Notices of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, twenty five cents.

BIRTHS.

LONDRY.—In Markdale on the 2nd inst., the wife Mr. Wm. Londry of twins boy and girl.

BULLEDGE.—On the 7th inst, the wife of W. H. Bulledge, butcher, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

FREEMAN CONBAN.—On Wednesday, Sept. 9th, at the residence of the bride's uncle, Geo. S. Bowes, Esq., Markdale, by the Rev. W. Casson—Lillie Cobban, eldest daughter of the late Mathew White Cobban, M.D., to Chas. M. Freeman, M. D., of Muskegon, Mich.

DEATHS.

HAMILTON.—In Markdale, on the 6th inst., Queenie May, infant daughter of Mr. H. Hamilton.

STRAYED.

ABOUT July 1st. 1885, from the premises of the subscriber, lot 17, con. 5, Tp. of Glenelg. Three yearlings, one heifer red, two steers, one spotted and the other a brindle color. Parties giving directions as to their whereabouts will be suitably rewarded,

JOHN McVICAR,
261-63 Pomona, P. O.

Dissolution of Partnership

THE partnership heretofore existing between Henry Sparling & J. P. Sparling has this day been dissolved by mutual consent. J. P. Sparling pays all debts and collects all accounts.

Witness—William Hamilton.

HENRY SPARLING,
J. P. SPARLING.

September 7th, 1885.

STRAYED.

TO the premises of the subscriber, Lot North half of 22, and 23, con. 13 Artemesia, about the 15th August, a Ewe and two lambs. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take them.

DAVID GRAHAM,
261-64 Vandeleur, P. O.

J. J. DALTON.

DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Chatsworth Ont.

FOR SALE.

A GOOD horse for sale, or exchange for cattle. For particulars apply to

W. & J. ANDERSON,
260-63 Orange Valley.

TENDERS.

SEALED tenders will be received up to noon the 30th day of September for the purchase of the old Methodist church, same to be removed from church grounds on the completion of new church. Apply to

G. S. BOWES,
260-63 Markdale, P. O.

Store to Rent in Markdale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent. Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 19, Con. 12, Glenelg, containing 100 acres, 30 cleared, fenced and under cultivation, balance chiefly hardwood timber; 4½ miles from Markdale; saw mill convenient also school. The farm is well watered and suitable for either a dairy or grain farm. Will be sold cheap and on easy terms. For further particulars apply on the premises to

JOHN GALLAGHER,
247-60 Markdale P. O.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Godrich.

A SURE THING.

A SURE CURE FOR SUMMER COMPLAINTS.—Procure from your druggist one 37½-cent bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and use according to directions. It is infallible for Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus, Canker of the Stomach and Bowels, and Cholera Infantum.

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared, well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 16 x 24 ft. well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, sheep stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING,
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT North half of 2, con. 7, Euphrasia, containing 100 acres more or less, about 80 acres cleared, balance hard wood; frame barn and hewed log house; Well watered with running spring water; fairly fenced; soil, clay loam; well adapted for stock or grain. Situated 5 miles from Markdale, an important station on the C. P. R. For further particulars apply to

D. C. CRAWFORD,
259-60 Alton P. O., Ont.

LOOK! Look! Look!

James C. Russell's

NOTED JEWELLERY STORE,

FLESHERTON,

Is the place to buy

Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.

A large assortment just to hand.

A 1 Solid Silver Watches, Full Jewelled, from $8.50 up to $26, worth from $10.50 to $32.00, warranted from two to five years.

It will pay you to come twenty miles to have your Watch or Clock repaired by Russell.

☞ Satisfaction guaranteed every time.

217-269 JAS. G. RUSSELL.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. R.

OWEN SOUND BRANCH.

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect Monday, August 3rd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 45pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Caledon	9 25 "	6 45 "
Orange- ville. Arrive	9 50 "	7 03 "
Orange- ville. Leave	10 05 "	7 22 "
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	7 34 "
Shelburne	10 45 "	8 04 "
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 30 "
Flesherton	11 36 "	8 55 "
Markdale	11 51 "	9 10 "
Williamsford	12 12pm	9 32 "
Chatsworth	12 28 "	9 49 "
Owen Sound	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 35pm
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 10 "
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 30 "
Markdale	6 27 "	3 52 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 06 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 31 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 57 "
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "	5 23 "
Orange- ville. Arrive	8 12 "	5 35 "
Orange- ville. Leave	8 35 "	5 55 "
Caledon	8 55 "	6 18 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Toronto....Arrive	10 45 "	8 20 "

Special Steamship Express leaves Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays for Toronto and Points East, on arrival C. P. R. Steamship from Port Arthur and Points in Manitoba and North West.

Lumber and Shingles.

THE undersigned has constantly on hand all kinds of lumber and first-class cedar shingles for sale. Mill 3½ miles North of Markdale, 11th line Euphrasia.

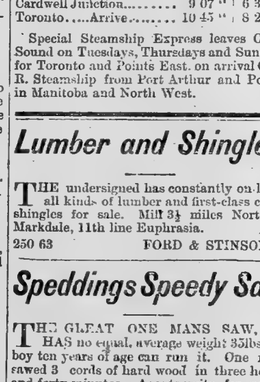
250 63 FORD & STINSON.

Speddings Speedy Saw

THE GREAT ONE MANS SAW, IT HAS no equal, average weight 35lbs., a boy ten years of age can run it. One man sawed 3 cords of hard wood in three hours and forty minutes. Agents write for particulars and secure territory at once. Address

SPEEDY SAW WORKS,
Byng P.O., Ont.
June 30th, '85. 152-65

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.



WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

For Sale by Walker Bros,

MARKDALE.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY—A positive cure for Catarrh, Diptheria, and Canker Mouth. Sold by A. Turner & Co.

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

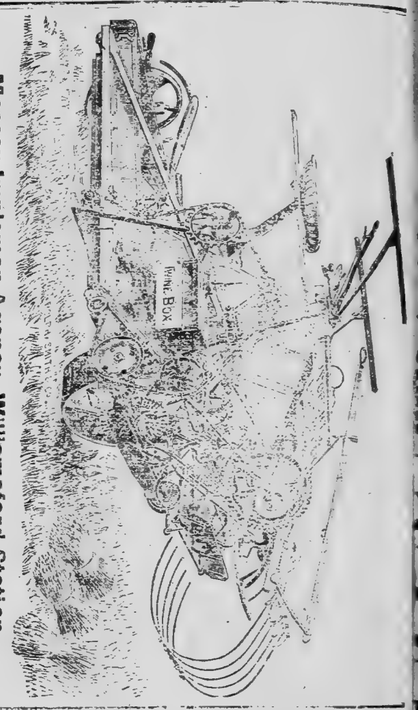
—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kep in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

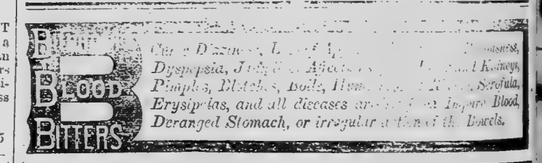


These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities, but it further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER &Co., - - Chemists and Druggists,

MARKDALE, ONT,

The only place in town where they can be obtained.



☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

Massey Implemen Agency, Williamsford Station.

Toronto Binder, six-foot cut; Toronto Light Binder, five-foot cut; Massey Harvester; Massey Harvester; Massey Mower; Toronto Mower; Toronto Mower, 1 horse; Sharpe's Rake. A full stock of repairs for above machines always in stock. Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Also agent for Watson's Patent Churn.

Thos. Willscroft, Williamsford Station.

Cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Affections of the Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

YOU CAN SUBSCRIBE

For any of The

FOLLOWING PAPERS

AT THIS OFFICE:

Daily or Weekly Mail,	Toronto.
Daily or Weekly Globe,	Toronto.
Daily or Weekly News,	Toronto.
Daily World	Toronto.
Family Herald and Weekly Star,	Montreal
American Agriculturist,	Monthly
Farmers' Advocate,	Monthly.

☞ Subscription can commence at any time.

STANDARD OFFICE,
MARKDALE.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

THE CELEBRATED Dr. CHASE'S MANDRAKE & DANDELION CURE

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a deranged liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with many other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood.

500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Books were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Recipe Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful recipes pronounced by medical men and druggists as invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25 cts. per box.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS

T. SOMERVILLE & CO., Sole Agents, Brantford.

Fall Shows 1885.

Industrial, Toronto, Sept. 7th to 19th.

Glenelg, Markdale, Oct. 1st and 2nd.

East Grey, Flesherton, Sept. 29th and 30th.

South Grey, Durham, Sept. 29th and 30th.

North Grey.—Owen Sound, Oct. 1st and 2nd.

Euphrasia, Rocklyn, Oct. 9th.

Osprey, Maxwell, Oct. 8th.

Hollland, Chatsworth, Oct. 6th.

Proton, Dundalk, Oct. 5th & 6th.

Holland Centre.—Holland Centre, Oct. 5th.

Artemesia.—Priceville, Oct. 6th.

Cheapest First-class Music in the United States.

Look at this list of some of the most popular music published. Printed on the best heavy music paper, good clear print; full sheet music size, and the same as generally retailed all over the United States at thirty to seventy-five cents per copy. Our price is FIVE CENTS per copy, or by mail one cent added for postage. We give the retail price but remember our price is but FIVE cents. We will send catalogue of 1,000 best selling pieces published, free. Don't pay high exorbitant prices when you can get the same music at about one eighth the price; see the following:

Alice, Where art Thou?	Ascher 35c
Angles Ever Bright and Fair	Handel 35c
Answers	Dimmenthal 35c
Blue Alsatian Mountains	Adams 35c
Bridge	Carew 35c
Ring	Lindsay 35c
Clang of the Wooden Shoe	Hutchinson 35c
Dream Faces	Hutchinson 35c
Esmeralda	Levy 35c

INSTRUMENTAL.

Chop Sticks, waltz	De Lulu 25c
Black Hawk, waltz	Walsh 50c
Corn Flower, waltz	Cooke 50c
Queen's Lace Handkerchief	Strauss 40c
Bouquet, galop	Richards 40c
Home, Sweet Home	Slack 50c
Shepherd Boy	Wilson 40p
Warblings at Eve	Richards 40c

And 1,000 other songs and instrumental pieces equally as good as the above only six cents per copy, post free. Send for a copy of our Musical Journal, $1.25 per year, sample copy twelve cents.

In sending orders always send cash, post-office order, or postal note, as we get so many stamps we cannot use them, also in all cases mention the paper you saw our advertisement in, so we may do justice to those papers that furnish us business. Address

J. H. THOMAS, PUBLISHER,
250 62 Albany, N. Y.

The Markdale Standard
...sued every Thursday, at the office, Mill ...street, Markdale.
...per year in advance; $1.50 if ...three months.
... and business cards one inch ...
...vertisements 8 cents per line first ...ertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent ...ertion. nonpareil measure.
...itorial notices, or notices in local col... 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents ... subsequents insertion.
...y animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for the advertisement not to exceed twelve ...
...o paper discontinued until all arrears paid except at the aption of the publisher.

—JOB PRINTING.—
...he STANDARD office has a splendid equip... of poster as well as fine job type. Spe... attention to orders by mail. Orders ...d with dispatch.

...W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 262. MARKDALE, ONT., SEPT. 17, 1885. {COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH.}

Legal.

...ANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),
...ARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, No...taries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to ...at lowest rates of interest.
Offices 16 King Street East, TORONTO.
...51

MASSON & MASSON,
...ARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.
A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.
...—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block ...St. Branch-office in Markdale, over ...'s Store, on Friday and Saturday 57-ly
...MASSON. W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown.
...ER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and ...Insurance Agent. Commissioner ...B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed ...neer for the County of Grey. Farmers, ...and Land Sales, Punctually at... and charges made very moderate. ...Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown.
...ER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c ...missioner in B. R. &c. ...veyancing in all its branches promptly ...ed to and carefully executed.
...—Money to Lend on Real Estate se

...MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
...UATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL ...of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale ...Markdale, on the 1st and third Wed... of each month and also at Munshaw's ...Flesherton, the day following the ...Wednesday in each month for the prac... his profession. 122-47

SAMUEL WARDELL,
...LL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL ...orders promptly attended to. Resi... ...'s Hill Owen Sound 122-35

...A. HILL,
...shionable Tailor,
...OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
...RFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

...C. RICHARDS,
...LDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHI... ...Markdale. 124ly

ISAAC STINSON.
...der and Contractor
...als of Brick and Stone work.
...es given.
...guaranteed.
...by mail promptly attended to.
MARKDALE P. O.

...G. GUTHERIE,
...in & Ornamental Plaster
Opposite the new
...byterian Church Markdale.
...Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all ...plain and ornamental plastering ex... cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime ...and Repairs promptly attended to.

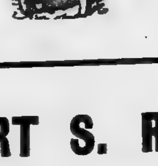
...EPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.
...Contracts taken for all kinds of
...K AND STONE WORK,
... Ornamental Plastering.
...ning in all Shades and Colors.
...es moderate and satisfaction guar... Orders left at the STANDARD office ...ve prompt attention. 126-ly.

...NSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
... Bryan, Proprietor.

...RKDALE HOUSE,
...ARKDALE. - - - ONT.
...n, - Prop.

...CIAL HOTEL.
...LLE, Ont.
...Sample Rooms ... The Bar and larder ...best the market at ...attentive Hostler's ...INSON, Proprietor

...HOTEL.
... - - Ont.
... - Prop.
...receiving every ...Eatables, Drink... 244-57



MARKDALE
Roller Mill
Bran $9 a ton
J. W. FORD.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.
The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of School Furniture,
Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW McGILL.

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
Thos. MATTHEWS, Proprietor
Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills
Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.
GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND
Chopping Done Every Day.
Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.
LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.
Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

J. ... ...,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied
Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.
—THIS NEW—
Patent Process Flouring Mill
Is now completed at great expense, on the
Most APPROVED
plans, and with the best machinery manufactured, making it, in every sense of the term, "A Model Mill."
I am therefore in a position to give the public a Superior Article of Flour.
A fair trial respectfully solicited and I have no fear but the result will be eminently satisfactory.
Cash paid for good hard Wheat.
☞ Flour, Bran, Shorts, etc, etc, for sale wholesale & retail.
219 ANGUS PLEWES.

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.
A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.
—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.
We, the undersigned, would respectfully intimate to our customers and friends that we are still here and prepared to attend to all who may favor us with a call in anything we can do in our line with the best possible satisfaction. Also we will get yarn for those who allow us to do their weaving. ☞ All kinds of merchantable farm produce taken in exchange for work at market prices.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble
☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

NEW GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.
Having just received a
Choicee, Fresh and Select
STOCK OF
Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c.
Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.
I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.
198 J. PLEWES.

I AGREE TO DUPLICATE ANY MAKE OR GRADE OF WATCH IN 3, 4, or 5 Oz. CASE
—AT AS—
Close Figures
—AND—
HONEST kept WARRANTS
As any city firm, Grange Agent, or Jew pedlar that tries to deal in this section Grey Co.
W. A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

MR. G. S. BOWES is visiting friends in Milton.

THE Thornbury Standard is twelve years old.

BEARS are plentiful around Egerton, Melancthon.

FOR pine and maple flooring go to G. Grant & Co.

Nobby Ulsterings and Dress Goods at McFarland's.

TROUT fishing season was out last Tuesday, the 15th.

A CASE of smallpox has been discovered in Port Hope.

GARDEN vegetable thieves are numerous around Thornbury.

MR. W. K. FLESHER, of Flesherton, has returned to England.

FAT cattle and sheep for sale. Apply to Mrs. Might, Glenelg. 261-63

MR. S. J. COLEMAN leaves this week to visit friends in Leeds Co.

ABOUT 75 left Markdale on Monday last for the Toronto Industrial.

FOR Bedsteads, Mattrasses, and Spring Beds, go to Grant & Co.

WE are having some fine weather now—just what the farmers want.

NEW VELVETEENS just to hand at Hill Bro's—all colors, selling very cheap.

See McFarland's all Wool Flannels, Black Cashmeres and Tailor Made Ulsters.

IT is estimated that 40,000 person were on the Exhibition Grounds Monday last.

McFarland has the cheapest Laces, Silk Plush and Velveteens north of Toronto.

THE next sitting of the Division Court will be held in Flesherton the 23rd October.

LADIES' DRESS GOODS in all shades and all styles, great value at J. R. Trimble's.

A NEW roller skating rink is being built in Owen Sound, and will be completed next month.

FOR the best value in Tweeds go to Hill Bro's, nothing in Town to compare with them.

WORMS cause much sickness among children that Freeman's Worm Powders will surely cure.

MISS PETCH, of Georgetown, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. H. Rutledge, of this village.

GENTS' Underclothing in good variety and wonderful cheap for spot cash, at J. R. Trimble's.

MRS. DR. SPROULE returned from Owen Sound last week where she had been spending a few days.

A roller skating rink, in a convenient part of this village should pay well. Who will erect one?

IN what respect does a drunkard fulfil the teaching of the New Testament? He loves his enemy.

MRS. DR. WASHINGTON and her father-in-law have been visiting friends in Markdale the past few days.

JUST arrived at J. R. Trimble's large lines of Boots & Shoes from the best makers, cheap for spot cash.

PROF. LOW'S SULPHUR SOAP is a cheap and handy form of obtaining the healing virtues of a sulphur bath.

WE have received copies of Euphrasia Ag. Soc'y prize list for 1885. Thanks to the Sec'y, Mr. Wilson.

Miss Brennan of the city of London, Ont., is expected to take charge of McFarland's Millinery this season.

A MEETING of the directors of Centre Grey Farmers' Institute will be held in Markdale on the 23rd September.

TRAMP printers on the turf again; no less than two called to see us Tuesday and Wednesday last.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

LOOK HERE.—First class cooking stoves No. 9, trimmed and complete for $16.50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale.

CROUP, WHOOPING COUGH and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

IF your child is stubborn or hard to administer medicine to, Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup will be appreciated.

SHILOH'S COUGH and Consumption Cure is Sold by A. Turner & Co. on a guarantee. It cures consumption. z

HUGH MERCER left here for Williamsford on Wednesday last to take stock in the store lately carried on by Henry Foster.

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

THAT HACKING COUGH can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

THE date of meeting of Centre Grey Farmers' Institute Directors is changed from 22nd to 23rd Sept., same time and place.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

A GREAT number left this station on Monday for the Toronto Industrial; ye editor and his better half among the number.

WILL YOU SUFFER with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

THERE is a fall of 344 feet at Eugenia Falls in a distance of 183 rods, the main fall being 79 feet perpendicular.

HASKETT BRO'S are having their new hall painted by Mr. Mabee. When finished it will present a very creditable appearance.

EVERY man, woman and child should call at J. R. Trimble's and get some of the wonderful bargains he is offering to cash purchasers.

OUR village is nearly deserted, so many are away to the Exhibition in Toronto. No doubt some of the boys will return with "sore heads."

School Books.—A complete assortment of new Readers and other School Books just received at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

THE Editor has gone to the Exhibition and has let the care of the paper go to the "devil." But he is clever and can turn out a good paper.

PARK lot in Markdale for sale Beautiful location, will be sold on reasonable terms. Apply to R. Freeborn, Williamsford, or enquire at this office. 125-tf

MR. MADILL, of Corbetton and Riverview, exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Wilson of this place last Sabbath. The latter dispensed sacrement at Corbetton that day.

23 car load of old iron rails of the T. G. & B. narrow guage has been lifted and shipped to Manitoba to make sidings on the Manitoba and South-Western branch of the C. P. R.

CATARRH CURED, health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

MR. ARCH. HILL, of Stayner, is visiting his brother, Andrew Hill, tailor, of this place. He will likely be permanently situated here, as his brother is talking seriously of leaving this part.

THE season is fast approaching when farmers and others are looknig for Fall and Winter Clothing. J. R. Trimble has the largest, best and cheapest lot of clothing ever offered in Markdale.

THE Dundalk Herald has entered upon its fifth year. It has made steady progress in the past, and bids fair for valuable service to Dundalk and vicinity in the future. We wish it every success.

THE Secretary (Mr. T. J. Crawford) of the Great Northern Exhibition in Collingwood, will please accept thanks for invitation and complimentary ticket to the fall exhibition to be held from 29th Sept. to 2nd Oct.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER is what you need for Consumption, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

THE trial of Big Bear was concluded on Saturday last. He was found guilty of treason by the Jury, with a strong recommendation to mercy. Judge Richardson sentenced him to three years in the penitentiary.

No $4.00 and $5.00 shoddy and Cotton Suits hanging around Hill Bro's, doors. They don't keep such worthless trash. But if you want a genuine all Wool Tweed Suit there's where you can get it at the right price.

DON'T miss the C. O. O. F. concert in Haskett's Hall next Monday evening

RIEL'S council has appealed to the Privy Council against the legality of his trial, and the execution is adjourned.

MR. J. P. MARSHALL, L. D. S., of Shelburne, fell from the loft of a stable on to a manger while attending to his horse one dark night last week and broke several of his ribs. He is recovering nicely, being able to fill his appointment here yesterday (Wednesday.)

OUR BRASS BAND played on the streets last Saturday, and discoursed some very fine pieces. Quite a number were in from the country for the express purpose of listening to the music of the band, and showed their appreciation by an occasional clapping of hands.

VOLUNTEERS IN CAMP.—No. 6 Company of the 31st Battalion left Flesherton for Niagara camp grounds on Tuesday morning last where they will drill for two weeks. Mr. R. O. Whitby, clothed in his uniform, left here on Monday evening to join No. 6 at Flesherton.

A NEW kind of coal oil lamp has been introduced in the Owen Sound Methodist church, six of which gives as good (if not better) light as 32 of the ordinary lamps which had done service in that church. The new Methodist Church in Markdale is to be lit with the new kind of lamp.

John McNassar, Bondhead, writes: "Whenever I feel out of sorts, bilious, or my liver not working right, or racked with a headache, I take Chase's Mandrake Dandelion Liver Cure. There is more real benefit from one dose of your Liver Cure than in many bottles of some medicines." Sept.

MR. S. M. SMYTHE, salesman in Mr. W. J. McFarland's store, leaves for Binghampton, New York State, next week, where he has accepted a situation as salesman in a large dry goods establishment. We extend to him our best wishes for his success, and hope that we may see his smiling countenance again.

THE C. O. O. F. of Markdale will give a grand concert and literary entertainment in Haskett's new Hall on Monday evening the 21st inst. The committee are determined to make this a grand success, and are sparing no pains to accomplish that end. See programs for particulars. Admission 25 cents.

Shoddy Boots & Shoes have about had their day in Markdale, and the public have learned that it is money saved to purchase good solid goods. McFarland has opened and marked off upwards of 2,000 pairs of Solid Leather Boots & Shoes which will be sold at very little more than some merchants ask for shoddy goods.

IT is probably not known that children not vaccinated are lawfully prohibited from attending our public schools. How many would be left in our school if this law were carried out? At this time, when smallpox are raging so fiercely in many parts of Canada, it is the duty of every parent to have his children vaccinated.

THERE will be sold by public auction at the Revere House, Markdale, on Saturday, Oct. 3rd, 1885, that very valuable property on Toronto street, adjoining Hill Bro's block, containing one-half acre, suitable for either business site or private dwelling. For terms and further particulars see posters, an advt. of which appears in another column of this issue.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY for our town and country people. CHAS. CLUTHE, 118 King Street West, Toronto, which name is familiar with everyone as the best and most experienced man for relieving and curing Rupture and Deformity. Mr. Cluthe sells from his PRINTED PRICE LIST, serves all alike, rich and poor, except in case of charity, which (if so) has never been refused. See advt. in another column.

THE editor of the Grey Review endeavors to make his subscribers believe that his paper is larger than its less pretentious neighbors, the STANDARD among the number. We just took the trouble to put the tape line over last week's Review and STANDARD and find there is a difference of 66 inches of reading matter in favour of our paper, making it five feet six inches the best paper per week.

THE Canadian Pacific Railway Company have recently added some magnificent new coaches and sleeping cars to their equipment, which are to run between Toronto and Montreal. The new coaches are fifty-six feet in length. They are finished in solid mahogany, highly decorated, and have double-sash windows. They will each seat sixty-four persons. The aisles are carpeted, and the seats are upholstered in olive-green coloured plush. The coaches are heated by a patent heater, and each contain a saloon, wash-room, and lunch buffet. The first-class sleepers are sixty seven feet in length. There is an electric bell in each birth, by which the occupant can call the porter. Both inside and outside are finished off in solid mahogany, elaborately decorated. The trucks are six wheeled. The immigrant trains are each provided with wash-room and toilet accommodation.

NATIONAL PILLS will cure constipated bowels and regulate the liver.

ONE hundred and twenty-eight people died with smallpox in Moutreal last week, and still the dreaded disease continues its ravages.

A VERY COMMON OCCURRENCE.—The King of Siam has 3,000 wives, and when the nurse softly opens the door and whispers: "It's a boy, sir; nine pounds," his majesty is apt to say: "Well don't bother me; I'm busy."

McGREGOR & PARKE'S Carbolic Cerate is invaluable for Wounds, Sores, Salt Rheum, Cuts, Burns, Scalds and Festers, as a healing and purifying dressing. Do not be imposed on with other useless preparations, recommended to be as good. Use only McGregor & Park's Carbolic Cerate. Sold by Hill Bro's. z

The outlook was not a very bright one for many of the visitors in Toronto who arrived by the late trains Monday night, as they paced the streets revolving in their minds some scheme whereby they might procure for themselves a night's lodging. All the principle hotels were filled to overflowing, and many ladies were turned adrift to do as best they could under the circumstances, the parlours, which were filled with camp beds, resembled more a ward in a hospital than a hotel sleeping apartment.

The discovery of the instantaneous process of taking photographs has been quickly followed in the medical world by a perfect and instantaneous remedy for all acute aches and pains, as Neuralgia, Toothache, Rheumatism, etc. This valuable remedy is called Fluid Lightning, and is sold at 25 cents a bottle by Hill Bro's. z

NOT A DRUNKARD.—A paragraph has been going the rounds of the papers concerning Mr. DeLisle, a Frenchman, who was buried on the 4th line of Collingwood Township some thirty-five years ago, and was found in a complete state of preservation on his grave being opened. It was stated in the paragraph that the deceased was a confirmed drunkard, and died while under the influence of liquor. On Tuesday Mrs. Elizabeth Galloway who lived next to and new the deceased for a number of years called on the Enterprise to deny the statement, which she characterises as a falsehood. She states that the deceased was not a drunkard, kept no liquor off his place, and as he was not off it five times in a number of years preceding his death it was not possible for him to drink much. He was 80 years old when he died, and was universally esteemed in the neighborhood in which he lived; and testimony to a similar effect is born by many of his neighbors. Parties who supply information to newspapers should be particularly careful about their facts, especially where the dead are concerned.

Rev. J. G. Fallis, Dutton, certifies: "For some years my wife has been troubled with Dyspepsia, and has tried one thing after another recommended but with little or no effect till advise to give cGregor's Speedy Cure a trial. Since taking the first bottle I have noticed a decided improvement, and can with confidence recommend it to be one of, if not the best medicine extant for Dyspepsia. This invaluable medicine for Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Kidney Complaint, is purely vegetable. Sold at Hill Bro's. Trial bottles given free. z

Escape of Prisoners.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—About seven o'clock this evening while Sheriff's officer, Ben Young, was about to ascend the steps leading from Dundas street to the private entrance to the county jail, having in charge the two colored men know as the Henderson brothers, who have been serving a term in the penitentiary, and who are wanted at the Middlesex assizes, the prisoners made a bolt for their liberty and succeeded in gaining it. Young and an assistant walked side by side with the men until the steps were reached, when Young stepped ahead to lead the way. Just then the Hendersons took it into their heads to run, and they did so, almost instantly, taking a due westerly course over Kensington bridge and down the bank of the river. When about 300 yards down they waded across to the opposite side and were soon lost to view. Young secured a revolver and fired at the men, who was handcuffed together, but it is not thought he hit them. They are a desperate pair, and were sentenced to Kingston for stabbing Constable Nichol and others of London east at the spring assizes. It will be remembered they were extradited at Detroit, and were to be used as witnesses in a case to be tried at the assizes here to-morrow.—News.

LOST!

How many people of both sexes are suffering from lost vitality, all broken down, and on the verge of Consumption that might be restored, as many have been when given up to die, if they would use Burdock Blood Bitters, which restores lost vitality and gives new vigor to the debilitated system.

Riel's Sympathizers.

A PETITION IN HIS FAVOR ADDRESSED TO UNITED STATES SECRETARY.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 30.—A largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of French-Canadians of this city was held this afternoon in behalf of Riel, the condemned Canadian rebel. Addresses were made by prominent Frenchmen of this city and a petition addressed to Secretary Bayard, asking for the interposition of the United States government, was unanimously adopted. The petition states Riel is a citizen of the United States and that his trial was not a fair one. The petition is signed by all the French residents of the city.

CERTAIN CURE.

A CURE FOR CHOLERA MORBUS.—A positive cure for this dangerous complaint, and for all acute or chronic forms of Bowel Complaint incident to Summer and Fall, is found in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry; to be procured from any druggist.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 262. MARKDALE, ONT., SEPT. 17, 1885. {COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH.}

The Markdale Standard

...sued every Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

... per year in advance; $1.50 if ... three months.

... and business cards one inch ... advertisements 8 cents per line first ...rtion, 3 cents per line each subsequent ...sertion. nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local col... 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents ... subsequents insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for ... the advertisement not to exceed twelve ...es.

No paper discontinued until all arrears ... paid except at the aption of the publisher.

—JOB PRINTING.—

The STANDARD office has a splendid equip... of po-ters as well as fine job type. Spe... attention to orders by mail. Orders ... with dispatch.

... W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

...ANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(...SORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),
...ARRISTERS. Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to ... at lowest rates of interest.
Offices 16 King Street East,
...231 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
...ARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.
A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.
... Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block ... Branch office in Markdale, over ...'s Store, on Friday and Saturday ... 57-ly
... W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown.
...ER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and ... Insurance Agent. Commissioner ... &c. Conveyancer and Licensed ... for the County of Grey. Farmers, ... and Land Sales, Punctually at... and charges made very moderate. ...ale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown.
...ER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c ...missioner in B. R. &c. ...veyancing in all its branches promptly ... and carefully executed. ...—Money to Lend on Real Estate se...

...MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
...UATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL ... Dentistry, will be at the Markdale ... Markdale, on the 1st and third Wed... each month and also at Munshaw's ... Flesherton, the day following the ...nesday in each month for the prac... his profession. 122-47

...AMUEL WARDELL,
...LL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL ... promptly attended to. Resi... Hill Owen Sound 122-35

...A. HILL,
...shionable Tailor,
...OVER McFARLAND'S STORE.
...F CT FIT GUARANTEED.

...C. RICHARDS,
... CONTRACTOR, & ARCHI... Markdale. 124ly

ISAAC STINSON.
...der and Contractor
... of Brick and Stone work. ... given. ... guaranteed. ... mail promptly attended to.
MARKDALE P. O.

... G. GUTHERIE,
... & Ornamental Plaster
Opposite the new
...yterian Church Markdale.
... Centre Flowers, and all ... and ornamental plastering ex... rates. Calsomining Lime ... Repairs promptly attended to.

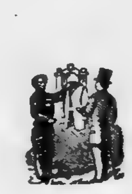
...EPH GIBSON
...CONTRACTOR.
... taken for all kinds of
... AND STONE WORK,
... Ornamental Plastering.
... in all Shades and Colors.
... moderate and satisfaction guar... left at the STANDARD office ... prompt attention. 126-ly.

...SION HOUSE,
...ARKDALE,
... Bryan, Proprietor.

...KDALE HOUSE,
... ONT.
... Marsh, - Prop.

...MERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
... and commodious Sample Rooms ... Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde ... supplied with the best the market af... good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.
EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.
J. McAleer, - - Prop.
The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57



MARKDALE
Roller Mill
Bran $9 a ton
J. W. FORD.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.
The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of School Furniture,
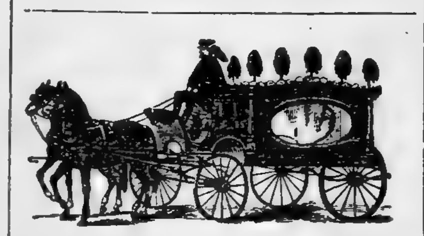
Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW McGILL.

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
Thos. MATTHEWS, Proprietor
Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSESHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.



EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills
Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.
GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND
Chopping Done Every Day.
Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.
LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.
Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

... MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied
Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

Victor Roller Mills,
MARKDALE.
—THIS NEW—
Patent Process Flouring Mill
Is now completed at great expense, on the
Most APPROVED
plans, and with the best machinery manufactured, making it, in every sense of the term, "A Model Mill."
I am therefore in a position to give the public a Superior Article of Flour.
A fair trial respectfully solicited and I have no fear but the result will be eminently satisfactory.
Cash paid for good hard Wheat.
☞ Flour, Bran, Shorts, etc, etc, for sale wholesale & retail.
219 ANGUS PLEWES.

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.
A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.
—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.
We, the undersigned, would respectfully intimate to our customers and friends that we are still here and prepared to attend to all who may favor us with a call in anything we can do in our line with the best possible satisfaction. Also we will get yarn for those who allow us to do their weaving. ☞ All kinds of merchantable farm produce taken in exchange for work at market prices.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble
☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

NEW GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.
Having just received a
Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c.
Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.
I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.
198 J. PLEWES.

I AGREE TO DUPLICATE ANY MAKE OR GRADE OF WATCH IN 3, 4, or 5 Oz. CASE
—AT AS—
Close Figures
—AND—
HONEST kept WARRANTS
As any city firm, Grange Agent, or Jew pedlar that tries to deal in this section Grey Co.
W. A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

MR. G. S. BOWES is visiting friends in Milton.

THE Thornbury Standard is twelve years old.

BEARS are plentiful around Egerton, Melancthon.

FOR pine and maple flooring go to G. Grant & Co.

Nobby Ulsterings and Dress Goods at McFarland's.

TROUT fishing season was out last Tuesday, the 15th.

A CASE of smallpox has been discovered in Port Hope.

GARDEN vegetable thieves are numerous around Thornbury.

MR. W. K. FLESHER, of Flesherton, has returned to England.

FAT cattle and sheep for sale. Apply to Mrs. Might, Glenelg. 261-63

MR. S. J. COLEMAN leaves this week to visit friends in Leeds Co.

ABOUT 75 left Markdale on Monday last for the Toronto Industrial.

FOR Bedsteads, Mattrasses, and Spring Beds, go to Grant & Co.

WE are having some fine weather now—just what the farmers want.

NEW VELVETEENS just to hand at Hill Bro's—all colors, selling very cheap.

See McFarland's all Wool Flannels, Black Cashmeres and Tailor Made Ulsters.

IT is estimated that 40,000 person were on the Exhibition Grounds Monday last.

McFarland has the cheapest Laces, Silk Plush and Velveteens north of Toronto.

THE next sitting of the Division Court will be held in Flesherton the 23rd October.

LADIES' DRESS GOODS in all shades and all styles, great value at J. R. Trimble's.

A NEW roller skating rink is being built in Owen Sound, and will be completed next month.

FOR the best value in Tweeds go to Hill Bro's, nothing in Town to compare with them.

WORMS cause much sickness among children that Freeman's Worm Powders will surely cure.

MISS PETCH, of Georgetown, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. H. Rutledge, of this village.

GENTS' Underclothing in good variety and wonderful cheap for spot cash, at J. R. Trimble's.

MRS. DR. SPROULE returned from Owen Sound last week where she had been spending a few days.

A roller skating rink, in a convenient part of this village should pay well. Who will erect one?

IN what respect does a drunkard fulfil the teaching of the New Testament? He loves his enemy.

MRS. DR. WASHINGTON and her father-in-law have been visiting friends in Markdale the past few days.

JUST arrived at J. R. Trimble's large lines of Boots & Shoes from the best makers, cheap for spot cash.

PROF. LOW'S SULPHUR SOAP is a cheap and handy form of obtaining the healing virtues of a sulphur bath.

WE have received copies of Euphrasia Ag. Soc'y prize list for 1885. Thanks to the Sec'y, Mr. Wilson.

MISS Brennan of the city of London, Ont., is expected to take charge of McFarland's Millinery this season.

A MEETING of the directors of Centre Grey Farmers' Institute will be held in Markdale on the 23rd September.

TRAMP printers on the turf again; no less than two called to see us Tuesday and Wednesday last.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

LOOK HERE.—First class cooking stoves No. 9, trimmed and complete for $16.50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale.

CROUP, WHOOPING COUGH and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

IF your child is stubborn or hard to administer medicine to, Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup will be appreciated.

SHILOH'S COUGH and Consumption Cure is Sold by A. Turner & Co. on a guarantee. It cures consumption. z

HUGH MERCER left here for Williamsford on Wednesday last to take stock in the store lately carried on by Henry Foster.

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

THAT HACKING COUGH can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

THE date of meeting of Centre Grey Farmers' Institute Directors is changed from 22nd to 23rd Sept., same time and place.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

A GREAT number left this station on Monday for the Toronto Industrial; ye editor and his better half among the number.

WILL YOU SUFFER with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

THERE is a fall of 344 feet at Eugenia Falls in a distance of 183 rods, the main fall being 79 feet perpendicular.

HASKETT BRO'S are having their new hall painted by Mr. Mabee. When finished it will present a very creditable appearance.

EVERY man, woman and child should call at J. R. Trimble's and get some of the wonderful bargains he is offering to cash purchasers.

OUR village is nearly deserted, so many are away to the Exhibition in Toronto. No doubt some of the boys will return with "sore heads."

School Books.—A complete assortment of new Readers and other School Books just received at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

THE Editor has gone to the Exhibition and has let the care of the paper go to the "devil." But he is clever and can turn out a good paper.

PARK lot in Markdale for sale Beautiful location, will be sold on reasonable terms. Apply to R. Freeborn, Williamsford, or enquire at this office. 125-tf

MR. MADILL, of Corbetton and Riverview, exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Wilson of this place last Sabbath. The latter dispensed sacrement at Corbetton that day.

23 car load of old iron rails of the T. G. & B. narrow guage has been lifted and shipped to Manitoba to make sidings on the Manitoba and South-Western branch of the C. P. R.

CATARRH CURED, health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

MR. ARCH. HILL, of Stayner, is visiting his brother, Andrew Hill, tailor, of this place. He will likely be permanently situated here, as his brother is talking seriously of leaving this part.

THE season is fast approaching when farmers and others are looknig for Fall and Winter Clothing. J. R. Trimble has the largest, best and cheapest lot of clothing ever offered in Markdale.

THE Dundalk Herald has entered upon its fifth year. It has made steady progress in the past, and bids fair for valuable service to Dundalk and vicinity in the future. We wish it every success.

THE Secretary (Mr. T. J. Crawford) of the Great Northern Exhibition in Collingwood, will please accept thanks for invitation and complimentary ticket to the fall exhibition to be held from 29th Sept. to 2nd Oct.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER is what you need for Consumption, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by A, Turner & Co. z

THE trial of Big Bear was concluded on Saturday last. He was found guilty of treason by the Jury, with a strong recommendation to mercy. Judge Richardson sentenced him to three years in the penitentiary.

No $4.00 and $5.00 shoddy and Cotton Suits hanging around Hill Bro's, doors. They don't keep such worthless trash. But if you want a genuine all Wool Tweed Suit there's where you can get it at the right price.

DON'T miss the C. O. O. F. concert in Haskett's Hall next Monday evening

RIEL'S council has appealed to the Privy Council against the legality of his trial, and the execution is adjourned.

MR. J. P. MARSHALL, L. D. S., of Shelburne, fell from the loft of a stable on to a manger while attending to his horse one dark night last week and broke several of his ribs. He is recovering nicely, being able to fill his appointment here yesterday (Wednesday.)

OUR BRASS BAND played on the streets last Saturday, and discoursed some very fine pieces. Quite a number were in from the country for the express purpose of listening to the music of the band, and showed their appreciation by an occasional clapping of hands.

VOLUNTEERS IN CAMP.—No. 6 Company of the 31st Battalion left Flesherton for Niagara camp grounds on Tuesday morning last where they will drill for two weeks. Mr. R. O. Whitby, clothed in his uniform, left here on Monday evening to join No. 6 at Flesherton.

A NEW kind of coal oil lamp has been introduced in the Owen Sound Methodist church, six of which gives as good (if not better) light as 32 of the ordinary lamps which had done service in that church. The new Methodist Church in Markdale is to be lit with the new kind of lamp.

John McNassar, Bondhead, writes: "Whenever I feel out of sorts, bilious, or my liver not working right, or racked with a headache, I take Chase's Mandrake Dandelion Liver Cure. There is more real benefit from one dose of your Liver Cure than in many bottles of some medicines." Sept.

MR. S. M. SMYTHE, salesman in Mr. W. J. McFarland's store, leaves for Binghampton, New York State, next week, where he has accepted a situation as salesman in a large dry goods establishment. We extend to him our best wishes for his success, and hope that we may see his smiling countenance again.

THE C. O. O. F. of Markdale will give a grand concert and literary entertainment in Haskett's new Hall on Monday evening the 21st inst. The committee are determined to make this a grand success, and are sparing no pains to accomplish that end. See programs for particulars. Admission 25 cents.

Shoddy Boots & Shoes have about had their day in Markdale, and the public have learned that it is money saved to purchase good solid goods. McFarland has opened and marked off upwards of 2,000 pairs of Solid Leather Boots & Shoes which will be sold at very little more than some merchants ask for shoddy goods.

IT is probably not known that children not vaccinated are lawfully prohibited from attending our public schools. How many would be left in our school if this law were carried out? At this time, when smallpox are raging so fiercely in many parts of Canada, it is the duty of every parent to have his children vaccinated.

THERE will be sold by public auction at the Revere House, Markdale, on Saturday, Oct. 3rd, 1885, that very valuable property on Toronto street, adjoining Hill Bro's block, containing one-half acre, suitable for either business site or private dwelling. For terms and further particulars see posters, an advt. of which appears in another column of this issue.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY for our town and country people. CHAS. CLUTHE, 118 King Street West, Toronto, which name is familiar with everyone as the best and most experienced man for relieving and curing Rupture and Deformity. Mr. Cluthe sells from his PRINTED PRICE LIST, serves all alike, rich and poor, except in case of charity, which (if so) has never been refused. See advt. in another column.

THE editor of the Grey Review endeavors to make his subscribers believe that his paper is larger than its less pretentious neighbors, the STANDARD among the number. We just took the trouble to put the tape line over last week's Review and STANDARD and find there is a difference of 66 inches of reading matter in favour of our paper, making it five feet six inches the best paper per week.

THE Canadian Pacific Railway Company have recently added some magnificent new coaches and sleeping cars to their equipment, which are to run between Toronto and Montreal. The new coaches are fifty-six feet in length. They are finished in solid mahogany, highly decorated, and have double-sash windows. They will each seat sixty-four persons. The aisles are carpeted, and the seats are upholstered in olive-green coloured plush. The coaches are heated by a patent heater, and each contain a saloon, wash-room, and lunch buffet. The first-class sleepers are sixty seven feet in length. There is an electric bell in each birth, by which the occupant can call the porter. Both inside and outside are finished off in solid mahogany, elaborately decorated. The trucks are six wheeled. The immigrant trains are each provided with wash-room and toilet accommodation.

NATIONAL PILLS will cure constipated bowels and regulate the liver.

ONE hundred and twenty-eight people died with smallpox in Montreal last week, and still the dreaded disease continues its ravages.

A VERY COMMON OCCURRENCE.—The King of Siam has 3,000 wives, and when the nurse softly opens the door and whispers: "It's a boy, sir; nine pounds," his majesty is apt to say: "Well don't bother me; I'm busy."

McGREGOR & PARKE'S Carbolic Cerate is invaluable for Wounds, Sores, Salt Rheum, Cuts, Burns, Scalds and Festers, as a healing and purifying dressing. Do not be imposed on with other useless preparations, recommended to be as good. Use only McGregor & Park's Carbolic Cerate. Sold by Hill Bro's. z

The outlook was not a very bright one for many of the visitors in Toronto who arrived by the late trains Monday night, as they paced the streets revolving in their minds some scheme whereby they might procure for themselves a night's lodging. All the principle hotels were filled to overflowing, and many ladies were turned adrift to do as best they could under the circumstances, the parlours, which were filled with camp beds, resembled more a ward in a hospital than a hotel sleeping apartment.

The discovery of the instantaneous process of taking photographs has been quickly followed in the medical world by a perfect and instantaneous remedy for all acute aches and pains, as Neuralgia, Toothache, Rheumatism, etc. This valuable remedy is called Fluid Lightning, and is sold at 25 cents a bottle by Hill Bro's. z

NOT A DRUNKARD.—A paragraph has been going the rounds of the papers concerning Mr. DeLisle, a Frenchman, who was buried on the 4th line of Collingwood Township some thirty-five years ago, and was found in a complete state of preservation on his grave being opened. It was stated in the paragraph that the deceased was a confirmed drunkard, and died while under the influence of liquor. On Tuesday Mrs. Elizabeth Galloway who lived next to and new the deceased for a number of years called on the Enterprise to deny the statement, which she characterises as a falsehood. She states that the deceased was not a drunkard, kept no liquor off his place, and as he was not off it five times in a number of years preceding his death it was not possible for him to drink much. He was 80 years old when he died, and was universally esteemed in the neighborhood in which he lived; and testimony to a similar effect is born by many of his neighbors. Parties who supply information to newspapers should be particularly careful about their facts, especially where the dead are concerned.

Rev. J. G. Fallis, Dutton, certifies: "For some years my wife has been troubled with Dyspepsia, and has tried one thing after another recommended but with little or no effect till advise to give McGregor's Speedy Cure a trial. Since taking the first bottle I have noticed a decided improvement, and can with confidence recommend it to be one of, if not the best medicine extant for Dyspepsia. This invaluable medicine for Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Kidney Complaint, is purely vegetable. Sold at Hill Bro's. Trial bottles given free. z

Escape of Prisoners.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—About seven o'clock this evening while Sheriff's officer, Ben Young, was about to ascend the steps leading from Dundas street to the private entrance to the county jail, having in charge the two colored men know as the Henderson brothers, who have been serving a term in the penitentiary, and who are wanted at the Middlesex assizes, the prisoners made a bolt for their liberty and succeeded in gaining it. Young and an assistant walked side by side with the men until the steps were reached, when Young stepped ahead to lead the way. Just then the Hendersons took it into their heads to run, and they did so, almost instantly, taking a due westerly course over Kensington bridge and down the bank of the river. When about 300 yards down they waded across to the opposite side and were soon lost to view. Young secured a revolver and fired at the men, who was handcuffed together, but it is not thought he hit them. They are a desperate pair, and were sentenced to Kingston for stabbing Constable Nichol and others of London east at the spring assizes. It will be remembered they were extradited at Detroit, and were to be used as witnesses in a case to be tried at the assizes here to-morrow.—News.

LOST!

How many people of both sexes are suffering from lost vitality, all broken down, and on the verge of Consumption that might be restored, as many have been when given up to die, if they would use Burdock Blood Bitters, which restores lost vitality and gives new vigor to the debilitated system.

Riel's Sympathizers.

A PETITION IN HIS FAVOR ADDRESSED TO UNITED STATES SECRETARY.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 30.—A largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of French-Canadians of this city was held this afternoon in behalf of Riel, the condemned Canadian rebel. Addresses were made by prominent Frenchmen of this city and a petition addressed to Secretary Bayard, asking for the interposition of the United States government, was unanimously adopted. The petition states Riel is a citizen of the United States and that his trial was not a fair one. The petition is signed by all the French residents of the city.

CERTAIN CURE.

A CURE FOR CHOLERA MORBUS.—A positive cure for this dangerous complaint, and for all acute or chronic forms of Bowel Complaint incident to Summer and Fall, is found in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry; to be procured from any druggist.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

To a New Bride and Housekeeper.

BY MARGARET E. WHITE.

You little guess the lonesomeness that's coming o'er my life,
When you have left the farm and me to be Will Johnson's wife:
But I suppose my mother felt just so, when from her side,
Your father came one summer's day to carry home his bride.

Ah, me! how happy had I been if Providence had spared
My good old man to see this day, who all my feelings shared;
But, then, I would not bring him back, not even if I might,
Nor change one crook that's in my lot, for what God does is right.

But as I sit alone and think I see some things I'd change;
I might have made him happier; though I do not think it strange
If I should speak some warning words to save you, if I may,
From making thoughtless, sad mistakes, to bring clouds o'er your way.

So just remember, Hannah, dear, that, though you're pretty bright,
It may be very possible you'll not be always right!
Perhaps when you are fretting o'er some other body's sin,
You'll find the fault was all your own if you would look within.

As when we washed the window panes together face to face,
So that the smallest spot or stain would find no resting place,
You would insist, however hard to make you see I tried
That every spot was my fault when 'twas really on your side.

And, Hannah, oh! be patient if you find Will sometimes slow;
Your wits flash out like lightning streaks, as swift to come and go;
Now, lightning is a handy thing in stormy nights, 'tis true,
But, after all, a steady shine is kind o' useful, too.

And if there's any difference comes 'twixt your good man and you,
Don't stop to ask whose fault it is; the only way to do
Is just to take the thing in hand and try with all your might,
Before it grows too big to change, to fix it up all right.

You know the dough when first 'tis set, is molded as we will,
But when 'tis baked we cannot change its shape for good or ill;
So now, when you are starting out in your new home, 'tis just
The time to see what ways you'll set to harden into crust.

But, dear, you'll not succeed alone, no matter how you try;
You'll have to go down on your knees and ask help from on high.
We soap and rub and boil and rinse, but after all, you know,
It takes heaven's sun to make the clothes as white as new fall'n snow.

For Young Housewives.

Clean caster bottles with shot.

To remove ink stains soak in sour milk over night.

To brighten and clean old alpaca, wash in coffee.

Mix stove polish with vinegar and a teaspoonful of sugar.

When cooking beans add one-half teaspoon of saleratus.

To brighten carpets sprinkle with salt before sweeping.

To polish a stove rub with a newspaper instead of a brush.

To remove tea stains from cups and saucers scour with ashes.

For burns apply flour wet with cold water, as it quickly gives relief.

When sponge-cake becomes dry it is nice to cut in thin slices and toast.

To remove mildew soak in buttermilk and spread on grass in the sun.

If nutmegs are good, when pricked with a pin oil will instantly ooze out.

If the oven is too hot when baking place a small dish of cold water in it.

To prevent mustard plasters from blistering mix with the white of an egg.

To prevent flat-irons from scorching wipe them on a cloth wet with kerosene.

To clean furniture that is not varnished rub with a cloth wet with kerosene.

To brighten or clean silver or nickel plated ware rub with a woolen cloth and flour.

When there is a crack in the stove it can be mended by mixing ashes and salt with water.

When clothes are scorched remove the stain by placing the garment where the sun can shine on it.

Starched shirts will iron easier if you let them dry after starching so you will have to sprinkle them before ironing.

The wings of turkeys, geese and chickens are good to wash and clean windows, as they leave no dust nor lint, as cloth.

To brighten the inside of a coffee or teapot fill with water, add a small piece of soap and let it boil about forty-five minutes.

To remove grease from wall paper lay several folds of blotting paper on the spot and hold a hot iron near it until the grease is absorbed.

COOKING RECIPES.

COFFEE CAKE:—Two cups brown sugar, one cup of butter, five eggs, one-half cup molasses, one nutmeg grated, two teaspoonful cinnamon, one teaspoonfuls cloves, one-half cup made coffee, three heaping cups flour, one cup currants, one teaspoonful saleratus dissolved in warm water, one quarter pound of citron, one teaspoonful lemon extract. Creambutter and sugar together, and be sure to flour the fruit before stirring it in; bake in a moderately fast oven.

COCOANUT DROPS:—Beat to a froth the whites of two eggs, and add gradually one small cup sugar, one cup cocoanut grated and one spoonful flour. Butter tin sheets with washed butter, and then cover with letter-paper. Drop on this the mixture in teaspoonfuls about two inches apart. Bake five minutes in a quick oven.

JELLY CAKE:—Three eggs, one cup sugar, butter the size of an egg, one cup flour, one teaspoonful cream tartar sifted in the flour, one-half teaspoonful of mild. Bake in jelly cake tins and spread when cold with fruit jelly.

BAKED CUSTARDS:—One quart of milk, four eggs, five tablespoonfuls sugar beaten with the eggs, nutmeg and two tablespoonfuls flavoring extract. Scald the milk, pour upon the other ingredients, stir together well, flavor and pour into stone china cups. Set these in a pan of hot water, grate nutmeg upon each and bake until firm. Eat cold from the cups.

EGGS A LA TRIPE:—Hard boil a dozen eggs, and cut them in slices; peel some small pickling onions and fry them gently in butter over a slow fire; dust them with flour, moisten them with equal quantities of stock and cream, add a little salt and pepper, and stew them till quite tender; then add the eggs and give them a warm up; serve as hot as possible.

APPLE MERINGUE:—Prepare six large tart apples for sauce. While hot put in a piece of butter the size of an egg. When cold, and a cup of fine cracker crumbs, the yolks of three eggs well beaten, a cup of milk or cream, a little salt, nutmeg and sugar to taste. Bake in a large plate, with an under crust of rich paste and a rim of puff paste. When done, take the whites of the eggs, half a tea-cup of white sugar, and a few drops of essence of lemon; beat to a stiff froth, pour over and put back into the oven to brown lightly.

WHEAT MUFFINS:—For a dozen muffins there will be required a cupful and a half of entire wheat flour, a cupful of milk, one-third of a cupful of cream, one-third of a cupful of water, an egg, a teaspoonful of cream of tartar, half a teaspoonful of salt and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Mix the dry ingredients and beat them quickly and vigorously. Pour the batter into buttered muffin pans and bake for twenty-five minutes in a rather quick oven. The batter will be thin and will give a moist muffin but that is as it should be.

FRIED POTATOES:—Peel them and boil in salted water; do not let them boil until they are soft. Beat one egg, and have ready some fine cracker crumbs; roll the potato in the egg, and then in the cracker and fry in butter until a light brown, turning frequently that the color may be uniform; or the potatoes may be dropped into hot lard. In this case, a cloth should be laid over a plate and the potatoes should be drained for a moment in this before sending them to the table.

Beauty in Wives.

Beauty in a wife may or may not be a desirable gift, but it is certainly not a joy forever.

The proverb that beauty is only skin deep may be trite, but I have no doubt that it is particularly applicable to married women because (have patience, mesdames!) after six months or twelve months of married bliss the young wife may look as handsome as her better favored sister. A beautiful woman creates a great impression in the beginning but it requires good resources to maintain this first impression, and if she has not the mental traits so essential to command esteem, in time her beauty becomes commonplace. The ordinary looking wife, on the other hand, if she possess these amiable traits, seems to grow handsome with time. The beautiful wife is often too conscious of the charms of her persons, and if forgetful of them is flattered by constant admirers into remembering them.

The man generally makes up his mind very soon as to what he admires in the physique of woman, but finds it more difficult to come to a conclusion as to what is essential to his happiness in mental qualities. As a rule the wife should have mind enough to comprehend that of her husband, to share his plans and to sympathize with him in his occupation. Familiarity with the husband's business enables the wife to regulate the expenses of the household to his income, whereby many unpleasant dissensions are avoided. To know when the purse is full and when it is empty is a kind of knowledge that contributes largely to the pleasure of married life. An approximation of the intellect of the man and the women to the same level appears to be the most conducive to domestic harmony, as too great a difference in quality of mind often engenders a feeling akin to contempt in the superior person, which it is difficult to conceal. Good as the theory of the extremes is in its physiological application it may not be applied to what relates to the mind. If there be not a psychological affinity between husband and wife, married life remians a barren waste. Cleverness or mediocrity once established as a mutual foundation, varieties may be found to consort advantageously together, such as taciturnity with garrulity, vivacity with inertia, etc., but mutual comprehension and appreciation are indispensable.

PECULIAR THINGS.

Dr. J. B. Lawes thinks that plants "probably derive the whole of their organic substance from the air—90 per cent. to 95 per cent of dry matter."

M. Henri Vivarey states in Cosmos that he finds in silicious bronze an electric conductability equal to that of copper and a mechanical resistance greater than that of iron. He recommends its use in telegraphy.

M. Witz, who has for a considerable time been making observations on atmospheric ozone, says that the proportion of ozone in the air of Paris last year was in the inverse ratio of the mortality from cholera.

The notion that dogs are more liable to go mad in hot weather than at other times is fallacious, says a recent authority. Genuine rabies is exceedingly rare, but veterinary statistics show that it prevails at all seasons. It is very doubtful whether the weather has anything to do with the disease.

Experiments reported by M. Guignet to the French Academy of Sciences confirm the views of M. Freimy that the behavior of chlorophyl, or the coloring matter of leaves, is usually like that of an acid. Mr. Guignet has obtained chlorophyllate of soda, and from it by double decomposition, salts of lime, baryta and lead.

A process has recently been patented for manufacturing a gum from the Eucalyptus globulus, which has the effect of thoroughly removing the scales which form on steam engine boilers, and preventing rust and gritting. The use of this preparation, it is expected, will extend the period of usefulness of the boilers 100 per cent. to 150 per cent. besides insuring a considerable saving of fuel, as scale is a non conductor of heat.

Many of the inhabitants of the Congo basin cherish the singular belief that the white people live at the bottom of the sea. In proof of this theory they adduce the fact that when a foreign vessel appears off the coast the top of her mast's first appear, then her sails and finally her hull. When she sails away the same phenomenon occurs, only in the reverse manner. Plainly, therefore, European ships come up from the bottom of the sea, and it is that be the case it follows that their crews and passengers must do the same.

A German technical journal tells how woolens may be prevented from shrinking and their color from changing. The fabrics, it says, are first soaked for several hours in a warm, moderately concentrated solution of soda, to which about a half tumber of ammonia water has been added, more or less, according to the quantity of material treated. At this stage the fabrics are washed out, after the addition of some warm water, then rinsed in fresh water. The same result may be reached by adding a tumbler of ammonia to a small tub of water, soaking the stuffs for a half hour in this, finally rinsing them in pure water.

On July 10 at about noon, a wonderful mirage was seen on Lake Wetter, in Sweden, by a number of people between the villages of Fegelata and Vadstena. A small island in the lake appeared as if covered with the most gorgeous flora and tall, gigantic trees, forming great groves, between which builings having the appearance of the most splendid palaces were seen. The Sando, another little island, seemed to rise out of the sea, many times its actual height, its sandy shores looking like lofty, castellated walls. It had the exact appearance of a mediæval fortress enclosed by four walls. Two other little islands, Aholmen and Rison appeared also as lofty towers above the water. The mirage lasted for nearly a half hour, when it disappeared somewhat rapidly.

A Story.

The inhabitants of Seymour and vicinity are said to be much exercised in mind over the existence in that town of a veritable haunted house, and those who have occasion to pass the place after night-fall do so with quickened pulses and a fear that they may see something that would cause fright at least. It is believed that in the little brown house where John Sullivan and his wife were found dead last wintar, after having been undiscovered for at least 36 hours, there is some strange and terrible secret, and that instead of its being, as some supposed, a case of double suicide, perhaps both Sullivan and his wife were murdered in cold blood. For some time past timid people have hinted that all is not right in the lonely little place. Two or three families have occupied the place since the tragedy, and they at once move out and away, and are reticent as to the causes, only saying that they do not care to live there. Finally it transpired that the first family were annoyed by strange noises. The second family heard all sorts of supernatural sounds, and so did the third family, and it would be extremely difficult now for the owner to get a tenant. Very recently a young man was riding along in company with a young lady, when she suddenly gave a shriek of terror and convulsively seized him by the arm. He hastily asked her what she meant, and as soon as she could regain her composure she said she saw the form of a woman on the roof wildly waving its hands. Her companion tried to make her believe that there was nothing in it, but she insisted, and still insists, that she saw the startling specire. He made up his mind that he would sift the mystery to the bottom, and the next night, in company with three or four reliable friends, he visited the spot. While they saw nothing, they assert that they heard many noises that in their opinion must be ascribed to supernatural causes.

THE FARM.

Dairy and Farm Topics.

Cattle generally are bringing better prices this year than last.

Hogs that have plenty of grass are rarely troubled with cholera.

The bogus butter business is becoming the boss fraud in this country.

Clover pasture increases the milk yield of cows and makes yellow butter.

Fatten and sell every sheep that will not yield a fleece up to the average weight.

Reduce the number of sheep to a point where they are secure from the privations of shortened crops and excessively severe weather—hot or cold, wet or dry.

Horses should have water often if they are working in the field. They doubtless suffer much from thirst, for they are never watered except at morning, noon and night.

Persian insect powder will kill flies and ensure comfort and rest to cattle and horses, if dusted upon the stanchions and stalls and around the windows of the barn or stable.

A flock of sheep should double themselves each year, and the early lambs will sell for quite as much as the sheep cost in the first place, thus leaving the parent stock and wool to the good.

Farmers should not be so ready to lay the blame upon the farrier when their horses' feet are in bad condition. Much of the trouble frequently comes from the bad roads and from the farmers' own neglect to examine and clean out the feet of their horses at intervals.

The worst kind of a cribber can be dissuaded from indulgence in his vice by the following means: Nail a piece of sheep skin about eight inches in width the entire length of the crib; select a skin with long wool, and sprinkle it freely with cayenne pepper. The cure will be speedy and permanent.

Lack of water will make fowls light, however liberally they may be fed. In an experiment where some fowls were killed twelve hours after feeding, but without water, the undigested corn was found nearly whole in their crops. Where they had access to water the crops were empty, showing that the digestion had been rapid.

When a farmer becomes burdened with a big lot of poor stock, etc., he is then in a fair way to lose money, and to become discouraged and ready to declare that farming don't pay. Poor stock will burden any farmer, and the wise man who owns any of this class of animals will make every endeavor to get rid of them as soon as he can stock up judiciously with better ones.

There are cows which can never be kept clean, and which seem to delight in fouling their udders and hind quarters, and plastering their sides with filth by dipping their tails in the gutter and lashing their flanks with them. This all comes from education. A well trained cow has no such unclean habits, and, once brought up in a cleanly manner, will preserve the habit, and save a great amount of labor and worry thereafter.

Nearly half a century ago, Joshua Van Cott, a great horse authority, used the following recipe for curing heaves in horses. It has been regarded as a precious secret until quite recently: Take forty sumach buds, one pound resin, one pint ginger, half pound mustard, one pint unslacked lime, six ounces cream tartar, four ounces gum guacum, one pound epsom salts; mix together, divide into thirty powders and give one every morning in horse's feed before watering him.

In keeping a horse fat there is as much in the driver as in the feed. A horse well curried and rubbed with a woollen rag afterward is sure to make a sleek-coated horse, and when well groomed is, we may say, half fed. A cross and nervous driver will fill the horse with fear and dread, and will rapidly run his horse down. Use any animal kindly. Always be firm and make it mind, but never get excited. A cool-headed driver makes a long-headed horse.

Sheep on the farm are almost a necessity in these times of advancement in farming. The highest authorities on agricultural economy claim that there must be a variety in stock as well as in crops to attain the greatest success on the farm, and sheep are admitted to be the best adapted to foul lands. Their size makes them very convenient to furnish meat for the farmer's family. Their products are marketable when there is little else on the farm to bring in ready cash. They fit well to the large gap between hogs and cattle.

The Poultry Yard.

Corn is not a good food for the fowls in warm weather as it is too heating in its nature. Oats are much better at this time of the year and if the fowls are confined especial attention should be given to furnishing them with a variety of food.

Sunflower seed is an excellent egg producing feed and as it is so easy to raise it should be fed liberally to the fowls. The seed should be planted about corn planting time and the crop will furnish a large bulk of excellent food with very little trouble or expense as they can be grown in odd corners where nothing else could be raised.

Charcoal is an excellent purifier and the fowls are very fond of it, if fresh. If they have free access to it they will eat it quite eagerly and seem to be very fond of it. It is especially valuable in summer, as it serves to keep the blood pure and free from disease which is so common during the hot summer months.

A dust bath is as necessary for fowls as a water bath is for man. It cleanses the feathers and rids the skin from vermin and impurities of all kinds. A little sulphur dust mixed with the ashes would make it even more beneficial in its results as sulphur in any form is very obnoxious to insects and vermin of all kinds.

If there are any rats about or near your poultry houses they should be destroyed at once, as they are a very trouble-some pest and destroy a great number of young chickens, frequently kill ng whole broods in a few days or nights. They do most of their work at night and in many cases the loss would not be near as great if rat proof coops were used which could be shut up securely at night and thus shut out enemies of all kinds. The poultry quarters are not complete if they do not contain shade trees or a contrivance of some kind to protect the fowls from the hot summer sun. If trees cannot be had plant some rapid growing foliage plant for the purpose of supplying shade and do not forget to have fresh water before the fowls every day, as it is a very important part of their requisites during the hot weather.

It is now, during the summer months, perhaps, that the breeder is most ashamed of his fowls that have frost bitten combs, for it detracts materially from their beauty and looks especially bad during the warm pleasant weather of spring and summer. It is a constantly occurring grievance to breeders and owners of the large-combed breeds, for the large tender combs will most surely be frosted unless particular pains are taken to save them. Even after they are frosted the combs can be saved from presenting an unsightly appearance by a little attention and care on the part of the keeper. The following treatment has been recommended and is a good one: In the morning rub the afflicted parts with a preparation consisting of two parts of distilled glycerine and one part of turpentine. At noon apply sweet oil and rose water (three parts of the former and one of the latter) and in the evening glycerine and turpentine again. This is a very simple and cheap remedy and will many times save the fowls from becoming disfigured by the loss of part of their comb which makes them look all the worse after the warm weather comes and the danger is past. So it would be a good idea for the breeder of large combed fowls to cut out this remedy and practice it on the young chickens he is raising this year and see if he cannot bring them out in better condition another spring.

POUNDMAKER'S PRISON LIFE.

He is Allowed to Wear His Hair and Smoke Tobacco.

A gentleman thus writes of Poundmaker and the other Indian and halfbreed prisoners incarcerated in the Stony Mountain Penitentiary:—The warden led the way to the garden, and here we saw the veritable Poundmaker, a trifle thinner it is true than when we saw him first at Battleford, but still "the noblest Indian of them all," and looking quite young considering his forty-four years. He wore the convict dress, but it was hidden in a great measure by the blanket he is allowed to use, and the hideous shoes worn by the ordinary convict do not disfigure the Cree chief's feet, for he still wears moccasins. His long black hair of which he is so proud has been spared by the authorities, and hangs down in a long plait almost to his knees, and is covered with a twisted handkerchief from the vulgar gaze on account of the number of visitors who hanker for a lock of his hair by way of relic. He had been strictly cautioned against parting with his hair in this way, as the authorities do not wish to see the great chief Poundmaker go back to his people baldheaded at the end of his three years. When we first saw him he was walking slowly down the centre walk in the garden with the prospective governor of Assiniboia, Alexander Fisher, trotting by his side like an attendant terrier, but on seeing the warden, he approached us and shook hands with a smile. Through his interpreter, Alex. Fisher, of Batoche, a small sized, sharp-faced little man, with a cunning smile whenever he addressed you, we asked Poundmaker several questions as to how he felt, how he was treated, and what he thought of the place.

"I was in this country when I was a young man," said the chief, "at the stone fort, on the Red River, over twenty summers ago. This place was not here then. It is not a very bad place here, and Mr. Bedson is a good man, but it is not like being out on the prairies where I have my young men to do what I tell them. But I must not complain for the government is very good to me. The walls of that building," said he, pointing to them, "are very thick, and the poor Indian could not get out, but the white chief opens the door for the Indian to walk out and see the trees and sun."

The interpreter said Poundmaker appeared well in health, and never complained. He is allowed the use of tobacco, and we accordingly presented him with a cigar. Several of the rebel half-breed prisoners now came up, all being dressed in convict clothes, with their beards cropped short. We questioned them through the interpreter as to how they felt, and they all complained of ennui. Their bones ached with not having sufficient exercise, and they would all be glad when they got some work to do. So far, they had nothing to complain of either as regards food or treatment, and all appeared to think very highly of Mr. Bedson. Neither Monkman nor Lepine put in an appearance, and those we saw, amongst whom were Parenteau and Champagne appeared silent and downcast, and declined to talk, and were evidently glad when we ceased questioning them. Alex Fisher, on the contrary, was brisk and chipper, and talked away at a great rate, and when we turned to leave, wished us good-bye very pleasantly. The last seen of Poundmaker, he was seated inside an arbor in one corner of the garden, puffing away at his cigar and looking contentedly down upon the attendant Fisher, who seems quite contented without his governorship.

Speaking about Poundmaker, Warden Bedson said it was not the intension to treat the chief harshly, or to put in force all the rules and regulations of the penitentiary in his case. He will be allowed to wear his hair, and be given as much liberty as is consistent with safety, and any employment given him will be in the open air. At present he is studying botany under the tuition of Alex. Fisher, and the general impression is that his term of imprisonment will be curtailed considerably. The half-breed rebel prisoners will be put to work this week, and then they will probably not suffer so much from ennui.

London Dock Laborers.

In sunshine or shower, fog or fair weather, the approaches to the docks and wharves of the metropolis are every morning thronged by crowds of eager, anxious men, struggling—nay, in many cases fighting like wild beasts—to obtain work within the gates.

As the hour draws near for the ringing of the great bell announcing the commencement of work, a crowd of often a couple of thousand men press around the principal entrance of the London docks, and, as the big gates swing slowly open, the mighty mass of humanity rushes forward like an overwhelming flood to the chain-barrier where the Superintendent gives out the metal tokens entitling the holder to employment within.

Of course he shows preference to those previously employed, but there is always the chance of obtaining a ticket, and the men strive to clutch one of the talismans with intense, passionate eagerness. They push, and jostle and struggle, leaping on each other's shoulders and fighting and wrestling in the mad rush like famishing animals, rather than human beings.

The most desperate determination is written on every face, and there is small thought in the mind of any man of that surging crowd, for anyone but himself.

For work means food—poor and scanty, no doubt, but still something to keep the terrible wolf from the door. Failure means semi-starvation, or worse.

But of the crowds who struggle and fight at the gates, frequently not more than one-third are selected, and the remainder, bearing their sad fate with as much philosophical fortitude as they can muster—perhaps it is stony despair, rather—turn disconsolately away, some to seek work at other places which open later, and others to wait for "calls" which may occur at any time during the day.

Thus a visitor, strolling through the fine docks, and admiring the shipping and immense quantities of merchandise piled on every hand, is suddenly arrested by the strange sight of a sea of white, anxious faces, pressing wistfully against the bars on a side entrance. Yes, men are still waiting there for any call for laborers that may come during the day. And presently, as you wait, the Superintendent appears, and cries:

"One man wanted!"

Instantly all the watchers spring up like caged animals when food is brought them, yelling, shouting, and extending their hands. They leap on each other's backs, and clamber up to the topmost rail; and all this feverish excitement is to obtain one little metal ticket—perhaps for one hour's work—entitling the owner to fivepence, or sixpence at most!

One out of the large number receives the ticket, apparently by chance, rather than by any other manner of selection, and then the noise subsides, and the men wait on, patient, dogged, hungry—yet as before.

At another time the call will come for two men, and the same scene will occur again, and so on throughout the day. But of the great numbers who crowd the gates in their desperate struggle to obtain employment, only a very few, comparatively, can ever be engaged. One in every three or four appears to be the average number who obtain work.

Extraordinary Case of Hydrophobia.

A singular case of madness in a dog has occurred at Brighton, Eng., which will doubtless engage the attention of the faculty. One day a retired carpenter, Thomas Potter, of Queen's Gardens destroyed himself by cutting his throat, and the evidence pointed to the fact that he was not of sound mind, one of the family being an inmate of the Hayward's Heath County Lunatic Asylum, and his own actions being of a character which induced his friends to keep a watch upon him. On the morning in question he was suddenly missed, and found weltering in his blood, which was being licked by an Italian grey-hound belonging to his son, a gymnast, who was training it for a series of performances. It was with that end in view constantly kept indoors, and could not have been bitten by any rabid animal, and had, previously to the above circumstance, shown no symptoms of rabies. Two days after, however, the dog was found to be ill, foamed at the mouth, was to all appearance going mad. The owner, being of opinion that many dogs were destroyed as rabid that were not so infected, kept the animal confined in the hope that he might benefit science thereby; but, although properly cared for and treated, the animal became so infuriated that it was found necessary for safety's sake to destroy it, the animal being afflicted with hydrophobia in its worst form. No other solution of the dog's condition can be given by its master than that it was infected by the blood of the unfortunate man who, in a fit of insanity, had committed suicide.

"I Don't Want Relief, But Cure," is the exclamation of thousands suffering from catarrh. To all such we say: Catarrh can be cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It has been done in thousands of cases; why not in yours? Your danger is in delay. Enclose a stamp to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., for pamphlet on this disease.

Every succor in the land ought to be put through a "course of sprouts."

An Important Arrest.

The arrest of a suspicious character upon his general appearance, movements or companionship, without waiting until he has robbed a traveler, fired a house, or murdered a fellow-man, is an important function of a shrewd detective. Even more important is the arrest of a disease which, if not checked, will blight and destroy a human life. The frequent cough, loss of appetite, general languor or debility, pallid skin, and bodily aches and pains, announce the approach of pulmonary consumption, which is promptly arrested and permanently cured by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Sold by druggists.

The brewer who maketh good beer in the day and putteth a good head on it is better than he who drinketh the beer at night and waketh up in the morning with a good head on himself.

Weak lungs, spitting of blood, consumption, and kindred affections, cured without physician. Address for treatise, with two stamps, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

A man of mark—a marquis.

A Voice From London

Repeats the oft repeated story that Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is the best, least harmful, most certain and prompt of all preparations ever offered for the removal of corns. Kennedy & Callard London, Ont., writes, "Nothing ever introduced has given the satisfaction that Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has. "We recommend it." Beware of cheap or poisonous substitutes. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston. Always safe, harmless and sure.

A Baltimore man called a letter carrier a liar and was promptly knocked down. He is now punishing the Government by going to the post office for his own mail.

Like Lightning.

The rapid action of the "great pain cure," Polson's Nerviline, in relieving the most intense pain, is a matter of wonder to all who have used it. There is nothing surprising in its results, for it is made of the strongest, purest and most efficient remedies known in medicine. Nerviline cures toothache instantly; cramps in five minutes; neuralgia after two applications; rheumatism is at once relieved by its use; and the same may be said of all kinds of pain. Sample bottles, costing only 10 cts at any drug store. The large bottle only 25 cents. Polson's Nerviline sold by druggists and country dealers.

Crocodile farming is rapidly becoming a leading industry in certain localities. The largest animals are killed and skinned, their flesh being used to feed their descendants. One dealer last year supplied a tanner with 5,000 skins.

It is beyond all doubt that "Myrtle Navy" is the favorite tobacco with the smokers of Canada. They obtain more enjoyment from it than from any other tobacco made and those of them who have used it long enough to test its merits never abandon it for any other brand. The reason for this preference is that the "Myrtle Navy" is made of the very finest leaf which is grown and that in every process of its manufacture the most vigilant care is exercised to preserve the genuine aroma of the leaf.

If you wish to paper a whitewashed wall, brush it over with a strong alum water.

Alma Ladies' College, St. Thomas Ont., has full staff and complete course in Literature, Music, Fine Arts, and Commercial Science. Re-opens September 10, 1885. For 50 pp. announcement, address Principal Austin, B. D.

The laborer who is worthy of his hire is also worthy of his lore.

Prevention Better Than Cure.

Many of the diseases so prevalent in these days are caused by using soap containing impure and infectious matter. Avoid all risk by using PERFECTION Laundry Soap, which is absolutely pure. Ask your grocer for PERFECTION. Manufactured only by the Toronto Soap Co.

A.P.246

FARMS FOR SALE.—All kinds.—Send for list JOHN J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IMPERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACKING

PURE BRED AYRSHIRES for sale; two sows, two yearling heifers and one bull. Write for description, price and pedigree to G. W. BAKER, Trafalgar.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—100 acres, 3 miles east of the city of St. Thomas. For particulars address J. J. LESLIE, New Sarum, Ont

It is conceded by all that the DOMINION BUSINESS COLLEGE, Kingston, is deservedly the most popular business training school in Canada.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, Temperance St., Toronto. Patrons, Gov. Gen. of Canada, Lieut.-Gov. of Ontario. The most successful Veterinary Institution in America—Over five hundred graduates in successful practice. All experienced teachers. Session begins Oct 21. Fees Fifty Dollars. Principal, PROF. SMITH, V. S.

A SUCCESS AGAINST ALL PREJUDICE will have Rye Water has proved itself a success, by all who have used it according to directions, if their eyes were curable, as will be seen by the undersigned certificates. It cured me, 5 years blind, oculist failed. O. Fortin; it has cured me, oculist would not try me. Alexander Wand, 6 years blind, Chas. Amiot; 4 years, Miss Dufour, 33 years blind and now I see, John Leonix. Ask your druggists for it. Wholesale—Lyman Sons & Co., 384 St. Paul St., Montreal

PRINTERS WHO REQUIRE

New or Second-hand Presses,

OR OTHER MACHINERY OR MATERIAL OF ANY KIND, will get the lowest prices and best terms from

J. H. VIVIAN,

27 & 29 Adelaide St. East, Toronto.

AUGURS WELL BORING BUY THE STAR.

Will bore 5 to 25 inch hole; hand or horse-power; 50 feet per hour. Our combined auger and Rock Drill a grand success, worked by steam or horse-power. Send for Cats. &c.

66 Mary Street, Hamilton, Ont.

JAMES PARK & SON

Pork Packers, Toronto.

Long Bacon, Rolled Spice Rounds, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Hams, Dried Beef, Breast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock

FOR PLEASANT SEWING

USE ONLY

Clapperton's Spool Cotton!

Warranted PURE, Smooth, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that Clapperton's name is on ticket. For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT SACHETS, placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc.—They drive away and destroy Moths and other insects. Imparting a delightful and delicate perfume to the articles carried or worn upon the person they are by their powerful combined disinfectant properties, a perfect means of protection against infection and disease, giving off at the same time a most delightful odor; made entirely of satin in assorted colors, very pretty, unique, and neat. Every one should have them. Price 15c. each—three for 25c. Thymo-Cresol Soap, the great English disinfectant toilet soap, awarded the gold medal, London, Eng., 1884. Large cakes, price 15c., or 25c per box of 3 cakes, postage paid to any address upon receipt of price. Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 750 Craig St., Montreal. Circulars and descriptions of our English Thymo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application. Agents wanted. Write for terms.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships

Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland. Also from Baltimore via Halifax and St. John's, N.F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow line sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia, fortnightly.

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; E. Cunard & Co, Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's, Nfld.; N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B.; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co, Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. & A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

Ontario Agricultural College

WILL RE-OPEN ON FIRST OCTOBER.

EXAMINATIONS FOR ADMISSION ON 2ND OCTOBER.

Course of instruction SPECIALLY ADAPTED to wants of farmers' sons. For circular giving information as to terms of admission, cost, course of study, etc., apply to

JAMES MILLS, M.A.,
President, Guelph.

(Name this paper.)

The Earle Co Washer is the best Washing Machine invented that a weak woman of five years old, without the use of a washboard, can with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent for trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear on clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash cotton in five minutes, cotton goods in 30, woollies in 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 76 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada

TRY PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER. Pure Gold MANUFACTURING CO. 18 FRONT ST. EAST. Toronto.

GURNEY & WARE'S

STANDARD SCALES

Are the Best. Attested by the fact that more are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' & Butchers' Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.

Housekeepers, Consult Your Best Interests

By purchasing a scale, and in buying one be sure to get the best. Our scales are fully warranted in every particular. All sizes Railroad, Warehouse and Mill Trucks. Alarm Money Drawers.

For sale by the Hardware Trade generally. Illustrated Catalogue and Price List forwarded upon application.

GURNEY & WARE

HAMILTON.

WAREHOUSES—Montreal and Winnipeg.

A Reward for the Conviction

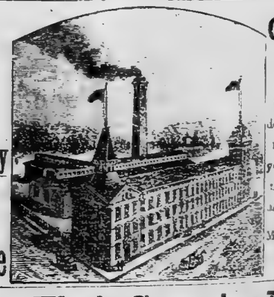
Of Dealers who offer and Sell In- McCOLL'S Inferior Oil of Coal Manufacture for

The Above Reward LARDINE MACHINE OIL.

Eureka Cylinder, Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. | For sale by all leading dealers. | McColl Bros & Co Toronto

THE "SUNBEAM" WRINGER

ONLY $3.00.



The Cheapest in the Market.

Warranted first-class, or money refunded. Send direct to manufacturers, or procure from your Hardware or House-Furnishing dealer.

HAMILTON INDUSTRIAL WORKS CO., MANUFACTURERS, HAMILTON, ONT.

Meriden Britannia Company FINEST Electro Plate

CAUTION

Goods stamped [illegible] Silver Plate Co. are not our make. If you want reliable goods, refuse getting [illegible] made by the MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.

Examine Their Superior Merit!

GURNEY'S NEW HARRIS HOT AIR FURNACES FOR WOOD

The Most Effective, Clean, Durable and Economical Heaters in the Market for warming, ventilating Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Stores and Private Residences. Simple construction and easily managed, capable of giving more heat with less consumption of fuel than any heating apparatus. Are Absolutely Gas Tight. Will Save Stove and can be set either in Brick or Portable Form. Correspondence solicited. Five Catalogues and further information address

THE E. & C. GURNEY CO (LIMITED.)

HAMILTON.

If Ruptured
Chas. Cluthe's ... Truss ... Doctors ... all states ... 8th Edition. Address Chas. Cluthe, 118 King st. West.

IMPROVED

...AGE TOPS are the best in the ... from your Carriage Maker.

...TION!
...Plug of the
...LE NAVY!
MARKED
& B.
...onze Letters.
...THER GENUINE

...proved Plough Harness
...to Orchard Work.
...injure trees. Easy on man and ...alities guaranteed. Money re... ...actory after a fair trial. Price ...and bridles.
...EY & CO.,
...BORNE, ONT.

...HIS OUT
...y Co-Operative
...Machines!
...ARE THE—
...THE MARKET.
...! NEW FURNITURE!
...oved Attachments
...r similar machine $80
...e only $25 each.
...stamp for our elegant ... ...teed for three years and ... ...machine will do well to write ...
...D-OPERATIVE
...Machine Co.
... St. UTS. HAMILTON.

...nviction
...ferior Oil of Other Manufacture for
...NE ... Will Be Paid
...OIL.
McColl Bros. & Co. Toronto

...RINGER! ONLY $2 00.
Clothes wringer of All Kinds.
"Royal Can... ...lian," "Imperi... ...al," "King," ... Mangles, Two Roller and Three Roller. Write for particulars.
...ERS, HAMILTON, CA...

CAUTION
Goods stamped Meri... ...den Silver Plate Co. ...re not our make. ...you want reliable goods ...uaist on getting those ...made by the MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.

...r Merit!

PEOPLE.

...Luigi Canepa, a composer whose ... works have had some success ... is writing an opera with the title ..., which represents an episode ... history in the time of the ...

...special invitation of the Emperor ..., Mme. Christine Nilsson has ... singing for the first time in Berlin. ... performance will take place on ... the opera selected being "Faust," ... all the members of the ... will be present.

...the actor, got into a street car ... He says: "The seats were ... A lady had her little boy in ... side of her. She told him to ... the old gentleman, meaning ... I came home feeling my 54 ...

..."Wieland and Reinhold," ... first appeared in Germany, con... ...extraordinary estimate of ... German musicians by one ... German poets. In 1793 Wie... ... to Reinhold: "I should be ... your ... could occur on a day ... operetta 'Der Baum der Diana' ... the music of which is said to ... truly sweet and charming— ... other hand, Mozart's 'Figaro' ... add to the pleasures of ... but ... before yesterday, is the most ... thing I have ever heard in my ...

... Evarts fell in love with his ... she was sixteen, and he a green ... She was the daughter of ... Wardner, of Vermont, and was as ... young hearts was homely. They ... at her home in Vermont, ... away to New York, prom... ... when he had made enough ... his marrying. At twenty-five he ... a name for himself as a lawyer, ... a member of one of the chief New ... making, it is said, a to... ... At this time he mar... ... after bearing him thirteen ... is still well and happy.

... is a while the question is heard: ... the heroine of Mrs. Tilton?" The ... woman who was a few years ago the ... widely known American woman in the ... lives with her aged mother, Mrs. ... on Pacific street, in Brooklyn, in ... and quiet. Ever since the remark... ... she has lived in the same ... The home of Mrs. Tilton with her ... is one of taste, refinement and eleg... ... Many of the pictures that were made ... by the repeated yarns in the court... ... of now Theodore, in his nightshirt, ... around the house rehagging them ... hours of the night, are to be seen on ... of her present brown-stone home.

... story was told about Mr. Henry ... reception of Harvard alumni at ... When the English actor visited ... President and Mrs. Eliot were ... spectators at his first perform... ... in order to do honor to the ... was invited out to Harvard, ... the college "lions" and finally en... ... at a luncheon to which a select ... distinguished ones were bidden. ... way, Mr. Irving," said the presi... ... with a praiseworthy desire to open ... conversation upon a subject of general ... "Are you a university man?" ... was the actor's answer; then, as ... that the reply might be taken as ... implying disrespect to the col... ... colleges in general, he added, "but ... master here is."

... new volume by Mr. Read, the veter... ... reporter, ... "hearing and mis... ... some amusing illustrations of ... sometimes made by reporters ... imperfect hearing, caused not ... by the imperfect articulation ... speakers they were reporting. Thus ... was once written down for "over ... looking to the Roman eye" for ... from their home on high;" "a ... for "a goose and a goat;" ... Ayr" for "county sur... ... speaker to parliament once said, ... in the Turks was t? To be a na... ... was printed "To be in Asia." ... Mr. Bright's ... was transformed into "vendors of ... the latter part of the statement ... reforms in this country have been ... about by pressure," was reported ... about by Prussia." "Pew rates ... greatest enemies of the Church" was ... into "Curates are the greatest en... ...

...Event Names for Children.

...correspondent sends the following in... ... clipping from an old country ...

...after following the battle of the ... hundred and nineteen children, ... as well as females, received "Alma." ... Christian name, Balaklava, Inkerman ... also speedily gave their ... English infants, and one "Siege ..." was registered. The acquisition ... in the Mediterranean during ... was the means of introducing ... into English personal nomenclature; ... to a later date still, a laborer's ... ... Cambridgeshire, in ... 1882, was named "Tel-el-Kebir." ... events as well as military, find their ... in names. "Charter" is a record... ... recalling the popular move... ... and "Reform" is also an ex... ... denomination. In a birth register of ... appears as the personal designation of ... Mrs. Thorpe, who became a mother ... the startling name "Leviathan." ... lady, it is stated, was born or ... time of the launching of Brun... ... steamship, which was at first ... though it has since been known as ... Eastern. A little girl, daughter ... keeper, born early in the last nam... ... in Sussex, received the name ... presumably in commemoration of ... departure of the Zoological ... from Regent Park to America. ... correspondent adds: Whilst on the ... of names, what do you think of the ... which I well remember appeared ... time in the monthly Army ... some years since, "William Wellington ... Humbly?"

Turning Points in Life.

... now and then, in history, or in the ... literature and science, we find ... instance of turning-points in ... ground we see how a scandal ... or the prohibition of a ban... ... brought a revolution, and precipitated ... Look at literary or scientific ... Think of Crabbe's timourously ... Edmund Burke, and inducing him ... his poetry. I have no doubt but ... was very busy. But with lightning ... he looked over the lines and satisfied ... that real genius was there. When ... Burke, ever generous and enlightened, ... made up his mind to take care of him ... look at Faraday. He was only a poor ... bookseller's poor boy, working hard and hon... ... but disliking his employment, and in... ... with a pure thirst for knowledge. He ... managed somehow or other to hear the ... great chemist, Humphry Davy, at the Royal ... Institution; and with trembling solicitude ... sends him a fair copy of the notes which ... he has made of his lectures. The result is that Michael Faraday receives an appointment at the Royal Institution, and lays the foundation of his splendid and beneficent career. Looking back to the past, that was a great moment in the life of Columbus, when, resting on a sultry day beneath the fierce Spanish sun, he asked for a drink of cold water at a convent door. The prior entered into conversation with him, and—struck by his appearance, and afterwards by the magnificent simplicity of his ideas—gave him the introductions he so sorely needed; and thus Columbus gave to Castile and Arragon a new world.

A report of a base ball game says: "Larkins knocked Fulton, the new pitcher, all over the field." This must have been an agreeable change for the umpire. It is a long one that has no turn in it.

By the Gate.

BY JAMES BERRY BENSEL.

Right over my shoulder I saw the moon,
The thin half-circle was floating there
Like a golden strand of my darling's hair
In the rose scented, star-lit air of June;
And, gazing upward, I breathed a prayer.

"Fold her about with happiness, Lord—
My bright-haired, brown-eyed, beautiful maid;
And make me more meet for her love," I prayed,
While the moon like a bit of golden cord
There in the heavens above me stayed.

And that little prayer of my heart—Ah, me!
I think God heard it and gave her the best,
The happiness wrapt in immortal rest;
She sleeps in her beauty so quietly
With placid palms clasped on her pulseless breast.

Now as I stand here and look at the sky
A lone bird chirps in the tree by the gate,
While I in my solitude pray and wait;
And the night-wind passes me gently by
As the full moon rises up round and late.

Go, wind of the night, unto those who weep!
Bear them, I pray you, the message I send;
Say that the sorrow-touched heart of a friend
Speaks as he stands where the shadows are deep
Here by the gate where the tree-branches bend.

One by one fade out the lights in the town
As we have seen lights in our lives grow dim;
Soft on the air floats the sound of a hymn,
And the snowball flowers drop their petals down,
And the dew drips over the lilies' brim.

Then I turn away from the gate once more,
Away from the brook as it flows and falls,
From the bird that hides in the tree and calls
A faint farewell, when I open the door
And meet the silence that stands in these halls.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

By the Author of "The Flower Girl," "Lovely Lady Lynhurst," &c , &c.

CHAPTER II.—(Continued.)

"Then it is more serious than I thought," the old woman said slowly. "Some one should speak to the child."

"Yes, yes," burst out Tom eagerly; "that's what I come to see you about. I am such a blundering fool, I should spoil everything; and she'd never forgive me if I doubted her; and, though she doesn't love me," the poor lad went on, unconscious that he was betraying his own secret, "she would hate me then; and I couldn't bear that! But it breaks my heart to hear Meg and the other girls talking of her as they do—and, oh, Mrs. Lane, she likes you—Dolly, I mean—and I know, if you'd give her a bit of advice; she'd listen to rea-on; she has no one to tell her or to warn her! And then I'm frightened about old Adam. If he should get to hear anything, there would be murder and no mistake, for he worships Dolly; and if he thought any harm had come to her through the Captian, he'd as soon shoot him as look at him."

"Well," said the widow, with a slight shiver, caused by Tom's energetic speech, "I'll make a little excuse and come up to the forge this evening; and then, If I can get Dolly by herself, I'll put her on her guard."

"And you'll be very careful what you say?" urged Tom. "Dolly is so proud, and—and"—with a gulp—"I dare say she is a bit fond of the Captain—leastways, he's handsome enough and soft-spoken enough to turn a lassie's head."

"Leave me to go my own gait, lad," the good woman answered, nodding wisely. And Tom having thus far accomplished his errand successfully, was fain, with many expressions of gratitude, to take his leave.

The old clock in St. Jude's tower was striking six as widow Lane put up the shutters of her front parlor, called by courtesy a shop, with unusual punctuality; and then, equipping herself in her bonnet and shawl, she turned the key in the street-door, and set her face towards Adam Jarvis's forge. In her hand she carried a lock which needed some repairing, and which would serve as a pretext for her visit to the blacksmith's.

Fortune however favoured her in an unexpected manner, for half way down the straggling street she saw, tripping along towards her, pretty Dolly Jarvis herself.

She wore a crimson kilted skirt, and instead of the rusty velveteen bodice, she had a black scarf with a woven border of gold crossed on her bosom, with one end thrown coquettishly over her left shoulder, while, in place of the old straw hat, her head was covered with a closely-fitting hood—to match the skirt—and from which the wavy chestnut hair peeped out, forming little tendrils on her smooth fair brow. A very graceful quaint little figure she looked, making a strange contrast to the other village girls with their unkempt tresses, slovenly dresses, and generally dirty and untidy appearance. It was hardly to be wondered at if other young men besides the rustic swains were not indifferent to pretty Dolly's charms, the widow thought as she stopped to speak to the girl.

"Its a nice evening for a walk," she said plesently, "and, if you're not bound on any particular errand, it's with you I'd like to go, just as far as Oliver's Mount to see the sun set."

If Dolly had not just then been thinking of something else, she would have laughed wickedly at the idea of the boxom widow's sudden turn for sentimentality, and have guessed it was a viel to hide her real reason for wishing for her company.

"Oh, no, I was only going for a stroll myself!" she answered, so readily however that the old woman, who had surmised from her "smart" appearance that she was up to mischief, so to speak, decided that her suspicions were unfounded.

So the two turned together—a queerly assorted couple—and began slowly to ascend the winding path leading to the acclivity called Oliver's Mount.

"It's many years since I dragged my old bones up here," declared the widow, as she dropped panting on to a bench placed half-way up the steep ascent for the accommoda tion of wayfarers; "but, when I was a girl, I used often to climb this path, for it was poor Jim's favourite walk, and few were the evenings we didn't watch the sunset in those, my courting days."

"You've lived in the village nearly all your life, then?" Dolly said, a little absently, for she was wondering whether a group of equestrains she saw in the distance below was the party from the Hall.

"Ay, ay—I was born here. There've been Langtons—that was my maiden name—here, year in, year out, since Cromwell's time. They served the Braithwaites in those days even as they do now, though I've heard my father say there had been Braithwaites at the Hall long even before that, and a scapegrace wild set they were, though generous and open-handed, to give 'em there due."

"What did they do to get such a bad name?" Dolly questioned interestedly.

"Well, you see, they were what they called Royalists—they took the side of the King ... the man Cromwell wanted to get the ... him; and no wonder, for he was not of much account, I've heard tell—and they drank and fought and gambled and cheated and made love to all the pretty girls they came across; they didn't care whether they broke their hearts or not, or what lies they told, or what promises they made, so long as they amused themselves. There wasn't a girl in the country-side, gentle or simple, who hadn't cause to rue the day she made the acquaintance of a Braithwaite. There was one Sir Henry Braithwaite, who actually ran away with his neighbour's wife, and another who starved his own wife to death because he fell in love with and wanted to marry another lady; and they thought nothing of robbing and killing any one who tried to prevent their wrong-doing."

The widow was drawing pretty freely upon her imagination, noticing all the while, with secret satisfaction, that Dolly was listening with wide-open eyes expressive of surprise and incredulity.

"They couldn't all have been so bad," she said softly, when her companion paused, more for want of breath than because she had exhausted her category of the sins of the Braithwaites. "There's Sir Ralph now; I never heard that he robbed any one, or, in fact, did any harm at all, and I'm sure Captain Braithwaite is——"

But here Dolly paused, coloring deeply as she met Mrs. Lane's scrutinising gaze.

"Oh, Sir Ralph has grown steady with age!" she said, finding that Dolly made no attempt to finish the sentence. "I dare say he was wild enough in his youth; and, as for the Captain, what's bred in the bone is sure to come out in the flesh, and the less said about him the better."

"I'll tell you what it is!" Dolly cried, with sudden passionate indignation. "I hate people who are so mysterious, and hint at all kinds of horrid things, but will say nothing plainly. Captain Braithwaite is a gentleman at least, and I for one don't heed the village-gossip."

"Hoighty-toighty; but you needn't be so fiery about him, its little you know about him or his, my lass!" the widow rejoined drily. "Though, now I come to think of it, I may be wrong, for I've heard that, like the rest of his kind, he sometimes passes an idle hour with you. Take care, Dolly—remember, 'tis hard to play with fire without getting burned."

"Oh, I see! So that is why you wanted to see the sunset from Oliver's Mount—to have a chance of giving me a lecture," the girl laughed bitterly. The widow's words had wounded her cruelly, perhaps all the more because of a vague doubt and unrest that had begun to harrow her own soul. "I suppose you are like the others,—you think that Captain Braithwaite is simply amusing himself with me."

As she spoke she drew herself up with all the dignity of a queen her eyes flashing and her bosom heaving with emotion. The widow regarded her now with unfeigned surprise.

"What else should he be doing, child?" she asked a little impatiently. Then, more gently, as she saw the tears standing in the girl's bright eyes, and laying her hand on her arm—"My dear, I knew your mother—she is gone now—let me speak to you in her stead. I don't say you've meant to do wrong; but, my girl, can't you see that you're putting your name in every one's mouth, being seen about with Captain Braithwaite? Its not only that he has a reputation for being fast, but he's a man who is on the point of being married——"

"It's false!" interrupted the girl raising her head, which had been drooping, and stamping one little foot passionately on the ground.

"No; it is true," the widow rejoined firmly. "I thought you knew what everyone else in the village knows. Captain Braithwaite is to be married to his cousin, Miss Geraldine Mainwaring, in the spring. If you don't believe it, ask him yourself, next time you meet him, and see if he will dare to contradict it."

"It is false!" repeated poor Dolly, clasping her hands together; but her tone was less assured, and she was beginning to tremble violently.

"My dear child!" cried the widow pityingly and in genuine alarm.

She stood up, and would have drawn the girl—who had risen also, and was confronting her with, oh, such misery in her bright blue eyes, such a pained look on her white scared face!—towards her; but Dolly, with a low cry, eluded her grasp, and without casting so much as a glance behind her, turned and fled down the narrow pathway which they had ascended so short a time before, leaving the worthy dame literally dumbfounded at the result of her well-intentioned "warning."

CHAPTER III.

"There must be no more trifling, Harry; either you make up your mind to marry Geraldine at an early date, or I wash my hands of you and your debts. The estate is heavily burdened enough already—it will bear no more. Besides, it is not fair to Percy."

Sir Ralph Braithwaite spoke without temper; perhaps he remembered his own youthful peccadilloes too well to visit the sins of his younger and best-loved son too heavily upon him.

"Oh, Percy knows how to take care of himself!" the young man said, with an impatient shrug of his shoulders. "And I must say it is a little hard on me, at my age, to expect me to settle down into a benedict. One naturally desires to see a little of life while one is blessed with youth and freedom."

"I think you have seen a little of life, as you call it," the old baronet replied, laying his hand significantly on a pile of unpaid bills that lay on the escritoire beside him.

"Well, one can't live on the air!" Harry declared irritably, following his father's glance. "And it costs something to keep up the family dignity if one is in a crack regiment and belongs to an ancient family like ours."

This was a sop in the pan, for Captain Braithwaite knew his father's pride of race was a weak point with him; but the old gentleman was not to be thus molified.

"Ah, um! What is this!" he questioned, turning up a blue document from amid the heap beside him; then, after reading aloud a list of expensive wines that had been supplied to his son, he added drily. "That does not look much like living on the air, does it? You want me to settle with your creditors. I tell you I cannot afford to do so; but I will stretch a point to oblige you—conditionally. It is a simple question for you to decide."

Harry fidgeted uneasily. In his mind's eye at that moment was a graceful little figure in a crimson kilted petticoat, with soft lustrous eyes that sought his own in perfect trust. For a minute his good angel predominated, for a minute he bitterly regretted his selfish conduct, and would fain have undone the work of the last few weeks. It had been the maddest folly, and he had never intended to seriously engage the girl's affections—as for marriage, such an idea as that between himself and Dolly Jarvis was too ridiculous to be entertained! Yet those hours passed in the company of the village belle had not been without their charm. Was it his fault, if, carried away by the excitement of the moment, he had spoken words which should never have passed his lips, if his manner to her had been such as to mislead her? Well, well, it was over now; he supposed he must marry Geraldine, since his people would have it so, and Dolly would wed one in her own station of life—Joe Smith perhaps. It would be best so, an easy solution of all his difficulties; and yet, with strange inconsistency, he bit his lip at the thought.

"Well?" queried Sir Ralph, who had been patiently watching his son as he went through his mental struggle, knowing full well how it would end, how it must end.

"I suppose I've no choice in the matter, sir," the Captain said, a little sulkily.

"I'm glad you've sufficient sense to see it in that light," Sir Ralph rejoined, taking care to suppress all signs of the satisfaction he felt at his son's decision, which he knew would only gall the young man. "Geraldine is warm-hearted and true to the backbone, and, with her money, she might do better than wed a graceless ne'er-do-well."

"Thank you!" Harry cried, rising hastily. "Don't try me too much, father. I have consented to make the bargain you desire. You pay my debts, and I marry my cousin; there the matter ends."

"Not quite," Sir Ralph returned, still good-humouredly. "Whilst we are about it, we may as well fix the wedding-day."

"Oh, hang it all, I'll leave that to you!" the Captain cried, dismayed at the other's promptitude, and chafing to end the interview.

"This is August," announced Sir Ralph calmly; "suppose we fix the first of February for your marriage—that is, if Geraldine is agreeable and does not consider it too soon after my brother-in-law's death?"

Harry groaned, but made no audible reply.

"It is settled then," his father went on composedly. "You had better speak to your cousin at once."

As Captain Braithwaite left his father's presence, he encountered the subject of their late conversation, ready equipped for riding.

"Oh, Harry," exclaimed the girl, with a little pout of the ripe red lips. "I've been waiting for you at least five minutes."

"What a sad trial of patience, ma cousine!" he rejoined gaily.

Since it had to be done, he would put his fate to the test, without farther delay, he decided, as he swung Geraldine into the saddle, and then himself mounted the chestnut cob the groom was holding for him. Not that he had much doubt as to what Miss Mainwaring's answer would be when he put the momentous question to her, he thought, a little ruefully. Her preference for him had been sufficiently marked, and until lately Harry had proved himself one of the most devoted of the heiress's worshipers, for, although he did not actually love her, she had been as nearly his ideal as any one he had hitherto met, and he had been content to hover around her, to pay her those little nameless attentions so natural to a man of fashion, to whisper soft little sentences which might mean so little or so much. And, truth to tell, there was a great deal that was lovable and worthy of esteem in Geraldine Mainwaring. Her features were regular, her hair dark as the raven's wing, her complexion that of a brunette, her brown eyes large and piercing, yet she just fell short of being a beauty. Mr. Mainwaring had been an American financier, and had wedded pretty fragile Grace Braithwaite, Sir Ralph's only sister, when quite a girl. She had died when Geraldine was fifteen. Since then Geraldine had been at a Continental boarding-school. Mr. Mainwaring had been killed in a railway-accident a few months before, and then Geraldine had found herself thrown upon the world, an orphan and the possessor of a large fortune.

If Harry Braithwaite entertained no warmer feeling for her than cousinly regard, it was different with the girl. Even in those early days when her father was either too greatly absorbed in his speculations, or he found the journey across the Atlantic too long to spare the time to visit his daughter, and she had been accustomed to spend her holidays at Braithwaite Hall, Harry had been the object of her passionate attachment. With her elder cousin Percy she was shy and reserved, which might perhaps be accounted for by the fact of his being several years her senior. Harry's regiment had been quartered in Ireland for some time, so it happened that the cousins had not met for several years, Geraldine having been on a visit to some of her father's relatives when Harry had been on furlough.

It was during the long summer that Captain Braithwaite, deprived of his cousin's presence, and finding the time hang heavily on his hands at the Hall, had made the acquaintance of pretty Dolly Jarvis. Accustomed as he was to the society of fashionable belles, he had all the more readily fallen a victim to the bow and spear of the unsophisticated rustic beauty, with her childish simplicity, quaint artistic tastes, and native manner. He had not dreamed that she would attach any serious importance to the honeyed speeches which fell so naturally from his lips when he was talking to a pretty girl. He had forgotten that what was merely a pastime to him might be attended with danger to Dolly—still less did any thought of Geraldine ever arise to make him desist from his harmless flirtation, as he called it in his own mind.

And then one day there had come the unwelcome knowledge that his difficulties were becoming so great that he must do something to extricate himself, that he must rouse himself from the easy dolce far niente state of existence into which he had been drifting, if he would avoid ruin and disgrace; and with that knowledge came another. Dolly Jarvis loved him with all the intensity of her simple childish heart, loved him with all the purity and depth of a first love, whilst he—well, he loved her after his own careless selfish fashion.

To his mother, in a sudden fit of confidence one day, Captain Braithwaite bemoaned the tangled mesh in which his affairs were involved, and received from her the warmest sympathy; but she could only declare her inability to help him except by giving him the same advice that he received later from his father.

"Why don't you marry, my boy," she had said—"some one with money, of course? That would be the easiest and most pleasant way out of your difficulties. You can hardly expect your father to do any more for you. He has paid your debts so often that really I don't see how it is to end, unless you will follow my counsel. There is Geraldine coming on a visit next week. You used to be very fond of each other, and she has a nice little fortune—enough for you both to live on comfortably; at any rate, it is worth thinking about."

And, being an astute woman, Lady Braithwaite said no more, certain that her words would be more likely to bring forth fruit if they were left to take root of their own accord. And Captain Braithwaite did think of it; and, not being quite heartless, and experience having taught him the advisability of being off with the old love before he was on with the new, he thought he would break off his acquaintanceship with Dolly Jarvis before the arrival of his cousin, to avoid any complication that might otherwise arise; or, at any rate, he would delicately hint to the blacksmith's daughter upon what footing they must meet in the future. So he had planned the interview in the pine-wood now more than a week ago; and, in a moment of weakness, he had, instead of loosening his chains, but riveted them more tightly.

Since then he had bitterly regretted his conduct, for he had come to the conclusion that, though Geraldine was not quite the style of girl he would have chosen, she would make him a most desirable wife. And, on this day, as they cantered down the avenue of chestnuts, he determined to put all thought of Dolly Jarvis out of his mind. She would probably hear of his engagement to his cousin soon enough; and then, if he chanced to see her, he could explain all to her. She would be a little sorry at first, of course; but then she would see things from his point of view and be reasonable. In his own heart however he questioned Dolly's "reasonableness," having an uncomfortable recollection of the scene in the pine-wood.

Geraldine Mainwaring noticed her cousin's abstraction, and regarded him a little curiously from time to time, though she made no effort to break the silence into which they had fallen. But presently, when they pulled up after a brisk canter along a wide-spreading common, Captain Braithwaite spoke.

"Geraldine," he said suddenly, without any preamble, "do you think you could ever care for me enough to be my wife? I know I am a poor match for you; but we have in a manner grown up together, and—and if you will entrust yourself to me no effort shall be wanting on my part to make you happy."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Lawyer's Story.

Speaking about hats reminds me of an incident that happened several years ago, when I was living at a fashionable house, in a leading city. It was rather a high-toned place and contained among its members as fine a lot of young ladies and gentlemen as you would care to meet. Well, one day in midsummer—and it was a terribly hot day, too—while we were all down at dinner, a man entered the hall door, which was standing open, and gathering up the hats on the rack in a pile—there were about thirty of them, and some fine ones, too—he started down the front steps. Before he reached the sidewalk he met a salesman who was a little late for dinner, and who asked him what he was doing with all those hats. "Why," said the fellow, "I'm a hat dealer just around the corner, and I'm going to clean these hats while the gentlemen are at dinner." "All right," replied the salesman, "take mine along, and clean it up, too." There was soon the biggest crowd of bareheaded clerks in that house you ever saw. And the one who saw the rascal lugging the hats all off, and helped him, too, by giving him his own hat—well we nearly thumped the life out of him.

Cannibalism is still practiced by 1,250,000 people, and it is very evident that the demand for missionaries will long exceed the supply.

HOW BANKS ARE SWINDLED.

The Trick by which a Bankrupt Merchant Stole Fifteen Thousand Dollars.

"Banks are constantly being imposed upon," said the cashier of a large bank, "and the public knows nothing about it. Why, if I was to tell you that the son of one of the largest dry goods merchants in New York had presented two forged checks to this bank within the past month, got money on both, and escaped arrest and publicity, you would hardly believe it; but it is so. His father made good the amount. Almost every week some one manages to defraud us some way, and it is only once in six months we ever report the case to the authorities

"Some years ago," continued the cashier, I was the paying teller of a bank in a large Western city. Among our customers was a wholesale merchant named Henderson, who did a very large business with our bank. He was in the habit of drawing large sums to meet his bills, which were heavy, and all these passed through my hands. Among Mr. Henderson's business associates was a man named Hirtz, who had lately come to that city from the East. He was a commission broker, and sold Mr. Henderson a great many goods, for which he received Mr. Henderson's check on our bank. One day Mr. Hirtz brought to the bank a check for $15.000. It was the largest check he had ever presented. I hesitated a moment about paying it. I examined the writing carefully. It was evidently Mr Henderson's signature, and there was no question about the bearer being Mr. Hirtz. I asked the book keeper how much money Mr. Henderson had to his credit. He had $18,000 So I paid it. Mr. Hirtz took thirty $500 bills, and left the building with the money carefully concealed in his inside vest pocket. This was on Saturday, just before bank closed. Monday afternoon Mr. Henderson sent a check for $6,000 to the bank. I sent back word that his account was not large enough to cover that amount. In a few minutes Mr. Henderson appeared at the bank himself. He was evidently very angry.

"'What do you mean,' said he," 'by sending such word to me?'

"I mean," said I, "that you only have $3,000 to your credit."

"'That is not so,' said he; 'I have $18,000 here, and if those figures are not correct I shall make this bank some trouble.'

"'You did have $18,000 last Saturday, but Mr. Hirtz drew out $15,000——'

"'Mr. Hirtz did nothing of the sort.' interrupted the merchant hotly. 'Mr. Hirtz did not draw one cent on Saturday.'

"'Is this your writing?' I asked, producing the check Mr. Hirtz had given to me.

"Mr. Henderson was amazed as I laid down the paper before him.

"'That certainly does look like my check,' he said. 'It certainly does. But it is a forgery.'

"Now it was my turn to be amazed. If I had paid a forged check of that size I could count my chances of holding my position with a cipher. We took the check to the cashier and examined it together, and then we compared it with his other signatures. It was so nearly like them that we could hardly tell them apart. The only difference was that it was not written in the ink Mr. Henderson usually wrote with. We sent down to Mr. Hirtz's office, but it was closed, and his clerk did not know where he had gone, but believed he had left for New York. He had made his escape. This strengthened Mr. Henderson's statement, and after a few days we made good the amount and my resignation was demanded. I told our President that I thought there was some mystery about the matter, and I had the check lithographed for my own use A month later Mr. Henderson surprised the business community by failing, and after the settlement with his creditors he came out a bankrupt. I determined to ferret out the mystery, and for considerable time I searched the country for any news of Mr. Hirtz, but all to no avail. Finally I came to New York and secured employment in the bank where I am now.

"About a year ago, while I was sitting in my private office, I was surprised to see Mr. Hirtz. I recognized him before he did me.

"'How do you do Mr. Hirtz?' I said.

"The man blushed, stammered, and finally, recognizing me, turned and tried to escape, but I caught him by the coat collar and held him fast. He made no struggle, but sat down.

"'What are you going to do?' he asked.

"'Have you sent to the penitentiary.'

"'If you will let me go I will confess the whole thing.'

"'What good will that do me?'

"'You won't help justice any by convicting me,' he replied. 'I didn't forge that check.'

"'Who did then?'

"'Mr. Henderson.'

"'Mr. Henderson?'

"Yes. I was a poor broker in that town when I first met Henderson. He gave me a good many orders, and finally asked me how I would like to make $1,000. I told I would like it.

"'All right.' said he. 'You present my check for $15 000 at the bank, draw the money, bring it to me, and I will give you $1,000. Then you go to Europe for six months. There will be no trouble, no worry, no risk, and you will be $1,000 better off.'"

"'I did as he suggested, gave him the money, and left that night.'

"'What did you do with the man?" we asked.

"Nothing. He had papers in his pocket which proved that he had told the truth. Mr. Henderson was dead and Hirtz was a bankrupt, and as he really didn't mean to do wrong I let him go. Henderson had beaten the bank out of that much money, just like robbing it. I have no doubt other similar crimes have been committed, but I never heard of them."

Endurance of the Esquimaux.

The amount of cold these northern nomads can endure, however, borders on the phenomenal. I have seen the little babies, two and three years old, play, perfectly naked, for hours at a time, on the reindeer robes of the bed in the igloo, the temperature as I have said, being constantly below freezing; and in the fall I have seen them naked, playing and splashing in a pond of water, long needles of ice forming on the quiet places. I once saw an Esquimau baby boy taken from its mother's hood, and naked, made to stand on the snow until she found its reindeer skin clothing from the sledge, a fairly strong wind, sufficient to drift the loose snow along with it blowing at the time, the thermometer minus 38°, the only protection it had being a sledge loaded about three feet high, around and over which the wind poured. Its exposure thus was a good minute, and to appreciate this one must take a watch in his hand and see that length of time drag by, a time that a not unconscientious but sensational writer might readily jot down as five or ten minutes.

And I have known a naked man surprised asleep in his igloo by a polar bear, hastily grasp a gun and pursue his enemy 200 or 300 yards in the snow, the thermometer 15 to 20° below zero, and slay him.

These Esquimaux rub slushy snow, dipped in water on the runners of their sledges with the open palms of the hands until it freezes into solid ice, the thermometer being from zero to 80 below, when I have known it to be done. I have seen an Esquimau traveller throw himself on the snow and rest comfortably for half an hour, the thermometer 71° below zero, or 103° below freezing, and probably doing some light work with ungloved hands. The Kinnepetoo Esquimau, who seldom build even the small fires of the native stone lamp in their igloos during the very coldest weather of winter, are probably the hardiest of all these boreal tribes in withstanding low temperatures, and sit around in their cold, cheerless snow houses with only their undergarments on (the Esquimaux has two suits of reindeer skins, the outer with the hair turned outward, and the inner with the hair turned to ward and resting against the body), their arms withdrawn from their sleeves and resting on their bare bodies across their breasts chatting all the while pleasantly about various matters, the thermometer often being below zero; in fact, the only warmth the snow house has is that given off by their bodies.

Number Thirty-nine.

The main point in Russia's judicial proceedings is frequently not to weigh a prisoner's guilt, and fix upon the consequent penalty, but merely to keep him in durance vile. If he is safely in custody, the law shows no further interest as to his case. It can wait, and he, unfortunately, must. The case of "Thirty nine," a woman who had fallen under the suspicion of the Government, is cited in "Russia Under the Tzars," in illustration of this state of affairs:

She was accused of being in communication with conspirators, and of having been a member of a secret society hostile to the existing Government. These charges she at once denied. She was then accused of other offences, and many searching questions were put touching her supposed connection with the revolutionary movement. All were answered in the negative.

"Very well," said the procurator, at length, "you will have to reflect. Take number Thirty-Nine back to her cell warder."

She went back to her cell, rejoicing at having come so well out of the ordeal, and that the police had so little against her. She was full of hope as to the future.

She was then allowed to reflect at her case; she could not complain that the even tenor of her thoughts was disturbed by too many distractions. A whole week passed; a second and third. An entire month elapsed, and still nothing was said about another examination. The month multiplied by three, by four, by six.

Finally when, at the end of the seventh month, she had almost abandoned hope, she was called before the procurator to undergo still another questioning. The examination was sharp and brief.

"Have you reflected?"

"Yes, I have reflected."

"Have you anything to add to your previous depositions?"

"Nothing."

"Indeed! Go back to your cell, then."

This time she does not return to her cell with a light heart and beaming countenance She feels crushed and confused, weighed down by a strange, almost agonizing sense of apprehension and despair.

A maniac in number Thirty-eight is knocking furiously at the wall.

"Wretched traitress that you have been to denounce me. Here is a man with a sack of rats that he is bringing to devour me. Coward, coward that you are!"

The poor lunatic is in one of her paroxysms

A horrible fear takes possession of the prisoner's mind.

"Dreadful! dreadful!" she cries. Shall I one day become like her?"

The months come and go; they multiply themselves into years. The captive is undergoing a terrible crisis. Her yearning for air, movement, liberty, has grown intense, becoming almost mania. She has entreated the officials to send her to exile, to Siberian mines, to sentence her to pena the servitude.

The procurator has several times visited her cell.

Have you anything to add to your disposition?" has been his invariable question.

"No."

"Very well; I must still leave you to your reflections."

In the meantime the bloom of health has quite vanished from the prisoner's cheeks. Her complexion has assumed that yellow-green tint peculiar to the young who linger long in captivity. Her movements are slow, indolent automatic. She can remain half an hour in the same position with her eyes fixed on the same object, as if she were buried in deep thought. Her brain has become torpid; she passes the greater part of her time in heavy drowsiness, mental and physical.

What will become of poor Thirty-nine? There are many alternatives for her. If by some shock, her vital energy should be awakened, she may strangle herself with a pocket-handkerchief, or poison herself.

She may go mad, or die of phthisis contracted in prison.

If, however, by reason of abnormal strength of character, and vigor of constitution, she survive until the day of trial, her judges, out of consideration for her tender age and long imprisonment, may let her end her days in Siberia.

The Editor Held the Fort.

A few years ago a large number of railway passenger agents were congregated at Jacksonville, endeavoring to secure business for their respective roads, as the travel of Northern tourists happened to be very large that Winter. While the passenger agents were infesting the hotels and making things lively and having a jolly time among themselves, the editor of one of the Jacksonville papers came out in an editorial and called the passenger agents body-snatchers, and declared that they were a nuisance, and stated in positive terms that they should be kept away from the depots by the police. The article aroused the ire of the passenger men, and they held a meeting in a hotel to devise ways and means to be avenged.

Beau Campbell offered a motion, which was adopted, to appoint a committee to be called the retraction committee, who should call on the editor and compel him to apologize. Mr. Campbell, so the joke goes, was made chairman of the committee, and in company with several others started in search of the office of the abusive paper. After some difficulty the office was found, and, ascending a couple of flights of dark, rickety stairs, Mr. Campbell and his committee entered a room and discovered a thin, consumptive-looking little man seated at a pine table, writing by the light of a dirty tallow candle.

"Are you the editor and responsible man of this paper?" said Campbell, becoming very bold as he noted the fact that the editor was a very diminutive man.

"Yes, sir, I am the editor and responsible man."

"Well, sir, did you write this outrageous article?" thundered Campbell, as he put on a look of terrible rage.

"Yes, I wrote that article," camly replied the small editor.

"Then, sir, we demand that you apologize and retract what you have said, instantly," said Campbell, in a thundering manner.

"I never apologize," replied the editor "and I want you to get out of here in very quick style;" and he pulled out of a drawer in the table before him a six shooter as long as a cornstalk and covered the crowd with it. Col. Bob Garrett, who was there to render moral support to the committee, says he reached the bottom of the stairs first, with the rest of the committee galloping close at his heels.

When the committee reached the hotel the other passenger agents were anxious to know what success they had met with. Mr. Campbell, after calming himself, explained that the intention was laudable, but owing to circumstances the execution was faulty. He also remarked that his friends would have to wait until the Gulf was frozen over before he would consent to serve on a retraction committee again.

Col. Garrett says the next morning the editor came out in his paper and ripped the boys up the back, but no one cared to call his attention to the matter.

What It Would Cost.

It is fearful to think what an enormous expense it would be for Patti to bring up a child. She would have to sing it to sleep every night for about three years, and at the regular rates this would amount to £1,000,000. Then if she should have to sing one or two extra verses to it each night, the amount would rise to £1,500,000, providing that the child was always in good health. Allowing the usual third for sickness, she would have to sing to it all night for 365 days, say five hours at a time. £800 for a few minutes singing is her usual price. One night of sickness would therefore cost £48,000.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

"The Marquis of Londonderry, wholesale and retail dealer in coals," is a sign to be seen in different parts of London.

In some of the public hospitals Japanese paper handkerchiefs, are now used, with much satisfaction for drying wounds.

It is a curious fact that wasps' nests often take fire, as it is supposed, by the chemical action of the wax upon the material of which the nest is composed. Many of the fires of unknown origin in haystacks and farm buildings may thus be accounted for.

A citizen of Kansas has in his possession the ballot he cast in voting for General Grant, in 1868. It was printed on silk, and after it had been kept on the file, as the law required, in the office of the clerk, he obtained it, and will hand it down to his children as an heirloom.

A man put a large spider on a floating chip in a pond. After walking all about the sides of the chip the spider began to cast a web for the shore. He threw it as far as possible in the air and with the wind. It caught on some blades of grass. Then turning himself about, the spider began to haul the chip toward shore.

The Cheniere, as well as Grand Isle in the Gulf of Mexico, was once a sugar plantation but the force of constant winds, blowing from one point of the compass, has several times caused the rollers to sweep across it for several days, and this, after a time, made the saccharine juice more salt than sweet. The people are obliged either to use the wood drifted in upon the waves or bring it in luggers from a distance. As the salt in the drift wood rusts the cooking stoves there are none in use on the island. But if the meals are cooked upon an iron frame in a great, wide-mouthed fire place they lose none of their savoriness thereby.

The Journal of Chemistry relates that a celebrated Parisian belle who made a profuse use of cosmetics from the soles of her feet to the roots of her hair, took a medicated bath, and on emerging from it was horrified to find herself as black as an Ethiopian. The transformation was complete; not a vestige of the "supreme Caucasian race" was left. Her physician was sent for in alarm. On arrival he laughed immoderately, and said: "Madame, you are not ill, you are a chemical product. You are no longer a woman, but a sulphice. It is not now a question of medical treatment but of simple chemical reaction. I shall subject you to a bath of sulphuric acid diluted with water. The acid will have the honor of combining with you; it will take up the sulphur, the metal will produce a sulphate, and we shall find as a precipitate a very pretty woman." The doctor went through with his reaction, and the belle was restored to her usual color.

A Boy's Hunt for Office.

Soon after President Cleveland took possession of the White House a little chap about twelve years of age, named Howard Fairfax Lee, obtained an audience, and earnestly pleaded for an appointment in one of the deparements, to assist in supporting his mother and several brothers and sisters. The little fellow pressed his claim in such a manly, straightforward way that the President's interest was excited, and he resolved, if the case proved, on examination to be a worthy one, to assist the young office-seeker. Howard is very small for his age, but is remarkably bright and intelligent, and expresses his ideas of men and things in language that would do credit to a person many years his senior. He lives beyond the city limits, in the vicinity of Brightwood, and is the eldest of four or five children. The President spoke to Secretary Manning about providing a place in the Treasury Department for the boy, but when the latter made his appearance before the Secretary he was pronounced too small to be of any material value to the public service. Thereupon Howard repaired to the White House, and, with tears in his eyes, told the President the result of his interview with Secretary Manning. Some one suggested to the little fellow that he would probably be more successful with Secretary Lamar. Off he went to the Interior Department, where he found the Secretary surrounded by a roomful of politicians and office seekers. He finally got an opportunity to state his case to the kind hearted Secretary, who at once became interested in his story and promised to help him. Day after day the youthful applicant haunted the corridors of the Interior Department and watched his chance to steal an interview with the Secretary when the vigilant colored messenger was not looking. Finally the boy was taken sick, and the Secretary missed his visits to his office. One afternoon last week the Secretary, upon inquiry, found where the little fellow lived and called to see him. Finding that the case was really a deserving one, he informed the boy's mother that her son should have an appointment as soon as he was able to be about. The good news quickly restored Howard's health, and a day or two ago he was appointed a messenger in the Pension Office.

Never Too Late To Learn.

Socrates, at an extreme old age, learned to play on musical instruments.

Cato, at eighty years of age, learned to speak the Greek language.

Plutarch, when between seventy and eighty, commenced the study of Latin.

Doctor Johnson applied himself to the Dutch language but a few years before his death.

Ludovico Moenaldsco, at the great age of one hundred and fifteen, wrote the memoirs of his own times.

Ogilby, the translator of Homer and Virgil, was unacquainted with Latin and Greek until he was past fifty.

Sir Henry Spelman neglected the sciences in his youth, but commenced the study of them when he was between fifty and sixty years of age. After this he became a learned antiquarian and lawyer.

Franklin did not fully commence his philosophical pursuits till he had reached his fiftieth year. Dryden, in his sixty-eighth year, commenced the translation of the Iliad, his most pleasing production.

Boccaccio was thirty-five years of age when he commenced his studies in light literature, yet he became one of the grandest masters of the Tuscan dialect, Dante and Petrarch being the other two.

We could go on and cite thousands of examples of men who commenced a new study, either for livelihood or amusement, at an advanced age. But every one familiar with the biography of distinguished men will recollect individual cases enough to convince them that none but the sick and indolent will ever say, "I am too old to learn."

Escape of an English Ship.

The captain of the Duke of Devonshire, which arrived at Sydney on the 9th ult., reports having experienced for five hours the roughest weather he ever met with in the Gulf of Aden. Two steamers were observed to founder at the time, but no assistance could be rendered, as they expected their own steamer to go down every moment. The Duke of Devonshire was chartered by the Government to take troops out to India, but the order was countermanded at the last moment. It was fortunate, as with such a number of men on board the hatches could not have been kept closed, and the steamer must have inevitably foundered. Dr Edwards, surgeon of the ship, gives a thrilling account of the passage through the cyclone. He says that on the 31 of June, whilst going through the channel, the advance of morning brought signs of atmospheric changes, the weather became squally and unsettled, and the sea rose with marvellous quickness, huge waves rearing themselves perpendicularly, and breaking in a mass in mid air. For nearly two hours no man on board could move for fear of being blown away. The escape was regarded as miraculous.

When a very mad woman begins practicing with a revolver the wise man always dodges in front of her

The Standard.

MARKDALE SEPT. 17, 1885.

WARM HOUSES FOR WINTER.

The way to make a house warm for winter at a small cost is what many would like to learn, as there are comparatively few really warm and comfortable dwelling houses.

Building paper, or tar paper, has been for many years extensively used in the United States and in Manitoba. It is used both dry and tarred, and is airtight either ways. It is used in flooring, being put between two thicknesses of lumber, also on the roof and around the body of the building.

A few frame houses in Markdale were made warm by its use last year, and, the occupants are unanimous and very strong in their praises, of the benefits of the new idea, and state that they could not have been made to believe the improvement it would make, and the comfort secured by this cheap mode of keeping out jack frost, had they not tested it for themselves, and that, during the coldest winter on record. The battons are taken off and the tar paper put on, window and door cassings should be sprung out sufficient to let the tar paper slip behind them, then the siding (which is made for the purpose) is put on and should be well painted immediately afterwards. The dry paper is equally as good as that tarred, except that the latter is a good disinfectant, besides vermin will not come near where it is. They are about the same cost. The cost for a house 18 x 24 and 14 feet high is about as follows:

1,500 feet of lumber at $21 ...	$32.00
Tar paper	6.00
Carpenter work	14.00
Nails	1.00
Painting, including windows & cornice	20.00
Total	73.00

It is considered warmer and more healthy than a brick house, and perfectly dry, a very important point. The tar paper can be procured at Haskett Bro's, or almost any well regulated hardware store. Grant & Co. make a good class of siding, so that those in our district can secure their material at home.

WHEN THE CAT'S AWAY, &c.

The boss is away to the Exhibition in Toronto, so I'm going to be editor for this week. He may not be home until after the paper is printed—I hope not anyway—because he is very careful what goes in the paper, and of course if we can just have it out and mailed before he returns, he can't recall it, and I will risk being discharged. I would'nt for anything get the bounce however, for he is the best boss I ever worked for, and besides, it is a tiptop office—plenty of good material, and wages sure. There is other attractions in Markdale besides x x x. Botheration, a fellow can hardly get started to write when, here comes a batch of job work to be done immediately if not sooner, and the boys want copy—dear me.—Well, it's mail time, and here's four parcels of work for Osprey township which must be forwarded, because the boss is very particular in having work from a distance done and forwarded with dispatch. Let me see, where did I leave off—O, yes, the attractions of Markdale.—Pshaw, here comes a man who wants to advertise stray cattle. He says his neighbor lost three head some time ago, and put it in the STANDARD, which was the means of his finding them. All right, Mr.—three weeks for $1.00—thanks. That's one dollar—say, boys, let's have a peck of apples; all right, is the unanimous vote. They have good ones at Benson's. Quick now, we must get this job work done and the paper up by noon to-morrow (Wednesday). Here is a batch of correspondence, now we'll have copy—here's Flesherton, he's a sensible fellow who ever he is, we don't have to re-write his manuscript, and besides, there's always some sense in his corr. Here comes some ladies; wonder what they want? there's going to be a social I'll bet. Good evening, ladies. Good evening; is this the photo gallery? Oh, no, this is the printing office, the gallery is up stairs, next door. Well, I don't wonder so many take this for the picture gallery, for we have more pictures than the ordinary photo. gallery. Well, well, this won't do, I must return to my subject. Christopher! here comes old man Plewes—that'll be a half hour lost.—I know the old gentleman don't mean any harm, but if you give him any encouragement at all, he would talk a fellow to death; I'd rather see the ladies come any time. The old man is so well informed to, on any subject, that it does one good to listen to him; but then sure I can't understand half what he says (he's a Yorkshire man). Dear me, here I'm off again; I can't see how the boss does his writing—just think of having a score of matters to attend to and people to talk to while writing one short editorial, it's no wonder I have got mixed. I wonder what the readers of the STANDARD will think when they read this. The boss sometimes says that "a little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men." So mote it be.

W. T. J.

Flesherton.

From our own correspondent.

W. R. Flesher, Esq., has again taken his departure from our midst, having on Thursday last left here en route for Liverpool, England. On the eve of his departure, our Brass Band, with beautiful torch-light procession, serenaded him at his residence where Mr. Flesher, in his usual thoughtful and liberal manner, contributed handsomely to the band fund, which was gracefully acknowledged and duly appreciated by every member of the band.

On Saturday last the Volunteers of No. 6 Company (Flesherton) assembled in the Drill Shed here for drill and preparation for camp at Niagara. Lieut. Field put the men through their drill in good style, when all left for their homes to re-assemble in the same place on Monday evening when all were present to answer to their names. On Tuesday morning, under command of Capt. Campbell and Lieut. Field, the men marched in military order to the depot, and there boarded the special train for the conveyance of the troops from the north to the front.

Mr. Guss Sproule arrived a few days ago from Mexico, and is spending a short time with his brother and friends in this village.

Captain Madill, of Corbetton, preached in the Presbyterian church here on Sabbath afternoon last.

A reception service was held in the Methodist church on Sabbath morning when six new converts were received into the church.

HONESTY THE BEST POLICY.

An honest medicine is the noblest work of man, and we can assure our readers that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the only reliable, but is almost infallible to cure Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Canker of the Stomach and bowels, and the various Summer Complaints, whose attacks are often sudden and fatal.

Williamsford.

From a Correspondent.

An entertainment of a very pleasing nature took place at Berkeley in the Presbyterian church there on Monday night, that being the closing evening of Mr. Dobbin's Ministry the people assembled to enjoy a farewell meeting. After the good things provided by the ladies, had been examined, a lengthy programme was carried out. Rev's. Messrs. McAlpine and Dobbin were the speakers. Readings were delivered by Miss. A. Horton, Owen Sound, and Mr. R. Avison. A duett by Miss Smith and Mr. W. Smith was well received. At the close of the programme Miss Stewart, Miss Vandusen and Mr. G. Fleming stepped to the platform and in the name of the congregation Miss Vandusen read a farewell address to Mr. Dobbin and Mr. Fleming presented him with a purse, Miss Stewart then addressed the Student in the name of the congregation at Williamsford Station, and presented him with a purse from the people there. Mr. Dobbin replied in appropriate terms. We may add that the purse given by the Berkeley people amounted to $28 and the one given by the Williamsford friends $17. Last Sabbath day Mr. Dobbin preached his farewell to the congregations of Williamsfor and Berkeley. Notwithstanding the threatening state of the weather quite large congregations turned out to hear the last words of him who has labored so earnestly amongst us for the past few months. The farewell was preached from the words "Whose names are in Book of Life," Phil. 4, 3.

Yours,
A FRIEND.

Williamsford 15th September.

SPRING AND SUMMER.

Prepare the body for health and vigor by taking Dr. Chase's Liver Cure. No Spring Medicine equals it. It stimulates the Liver aids digestion, and purifies the blood. Large bottle and Recipe Book, $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Sept.

Meaford Road.

(From our correspondent.)

INJURED BY A BULL.—As Mr. A. Johnston was driving his ox team, (one of which is a bull) from watering them, the bull made a charge at him, knocking him down and giving him some pretty bad bruises had his brother not heard him call and came to his assistance, he would have been killed.

A MAN OF NERVE.

We all admire a man of nerve, who is cool-headed and equal to any emergency, but nervous debility is the prevailing weakness of most people. Burdock Blood Bitters is a good nervine and general tonic, which regulates and strengthens the whole system, imparting bodily and mental vigor.

Exhibition Number.

The Globe printing company, Toronto, issued a monster exhibition number of that paper on Wednesday the 9th, in honor of the 41st anniversary of the Provincial Exhibition. The paper contains 88 pages and a four page tinted cover, and may safely be said to be the largest paper ever issued from any Canadian press. Thirty-five thousand copies were printed and the weight of the paper used was nine and a half tons. The copies, if laid in a pile folded as they come from the press, would reach half a mile high and 276 feet beyond. If laid in a continuous string, page by page, they would reach nearly 255 miles, or as far as from Toronto past Lake Nipissing to Lake Temiscamingue; or from Toronto in an air line to fifty miles beyond Detroit.

Glenelg Fall Show Prize List.

Class 1.—Horses.

	1st.	2nd.	3rd.
Span General Purpose	$2.00	$1.50	$1.00
Span Carriage Horses	2.00	1.50	1.00
Buggy Horse ...	1.50	1.00
Saddle Horse ...	1.50	1.00
Mare, foal by her side	2.00	1.00
Spring Colt, gen. purpose	1.00	50
" roadster	1.00	50
Colt, or Filly, 2 years General Purpose	1.00	50
Colt or Filly, 1 year General Purpose	1.00	50
Colt or Filly, 2 years Roadster ...	1.00	50
Colt or Filly, 1 year Roadster ...	1.00	50
Speeding in the Ring, for beauty and speed	2.00	1.00

Class 2.—Cattle.

Bull over 2 years ...	2.00	1.00
Bull under 2 years...	2.00	1.00
Durham Cow with pedigree ...	1.50	1.00
Cow, giving milk, Grade	1.50	1.00
Heifer, 2 years, ...	1.00	50
" 1 year ...	1.00	50
Spring Calf	1.00	50
Yoke Oxen	1.00	50
Pair Steers 2 years old	1.00	50
Pair Steers, 1 year old	1.00	50

Class 3.—Sheep.—Long Wool.

Aged Ram	1.00	50
Shearling Ram... ...	1.00	50
Pair Shearling Ewes ...	1.00	50
Ram Lamb	1.00	50
Pair Ewes, raised lambs '85	1.00	50
Pair Ewe Lambs ...	1.00	50

Class 4.—Sheep—Fine Wool.

Aged Ram	1.00	50
Shearling Ram ...	1.00	50
Pair Shearling Ewes ...	1.00	50
Ram Lamb	1.00	50
Pair Ewes, raised lambs '85	1.00	50
Pair Ewe Lambs ...	1.00	50

Class 5.—Swine.

Berkshire Boar, aged ...	1.00	50
" Spring Boar ...	1.00	50
" Sow, aged ...	1.00	50
" Spring Sow ...	1.00	50
Suffolk Boar, aged ...	1.00	50
" " spring ...	1.00	50
Spring Boar any other kind	1.00	50
Suffolk Sow, aged ...	1.00	50
" " spring ...	1,00	50

Class 6.—Poultry.

Best col. Fowls (five)	75	50	25
Pair Geese ...	50	25
" Turkeys ...	50	25
" Ducks, large ...	50	25
" " small ...	50	25
Plymouth Rock, Rooster	25	20
" " Hen...	25	20
Leghorn Rooster ...	25	20
" Hen ...	25	20
White Brahma Rooster	25	20
" Hen ...	25	20
Dark Brahma Rooster	25	20
" Hen ...	25	20
Buff Cochin Rooster	25	20
" Hen ...	25	20
Spanish Rooster ...	25	20
" Hen ...	25	20
Hamburg Rooster ...	25	20
" Hen ...	25	20

Class 7.—Grain.

Bushel Fall Wheat ...	$2.00	$1.00
" Spring Wheat...	1.50	1.00
" Barley ...	1.00	50
" Peas, large ...	1.00	50
" Peas, small white	1.00	50
" White Oats ...	1.00	50
" Black Oats ...	1.00	50
Half bushel Timothy Seed	1.00	50
Six Ears Indian Corn ...	50	25
Collection of Beans, 8 var., 1 peck of each ...	50	25

Class 8.—Roots.

Best col. Potatoes, 6 var. 6 of each variety ...	1.00	50
Bush Potatoes, early rose	1.00	50
" any other kind ...	1.00	50
6 Sweed Turnips ...	50	25
6 Turnips, any other kind	50	25
9 Mangold Wurtzels ...	50	25
6 Blood Beets s..	50	25
9 Field Carrots ...	50	25
6 Early Horn Carrots ...	50	25
6 Parsnips	50	25
8 Roots Celery	50	25
2 Heads Cauliflowers ...	50	25
2 Cabbages	50	25
6 Tomatoes	50	25
Gallon Seed Onions ...	50	25
Gallon Onions, any other kind	50	25
2 Squashes	50	25
2 Pumpkins	50	25
5 Cucumbers, Pickling ...	50	25
3 Citrons	50	25
8 Water Melons	50	25

Class 9.—Fruit.

6 Wiuter Apples	50	25
6 Fall Apples	50	25
8 var. apples, 8 of each var.	50	25
12 Crab Apples	50	25
4 var. Crab Apples, 3 of each	50	25
6 Pears	50	25
3 Bunches Grapes	50	25
6 Blue Plums	50	25
6 Green Gages	50	25
6 Plums any other kind ...	50	25

Class 10.—Dairy

Tub Butter, 50 lbs. ...	2.00	1.00	50
5 lbs Butter, rolls ...	1.50	1.00	50
Cheese, home-made, 10 lbs	1.00	50
100 lbs Wheat Flour, must be shown by manufacturer	1.00	50
2 loaves Bread. bakers	1.00	50
2 loaves, home made	1.00	50
5 lbs Maple Sugar ...	1.00	50
5 lbs Honey, in comp ...	1.00	50
Half gallon Maple Syrup	1.00	50

Class 11.—Manufactures.

Farmers' Wagon ...	$2.00	$1.00
Democrat Wagon ...	2,00	1.00
Buggy	2.00	1.00
Sleigh	1.00	50
Single Cutter	1.00	50
Double set team Harness, '85	1.00	74
Double Carriage Harness, '85	2.00	1.00
Pair Mens Boots, coarse	1.00	50
Pair Mens Boots, fine ...	1.00	50
Set Horse Shoes, unfiled	1.00	50
Pump	1.00	50
Specimen Cabinet Work, '85	2.00	1.00
Panel Door, 1885 ...	50	25
Widow Sash, 1885 ...	50	25
Specimen Cooper Ware, 1885	1.00	50
" Tinware, 1885	1.00
" Marble Work, 1885	1.00	50
" Drawing ...	50	25
" Penmanship ...	1.00	50
" under 15	1.00	50
Collection Photographs	1.00	50
5 yds. Full Cloth, home made	1.00	50
5 yds. Satinet, home made	1.00	50
Fancy Flannel ...	1.00	50
Plain " ...	1.00	50
Pair Blankets ...	1.00	50
Pair Blankets, horse ...	1.00	50

Class 12.—Ladies Work.

Pair Woollen Mits ...	50	25
Pair Mens Socks ...	50	25
Ladies Stockings	50	25
Patch Quilt	75	50
Fancy Quilt	75	50
Log Cabin	75	50
Knitted Counterpane ...	50	25
Crochet " ...	50	25
Embroidery in Cotton ...	50	25
" in Silk ...	50	25
Berlin Wool, raised ...	50	25
Berlin Wool, not raised ...	50	25
Fancy Knitting, Cotton ...	50	25
Fancy Knitting, Wool ...	50	25
Braiding in Cotton ...	50	25
Knitted Lace	50	25
Collection Berlin Work ...	50	25
Hair Work	50	25
Gents Fine Shirt, hand made	1.50	50
Rag mat	50	25
Any other var Mat ...	50	25
5 yards Rag Carpet ...	50	25
Collection Flowers ...	1.00	50
Bouquet Natural Flowers	50	25
Macrame Lace (or Twine work)	50	25
Wax Work	50	25
Ornamental Leather Work	50	25
Pencil Drawing ...	50	25

Special Prizes.

Revere Hotel—best walking team, three times around the ring, 1st, $3, 2nd $1.

J. R. Trimble—for best 2 year old roadster stallion, sired by his stallion "Clear Grit Jr." $5.

A. Turner—best 6 Sweed Turnips $2.

W. A. Brown—best 5 lbs butter, for butterdish (silverplate) value $3.

Hill Bros.—for two bushels best spring wheat, $2.

W. J. McFarland—for best tub butter, fifty lbs, $2.

Thos. Mathews—for best carriage team, Whip, value $1.50.

J. E. Marsh, Markdale House—best single driving horse, $3.

Jas. Bryan—best pen of sheep $3.

Geo. Noble—ten per cent off any implement wanted by exhibitor, for best spring roadster colt.

Wm. Dundas—$1 for peck onions from Dutch Sett, 1st 75c, 2nd 25c.

M. Sullivan—for best Sir Colin colt $2.

Robt. Montgomery—pair Ducks 50 c. pair Game 50 cents.

Wm. N. Haskett 5o cents for best Best Cage Canary Birds.

John Mercer—pair Brahmas 50 cents.

Robt. Askin—for best looking and largest baby under 1 year, photo frame, $1.50. C. W. Rutledge, STANDARD 1 yr, $1, for second prize baby.

James Hamilton—choice of half doz. photos or its value in a framed picture for best Gents Knitted Gloves.

A MALARIAL NEIGHBORHOOD.

People so unfortunate as to reside in a malarial region should clense and thoroughly tone up the system with Burdock Blood Bitters, that promptly acts upon the Stomach, Bowels, Liver and Kidneys, thus preventing Ague and all Bilious Complaints. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Monthly Fairs.

Markdale—Saturday before Flesherton.

Chatsworth—Monday before Durham.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.

Orangeville—The second Thursday in each month.

Priceville—Monday before Durham

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.

Hanover—Monday before Durham.

Walkerton—Last Wednesday in every month.

Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day. Europeau plan, Elevator, Resturant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

IN SEASON.

It is now the season to warn our readers against the sudden attacks of Cholera, Cramp, Colic, and the various Bowel Complaints incident to the season of ripe fruit, vegetables, etc. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the grand specific for those troubles.

Notices of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, twetnty five cents.

BIRTHS.

MONTGOMERY—In Markdale, on the 11th inst., the wife of Mr. Robt. Montgomery of a daughter.

DEATHS.

BOURDEN—In Markdale, on the 13th inst., Mrs. Flora Bourden, sister of Mr. Donald McDuffie, aged 78 years.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 78	to	0 80
Barley	50	to	67
Peas	55	to	58
Oats	29	o
Butter	10	to	12
Eggs	10	to	00
Apples	50	to	75
Potatoes	30	to	40
Hay	0 00	to	8 00
Pork	5 00	to	5 00
Flour	4 25	to	4 75
Wool	17	to	18

Fall Shows 1885.

Industrial, Toronto, Sept. 7th to 19th.

Glenelg, Markdale, Oct. 1st and 2nd.

East Grey, Flesherton, Sept. 29th and 30th.

South Grey, Durham, Sept. 29th and 30th.

North Grey.—Owen Sound, Oct. and 2nd.

Euphrasia, Rocklyn, Oct. 9th.

Osprey, Maxwell, Oct. 8th.

Holland, Chatsworth, Oct. 6th.

Proton, Dundalk, Oct. 5th & 6th.

Holland Centre.—Holland Centre, Oct. 5th.

Artemesia.—Priceville, Oct. 6th.

FARM FOR SALE OR TO RENT.

LOT North ½ 16 on the 11th concession, Holland, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, 30 acres in good state of cultivation, the balance hay and pasture. There is on the farm a good log house and frame kitchen, a good well near the house also a log barn. School and Post-office on the next lot. Will rent for a term of years and take improvements for rent, or will sell on easy terms. For particulars apply to

JAMES BRUCE,
Lilly Oak,
Or to William Steele, Iowa, Michigan.

LOOK! Look! Look!

James C. Russell's
NOTED JEWELLERY STORE,
FLESHERTON,

Is the place to buy
Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.

A large assortment just to hand.

A 1 Solid Silver Watches, Full Jewelled, from $8.50 up to $26, worth from $10.50 to $32.00, warranted from two to five years.

It will pay you to come twenty miles to have your Watch or Clock repaired by Russell.

☞ Satisfaction guaranteed every time.

217-269 JAS. C. RUSSELL.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. R.

OWEN SOUND BRANCH.

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect Monday, August 3rd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 45pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Caledon	9 25 "	6 45 "
Orangeville, Arrive	9 50 "	7 03 "
Orangeville, Leave	10 05 "	7 22 "
Orangeville Jun.	10 17 "	7 34 "
Shelburne	10 45 "	8 04 "
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 30 "
Flesherton	11 36 "	8 55 "
Markdale	11 51 "	9 10 "
Williamsford	12 12pm	9 32 "
Chatsworth	12 26 "	9 49 "
Owen Sound	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 35pm
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 10 "
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 30 "
Markdale	6 27 "	3 52 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 06 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 31 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 57 "
Orangeville Jun.	8 00 "	5 23 "
Orangeville, Arrive	8 12 "	5 35 "
Orangeville, Leave	8 35 "	5 55 "
Caledon	8 55 "	6 13 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Toronto....Arrive	10 45 "	8 20 "

Special Steamship Express leaves Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays for Toronto and Points East, on arrival C. P. R. Steamship from Port Arthur and Points in Manitoba and North West.

STRAYED.

ABOUT July 1st, 1885, from the premises of the subscriber, lot 17, con. 5, Tp. of Glenelg. Three yearlings, one heifer red, two steers, one spotted and the other a brindle color. Parties giving directions as to their whereabouts will be suitably rewarded.

JOHN McVICAR,
261-63 Pomona, P. O.

STRAYED.

TO the premises of the subscriber, Lot North half of 22, and 23, con. 13 Artemesia, about the 15th August, a Ewe and two lambs. The owner is requested to prove property, paycharges and take them.

DAVID GRAHAM,
261-64 Vandeleur, P. O.

J. J. DALTON.

DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Chatsworth Ont.

FOR SALE.

A GOOD horse for sale, or exchange for cattle. For particulars apply to

W. & J. ANDERSON,
260-63 Orange Valley.

Store to Rent in Markdale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

TENDERS.

SEALED tenders will be received up to noon the 30th day of September for the purchase of the old Methodist church, same to be removed from church grounds on the completion of new church. Apply to

G. S. BOWES,
260-63 Markdale, P. O.

Dissolution Partnership

THE partnership heretofore existing between Henry Sparling & J. P. Sparling has this day been dissolved by mutual concent. J. P. Sparling pays all debts and collects all accounts.

Witness—William Hamilton.

HENRY SPARLING,
J. P. SPARLING.

September 7th, 1885.

Important Auction Sale

Of Valuable Village Property.

THERE will be sold by Public Auction on Saturday, October 3rd, 1885, at 3 o'clock p. m. at the Revere House, Markdale, the following Village Property: One-half acre situated on Toronto Street, opposite the Markdale House, adjoining Hill Bro's Block, and within eight rods of the Post-Office. This is a very desirable property, and suitable either for a business site or for private dwelling, being situated in the centre of the Village; and will be sold either in one parcel or divided to suit purchaser.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth of purchase money payable at time of sale, balance to be payable in one or two annual payments from date of sale to suit purchaser; to be secured by mortgage with interest at 6 per cent. per annum. Title indisputable. For further particulars apply to

GEORGE NOBLE,
Auctioneer.

Markdale, Sept. 14, 1885.

B. LAURANCE'S
Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLE

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kep in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuine.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their quality but it further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER &Co., - - Chemists and Druggists

MARKDALE, ONT,

The only place in town where they can be obtained

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

YOU CAN SUBSCRIBE

For any of The

FOLLOWING PAPERS

AT THIS OFFICE:

Daily or Weekly Mail, - - -	Toronto.
Daily os Weekly Globe, - - -	Toronto.
Daily or Weekly News, - - -	Toronto.
Daily World - - - - - -	Toronto.
Family Herald and Weekly Star,	Montreal
American Agriculturist, - - -	Monthly.
Farmers' Advocate, - - - -	Monthly.

☞ Subscription can commence at any time.

STANDARD OFFICE,
MARKDALE.

RUPTURED

AND DEFORMED.

CHAS. CLUTHE, the most practical and experienced man on this Continent for relieving and curing Rupture and Deformities of every description. It will be to your advantage to call on me. 45,000 Trusses adjusted in person. Thousands of Deformed treated. Established 15 years. I will have a full supply of these celebrated Trusses with me at the following places:—

Markdale, Markdale House, Monday, Oct. 26.

Orangeville, Paisly House, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

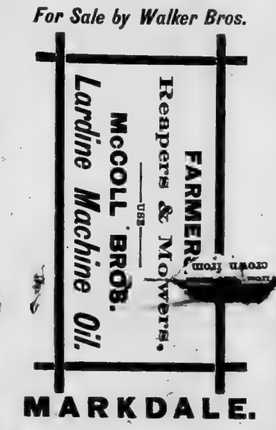
Send 6c. stamp for registered Illustrated Book on Rupture and Human Frame by

CHAS. CLUTHE, Surgical Machinist,
118 King Street West, Toronto, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared, well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft, well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.



On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING,
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

For Sale by Walker Bros.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM

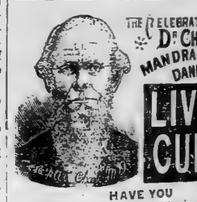
FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LAND FOR SALE

THE north half of lot number 15 in concession 12, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, basswood and hemlock, and is situated 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,



GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers.
253-tf 6mos

BRITISH WORM SYRUP

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is a sure worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Side, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a disordered liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a safe and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with many other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood. 500,000 SOLD Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Book were sold in Canada alone. It is read over and woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy. Price, 25 cents.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Recipe Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful receipts pronounced by medical men and druggists as invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS, 25 cts per box.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS

S. THOMSON & CO., Sole Agents, Brantford

Lumber and Shingles

THE undersigned has constantly on hand all kinds of lumber and first-class cedar shingles for sale. Mill 3½ miles North of Markdale, 11th line Euphrasia.

250-63 FORD & STINSON

Speddings Speedy Saw

THE GREAT ONE MANS SAW. It HAS no equal, average weight 35lbs. A boy ten years of age can run it. One man sawed 3 cords of hard wood in three hours and forty minutes. Agents write for particulars and secure territory at once. Address

SPEEDY SAW WORKS,
Byng. P.O., Ont.
1846

June 30th, '85.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

LAURANCE'S

...es and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

...ADIAN MARKET.

...bbles are kep in stock.

...o Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

...l by and testimonials have been received from the Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical ... e President of the College of Physicians and ... n of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; ... ts of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c.

...ns ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities ... ed, call on

Chemists and Druggists

...RKDALE, ONT,

...n town where they can be obtained ... fitted on scientific principle.

...ness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice. Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

...RIBE

...PERS

...ALE.

...ED

...use.

...use,

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 1... con cession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned, GARROW & PROUDFOOT, Barristers, Goderich.

253-tf

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER, Druggist, Durham.

THE CELEBRATED DR. CHASE'S MANDRAKE DANDELION LIVER CURE

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a deranged liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with many other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood.

500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Books were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Recipe Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful recipes pronounced by medical men and druggists as invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25 cts. per box.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS

T. EDMANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Bradford

Lumber and Shingles.

THE undersigned has constantly on hand all kinds of lumber and first-class cedar shingles for sale. Mill 3½ miles North of Markdale, 11th line Euphrasia.

250-63 FORD & STINSON.

Speddings Speedy Saw

THE GREAT ONE MANS SAW. IT HAS no equal, average weight 35lbs., a boy ten years of age can run it. One man sawed 3 cords of hard wood in three hours and forty minutes. Agents write for particulars and secure territory at once. Address

SPEEDY SAW WORKS, Byng. P.O., Ont.

June 30th, '85. 153-65

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 263. MARKDALE, ONT., SEPT. 24, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH. }

The Markdale Standard

Is published every Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS.—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch ... Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Special notices, or notices in local columns ... cents per line first insertion, 5 cents for subsequent insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for ... advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the option of the publisher.

—x—

JOB PRINTING.

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment for poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

W. RUTLEDGE, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,

(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East, TORONTO.

...51

MASSON & MASSON,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block ... St.; Branch office in Markdale, over ...land's Store, on Friday and Saturday ... week. 57-ly

...Masson. W. Masson.

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, ...ants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.

...ville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate se...

...MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale ..., Markdale, on the 1st and third Wed... of each month and also at Munshaw's ..., Flesherton, the day following the Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession. 122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,

Fashionable Tailor,

OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.

124ly

ISAAC STINSON.

Builder and Contractor

...all kinds of Brick and Stone work. ...imates given. ...work guaranteed. ...ders by mail promptly attended to.

...m MARKDALE P. O.

M. G. GUTHERIE,

Plain & Ornamental Plaster

Opposite the new Presbyterian Church Markdale.

...ches, Cornices Centre Flowers, and all ...s of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime ...ing and Repairs promptly attended to.

JOSEPH GIBSON

CONTRACTOR.

Contracts taken for all kinds of BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at the STANDARD office ... receive prompt attention.

126-ly.

MANSION HOUSE,

MARKDALE,

Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,

MARKDALE, ONT.

J. E. Marsh, - Prop'

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms. Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.

EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.

J. McAleer, - - Prop.

The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

MARKDALE

Roller Mill

Bran $9 a ton

J. W. FORD.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of School Furniture.

Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.

181 ANDREW McGILL.

MARKDALE

HARNESS EMPORIUM

ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.

Thos. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Also agent for the celebrated

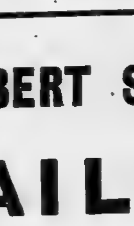
CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND



Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

ROBERT S. RAE,

TAILOR,

Sydenham Street,

MARKDALE.

J. QUINN,

MARKDALE,

Manufacturer of all kinds of

PUMPS,

Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.

Iron Pumps Supplied

Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

Also Agent for Sargent's

PATENT LOAD LIFTER

For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.

☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 21

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.

—THIS NEW—

Patent Process Flouring Mill

Is now completed at great expense, on the

Most APPROVED plans, and with the best machinery manufactured, making it, in every sense of the term, "A Model Mill."

I am therefore in a position to give the public a Superior Article of Flour.

A fair trial respectfully solicited and I have no fear but the result will be eminently satisfactory.

Cash paid for good hard Wheat.

☞ Flour, Bran, Shorts, etc, etc, for sale wholesale & retail.

219 ANGUS PLEWES.

ROBT. ASKIN,

UNDERTAKER,

MARKDALE,

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

—All kinds of—

PICTURE FRAMING

Done on short notice.

ROBT. ASKIN.

MARKDALE

Woolen Mills.

We, the undersigned, would respectfully intimate to our customers and friends that we are still here and prepared to attend to all who may favor us with a call in anything we can do in our line with the best possible satisfaction. Also we will get yarn for those who allow us to do their weaving. ☞ All kinds of merchantable farm produce taken in exchange for work at market prices.

248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND

MARBLE WORKS

H. B. HARRISON,

MANUFACTURER OF

MARBLE AND GRANITE

MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,

Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.

JUST RECEIVED

3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.

H. B. HARRISON.

NEW GROCERY STORE

IN CONNECTION WITH

Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.

Having just received a

Choicee, Fresh and Select

STOCK OF

Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c,

Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.

I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.

198 J. PLEWES.

I AGREE TO DUPLICATE ANY MAKE OR GRADE OF WATCH IN 3, 4, or 5 Oz. CASE

—AT AS—

Close Figures

—AND—

HONEST kept WARRANTS

As any city firm, Grange Agent, or Jew pedlar that tries to deal in this section Grey Co.

W. A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

EQUINOCTIAL gales this week.

BEECHNUT are very plentiful.

FRESH Oysters in to-day at Hanbury's.

MRS. D. E. WRIGHT returned to Toronto this week.

YOUNG men in want of nobby Suits, call at McFarland's.

GLENELG Council meets at the Town Hall on the 28th inst.

ALL Wool Blankets, very cheap at Richardson's, Flesherton.

THE Middaugh House, Durham is to be heated with hot air.

A splendid crop has been harvested in good order in Manitoba.

No. 1 Goderich Salt 75 cents a bbl. at Richardson's. Flesherton.

DR. SPROULE is building an addition to his brick block on Mill St.

NATIONAL PILLS will cure constipated bowels and regulate the liver.

MR. WM. FORD of Normanby visited friends in Markdale this week.

MRS. CRANE, of Owen Sound, is the guest of Mrs. Trimble this week.

FOR Bedsteads, Mattrasses, and Spring Beds, go to Grant & Co.

FAT cattle and sheep for sale. Apply to Mrs. Might, Glenelg. 261-63

EDWARD DAVIS is having a dwelling house built on Queen Street, to rent.

MRS. W. J. McFARLAND is visiting at the Hon. Judge Lazier's, Belleville.

THE STANDARD to the end of the year for twenty-five cents to any address.

MR. W. L. DIXON, has been re-engaged for Priceville school for another year.

MR. THOS. MUXLOW, of Euphrasia, has a farm for sale. See adv. in this paper.

MISS MAMIE BOWES left last week for Collingwood, to attend the High School.

MISS MARY PORTER has been engaged as teacher for S. S. No. 8, Glenelg, for next year.

BEAUTIFUL Tapestry Carpets from 87½ cents a yard up, at Richardson's, Flesherton.

THE next sitting of the Division Court will be held in Flesherton the 23rd October.

THE finest lot of Ulsterings and Dress Goods we have laid eyes on are at McFarland's.

FIVE daily papers in New York have suspended publication since the first of last January.

FOR a Fleury, Wilkinson, or McGill Plough, go to W. Jackson, opposite STANDARD office.

TWO young ladies of Guelph have been rusticating for the past week at the Markdale House.

WORMS cause much sickness among children that Freeman's Worm Powders will surely cure.

LADIES' Wraps in Knitted Wool and Cloth, a choice assortment, at Richardson's, Flesherton.

MR. JAS. BRYAN, of the Mansion House, Markdale, lost a promising young horse last week.

SEE the grand display of New Fall and Winter Goods just opened at Richardson's, Flesherton.

DISASTROUS prairie fires raged in the vicinity of Bismarck, Dak., last week fifty farmers were burned out.

"WHERE DO PEOPLE go who deceive their fellowmen?" asked a Sunday school teacher of a pupil. "To Canada," was the prompt reply.—American ex.

J. R. Trimble has Boots to fit the largest men in the County.

FOR Dress Velveteens in all the newest and prettiest shades, go to Richardson's, Flesherton.

PROF. LOW'S SULPHUR SOAP is a cheap and handy form of obtaining the healing virtues of a sulphur bath.

EAST Grey Fall Show at Flesheton next Tuesday and Wednesday, South Grey at Durham the same days.

LAST week's STANDARD, under the management of our foreman and P. D., was well received by the public.

LOOK HERE.—First class cooking stoves No. 9, trimmed and complete for $16.50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale.

SHILOH'S CURE will immediately relieve Croup Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

VISITORS to the Fair don't fail to visit Richardson's Millinery, Mantle and Costume Show Rooms, Flesherton.

A NASAL INJECTOR free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

IF your child is stubborn or hard to administer medicine to, Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup will be appreciated.

SMALLPOX is still raging in Mentreal and the death rate increasing: there were 246 deaths last week, and 41 on Sunday.

HILL BRO'S large store is crammed with new fall goods, all bought at bottom prices, and will be sold accordingly.

MR. DAMUDE, Secretary, of East Grey Agricultural Society will accept thanks for complimentary ticket to Exhibition.

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

THE Chesley Enterprise says: "The editor of the Mitchell Advocate has eleven boys and each boy has a sister."

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY—a positive cure for Catarrh, Dipthrie, and Canker Mouth. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

HERBERT IRWIN arrived last week from British Columbia, and left this week for Philadelphia and will return to B. C. this fall.

THE Shelburne Economist is two years old, and is a vigorous, well conducted youth. We wish it the success it richly deserves.

THE Markdale STANDARD is five years old. The STANDARD is a first-rate local paper and we wish it unbounded success.—Advance.

THE reason why McFarland downs them all: He Imports Direct and saves his customers the wholesale merchants profit.

CHATSWORTH company (No. 5) numbering 40, left last week for their annual drill at Niagara. They average 6 ft. 1 in. in height.

MRS. A. CHELLEW, of Collingwood, Will., Wes., and Millie Lyons have been spending a few days with their parents of this village.

J. J. IRWIN, our Veterinary Surgeon, is meeting with increasing practice, and is very successful, thus filling a felt want in this district.

WHY WILL You cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief. Price 10 cts., 50 cts., and $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

MARKDALE people are careful of their dry goods to a fault, as a shower of rain on a Sunday keeps them nearly all at home from church.

CUT THIS OUT.—Ladies, consult your best interest by examining Richardson's stock of new Fall Dress Goods before purchasing elsewhere.

THE body of Joseph Cook, a prominent merchant of Kincardine, who was missing for two weeks, was found last week in Toronto harbor.

A MASS of lead in an elevated furnace in Paris was completely dissipated by a stroke of lightning, no trace of the metal being found afterward.

VISITORS to the East Grey Exhibition next week, don't fail to inspect Richardson's immense stock of new Fall Goods in every line complete.

School Books.—A complete assortment of new Readers and other School Books just received at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

GOOD CATCH.—Mr. D. J. Shanahan of this village caught 216 fine trout in the Saugeen on Tuesday, the 15th, the last day of the season for fishing.

PARK lot in Markdale for sale Beautiful location, will be sold on reasonable terms. Apply to R. Freeborn, Williamsford, or enquire at this office. 125-tf

THE new post office in Owen Sound is a substantial and very handsome brick building on Poulett Street, and was opened for business last Monday.

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourbon, Ind., says; "Both myself and wife owe our lives to SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE." Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

FOR DYSPEPSIA and Liver Complaint, you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

JAMES HENERY VAUSE, aged 16 years, shot and killed a fine she bear on Monday, the 14th inst, on his father's farm, lot 31, con. 2, South Durham Road, Artemesia.

ARE YOU MADE miserable by indigestion, Consumption, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x CHANGED HANDS.—The Collingwood Bulletin has changed hands. Mr. J. G. Hands, who has been editor and manager for four years, steps out, and Mr. J. A. Currie steps in.

WE regret to say that owing to heavy losses in handling grain and butter the past year Mr. H. Foster has been obliged to make an assignment. We hope he will pull through.

Mr. Thos. Muxlow, of Euphrasia, has lost 7 head of yearlings cattle. Any information as to their whereabouts will be duly rewarded. See advertisement in this paper.

MISS BREMNER, from the city of London, who has charge of W. J. McFarland's Millinery and Mantle Department, has turned out this week some nobby Wedding Hats.

MISS MAUD RICHARDSON extends a most cordial invitation to every lady visiting the Exhibition on Tuesday and Wednesday next to inspect her stock of Millinery, Mantles and Fur Goods.

THE gate receipts at the Industrial Exhibition, Toronto, for 1884, were $35,877.82, and for 1885, $34,134.00. The Little World receipts were $3,199.40 and the electric railway $2,300, for the present year.

IF you have a Waltham, Elgin, or Swiss Watch broken or injured in any part, leave it with me; I have genuine material, first-class tools, and fifteen years practical experience at the bench. Warrants honestly fulfilled. W. A. Brown, the Reliable Jeweller.

CREDIT SALE.—On Tuesday, 19th inst., by Duncan Arnott, Euphrasia, consisting of farm stock, implements, &c, also hay, straw and wood. Sale at one o'clock. This is an important sale as there is 30 head of stock in the bills. Geo. Noble, Auctioneer.

THE LADIES AID of Presbyterian church will hold their annual bazaar in Agricultural grounds on second day of the fair, 2nd October, where dinner will also be served at 20c. Concert held in Haskett's Hall on evening of same day. A good programme is being prepared.

PAY UP.—All who are indebted to me by over-due note are requested to settle the same immediately at the Banking office of Wm. Lucas & Co., Markdale, where I have placed all my notes for collection as I will be away from town for some time. D. J. Shanahan. 263-64

MR. WM. JACKSON, JR., has made arrangements with Mr. J. H. Hull for his agricultural implement agency, and will in future have all kinds of Fleury, Wilkinson and McGill's implements and repairs always on hand at his show rooms opposite the STANDARD office.

IMPORTANT REDUCTION.—The C. P. R. will issue excursion tickets from Markdale on 25th and 26th Sept. to Detroit $4.00; Saginaw and Bay City, $7.00; Grand Rapids, $8.00; Cincinnati, Chicago and Milwaukee, $10.00. Tickets will be good to return up to 5th October, 1885.

LATE HARVESTING.—Mr. Wm. Cornfield of the 5th line Euphrasia, commenced on Monday last to harvest a ten acre field of wheat, and what is even more strange than the lateness of the harvesting operations, is the fact that it is one of the finest fields of wheat in the township.

John McNassar, Bondhead, writes: "Whenever I feel out of sorts, bilious, or my liver not working right, or racked with a headache, I take Chase's Mandrake Dandelion Liver Cure. There is more real benefit from one dose of your Liver Cure than in many bottles of some medicines." Sept.

IT will pay to see my fall stock of Watches, Clocks, Chains, Rings, Jewellery, Cuff Buttons, Lockets, Necklets, Bracelets, and Fine Silveware, ere you make any purchases, as I have a large and fine assortment at prices that will be found close. W. A. Brown, the Reliable Jeweller.

THE Gospel Army meetings still continue with unabating interest. Over 150 have presented themselves for prayer, and every night witnesses fresh seekers. The work of the last two weeks has reached far and near, and nearly every neighborhood in the vicinity has been effected by the revival.—Dundalk Herald.

THE ADVENTISTS.—The Adventists have once more revised their calculations and now announce that the world will come to an end on May 14, 1886, no postponement on account of weather; at any rate it would be a wise policy for all those who are in arrears for the STANDARD to square their accounts; we cannot tell what a few months may bring forth; but it is always better to be on the safe side.

ERRORS.—In the Globe's report of the Provincial Exhibition at London, Mr. J. R. Trimble is put down for Markham, and in Toronto report in same paper, Paradale gets the credit, while Rev. A. Wilson is down as a Toronto man: those errors are misleading, and have a tendency to detract the credit justly due our village.

MR. W. G. RICHARDS, the energetic and thoroughgoing contractor, is pushing the new Methodist church in this place along rapidly, and will have it completed in November. It is now roofed and the outside work complete except some painting; is also lathed and one coat of plaster on, and floored, so that he will have it finished on time.

THERE will be sold by public auction at the Revere House, Markdale, on Saturday, Oct. 3rd, 1885, that very valuable property on Toronto street, adjoining Hill Bro's block, containing one-half acre, suitable for either business site or private dwelling. For terms and further particulars see posters, an advt. of which appears in another column of this issue.

ALMOST BURIED ALIVE.—On Friday las Mr. Wm. Richardson, who lives about three miles North-East of Corbetton was digging a well at Schell's saw mill when earth fell in at one side, burying him to the chin. A large stone struck him on the right shoulder, dislocating it and breaking the shoulder blade. Parties who were at hand extricated him from his uncomfortable position.—Shlburne Economist.

DANDY DUDE.—A young man of Orangeville—quite a swell—made application to a Markdale boarding house for board last Saturday, representing himself as having secured the situation in McFarland's establishment, about to be vacated by S. M. Smythe. He was provided with a room, and the wants of the inner man also supplied; but! lo, and behold, he departed on the morning train. He didn't even leave his card.

Now is the time to make arrangements for your reading matter for the coming year. Newspapers are both plentiful and cheap, and most papers give in the last three months of the old together with the whole of the following year for the one year's subscription. Those in search of cheap reading should give us a call as we can give the best possible rates for any of the leading papers, besides we save you the risk of mailing money together with postage.

WERE THEY STOLEN.—On Wednesday night, 17th, a pair of oxen was taken out of the field of George Ireton, Glenelg. Mr. Ireton missed them the following morning and tracked them out of the field through the gate and about half a mile along the road, but failed to find them; they however, returned of their own accord the following evening. It still remains a mystery how they were taken out, whether it was an intentional theft, and the thief let the oxen go, finding he was being closely pursued, or, whether they were drove out for a joke, and allowed to return FIRE IN EUPHRASIA.—On Thursday evening last, Mr. Ford, a farmer on the townline of Euphrasia and Collingwood townships two miles from Heathcote had his house, barn and outhouses together with all the seasons grain destroyed by fire. He had just finished threshing and was putting the chaff back into the barn, and worked until after dark, had lantern with him; he went into the house for something and while absent a colt ran over the lantern, setting the straw on fire; there was no possibility of saving anything: the flames soon spread to the house which was but a short distance away. This is a very heavy loss as Mr. Ford had no insurance.

WHAT the Governor-General said about Ont. at the London fair is worth bearing in mind. He had been looking up the figures and found that out of the total number of horses in the Dominion, Ontario owned one-half; out of the number of horned cattle in the Dominion, Ontario owned one-half; out of total of forty-two million bushels of wheat grown in the Dominion, Ontario grew thirty-two millions; out of sixteen million bushels of barley grown in the Dominion, Ontario raised fourteen millions, and out of forty-eight million bushels of roots, Ontario grew forty millions. He might have added that Ontario was also the milch cow of the Dominion, only that it would not have been politic for him to say so.

WOULD commercial union with the United States mean the separation of Canada from Great Britain? The Tory organs argue that it would, just as the Grit organs used to argue some years ago that the N. P. could only have one result, and that was separation. The Grit organs were wrong, and there is no reason for believing that the Tory organs would not turn out to be false prophets also. The British tariff is arranged in the way in which it best suits the British people. Why should not the Canadian tariff be arranged in the way in which it will best suit the people of Canada? We can well understand that commercial union would be objectionable to the manufacturers of Liverpool, Birmingham, Manchester, and other industrial centres in England, but we have yet to learn that this country is being administered for the benefit of the manufacturers of those who tax themselves to raise the revenue. It is absurd to suppose that the people of Canada will not do what is best for themselves, no matter how the interests of capitalists on the other side of the ocean may be effected. If British conection would be jeopardized by commercial union, then so much the worse for British connection.—Toronto Telegram.

THE FARM.

Back to Griggsby's.

Pap's got his patent right, and rich as all creation:
  But where's the peace and comfort that we all had before?
Let's us go a visitin' back to Griggsby's Station—
  Back where we used to be so happy and so pore!

The likes of us a-livin' here! It's jest a mortal pity
  To see us in this great big house, with carpets on the stairs.
And the pump right in the kitchen! And the city! city! city!
And nothin' but the city all around us everwheres!

Climb clean above the roof and look from the steeple,
  And never see a robin, nor a beech or ellum tree!
And right here in earshot of at least a thousan' people.
  And none that neighbors with us, or we want to go and see.

Let's go a-visitin' back to Griggsby's Station—
  Back where the latch string's a-hangin' from the door,
And every neighbor round the place is dear as a relation—
  Back where we used to be so happy and so pore!

want to see the Wiggenses, the whole kit and bilin',
  A-drivin' up from Shallow Ford to stay the Sunday through;
And I want to see them hitchin' at their son-in-law's and pi lin'
  Out there at Lizy Ellen's, like they used to do want to see the piece quilts the Jones girls is makin'

  And I want to pester Laury 'bout their freckled hired hand,
And joke her 'bout the widower she come purty nigh a-takin',
  Till her pap got his pension 'lowed in time to save his land.

Let's go a-visitin' back to Griggsby's Station—
  Back where there's nothin' aggervatin' any more,
Shet away safe in the woods around the old location—
  Back where we used to be so happy and so pore!

I want to see Marindy and help her with her sowin',
  And hear her talk so lovin' of her man that's dead and gone.
And stand up with Emanuel to show me how he's growin',
  And smile as I have saw her 'fore she put her mournin' on,

And I want to see the Samples on the old lower Eighty—Where John, our oldest boy, he was took and buried, for His own sake and Katy's—and I want to cry with Katy
  As she reads all his letters over, writ from the war.

What's in all this grand and high situation,
  And nary pink nor hollyhawk bloomin' at the door?
Let's go a-visitin' to Griggsby's Station—
  Back where we used to be so happy and so pore.

Curing Corn Fodder.

When well cured, corn fodder that has been properly grown, is quite equal in value to average hay. To secure the full nutritive value of corn fodder, it should be grown in rows sufficiently wide apart to admit an abundance of light and air. Light and air are both necessary for the full development of the plant, and the production of starch, sugar and other nutritious constituents of the stalk and leaf. The pale, yellow leaves and stalks, that result from broad-cast sowing, are of little value, and when dried, become harsh, brittle and tasteless, so that a horse or cow rejects such food with disdain, unless starved into eating it. But the dark-green, well grown fodder, is sweet, tender, and as we have said, is equal to hay for winter feeding. To save the fodder in the best condition, it should be cut before frost has touched it, or the tassel has dried. If it has been grown for grain, the time to cut it is when the kernel is glazed, but is yet soft enough to be impressed by the thumb nail. When the crop has been grown for fodder alone, we cut it before the blossom has quite faded, and when the ears upon it are half grown. To cure a luxuriant crop of fodder, weighing while green, twenty tons per acre, is not an easy matter, unless one goes the right way about it. The stalks should be cut close to the surface of the ground, so as to leave no stubble in the way of fitting the ground at once for a crop of rye. For this purpose, we find the old fashioned corn hook, made of a piece of an old scythe, attached to a short, stout handle, to be the best and easiest tool. A stout brush hook, at the end of a handle four feet long, is also an excellent implement for cutting by hand. But a reaper may be used, if it is drawn diagonally across the rows, and the land has been cultivated on the level. But in whatever way the crop is cut, it should lie on the ground for twenty-four hours, to become thoroughly wilted. It is then bound in small sheaves, weighing about twenty-five pounds, which is a convenient way to use it for feeding, and these sheaves are set up in shocks, and protected from the rain. In this way the fodder will cure perfectly well without molding, and preserve its color and sweetness, until it is ready to be taken in, when the best way to dispose of it is, to stack it in open barracks.

Stocking with Sheep for the Winter.

The season of autumnal drouths and short pasturage always brings lots of sheep upon the market, which their owners conclude not to winter, and that may often be very profitably bought. Sheep of good constitution, with good teeth, and healthy, may be safely bought, if one has feed for them which he wishes to convert into manure in the easiest and cheapest way. For instance, a large oat-grower has straw which will carry quite a flock through the season. If he buys ewes that have had lambs this year, and has them served early, by a long-wool or Down ram; though thin now, they will rapidly pick up and probably give him one hundred and twenty-five per cent. of lambs. Of course such ewes will need some grain; all the more if wheat-straw instead of oat is their principal fodder. We have known lambs to bring in the spring double and triple what was paid for the ewes, while the ewes were worth fully as much as they cost, and the manure as much more. This is hardly the usual experience, but under advantageous circumstances, the experiment is well worth trying, recollecting that October service brings February lambs, which, if well pushed forward, may be in market by the first to the middle of May. Earlier service will, of course, bring earlier lambs and greater profit.

Around the House.

Little wonder that many farmers' wives wear out, grow prematurely old, or die young. There is absolutely nothing attractive for them to look at about the premises. The yard has never yet been properly graded, and if mowed at all, it is but once a year; generally the horses are turned in to graze it down. Sprouts have come up from the old fruit trees, branches broken down by the weight of fruit or winds of former years are hanging with their tops resting on the ground and burdock and other hardy weeds grow up through the dead branches. A dismal picture, but too often true to life.

Two things alone will make a yard beautiful, if well arranged and cared for; trees and grass; but the trees must not be in stiff, unnatural rows, nor crowded close to the house and the yard must be well graded, and the grass kept closely cut.

Flowers will usually give a better effect and be much easier to care for, if planted in small beds. The garden can be kept clean much easier, as the grass will be continually encroaching on the small beds. A single square rod will enable you to grow quite a variety of flowers, but several rods ought to be spared for this purpose. Locate the flower garden where the wife can see it when about her daily work, and it will prove a means of grace to her. A very little work done at the right time, will keep it in order, and if weeds are never allowed to go to seed in it, the labor of caring for it will be less each year. I cannot think of any other way in which so small an expenditure of time and money will bring so much pleasure to the wife and education to the children. Try it, and see how much genuine happiness can be had from a flower garden.

A popular minister was asked how it was possible for him to preach a new sermon every Sunday, year after year, and to find something new to say. "Doesn't it give you a good deal of thought and trouble?" "Oh, no," was the reply. "It is a mere matter of habit. "My sermons have never kept me awake five minutes." "Ah!" said the other, "that, then, is probably the reason why they don't keep other people awake, either."

INTERESTING ITEMS.

At a wedding in Bridgeport, Conn., recently the groom, a young man, who appeared nervous from the start, broke into hysterical sobs before the ceremony was over.

A glass bedstead has been made at a Birmingham, Eng., factory for a Calcutta millionaire. It is of solid glass, the legs, rails, &c., being richly cut. The King of Burmah also has one

The Swiss army now numbers 477 commissioned officers, and its effective strength is 200,754 men. The highest rank recognized in the Swiss army during peace is that of Colonel.

A writer in the Bulletin Generale de Therapeutique says that refrigeration of the lobe of the ear will stop hiccough, whatever its cause may be. Very slight refrigeration, such as a drop of cold water, is said to be sufficient.

A native of Madagascar who studied medicine in Edinburgh and returned home, now has seventy young men studying under him, and a large class of women whom he is training for nurses. He his in great favor with his Queen, and is about to marry the Prime Minister's daughter.

The new idea in nostrums is not to pretend that a particular medicine will cure all maladies, but will positively and and completely cure the one disease for which it is designed. The clear-sighted student of human nature who discovered this slant is said to be on the road to a fortune.

When Bismarck made the acquaintance of his present doctor he was sick and peevishly declined to answer questions. "As you like," said the doctor, "then send for a veterinary surgeon, as such practicioners treat their patients without asking them any questions." The Chancellor was captured.

A lately published report on the British army gives the number of recruits inspected for 1883 at 59,436, of whom 23,595 were rejected as unfit for service. There seems to be no further reason for the popular belief that Ireland fights England's battles, for the recruits born in England numbered 773 per 1,000. Scotland gave but 91, and Ireland 125 per 1,000. The number of short men offered was unusually large, so much so as to give rise to a question whether Englishmen were decreasing in stature.

The irrigation works of Colorado are on a great scale. The "Grand River Ditch," western Colorado, at the beginning, is thirty five feet wide at the bottom, fifty feet wide at the top, five feet deep for the first ten miles, then diminishidg until the last two and a half miles are sixteen feet wide at the bottom, with three feet depth of water. The grade is a little over twenty two inches to the mile, which gives a strong current. One company engaged in the irrigating business has constructed over 100 miles of canals in the Rio Grande valley at a cost of $750,000.

Recent statistics show that in 1884 the number of boiler explosions in the United States was 152, being less than in the previous year. There were 254 persons killed and 261 injured in them, however, and the number is much larger than it should be. Fifty-six of the explosions took place in saw-mills, where the so-called engineer finds a too facile fuel in shavings. Men chosen for such positions should have gumption to perceive that such firing generates steam too rapidly for safety. These people can reduce the general death rate if they wish, and can especially reduce the present high percentage of mortality among sawmill engineers Florida is the land of fruit as well as flowers. A paper of that State says: "Commencing with January, we have strawberries then and until late in June. Japan plums from February. Mulberries are ripe in April and last until August. Pineapples ripen in June and last nearly all the year. We have guavas from July until late the next spring. Of the various berries—dewberries, blackberries, and huckleberries—almost any quantity. Peaches from May 1 until July. Melons from June until late in the fall. Oranges—the best of the kind—from October until the next June, with lemons and limes, persimmons, pomegranates, grape fruit, grapes, and shaddocks.

Indications point to a bitter party fight at the British general elections in November. Both parties are prepared for the conflict, but which side will win cannot be foretold. There are evidences that Bismarck is using his influence on behalf of the Conservatives. Lord Salisbury and the Tory press are greatly elated at Russia's concession respecting Zulfikar, but it is believed that the action is illusory and in the interest of Conservative principles. It was until recently thought that Russia would disturb the present Ministry by re-opening the Afghan question and set up a new score on the eve of a general election. But this danger has been lifted from Lord Salisbury's path by the German Chancellor, on the plea that too much Radicalism in Western Europe may prove harmful to the two Northern Empires. But the limit of Russia's strength will place Zulfikar within arm's length. In fact the frontier question will not be closed until after the elections. If that event results in a Liberal victory there is a probability that Russian moderation will come to an end, as Russian statesmen labor under the mistaken notion that the Liberals will not fight for Herat. It is even asserted by some that if the Liberals are returned the Russians will at once advance on that city.

A Smart Scheme.

Two darkies had to carry a large desk to the house of Dr. Blister, who had bought it at a furniture store. When they arrived with the desk he was in and directed them where to put it. The darkies expected to get a quarter each at least for their extra trouble, but alas! the doctor did not give them anything at all. He forgot all about their sufferings in carrying the heavy desk up two flight of stairs.

They consulted together for a moment in the hall, and then they began to fight and pound each other, calling each other all manner of vile names. No such uproar had been heard since the adjournment of the Legislature.

Dr. Blister hearing the noise, came out and wanted to know what was the cause of the disturbance.

"Dis heah nigga kep for hisself de money what you guv him for us bofe, for totin' de desk up de stars,' said Sam.

"You is a liar. De doctor didn't gib me de money. You got de money and kep' it," retorted Jim.

"You are both wrong, boys," said Dr. Blister. "I didn't give either of you anything, but I'll make it all right. Don't fight any more," and taking out his pocket book he gave them a quarter each.

Those who assert the colored man has no executive ability should ponder over this tem.

He Was Not Prepared.

A few years ago the people of a certain township were about to celebrate the opening of a new bridge, and invited a young lawyer to deliver the oration. He had made no written preparation, supposing that a lawyer ought to be capable of speaking without note or notice any number of hours, on any subject, in a style of thrilling eloquence.

Therefore, he trusted to the occasion.

He stood out upon a platform erected near the bridge and began amid the profound and attentive silence of his audience:

"Fellow-citizens: Five and forty years ago this bridge, built by your enterprise, was part and parcel of the howling wilderness!"

He paused a moment. "Yes, fellow-citizens, only five and forty years ago, this bridge, where we now stand, was part and parcel of the howling wilderness!"

Again he paused.

(Cries of "Good! Go on!")

"I feel it hardly necessary to repeat that this bridge, fellow-citizens, only five and forty years ago was part and parcel of a howling wilderness, and I will conclude by saying that I wish—I wish it was part and parcel of it now!"

HOUSEHOLD.

Wife, Children and Friends.

BY WILLIAM ROBERT SPENCER.

When the black-lettered list to the gods was presented (The list of what fate for which mortal intends),
At the long string of ills a kind goddess relented,
  And slipped in three blessings—wife, children and friends.

In vain surely Pluto maintained he was cheated,
  For justice divine could not compass its ends.
The scheme of man's penance he swore was defeated,
  For earth becomes heaven with wife, children and friends.

If the stock of our bliss is in stranger hands vested,
  The fund, ill secured, oft in bankruptcy ends,
But the heart issues bills which are never protested,
  When drawn on the firm of wife, children and friends.

The dayspring of youth, still unclouded by sorrow,
  Alone on itself for enjoyment depends;
But drear is the twilight of age if it borrow
  No warmth from the smile of wife, children and friends.

CHOICE RECIPES.

GRAHAM GEMS.—One pint and a half of Graham, 3 teaspoonfuls of baking powder, 1 tablespoonful of butter, one egg, ½ cup sugar, a teaspoonful of salt; stir together with sweet milk or milk and water, or use water alone, to a batter not much stiffer than pancake batter. Bake in a hot oven. Have your gem pans well greased.

APPLE JELLY.—Cut apples in small pieces without paring, and stew till soft, using more water than for apple sauce. Strain through hair seive, then through a jelly bag twice. To a pint of juice put three fourths of a pound of sugar—a pound to a pint makes it too sweet—and boil until the right thickness is obtained. The addition of lemons makes it much nicer.

CHEESECAKES.—Line tartlet pans with puff-paste; let the edges have three thicknesses of paste. Fill them with the following mixture: To a pound of loafsugar, add the juice of three lemons, two tablespoonfuls of brandy and a quarter of a pound of perfectly fresh butter. Grate the rind of a lemon over it as small as possible. Beat six eggs, and add them to it. Stir over the fire until it begins to thicken like honey, then let it partly cool. Fill the patty-pans and bake in a moderate oven.

COLD MARMALADE PUDDING.—Five eggs, a pint of boiling milk poured upon them after they have been well beaten; sugar to taste The rind of one lemon, two ounces of stoned and halved large raisins, spread over a thickly-buttered mold and four tablespoonfuls of Keiller's marmalade. Cut six penny sponge cakes in slices, spread the marmalade upon them, lay them in the mold, pour the custard upon them hot. Tie down carefully and boil gently one hour. Turn out only just before it is required.

TEA CAKES.—Rub one heaped teaspoonful of baking powder into a pound of flour, Add two ounces of butter also rubbed in, a quarter of a pound of sugar and two ounces of currants. Mix it with two eggs well beaten and stirred into half a pint of buttermilk or new milk. Roll out and make of the quantity six tea cakes. Bake in a moderate oven, and when half done wash over with the yolk of an egg beaten up with a teashoonful of milk. These tea cakes are very nice cut in slices and buttered cold for tea.

Decorative Notes.

Great attention is now paid to the decoration of doors. Some have large figures painted on the panels; others are upholstered with cretonne, and some are papered.

For a dining room furnished in mahogany, the wall paper should be red if harmony is wanted, or green if a contrast is desired.

In painting cornices dark colors should be avoided, red used very sparingly, blue plentifully, and yellow and gold—the former especially—in moderation.

A pretty way of arranging the ceiling in a sittingroom is to cover it with a small patterned, quiet-looking chintz, over which place three inch-wide flat-headed pine moldings, painted cream buff-color, and crossing each other in such a way as to divide the ceiling into panels of about three feet square.

Light oak or cherry, either of its natural color or stained, will be the most popular woods for the interior of a summer cottage.

Crossed battledores, fastened by a large bow, and serving as a support for a basket ornamented with another bow, make a pretty and useful wall ornament.

Crimson and yellow form a pretty combination for a portiere.

For bedrooms there are white muslin or cheesecloth curtains with a lace edging on the front, or a plain hem with bands of plain sateen.

Brass chains are used for looping up portieres, or mantle lambrequins, or are festooned across them.

Educating Boys.

Let us make business men as well as lawyers and physicians out of our boys. There is a large and extensive field for work in every direction There are abuses to be corrected, defects to be remedied, that call for the man of talent. By establishing and extending industries and manufactures the successful merchant can accomplish more good for the world than either the attorney, physician or minister. He furnishes employment to hundreds of hands, thereby giving thousands the sustenance of life. His life is elevating in the highest degree. The petty annoyances and vexations of trade are trifling in comparison with the benefits that must be conferred upon the community by the business men. And it is for such considerations as these that the mercantile community should exact and obtain from all men the highest respect, and its prominent members receive that lofty position to which they are justly entitled.

Wild Dogs.

The tendency of animals to revert to a savage state has been strikingly illustrated at Woolwich, where a number of ownerless and half savage dogs have had to be exterminated. Some time ago, it seems, a female dog who had no definite home reared a litter of puppies in the timber sheds of the royal arsenal. She assumed nocturnal habits, which her decendants inherited, until at last they became a nuisance to the neighborhood and a positive source of not unreasonable terror. Several litters of puppies were found and destroyed; but at last organized war has had to be proclaimed, and the whole pack has been shot down one by one by a policeman told off and provided with a rifle for the purpose.

They are described as being of a large mongrel breed, and it is to be hoped that one of them at least may be preserved, as it is extremely interesting to notice the type toward which the dog when it runs wild shows a tendency to throw back. The dingo is no doubt an instance of reversion, and the fish-catching dogs of the fisher Indians of the Straits of Magellan are a similar example. The dog, beyond all question, is very closely connected with the wolf. But we have absolutely no traces of his original descent, and it is, consequently, very interesting to notice any instance when dogs have escaped and reverted to a lupine life. In all ascertained instances the lupine characteristics have been very strongly marked; and there can, indeed, be little reasonable doubt that the wolf is the dog's original ancestor.

There is a curious uniformity in the number of persons killed annually in India by wild animals and snakes. The Indian Medical Gazette gives the number of those killed in Bengal alone by animals, for five years, at from 1,264 to 1,302 in each year. The snakes destroyed from 9,153 to 10,064 annually.

A Rochdale retriever has just cut the record in the way of canine attachment and fidelity, beside breaking ground in an entirely new direction. Hitherto the faithful brutes of his species have achieved their most notable successes in the water, but this dog has distinguished himself in another element. The style in which he stuck by the blazing bedside of his owner's children while the house was on fire compares with anything since Mrs. Hemans made the boy stand on the burning deck.

STORMS AT SEA.

Some Rattling Stories of a Life on the Ocean Wave.

Ever since the West Indies were discovered, now nearly four hundred years ago, it has been noticed that the violent hurricanes which afflict them usually appear in August, September, or October. A list of three hundred and sixty-five of such storms was made out not long ago, and two hundred and eighty-seven of these occurred in the "hurricane season." So if any of you young people wish to see double-reefed foresails, September is the time for you to go down there.

But the experience is not an attractive one, and it is a deal safer to stay at home and study Colonel Reid's "Law of Storms," in which you may learn that rain in some of these storms is salt, like ocean water, and that fish fall with it from the sky; that all the ships in the harbor of Mauritius, forty-one in number, were either sunk or driven on shore in a hurricane in 1818; that the British warship Racer was blown into the Gulf of Mexico during a hurricane 1837, where she was nearly capsized, and only righted after losing her masts, and even then had to heave overboard some of her guns to escape from foundering.

All these hurricanes closely resemble, although they exceed in violence, the winter storms that you read about in sea news. They are called cyclones, from the whirling of their winds, and their rotary motion may be very fairly likened to that of water eddying around in a basin before it runs out by the vent at the bottom, but with the difference that the air rises at the centre of the whirling storm, while the water decends through the escape pipe. It is worth while to draw a basin, with an outlet, full of water and remove the stopper gently, and then watch the formation of the rapidly whirling eddy as the water runs out. Although a simple experiment, it will give you a fair idea of the motion of the winds in a tropical cyclone, if you imagine the basin turned upside down, its size vastly increased, and the water changed to air.

Over the tropical oceans these storms develop a terrific strength. Imagine one of them, with its mass of whirling air two or three miles in diameter, turning faster and faster on the smaller circuits near the centre, advancing along its track from place to place, and beating the sea into great waves. Picture the central parts of the whirl all dark with roaring thunder clouds, from which torrents of rain fall, and, strangest of all, conceive a space ten or twenty miles in diameter just at the centre in which the air is almost quiet, although surrounded with screaming winds.

Even in this calm centre, which sailors call "eye of the storm," although there is no danger from the winds, still the waves run high and broken, and if a vessel survive them, there is yet the after side of the storm to be endured with violence as great as that of the front. Only the stoutest ships escape the double dangers of the storm's central passage.

A violent hurricane crossed the West Indies in August, 1871, giving a striking illustration of the contrast between the great whirlwind and its calm centre. It was first observed by two sailing vessels on the 17th, far out on the tropical Atlantic in latitude 34° W. and longitude 13° N., where there were heavy rains and violent winds in opposite directions, from which it is seen that the storm centre lay then between the two points of observation.

Thence it advanced westward, and at nine o'clock on the morning of the 21st, the central calm arrived at St. Kitt's a little island in the Lesser Antilles; this makes its rate of travel thus far about eighteen miles an hour. The royal British mail steamship Mersey, commanded by Captain Dix, was anchored in the harbor of St. Thomas at this time; its log gives a valuable record of the passing storm, and introduces to us a new factor of great importance, namely, the decrease of the downward pressure of the air at the storm centre as shown by the barometer.

It has long been known that a "falling barometer," or low atmospheric measure, foretells the coming of bad weather. We can first illustrate the fact, and then consider its cause. Captain Dix noticed that the barometer stood lower than usual on the morning of the 21st, and that the wind was blowing in puffs of increasing violence, so he gave orders to get up steam, and prepare for bad weather. At ten o clock, the barometer read 29.88 inches, and began falling; at noon, it was 29 82, and the squalls were growing heavier. At one o'clock, 29.77, with very heavy squalls from the N. N. E.; the stronger part of the hurricane was at this hour just coming over St Thomas.

An officer was then stationed by the barometer with orders to watch it closely. At two in the afternoon, it was 29 50, with very heavy gusts still from the N. N. E., shingles and roofs were seen blowing about in the town on shore, and flying around in the air; about this time the English barque Duke of Wellington, which had been anchored outside the harbor, parted cables, and went ashore a total wreck, but the crew were saved.

At half-past three, the barometer was 29.38 with terrific gusts backing to the north, and doing great damage on the land. The barometer continued to fall rapidly, and at five o'clock had reached 28 74, when the hurricane suddenly ceased, leaving a perfect stillness, "so that a candle might have burnt in the open air!"

At 5.25 the barometer reached its lowest point, 28 62; at 5 35, just as the captain saw the ripple of the southerly gale on the after side of the storm-centre coming along over the water, his officer called out, "The barometer is rising, sir!" and as soon as the wind struck the vessel, it began to rise fast, reaching 28 71 at 5 40, 28 93 at six, and 29.60 at seven o clock. The gale that followed the calm was reversed from the direction of the first half of the storm, and came from the south, still very heavy, but steadier than before on account of blowing now mostly over the sea, and hence without the gusts and squalls of the front of the storm that had come down on the vessel from the high land of the island.

By eight in the evening the hurricane moderated to a fresh gale, and at midnight had decreased to a strong breeze as the storm moved away, leaving the staunch Mersey unharmed.

From this description it may be inferred that the storm crossed St. Thomas to the north of west; as eight hours were required to pass over the one hundred and forty miles from St. Kitt's to St. Thomas, the velocity of the storm as a whole must have been still about eighteen miles an hour; and as the calm lasted thirty-five minutes, the diameter of the eye of the storm must have been close to ten miles. Its farther progress carried it northwestward, and then toward the north past Florida, and along our shores far north-east on the Atlantic.

To explain the mechanism of such a storm would require a long chapter of rather difficult description, but a few words may be given as to the cause of the barometer's falling as the storm approaches, and rising again as it recedes. Referring once more to the experiment with the basin, it will be seen that the surface of the water sinks at the centre as the eddy is formed; the depression deepens as the eddy strengthens, and finally even an empty funnel-shaped core may by formed as the fastest rotation is gained so effective is centrifugal force in holding the water out from the centre.

The whirling air of a tropical hurricane is similiarly affected by its rapid rotation; the low barometric pressure at the centre results chiefly from the action of centrifugal force, which draws the air out on all sides, and so diminishes the weight of the atmosphere at the centre. As the low-pressure storm centre moves over an observer, his barometer must first fall and then rise again, as in the example recorded above.

Ever since it was discovered by Dove and Redfield, Reid and Piddington, that storms were in reality great whirlwinds, and that they always turned from right to left in this hemisphere, and from left to right on the other side of the equator, and that their tracks were defined, it has been part of a sailor's education to learn how to avoid the violent storm-centre; and simple rules are now devised by which a well-informed sea-captain can shape his course so as to escape all serious danger from an approaching storm.

SNORING.

The Clothes-pin Theory Exploded—The Virtue in Castile Soap.

It is not generally known, but it is asserted to be a fact, that the nose has absolutely no share in the production of a snore. Indeed, most people snore with their mouths open and their noses temporarily inactive. Hence, the proposal to fasten a clothes-pin to the nose of a snorer is not only worthless as a remedy, but is a positive aid to snoring. The person whose nose is closed with a clothes-pin must open his mouth in order to breathe, and he thus assumes the precise attitude most favorable to snoring. Neither would it be of the slightest use to say to the snorer, "Don't snore." No person snores voluntarily. The snorer is ashamed of his offense, and when taxed with it generally denies it stoutly.

There is precisely one cure for snoring, and it is to Sir Humphrey Davy that we owe its discovery. That eminent scientific person ascertained that snoring is due to an abnormal vibration of the cords of the larynx, and that this vibration only occurs when the surface of the larynx has become dry. A man who sleeps with his mouth open, until his larynx has become dry by contact with the atmosphere, is sure to snore. Sir Humphrey saw at once that, in order to cure a snorer, his larynx must be kept moistened or relaxed. He found, by a series of experiments upon a person of unusual snoring powers, that a piece of Castile soap inserted in the open mouth of the snorer effected an instant cure and warded off any further attack of snoring for at least twenty-four hours. Repeated applications of soap broke up the habit of snoring and thus effected a permanent cure. According to Sir Humphrey Davy, Castile soap, which is composed of olive oil and soda, is decomposed the moment it comes in contact with the human tongue, which has a wonderful affinity for oxygen. The olive oil, being thus set free, lubricates and relaxes the larynx, while the sodium is forcibly expelled in the shape of a strong alkaline language by the snorer, who awakens the moment the decomposition of the soap begins. It is seldom necessary to administer the Castile soap more than three or four times, and the most obstinate case of snoring known to medical men was cured with six doses. It might be remarked that almost any variety of soap can be used with benefit as a remedy for snoring. Castile soap is, nevertheless, much more rapid in its action than any other variety, with the solitary exception of soft soap.

Short jackets and long redingotes of velveteen will be much worn this fall.

A change in the shape of the human foot would seem to have taken place, when it is recorded that Greek statues represent the second toe as longer than the great toe, but in the modern European foot the great toe is generally the longest.

"Father," inquired a young lad, "who wrote the new edition of the Bible?" "It is the work of a number of eminent scholars," replied the father, very much pleased that his son should show an interest in such matters; "but the old edition, such as we have on the parlor table, was written by King James."

"Consumption Cure"

would be a truthful name to give to Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the most efficacious medicine yet discovered for arresting the early development of pulmonary disease. But "consumption cure" would not sufficiently indicate the scope of its influence and usefulness. In all the many diseases which spring from a derangement of the liver and blood the "Discovery" is a safe and sure specific. Of all druggists.

"The Duchess"—whose works are popular because all the world likes love stories prettily told in a playful way—is an Irish lady. Her name is Mrs. Argelles.

Rupture, Breach or Hernia permanently cured or no pay. The worst cases guaranteed! Pamphlet and references, two three-cent stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Oh woman! Loveliest of lovely things. First in church, first in charity and first in circulating the news. The friend of the editor, but the foe of the press.

How often is the light of the household clouded by signs of melancholy or irritability on the part of the ladies. Yet they are not to be blamed, for they are the result of ailments peculiar to that sex, which men know not of. But the cause may be removed and joy restored by the use of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," which, as a tonic and nervine for debilitated women, is certain, safe and pleasant. It is beyond all compare the great healer of women.

The Maidens' Ball in London was very successful. Each maiden paid $25 and received thereby the privilege of inviting five gentlemen. The wall-flowers were exclusively of the male sex.

No means have been taken by the manufacturers to push the sale of their "Myrtle Navy" tobacco except giving from time to time a simple statement of the facts connected with it in the public press. The large and rapidly increasing demand for it has been the result of the experience of smokers which these statements suggested. Their advice to business men is to advertise largely if they have the right article to back up the advertisement with.

Baroness Rothschild gave a ball in London recently, at which the ladies wore gowns of either gray, black or white material, the court being now in mourning. The effect, though somber, was peculiar and not without richness.

Prevention Better Than Cue.

Many of the diseases so prevalent in these days are caused by using soap containing impure and infectious matter. Avoid all risk by using PERFECTION Laundry Soap, which is absolutely pure. Ask your grocer for PERFECTION. Manufactured only by the Toronto Soap Co.

In character, in manners, in style, in all things, the supreme excellence is simplicity.

Alma Ladies' College, St. Thomas, Ont., has full staff and complete courses in Literature, Music, Fine Arts, and Commercial Science. Re-opens September 10, 1885. For 50 pp. announcement, address Principal Austin, B.D.

These evils I deserve, yet despair not of His final pardon whose ear is ever open and His eye gracious to readmit the supplicant.

A.P. 247.

FARMS FOR SALE.—All kinds.—Send for list. JOHN J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
IMPERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACKING

PURE BRED AYRSHIRES for sale, two cows, one yearling heifer and one bull. Write for description, price and pedigree to G. F. BAKER, Trafalgar.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE.—100 acres 3½ miles west of the city of St. Thomas. For particulars address J. J. Lewis, New Sarum, Ont.

MRS. N. G. GREENWOOD

Has resumed her business as Ladies' Nurse. Comfortable homes for ladies during accouchement. Residence, No. 5 Bond st., Toronto. Strictly Private.

MRS. DR. L. K. SHAW'S WONDERFUL Moth and Freckle Lotion, removes Freckles, Moth Patches, Sallowness, &c., in 10 days. Cures Pimples, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, all Skin Diseases and Fleshy Complexion; removes and prevents Premature Wrinkles, renders the skin extremely youthful, lifelike—perfect in purity and true loveliness, not equalled in the world. Warranted free from every injurious ingredient; has stood the test for over 30 years. Particulars, &c. Mrs. Dr. L. K. Shaw's Canadian Depository, Toronto, Canada.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
Clapperton's Spool Cotton!
Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on label. For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.

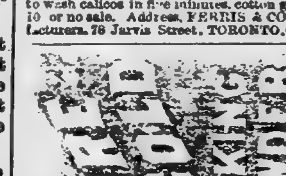
It is conceded by all that the Dominion Business College, Kingston, is deservedly the most popular business training school in Canada.

WATER STAR AUGER
$20 Per Day
WELL BORING
has no superior; 20 feet per hour; hand or horse power; combined boring and rock drilling machine; grand success; first prizes and diplomas. Send for Catalogue.
60 Mary Street, Hamilton, Canada.

Rupture Cured

By CHAS. CLUTHE'S PERFECTED SPIRAL TRUSS. Send 6c. Stamp for Book on Rupture and Human Frame. This truss is, without doubt, the best ever offered to the public, and its increasing sales over all others prove this fact. Do not be misled by parties offering inferior articles, but send direct to CHAS. CLUTHE. I send my Truss all over this continent. CHAS CLUTHE, Surgical Machinist, 118 King St. west, Toronto, Ont.

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT SATCHETS, placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc.—They drive away and destroy Moths and other insects, imparting a delightful and delicate perfume to the clothing, carried or worn upon the person they are by their powerful concentrated disinfectant properties, a perfect means of protection against infection of disease, giving off at the same time a most delightful odor; made entirely of satin in assorted colors, very pretty, unique, and neat. Every one should have them. Price 10c. each—three for 25c. Thymo-Cresol Soap, the great English disinfectant toilet soap, awarded the gold medal, London, Eng., 1884. Large cakes, price 15c, or 35c. per box of 3 cakes, sent postage paid to any address upon receipt of price. Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 759 Craig St., Montreal. Circulars and descriptions of our English Thymo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application. Agents wanted. Write for terms.



CANADA PERMANENT
LOAN & SAVINGS CO.

Incorporated, A.D. 1855.

Subscribed Capital	$3,000,000
Paid up Capital	2,200,000
Reserve Fund	1,100,000
Total Assets	8,600,000

OFFICE:
Company's Buildings, Toronto St., Toronto.

The Company has now on hand a large amount of English money which it is prepared to lend on first-class securities at low rates of interest. Apply to
J. HERBERT MASON,
Managing Director

The Eagle Steam Washer is the only Washing Machine invented that a woman or girl 12 years old, without the use of a washboard, can with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent on trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear to clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in 10, bedclothes 10 or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 78 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada.

PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER
PURE GOLD MANUFACTURING CO.,
13 FRONT ST. EAST
Toronto.

Coleman's Improved Plough Harness
Adapted to orchard Work.

No whiffletrees to injure trees. Easy on man and team. Working qualities guaranteed. Money refunded if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Price, $10 without collars and bridles.

DEWEY & CO.,
COLBORNE, ONT.

CUT THIS OUT!
The New Co-Operative
Sewing Machine!
—IS THE—
BEST IN THE MARKET
NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE
Latest Improved Attachments
Agents price for similar machine $60
Our price only $25 each.

Before buying send us stamp for our elegant photograph and samples of sewing.
Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.
An lad wanting a machine will do well to write to
THE CO-OPERATIVE
Sewing Machine Co,
17 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON

JAMES PARK & SON,
Pork Packers, Toronto.

L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, G. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Hams, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Dairy Butter, Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships.

Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N. F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow line sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia fortnightly.

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; S. Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co, St. John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B.; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. A. Allan, Proprietor Boston Montreal

CAUTION!
Each Plug of the
MYRTLE NAVY!
IS MARKED
T. & B.
In Bronze Letters.
NONE OTHER GENUINE.

BUY THE
IMPROVED CONBOY
Carriage Tops
AS THEY ARE THE MOST STYLISH, CONVENIENT, AND MOST DURABLE TOP IN THE MARKET.

There are over Twenty Thousand of these Tops now in use, and are giving better satisfaction than any other.

The manufacturer of these Celebrated Carriage Tops, owns more patents for improvements, and makes a greater variety than any other firm in Canada or the United States.

THEY ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE LEADING CARRIAGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT CANNOT BE SURPASSED BY ANY THAT IS ANY WAY APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY.

Factory and Saleroom,
407 to 413 KING ST. WEST,
TORONTO.

GURNEY & WARE'S
STANDARD SCALES

Are the Best, Attested by the Fact that there are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' & Butchers' Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.

Housekeepers, Consult Your Best Interests

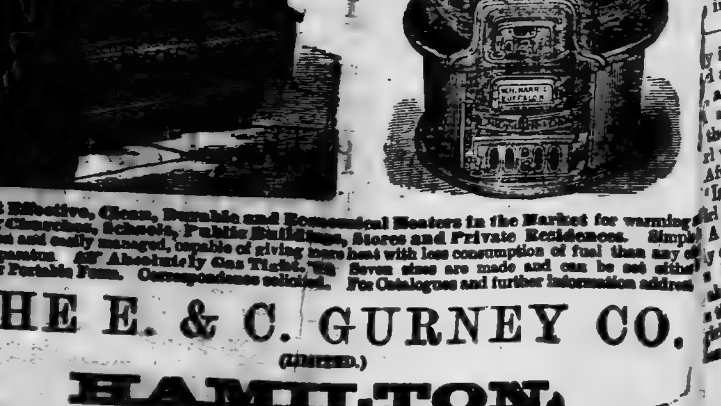
By purchasing a scale, and in buying one be sure to get the best. Our scales are fully warranted in every particular. All sizes Railroad, Warehouse and Mill Trucks. Alarm Money Drawers. For sale by the Hardware Trade generally. Illustrated Catalogue and Price List forwarded upon application.

GURNEY & WARE
HAMILTON.
WAREHOUSES—Montreal and Winnipeg.

THE "SUNBEAM" WRINGER
ONLY $3.00 The cheapest in the market.
ONLY $3.00.

Warranted first-class, or money refunded. Send direct to manufacturers, or procure from your Hardware or House-Furnishing dealer.

Clothes Wringers of all kinds—"Royal Canadian," Imperial,' 'King,' also Mangles. Two Roller, and Three Roller. Write for particulars.



Hamilton Industrial Works Co., Manufacturers Hamilton, Canada

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF

It is the only preparation of the kind which contains all the nutritious, together with the stimulating properties of beef, and the only one which has the power to supply nourishment for brains, and bone and muscle.

Examine Their Superior Merit!
GURNEY'S
NEW HARRIS HOT AIR FURNACES
FOR WOOD

The Most Effective, Clean, Durable and Economical Heaters in the Market for warming and ventilating Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Stores and Private Residences. Simple in construction and easily managed, capable of giving more heat with less consumption of fuel than any other heating apparatus. Absolutely Gas Tight. Seven sizes are made and can be set either in Brick or Portable Form. Correspondence solicited. For Catalogues and further information address

THE E. & C. GURNEY CO.
(LIMITED.)
HAMILTON.

SCIENTIFIC AND USEFUL.

...has been tried successfully in ... to remove and prevent the in... of boilers.

...d that the proportion of ozone in ...here of Paris last year was in in... to the mortality from cholera.

...tic tides in the Hebrides rise ... high for about eight hours or ... the approach of a cyclone or se... They must thus be made to ...ather prophets.

...ican Indians make shields of their ... They are hand-woven, fulled ... water-proof. They even turn ...ts by causing them to glance or ... to the blow.

... insulators so commonly used to ...ing rods in place are quite useless ...necessary expense, but are not a ...danger. A plain iron or wooden ... is equally effective.

...ds have been found in Africa, ...e river Rovuma, by the Portu... ...Senor Pinto. They are on ...avan track from Cape Delgado to ...ese, and are claimed by the Port... ...ernment.

...ard near Malaga, apparently ruin... ...lloxera, came out with fresh vigor ...recent earthquake in Spain. It is ... that liberated gases destroyed the ...p n the vines. It is a remedy ... not become popular.

...timated that 150,000,000 tons of ... solution are annually poured by ...issippi in the Gulf of Mexico. This ...years would remove over the whole ... foot of land. Continents thus ...y by the great rivers, and new ones ...d.

...ount is given, on the authority of ...man, of Washington, in the Euro... ...thropological journals, of a curious ...d in South Carolina. The relic is ... to be a case which contained the ...matter and implements that had ...attooing.

... in South Carolina claims to have ...ed a method of coupling rail-cars by ...y. A freight train was divided in... ...parts and coupled again by the con... ...ions from the rear car. Such an in... ... if successful, will be of great value ... many lives annually.

...been noticed that during the pres... ... in the District of Columbia the ...ritic noise of the cicada has been ... heard. It is supposed to be due to ...ds of the English sparrow, which ...mated the cicada and prevented the ...urity of the males.

...rs in the country may be glad to ... rhus tox, a homœopathic prepar... ... a remedy for poisoning by ivy. If ...pon the first appearance of the blis... ...will generally effect a cure in three or ...s. It is said that bryonia, taken ...ek or two, is a preventive.

... Ugas, in the Cronica Medica, Lima, ...ention to the vesicating property ...ner bark of the walnut tree. He ... bark in vinegar for about fifteen ... and applies it to the part on which ... is required. In applying this re... ... cases of lupus he dusted the blister ...onal.

...les of nickel have lately been ... in some chemical laboratories in the ... the silver ones generally used for ... caustic alkalies. They have the ...ge not only of being cheaper, but of ...able of resisting a higher temper... ...n the latter, and the result is said to ...able.

...tricity has been brought to the aid ...portsman by the use of a small lamp ... front sight of a rifle, to render it ... in the dusk, or when from any cause ...er there is insufficient light. The ... electric lamp is fixed near the muzz... ... gun and shielded by a metallic ... The current is supplied by a small ... in the stock.

... Detroit Lancet describes the four ...r reducing obesity: The eating of ... containing starch, sugar or fat, call... ...Banting system; the eating of fat, ... sugar or starch, called the German ...; the wearing of wool and sleeping ...el blankets, instead of sheets, of the ... system; not eating and drinking at ... time, or rather the allowing of a ... of hours to intervene between eating ...inking, the Schweninger system.

STATISTICS.

...been calculated that the free lun... ...New York saloons cost $11,890,000 ...y.

...children of Queen Victoria now take ...0 a year from the purse of the Brit... ...ple.

...ty-two thousand humming birds, ... beautify the bonnets of the fair, ...received in a single consignment in ... not long ago.

...withstanding free schools and laws for ...ory education the startling fact ... that there are 2,800,000 voters in ...ited States who cannot read their ...llots.

...common to suppose that a ship loaded ...ood cannot sink. Yet according to ... return of the British Board of ... it appears that during the past three ...no fewer than 149 ships laden with ...were totally lost, with 457 lives.

...most profitable newspaper in the ... the London Times, is valued at ...0,000, and the most profitable in ... Pall Journal, earns $600,000 a ..., although a dozen years ago it was ...t. The London Standard is valued ...0,000, the Daily News at $600,000 ...,000,000 would not buy the Telegragh

...reland, according to lately published ...ics, the birth rate in 1884 was 24 per ...d the death rate was 17.5. Both are ... the average for the preceding ten ... Zymotic diseases caused 7221 deaths, ... of which was due to small pox ...were 16 deaths from the latter in ...hile during the previous ten years ...nual number averaged 335.

...able story of longevity. In 1750 ...brothers, Jonathan and Nehemiah ... moved from Sunbury to Barre. The ... died at the age of 92; his wife at 87. ...ir children who lived beyond infancy ... 67, 72, 77, 86, 87, and 88—an aver... ... over 80. Nehemiah Allen, the other ..., died at 87; his wife at 67. They ... sons and six daughters, who lived ... following ages: 76, 80, 82, 84, 92, 92 ..., 96—an average, counting ...actions of years, of 87½. Most of ...lived in or near Barre, and were farm...

DOMINION ... Reserved. ... ing school in AUGUR ... r Day BORING ... hand or horse ... ing machine ... Send for Cat ... Canada.
Cured ... PERFECTED ... and Co. Stamp ... ure and Hu- ... truss is, with- ... t ever offered ... is increasing ... s prove this ... misled by ... rior articles. ... HAS CLUTHE ... all over this ... CLUTHE, ... Toronto.
JAMES PARK & SON, Pork Packers, Toronto.
L. C. Bacon, Rolled ... Glasgow Beef Hams, ... Beef, Breakfast Bacon, ... Pickled Tongues, Cheese, ... Lard in Tubs and Pails. ... ish Fine Dairy Salt in Stock.
Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships.
Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N. F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia fortnightly.
For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; S. Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B.; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brookie, Philadelphia; H. A. Allan, Proprietor Boston Montreal.
CAUTION!
Each Plug of the
MYRTLE NAVY!
IS MARKED
T. & B.
In Bronze Letters.
NONE OTHER GENUINE.
BUY THE
IMPROVED CONBOY
Carriage Tops
AS THEY ARE THE MOST STYLISH, CONVENIENT, AND MOST DURABLE TOP IN THE MARKET.
There are over Twenty Thousand of these Tops now in use, and are giving better satisfaction than any other.
The manufacturer of these Celebrated Carriage Tops, owns more patents for improvements, and makes a greater variety than any other firm in Canada or the United States.
THEY ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE LEADING CARRIAGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT CANNOT BE SURPASSED BY ANY THAT IN ANY WAY APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY.
Factory and Saleroom,
407 to 413 KING ST. WEST,
TORONTO.
13 FRONT ST. EAST Toronto.
GURNEY & WARE'S
STANDARD SCALES
Are the Best, Attested by the Fact that there are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' & Butchers' Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.
Housekeepers, Consult Your Best Interests
By purchasing a scale, and in buying one be sure to get the best. Our scales are fully warranted in every particular. All sizes Railroad, Warehouse and Mill Trucks. Alarm Money Drawers. For sale by the Hardware Trade generally. Illustrated Catalogue and Price List forwarded upon application.
GURNEY & WARE
HAMILTON.
WAREHOUSES—Montreal and Winnipeg.
...AM" WRINGER
ONLY $3.00.
Clothes Wringers of all kinds—"Royal Canadian," Imperial,' 'King,' also Mangles. Two Roller, and Three Roller. Write for particulars.
...., Manufacturers Hamilton, Canada
JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF
It is the only preparation of the kind which contains all the nutritious together with the stimulating properties of beef, and the only one which has the power to supply nourishment for brains, and bone.
Superior Merit.
...Y'S
...OT A...
AND COAL.
RELIEVE
...nomical Food ... Stores ... more heat withal ... Seven ... Fox Ca...

SCIENTIFIC AND USEFUL.

...ity has been tried successfully in ... to remove and prevent the in... of nailers.

...ated that the proportion of ozone in ... sphere of Paris last year was in... to the mortality from cholera.

...Atlantic tides in the Hebrides rise ... ally high for about eight hours or ... re the approach of a cyclone or se... They must thus be made to ... weather prophets.

...Mexican Indians make shields of their ... fibre are hand-woven, felled ... and water-proof. They even turn ... causing them to glance or ... ying to the blow.

...iron conductors so commonly used to ... lightning rods in place are quite useless ... unnecessary expense, but are not a ... of danger. A plain iron or wooden ... ter is equally effective.

...beds have been found in Africa, ... the river Rovuma, by the Portu... explorer Senor Pinto. They are on ... caravan track from Cape Delgado to ... Nyassa, and are claimed by the Port... Government.

...vineyard near Malaga, apparently ruin... phylloxera, came out with fresh vigor ... the recent earthquake in Spain. It is ... that liberated gases destroyed the ... upon the vines. It is a remedy ... will not become popular.

...estimated that 150,000,000 tons of ... in solution are annually poured by ... Mississippi in the Gulf of Mexico. This ... years would remove over the whole ... one foot of land. Continents thus ... away by the great rivers, and new ones ... med.

...account is given, on the authority of ... ..., of Washington, in the Euro... anthropological journals, of a curious ... found in South Carolina. The relic is ... ved to be a case which contained the ... matter and implements that had ... tattooing.

...man in South Carolina claims to have ... vered a method of coupling rail-cars by ... city. A freight train was divided in... parts and coupled again by the con... alone from the rear car. Such an in..., if successful, will be of great value ... many lives annually.

...has been noticed that during the pres... in the District of Columbia the ... the noise of the cicada has been ... heard. It is supposed to be due to ... sale of the English sparrow, which ... nated the cicada and prevented the ... tity of the males.

...ers in the country may be glad to ... that rhus tox a homoeopathic prepar... is a remedy for poisoning by ivy. If ... upon the first appearance of the blis... will generally effect a cure in three or ... It is said that bryonia, taken ... week or two, is a preventive.

...Ugas, in the Cronica Medica, Lima, ... attention to the vesicating property ... inner bark of the walnut tree. He ... the bark in vinegar for about fifteen ... es and applies it to the part on which ... is required. In applying this re... in cases of lupus he dusted the blister ... calomel.

...ibles of nickel have lately been ... ed in some chemical laboratories in the ... of the silver ones generally used for ... caustic alkalies. They have the ... tage not only of being cheaper, but of ... capable of resisting a higher tempera... than the latter, and the result is said to ... stable.

...tricity has been brought to the aid ... sportsman by the use of a small lamp ... front sight of a rifle, to render it ... in the dusk, or when from any cause ... there is insufficient light. The ... lamp is fixed near the muz... the gun and shielded by a metallic ... The current is supplied by a small ... in the stock.

...it ... describes the four ... reducing obesity: The eating of ... containing starch, sugar or fat, call... ... system; the eating of fat, ... called the German ... the wearing of wool and sleeping ... blankets, instead of sheets, of the ... system; ... and drinking at ... times, or the allowing of a ... hours to intervene between eating ... drinking, the ... system.

STATISTICS.

...has been calculated that the free lun... in New York saloons cost $11,890,000 ... ally.

...children of Queen Victoria now take ... 000 a year from the purse of the Brit... people.

...irty-two thousand humming birds, ... to beautify the bonnets of the fair, ... received in a single consignment in ... on not long ago.

...withstanding free schools and laws for ... ulsory education the startling fact ... that there are 2,800,000 voters in ... United States who cannot read their ... ants.

...common to suppose that a ship loaded ... wood cannot sink. Yet according to ... last return of the British Board of ... it appears that during the past three ... no fewer than 149 ships laden with ... were totally lost, with 457 lives.

... most profitable newspaper in the ... the London Times, is valued at ... 000, and the most profitable in ... Petit Journal, earns $600,000 a ... et, although a dozen years ago it was ... ent. The London Standard is valued ... 000,000 the Daily News at $600,000 ... would not buy the Telegraph

...Ireland according to lately published ... the birth rate in 1884 was 24 per ... and the death rate was 17.5. Both are ... average for the preceding ten ... zymotic diseases caused 7221 deaths, ... of which was due to small pox ... were 16 deaths from the latter in ... while during the previous ten years ... number averaged 335.

...remarkable story of longevity In 1760 ... brothers, Jonathan and Nehemiah ... moved from Sudbury to Barre. The ... died at the age of 92; his wife at 87. ... children who lived beyond infancy ... 72, 77, 86, 87, and 88—an aver... over 80. Nehemiah Allen, the other ... died at 57; his wife at 67. They ... sons and six daughters, who lived ... following ages: 78, 80, 82, 84, 92, 92 ... 96, and ...—an average, counting ... of years, of 87½. Most of ... lived in or near Barre, and were farm...

...is the worst example in ... of over-indulgence in ... stimulants. The ... of liquor ... has ... doubled in the last fifty years. While the population has advanced only from 3,500,000 to 5,500,000, the consumption of spirits, wine and beer for 1881 amounted in value to 475,000,000f. Although the country is so small, it contained in 1880 no fewer than 125 000 places devoted to the sale of intoxicating liquors There was a public house on the average for every twelve or thirteen grown up males. The suicides rose from fifty-four per million inhabitants in 1848 to eighty in 1880. The lunatics advanced from 750 per million inhabitants in 1848 to 1470 in 1881.

A story is told of a bishop. He recently addressed a large assembly of Sunday-school children, and wound up by asking in a very paternal and condescending way: "And now, is there a-a-n-y little boy or a-a-n-y little girl who would like to ask me a question?" After a pause he repeated the question: "Is there a-a-n-y little boy or a-a-n-y little girl who would like to ask me a question?" A shrill voice called out: "Please, sir, why did the angel walk up and down Jacob's ladder when they had wings?" "Oh! ah yes, I see," said the bishop. "And now, is there a-a-n-y little boy or a-a-n-y little girl who would like to answer Mary's question?"

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

By the Author of "THE FLOWER GIRL," "LOVELY LADY LYNHURST," &c, &c.

CHAPTER III.—(CONTINUED)

It was not a very ardent wooing, but to the girl who loved him no suspicion as to the motive which prompted the proposal ever occurred to her, no doubt as to the genuineness of his attachment shook her faith in him; true and loyal herself, she mistook the false ring of the baser metal for pure gold. She did not see the expression in his eyes, for her own were downcast, and a warmer tint than usual had spread over her clear olive cheeks. It was just the bit of coloring needed, and Captain Braithwaite thought that he had never seen his cousin look so nearly beautiful; and with the thought came a strange feeling of compunction. Dolly Jarvis was not the only one to whom he was acting unfairly. His next words however, gave no sign of wavering in his purpose.

"You will not keep me in suspense, Geraldine," he urged eagerly, as she did not speak—"you will give me my answer now?"

Then the dark luminous eyes were raised to his, and in their clear depths he read all he wished even before she uttered the words

"You must have known Harry, that—that I have always cared for you, ever since we were children together," she said, in a low voice.

"And you will give yourself to me?" he asked.

"Yes," she answered softly.

He had come close to her; and, leaning forward now, he stretched out his hand and took hers, which held her bridle, giving it a gentle pressure. His head was bent, and in another moment his lips would have touched the trembling fingers, but in that instant his horse swerved, and he had some difficulty in preserving his seat.

Looking round to ascertain the cause of Firefly's unusual manifestation of temper, he perceived, with a guilty start, a little figure clad in a crimson skirt and close-fitting hood, from beneath which a pair of wild-looking eyes flashed surprise and pain It was only a fleeting glance he caught, for Dolly, who had just emerged from the path leading down Oliver's Mount, crossed the road, and was immediately lost to view in the dark depths of the pine-wood.

Captain Braithwaite, for no reason but that of an accusing conscience, trusted that the girl's brief presence had not been remarked by his companion; but he was not left long in doubt on the subject.

"What a lovely face, Harry and what a quaint little figure! Who is she?" Geraldine cried quite enthusiastically. "I don't recollect having ever seen her before!"

"No?" Harry answered carelessly. "She is not bad-looking for a rustic, is she?"

"She is beautiful—simply lovely!" repeated Geraldine, who might have wondered perhaps at her cousin's manner, his assumed indifference was so transparent, had not her own happiness rendered her oblivious of it. "And you do not know her name?"

"I may have heard it," Harry returned evasively; "but one doesn't keep a note of the names and addresses of all the village-girls, as a rule."

"Of course not!" laughed Geraldine. "Only this one is so unusually goodlooking—indeed, so remarkable altogether—that it would only be natural to indulge one's curiosity concerning her."

"You forget that is a trait peculiar to your own sex," Captain Braithwaite said, with a shrug; and then, anxious to change the subject, he added—"You will let me tell my good news at home without delay; and, Geraldine, you will not keep me long without my wife?'

He spoke with feverish impatience that might have blinded a more worldly woman than the girl by his side. Again the swift rose-tint dyed her cheeks.

"Yes, you may tell my uncle and aunt; but these are early days to think of—of marriage."

"I know what you mean," Captain Braithwaite rejoined, "and I respect your scruples But, Geraldine, forgive me—you knew so little of your father that your marriage following so soon on his death could not be considered any disrespect to his memory. I shall be joining my regiment soon, and the chances are that we may be ordered on foreign service, and then—"

"Oh, Harry, I hope not! You must leave the army at once," his cousin broke in impetuously.

"My dear Geraldine, I think you know—I have made no secret of my affairs—I am a poor man, and I cannot afford to live in idleness for an indefinite period."

"But I am rich," cried the girl impulsively. "And there will be no need for you to remain in the army, or, in fact, to do anything that you do not like, when we are married."

"But until then," Captain Braithwaite began, touched, in spite of himself, by Geraldine's generosity and unbounded confidence in himself.

"Until then," declared his lady-love brightly, "you must remain at the Hall, and go on living as you are doing now.'

The Captain saw then that his game was won.

"On the condition," he answered, "that you fix our wedding-day early in the ensuing year.

And, after a little further argument, this was agreed to.

When, half an hour later, Harry assisted his cousin to alight, he bent his handsome head and sealed their compact with a kiss—the first and—how little she guessed!—the last she should ever receive from the lips of her betrothed.

With a light heart, and in a flutter of excitement and happiness, Geraldine passed through the hall and up the grand oak staircase to her own room, where she indulged in self-congratulation over her good-fortune; and it was not until afterwards, in the midst of those dark days that followed, that she remembered that throughout the memorable ride, though Captain Braithwaite had asked her, and she had consented to be his wife, he had never once told her that he loved her.

CHAPTER IV.

"Well, and how goes it with you, Joe? It's long since I saw you, lad. What's been doing these days past?"

The question was put by Adam Jarvis, the blacksmith, as he took from the hands of the young gardener an implement upon which his skill was required, and examined it critically.

"Oh, I am getting on all right, gov'nor! Maybe you've heard I've got a place as under gardner at the Hall."

"No, I hadn't heard; but I'm none the less glad now. You're a steady lad—that's what I always say to my Dolly. 'Joe's a steady lad, none o' your ... headers ... at the Gray Parrot ...; mark my words, he'll succeed in life!'"

"I'm sure it's very kind of you to speak up for me in that way," Joe said, rather shamefacedly; then, after a pause—"And how is Dolly?"

"Right as a trivet—grows prettier every day!" declared the blacksmith, with parental pride. "But why don't you come in of an evening sometimes to see for yourself? Dolly'd be glad to see you, I know," he added, with a knowing wink.

"Do you think so?" Joe queried eagerly; then he went on in a dogged tone—"No, it's no use; she's flying at higher game, and 'ud only turn up her pretty nose at me."

"Nonsense! Dolly knows better than to turn up her nose at old friends; and, as for 'igh-game, I don't know what you mean."

"Joe stared at the blacksmith open-mouthed. Was it possible that he did not know what was the common village-gossip, that Dolly Jarvis spent nearly all her evenings in the company of young Braithwaite?

"It's a pity, and I think myself Dolly's a fool for her pains," the young gardener continued, as if speaking to himself. "For of course the fellow 'ill never marry her, and—"

"Zounds! What d'ye mean, talking of my gal like that, sirrah?" cried Adam, in sudden wrath. "I'd have you know that my Dolly doesn't need to go down on her knees to get a husband. Who'll never marry her? I'd like to know what you mean by your confounded impudence. Not marry her indeed! I'd like to see the man who'd make a fool of my lass."

"Well, you've no call to turn up so rough!" retorted Joe sulkily. "It's in everybody's mouth, and it's what they all say—he's only playing fast and loose with her—else what's this about the grand wedding there's to be at the Hall in the spring?"

'Grand wedding! Hall!" repeated Adam taking off his red cap and running his hand through his iron-gray locks in a perplexed manner. "Are you daft lad? What are you talking about?"

"Oh you haven't, maybe, heard that either?" the younger man rejoined sarcastically. "No one's told you that Captain Braithwaite is to be married to his cousin in a few months?"

"Oh, yes, to be sure!" Adam said quietly recovering. "It's an old affair, isn't it? Nothing surprising in that! I mind how they used to call them the little sweethearts when they were children."

"Oh, you do! Then, after all, even you can't think much of Dolly's chances."

Dolly's chances! What was he driving at? Even yet Adam did not take in the other's meaning.

"I tell you what it is, gov'nor," cried Joe, flinging prudence to the winds. "It's a crying shame that I've been treated as I have been. No one can deny but that Dolly was sweet on me once. And I—well, loved her—madly. You know yourself she seemed to encourage me too, and I took it for granted all was fair and square between us. Oh, I'll make a clean breast of it!' he went on excitedly. "And then one day, I—I wanted to kiss her, she—she just up with her hand and—and boxed my ears." Joe rubbed those organs ruefully as if he could still feel the smart of her little fingers. "'And,' says she, as cool-like as we'd been the greatest strangers, 'I'll thank you, Joe Smith, to conduct yourself properly when you're with me;' and then she flounced off. I was awful vexed, you may be sure; and, when I came to reflect on the matter, I decided there must be some one else."

'Some one else!' repeated Adam abstractedly.

"Yes, some other fellow she cared more about—don't you see?' Joe explained, rather impatiently. "And so I set myself to work to find out who it could be. At first I thought 'twas Tom Larkins—oh, you needn't shake your head so wisely!—but I was wrong She didn't care a fig for him, no more than for me; but, me eye, I was surprised when I found out t'was the Captain!'

The ruddy hue on the blacksmith's face had gradually changed to a sickly yellow, as seen by the fitful flare of the forge during Joe's recital. When the other paused, he was livid with rage.

"The—Captain!' was all he said; and from the quiet tone Joe never guessed at the workings in the man's heart.

"Yes," he repeated, "Captain Braithwaite—him as is is going to marry his cousin It is hardly likely, with all his courting on Dolly, he'll throw the other over for her," he added vindictively. "Oh!'

For Adam had taken a step forward, and his brawny hand clutched the lad's throat with a grip that threatened strangulation.

"Liar," he shouted hoarsely—"base-hearted villian! I've a good mind to choke all the breath out of your vile body."

Already Joe was growing black in the face, when, with a final shake, the blacksmith flung him from him.

"I'll teach you to come here prating to me about my girl, because, forsooth, she showed her sense by not having anything to do with a skulking hound like you!'

Joe, who had come in contact with the opposite wall, and had fallen prone upon the earth, raised himself with some little difficulty, so bruised and sore was he. Without uttering a word, he reached the door; but, when within a safe distance of the infuriated old man, he turned round to say—

"Liar am I? Well, we'll see! I've taken your thrashing, it's true; but I'll have my revenge when I see all decent folk scouting you and that fine lass of yours. She's—"

But there he retreated hastily, leaving the sentence incomplete, for Adam, in the doorway, cast upon him so threatening a look that he deemed discretion the better part of valor, and took a hurried departure.

Long after Joe had disappeared from view, the blacksmith stood there, his sturdy figure thrown boldly into relief in the gathering gloom by the forge fire, which flickered and flared behind.

He had been in his day as handsome a specimen of our sons of toil as could have been met with in old England, and even now his massive figure was unbent, and his brawny arm retained much of its strength, of which he had just given good proof. He might have passed for a son of Vulcan, with his bronze face and dark frizzly hair and beard. A hard man some deemed him, and his general demeanor certainly showed no signs of weakness. Only to Dolly did he unbend—Dolly, his one ewe lamb, his darling, whom he had denied nothing, whom he literally worshipped—Dolly, the light of his old eyes, the legacy left to him by her young mother, and which he had cherished all these years. Dolly, who was to bring shame—ah, no! Joe Smith was a jealous fool; his Dolly could do no harm; she would have told her old father if——

"Am I going mad?" Adam cried with sudden fierce pain, breaking off in his soliloquy. "Of course it was a lie—I told him he was a liar!"

The blacksmith passed his hand over his brow and heaved a great sigh from his broad chest. In all his dreams of the future he had pictured Dolly as a happy wife, but never this—never that a breath even of scandal should sully her fair name—never that her beauty would prove a snare, or that she would be made the sport of an idle hour, the plaything of a man of fashion.

"If I thought so, if any one deceived or wronged my Dolly, by—

He did not finish the sentence—there was no need; the lowering brow, the flash of the keen dark eyes, the uplifting of the clenched fist, all showed that it would fare ill with the man who incurred Adam Jarvis's anger.

He went back to the forge presently, but he did no more work; not that he doubted Dolly yet, but his interview with Joe Smith had upset him altogether, for it had been one of his favorite theories that his daughter should wed the young gardener; not that the girl herself was aware of her father's project. So he put out the fire, closed the ponderous doors, and went into the house.

It was early, quite an hour before his usual advent. Sue, the old woman who had lived with him ever since Dolly was born, and had acted as nurse first, and latterly as general servant and factotum, was superintending some culinary operation. She looked up, startled at the appearance of the blacksmith.

"Lawk-a-mercy, how ye made me jump! What's the matter, or is it hungry ye be already? Supper won't be ready for this hour or so."

"It's not supper I want," the blacksmith answered shortly, letting his eyes wander round the room as if in search of some one; "it's Dolly—where's the girl?"

"Sure now she was here a few minutes ago; but she just stepped down to widow Lane's."

"What for? Why's she gone there?" Adam questioned, so sharply that the old woman looked up quickly.

"It's no harm surely she's doing. It's a dull life for the bairn to lead, and she's gone for a bit of gossip, I take it. She'll be back in time for supper, no fear."

But Adam heeded not the last words nor Sue's wondering exclamations as he "titivated" himself up a bit and finally went out, saying—

"If Dolly comes in, tell her not to wait supper for me; I am going on a matter of business, and it is unsartin' what time I'll be home."

The blacksmith's forge stood in the High Street. Turning to the right as he came out of his dwelling, Adam went a short distance to where the road divided into two lanes, as it were, the one diverging to the right and the other to the left. There he paused for a second with some degree of hesitation in his manner.

Almost within sight of him was widow Lane's shop, down what was still considered the main street. Should he go and ascertain if Dolly were really there, and, if so, accompany her home? But he dismissed the idea as quickly as it occurred to him. Almost against his will, a little doubt was rising in his mind. Suppose she should not be there? It might only have been an idle excuse she had made to old Sue, in order to be able to get away without arousing suspicion. She might have thought her father would not inquire for her until the usual supper-hour

"Bah!" cried Adam, pulling fiercely at his grizzly beard. "It's that idiot Joe as has put all this nonsense into my silly noddle. As if I couldn't trust my own child! No; I'll not be a spy on her actions, though maybe the girl's not been so well looked afear as she ought to have been. She's young and there's not another as can hold a candle to her for good looks in the village; and so—well I'm going now to do what perhaps I'd better have done before, though I couldn't a-bear to put anybody in poor Molly's place, and it's only for the sake of Molly's child that I'm a-going to do it now—leastways, if she'll have me, and there's not much doubt about that, I'm thinking!"

"He ended with a little chuckle of self-congratulation, his brow clearing for the first time that evening. So the blacksmith went on without any further wavering, and finally pulled up before a red-brick house of some pretensions, standing back from the road, with a garden in front fenced by a thick laurel-hedge. Over the white gate swung a red lamp, and that alone, without the brass plate, would have indicated it as being the residence of the village doctor. But the worthy blacksmith needed none of his nostrums, and, passing the surgery door, proceeded to the back of the house.

The neat maid who opened the door in answer to Adam's knock did not appear surprised to see a visitor, and, without being questioned, announced with a giggle that Mrs. Maine—who, by the way, was neither a married woman nor a widow, and only rejoiced in the honorable prefix by courtesy—would see him in a minute, and invited him to step in.

"Whatever passed between Adam Jarvis and the good-tempered woman who enjoyed Dr. Seymour's confidence, it must have been satisfactory, to judge from Adam's countenance when, half an hour later, he emerged from the Doctor's house; for he had not tarried in his wooing. He had told Mrs Maine he must get home to supper and to Dolly, to whom he was anxious to tell the news, and had successfully parried all the good woman's endeavors to persuade him to take "a bit and sup" in her company. But now, having finished the business which had brought him from home, he felt in no particular hurry to return. It was a bright moonlight night, the air a little keen, but none the less pleasant for that—just the night for a brisk walk. Adam never could account for the impulse which led him, instead of taking the direct way back to the forge, to make a circuit skirting Oliver's Mount and through the pine wood.

On the summit of a hill where the trees grew thickest some boulders jutted out, forming below a rugged precipice, the sides of which were overgrown with bracken and furze. As he approached this spot, the blacksmith's thoughts, which had been occupied not unpleasantly with the future prospect in store for him, were suddenly recalled to the present.

All around was unusually calm and peaceful—nature was at rest, Hardly a breath of wind stirred the leaves; the birds had ceased to twitter, not an insect buzzed in the air; only Adam's heavy tread made a regular thud as he strode along; and then suddenly there fell distinctly upon his ear a man's voice, low and tender and pleading, answered by a woman's passionate sobs.

A dark cloud had passed over the moon, for a moment rendering all objects indistinct; but, even before she was sailing again in a sea of azure, the blacksmith instinctively knew that the man and woman were none other than Captain Braithwaite and his daughter Dolly.

CHAPTER V.

The clock in St. Jude's tower was booming out nine strokes when a little figure stopped before Dr. Seymour's surgery, and, with unsteady fingers, pulled the bell-handle. It was a mild warm night, and yet, as the Dr. himself threw open the door, he noticed that the girl was shivering from head to foot as if with ague.

"Dolly Jarvis!" he exclaimed, as the light flashed upon her face, and he recognised, with some surprise, the blacksmith's daughter. "Come in. What is it my dear?' For the girl raised piteous eyes to his, though it seemed for the moment as if she had lost all power of utterance. "Is anything wrong at home? Your father—"

And then he paused, for his keen eyes saw that the right sleeve of Dolly's dress was stained with something dark and red. Could it be blood? Of course! She herself had received some injury; but, before he could question her, Dolly, whose glance had followed his, divined his thoughts and broke in tremulously—

"No, no; there is nothing the matter with me. It is the Captain—Captain Braithwaite Oh, Doctor"—springing up from the chair into which the old gentleman had gently pushed her—"he is dying—may be dead even while we are wasting time!"

Dr. Seymour regarded the agonized face of the girl curiously; he, in common with the rest of the good folk at Midhurst, had heard rumors of the gay young officer's attentions to the village belle.

"Ah," he said quietly, "but you must tell me what has happened if I am to be of any use!"

"It—it was an accident," stammered poor Dolly, coloring deeply beneath the Doctor's close scrutiny. "He fell over the edge of the precipice in the pine-wood. You know the place?" interrogatively.

"Not very well. And you think Captain Braithwaite is badly injured by the fall?"

"Yes. There was a great gash on his forehead, and—oh, it was horrible!" Dolly ended suddenly, covering her face with both hands.

"Well, well, we must see what can be done. You must accompany me to the spot; I might not find my way easily. In the meantime, drink this."

He had, whilst he had been speaking, poured out a glass of port which he now presented to the agitated girl; then he hastily commenced putting a few things together—lint, bandages, plaster, and so forth; and, by the time Dolly had drunk her wine, he was buttoning up his coat.

"I would have the trap out," he said; but if my recollection serves me rightly, the high-road does not run anywhere near the place."

"No," Dolly answered briefly; "there is only a footpath across the Mount and through the pine-wood."

"Then we will start at once."

As he spoke, the doctor opened a door that led into the house; and Dolly, like one in a dream, heard him giving hasty directions in case there should be any calls on his services during his absence. The next minute he reappeared, and he and his companion passed silently out into the now-deserted roadway, for Midhurst was a primitive place, and its inhabitants kept early hours, as a rule.

Not a word was exchanged as the two walked swiftly on, though the Doctor now and again gave a keen side-glance at the little figure by his side. The strange, dazed expression on her countenance puzzled him. It was not grief nor terror, but an expectant look, as though she were on the alert against any surprise; and she started nervously at the slightest sound.

What did she fear to see? Why did she shrink away from every moving object as if it were a ghost? the Doctor said to himself wonderingly, though he refrained from making any remark.

At length that seemingly interminable walk was nearly ended, as they had reached the hollow—Dolly had led the doctor by a circuitous route to the foot of the rocks—and, as they turned a corner, they came within sight of a recumbent figure, over which another form was bending.

"I see some one is there already," observed Dr. Seymour.

"It is only Joe Smith!" exclaimed Dolly. "He promised to stay with him whilst I ran for you"

The Doctor's face cleared. It was not so bad as he thought; he had been misjudging Dolly all this time, and he hastened to make amends.

"Ah, I understand! Then you were not alone with the Captain when the accident happened. I am glad to hear that"

"Alone!' Dolly repeated, turning a startled and ghastly-looking face towards him; then she added quickly—"It was lucky Joe Smith was there, for I could not have left him by himself, could I?"

She asked the question in such an innocent childish fashion that the Doctor's first suspicions were instantly allayed; afterwards he remembered that quick exclamation and the look that had accompanied it.

A few words of greeting, and then Joe stood aside to enable Doctor Seymour to examine his patient's injuries.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Helpful.

A correspondent of the Pall-Mall Gazette tells the story of a plump, pretty little orphan of seven, who was one of the steerage passengers in a steamer heavily laden with emigrants for New York. She had not a relative or friend on board, but was sent from some remote district in Sweden to Chicago.

The poor baby made her journey of four thousand miles smiling, happy, finding a friend's face in every one that looked at her. The emigrant women on board cared for her as though each were her mother. Every morning she came on deck freshly bathed and dressed, her pretty hair braided under her puckered hood. The Englishman who observed the universal kindness to the child says, "In all my life I never saw so fine a thing."

A story which is told of some German emigrants might parallel this: Two brothers, one an abled bodied mechanic, the other a slight lad of eighteen, were steerage passengers in one of the large American steamers several years ago. The elder, venturing into some dangerous quarter of the vessel, during a storm was washed overboard and drowned. He had on his person the little store of money and the tickets belonging to both. The lad, Gottfried, was left absolute penniless and friendless in the world. The other emigrants contributed of their poor little savings enough to pay his way and support him until he reached a colony in Dakota, to which most of them are bound. He is now one of the most industrious, energetic men in it.

Sarcely a ship-load of emigrants comes across the sea in which there is not shown the same mutual kindness and help. There is sometimes in the act of cutting loose from his old home, and all past associations, which makes a man cling more closely to other men as neighbors and brothers; giving and asking help as never before. It is the best preparation for his life in the new country here he will stand on an equality for mutual help and support with men of every nation under heaven.

Yet after all, are we not all emigrants crossing a wider sea to an unknown country, which we all—the millionaire and pauper, the white and the black, the gentleman and the slave—shall enter together, children of one Father? Shall we not, too, try to help each other on this our one short voyage?

A Man Without a Country.

A curious case has been for some time on trial before the French courts, and has excited much discussion and many smiles. It is that of an eccentric Frenchman, who, at the early age of 33 or 34, was deprived of his liberty of action by a family council; or, in other words, was prevented from ruining himself financially by having administrators appointed over him. This so enraged him that he conceived a violent prejudice against his fellow-countrymen. During the remainder of his life he seems to have passed his time in inventing measures for annoying his relatives; and in his will he expressly stipulated that as soon as he was supposed to be dead his administrator should pierce his heart with a bodkin in order to make sure that he should not be buried alive; after which he should convey the body to within one mile of the English coast, and there have it cast into the sea. "I decline to have my remains repose," said this energetic Frenchman, "in the midst of my fellow-countrymen, who have acted in an imbecile and idiotic manner in taking away my liberty of action when I was in the prime of life." The administrator-guardian expressed a profound willingness to carry out the instructions in the will, and was even having a small boat constructed for the purpose of performing the funeral rites on the water, when the other members of the family interfered and brought the matter into court. Before the tribunal the executor again declared that he was ready to carry out the will or to have the body of his deceased relative placed in a vault in London as a kind of compromise. The matter has not yet been settled and is likely to become legendary. Perhaps it may lead to some reform of the castiron regulations as to the disposal of fortunes, regulations which may have been very proper in the epoch of the first Napoleon, but which are rather antiquated and too tyrannical to suit the temper of the present generation.

Lighting His Own Funeral Fyre.

John Rosenmeyer, a well-to-do farmer in Weisburg, had been drinking deeply of late and was in a state bordering on delirium tremens. Returning to his home, he began a violent attack upon the members of his family, and drove each in terror from the house. Still imagining himself pursued by devils and hissing serpents, he piled the bedding and furniture in heaps upon the floor and set them on fire. Then, armed with a gun, he placed a chair upon a table in the centre of the room, and, amid the roar and crackle of the blazing combustibles, sat upon his elevated seat, with his weapon in his hands, shouting defiance to the imaginary swarm of snakes and devils that were, in the light of his maddened brain, seeking to devour him.

The fierce flames spread, and the entire building was soon wrapped in the consuming elements, yet in the midst of it all could be seen the maniac. Like a monarch on his throne, he sat laughing and exulting at the ruin and havoc around him, and shouting at the top of his voice defiance to fire, devil, and death. Not until the flames had entirely surrounded him and he had toppled from his lofty seat were the alarmed spectators able to reach him and drag him from certain destruction. While thus engaged in their humane work he threatened with loaded gun to shoot them.

An examination of his burns showed that he could not live many hours. The house with all its contents was destroyed.

Tailor-made jackets and frocks are considered indispensable at the seaside.

The recent speech of Vice-President Hendricks, in which he expressed himself as being in entire accord with Parnell in his revolutionary and seditious agitation, was, to say the least, very illogical. Mr. Hendricks is reported to have said that the American principle that men had a right to govern themselves applied exactly to the case of Ireland as opposed to England. This is just the view the South took twenty-five years ago, but Mr. Hendricks then asserted that it was the duty of the South to be governed by the North. "If," says a contemporary, "Vice-President Hendricks will make this tangle a little clearer, people may believe in the sincerity of his views about Ireland. The principle which he eulogizes at a gathering of Irishmen is the principle which he fought against on the side of the heavy battalions. And there are people who believe that Ireland is necessary to the British Union for the same reasons as rendered the Southern States necessary to the American Union—reasons which then had Hendricks on their side."

A PRISON ROMANCE.

An Innocent Couple Who Were Held for Life.

Application is about to be made for the release of Freeman P. Cargan, who is now serving a life sentence in the prison of Jackson, having been convicted on perjured testimony of one of the most brutal murders in the history of Michigan. Charles Smith was a well-to-do farmer, living in Chesaning township, Saginaw county. His wife and a young farm hand named Morris Alexander made up the regular members of the household. Mrs Smith's sister was invited from New York to visit at Chesaning. She came, bringing her husband, Freeman P. Cargan, with her.

On the night of September 12, 1876, soon after the arrival of the Cargans, the Smith barn was burned to the ground Little was thought of that fact, but by a singular coincidence Charles Smith disappeared on the same night, and no trace of his whereabouts could be found. Suspicion was aroused, and a careful search of the charred ruins of the barn was made. Half buried under a quantity of burned beams was the skeleton of a man. Only the bones remained, and these were partially incinerated. A post-mortem examination was made of the remains, when it was discovered that the body had been hammered almost to a jelly before being burned. Most of the bones were splintered into fragments by blows from a blunt instrument. The remains were identified as those of the missing Charles Smith.

All the inmates of the Smith house were arrested on a charge of murder. Suspicion centered upon young Alexander and Mrs. Smith. It was generally known that the familiarity between the two had excited Smith's disapprobation. Freeman P. Cargan was the first to be tried before the Saginaw Circuit Court. During the imprisonment of Alexander and Mrs. Smith they had frequent consultations with the prosecuting officers, which resulted in several alleged confessions that freed the two suspected parties and fixed the murder on the two Cargans. On the trial, which was attended with great popular excitement, Mrs. Smith swore that she and Alexander had long contemplated the murder of her husband, but neither of them had the courage to do the deed. She had, therefore, written to her sister, Mrs. Cargan, in New York, offering $500 if the latter's husband would come on and do the work. Cargan and his wife had come to Chesaning for the purpose of murder, and deliberately accomplished the object by first clubbing the old man to death and then burying his body. Alexander corroborated Mrs. Smith's story. These confessions were so conclusive that Cargan and his wife were both convicted and sentenced for life, he to the State prison and she to the Detroit House of Correction. For having turned State's evidence and convicting the Cargans, Mrs. Smith and Alexander were rewarded with light sentences, the former being sent to the Detroit House of Correction for ten years.

During Mrs. Smith's imprisonment Superintendent Nicholson noticed that she was burdened with some secret mental affliction. A cancer of the stomach reduced her physically. She sent for the superintendent, and said she had a deathbed confession to make to him. Her death was so near that restoratives had to be administered to preserve the flickering sparks of life. In disconnected but perfectly coherent sentences she stated that her entire testimony against Cargan and his wife was perjured. She and Alexander had been promised a light sentence if they would give evidence against the Cargans With the hope of seeing her children again she determined to swear falsely, and invented the story which had sent the Cargans to prison for life.

THE MAN AT THE WINDOW.

An Irish Ghost Story.

Having tired ourselves bird-nesting, climbing trees, leaping, and indulging in other pranks, we at last approached the old mansion, a little square, lofty, substantial house of three storeys. It had been uninhabited for years. Many of the windows were broken, some closed with shutters, the lower ones built up with stones. The hall door was approached by a flight of stone steps, through whose joints long grass had grown, was also barricaded with large stones. We examined in detail the front of this deserted hall. We passed round to the back, and, climbing the garden wall, saw the walks covered with weeds and grass, the fruit trees encrusted with moss and mildew, decay on all around. I turned round and looked up to one of the top windows, and there, to my utter amazement and terror, beheld standing at the window an aged man, dressed in a black cutaway coat. He wore a three-cocked hat, and his skirted coat was braided with gold. A large black dog was on the window sill before him, and his arm was stretched before the dog's breast, as if restraining him from leaping down on us. All this was taken in at a glance. I pointed to the window. The three of us leaped from the wall, and rushed over "bank, bush, and scaur," through brake and drain. Arriving at the high road breathless, with clothes torn, hands and faces lacerated, feet and garments bedraggled with mire and wet, I asked the other boys if they had seen the old gentleman and his dog, as I described them. They assured me they had. This extraordinary apparition at midday, so much at variance with the ordinary experience, that such unearthly visitors of the glimpses of the moon, appear only at the witching hour of night, I really beheld; as truly as any object I had ever seen before. I visited the place lately. The old house has completely disappeared. Not a trace of it remains. Of my two companions on that day, one has long since stolen to his eternal rest. The round earth intervenes between the other and myself. For years no doubt crossed my mind that I had seen that ghost. If you ask me if I believe it still, with the knowledge and experience of after years, I must confess that I have devised a theory to explain the apparition. There were ghost stories connected with the deserted mansion of Martinstown. I recollected, on reflection, to have heard an old nurse tell how, when the family had all left and some servants remained, they were talking one night round the fire in the servants' hall. Suddenly they heard a footstep as of one walking down the stairs. Step by step the foot came until with stately tread there walked into the room an ancient gentleman, with three cocked hat, shoes with broad silver buckles, and a diamond-hilted rapier by his side. He gazed intently for a moment on the group by the fire, turned slowly round walked from the room in the same dignified manner, was heard ascending step by step to the top of the house and shutting a door behind him. That was the last night any servants stayed at Martinstown. The conclusion to which I afterwards came, looking at my ghost adventure through the shadows of years that had passed, was that some one with a black dog must have been in the house at the time; that he came to the window and looked out at us, and that to my mind's eye he assumed even to the minutest particular the appearance of the old gentleman whose apparition I had heard described years before, but of whom I had no conscious thought at the time. It may be asked how I account for my two companions having witnessed exactly the same apparition. The only answer I can give is that they beheld the man and dog, and that it was only in answer to my questions they agreed as to the cocked hat and braided coat.

A number of dogs were recently dosed with morphine until they became insensible, the object being to determine what drug would act most rapidly as an antidote. It was found that hypodermic injections of theine neutralized the narcotic almost instantly, although it was employed only after the heart had ceased to beat. Caffeine had a considerable anti-narcotic power, but was not equal to the principle derived from tea.

It is not the cream that ought to be whipped, but the milk man.

STRANGE BUT TRUE.

A woman in Logan county, takes her rest in batches of three days and nights' sleep at a time, and then keeps awake for a like period. She is 80 years old.

A law has been enacted in Austria making the observance of Sunday compulsory. The law, however, contains a clause exempting from its operation Jewish tradesmen and artisans who do no work on their Sabbath.

In New York there are upward of 90,000 Jews who are eminently active and useful members of the community; although nearly nine per cent. of the population they contribute less than one per cent. to the criminal class. They have 26 synagogues, between 40 and 50 small meeting houses, and 18 charitable societies.

A couple recently married in Lynn were at a loss for a bridesmaid. A friend called at an intelligence office in Boston and secured the services of a handsome woman to act in the capacity desired He paid $3 for her services, besides paying her expenses both ways. She had never seen nor did she know the contracting parties.

Light papers make a dark, dingy room much more cheerful; large figures make a small room look much smaller and occasions much waste in matching the figures. All low rooms should be papered with striped paper having the stripes running up and down; as it makes the room seem much higher. Subdued tints take off the glare of too many windows.

A process of making sea-water drinkable has been discovered by an English experiment. It consists in using citrate of silver to remove the chlorides. One ounce of the citrate of silver will make a half pint of sea water drinkable. If further experiments confirm this, it is probable all sea-going vessels and lifeboats belonging to them well be provided with bottles of citrate of silver.

Abram Hanson, a negro boy of Lawrence, Kas, can pick up a piece of clay and model it in a few minutes to almost any form that suggests itself to his mind, with a life-likeness truly astounding. From the common clay there found in abundance, without tools of any kind, without models or designs, he forms men and beasts with a wonderful reality and no inconsiderable artistic talent.

A curious physiological fact is noticed by a writer on the late Franco-Chinese war in Tonquin, namely, that the bodies of the slain Chinese, unlike those of the French, "did not decompose, but merely become discolored and like mummies," while, with the exception of the eyes, carrion birds left them untouched. It is suggested that opium smoking might have been the cause of the phenomenon.

The giant bowls of Orholm, on the east side of Christians Fjord, have been described by Herr Geelmeyden. These curious geological formations are the largest of their kind in Scandinavia. In two of these depressions a few pines and birches grow in a tolerably natural way until their tops reach the level of the rocks above which the branches are twisted fantastically by the force of the wind.

The Niagara Park commissioners have taken hold of their duties with considerable enthusiasm and are entering in earnest upon the task assigned them. They have visited the Falls and decided upon the boundaries of the Park, which, we are informed, will be larger than that on the opposite shore. Thus far no serious difficulty has been encountered, the number and value of the buildings which will have to be purchased being less than was at first anticipated. The matter will be placed before the Ontario Legislature at its next session and if we may judge from the tone of Mr. Mowat's remarks at the opening of the American Park, our own enterprise will receive substantial aid from the Government.

DANCE OF DEATH.

A Robber of the Corrals Is Forced to Give Up the Ghost.

Some months since, the citizens of Howard's Station, on the California, Oregon & Idaho stage line, offered $150 reward for the scalp of an immense grizzly bear that had for months prior thereto been depredating the stock ranches of Siskiyou county. The bear's career as robber of the chorrals extended over four years, his last act being to kill a 2-year old steer, perch himself upon the animal, and proceeded to make a meal of him. The reward impelled several of the most noted bear hunters to look for him but in a very wary way, for Bruin had made mincemeat of a dozen or more dogs, besides being alive and healthy after four Winchester balls had been planted in him and after he had lost a portion of one of his feet in a great trap. "Grizzly Reelfoot," had been the name by which he has since been known, owing to his consequent ambling gait.

Thomas Jones and Charles Meredith went up on the California & Oregon railroad some weeks ago for a hunt. On their return they reported that Henry Woodburn and Jim Wilson, of Linkville, Oregon, with themselves, succeeded at last in killing him. They got on his trail in the deep woods immediately south of Howard's Station, and, with the aid of Wilson's four trained dogs, succeeded in treeing him, after following him through canyons and jungles for over seven miles. Hearing the dogs baying, Wilson, who was in the lead, rushed forward only to find two of his favorite dogs lying dead on the ground. Blood covered the bushes and great shreds of flesh appeared here and there. Looking upward, the bear appeared wending his way on a limb, about forty feet from the ground. He was showing his teeth and growling fearfully. Wilson quickly raising his gun, fired thrice in rapid succession, but without dislodging him. The other three hunters then arriving, they also commenced firing, when the ponderous brute dropped to the ground. He was immediately seized by the remaining dogs, but, badly wounded as he was, he made a vicious fight, killing one dog and tearing the coat of Meredith, who had ventured too near, off his back. A final shot from Jones however, finished him. The grizzly weighed over 900 pounds.

A Mysterious Providence.

Mrs. Spurgeon, the wife of the famous preacher, is the subject of an astonishing story in the Presbyterian Monthly Visitor of London. "During an illness of Mrs. Spurgeon," says that paper, "she told him (Mr Spurgeon) that she had been wishing for a piping bull-finch and an onyx ring. Of course Mr. Spurgeon expressed his willingness to get both, but she made him promise not to do so. He had to make a sick call on his way to the station as well as call at the Tabernacle. Shortly after reaching the sick person's house the mother of the patient, to his amazement, asked Mr. Spurgeon if Mrs. S. would like a piping-bull-finch, that they had one, but that its music was trying on the invalid, and they would gladly part with it to one who would give it the requisite care. He then made his call at the Tabernacle, and, after reading a voluminous correspondence, came at last to a letter and a parcel underlying the other letters. The letter was from a lady unknown to him, who had received benefit from his services in the Tabernacle, and, as a slight token of her appreciation of these services, asked his acceptance of the inclosed onyx ring, necklet, and bracelets, for which she had no further use. This intensified his surprise, and he hastened home with what had been so strangely sent, went up into his wife's sick room, and placed the objects she had longed for before her."

"What becomes of men who deceive their fellow men?" asked a Sunday-school teacher of her class. "They lose the confidence of good people," was the prompt answer. "Very well, indeed. Now, what becomes of the women who do the same thing?" The question stumped the class for a minute, and then a little girl piped out: "They usually catches the man for a husband, mum."

The Standard.

MARKDALE SEPT. 24, 1885.

INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION NOTES.

Hanes & Brown of Owen Sound took 1st prize and Silver Medal for Stallion four years and upward, best calculated to improve the breed of horses in Canada.

Single horse (gelding or mare) in harness, under 15¾ hands, J. R. Hannah, Flesherton.

J. Bowes of St. Vincent took 1st prize for matched farm team, and Dougal Smith, Meaford 3rd.

Pair of ponnies from 13¼ to 14½ hands 1st Rev. A. Wilson, Markdale, 2nd Angus Plewes, Markdale.

Mr. Jas. Noble of Meaford took a first and R. T. McGirr of Feversham 2nd for a trotting race for $50, first 75 per cent, 2nd 25 per cent. The above were, we believe, the principal prizes in horses taken in this district.

Mr. J. R. Trimble's Clear Grit Jr., took 2nd prize in London for best carriage horse.

The competition in the various classes of horses at both Toronto and London was very keen, and a vast number of fine animals were exhibited.

EAST GREY FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

A meeting of the directors of the E.G.F.I. was held in Markdale on Wednesday the 23d inst. at the Markdale House, when the following were present:

T. Gilray, - - President.
T. Kells, - Vice-President.
A. Turner, - Sec'y. Treasurer.

DIRECTORS

Dr. Sproule, M.P. N.McColman, M. P.P., T. Sowerby and Wm. Norton, Holland; W. Pringle and J. Sparrow, Sullivan; Geo. Richardson and D. R. Ellis, Euphrasia; J. Blakely, Artemesia; and J. Clinton, Osprey, being all the directors but four. Important matters were discussed, and a deep interest manifested in the success of the Institute. A committee was appointed, consisting of the President, Vice-President, Secretary, Geo. Richardson and D. R. Ellis, to make arrangements for the first and second public meetings, to be held in January next in Markdale and Chatsworth respectively, and to secure some of the Professors from the Government Experimental Farm at Guelph to deliver lectures on different branches of agriculture at said meetings. It was also decided to have the annual meeting in Markdale on the day of the first public lecture, the exact date not known until a reply is had from the Professors.

A MAN OF NERVE.

We all admire a man of nerve, who is cool-headed and equal to any emergency, but nervous debility is the prevailing weakness of most people. Burdock Blood Bitters is a good nervine and general tonic, which regulates and strengthens the whole system, imparting bodily and mental vigor.

Maxwell.

From our own Correspondent.

Weather favorable, and harvest almost completed.

News scarce, but as we have not written lately, and don't like to be behind, we have concluded to send in a few lines. Phiz has often noticed that when his correspondence failed to appear, that correspondents of other places have been the same, so he thinks he will try and write oftner, and see if others will follow his example.

Mr. A. Sharpe has returned from Ottawa, where he has been spending several weeks. He is looking well and as fresh as a daisy, and for the past few days has been visiting in Singhampton.

A number of residents enjoyed themselves at the Toronto Exhibition, and returned home right side up with care. But Mr. Allison complains of having greatly suffered while undergoing a painful operation on his eye; but is getting around again all right.

Mr. Robert Gordon lost a fine horse lately, valued at about $150.

One evening this week as we were returning home after a long journey, and having to pass through a long swamp, what should cross our path about ten feet ahead of us, but a—something, and as the clouds shaded the moon at that hour, we could not discern what it was; at first took it for a man, but as it jumped a high fence close by without touching, we knew it was'nt that. On catching a glimpse of it as we were trying to draw near to it crossing a field, we took it for a black dog, but on hearing the brush crack so loudly in the woods we came to the conclusion that it was a big bear, and that we had better make tracks, and we lost no time in making our way home.

PHIZ.

A MALARIAL NEIGHBORHOOD.

People so unfortunate as to reside in a malarial region should cleanse and thoroughly tone up the system with Burdock Blood Bitters, that promptly acts upon the Stomach, Bowels, Liver and Kidneys, thus preventing Ague and all Bilious Complaints. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan, Elevator, Resturant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

Flesherton.

From our own correspondent.

The Financial District Meeting of the Owen Sound District, held in the Methodist church here Wednesday and Thursday of last week was well attended by ministers and representatives. The whole session was one of pleasure and much profit. On the evening of the first day, a Sabbath School Convention was held; the attendance was not as large as expected, but those who were fortunate enough to be present enjoyed a rich treat; the whole proceedings were unusually interesting. After the singing of a hymn the Rev. Mr. Stephenson, of Heathcote, (Collingwood District) led in a very impressive prayer. After an anthum from the choir the Rev. Mr. Howell (Chairman of the District) delivered a very instructive, interesting and practical address on Sabbath School work. The Rev. Mr. Ayres next followed with a very carefully prepared paper on "The field its extent," which was listened to with deep interest. The Rev. Mr. Auld, of Eugenia, then delivered a brief but pithy address on "The Field its possibilities," which was also very interesting. After the addresses from the platform several gentlemen in the audience gave short practical addresses with some very good suggestions in regard to training the young. The choir enlivened the proceedings by several choice selections. Second day and evening, a large gathering of children assembled a 4 o'clock and were addressed by several ministers with remarks and language calculated to benefit the children. At 8 o'clock a grand Mass Meeting was held, the church being well filled. After several addresses, the question drawer was opened and the questions asked were all replied to by the Rev. Mr. Godfrey in a very interesting manner. The Rev. Mr. Howell thanked the people of the village for their kindness and hospitality to all, during the session so pleasant, also the choir for their very kind services at all the public meetings, when the benediction was pronounced and all left for their resting places.

Mr. Wm. McMullen, of Flesherton Station, an old resident of this township, was taken ill with some disease of the liver about three months ago. After a great deal of suffering passed away on Monday evening last.

LADIES ONLY.

The complexion is often rendered unsightly by Pimples, Liver Spots, and Yellowness. These it is well known are caused from an inactive Liver and bad blood. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure purifies the blood and whole system. See Recipe Book for for toilet recipes, hints and suggestions on how to preserve the complexion. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Oct.

Arrangements Completed

FOR THE DOUBLE SCULL RACE BETWEEN COURTNEY, CONLEY, HANLAN AND LEE.

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 22.--S. M. Hickey concluded arrangements with Courtney's representative, Spellman, and a double scull race between Courtney and Conley and Hanlan and Lee will be rowed off Pleasure Island on Tuesday, October 13, at 3:30 p. m. both crews are practicing on the Laureate course. Hanlan and Lee are in splendid form, and the betting, which has begun, is largely in favor of that crew. Courtney is a bit over trained and looks thin, but Conley is in prime condition. The race will be for $2,000 stakes, $1,000 a side, and a $3,000 purse offered by Mr. Hickey, two-thirds to the winners, the remainder to the other crew. The Teemer-Hanlan championship race of October 25 will very likely be rowed on the Pleasure island course, which Hanlan says is the best in the country.

HONESTY THE BEST POLICY.

An honest medicine is the noblest work of man, and we can assure our readers that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the only reliable, but is almost infallible to cure Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Canker of the Stomach and bowels, and the various Summer Complaints, whose attacks are often sudden and fatal.

Cut This Out.

A PREVENTIVE AND CURE FOR THE SMALL-POX—VALUABLE RECIPE.

Several years since a correspondent of the Stockton (California) Herald gave the following concerning small-pox and its remedy. I give it as published. "I herewith append a recipe which has been used to my knowledge in hundreds of cases. It will prevent or cure the small-pox through the pittings and filling. When Jenner discovered cow pox in England, the world of science hurled an avalanche of fame upon his head; but when the most scientific school of medicine in the world—that of Paris—published this recipe and panaces for small-pox it passed unheeded. It is as unfailing as fate, and conquers in every instance. It is harmless when taken by a well person. It will also cure scarlet fever. Here is the recipe as I have used it and cured my children of scarlet fever and small-pox. When learned physicians said the patient must die, it cured.

THE RECIPE.

Sulphate of zinc, 1 gr.; fox-glove (digitals), 1 gr.; ½ teaspoonful of sugar. Mix with two tablespoonfuls of water. When thoroughly mixed add four ounces of water.

Take a teaspoonful every hour. Either disease will disappear in twelve hours. For a child, smaller dose according to age.

For a preventive take a teaspoonful before each meal. Children less quantity according to age.

If countries would compel physicians to use this there would be no need of pest-houses. If you value advice and experience use this for that terrible disease.

The writer has given the above recipe as a preventive when small-pox was prevailing, and found it to correspond with the above statements; it is therefore conceded not only a cure but a preventive. It is hoped the papers will keep the above before the public.

SPRING AND SUMMER.

Prepare the body for health and vigor by taking Dr. Chase's Liver Cure. No Spring Medicine equals it. It stimulates the Liver aids digestion, and purifies the blood. Large bottle and Recipe Book, $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Sept.

SAW-MILL BURNED.—On Saturday last at noon hour, Ford & Stinson's saw-mill, on the 11th line Euphrasia, was destroyed by fire, together with about 125 cords shingle bolts, and from ninety to one hundred thousand feet of lumber. The hands had been cutting shingles, and all was safe as far as was seen when they left for dinner, but they had not sat down more than ten minutes when the alarm of fire was sounded by some parties who were hunting, and came out of the swamp at that place. The contents were of such an inflammable character that all efforts to stay the devouring element were in vain. The women turned out and rendered valuable assistance in saving the contents of the yard from being consumed, and succeeded in saving some 125,000 feet of lumber. The origin of the fire appears a mystery. The loss is estimated at fully $5,000. There is insurance amounting to $3,200 on the mill and machinery. We understand it is the intention of the proprietors to rebuild, if the insurance turns out all right.

MARVELOUS.

One dose of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure will cure Sick Headache, Dizziness, and Sour Stomach. 1 to 2 bottles are warrented to cure Liver Complaint, Indigestion and Biliousness. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Oct

JUMBO.—The death of Barnum's Monster elephant, "Jumbo," at St. Thomas last Tuesday, the 15th, was the subject of a lengthy notice by all the leading Canadian, American and English papers. This was certainly the largest elephant in the world, and the tidings of the accident causing his death was received with much sorrow by all who have had the pleasure of seeing the monster, yet docile animal. Barnum purchased him from the London Zoological Society some years ago for the sum of £2,000 and has never disguised the fact that Jumbo was the greatest catch he ever made. He was struck by a train while crossing the track on the evening of the 15th inst. at St. Thomas and died shortly afterwards. His hide will be stuffed for Tuft College, Massachusets, to which it has been presented by Barnum.

McGREGOR'S SPEEDY CURE.

It is popularly admitted everywhere that McGregor's Speedy Cure is the safest, most reliable and far cheapest remedy for Constipation, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Impure Blood, Loss of Appetite, and all similar troubles. It is not necessary to take a great quantity before any result is produced. A few doses will convince you of its merits. Trial bottle given free at Hill Bro's. 5

HASKETT'S NEW HALL.—This hall was opened for public purposes on Monday evening last by a concert under the auspices of the C. O. O. F. of this village. The weather was most delightful, and the entertainment well attended. Dr. Sproule, M. P., occupied the chair with his usual ability and free-and-easy manner. After briefly reviewing the evidences of progress in our village, such as the organization of the brass band, and the hall now being inaugurated for public purposes, he (the chairman) gave a short sermon on the benefits of the Order, taking for his text Friendship, Love and Truth, or the Three Links, after which the program was carried out, the brass band leading off, followed by, R. B. Currie, a song, also a recitation (Dutch character); E. D. Empsey, a traveller, gave a variety in English, Irish, Scotch, Dutch, American, French, Chinaman, Nigger, Dude and Old Maid characters, giving a good caricature of the various customs and dialects named, which was indeed amusing; Miss N. Wilson, a song; Miss McDuff, recitation; Miss Dundas, a song; Mr. Anderson, song; Mrs. Trimble, song; Messrs. Jones and Jackman, a duett on brass instruments with organ accompaniment by Mrs. R. D. Irvine; Mr. Anderson, another song; also Mrs. Trimble, a second song; Miss Wilson, (Thy voice is near); Miss Rorke, a song; Miss Dundas, song; and National Anthum by the audience. The best of order prevailed throughout, and the members of the Order showed every courtesy and attention in making those present feel at home, and the entertainment enjoyable. It is needless to particularize in regard to those who took part in the program, as all did their part well. The hall is now open for the public and is very suitable as well as convenient of access, and we hope to see it well patronized.

A SENSATION.

An unparalleled sensation is being created all over Ontario by the wonderful and unequalled manner in which Neuralgia, Toothache, Rheumatism, Backache, Headache, is removed by but one application of Fluid Lightning. No offensive, disgusting drugs need be taken for days. It is an instant cure. Try a 25c. bottle from Hill Bro's. 3

If other nationalities followed the example of the French-Canadians, what a happy family we should be. Supposing that when a Scotchman was sent to prison all the Scotchmen in the country should take up the cause and insist on his being pardoned at once or their representatives would vote against the Government. Or supposing that every time an Englishman was convicted for a serious offence against the law all the other Englishmen in the community got up indignation meetings and made an exhibition of themselves clamoring for his release. The Germans, too, why should not they follow the example of the hot-headed French and make an outcry every time it pleased them to imagine that their toes had been trodden on? The French-Canadians do not seem to understand that the laws are for all alike and that those who violate them must take the consequences no matter in what part of the world their grandfathers happened to be born.

Fall Shows 1885.

Glenelg, Markdale, Oct. 1st and 2nd.
East Grey, Flesherton, Sept. 29th and 30th.
South Grey, Durham, Sept. 29th and 30th.
North Grey.—Owen Sound, Oct. 1st and 2nd.
Euphrasia, Rocklyn, Oct. 9th.
Osprey, Maxwell, Oct. 8th.
Holland, Chatsworth, Oct. 6th.
Proton, Dundalk, Oct. 5th & 6th.
Holland Centre.—Holland Centre, Oct. 5th.
Artemesia.—Priceville, Oct. 6th.

DON'T BE DECEIVED

Beware of any druggist who will try to induce you to take anything in place of McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Ceratе. It is a marvel of healing for Sores, Cuts, Burns, etc. No family should be without it. It has no equal. Get eGregor & Parke's, and have no other. Only 25c. per box at Hill Bro's. 3

IN SEASON.

It is now the season to warn our readers against the sudden attacks of Cholera, Cramp, Colic, and the various Bowel Complaints incident to the season of ripe fruit, vegetables, etc. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the grand specific for those troubles.

Notices of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, twenty five cents.

BIRTHS.

ROWE—In Manitoba, on the 24th of Aug., the wife of Mr. John Rowe, of a daughter.

WILLIAMS—In Markdale, on the 22nd inst., the wife of Mr. Hugh Williams, Singer Sewing Machine Agent, of a daughter.

STRAYED

FROM the premises of the undersigned, lot 17, con. 5, Euphrasia, in May last, a two year old red and white steer, large spots. Any information that will lead to the recovery of the above beast will be suitably rewarded.

THOS. GILRAY,
263 65 Epping P. O.

ESTRAY.

CAME to the premises of the undersigned lot 6, con. 7, Euphrasia, about the middle of September, a heifer about 3 years old, tied head and foot; color red, spike horns. The owner is requested to prove property and take her away.

D. R. ELLIS,
263-65 Kimberley P. O.

STRAYED.

FROM the premises of Thos. Muxlow, lot 20, con. 11, Euphrasia, about the 20th May last, seven yearlings, (four heifers and three steers) one heifer nearly all red, one heifer light brindle and the others spotted red and white. Any person giving such information as will lead to their whereabouts will be suitably rewarded.

THOS. MUXLOW,
263-5 Goring P. O.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 20, con, 10, Euphrasia, nine miles from the flourishing village of Markdale, and one lot from Post Office. This farm is well watered, solid clay loam, contains 100 acres 45 of which is cleared and under cultivation and the balance fine hardwood timber, also a frame barn 36 x 56 thereon, Terms easy, for particulars apply to

THOS. MUXLOW,
Goring P. O,
263-72 Adjoining the premises.

Public Notice.

IN the matter of Henry Foster, of the village of Williamsford, in the County of Grey, general merchant, Insolvent.

Take notice that the above named Insolvent has made an assignment to me under the provisions of "The Ontario Act" respecting assignments for the benefit of creditors, and you are hereby notified that if you have any claim or claims against the said Henry Foster, you are requested to file your claim or claims with me duly proven within one month from the date hereof, and also attend a meeting of Creditors to be held at the Albion Hotel, in the City of Toronto, on Friday, the 25th day of September instant, at 10 a. m.

WM. LUCAS,
Assignee.
Markdale, 18th Sept., 1885. 263-66

FARM FOR SALE OR TO RENT.

LOT North ½ 16 on the 11th concession, Holland, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, 30 acres in good state of cultivation, the balance hay and pasture. There is on the farm a good log house and frame kitchen, a good well near the house also a log barn. School and Post-office on the next lot. Will rent for a term of years and take improvements for rent, or will sell on easy terms. For particulars apply to

JAMES BRUCE,
Lilly Oak,
Or to William Steele, Ionia, Michigan.

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared, well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 16 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING,
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

Speddings Speedy Saw

THE GREAT ONE MANS SAW. IT HAS no equal, average weight 85lbs., a boy ten years of age can run it. One man sawed 3 cords of hard wood in three hours and forty minutes. Agents write for particulars and secure territory at once. Address

SPEEDY SAW WORKS,
Byng P.O., Ont.
June 30th, '85. 152-65

LOOK! Look! Look!

James C. Russell's
NOTED JEWELLERY STORE,
FLESHERTON.

Is the place to buy
Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.

A large assortment just to hand.

A 1 Solid Silver Watches, Full Jewelled, from $8.50 up to $26, worth from $10.50 to $32.00, warranted from two to five years.

It will pay you to come twenty miles to have your Watch or Clock repaired by Russell.

☞ Satisfaction guaranteed every time.

217-269 JAS. C. RUSSELL.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. R.

OWEN SOUND BRANCH.

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect Monday, August 3rd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 45pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Caledon	9 25 "	6 45 "
Orangeville. Arrive	9 50 "	7 03 "
Orangeville. Leave	10 05 "	7 22 "
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	7 34 "
Shelburne	10 45 "	8 04 "
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 30 "
Flesherton	11 36 "	8 55 "
Markdale	11 51 "	9 10 "
Williamsford	12 12pm	9 32 "
Chatsworth	12 26 "	9 49 "
Owen Sound	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 35pm
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 10 "
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 30 "
Markdale	6 27 "	3 52 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 06 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 31 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 57 "
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "	5 23 "
Orangeville. Arrive	8 12 "	5 35 "
Orangeville. Leave	8 35 "	5 55 "
Caledon	8 55 "	6 13 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Toronto....Arrive	10 45 "	8 20 "

Special Steamship Express leaves Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays for Toronto and Points East, on arrival C. P. R. Steamship from Port Arthur and Points in Manitoba and North West.

STRAYED.

ABOUT July 1st, 1885, from the premises of the subscriber, lot 17, con. 5, Tp. of Glenelg. Three yearlings, one heifer red, two steers, one spotted and the other a brindle color. Parties giving directions as to their whereabouts will be suitably rewarded.

JOHN McVICAR,
261-63 Pomona, P. O.

Lumber and Shingles.

THE undersigned has constantly on hand all kinds of lumber and first-class cedar shingles for sale. Mill 3½ miles North of Markdale, 11th line Euphrasia.

250-63 FORD & STINSON.

STRAYED.

TO the premises of the subscriber, Lot North half of 22. and 23, con. 13 Artemesia, about the 15th August, a Ewe and two lambs. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take them.

DAVID GRAHAM,
261-64 Vandeleur, P. O.

J. J. DALTON.

DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

Store to Rent in Makdale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent. Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

TENDERS.

SEALED tenders will be received up to noon the 30th day of September for the purchase of the old Methodist church, same to be removed from church grounds on the completion of new church. Apply to

G. S. BOWES,
260-63 Markdale, P. O.

Dissolution Partnership

THE partnership heretofore existing between Henry Sparling & J. P. Sparling has this day been dissolved by mutual consent. J. P. Sparling pays all debts and collects all accounts.

Witness—William Hamilton.

HENRY SPARLING,
J. P. SPARLING.
September 7th, 1885.

Important Auction Sale

Of Valuable Village Property.

THERE will be sold by Public Auction on Saturday, October 3rd, 1885, at 3 o'clock p. m. at the Revere House, Markdale, the following Village Property: One-half acre situated on Toronto Street, opposite the Markdale House, adjoining Hill Bro's Block, and within eight rods of the Post-Office. This is a very desirable property, and suitable either for a business site or for private dwelling, being situated in the centre of the Village; and will be sold either in one parcel or divided to suit purchaser.

TERMS OF SALE.—One fourth of purchase money payable at time of sale, balance to be payable in one or two annual payments from date of sale to suit purchaser; to be secured by mortgage with interest at 6 per cent. per annum. Title indisputable. For further particulars apply to

GEORGE NOBLE,
Auctioneer.
Markdale, Sept. 14, 1885.

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE.

Office & Infirmary: SYDENHAM ST., Opposite Markdale House, MARKDALE.

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are ke p in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities but it further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER &Co., - - Chemists and Druggists,
MARKDALE, ONT,

The only place in town where they can be obtained.
☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

Burdock Blood Bitters

Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice. Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

YOU CAN SUBSCRIBE

For any of the

FOLLOWING PAPERS

AT THIS OFFICE:

Daily or Weekly Mail, - - - -	Toronto.
Daily or Weekly Globe, - - - -	Toronto.
Daily or Weekly News, - - - -	Toronto.
Daily World - - - - - - - -	Toronto.
Family Herald and Weekly Star,	Montreal.
American Agriculturist, - - -	Monthly.
Farmers' Advocate, - - - - -	Monthly.

☞ Subscription can commence at any time.

STANDARD OFFICE,
MARKDALE.

RUPTURED

AND DEFORMED.

CHAS. CLUTHE, the most practical and experienced man on this Continent for relieving and curing Rupture and Deformities of every description. It will be to your advantage to call on me, 45,000 Trusses adjusted in person. Thousands of Deformed treated. Established 15 years. I will have a full supply of these celebrated Trusses with me at the following places:—

Markdale, Markdale House, Monday, Oct. 26.
Orangeville, Paisly House, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

Send 6c. stamp for registered Illustrated Book on Rupture and Human Frame by

CHAS. CLUTHE, Surgical Machinist, 118 King Street West, Toronto, Ont.

For Sale by Walker Bros.

MARKDALE.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL

CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 12, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Goderich.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Side, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a deranged liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found it to and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure & Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulants MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with many other invaluable roots, herbs and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood. 500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Book were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Receipt Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful recipes pronounced by medical men and druggists as invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25 cts. per box.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS

T. CRAMPSON & CO., Sole Agents, Toronto.

BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO, ONT.

IN, V. S.
ario Veterinary College.

Horses Examined
For Soundness and Certificates
Given.

S KEPT & DISPENSED
D. CHARGES MODERATE.
le House, MARKDALE.

ANCE'S
Eye-Glasses
NLY—
SH ARTICLES MARKET.
ke p in stock.
to prove Genuineness.

hials have been received from the Ex Vice-President of the Medical
e College of Physicians and Sur-
Faculty of Laval University; the Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

fficient to prove their qualities

Chemists and Druggists,
, ONT.
they can be obtained.
tific principle.

rtic, Indigestion, Biliousness, ions of the Liver and Kidneys, umors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, arising from Impure Blood,
ular action of the Bowels.

ND FOR SALE.

north half of lot number 15, conssion 11, Holland Township, County , containing 100 acres. This lot is y timbered with beech, maple, elm, d and hemlock, and is situated about from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford from Markdale stations, on the . Grey and Bruce Railway.
erms and particulars apply to GEO.
ES, Esq., Markdale, or to the under-

ROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
Godrich.

TISH WORM SYRUP.

ISH WORM SYRUP is the best rm exterminator. It is pleasant to cures no purgative, safe and effects-akes but few doses.
nt.
H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

THE CELEBRATED
Dr CHASE'S MANDRAKE
DANDELION LIVER CURE

HAVE YOU
int, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, adache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back
r any disease arising from a deranged ASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure n dy.
ATURE'S REMEDY
d success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure nt rests solely with the fact that it m nature's well-known liver regulators,
D DANDELION, combined with many le roots, barks and herbs, having a on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and
500,000 SOLD million of Dr. Chase's Receipt Books anada alone. We want every man, d who is troubled with Liver Com-excellent remedy.
NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE
y bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure old Medical Guide and Recipe

Markdale Standard

L. 5.--No. 264. MARKDALE, ONT., OCT. 1, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH. }

TO DUPLICATE ANY OR GRADE OF WATCH
3, 4, or 5 Oz. CASE
—AT AS—se Figures
—AND—St'kept WARRANTS
any city firm, ge Agent, or Jew that tries to deal
section Grey Co.
A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller.

l and Other Items.

n these columns intended to benefit ciety will be charged ten for the first insertion and five ch subsequent insertion.

Oysters in to-day at Han-

Scott Act has been carried in Co.

ose will be a town on the nday in January.

Love, of Meaford, visited her er in this village last week.

Bedsteads, Mattrasses, and Beds, go to Grant & Co.

Lottie Love is this week her sister (Hill Bro's Milliner.)

Standard to the end of the twenty-five cents to any ad-next sitting of the Division ll be held in Flesherton the ember.

Fleury, Wilkinson, or McGill go to W. Jackson, opposite office.

Editor of the Orangeville Ad- has taken a partner in the of Mr. T. A. Bellamy.

ert Bro's planing mill at Port was burnt on Sunday last. 2,000, insured for $4,000.

Rice, manager of the Shel- cheese factory has absconded, over $6,500 unpaid claims.

Here.—First class cooking No. 9, trimmed and complete 50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale.

Wm. Jackson sold his farm, 3rd East T. & S. Road, Hol- to Mr. John Ritchie, for $1,800.

ron "Roller process" flour completed, and is capable of out 80 barrels of flour per brick work on the steeple of man Baptist church, Hanover, ed and is eighty feet high.—

Sunday the thermometer re- d 90 in the shade and 118 in ; on Monday it reached 82 in

,000 Shingles for sale at Spar- mill, near Vandeleur, by John . All shingles warranted as re-

Ginelg Fall Show in Mark- day and to-morrow promises the most successful yet held by ar Recovered.—The Standard has recovered its recent indis- and appears this week "as Jerry Shields, formerly of this , has been down from Manito- the past week. He looks well, ible as ever.

National Pills are a mild purgative, acting on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, removing all obstructions.

We had a pleasant call on Saturday last from our old friend and citizen, Mr. Arch. Butter. He is about taking a trip to California, and will probably make his home there. He has a brother doing well in that land of gold.

Croup, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

Mr. H. Gill, of this village, who has been engaged in Owen Sound this summer, gave us a call on Tuesday last. He has since accepted a situation for the balance of the season on the Algoma, one of the C. P. R. steel steamers.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is Sold by A. Turner & Co. on a guarantee. It cures consumption. z

It is appalling the number of steam threshing machine explosions there are, and the lives lost thereby. Three explosions have already been reported in Ontario this fall, and the threshing season only nicely commenced.

That Hacking Cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

If you have lost any animals by straying away, be sure and see the list in the Standard and if not among them then advertise at once. We have had a great number advertised in the Standard this fall, and many have been found thereby.

Sleepless Nights, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

The Markdale Brass Band will give a concert in C. Price's Hall Williamsford, on Fall Show day, Oct. 7th. The band has gained the reputation of giving first-class concerts. A lengthy programme is being prepared. Admission 25c. ; children 15c.

Will You Suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

If you have a Waltham, Elgin, or Swiss Watch broken or injured in any part, leave it with me ; I have genuine material, first-class tools, and fifteen years practical experience at the bench. Warrants honestly fulfilled. W. A. Brown, the Reliable Jeweller.

Catarrh Cured, health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

The Ladies Aid of Presbyterian church will hold their annual bazaar in Agricultural grounds on second day of the fair, 2nd October, where dinner will also be served at 20c. Concert held in Haskett's Hall on evening of same day. A good programme is being prepared.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Consumption, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

Pay Up.—All who are indebted to me by over-due note are requested to settle the same immediately at the Banking office of Wm. Lucas & Co., Markdale, where I have placed all my notes for collection as I will be away from town for some time. D. J. Shanahan. 263-64

Miss Love is again in charge of Hill Bro's Millinery Department, where she will be pleased to see her many customers of the past season. Every lady should inspect her stock before purchasing and be convinced that she still takes the lead for Stylish Millinery, &c. Prices right.

The virtue of Carbolic Acid for healing, cleansing and purifying is well known; but from the many modes of applying it, the public is uncertain how best to use it. To meet that want, McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate is prepared, and may be used with confidence. Do not be misled. Take only McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Sold at Hill Bro's. 4

DRESS GOODS.

The new Ottoman Cords
At McFarland's.
The new Secillian Cords
At McFarland's.
The new Empress Checks
At McFarland's.

It will pay to see my fall stock of Watches, Clocks, Chains, Rings, Jewellery, Cuff Buttons, Lockets, Necklets, Bracelets, and Fine Silveware, ere you make any purchases, as I have a large and fine assortment at prices that will be found close. W. A. Brown, the Reliable Jeweller.

Fluid Lightning does not take a day or an hour to remove Neuralgia, Headache. Toothache, Lumbago or Rheumatism, but will do it instantly, and without carrying your head in a poultice for a day or using greasy liniment. Try a 25c. bottle from Hill Bro's. 4

There is a move on foot to build a Methodist church at Corbetton. The effort is likely to be successful as in a few hours sufficient was subscribed to warrant going on with the work. We understand the contract will be let at once, and the building proceeded with immediately.—Dundalk Herald.

We had a pleasant call last week from Mr. P. Rutherford, of Rutherford Bros., Bookbinders, Owen Sound. This firm are making a specialty of bookbinding, and will visit the villages through the county occasionally to take orders. We can recommend them to the public, as first class binders and honorable men.

New Post Offices.—About a month ago a new post office was opened in Glenelg, called Rocky Saugeen P. O., with Mr. McKechnie as post master—the mail is forwarded to it from Durham three times a week. Another new post office has since been opened in Keppel Tp. called "Shouldice" with mail once a week from Owen Sound. —Grey Review.

There will be sold by public auction at the Revere House, Markdale, on Saturday, Oct. 3rd, 1885, that very valuable property on Toronto street, adjoining Hill Bro's block, containing one-half acre, suitable for either business site or private dwelling. For terms and further particulars see posters, an advt. of which appears in another column of this issue.

Rev. D'Argent, of Maxwell, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church here on Sabbath last, he having been appointed by the last meeting of Presbytery to cite the congregation of Markdale and Flesherton to appear before the next meeting to be held in Mt. Forest on the 13th Oct., to take action in regard to the call to Rev. A. Wilson from the congregation of Tara.

Now is the time to make arrangements for your reading matter for the coming year. Newspapers are both plentiful and cheap, and most papers give in the last three months of the old together with the whole of the following year for the one year's subscription. Those in search of cheap reading should give us a call as we can give the best possible rates for any of the leading papers, besides we save you the risk of mailing money together with postage.

Bill Nye says:—The newspaper of to-day is a library. It is an encyclopedia, a poem, a biography, a history, a prophecy, a directory, a time-table, a romance, a cook book, a guide, a horoscope, an art critic, a political resume, a lowpriced multum in parvo It is a sermon, a song, a circus, an obituary, a picnic, a shipwreck, a symphony in solid brevier, a medley of life and death, a grand aggregation of man's glory and his shame. It is, in short, a bird's-eye view of all the joys and griefs, the births and deaths the pride and poverty of the world, and all for two cents—sometimes.

Mrs. Robert Hooper, of Kinloss, county of Bruce, in a letter, says: "I have been troubled with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaints for a number of years, and am glad to say to the public as well as friends that McGregor's Speedy Cure brought me around, and I am now all right, thanks to McGregor's Speedy Cure. Hundreds of like testimonials are frequently received, and are daily proving that this is truly a wonderful remedy, curing Sluggish Liver, Bilious Headache and Costiveness, where all else fails. Sold at Hill Bro's. Trial bottles given free. 4

EAST GREY FALL SHOW.

The most delightful weather favored this exhibition throughout, but, owing doubtless to the fact that Collingwood and South Grey fall shows were going on at the same time. The exhibit in many respects fell below that of former years, yet the attendance was well up to the average, the gate receipts being $194. The show of horses were fair in number, but below the average in quality. In cattle there was a very large exhibit, chiefly grades. Mr. Jake Halley lost a fine cow on the way to the exhibition by being overheated. R. Oliver had a fine herd of Devons, and O'Brien Bro's had a good herd of Shorthorns. The exhibit of sheep was good, and W. J. Shepherdson was the chief exhibitor, having 37 head of very fine sheep. There were but few pigs. In the agricultural implement and machinery line there was an almost entire absence of either. Mr. J. H. Heard, of Flesherton, showed a large gate which is well worthy of favorable mention, and should be seen on every farm. We will give further details and prize list next week.

Reduced Rates.—To Dundalk Show Fair, on 5th to 7th from Markdale and return, fare and a third or for one day, 6th, single fare.

The law requires that every person who takes in a stray animal must notify the township clerk of his municipality of the fact, in addition to advertising it, giving as minute a description of the animal as possible. The clerk is required to keep a list of all such animals. Persons failing to comply with those provisions of the law, make themselves subject to a heavy penalty, and besides cannot collect expences for keeping etc.

The Grey Review speaks disparagingly of the quality of the reading matter given in the Standard when he is so badly whipped in quantity, but the editor of that paper knows well that the class of reading matter served up to the Standard readers is infinitely superior to that of his paper, which is to a great extent a rehash of silly personal twaddle against his more successful town cotem. The Standard is second to no local paper in the district for local news, and that which is not of a local character is both deeply interesting and instructive. We do not believe in puffing ourselves, but we must rise in self defence.

Election of Officers.—The last regular meeting of Markdale lodge C. O. O. F. No. 78, was largely attended and very interesting and harmonious. The following were elected for the next six months, viz.:—Bros. John Cæsar, N G; T. S. Sproule, R S of N G; J. E. Marsh, L S of N G; J. W. Sproule, V G; W. H. Rutledge, R S V G; James Bryan, L S V G; W. J. Benson, Sec.; Adam Turner, Treas.; Samuel Sarjeant, W; Andrew McFarland, C. Trustees—Bros. R. S. Rae, Geo. Grant and A. Turner. This ledge is in a prosperous condition and its meetings well attended; new members are constantly being added.

Harvest Thanksgiving.--The English Church Harvest Thanksgiving services, held last Sunday in this village were largely attended. The very handsome interior of the church was profusely decorated with the various varieties of grain, fruit and flowers of the season, and appropriate evergreen mottos encircled the walls. A number of beautiful banners bearing texts of Scripture suitable to the occasion were hung at each end of the church and in the chancel. A very pretty banneret painted by Mrs. McGibbon of Milton and presented by her to the church ornamented the Eagle Lectern. A cornucopia, filled to overflowing with a very choice variety of ripe fruits, which looked very tempting, was invisibly suspended from the chancel arch. The services conducted by the Rev. Jas. Ward were appropriate, instructive and impressive.

Ladies' trimmed Hats from 75c. up, at Hill Bro's.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pickett, of Berkeley, are visiting friends in Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen McDougall arrived from Port Arthur on Tuesday last.

We are pleased to see our genial friend, A. Hill, out again, after his recent illness.

Prof. Low's Magic Sulpher Soap is highly recommended for all humors or skin diseases.

Dinner furnished in Hanley's Hall, opposite Queen's Hotel, Williamsford, for 25 cents on day of Show Fair.

Freeman's Worm Powders are agreeable to take, and expel all kinds of worms from children or adults.

Mr. Walter Burns, millwright of Cheboygan, Mich., visited his daughter Mrs. F. Sarjeant in Markdale this week.

Mourning Goods in Black Crapes, Black Cashmeres, Black Ottoman Cords, and Barratheas very cheap at McFarland's.

Mrs. Mary Thompson, of Toronto, was afflicted with Tape Worm, 8 feet of which was removed by one bottle of Dr. Low's Worm Syrup.

500 Shirts and Drawers, 95 pairs Horse Blankets, one case Bed Blankets, 1,120 yds. all Wool Flannel; startling value, at McFarland's.

W. McLeod has just opened out a choice lot of Boots & Shoes which he can and will sell cheaper for cash than any one in the trade.

Large Potatoes.--Mr. Wm. Bennett, of Artemesia, sent us five potatoes which weighed eight lbs. Mr. B. has a quantity of fine potatoes for sale.

Say, boss, how is it McLeod sells his Boots so much cheaper than any one in town? Why, because he buys for cash and gets the discount.

School Books.—A complete assortment of new Readers and other School Books just received at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

Park lot in Markdale for sale Beautiful location, will be sold on reasonable terms. Apply to R. Freeborn, Williamsford, or enquire at this office. 125-tf

Miss Maggie Miller returned from Owen Sound last Thursday where she has been spending the last two months. She is wonderfully improved in health.

We have been informed that the bear shot by James Henry Vause, south of the Durham Road, as reported last week in this paper, was in a trap at the time.

Educational services in the Methodist church next Sunday. Rev. Mr. Howell, chairman of the District, will preach in the morning and Rev. W. Casson in the evening.

On Tuesday last a large number visited the potato patch of our citizen, Mr. Wilson Benson, where curiosities were to be seen in monster potatoes. They were the Lion variety.

Ladies' plain Jerseys, ladies' braided Jerseys, ladies beaded Jerseys, ladies' Ulsters, ladies' Wool Wraps, Imported Direct from Manchester, England, by W. J. McFarland.

The Presbyterian Review is gaining in usefulness and popularity among that staunch body. Subscription only $1 per year; address Geo. H. Robinson, P. O. Box 2567, Toronto.

Ladies', the right place to buy your Mantle and Ulster Cloth is at Hill Bro's, where you can get it cut and fitted or made to order in the very latest style, as Miss Love is an experienced Mantle and Ulster Maker.

It is publickly asserted that "Jumbo" was lead to the R. R. track at St. Thomas for the express purpose of being killed, the great animal having an incurable pulmonary trouble, and was becoming worthless; this mode was devised to get rid of him, and thus secure a world wide (and free) advertisement. Not so slow.

FOR THE FARMER

Gleanings.

No kitchen should be without scales to test the integrity of things purchased by weight, and to measure the quantity of various recipes.

Finish digging the early potatoes before rains cause them to sprout. Keep the later kinds free from weeds, either by running a narrow cultivator through the rows, or by hand pulling.

When the pastures begin to fall off, some extra food should be provided for all the stock but especially the cows. Horses are always well cared for, but the cows are too often neglected, both as to food and a supply of pure water.

Buckwheat is easily injured by frost, and should be cut in good season. As it shells easily, cut with the dew upon it, let it cure in small loose bunches, and draw it to the barn when slightly moist.

It is not easy to reduce straw to the state of manure excepting by feeding it or by using it as litter, which becomes mixed with the excrements and then quickly decomposes under the stimulus of the action of the moist mass.

The National Farmer says: "Half a pint of sunflower seeds given to a horse with his other food each morning and night will keep him in better health and better spirits than he will be in without it, while his hair will be brighter.

In Walla Walla valley (Oregon) may be seen eighty miles of continuous wheat fields along the foot-hills of the Blue Mountains. The farmers continue to grow wheat, though they have to pay 30 cents per hundred pounds to get it to market.

A little charcoal fed two or three times a week to the pigs is beneficial in correcting acidity of the stomach, to which hogs are liable when fed upon corn and confined in a pen. They will eat it greedily and fatten much more readily with charcoal than without.

The old canes of raspberry bushes should not be allowed to remain a single day after the crop is off. Cut them down close to the root, and burn them along with other rubbish. They are not ornamental and only take the substance from the young canes which will bear next year.

"How do you sweeten your butter tubs, or woodenware of any kind?" we recently inquired of a farmer's wife. "Steep up some clover hay or sweet fern and put in the tubs when hot," was the reply. This is worth knowing; and we give it for the benefit of those who find trouble in "sweetening" various utensils used in the dairy.

One of the largest fruit farms in the world is situated in the southern part of Florida, and is owned by E. A. Osborn, of Middleton, N. Y. It comprises 2 500 acres, and is covered with over 200,000 cocoanut trees. So far the undertaking has cost over $100,000. As the cocoanut only thrives south of the frost line and near the coast, the owner of this farm has a practical monopoly of that trade in Florida.

The Creamery says that if two pats of butter be taken, and the one thoroughly washed in weak brine, so that it will not color the water, and then work it over and expel the surplus moisture, and take another lump from the same churning, and work it over without washing, but salt it at the rate of an ounce to the pound, and set them away, the salted butter will be the first to get rancid and worthless.

In the winter of 1883-4, I had some nice yearling steers that I divided into two lots, and wintered one lot in the stable, and the barnyard where they had the protection of a good straw-stack. They were fed hay or bright fodder every day, and a little grain morning and night, both lots being fed alike. In the spring the lot stabled had gained 115 pounds per head; the lot wintered at the straw stack had lost 10 pounds each.

Cultivation of Oats.

Oats are capable of receiving wonderful improvements, both in quality and quantity per acre. By selecting the seeds with great care every season and by giving the crop clean and rich cultivation, 75 or 80 bushels of clean grain might be raised per acre by good management just as easily as forty by the common system of cultivation. Although oats absorb coarser materials from the soil than wheat or barley, there is no other kind of grain that will return a better compensation in an increased amount of grain per acre, in consequence of the soil being manured than oats. Oats flourish best when the soil is under the highest state of cultivation. A farmer may raise as many bushels of oats per acre as he reasonably desires, provided he will manure and cultivate the soil as well as it ought to be cultivated. The most satisfactory way of applying barn yard manure to any soil for the purpose of increasing its productiveness, when oats are the principal grain to be raised, is to spread and plow it under in late autumn rather than in the spring of the year. In most cases oats are allowed to stand too long before they are cut. Most farmers let the oats stand till there is not a green head in the field. But as soon as the chaff on about one half of the heads has assumed a yellowish hue, then the oats should be cut. There may be a few heads that will not be out of the milk at that stage of their growth, but if they are allowed to stand longer, more loss will be sustained in shelling off the early and dead ripe oats than there will be in the shrinkage of those heads that are in the milk when the straw is cut. Early cut oats are heavier per bushel, fairer to the eyes and will sell for more money in the market.

Salt in the Ration for Poultry.

There is a prevalent notion that salt causes the feathers of fowls, or perhaps of the feathered tribes in general, to fall out. This, we believe, is well founded. Certainly, excess of this condiment should be avoided. There appears to be some connection between salt and feathers. Feather-eating fowls are often cured of the tendency by adding salt to their food, and a small quantity of salt in the ration promotes, or is supposed to promote, the production of the new crop of feathers at moulting time. This supposed effect may be simply the loosening of the old feathers. The result, as promotive of moulting, would be the same. Salt is a very important ingredient in the ration of pigeons, and where these birds are confined without it, they are never so thrifty. It is natural then, to conclude, that it is valuable in the food of other birds, and especially for barn-door fowls. The earlier old fowls are out of their moult and in full plumage, the sooner will they begin to lay, in the autumn. Pullets usually begin to lay as soon as they are completely plumed as adult fowls. It is worth while, therefore, to encourage moulting in every way, giving them exercise, insect food, or fish in their ration, with ground bone, ground oyster shell, and sound grain. A tablespoonful of fine salt in the soft feed, given daily to a flock of twenty hens, will be a fair allowance. Fowls do not depend upon this for the salt which their bodies and feathers contain, for either the material itself, or the elements of which it is composed, exist to a greater or less extent in almost all the food they eat and the water they drink; and what we do by giving them salt is simply to increase the supply.

GARNERED WITTICISMS.

"All I want is a single heart," writes a poetess. Probably she is trying to fill a bob-tail flush.

Bathing is more popular in Russia than at some of the seaside resorts in this country, because the czar made all the serfs free."

A Down-East fire company. in a resolution on a deceased member say: "He has responded to his last alarm." It's a wonder they didn't add that "he has gone to his last fire."

"I hef prought mine schmall pox mit me," said a German lodger to the landlady. "Oh, you wretch!" she screamed. "And me here with four little innocent children that ain't vaccinated."

"And how does Charlie like going to school?" kindly inquired a good man of a 6-year-old boy "I like goin' well enough," replied the embryo statesman, ingenuously; "but I don't like stayin' after I get there."

A pug dog has been taught to sing, and play on the piano. This is a move in the right direction. Now if some one will only teach one of these worthless brutes to sing "Sweet Violets" to a guitar accompaniment we may hope to see the entire breed exterminated at any moment.

A Bank Holiday—"Well, Jarvis, you've beaten your wife, you've had your own head broken, and your eyes blacked, and your front teeth knocked out, and you spent the night in a police cell!" "Well, Sir John, it's a poor 'art as never rejoices!"

Perkins—"Snifkin failed? Well? I had a narrow escape yesterday. He tried to borrow $10 from me." Ponsonby—"You didn't lend it to him?" "No, indeed. I suspected there was something wrong and—and—" Well?" "The fact is I didn't have the $10."

A negro boy, while walking along the street, took off his hat and struck at a wasp that had alighted on a tall shrub hanging over a fence. The boy put on his hat, turned to a man, and said: "I thought I got dat ar ole wass." "Didn't you get him?" "No, sah; but I—" he snatched off his hat, clapped his hand on the top of his head, squatted, howled, and said: "Blame fi didn' git dat ole wass."

A goverment clerk applied to the head department for leave of absence in order to attend the christening his of youngest boy. "How old is the child?" "Four days old." "Very good," said the chief; "but two weeks ago I gave you leave of absence to bury your wife. What have you to say?" For a moment the subordinate was dumb; then putting a bold face on he said: "I beg your pardon; my little boy is a posthumus child.

Harpagon had commissioned a friend to get him a lottery ticket "If I make a lucky choice, we shall go halves," said the friend, smiling. "All right," said the other. The day of the drawing came; Harpagon won a clock worth at least 500 francs. "Ah! poor old chap," he said mornfully to his friend; "if I had won wine or money, or two different articles, we might go halves; but a clock—I really don't know how to settle with you!" After a pause: "I have it! You shall come now and again to see the time!"

Too Late.

A story is told as authentic of a young man in the Highlands of Scotland who became a drunkard, a gambler, and in the expressive Scotch phrase, "a ne'er-do-weel." His father owned a small farm which had been in the family for two hundred years. But to save Jock from the consequences of his misdoing, he was obliged to mortgage it, far beyond the possibility of redemption.

The old man sank under the disgrace and misery, and died, leaving his wife, two or three children, and worthless Jock. But the shock of his death brought the boy to his senses. He forswore cards and whiskey, came home, and turned into hard work. He toiled steadily for years. At last his mother was "struck with death."

Jock, now a middle-aged man, grizzled farmer, stern and grave, was sent for in haste. He stood in silence by her death-bed a moment, and then broke forth,—

"Mither! mither! gin ye see feyther there, tell him the farm's our own agen. An' it's a' recht wi' me!"

The story reminds us of Doctor Johnson, who came when he was an old man of seventy to stand in the market-place of Uttoxeter, his grey head bare to the pelting rain, in bitter remembrance of some act of disobedience to his father on that spot when he was a boy.

But of what avail are these tears or acts of atonement when the old father or mother whom we have hurt and slighted so cruelly is dead? Do they see? Do they forgive? Who can say?

"It is only," said a mother lately, "since my own children speak to me with rudeness and comtempt that I understand how great the debt was which I owed my own mother, and how poorly I paid it."

Many a gay girl who reads these words, who treats her mother as a member of the family who does the work of a servant without a servant's wages, or a lad who flings about the money which his old father is fast spending his feeble life to earn, will waken some day to utter remorse in an exceeding bitter cry; to which, alas, there can come no answer!

THE OLD-FASHIONED LETTER.

One friend have I, a most valued correspondent, who always writes his letters on plain, closely-ruled foolscap.

No convenient letterheads for him, with Smithville————188, one third the way down the page—a yawning chasm that must needs be bridged over with a certain day and one of the twelve months, flanked on the one side with humble Smithville in type, and upon the other with 188, an unfinished monument waiting its capstone, one of the units.

No mean device of letterhead so placed that only two-thirds of the first page can be written upon; no thin, tissue-like paper to confine the pen to that one page, leaving the whole of one side, and two-thirds of the other, blank as a shallow writer's head and vacant as his heart.

In none of these sham devices, none of these cheats, none of these means for deceiving, does my friend indulge.

Neither does he begin his letter by formally addressing me as "Mr. Scandso," of Suchandsuch a place, before warming up enough to write "Dear Sir."

But he takes a plain, large, generous sheet of foolscap, and, preparatory to filling closely its many compact lines, writes, near the upper right hand corner, in an honest, painstaking way, the name of his residence and the date of writing; next passing to the opposite corner, but a little lower on the page, he addresses me, and there is no mistaking who he means, for he writes "My Dear Scandso," and at once begins one of the brightest, kindliest, most sensible letters that ever amused the fancy, satisfied the heart, or enlightened the understanding.

My friend is not a fine pensman—indeed, is rather a poor one—but writes a plain, legible hand, and never scatters his words half across the page with worse than useless flourishes.

Neither does he now and then skip three or four lines, just as if he thought nothing of me, had little to say, and took this manner of letting me know it.

Truly, he duly spaces off his words, phrases, and sentences, and properly separates his paragraphs; but all this is done in such an honest, homely way that the form—the substance of the letter—somehow blends harmoniously with the thought—its spirit—into a perfect whole; indeed, into an old-fashioned letter, that feeds the mind and makes glad the heart.

Such a communication as this one is compelled to read over and over again, feeling an interest in the formation of every letter, in the use of every word, in the construction of each phrase and sentence, for into each of these one knows his friend has, so to speak, breathed the breath of life.

But apart from its own charms and intrinsic merit, this old-fashioned letter, through the mists of long, long years, brings up the memory of a winter afternoon, when a little boy is told to "keep quiet for father's writing to Uncle William."

For pen, the father had a quill from the wing of a goose, which with "pen" knife, had just been trimmed and cut into desired shape.

For ink, he used that which the mother had made by boiling oak bark in a solution of copperas.

For letter paper, he had old-style foolscap.

For blotter, there was the great wood fire, before which the writer every now and then held the newly-written sheet to dry.

The sun was getting low, and the father moved his table near the west window, meantime ordering the restless boy to sit down and keep still.

In front of the fire, at the edge of the hearth, in a straigh-backed "split" bottomed chair, his feet resting upon one of its rounds, sits the boy, who thinks it strange that other people write letters and that little boys have to be so quiet. He wonder's at last, if he will ever grow big enough to write and mean enough to tyrannize over little boys. Meanwhile the sun goes down, twilight comes on, and with these questions in his mind he looks, and some way hopes for answer, in the ruddy, glowing face of the great wood fire.

A face for the most part cheerful, yet changeful; at times veiled, for a moment, in smoke, at others crossed by dark lines, as if about putting on a frown, but in an instant these are chased away by a warm, cheery glow from within that makes the bright eye of flame wink kindly and trustingly at the boy.

Back into these sparkling eyes the boy looked instantly, and at last confidingly, till he saw pictured in their depths a little boy like himself; but in a moment the fiery eyes snapped, and in them he next saw a man large and strong, wearing a big hat and long coat; again the glowing eyes sparkle, and the man seems to be beside a table, with one arm resting upon it as if writing, while about him are little boys and girls. Once more the eyes of ember kindle, but with only a glimmer now, and the table has vanished, all but one leg, which has turned to a cane in the man's hand, upon which he seems to lean, and the children are now men and women; another wink from the dim flame—ah! the fore stick breaks, and the men and women go out in a puff of smoke, while the man and his cane drop into ashes.

Only a fire picture, a creature of fancy, a thing of a moment that vanished in smoke and ashes. But so have gone, later, many hopes and plans of him who pens these lines.

Ah, more! the father who wrote, the uncle who read, and the roof which sheltered the fire have all mouldered and crumbled in dust.

The fire and its pictures melted to ashes, plans and hopes vanished in air, house and people crumbled to dust—all lost, save in memory, what was real as truly as what was fancied.

"Some twenty years ago," said the mild-faced stranger "my wife, while sewing, suddenly missed her needle. She saw nothing more of it, and soon forgot her loss till last week, when——" "When she suddenly felt a pricking sensation in her right foot," suggested Boodle. "When the point of the needle showed itself between her shoulder blades," guessed Coodle. "When the needle was seen protruding from her youngest daughter's left forefinger," intimated Doodle. "No," said the mild-faced stranger; "you are all wrong. She found it in a crack in the floor. It had been there all those years. Singular wasn't it?" There was a common desire to welter in the blood of the mild-faced stranger; but with difficulty Boodle, Coodle and Doodle restrained themselves.

HERE AND THERE.

The Great Eastern will be sold by auction next month, by order of the court. Who will buy?

A Wyoming Territory "Glee Club" has lynched six men for horse stealing this year, so far, without interfering with its musical pursuits.

"When I was young," said a boastful dame to Lord Houghton, "half the young men in London were at my feet." "Realy? Chiropodists, eh?" was the rejoinder.

Eaton Hall, the magnificent mansion which the Duke of Westminister has rebuilt for himself on the banks of Dee, four miles from Chester, has just been opened to the public.

South Australia is passing through an unexampled period of depression. During the first six months of this year only 3,894 people went to the colony, as compared with 8 571 who left it.

A covict employed on a railroad in Abbeville county, S. C., lately escaped from the guard, but subsequently reported at the penitentiary, and explained that he had been worked to hard on the road.

The process of famigation forced upon travellers by some Spanish towns in consequence of the cholera is severe that some people have to be carried off on stretchers, and one woman, who begged hard to be let off, died from the effects.

A club of 4,800 members, in Berlin, recently advertised for six medical officers to attend them at a salery of $375 per annum each. This would make the contributers from each member of the club about 75 cents a year for medical attendence. More than 400 doctors applied for the places.

Rupture, Breach or Hernia

permanently cured or no pay. The worst cases guaranteed! Pamphlet and references, two three-cent stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Children will wear a great deal of navy blue combined with scarlet.

"Consumption Cure"

would be a truthful name to give to Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the most efficacious medicine yet discovered for arresting the early development of pulmonary disease. But "consumption cure" would not sufficiently indicate the scope of its influence and usefulness. In all the many diseases which spring from a derangement of the liver and blood the "Discovery" is a safe and sure specific. Of all druggists.

Capes, fichus, and short mantles will all be worn for early fall wraps.

How often is the light of the household clouded by signs of melancholy or irritability on the part of the ladies. Yet they are not to be blamed, for they are the result of ailments peculiar to that sex, which men no not of. But the cause may be removed and joy restored by the use of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite prescription," which, as a tonic and nervine for debilitated women, si certain safe and pleasant. It is beyond all compare the great healer of women.

Large rosary beads are used in dress or namentation.

No means have been taken by the manufactuters to push the sale of their "Myrtle Navy" tobacco except giving from time to time a simple statement of the facts connected with it in the public press. The large and rapidly increasing demand for it has been the result of the experience of smokers which these statements suggested. Their advice to business men is to advertise largely if they have the right article to back up the advertisement with.

We are to have another velvet and velveteen season.

Alma Ladies' College, St. Thomas, Ont., has full staff and complete courses in Literature, Music, Fine Arts, and Commercial Science. Re-opens September 10, 1885. For 50 pp. announcement, address, Principal Austin, B.D.

"Sir," exclaimed the orator, "has the Indian any rights?" "He has," said the chairman, "but he gets left when he tries to assert them."

Prevention Better Than Cure.

Many of the diseases so prevalent in these days are caused by using soap containing impure and infectious matter. Avoid all risk by using PERFECTION Laundry Soap, which is absolutely pure. Ask your grocer for PERFECTION. Manufactured only by the Toronto Soap Co.

Another season of lace is predicted, and indicated by the first importations of dresses hats, and bonnets.

A. P. 247.

MRS. DR. L. K. SHAW'S WONDERFUL Moth and Freckle Lotion, removes Freckles, Moth Patches, Sallowness, &c.. in 10 days; Cures Pimples, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, all Skin Disease and Faulty Complexion; removes and prevents Premature Wrinkles, renders the skin extremely youthlike—perfect in purity and true loveliness, not equalled in the world. Warranted free from every injurious ingredient; has stood the test for over 30 years. Particulars 3c. Mrs. Dr. L. K. Shaw's Canadian Depository, Toronto, Canada.

PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER

Pure Gold MANUFACTURING CO. 13 FRONT ST EAST Toronto.

Coleman's Improved Plough Harness

ADAPTED TO ORCHARD WORK.

No whiffletrees to injure trees. Easy on man and team. Working qualities guaranteed. Money refunded if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Price $10 without collars and bridles.

DEWEY & CO., COLBORNE, ONT.

FARMS FOR SALE, ONTAR[illegible] J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER [illegible]

IMPERIAL FRENCH SHOE [illegible]

PURE BRED AYRSHIRES [illegible] yearling heifers and one bull. [illegible] tion, price and pedigree to G. V. [illegible]

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE [illegible] miles east of the city of [illegible] particulars address J. J. LEVI[illegible]

It is conceded by all that the [illegible] BUSINESS COLLEGE, Kingston, [illegible] ly the most popular business [illegible] Canada.

MRS. N. C. GREENW[illegible]

Has resumed her business as Ladies' [illegible] fortable homes for ladies during [illegible] Residence, No. 5 Bond St., [illegible] Private.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE [illegible] ance St., Toronto. Patron, [illegible] Canada, Lieut. Gov. of Ontario. [illegible] ful Veterinary Institution in A[illegible] hundred graduates in successful [illegible] perienced teachers. Session begins [illegible] Fifty Dollars. Principal, PROFESSOR [illegible]

A SUCCESS AGAINST ALL [illegible] Williams' Eye Water has proved [illegible] by all who have used it [illegible] cases were curable, as will be seen by [illegible] certificates. It cured me, 3 years blind [illegible] O. Fortin; it has cured me, [illegible] Alexander Wand; 6 years bl[illegible] years, Elie Dufour; 33 years blind and [illegible] Lecroix. Ask your druggists for [illegible] man So[illegible] & Co., 384 St. Paul St., M[illegible]

WATER STAR A[illegible] WELL B[illegible] has no superior; 20 feet per hour, hand or [illegible] combined boring and rock drilling [illegible] cess; first prizes and diplomas. Send for [illegible] 66 MARY STREET, HAMILTON [illegible]

FOR PLEASANT S[illegible]

—USE ONLY—

Clapperton's Spool C[illegible]

Warranted FULL Length, and to run [illegible] sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S [illegible] he label. For sale by all Dry-Goods [illegible]

JAMES PARK &[illegible]

Pork Packers, Toro[illegible]

L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, [illegible] Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Hams, [illegible] Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, [illegible] ed Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy [illegible] Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of [illegible] Dairy Salt in Stock.

Rupture [illegible]

BY CHAS. CLUTHE [illegible] SPINAL TRUSS [illegible] for book on Rupture [illegible] mao Frame [illegible] out doubt, the [illegible] to the public, [illegible] sales over all [illegible] fact. Do not [illegible] parties offering [illegible] but send direct [illegible] I send my Tru[illegible] continent. CHA[illegible]

Surgical Machinist, 118 King St. We[illegible] ont

BUY THE

IMPROVED CONE[illegible]

Carriage T[illegible]

AS THEY ARE THE MOST [illegible] CONVENIENT, AND MOST [illegible] TOP IN THE MARKET

There are over Twenty Thous[and] Tops now in use, and are giv[ing] satisfaction than any other.

The manufacturer of these C[arriage] Carriage Tops, owns more pat[ents] provements, and makes a great[er] than any other firm in Cana[da] United States.

THEY ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE CARRIAGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THA[T] BE SURPASSED BY ANY THAT [illegible] APPROACH THEM IN QUALI[TY]

FACTORY & SALE[S] 407 to 413 King St. [illegible] TORONTO

GURNEY & WA[RE]

STANDARD SCAL[ES]

Are the Best, Attested by the Fact that there are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' & B[illegible] Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.

Housekeepers, Consult Your B[est] Interests

By purchasing a scale, and in buying one [illegible] to get the best. Our scales are fully wa[rranted] every particular. All sizes Railroad, W[illegible] and Mill Trucks, Alarm Money D[rawers]. For sale by the Hardware Trade [illegible] lustrated Catalogue and Price List for[warded on] application.

GURNEY & WA[RE] HAMILTON.

WAREHOUSES—Montreal and Winnipeg.

HEALTH.

Science and Alcohol

[illegible] years ago, at the request of the Edinburgh Society of Arts, Dr. B. W. Richardson, [illegible]S., delivered before that body six [lectur]es on alcohol, presenting the results [of a p]rotracted scientific investigation of the [subjec]t. Among the facts thus scientifically [establi]shed were the following:

[A]lcohol, instead of raising, lowers the [tempe]rature of the body. After a drunken [debauch] it has sometimes taken three days to [restore] the natural warmth, under the most [favora]ble circumstances. Even moderate [drinke]rs are peculiarly exposed to dangerous [chills]."

Alcohol is not, in any proper sense, a [food]. The development of fat from its use [is on]ly due to structural degeneration of [vit]al organs.

Alcohol accelerates the action of the [heart] from one hundred thousand beats a [day to], say, one hundred and twenty-five [thousa]nd, followed by a proportionate weak[ness] that necessitates, successively, additional draughts. Hence the heart becomes [distend]ed and its valves disordered; and the [increa]sed flow of blood to it, is rendered for [a ti]me more active, and is succeeded by [greate]r feebleness, which demands a repetition of the stimulus.

[T]he whole internal cavity of the body, [its] organs, every bone and joint, the [brain] and spinal cord, are wrapped in mem[branes], through which as filters, everything [must] pass for the sustenance of the respec[tive p]arts. These membranes must be just [thin] enough, and be kept perfectly supple. [But] alcohol causes them to thicken and [harden], and thus effects a general deterioration of the organic structures.

[A]mong the effects of this deteroration, [in tho]se who drink moderately, are various [neur]algic pains, the worst form of indiges[tion] and wakefulness.

At a later stage of drunkeness, not a[n] organ in the body escapes disorgani[zation] of its vital structure, although here[ditary o]r other conditions may cause a seem[ing co]ncentration of disease on some parti[cular] organ,—the liver, the kidneys, the [lungs], the heart, the brain or spinal cord.

If this agent do really for the moment [cheer] the weary and impart a flush of tran[sient] pleasure to the unwearied who crave [m]irth, its influence—doubtful even in [the] modest and moderate degrees—is an [infini]tesimal advantage, by the side of an [ocean] of evil for which there is no com[pensa]tion and no human cure."

[Th]e above are the teachings of science. [We w]ill add the teaching ot actual obser[vatio]n. Sir Andrew Clark one of the most [emine]nt medical authorities in Great Bri[tain], says that in seven out of ten of his hos[pital] patients the disease was caused by [drink], and in three others was aggravated by [it]. He had some times thought of giving up [his p]ractice and going about the country in [a cru]sade against intoxicating drinks.

The Delusion of Growing Fat.

[If] you continue your present dietary and [habit]s, and live five or seven years more, [your b]urden of fat will be doubled, and the [accom]modating tailor will be still congratulat[ing y]ou. Meantime you are "running the [race] of life"—a figure of speech less appro[priate] to you at the present moment, than [it fo]rmerly was—handicapped by a weight [whic]h makes active movement difficult, up[ward] ascents troublesome, respiration thick [and] panting.

[No]t one man in fifty lives to a good old [age] in this condition. The typical man of [eight]y or ninety years, still retaining a re[mark]able amount of energy of body and mind, [is le]an and spare, and lives on slender ra[tions].

[N]either your heart nor your lungs can act [freel]y and healthily, being opposed by the [encu]mbering fat around. And this is because [you] continue to eat and drink as you did, or [even] more luxuriously than you did, when [youth] and activity disposed of that moiety [of fo]od was consumed over and above what [the] body required for sustenance.

[Su]ch is the import of that balance of un[nee]ded ailment which your tailor and [you]r foolish friends admire, and the grad[ual] disappearance of which, should you re[cove]r your senses and diminish it, they will [all] deplore, half frightening you back to [your] old habits again by saying:

"You are growing thin; what can be the [mat]ter with you?"

[In]sane and mischievous delusion.

About Spices.

Ginger is the root of a shrub first known [in] Asia, and now cultivated in the West [Ind]ies and Sierra Leone. The stem grows [th]ree or four feet high, and dies every year. [The]re are two varieties of ginger—the white [an]d black—caused by taking more or less [car]e in selecting and preparing the roots, [w]hich are always dug in Winter, when the [ste]ms are withered. The white is the best.

Cinnamon is the inner bark of a beautiful [tree], a native of Ceylon, that grows from [tw]enty to thirty feet in height and lives to [c]enturies old.

Cloves—native to the Molucca Islands, [an]d so called from resemblance to a nail [(cla]vis). The East Indians call them ["cha]ngkek," from the Chinese "techeng-[hia]" (fragrant nails). They grow on a [st]raight, smooth-barked tree about forty feet [hi]gh. Cloves are not fruits, but blossoms, [ga]thered before they are quite unfolded.

Allspice—a berry so called because it com[bin]es the flavor of several spices—grows [ab]undantly on the allspice or bayberry tree, [na]tive of South America and the West Indies. A single tree has been known to pro[du]ce 150 pounds of berries. They are purple [w]hen ripe.

Black pepper is made by grinding the [d]ried berry of a climbing vine native to the East Indies. White pepper is obtained from [th]e same berries, freed from their husk or [she]ll. Red or cayenne pepper is obtained by [gr]inding the scarlet pod or seed vessel of a [t]ropical plant that is now cultivated in all [pa]rts of the world.

Nutmeg is the kernel of a small, smooth, [pe]ar-shaped fruit that grows on a tree in the Molucca Islands and other parts of the East. The trees commence bearing in the seventh [yea]r, and continue fruitful until they are [se]venty or eighty years old. Around the [nu]tmeg or kernel, is a bright brown shell. This shell has a soft scarlet covering, which, [wh]en flattened out and dried, is known as [ma]ce. The best nutmegs are solid, and emit [o]il when pricked with a pin.

ARMS FOR SALE, CHEAP.
J. DALEY, Guelph.
ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
PERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACKING
URE BRED AYRSHIRES
ALUABLE FARM FOR SALE
MRS. N. G. GREENWOOD
NTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE
S CCESS AGAINST ALL WATER WELL BORING OR PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
apperton's Spool Cotton
AMES PARK & SON
Pork Packers, Toronto.
Rupture Cured
ical Machinist, 118 King St. West, Toronto.
BUY THE IMPROVED CONBOY
arriage Tops
THEY ARE THE MOST STYLISH, CONVENIENT, AND MOST DURABLE TOP IN THE MARKET.
CTORY & SALESROOM
7 to 413 King St. West
TORONTO
URNEY & WARE
STANDARD SCALES
ousekeepers, Consult Your Interests
URNEY & WARE
HAMILTON.

HEALTH.

Science and Alcohol

Two years ago, at the request of the Edinburgh Society of Arts, Dr. B. W. Richardson, F. R. S., delivered before that body six lectures on alcohol, presenting the results of protracted scientific investigation of the subject. Among the facts thus scientifically established were the following:

1. Alcohol, instead of raising, lowers the temperature of the body. After a drunken bout it has sometimes taken three days to restore the natural warmth, under the most favorable circumstances. Even moderate drinkers are peculiarly exposed to dangerous chills.

2. Alchohol is not, in any proper sense, a food. The development of fat from its use is simply due to structural degeneration of the vital organs.

3. Alchohol accelerates the action of the heart from one hundred thousand beats a day, to, say, one hundred and twenty-five thousand, followed by a proportionate weakening that necessitates, successively, additional draughts. Hence the heart becomes enlarged and its valves disordered; and the increased flow of blood to it, is rendered for the time more active, and is succeeded by greater feebleness, which demands a repetition of the stimulus.

4. The whole internal cavity of the body, its organs, every bone and joint, the brain and spinal cord, are wrapped in membranes, through which as filters, everything has to pass for the sustenance of the respective parts. These membranes must be just porous enough, and be kept perfectly supple. Now, alchohol causes them to thicken and shrink, and thus effects a general deterioration of the organic structures.

5. Among the effects of this deterioration, those who drink moderately, are various neuralgic pains, the worst form of indigestion, and wakefulness.

6. At a later stage of drunkeness, not a single organ in the body escapes disorganization of its vital structure, although heredity or other conditions may cause a seeming concentration of disease on some particular organ,—the liver, the kidneys, the lungs, the heart, the brain or spinal cord.

7. "If this agent do really for the moment cheer the weary and impart a flush of transient pleasure to the unwearied who crave mirth, its influence—doubtful even in these modest and moderate degrees—is an infinitesimal advantage, by the side of an infinity of evil for which there is no compensation and no human cure."

The above are the teachings of science. We will add the teaching of actual observation. Sir Andrew Clark one of the most eminent medical authorities in Great Britain, says that in seven out of ten of his hospital patients the disease was caused by drink, and in three others was aggravated by it. He had some times thought of giving up his practice and going about the country in a crusade against intoxicating drinks.

The Delusion of Growing Fat.

If you continue your present dietary and habits, and live five or seven years more, the burden of fat will be doubled, and the insinuating tailor will be still congratulating you. Meantime you are "running the race of life"—a figure of speech less appropriate to you at the present moment, than it formerly was—handicapped by a weight which makes active movement difficult, upstairs ascents troublesome, respiration thick and panting.

Not one man in fifty lives to a good old age in this condition. The typical man of eighty or ninety years, still retaining a respectable amount of energy of body and mind, is lean and spare, and lives on slender rations.

Neither your heart nor your lungs can act freely and healthily, being opposed by the gathering fat around. And this is because you continue to eat and drink as you did, or even more luxuriously than you did, when growth and activity disposed of that moiety of food was consumed over and above what the body required for sustenance.

Such is the import of that balance of unexpended ailment which your tailor and your foolish friends admire, and the gradual disappearance of which, should you recover your senses and diminish it, they will still deplore, half frightening you back to your old habits again by saying:

"You are growing thin; what can be the matter with you?"

Insane and mischievous delusion.

About Spices.

Ginger is the root of a shrub first known in Asia, and now cultivated in the West Indies and Sierra Leone. The stem grows three or four feet high, and dies every year. There are two varieties of ginger—the white and black—caused by taking more or less care in selecting and preparing the roots, which are always dug in Winter, when the stems are withered. The white is the best.

Cinnamon is the inner bark of a beautiful tree, a native of Ceylon, that grows from twenty to thirty feet in height and lives to be centuries old.

Cloves—native to the Molucca Islands, and so called from resemblance to a nail (clavis). The East Indians call them "changkek," from the Chinese "techeng-hia" (fragrant nails). They grow on a straight, smooth-barked tree about forty feet high. Cloves are not fruits, but blossoms, gathered before they are quite unfolded.

Allspice—a berry so called because it combines the flavor of several spices—grows abundantly on the allspice or bayberry tree, native of South America and the West Indies. A single tree has been known to produce 150 pounds of berries. They are purple when ripe.

Black pepper is made by grinding the dried berry of a climbing vine native to the East Indies. White pepper is obtained from the same berries, freed from their husk or rind. Red or cayenne pepper is obtained by grinding the scarlet pod or seed vessel of a tropical plant that is now cultivated in all parts of the world.

Nutmeg is the kernel of a small, smooth, pear-shaped fruit that grows on a tree in the Molucca Islands and other parts of the East. The trees commence bearing in the seventh year, and continue fruitful until they are seventy or eighty years old. Around the nutmeg, or kernel, is a bright brown shell. This shell has a soft scarlet covering, which, when flattened out and dried, is known as mace. The best nutmegs are solid, and emit oil when pricked with a pin.

Shinbones Makes a Speech.

It was a calm and peaceful Sabbath morning. The sycamore trees that shaded the old school house of the African population of West Hoboken were waving gently in the afternoon breeze, while the hum of bees rose softly from the two or three ragged hollyhock bushes in the garden.

Within a silence deep as that of creation's dawn brooded. The whole school was in an attitude of attention, for Brother Shinbones Smith had been invited to address the children. On being introduced by the principal, the aged sage arose, and, mopping the perspiration from his expansive brow, made a courtly bow.

"My young fr'en's an' fellah citizens," he began, "I hain't gwine fur ter tole yo' dat dis am de proudes' 'casion ob my life, 'case it hain't. De proudest time dis hyar cullud pusson ebber knowed war w'en he come back from an official wisit ter de state's prison daown ter Trenton, an' war receibed at de depot by a hadmirin' delergation ob his breddern. Dis hyar 'casion am de fird proudest ob my life. De second war de fust time me an' my ole woman had a rumpus, an' I done knocked her clean frough de back dooah wid a aged ham-bone. I'se come hyar for de puppose ob gibbin' yo' young folks a few ob de results ob a long experience 'mong sinners an' republicans.

"'Tain't allus de dog wid de bigges' tail wot does de mos' waggin'. No moah am it de man wot has de bigges' mouf does de mos' talkin'. A $2-kitchen wench, wid a mouf no bigger'n a silber quahetr, could talk de lungs out ob Senator Ebbarts.

"W'en a man am short, he weahs his coat long. Dat am a fack in nat'ral his'try, an' likewise in Wall street.

"De man wot owns a fas' hoss an' a million dollahs kin git aroun' Central Park faster dan I kin; but dar's one place I kin git ter jess ez quick ez he kin, an' dat's de poosahhouse.

"Doan't make up yore mind dat yo' know moah dan yore fadder till yo' git to be older dan he is. Den yo' kin tote de ole man ter de succus, an' box his eahs fur larfin' at a clown's joke wot yo' knowed befoah he war bohn.

"Doan't monkey wid yore mudder on wash-day. Dat am de day w'en female angels lay off der angelicness fur de time bein'. I hab knowed chillen ter lose a good deal ob deir activity by not mindin' dis advice.

"Doan't steal chickens on a moonlight night. A man kin shoot a gun jess ez well by de shinin' ob de moon ez he kin by de light ob de sun. Wait till de cloudies' night yo' kin git; den snatch 'em silly.

"Doan't grumble an' kick all de time. Jes recommember dat a common, ord'nary, ebberyday mule kin kick de immawtal soul out ob de mos' onhappy man dat ebbah war bohn.

"An' doan't be too durned cheeahful, neider. An ole brack tea kettle, and nuffin' inter it but water, kin sing ez ef it nebbah knowed a minnit's trouble.

"Doan't vote widout finnin' out which side am bound ter carry de 'lection. Dat's de side dat'll pay yo' de bigges' price.

"Ef yo' chillen 'll jes take dese hyar solid brickbats ob wisdom, an' treashah dem up in yore hearts even from de risin' up ob de sun ter de roostin' ob de chickens, yo' won't hab half so much trouble in dis hyar wuld ez de mos' ob us hab had. But dis hyar aged niggah, whose pocket hab been putty nigh emptied by payin' de fine ob his wife fur knockin' out Mrs. Parsimony Higgins, am willin' ter bet all dat he's got left dat not an onery pickaninny ob de whul caboodle ob yo' will ebbah pay de leas' bit ob 'tention ter de ole man's toot."

And then there was another yawning chasm of silence, during which nothing was heard but the breathing of a cross-eyed pupil who had the asthma.

ENGLISH ECHOES.

Mr. Laton Woodville, "the English De Neuville," is to paint a picture of Princess Beatrice's wedding.

Sir Charles Dilke is practically a total abstainer. He "passes the bottle, but does not diminish its contents."

Mr. Gladstone is so delighted with Norway that he is going to learn its language. Well, Cato began Greek at eighty.

A mother poisoned her two children at Rishton by giving them poppy-seeds stewed in water as a cure for diarrhœa.

The Telegraph maintains that Prussia has at present the most capable and active detective police force in Europe.

A master mariner who lost £120 by backing an unlucky horse at the Yorkshire races went tranquilly to his hotel and made his quietus with a dose of laudanum.

The Duke of Edinburgh did not acquire a Scotchman's aptitude for agriculture with his title. He loses £500 a year on his Kent farm and is about to give it up.

One pound sterling was the price assessed by a London magistrate for a kiss surreptitiously snatched from a married woman by a man claiming to be "an old friend of the family."

A pension of £100 a year on the Civil List has been granted to the four sisters of the late John Leech, Punch's celebrated draughtsman. In presence of a munificence so royal one can only be silent and admire.

It is reported that the Hereditary Prince of Hesse and Prince Henry of Battenberg are under treatment for rheumatism. They had the rashness to accompany the Queen to Scotland in full Highland costume.

Queen Victoria has placed Birkhall, the royal residence at Glenmerick, at the disposal of the ex-Empress Eugenie. Philologists say that Glenmerick means in the Gælic the Pig's Ravine.

An elderly inmate of the Bermondsey Workhouse complained to the Southwark police office that a penny's worth of bread and a few slices of ham, which he brought with him when returning from a day's leave were confiscated by the Workhouse officials.

Prof. Henry of Harvard says that he was discussing Greek with a friend at dinner in a Saratoga hotel when their negro waiter ventured to give a quotation that they could not recall correctly. The servitor was one of a party of Howard University students at work during vacation. His fortunate remark caught the fancy of one of the hearers, who presented $5000 to him for the completion of his collegiate education.

The Power of Discipline.

Frederick the Great of Prussia was a palace at Potsdam, when some of his or by their excessive severity caused great discontent among the Prussian troops; so the soldiers then in garrison resolved to avail themselves of that ease and facility with which Frederick could at all times be approached by them; and thus a deputation of the Grenadiers of Ogilvie marched deliberately from their barracks across the great square which lies before the palace and halted at the porch. An officer in waiting—afterwards the great Field-Marshall Keith, who was killed in battle by the Austrians at Hochkichen—acquainted the King of their arrival, adding, "Shall I order them in barracks, sire, or place them under arrest?" "Do neither; they have come to see me and see me they shall; good soldiers have nothing to fear from me, and the regiment of Ogilvie is one of the finest in Prussia. I shall try on them the power of discipline!" Frederick hastily put on his shabby old uniform, his long jack boots which had never known blacking, his orders of knighthood, his cocked hat, sword and sash. "Sire," urged Keith, "Will there not be an inconvenience in all this?" "To whom?" "To you, sire." "How comrade Keith—how?" "Discussion will lead to other deputations, and every order your Majesty may issue will be dissected and cavilled at in turn in every guard-room and beer shop in Prussia." "No matter, comrade—march in the rascals; I'll trust to the power of discipline!" In they came accordingly, twenty tall and swinging fellows, all after Frederick's own heart; but the appearance of the King, dressed as if for parade, awed them into total silence. "Achtung!" (attention) cried he, drawing his sword, "to the right face—front! to the left face—front!" These commands the deputation, who were formed in line, obeyed in perfect silence, and wondering what was to follow a reception so unexpected; and so Frederick cried suddenly, "To the right about face, to your barracks, quick march!" Then, as he never gave the word "halt," they felt compelled to march on, and the old King and Marshall Keith laughed heartily as the baffled deputation disappeared within the barracks-yard where there expectant comrades gathered around them, to hear the report of how Frederick had received the complaint. "We have never opened our lips," said the oldest grenadier, with a very crest-fallen expression. "Der Teufel? did not you see the King?" cried they. "We have just left him——" "Blockheads! and why did not you follow your instructions?" "It was impossible." "Impossible!—and why so?" "Because when we saw old Father Frederick in his fighting coat and dirty boots, and heard his voice of command, our hearts failed us, and the—the power of discipline proved too great."

How He Did It.

Every farmer's boy who has ever attempted to lead or drive, coax or force, a hog, knows the meaning of the proverb, "As obstinate as a pig." That Irishman has become famous who so thoroughly understood porcine nature as to drive his pig to Dublin by pretending that he was going to Cork.

If there is one thing in which the hog is more stubborn than in another, it is in the matter of locomotion. If he is wanted to move, he stands still, and a push forward causes him to retreat double the distance of his involuntary advance. He is stiff necked in doing the very opposite of what he is coaxed to do.

"A pig, just taken out of the stye, was surrounded by three Scotchmen, who were trying their best to get it into a roomier place, sixty yards distant, that it might be killed. The pig would not budge an inch towards the open door of the slaughter-pen.

Then the Scotchmen became angry. One laid hold of the pig's ears, the other seized a foreleg, and both pulled, while the third man twisted the tail. The pig squealed and gained several inches styeward. The man at the tail maddened at the pig's stubbornness, belabored it with a stout stick.

"What in the world are you doing with the pig?" shouted a stranger, coming up. "What are we doing with the pig, is it? It is nothing we are doing with it, but we've been trying to get this perverse daughter of an ugly father into yonder shed. And we are likely to be beaten."

"Leave her to me," said the stranger, "and I'll put her in, unaided."

"There's not a man in Lochaber can do it," growled one of the pig-fighters. "Perhaps not," replied the stranger, smiling.

"I am not a Lochaber man, but a Lesiune man, and I think I can manage the pig, if you will let me try."

"Try away; let us see what you can do!"

"Keep away, then!" said the stranger, slipping behind the pig; and catching her by her hind legs, he lifted her up as though she were a wheelbarrow. The pig, resting on her fore-feet, with her snout close to the ground, remained quiet. The stranger, giving her a slight push, and trundling her backwards and forwards once or twice, to see if he had command of the animal barrow, steered her right into the shed, and at its furthest corner let the hog go.

A clergyman, who had seen the stranger's triumphant wheeling, studied out the philosophy of the feat. When caught up by the hind legs, the weight of the animal was thrown almost wholly upon the fore-feet. The slightest impulse moved it forward, as it had no "purchase" by which to stand still, or to move backward.

Its quietness was partly due to the brute's astonishment, and to a sense of its utter helplessness, and partly to the weight of the viscera thrown forward into the thorax, interfering with the use of the vocal organs. As soon, however, as it was let go, the hog yelled lustily.

His First Cigar.

BY RUFUS ROOD.

A small boy puffed at a big cigar,
His eyes bulged out and his cheeks sunk in,
He gulped rank fumes with his lips ajar,
While muscles shook in his youthful chin;
His gills were green, but he smole a smile,
And sat high up on the farmyard stile,
And cocked his hat o'er his glassy eye,
Then wunk a wink at a cow near by.

The earth swam round, but the stile stood still,
The trees rose up and the kid crawled down,
He groaned aloud, for he felt so ill,
And knew that cigar had "done him brown."
His head was light and his feet like lead,
His cheeks grew white as a linen spread,
While he weakly gasped as he gazed afar,
"If I live, this here's my last cigar."

NEWSPAPER READING.

Education and Intelligence Increasing the Demand.

This is emphatically a reading age. Relatively with our enlarged educational facilities the reading public has increased in number. Where heretofore those who could not read were in the majority, the rule has been reversed, and now a person who cannot read is regarded as a curiosity, but yet deserving the sincerest sympathy. In every department of life the demand for newspaper reading is ever on the increase. The boy at school, the young man in the workshop or in the office, the young girl in domestic service or behind the counter, the master at the desk and the mistress in the parlor, all look with equal eagerness for the regular appearance of the local journal. To supply the growing demand for newspaper reading the city dailies publish large weekly editions, made up almost entirely of the matter which appears from day to day in the daily. These weekly reprints of the great dailies are supplied at such a ridiculously low subscription price as threatened at one time to totally extinguish the local country sheet, which could never afford to furnish the quantity of reading matter given in the large foreign weeklies. To meet the difficulty which here presented itself, the ready-print system was inaugurated. Firms were established which make a specialty of furnishing to country publishers ready-printed sheets, containing the essence of each week's happenings, and clippings from sources available only to a large city publisher.

This system has rapidly grown in public favor, until, in the Dominion at least three-fourths of what are known as the country press are published on the auxiliary plan. The prejudices which once existed against the ready-print system have entirely disappeared, and proprietors find that in order to compete with contemporaries using the system, and with the city dailies, and to ensure a profit at the end of the year, they must comply with the inevitable and adopt ready-printed sheets.

Some idea of the popularity which this system has attained with country readers will be gained when we state that a firm in Toronto supplies between one and two hundred publishers with ready-printed papers. To do this three separate and distinct editions are issued every week, containing matter entirely different each from the other, and the system is becoming so general that those who have, from prejudice or other cause, heretofore refrained from adopting it, find it necessary to do so to maintain their circulation and give satisfaction to their patrons.

PERSONAL.

The Swedish Professor Warming, the famous botanist, has gone to the Norwegian coast to study the Arctic flora.

It is rather odd that the Princess Louise should travel incognito as "Lady Cowley" when there is another and actual Lady Cowley.

Miss Charlotte M. Yonge, the English author, has written more than a hundred books, and she is now in her sixty-fourth year.

Sir Julius Benedict was not exactly impecunious, after all. His will disposes of more than $30,000, and Lady Benedict had a settlement of $50,000.

Mrs. Celia Thaxter, who has written numerous nice stories and poems, has just celebrated her 50th birthday. She has passed most of her life on the Isle of Shoals, where her father was keeper of the light-house.

Prince Waldemar, youngest son of Christian of Denmark, will keep up the reputation of his family for brilliant matches by wedding the Princess Marie, eldest daughter of the Duc de Chartres, one of the wealthiest women in Europe.

The Czar of Russia possesses a magnificent mastiff, of extraordinary intelligence and strength, which has been trained to protect his master. This faithful brute accompanies the Czar on all important journeys, and sleeps close to the imperial bed.

The Uzardes have lost their suit against ex-Queen Isabella of Spain and the Duchess of Montpensier for the $250,000 loaned by their ancestor to Ferdinand VII of Spain, fifty odd years ago. The court decided the claim to be barred by the statute of limitations.

Mr. R. Bowld Sherarpe, ornithologist of the British Museum, has returned to London. He has been at Simla since April, packing up the splendid collection of Asiatic birds presented to England by Mr. Allan O. Hume. There are in the collection 60.000 birds, 500 nests and more than 10,000 eggs, all beautifully preserved.

It is recalled that Carlyle, speaking of the late Lord Houghton, once said: "Well, Dicky Milnes has his peculiarities, but he has a kind, good heart. Many a starving man of letters owes his life to him. No one knows better than I do the many £50 notes he gave to keep a struggling man's head above water; and no one ever knew it from himself."

Mr. Gladstone's summer vacation has almost restored him to health, and he is able to speak now with a clear voice. Sir Andrew Clarke, his physician, believes that he will be fitted for hard work this autumn. It was Sir Andrew who refused to permit Mr. Gladstone to visit this country with Mr. Andrew Carnegie, although Mr. Carnegie had made complete arrangements for the visit, and had even selected the steamer—the Etruria—on which Mr. Gladstone was to sail.

A 3 year-old little girl was taught to close her evening prayer, during the temporary absence of her father, with, "And please watch over my papa." It sounded very sweet, but the mother's amusement may be imagined when she added. "And you had better keep an eye on mamma, too!"

A little boy was told at Sunday school that when he died he would leave his body here. After his return home he was much troubled in regard to it, and questioned his parents. His mother explained by saying, "You will take all the good with you, but leave all that's naughty here below." He thought a moment, and looking up said: "Well, I guess I'll be awful thin when I get there."

JUMBO'S HISTORY.

Stirring Events in the Life of the Biggest Captive Elephant.

Jumbo was about twenty-five years old. He was sold by some Arabs to the Jardin de Plantes, in Paris, when an infant, and when about three years of age was exchanged for other animals and given to the directors of the Zoological Gardens, of London. He remained on exhibition there until March, 1882, when he was purchased by Mr. P. T. Barnum for "the greatest show on earth." Ten thousand dollars were paid for him, and after some litigation, as to the right of the directors of the gardens to make the sale, he was dragged through London on a crate on wheels and put on board the "Assyrian Monarch" steamship on his passage to New York. Even then, there were legal barriers to be got over before Jumbo be allowed to leave the country. It was discovered that there was not room enough between decks, he being eleven and a half feet high and weighing seven tons, and therefore the English Parliament passed a special act providing for precautions against loss of life by emigrants who accompanied Jumbo to America. All these delays of the law and the unwillingness of the English people to part with their favorite elephant increased the cost of the animal considerably, and Mr. Bailey (Mr. Barnum's partner) is authority for the statement that the original cost of $10,000 rose to $30,000, before he left the English shores.

HIS LIFE IN AMERICA.

He arrived at New York on the 9th of April 1882, and from that day to the present has been a great pet of the American people. For some time after his arrival there was considerable speculation as to Jumbo's probable behavior in his adopted land. The managers of the London Zoological Gardens had not been unwilling to part with him, because he had occasionally manifested a temper that they believed bordered on insanity and they were of the opinion that if he remained they would have to destroy him to prevent him becoming dangerous to visitors. Mr. Barnum was not of that opinion; he believed that the London directors had made a mistake in forcing Jumbo to live an almost solitary life, and he thought that if he had an opportunity given him for congenial society Jumbo would be very happy, very sociable, and not in the least dangerous. Mr. Barnum's expectations were realized, and if Jumbo had one trait of his character that was more highly developed than another it was a love for children. Strange to say, however, though he was for five years under the care of Mr. Barnum and his partners, and afforded every facility for a companionship that had been denied him in England, he has died childless. Mr. Barnum said yesterday that in about ten months they expect to have a posthumous child of his, and in seventeen months another, parturition with elephants taking twenty two months.

A REFORMED DRINKER

Mr Barnum is a total abstainer from all intoxicating drinks, and has been during the larger part of his life. He was extremely anxious that his pet elephant should also have added to his other virtues that of temperance. Jumbo came short of perfection in this respect, in Mr. Barnum's eyes for he had the painful consciousness soon after the purchase of Jumbo that the latter could drink whiskey by the quart bottle without it producing any intoxicating effect. Jumbo's preference for whiskey was, however, quite under restraint, and he, very early after his arrival in this country, abandoned whiskey as a beverage and became a beer drinker. In this respect, however, he was moderate in his desires, and though he insisted on having his beer regularly every night, yet he never drank more than a quart, and generally one half that quantity. Jumbo's favorite drink, to Mr. Barnum's great delight, was water, and of this he drank the contents of five buckets a day.

Considering the very great size of his body and the activity of Jumbo's mind, he could not be considered an enormous eater. His daily allowance was 200 pounds of hay, two bushels of oats, a barrel of potatoes, ten or fifteen large loaves of bread, two or three quarts of onions, and all the cakes and gingerbread that the children who visited the show took pleasure in giving him.

STRONG IN FRIENDSHIP.

Jumbo formed very strong friendships. This was manifested in his persistent and uniform preference for Scott, his keeper, who had been with him ever since he was three years old. Many men tried to take the place of Scott, but Jumbo would never permit it. Scott's rule was that of kindness, and Jumbo acknowledged that mode of government by a love that was quite surprising to every one who had an opportunity of observing it. Scott never used a prod upon Jumbo, and ruled him entirely by gentle persuasion, to which Jumbo invariably and promptly responded. There was one occasion when the latter had to remind Scott of an oversight, but the reminder was gently but effectively done. Scott had every night a quart of beer brought to him, and he invariably gave Jumbo half of that. One night Scott was sleepy and drank all of it, forgetting Jumbo's allowance. When Scott had made himself comfortable in bed and had gone to sleep Jumbo put his trunk around him and lifted him from the bed and deposited him gently on the floor. Scott speedily had a realizing sense of his omission and hastened to get Jumbo his beer. This done the animal was quiet for the remainder of the night and allowed Scott to sleep the sleep of the just.

Jumbo had perfect health, was never known to have been sick, not even having a chill, a complaint that very few elephants do not have at some time of their lives.

Jack (who has just treated his friend to the dinner of the establishment)—Pretty good dinner for two francs and a half, eh? His Friend—First rate. Let's have another.

A fashion writer says "accordion plaited waists are worn this summer." Boys, be up and doing. You cannot learn to play on an instrument without practice.

Jeweler (to new boy)—Did you sell anything while I was out, Johnnie? New Boy—Yes, sir; I sold six plain gold rings. Jeweler (very much pleased)—Good my boy. We'll make a first class jeweller of you one of these days. You got the regular price, of course? New Boy—O yes, sir. The price was marked on the inside, 18s, an' the gentleman took all there was left, sir.

The Standard.

MARKDALE OCTOBER 1, 1885.

TO OUR PATRONS.

We have no particular excuse to make for having so soon enlarged the paper to its old size, except that of an increased advertising patronage. We trust our correspondents will continue to make their department of the paper a leading and indispensible feature in the STANDARD. Subscribers who are in arrears would greatly assist by squaring accounts. Do not allow the coming January to arrive before payment is made of all arrearages; it does not amount to much for you, but it is very embarrassing to us, having several hundred of this class on our books.

We would heartily thank those who have been so prompt in the past, and trust their number will increase. We also owe a debt of gratitude to a number of our correspondents for their regular and valued correspondence. "Do not weary, &c."

PROHIBITION.

In several city, as well as local papers, the question of a plebiscite, or general vote over the whole country, as to the desirability of prohibiting the liquor traffic, has recently been discussed and generally favored.

This could be done at a general election without any material cost, and would serve as a test, whether the country is favorable to such legislation or not. There would be an advantage in taking the verdict of the people wholly apart from political partyism, and would test the sincerity of those who find fault with every measure of practical legislation for limiting the traffic, but who profess to be favorable to a general prohibitory law. It is very evident that without the support of a general public sentiment in favor of prohibition, a prohibitory law could not be efficiently enforced.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

There is a probability that the recent North-West rebellion will prove the commencement of a new era for our fair Dominion; and when we consider some of the circumstances in connection with the rebellion, and incidents which have grown out of it, they are indeed very suggestive.

Riel, the ringleader, has been tried, found guilty, and sentenced to be hanged; that his execution will not take place, appears very probable, and why? Is it because he is of French origin? It appears very like it. Had he been English, Irish or Scotch, or even a Canadian, he would certainly have swung.

Then take another instance, viz., the late trouble between Sheppard, editor of the News, and the 65th Battalion; the defendant was found guilty of libel without knowledge, and fined $200, which he promptly paid. This did not satisfy the wishes of the motly crowd, but on his (Sheppard) leaving the court-room, the desperadoes attempted to mob him, and because he dared to defend himself by drawing a revolver from his pocket, he was arrested and draged to prison, while his chief assailant was not only let go unpunished, but pronounced by the officials, together with his bloodthirsty associates—"all gentlemen."—Sheppard was of course released, but had to be guarded by the police in order to save him from the lawless throng.

Can it be possible that England's brightest colony is to be ruled by such a biased and disloyal element? It is high time that party politics were a secondary consideration, if not burried altogether. It is evident to every observing mind, that party is first and country second at the present time, and it is also plain to be seen that if a change does not soon take place, we will loose our boasted and much to be cherished "equal rights to all." The country is being thoroughly awakened to its dangerous position, and all lovers of British justice will require to throw politics to the wind, and demand from the powers that be, a fearless unwavering and unbiased justice, which alone can bring continued peace and progress in our fair Dominion.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 8

CLOSE CALL.

On Sunday last, while Mr. Thos. Williscroft, a young man who resides a mile and a half from Williamsford Station, and who is a member of Holland Council, together with Wm., son of Mr. C. F. Moore, County Sheriff, were sitting in a buggy in the yard of Mr. Williscroft, young Moore had been handling his revolver, and on putting it in his pocket one chamber somehow discharged, the bullet piercing Williscroft's breast and entering the lung. Drs. Oldham of Chatsworth and Denham of Owen Sound were in attendance the same evening, but we understand did not succeed in extracting the bullet.

A report came to Markdale on Monday evening to the effect that the wounded man had died; but, we were more than gratified to learn the following day, that the report was false, and that there were no unfavorable symptoms.

Williscroft is not at all out of danger yet strong hopes are entertained that he will fully recover. He is a strong healthy young man of about 28 years, and very highly respected. It appears he and young Moore were going out the following day on a tour through the county serving jurors subpoenas, and being very intimate the latter came from Owen Sound to spend Sunday with him e'er starting, when the above sad occurrence took place.

MARVELOUS.

One dose of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure will cure Sick Headache, Dizziness, and Sour Stomach. 1 to 2 bottles are warrented to cure Liver Complaint, Indigestion and Biliousness. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Oct

Presentation and Address.

On Friday evening last, prior to Mr. S. M. Smythe's departure from our town for Binghampton, New York State, where he has accepted a permanent situation, a large party was given at the residence of Mr. Cornwall, when the guest of the evening was made the recipient of a handsome present, together with the following address, which he responded to in a few brief remarks:

To S. M. Smythe, Esq.:

DEAR SIR,—It is with the most poignant feelings of regret, that we have but learned within the past few days, of your departure from amongst us. The unexpected nature of your removal is intensified by the fact, that your absence will cause a void in the social circles of our town of which you formed a prominent feature, and renders our separation the more painful.

We herewith present you with this testimonial of our esteem for you, and had it not been for the limited time at our disposal, would have made it of a more substantial character. Trusting you will accept the gift in the spirit in which it is given—not for its intrinsic worth—we trust that you will find opportunity in the future to renew the associations of the past.

Wherever you may go in the pathway of life, rest assured that a friendly greeting will be wafted upon the breeze from Markdale to your new home.

Signed in behalf of admiring friends,

HUGH MERCER,
W. T. JACKMAN,
FRANK PORTER,
W. J. BENSON.

A SAD CASE.

The poor victim of Chronic Dyspepsia apparently suffers all the ills of life, living in continual torture. Regulate the Liver and the Bowels and tone the Stomach with Burdock Blood Bitters and the dyspepsia trouble is soon gone.

A Free Ride to Owen Sound.

Dr. J. D. Kergan's British American Surgeons will be at the Queen's Hotel, Owen Sound, from Saturday morning, October 10, until Monday, October 12, and in order that the residents of Markdale and vicinity who desire to obtain treatment from them, can do so without incuring any expense, the following liberal offer is made: All persons presenting to the Surgeons their return ticket from Markdale and simply consulting with them (which is free) will be dined at the Queen's Hotel at Dr. Kergan's expense, but all who order and pay for at least one month's treatment, will not only be dined, but receive also amount of their railroad fare for round trip.

The fact that we return the amount of railroad fare will in no way increase the price of treatment. Our Surgeons are pushed for time (it being absolutely necessary to fill appointments at Buffalo, Albany and Ottawa) and we find this a much better way of accommodating both them and our patients. By taking the 11:50 train Saturday forenoon you will reach Owen Sound in time for dinner with the Surgeons and have ample time to consult them before returning on the 2:35 p. m. train, arriving home about 4 o'clock. Those unable to go can obtain a written opinion (free) from Dr. Kergan and his Medical Council by writing to them. Corner Woodward & Fortieth Aves, Detroit, Mich.

Flesherton.

From our own correspondent.

Upon the arrival of our brave boys, the Volunteers of No. 6 company (Flesherton), from camp at Niagara on Saturday evening last, they were met by our brass band and a number of our citizens at the depot. Led by the band the men marched in military order from the station, when arriving at the Drill Shed there were several hundred people present to welcome them home. After being relieved of their accouterments, the men were invited to sit down to a sumptuous spread provided by the kind ladies of the village. After tea, short addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Ayres and Captain Campbell. The Captain spoke in the most praiseworthy terms of his men and their conduct, also heartily thanked the ladies for their kindness in preparing for them such a handsome spread. The men all looked hearty and looked as if they had enjoyed their days in camp.

A threshing machine accident which resulted fatal happened to Mr. Alexander Smith on Friday last near Eugenia. Mr. Smith's clothing being caught by a bolt in the tumbling shaft, he was thrown violently against a post and severely injured in the spine. He remained quite conscious to the last and passed peacefully away to join the company of the first born on Sabbath evening. His remains were followed by a large concourse of friends and interred in the Flesherton cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

It is also our sad duty to record the decease of another of our citizens, being that of Mr. James Gadd, of the firm of Gadd & Milburne of this village. Deceased was a young man married only a few months, a highly respected citizen, tho' early, life was seized with that monster lung disease, and on Tuesday evening passed away. His young and sorrowing widow has the sympathy of the entire community.

Holland Council.

The council of the township of Holland met at Holland Centre, Sept. 22nd, for transaction of business. Members all present; Reeve in the chair. Minutes of former meeting read and approved.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Deputy-Reeve, that an order be issued to S. S. No. 5, for $6.55 on account; money omitted in 1884.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Deputy-Reeve, that the sum of $1 each be paid to Messrs. Green and McClure, for inspecting culvert in Chatsworth.

Moved by Mr. Howey, seconded by Mr. Shute, that we grant $12.50 to each of the Holland Agricultural Societies.

Moved by Deputy-Reeve, seconded by Mr. Howey, that the bill of John Hamilton, for cedar plank for building culvert, be paid.

Moved by Mr. Williscroft, seconded by Mr. Howey, that Wm. Foster be appointed as arbitrator in reference to U. S. S. No. 2, H. & E.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that a rate of nine mills be levied on all the ratable property in the township, both real and personal, to defray the current expenses of the present year.

Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Galbraith, that the witnesses in connection with the township of Holland and T., G, & B. affair be paid.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Howey, that the By-Laws for imposing a rate of nine mills on the township be read 1st, 2nd and 3rd times and engrossed.

Mr. Howey placed on the table report of Bruce's bridge.

Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that the above report be adopted.

Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Galbraith, that we accept applications for the collecting this year.

Moved by Mr. Williscroft, seconded by Mr. Howey, that John Margins be appointed collector at a salary of sixty-five dollars.

Moved by Mr. Williscroft, seconded by Mr. Howey, that the By-Law for the appointment of Clerk be read 1st, 2nd and 3rd times.

Moved and seconded, that this council adjourn till the 17th day of December.

CARSON PRICE,
Clerk.

FATAL ATTACKS.

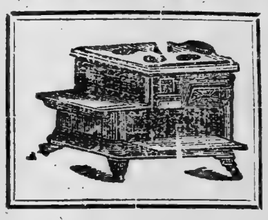
Among the most prevalent fatal and sudden attacks of diseases, are those incident to the Summer and Fall, such as Cholera Morbus, Bilious Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, etc., that often prove fatal in a few hours. That very reliable remedy Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, should be at hand, for use in emergency.

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Exa... For Soundness and Certificates Given.



VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSE

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE

Office & Infirmary: SYDENHAM ST., Opposite Markdale House, MARKDALE

Stoves! Stoves!

Cook Stoves, $16.50 Trimmed Parlor Stoves, Coal Stoves, Box Stoves, All equally low.

Hardware, Lance tooth Saw, Buck Saws, Hand Saw, Axes, Nails, Glass, Putty, At bottom pri...

☞ Intending purchasers will do well to give us a call we cannot be undersold.

WALKER BRO'S,

3m MARKDALE

Fall Shows 1885.

Glenelg, Markdale, Oct. 1st and 2nd.
Euphrasia, Rocklyn, Oct. 9th.
Osprey, Maxwell, Oct. 8th.
Hollland, Chatsworth, Oct. 8th.
Proton, Dundalk, Oct. 5th & 6th.
Holland Centre.—Holland Centre, Oct. 7th.
Artemesia.—Priceville, Oct. 6th.

HIGHEST PRAISE.

The well-known drug firm of N. C. Polson & Co., of Kingston, writes that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has long been considered the best remedy for Summer complaints in the market, and adds that their customers speak in the highest terms of its merits. Wild Strawberry is the best known remedy for Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and all Bowel Complaints.

Notices of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, twetnty five cents.

BIRTHS.

TURNER—In Markdale, on the 30th Sept., the wife of Mr. A. Turner, Druggist, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

DUNSMORE—WALKER,—By Rev. D. Perry, on 23rd ult., Mr. Samuel Dunsmore, of Collingwood, to Miss Martha Jane Walker, second daughter of Mr. Francis Walker, of Glenelg.

McKENNITT—FEE,—By Rev. D. Perry, on the 24th ult., Mr. Robert McKennitt to Miss Alice Fee, second daughter of Mr. William Fee, all of Holland.

ESTRAY.

CAME to the premises of the subscriber lot North ½ 14, con. 10, Holland, about the middle of July, a red yearling steer. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take him.

ROBT. BRADLY,
Lily Oak, P. O.
264-66

FARM FOR SALE.

THAT excellent farm in the township of Artemesia, Co. of Grey, known as Mount Royal, lots 117 and 118, con. 2, north-east Toronto and Sydenham Gravel Road, containing 100 acres, 80 acres cleared and in first-class state of cultivation, well fenced in 10 acre fields and a lane through the center, 20 acres good hardwood bush, large frame barn and good stabling, frame driving house and good frame dwelling house, never failing well, good orchard, 14 acres fall wheat. This farm is 3½ miles from the thriving village of Markdale and 5½ miles from Flesherton. For further particulars apply on the premises, or by letter to

A. NODWELL,
264-67* Markdale P. O., Ont.

NOTICE.

TO parents and guardians of children attending Markdale public school, we wish to state that Dr. T. S. Sproule has examined the children of the several departments, and any children who were afflicted with a contagious disease have been notified not to attend school until perfectly cured; and now we request a full attendance of children above the age of Five Years as set fourth in our Public School Act. If through neglect your children do not attend school you are liable to be fined for such neglect.

BENJAMIN COLEMAN,
EDWARD BUTLEDGE,
THOMAS ELLIS, } Trustees.

FARM FOR SALE TO RENT.

LOT North ½ 16 on the 11th conc... Holland, 100 acres, 70 acres ... 30 acres in good state of cultivation, balance hay and pasture. There is ... farm a good log house and frame ... good well near the house also a log ... School and Post-office on the next lot. ... rent for a term of years and take ... ments for rent, or will sell on easy ... For particulars apply to

JAMES BRUCE,
Lilly Oak
Or to William Steele, Ionia, Michigan

Store to Rent in Makdale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to ... Application as to terms can be ... from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent.
143-tf. Strathmairn, P. O., Ont.

LAND FOR SALE

THE north half of lot number ... cession 12, Holland Township, ... of Grey, containing 100 acres. This ... all heavy timbered with beech, maple, basswood and hemlock, and is situated 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers
253-tf Ga...

FARM FOR SALE

200 ACRES, within one mile ... liamsford Station, being ... of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. E... to & Sydenham Road, township ... Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres ... well fenced, and under good cultivation; frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen ... well finished; good frame barn, ... house, straw house, concrete stable, open sheds, and all necessary ... ings; two good wells; orchard of ... healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres ... well fenced, with good stream ... through it; balance well timbered ... maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given ... For particulars apply on premises ... letter

JOSEPH FANNING,
Williamsford Station
Co. Grey

Important Auction

Of Valuable Village Property

THERE will be sold by Public Auction ... Saturday, October 3rd, 1885, at ... p. m. at the Revere House, Markdale, ... following Village Property: One-half ... situated on Toronto Street, opposite ... Markdale House, adjoining Hill Bros' ... and within eight rods of the Post ... This is a very desirable property, and ... either for a business site or for private ... ing, being situated in the centre of the ... age; and will be sold either in one piece ... divided to suit purchaser.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth of the ... money payable at time of sale, balance ... payable in one or two annual payments ... date of sale to suit purchaser; to be secured ... by mortgage with interest at 6 per cent. per ... annum. Title indisputable. For further ... particulars apply to

GEORGE NOBLE,
Auctioneer

Markdale, Sept. 14, 1885.

Fatal Railway Accident.

From the Shelburne Economist.

Yesterday morning, Sept. 23rd, Geo. Thompson, a brakesman on the way freight going south, was fatally injured at Shelburne station. He was cutting off the train as usual in order to make a passage through from the station to the mail and passenger train bound north, the trains having to cross here. By some means his foot got caught between the brake on the car in front of him and the platform as he was coming out after drawing the coupling pin, throwing him down, two of the wheels passing over his legs below the knees. The accident greatly shocked those who were standing on the platform waiting for the train from the south, among whom were a number of ladies. The unfortunate young man was drawn from under the car and laid on the platform until Dr. Norton, who was sent for, arrived. The sufferer was then conveyed to Jennings' hotel. The doctor deemed it advisable, in the hope of saving his life to amputate the injured members. One leg was amputated at the knee joint and the other a few inches below the knee. Before the operation was concluded, however, it became apparent that the young man's chances of recovery were small. Newfound friends did all they could to make him as comfortable as possible, but either the shock was so severe or the injuries so great that he died at 3:30 in the afternoon. The friends of the young man have been notified.

LADIES ONLY.

The complexion is often rendered unsightly by Pimples, Liver Spots, and Yellowness. These it is well known are caused from an inactive Liver and bad blood. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure purifies the blood and whole system. See Recipe Book for for toilet recipes, hints and suggestions on how to preserve the complexion. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Oct.

Got the Password.

"And so, my dear," said Mr. Billings as he glanced over the morning paper, "you ladies have at last established a Lodge of your own."

"Yes, indeed we have, and we will show your lords of creation that we can run such an institution and keep our secrets just as well as you can," said Mrs. B.

"I suppose you have a password and grip, and all that sort of thing. It would be too funny for anything if some of you would forget and give the whole thing away. I know, of course, you would not do it, but you could not object to telling your own husband the password; you surely can trust me that far," and Mr. B. held his paper before his face to hide the smile he could not suppress.

"Well, hubby," said Mrs. B, (and she, too, looked very smilingly,) "if you put it in that light I shall have to tell you, but you must never tell. It is: "I was a stranger and ye took me in."

"But isn't that rather a strange password?" said Mr. B.

"Well, it may be, but then everything about our society is strange," answered she.

The next Wednesday was Lodge meeting, and Mr. Billings said he guessed he would not go down town that night, as he was feeling poorly, but would stay at home and read his paper. So Mrs. B. left him cozily reading and went to the Lodge. But no sooner was she gone than he began rummaging through the closets and drawers, and in the course of half an hour had changed himself into what might be taken for quite a respectable female. As he was a small man (in more than one sense of the word), his wife's clothes were not a bad fit. Laughing at the anticipated fun, he was soon at the Lodge room, and giving the password, was ushered in. But he was hardly inside the door ere he was seized, blindfolded and rushed up a plank, then tilted on end, lighting on something decidedly moist. Before he could regain his feet, some one thrust a heap of ice down his back, and at the same instant the bald spot on his head was deluged with water, then after mopping him around the floor to or three times, he was thrust out the door with the advice: "There, you greying old bald head, if anyone asks you what your password is, you just tell him, 'I was a stranger and ye took me in.'" But he had hardly reached the street before a policeman, from his dishevelled appearance taking him for a female tramp, promptly took him to the lock-up. Mrs. B. says she guesses Billy will begin to make up his mind that she can keep a secret, and that she isn't so green as she looks. But if you want to see just how wicked a man can be, say to Mr. B., "I was a stranger and ye took me in."

CERTAIN CURE.

A CURE FOR CHOLERA MORBUS.—A positive cure for this dangerous complaint, and for all acute or chronic forms of Bowel Complaint incident to Summer and Fall, is found in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry; to be procured from any druggist.

N, V. S.,
Veterinary College.

Horses Examine
For Soundness and Certificates
Given.

KEPT & DISPENSE
CHARGES MODERATE
House, MARKDALE.

Stoves!

Hardware,
Lance tooth Sa
Buck Saws,
Hand Sa
Axes, Nails,
Glass, Putty
At bottom pric lo well to give us a call
ER BRO'S,
MARKDALE

ARM FOR SALE
TO RENT.
OT North ½ 16 on the 11th conce
Holland, 100 acres, 70 acres cl res in good state of cultivation ce hay and pasture. There is a good log house and frame kitch well near the house also a log of and Post-office on the next lot.
for a term of years and take imp s for rent, or will sell on easy t articulars apply to
JAMES BRUCE,
Lilly Oak
to William Steele, Ionia, Michigan

Store to Rent in Makdale.
HE Store in Reynold's Block
Application as to terms can be ob
John Lyons, Markdale, or
JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
f. Strathmairn, P. O., On

LAND FOR SAL
HE north half of lot number 15
cession 12, Holland Township, rey, containing 100 acres. This cavy timbered with beech, maple wood and hemlock, and is situated les from Berkeley, 6 from Willia 9 from Markdale stations, o nto, Grey and Bruce Railway.
r terms and particulars apply to OWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the
ed,
GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
tf God

FARM FOR SAL
00 ACRES, within one mile liamsford Station, being ts 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. E Sydenham Road, township
Grey.
n lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres fenced, and under good cultiv he house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 1 finished; good frame barn, se, straw house, concrete stab le, open sheds, and all necessa
; two good wells; orchard of 3 thy young trees all bearing.
n lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres fenced, with good stream ough it; balance well timber le, beech, hemlock and cedar.
ood title; and possession given or particulars apply on premise er
JOSEPH FANNING,
Williamsford Statio
Co. Gre

portant Auction
Of Valuable Village Prop
HERE will be sold by Public A Saturday, October 3rd, 1885, a n. at the Revere House, Mark owing Village Property: One ated on Toronto Street, opp rkdale House, adjoining Hill Br within eight rods of the Po s is a very desirable property, and er for a business site or for priva being situated in the centre of
; and will be sold either in one ded to suit purchaser.
ERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth of ney payable at time of sale, bala able in one or two annual payme of sale to suit purchaser; to b mortgage with interest at 6 per num. Title indisputable. For rticulars apply to
GEORGE NORLE, Auct
rkdale, Sept. 14, 1885.

Fatal Railway Accident.

From the Shelburne Economist.

Yesterday morning, Sept. 23rd, Geo. Thompson, a brakesman on the way freight going south, was fatally injured at Shelburne station. He was cutting off the train as usual in order to make a passage through from the station to the mail and passenger train bound north, the trains having to cross here. By some means his foot got caught between the brake on the car in front of him and the platform as he was coming out after drawing the coupling pin, throwing him down, two of the wheels passing over his legs below the knees. The accident greatly shocked those who were standing on the platform waiting for the train from the south, among whom were a number of ladies. The unfortunate young man was drawn from under the car and laid on the platform until Dr. Norton, who was sent for, arrived. The sufferer was then conveyed to Jennings' hotel. The doctor deemed it advisable, in the hope of saving his life to amputate the injured members. One leg was amputated at the knee joint and the other a few inches below the knee. Before the operation was concluded, however, it became apparent that the young man's chances of recovery were small. Newfound friends did all they could to make him as comfortable as possible, but either the shock was so severe or the injuries so great that he died at 3:30 in the afternoon. The friends of the young man have been notified.

LADIES ONLY.

The complexion is often rendered unsightly by Pimples, Liver Spots, and Yellowness. These it is well known are caused from an inactive Liver and bad blood. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure purifies the blood and whole system. See Recipe Book for for toilet recipes, hints and suggestions on how to preserve the complexion. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Oct.

Got the Password.

"And so, my dear," said Mr. Billings as he glanced over the morning paper, "you ladies have at last established a Lodge of your own."

"Yes, indeed we have, and we will show your lords of creation that we can run such an institution and keep our secrets just as well as you can," said Mrs. B.

"I suppose you have a password and grip, and all that sort of thing. It would be too funny for anything if some of you would forget and give the whole thing away. I know, of course, you would not do it, but you could not object to telling your own husband the password; you surely can trust me that far," and Mr. B. held his paper before his face to hide the smile he could not suppress.

"Well, hubby," said Mrs. B, (and she, too, looked very smilingly,) "if you put it in that light I shall have to tell you, but you must never tell. It is: "I was a stranger and ye took me in."

"But isn't that rather a strange password?" said Mr. B.

"Well, it may be, but then everything about our society is strange," answered she.

The next Wednesday was Lodge meeting, and Mr. Billings said he guessed he would not go down town that night, as he was feeling poorly, but would stay at home and read his paper. So Mrs. B. left him cozily reading and went to the Lodge. But no sooner was she gone than he began rummaging through the closets and drawers, and in the course of half an hour had changed himself into what might be taken for quite a respectable female. As he was a small man (in more than one sense of the word), his wife's clothes were not a bad fit. Laughing at the anticipated fun, he was soon at the Lodge room, and giving the password, was ushered in. But he was hardly inside the door ere he was seized, blindfolded and rushed up a plank, then tilted on end, lighting on something decidedly moist. Before he could regain his feet, some one thrust a lump of ice down his back, and at the same moment the bald spot on his head was deluged with water, then after mopping him around the floor to or three times, he was thrust out the door with the advice: "There, you praying old bald head, if anyone asks you what your password is, you just tell him, "I was a stranger and ye took me in." But he had hardly reached the street before a policeman, from his dishevelled appearance taking him for a female tramp, promptly took him to the lock-up. Mrs. B. says she guesses Billy will begin to make up his mind that she can keep a secret, and that she isn't as green as she looks. But if you want to see just how wicked a man can be, say to Mr. B., "I was a stranger and ye took me in."

CERTAIN CURE.

A CURE FOR CHOLERA MORBUS.—A positive cure for this dangerous complaint, and for all acute or chronic forms of Bowel Complaint incident to Summer and Fall, is found in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry; to be procured from any druggist.

Little Things Worth Knowing

That a bag of hot sand relieves neuralgia.

That warm borax water will remove dandruff.

That salt should be eaten with nuts to aid digestion.

That milk which stands too long makes bitter butter.

That rusty flatirons should be rubbed over with beeswax and lard.

That it rests you in sewing to change your position frequently.

That a hot lemonade taken at bedtime will break up a bad cold.

That tough meat is made tender by lying a few minutes in vinegar water.

That a little soda water will relieve a sick headache caused by indigestion.

That a cup of strong coffee will remove the odor of onions from the breath.

That a cup of hot water drank before meals will prevent nausea and dyspepsia.

That well ventilated bedrooms will prevent morning headache and lassitude.

That consumptive night sweats may be arrested by sponging the body at night in salt water.

That one in a faint should be laid flat on their backs, then loosen their clothes and let them alone.

That a fever patient can be made cool and comfortable by a frequent sponging off with soda water.

That cold tea should be saved for your vinegar barrel. It sours easily and gives color and flavor.

That to beat the whites of eggs quickly add a pinch of salt. Salt cools, and cold eggs froth rapidly.

That the hair may be kept from falling out after illness by frequent applications of sage tea.

LOST!

How many people of both sexes are suffering from lost vitality, all broken down, and on the verge of Consumption that might be restored, as many have been when given up to die, if they would use Burdock Blood Bitters, which restores lost vitality and gives new vigor to the debilitated system.

An Inexperienced Bridegroom.

A funny occurrence took place recently at our fashionable uptown hotel, in which bride and groom from the country were prominent actors. On the morning following their arrival, at breakfast the dainty bride complained of feeling cold, and the attentive husband volunteered to go to their appartment for a wrap. He was told to bring the red Cashmere shawl which hung over the back of a chair, and in a few minutes he reappeared with the garment in his hands and at once proceeded to tenderly place the same on his wife's pretty shoulders. Suddenly the bride turned scarlet, shrieked aloud, and nearly fell from her chair. Every one of the score or more people in the dining-room turned to see what was the matter, and beheld a corpulent and near sighted gentleman standing behind a lady's chair, holding extended at arm's length an embroidered petticoat. The men laughed, the women giggled, the waiters looked on in amazement, and the bride and groom slid out without finishing their breakfast.

A SPEEDY CURE.

As a speedy cure for Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhœa, Colic, Cramps, Sick Stomach, Canker of the Stomach and Bowels, and all forms of Summer Complaints, there is no remedy more reliable than Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Dealers who sell it and those who buy it are on mutual grounds in confidence of its merits.

The Regina Trials.

BIG BEAR SENTENCED TO THREE YEARS IN THE PENITENTIARY.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 27.—Big Bear was formally sentenced last night at Regina by Judge Richardson to three years penitentiary. Two-by-Two and others of Big Bears band got two years. Red Eagle and four Sioux were sentenced to three years. Five Crees, who forcibly entered a house north of Broadview and stole a horse, colt, and several oxen from Mr. Wiseman, received three years.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator, Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

Another World's Exposition.

Expositions are great civilizers. They bring people together and make them acquainted. They discover mines of precious metals, mountains and beds of useful necessary minerals, forests of the most valuable woods, fields of undeveloped fertility, and markets of all products and manufactures.

The late World's Exposition, notwithstanding unfortunate delays and the execrable weather which deterred so many from attending, was a wonderful surprise to the people in these respects. It was so much a success that its friends have determined that the good work it commenced shall go on.

The new company called the North, Central and South American Exposition are scattering far and wide their announcement and advertising matter. It has purchased the plant of buildings and property of the old Exposition. It has secured the retention of the best parts of the old exhibits and it will re-open for a period of twelve weeks on the 10th of November next.

The various impediments and adverse influences that operated so strongly against the success of the late Exposition will be removed. The day of opening is in the most pleasant and attractive season of the year in that section. Steam passenger railway communication has been established between the centre of the city and the Exposition grounds. This will abolish one serious objection by visitors of deficient local transportation.

Railroad rates will be very low, not exceeding one cent a mile from any point. Accommodation in the city will be abundant and at most reasonable rates.

The prospects of success of the Exposition are very brilliant. Capt. S. H. Buck, who succeeded Major Burke as the Director-General of the World's Exposition and gave such universal satisfaction, is the new Director-General and is determined that it shall equal if it does not excel that.

A CERTAIN RESULT.

In all disturbed action of the Stomach, the Bowels, the Liver or the Kidneys the result of taking Burdock Blood Bitters is certain to afford prompt benefit to the sufferer. Burdock Blood Bitters cures when other remedies fail.

Condemned Indians.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 25.—Judge Rouleau, on the conclusion of the Indian trials at Battleford sentenced Wandering Spirit, the murderer of Quinn at Frog Lake, to be hanged Nov. 27th. Little Runner, Lazy Man, The Gopher, Straight Man, Old Man, Little Wolf, Calling Bull, and Fair Sky Thunder were sentenced to the penitentiary for terms varying from two to fourteen years.

A SURE INDICATION.

Whenever there are festering sores, blotches, pimples and boils appearing, it indicates an extremely bad condition of the blood which should be speedily cleansed by the best of all medicines Burdock Blood Bitters.

How She Knew.

Husband and wife seated at breakfast. Wife—"If this egg had been hatched it would have been a rooster."

Husband (surprised)—What makes you think so?"

Wife—"Because it is so strong. The male sex are usually the strongest."

Total collapse of husband.

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; Wm. Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer Meeting every Thursday evening from 8 to 9. Rev. Wesley Casson, Pastor; G. S. Bowes, S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in connection; Mrs. T. Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in their Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting brethren welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets in their Hall, McDougall's block, every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A visit from brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

MARKDALE I. O. L. No. 1045 meets in their Hall on Friday on or before full moon each month. THOS. ELLIOTT, Master; W. J. BLAKELY, Secretary.

Important

Notice.

I take this means of informing the public generally, that I have opened in

MARKDALE

An Agency for the sale of the famous

"DOHERTY ORGAN"

And world renowned

"Singer Sewing Machine."

The Doherty stands at the top of the list as either a Parlor or Chapel Organ. For strength and variety of tone, as well as beauty of finish and durability, it stands without a peer.

The Singer Sewing Machine is known all over the continent as the most perfect and durable machine in the market. Those who anticipate purchasing anything in the above line will consult their own best interests by giving me a call before closing a bargain elsewhere.

Office in Dunlop's old stand, Markdale.

HUGH WILLIAMS.

3 TEACHERS WANTED

FOR Markdale Public School, duties to commence 1st January next, one male holding second, and two females with third class certificates. Give salary wanted and grade of certificate held. Applications taken up to 20th of November.

B. COLEMAN,
Secretary.
264-65 Markdale, Ont.

STRAYED.

FROM the premises of the subscriber, lot 10, con. 10, Euphrasia, about the second week in July, 3 yearlings, two heifers and a steer, one heifer dark brindle, the other two spotted red and white. Any person giving such information as will lead to their recovery will be suitably rewarded.

W. J. BLAKELY,
264-67 Markdale P. O.

Dissolution of Partnership

THE partnership heretofore existing between Henry Sparling & J. P. Sparling has this day been dissolved by mutual concent. J. P. Sparling pays all debts and collects all accounts.
Witness—William Hamilton.

HENRY SPARLING,
J. P. SPARLING.
September 7th, 1885.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,
H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

STRAYED

FROM the premises of the undersigned, lot 17, con. 5, Euphrasia, in May last, a two year old red and white steer, large spots. Any information that will lead to the recovery of the above beast will be suitably rewarded.

THOS. GILRAY,
263 65 Epping P. O.

ESTRAY.

CAME to the premises of the undersigned lot 6, con. 7, Euphrasia, about the middle of September, a heifer about 3 years old, tied head and foot; color red, spike horns. The owner is requested to prove property and take her away.

D. R. ELLIS,
263-65 Kimberley P. O.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 20, con. 5, Euphrasia, nine miles from the flourishing village of Markdale, and one lot from Post Office. This farm is well watered, solid clay loam, contains 100 acres 45 of which is cleared and under cultivation and the balance fine hardwood timber, also a frame barn 36 x 56 thereon. Terms easy, for particulars apply to

THOS. MUXLOW,
Goring P. O.
263-72 Adjoining the premises.

STRAYED.

ABOUT July 1st, 1885, from the premises of the subscriber, lot 17, con. 5, Tp. of Glenelg. Three yearlings, one heifer red, two steers, one spotted and the other a brindle color. Parties giving directions as to their whereabouts will be suitably rewarded.

JOHN McVICAR,
261-63 Pomona, P. O.

Lumber and Shingles.

THE undersigned has constantly on hand all kinds of lumber and first-class cedar shingles for sale. Mill 3½ miles North of Markdale, 11th line Euphrasia.

250-63 FORD & STINSON.

STRAYED.

TO the premises of the subscriber, Lot North half of 22, and 23, con. 13 Artemesia, about the 15th August, a Ewe and two lambs. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take them.

DAVID GRAHAM,
261-64 Vandeleur, P. O.

STRAYED.

FROM the premises of Thos. Muxlow, lot 20, con. 11, Euphrasia, about the 20th May last, seven yearlings, (four heifers and three steers) one heifer nearly all red, one heifer light brindle and the others spotted red and white. Any person giving such information as will lead to their whereabouts will be suitably rewarded.

THOS. MUXLOW,
263-5 Goring P. O.

Public Notice.

IN the matter of Henry Foster, of the village of Williamsford, in the County of Grey, general merchant, Insolvent.

Take notice that the above named Insolvent has made an assignment to me under the provisions of "The Ontario Act" respecting assignments for the benefit of creditors, and you are hereby notified that if you have any claim or claims against the said Henry Foster, you are requested to file your claim or claims with me duly proven within one month from the date hereof, and also attend a meeting of Creditors to be held at the Albion Hotel, in the City of Toronto, on Friday, the 25th day of September instant, at 10 a. m.

WM. LUCAS,
Assignee.
Markdale, 18th Sept., 1885. 263-66

RUPTURED

AND DEFORMED.

CHAS. CLUTHE, the most practical and experienced man on this Continent for relieving and curing Rupture and Deformities of every description. It will be to your advantage to call on me. 45,000 Trusses adjusted in person. Thousands of Deformed treated. Established 15 years. I will have a full supply of these celebrated Trusses with me at the following places:—

Markdale, Markdale House, Monday, Oct. 26.
Orangeville, Paisly House, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

Send 6c. stamp for registered Illustrated Book on Rupture and Human Frame by

CHAS. CLUTHE, Surgical Machinist,
118 King Street West, Toronto, Ont.

Burdock Blood Bitters

Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

Hand to Hand with a Madman.

A BRAZILIAN STORY.

"My friend, you seem to be just in the right frame of mind to die, and I am going to kill you."

Startling words at any time, but doubly so when uttered by a man with whom one is sitting quite alone, and emphasized with a loaded pistol leveled at one's forehead.

The two men sat facing each other across a table covered with the remains of a regular Brazilian dinner, in the spacious dining-room of Mr. Stewart's country-house, four miles from Rio de Janeiro, the capital of Brazil. There was not another white man in the house—the negro servants were either fast asleep or far away on the other side of the enormous court-yard—and Mr Stewart had just discovered that his only companion (whom he had hitherto regarded as a good fellow enough, though with some queer flighty ways of his own) was a furious madman, armed with a deadly weapon and bent on taking his life.

Stewart was a brave man and celebrated for his coolness; but for a moment he lost his head completely, and sat staring helplessly at the threatening muzzle of the pistol, now within a foot of his face.

But the click of the weapon as the madman cocked it brought back all his courage through sheer desperation. Help from outside there was none to be hoped for, as he well knew.

If his life was to be saved, he must save it himself; and in the very nick of time, a lucky thought occurred to him.

"My dear Scott," said he, in a grave, impressive voice, looking the maniac steadily in the face as he spoke, "it is like your kindness to say that I am perfectly fit to die but it only shows how little even you know me."

"What!" cried the lunatic, staring at him. "Is it possible that you have not got a clear conscience? Why, every one calls you the most trustworthy man in the whole city."

"That is what they say, sure enough," replied Stewart, with a look of utter dejection; "but if they knew the real story of my life, they would have a very different opinion of me, and so would you, too, Scott."

The madman's curiosity was evidently aroused, which was just what Stewart wanted. He uncocked the pistol and laid it down in front of him (still keeping his hand upon it, however), and leaning forward across the table, said, eagerly:

"I should like to hear that story. Will you tell it me? There's no one else within hearing, and I'll promise to keep the secret."

"Listen, then," replied Stewart.

And he began accordingly.

Mr. Stewart was famous for telling good stories, and for telling them well: but nobody would have believed it had they heard him on the present occasion. On, on, on, he went, with a tale that seemed to have neither beginning nor end, so long, so rambling and so confused, that no sane person much less a madman—could have made head or tail of it. Poor Scott was completely bewildered, although he still listened as attentively as ever.

But all this was part of Stewart's plan. He was talking "against time," knowing that, sooner or later, one of his black "boys" must come in with coffee and cigars, and that if he could only contrive to spin out the time till then, he might be saved yet.

So far all promised well; but in an evil hour for himself, Mr. Stewart conceived the idea of getting hold of the pistol, from which Scott had now withdrawn his hand.

Being considerably the bigger and stronger man of the two, he counted upon being able to overmatch the lunatic in a fair hand-to-hand struggle without weapons, and, in any case, he was anxious to cut short this terrible trial, feeling that he could not endure it much longer without giving way.

Suddenly raising his voice to its fullest pitch, he cried out, as if in continuation of his story:

"There it was that I met a man, whose face I then saw for the first time. Little did I dream that that face was destined to haunt me forever. Twenty years have passed, and I see it still—day and night I see it. It stands before me now!"

As he spoke, he pointed straight at the opposite wall, with a look of horror and agony that would have made the fortune of an actor.

The startled Scott glanced hastily behind him, as if expecting to see some horrible apparition there. But the moment he turned his head, Stewart sprang from his seat and pounced upon the pistol.

This brought matters to a crisis at once. With a roar like a hungry tiger, the madman leaped right on to the table. Stewart started back, and as he did so, the pistol which he held in his hand exploded. But the bullet flattened harmlessly against the wall, and in another instant he was in the clutch of a madman.

Stewart tried to sieze a knife that lay near, but instead of it, his hand encountered a heavy china dish, with which he dealt his assailant a terrific blow on the head, smashing the dish to pieces, and making a fearful gash across Scott's forehead. The blood poured from the wound in torrents, but so far from weakening the madman, it seemed only to rouse him to fresh fury.

Stewart was a powerful man, and fought as men fight for their lives; but he speedily found to his cost that all his vigor was no match for the unnatural strength of the maniac. In spite of his tremendous struggles, he was soon beaten down and laid prostrate on the floor, while the lunatic, planting his knee on the fallen man's chest, fastened with both hands on his throat like a tiger-cat.

Flashes of fire danced before Stewart's eyes, and his face grew purple. Already all seemed over, when suddenly there was a clamor of voices outside—a rush of hurrying feet—then the sound of a heavy blow close to his ear.

The strangling clutch at his throat relaxed, and then, dimly as if in a dream, he became conscious of being lifted from the ground by half a dozen of his negro servants and of seeing his terrible assailant lying senseless on the floor at his feet.

"Some of my fellows luckily heard the report of the pistol!" (so Mr. Stewart used to tell the story in after days), "and thinking that something must have gone wrong, they came running to see, and arrived just in the nick of time. But I've never dined alone with any man since that day, and I never will again so long as I live."

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

"Am Kurnel Paradox Johnson in de hall dis eavenin'?" blandly inquired Brother Gardner, as the regular weekly meeting opened on the forty-seventh degree, in due and regular shape.

The "Kurnel" arose. He was there. Some time ago he invented the theory that Canada thistles could be cultivated to bear mustard plasters, and his countenance now betrayed the fact that he expected to be patted on the back, and ordered to take the stool of honor, under the Bear Traps.

"Kurnel Johnson will please step dis way," continued the President, and the Kurnel advanced to the front, bestowing a look of three-ply contempt on the Hon. Erastus Furlong, as he passed him.

"Brudder Johnson," said the President, as the victim stood before him with folded arms. "I want to spoke to you in the plainest English language. I l'arn dat you hev' invented a theory?"

"Yes, sah."

"It has bin a long time workin' up to a climax, hasn't it?"

"'Bout a y'ar, sah."

"I thought so. I remember when you gin up de curbstone fur saloon society. Later on you began to play 'craps' an' policy. Towards de last agony of your struggle you begun to shake dice an' buy lottery tickets on de money your wife airned at the wash-tub. Inventin' a theory am powerful hard work, Brudder Johnson."

"Yes, sah."

"It am so hard dat your wife an' chill'en am now beggin' fur bread an' ole clothes, while you am in debt to everybody who'd trust you, and your landlord am gwine to frow you out o' de house."

"I—I is sorry, sah, but I couldn't help it."

"Brudder Johnson!" said the President in a voice which made Elder Toots shiver like a faded burdock in a winter's gale, "I want to say to you, an' to all other members of dis club freu you, dat no cull'd man in America has any bizness wid a theory—an original theory. If white folks has got time 'nuff an' money 'nuff to loaf around an' diskiver—in deir own minds—dat de moon am full o' jackasses which gallop up an' down, or dat de Norf star contains a race o' people who walk on deir heads an' feed demselves wid deir toes, dat's all right. De problem wid de cull'd man am, fust, bread an' butter; second, house rent an' raiment; third, sich eddicashun as will enable him an' his'n to write an' receive letters; keep posted on current events; figger up how much a week's wages comes to at a dollar a day; realize dat de Atlantic am upon one side of us an' de Pacific de odder, an' hev' de sense to go to de polls an' wote fur honest, decent candidates, no matter on what ticket deir names appear. I shan't fine you, an' I doan' want to expel you, but you will retire to de ante-room with Giveadam Jones fur de space of ten minits. If you hold to any pertickler theory arter he gets freu wid you it will be sunthin' you am perfeckly welcome to!'

ALL GONE.

When the "Kurnel" returned to the ha'l after the "proceedings' he was a changed man. One coat tail was entirely missing, the other badly battered, and his general appearance was that of a man who had met the tail-end of a cyclone in a country where there was nothing to hang to.

A RIGHT STEP.

A communication from Halifax, N. S., announced the fact that the colored residents of that locality, in order to protect themselves against the gradual usurpation of their rights by the white race, had formed "The Colored Peoples' Protective Society of Halifax," and had drawn the color line as follows:

1. White people will not be allowed at colored skating rinks.
2. Colored churches are for colored people only.
3. If the law won't protect our hen-roosts from white invaders our shot guns will.
4. White people will be allowed to ride in the same public vehicles with us, but they must behave themselves.

The Secretary of the Lime-Kiln Club was instructed to reply to the effect that the step thus taken was considered to be in the right direction, and that the Detroit organization was in full sympathy with the movement.

A COMING TREAT.

It was announced by the Secretary that at the next meeting he would read the l st of the poems sent in for the watermelon prize, and he assured the members that a rich treat was in store for them.

HE GOT IT.

Samuel Shin arose to ask for information. Suppose, for instance, he should come down some Saturday evening to open the hall for the regular meeting and should find a keg of powder just ready to explode and blow Paradise Hall into the middle of next year? Would he have a duty to perform? If so, what? He couldn't make up his mind whether to turn in a fire alarm or whistle for the police.

"In sich an event," replied the President as he looked over his spectacles at Samuel, "it would be your dooty to perish wid de hall. If you didn't do it, sah, you would be fined $10,000 at de nex' meetin', if not expelled. Dis club expecks ebery offishul to do his dooty widout shrinkin'. Let us now sing our closin' poems an' go home."

The Old-Fashioned Girl.

BY C. H. THAYER.

She does not work, she does not paint
Kensington patterns odd and quaint;
A crazy-quilt she ne'er hath made,
Nor stork on tidy yet essayed.

She cannot boast a cultured ear:
Beethoven's symphonies, I fear,
She'd call a bore, nor cares one bit
What Mrs. Grundy said of it.

She does not poke her elbows out,
Or paint her lips in scarlet pout,
Or smoke her eyebrows to a curve
As fascinating lure to serve.

She does not wear her sleeves so tight
She has to set her hat aright
Before she gets inside her dress
(As fashionable dames confess).

She's fond of horses and of big
And noble dogs; no canine prig
Or bloated and conceited pet
To lie upon aesthetic rug.

She never could be bought or sold;
Her love is worth a nation's gold.
And who is the favored one? Ah, well,
'Twould seem like boasting should I tell.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Hints.

A German writer gives this as a remedy for inflammatory rheumatism, of which malady he was cured in two days' time: Make a soup of the stalks and roots of celery. Cut the celery into bits, boil it in water till soft, then serve warm on pieces of toasted bread; drink the celery water. In Germany the roots and stalks are boiled and eaten as a salad with oil and vinegar.

Do not eat fruit skins or seeds. The skin of an apple is as bad for your child as a bit of your kid-glove would be; that of a grape more indigestible than sole-leather.

A polish for delicate cabinet work can be made as follows: Half a pint linseed oil, half-pint of old ale, the white of an egg, one ounce spirits of wine, one ounce spirits of salts. Shake well before using. A little to be applied to the face of a soft linen pad and lightly rubbed for a minute over the article to be polished.

Canned fruit should be kept in a cool, dry, dark closet. If one hasn't such a closet the fruit may be kept covered with paper or cloth and the light be excluded from it. Light seems to have an influence on canned fruit unfavorable and injurious to its flavor. Have any of our readers tried painting the outside of their glass cans to exclude light from them?

It is stated by a dietetic publication that baked milk possesses extraordinary properties of nourishment for consumptives, and invalids generally. This is the way to prepare it: Put a quart of good milk into a stone jar; cover with writing paper, and tie it down. Leave in a moderately hot oven for eight or ten hours, until it has the consistency of cream. Administered ad libitum.

Prof. Brinton says that the best thing for a sprain is to put the limb into a vessel of very hot water immediately, then add boiling water as it can be borne. Keep the part immersed for twenty minutes, or until the pain subsides; then apply a tight bandage, and order rest. Sometimes the joint can be used in twelve hours. If necessary, use a silicate of sodium dressing.

Choice Recipes.

CREAMED EGGS.—Boil twelve eggs hard and slice in thin rings; put in a baking dish a layer of bread crumbs, then a layer of eggs, and so on till the dish is full; season with salt pepper and butter; pour over a cup of sweet cream and bake to a nice brown in a moderate oven.

SPICED BEEF.—Chop a raw beefsteak and a piece of suet the size of an egg; season with salt, pepper and a little summer savory; add two eggs, four tablespoons cream, and a small piece of butter; mix, and work in a roll with flour enough to keep together; bake in a pan with a little butter and water; slice when cold.

BAKED CABBAGE.—Boil one head of cabbage fifteen minutes; change the water for fresh, and boil till tender; then set aside till cold; chop fine, add two beaten eggs, one tablespoon butter, three of cream, pepper and salt to taste; stir all well together, and bake in a buttered pudding dish till brown. Serve very hot.

ALMOND CREAM CAKE.—Make a good sponge cake; bake it a half-inch thick in jelly-cake tins and let the cakes get entirely cold. Have a pound of almonds blanched and pounded. Take a pint of thick, sweet cream and beat it until it looks like ice-cream; sweeten very sweet and flavor with vanilla, and lastly stir in the almonds, and put very thick between the layers of cake.

RICE CREAM.—To a pint of new milk add a quarter of a pound of ground rice, a lump of butter the size of a walnut, a little lemon peel, and a tablespoonful of powdered sugar. Boil them together for five minutes; then add half an ounce of isinglass which has been dissolved, and let the mitxure cool. When cool add half a pint of good cream whisked to a frost, stir all together well, and set on ice. When used, put any favorite preserve or canned fruit around it. Apple sauce is very nice.

Pickles.

I try to get the cucumbers as fresh as possible, all about the same size; latterly I have preferred to have them the size of my forefinger. It is hard work to put them up, and when they are so small nothing less than half a dozen or more will satisfy a genuine lover of pickles.

Let them lie in salt water over night, the strength of a small half teacup to the gallon. In the morning put them into clean, clear water for an hour. In your porcelain kettle put some weak vinegar, three large grape leaves in the bottom, a piece of alum the size of a large pea; put in your cucumbers, and cover with grape leaves. Let them cook till thoroughly hot through; then put into quart glass jars, adding a teaspoonful each of black and white mustard seed, white sugar, mustard, celery seed, a small red-pepper pod. Fill your cans with hot, strong vinegar, seal immediately, and set away for winter. Should you want them for immediate use, put into a crock and let them stand two days. You will find these the most toothsome, crisp, green pickles you ever ate.

I have quit using cloves and cinnamon, as it darkens them so and always gives them a bad color. For sweet pickles, though, such as pears, watermelon rind, etc., I use the cloves and cinnamon, but make a rich sweet and sour strup of sugar and vinegar. If you have an abundance of grapes, they are very nice as pickles. Pack the bunches in crocks, and pour over them a rich spiced vinegar for four mornings; then tie a cloth over them, then a sheet of wadding, then another cloth. This will keep equal to sealing wax.

India woman do not like to be doctored by men. Lady Dufferin is President of a society to educate women for merdica practice.

The railroads of the world are said to carry 6,500,000 passengers a day. It takes all this vast army to down the railway eating-house sandwiches.

An exchange asks: "What should we stuff onions with?" Most anything would be an improvement upon the original stuffing.

A new paper in Kansas is called the Thomas County Cat. A man in the same town proposes to start a rival journal called the Bootjack. He expects to make a hit.

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT SACHETS, placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc.—They drive away and destroy Moths and other insects, imparting a delightful and delicate perfume to the clothing, carried or worn upon the person they are by their powerful concentrated disinfectant properties, a perfect means of protection against infection of disease, giving off at the same time a most delightful odor; made entirely of satin in assorted colors very pretty, unique, and neat. Every one should have them. Price 10c each—three for 25c. Thymo-Cresol Soap, the great English disinfectant toilet soap, awarded the gold medal, London, Eng., 1884. Large cakes, price 15c., or 35c per box of 3 cakes, sent postage paid to any address upon receipt of price. Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 759 Craig St., Montreal. Circulars and descriptions of our English Thymo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application. Agents wanted. Write for terms.

CUT THIS OUT!

The New Co-Operative

Sewing Machine!

—IS THE—

BEST IN THE MARKET

NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE!

Latest Improved Attachments

Agents price for similar machine $60

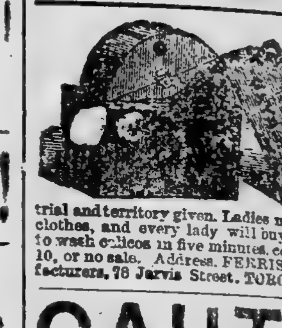
Our price only $25 each.

Before buying send us stamp for our elegant photo and sample of sewing.

Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.

Any lady wanting a machine will do well to write to

The Co-Operative



Sewing Machine Co.

22 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON

Allan Line Royal Mail Steam[ships]

Sailing during winter from Portland every [Thursday] and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, [and in summer] from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, [calling at Lon]donderry to land mails and passengers for [Scotland and] Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax [and St. John's,] N.F., to Liverpool fortnightly during [summer]. The steamers of the Glasgow lines sail during [winter] to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and [Philadel]phia; and during summer between Glasgow and [Mon]treal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and [Glasgow] and Philadelphia, fortnightly.

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Balti[more]; Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, [N.B.;] Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, [New] York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae [& Co.,] Quebec; Wm. Brookie, Philadelphia; H. [& A.] Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

trial and territory given. Ladies make ... agents; the ... clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; ... to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in ... 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 78 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada.

CAUTION

EACH PLUG OF THE

MYRTLE NA[VY]

IS MARKED

T. & B.

IN BRONZE LETTERS.

NONE OTHER GENU[INE]

QUEEN CITY OIL WORK[S]

AGAIN VICTORIOUS! HIGHEST HONORS AND GOLD MEDAL FOR

Peerless Oil

At Toronto. Every Barrel Guaranteed. This Oil was used on the Machinery during the Exhibition. It has been awarded GOLD MEDALS during the last three years. See that you get PEERLESS. It is only made by

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO., TORONTO

$10 Reward for the Conviction

Of Dealers who Sell in- ferior Oil ... Manufactur...

McCOLL'S

THE ABOVE REWARD

LARDINE

MACHINE OIL.

Eureka, Cylinder, Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. | For sale by all leading dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co., Toronto.

THE "SUNBEAM" WRINGER

ONLY $3.00.

THE CHEAPEST IN THE MARKET.

Warranted first-class, or money refunded. Send direct to manufacturers, or procure from your Hardware or House-Furnishing dealer.

ONLY ... CLOTHES W... OF ALL ... "Royal ... lian," "... al," "K... Mangle ... Roller ... Roller. ... particular...

Hamilton Industrial Works Co., Manufacturers, Hamilton.

MERIDEN

BRITANNIA

COMPANY.

FINEST

Electro Plate

CAUT[ION]

Goods stamp[ed] ... den Silver P[late] ... are not our ... you want relia[ble] ... insist on gett[ing] ... made by the ... MERIDEN B[RITAN]NIA C[O.], HAMILTON.

Examine Their Superior Merit!

GURNEY'S

NEW HARRIS HOT AIR FURNAC[E]

FOR WOOD

The Most Effective, Clean, Durable and Economical Heaters in the Market for warming and ventilating Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Stores and Private Residences. ... construction and easily managed, capable of giving more heat with less consumption of fuel than ... heating apparatus. Absolutely Gas Tight. Seven sizes are made and can be set in Brick or Portable Form. Correspondence solicited. For Catalogues and further information ...

THE E. & C. GURNEY CO.

(LIMITED.)

HAMILTON.

[A Sprig of] Purple Heather.

BY JAMES ...

A letter came to me to-day
From one at present far away,
And in its dainty folds there lay
A sprig of purple heather
Culled from the side of some great ben,
Or from some winding, fairy glen,
Where oft the blood of Highland men
Has deeper dyed the heather.

I kissed each lovely purple bell,
And breathed with joy its fragrant smell;
It made my bosom fondly swell,
This sprig of purple heather;
It made me long again to see
The lovely lips and lightsome e'e
Of her who fondly sent to me
This sprig of purple heather.

But autumn's gold must come and go,
And winter clothe with spotless snow
The mountains and the glens where grow
The thyme and purple heather;
Before I see my Bertha's face;
But for her sake I'll gently press,
And next my heart with fondness place,
This sprig of purple heather.

[A T]ERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

[By the] Author of "THE FLOWER GIRL," "LOVELY LADY LYNHURST," &c., &c.

CHAPTER V.—(CONTINUED.)

[Do]lly looked on with dry eyes, but ever-[increa]sing fear and agony in her heart. She [knew] instinctively, before the doctor had [utter]ed a word, what his verdict would be; [and w]hen he laid the head gently back on the [rough pillo]w Joe had improvised, and uttered the [one] syllable "dead" it was no surprise to [her].

"It is a terrible affair!" Doctor Seymour [said] slowly, as the three stood gazing down [with] different emotions upon the handsome [featu]res already fast stiffening in the icy [grasp] that held them. "Fearfully sudden [to be] thus cut off in the very prime of life, [w]ith such brilliant prospects before him! [Poor] Lady Braithwaite; it will be a sad [blow] for her and almost as great for Miss [Mainw]aring! Smith, I think it would be [best] for you to go to the Hall as quickly as [you c]an, and ask to see the butler; he will [know] best how to break the news. Perhaps [it w]ould be as well for you to say that the [Capt]ain is dangerously hurt; they will be [better] prepared to hear the truth, which will [be k]nown soon enough. I will remain here [and k]eep watch in the meantime."

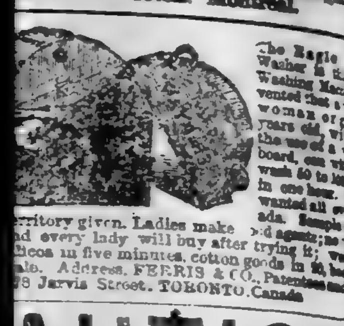
[He] started on his errand somewhat re[luc]tantly; he wished the Doctor had under[taken] it himself, and left him free to talk [to] Dolly. He had something he wished [partic]ularly to say to her, and he might [neve]r have such an opportunity. He dared [not], however do otherwise than obey the [com]mands he had received, and therefore [set o]ut on his mission without delay.

[W]hen he was out of sight, Doctor Seymour turned to Dolly and laid his hand gen[tly o]n her arm.

"You can do no good here, my child. This [poor] fellow is beyond all earthly care and [consi]deration, and you must think of your[self] now. Take my advice and return home [imme]diately before any one arrives from the [Hall]. Your presence here would only give [rise] to remarks and surmises, which are best [avoi]ded. Besides, your father doubtless [will] be growing anxious at your absence [from] home at this late hour."

"My father!" she repeated, raising one [hand] to her forehead in a confused manner; [and] the Doctor saw again that curious look [in he]r eyes, while a slight shiver passed [throu]gh her frame. "You are right," she [adde]d in a more natural tone; "he will be [anxi]ous, and since, as you say, I can do no [good], I will go now—only—only——" And [then], before Doctor Seymour could inter[fere], or was even aware of, her intention, [she] had flung herself upon her knees and [was] covering the dead man's hand with pas[sion]ate kisses. The next moment she had [sprun]g to her feet, and, throwing back her [head] with a gesture of defiance, she exclaim[ed p]roudly, "They say he would have mar[ried] Miss Mainwaring; but he loved me—[me—]Dolly Jarvis, the blacksmith's [dau]ghter!"

[Th]en she turned, and, without one back[ward] glance, moved rapidly away.



"Well, well, to be sure!" muttered the [worth]y Doctor, rubbing his hands slowly [toge]ther and staring after the retreating [figur]e a little blankly. "It's a strange [worl]d! The gossips were right, after all." [Bu]t, being no gossip himself, and discreet [as th]ose in his profession usually are, the [good] old Doctor never divulged to a single [soul] what had taken place after Joe's de[partu]re.

[M]eanwhile, Dolly sped on her way. At [first] she walked quickly, her feet keeping [pace] with the tumult of her thoughts, but [by] and by the high nervous tension began [to re]lax, the excitement which had borne [her u]p in a measure died away, and her [steps] lagged wearily. A sort of stupor be[gan] to creep over her, the shadows of the [trees] formed themselves into fantastic shapes, [which] seemed to her distorted fancy like so [man]y imps dancing round her and gloating [over] her misery.

[Sh]e wondered whether her father had [miss]ed her, whether he would be very an[gry] when he learned where and with whom [she] had been, whether even he would refuse [to re]ceive her into his house again. Well, it [did] not signify—nothing signified, now that [he w]as dead. Dead! Oh, no, it could not [be]. They had been talking together, he [had] just told her how much he loved her, [when] someone had struck him from behind. [I]t had all been so sudden, the assault and [the] deadly struggle that followed. She [had] been so alarmed that she had, after, [one] feeble protest, buried her face in her [hands] that she might not witness that terri[ble] fight. She had heard the deep breath[ing] of the men, the muttered imprecations, [and] then the sound of retreating foot[steps], and then there was silence—a silence [that] lasted so long that she was fain to look [up], and then she had seen that no trace re[mained] of the combatants—only the grass [trod]den down and the brambles broken [where] they had fought close—great Heaven [! clos]e to the edge of those huge boulders! [Faso]inated, drawn thither by some force [stron]ger than her own will, she had crept to [the he]ad of the rocks and looked over, to [see d]imly a figure lying there still and mo[tionless].

[Du]ring that terrible and lonely walk she [rea]cted the whole scene she had just gone [thro]ugh again and again. That other man [—] Harry's murderer—who was he?

Line Royal Mail Steamships
...uring winter from Portland every Thursday ...
...ex every Saturday to Liverpool, ...
...o land mails and passengers for Scotland ...
...ec every Saturday to Liverpool, ...
...o from Baltimore, via Halifax ...
...iverpool fortnightly during summer months ...
...ers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter ...
...n Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia ...
...during summer between Glasgow and Montreal ...
...y; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and ...
...elphia, fortnightly.
...eight, passage, or other information ...
...A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; ...
...& Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's, N. ...
...Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. ...
...Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, N. ...
...Bourlier, Toronto; A...
...Wm. Brookie, Philadelphia; R. ...
...ortland. Boston. Montreal.

The Eagle ... Washer ... Washing Ma... vented that a woman of ... years old ... the use of a wash board, can wash 50 to ... in one hour. ... wanted all over ... ada. Sample ... territory given. Ladies make ... and every lady will buy after trying it; ... ffices in five minutes, cotton goods ... ale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees ... 8 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada.

CAUTION
EACH PLUG OF THE MYRTLE NAVY
IS MARKED
T. & B.
IN BRONZE LETTERS.
NONE OTHER GENUINE.

OIL WORK...
... HONORS AND GOLD ...
...R
...ss Oil
... This Oil was used on ...
It has been awarded ...
... years. See that you ...
...y made by
... CO., TORONTO.

...he Conviction ...
...L'S ... ferior Oil of ...
Manufacture ...
...DINE
... OIL.
...ing dealers. McColl Bros. ... Toronto.

... WRINGER
ONLY ...
CLOTHES WR...
OF ALL KI...

"Royal ...
lian," "...
al," "King ...
Mangle ...
Roller and ...
Roller. W...
particulars ...
...nufacturers, Hamilton.

CAUTI...

Goods stamp...
...den Silver P... are not our ...
you want reliab...
insist on getti...
made by the MERIDEN B...
NIA CO...
HAMILTON.

...perior Merit
...EY'S
... AIR FURNAC...

...cal Heaters in the Market for ...
...tores and Private Residences ...
...eat with less consumption of fuel than ...
...even sizes are made and can be set ...
...e Catalogues and further information ...
...URNEY CO.
...)
...LTON.

A Sprig of Purple Heather.

BY JAMES GREIG.

A letter came to me to-day
From one at present far away,
And in its dainty folds there lay
A sprig of purple heather
Culled from the side of some great ben,
Or from some winding, fairy glen,
Where oft the blood of Highland men
Has deeper dyed the heather.

I kissed each lovely purple bell,
And breathed with joy the fragrant smell;
It made my bosom fondly swell,
This sprig of purple heather;
It made me long again to see
The loved lips and lightsome e'e
Of her who fondly sent to me
This sprig of purple heather.

But ere summer's gold must come and go,
And winter clothe with spotless snow
The mountains and the glens where grow
The thyme and purple heather
Before I see my Bertha's face;
But for her sake I'll gently press,
And next my heart with fondness place,
This sprig of purple heather.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

By the Author of "THE FLOWER GIRL," "LOVELY LADY LYNHURST," &c, &c.

CHAPTER V.—(CONTINUED.)

Dolly looked on with dry eyes, but ever-increasing fear and agony in her heart. She knew instinctively, before the doctor had said a word, what his verdict would be; when he laid the head gently back on the pillow Joe had improvised, and uttered the one syllable "dead" it was no surprise to her.

"It is a terrible affair!" Doctor Seymour said slowly, as the three stood gazing down with different emotions upon the handsome features already fast stiffening in the icy grasp that held them. "Fearfully sudden to be thus cut off in the very prime of life, and with such brilliant prospects before him! Poor Lady Braithwaite; it will be a sad blow for her and almost as great for Miss Mainwaring! Smith, I think it would be well for you to go to the Hall as quickly as you can, and ask to see the butler; he will know best how to break the news. Perhaps it would be as well for you to say that the Captain is dangerously hurt; they will be better prepared to hear the truth, which will be known soon enough. I will remain here and keep watch in the meantime."

Joe started on his errand somewhat reluctantly; he wished the Doctor had undertaken it himself, and left him free to talk to Dolly. He had something he wished particularly to say to her, and he might never have such an opportunity. He dared not however do otherwise than obey the commands he had received, and therefore set out on his mission without delay.

When he was out of sight, Doctor Seymour turned to Dolly and laid his hand gently on her arm.

"You can do no good here, my child. This poor fellow is beyond all earthly care and consideration, and you must think of yourself now. Take my advice and return home immediately before any one arrives from the Hall. Your presence here would only give rise to remarks and surmises, which are best avoided. Besides, your father doubtless must be growing anxious at your absence from home at this late hour."

"My father!" she repeated, raising one hand to her forehead in a confused manner; and the Doctor saw again that curious look in her eyes, while a slight shiver passed through her frame. "You are right," she said in a more natural tone; "he will be anxious, and since, as you say, I can do no good, I will go now—only—only——" And then, before Doctor Seymour could interfere, or was even aware of, her intention, she had flung herself upon her knees and was covering the dead man's hand with passionate kisses. The next moment she had risen to her feet, and, throwing back her head with a gesture of defiance, she exclaimed proudly, "They say he would have married Miss Mainwaring; but he loved me—me—Dolly Jarvis, the blacksmith's daughter!"

Then she turned, and, without one backward glance, moved rapidly away.

"Well, well, to be sure!" muttered the worthy Doctor, rubbing his hands slowly together and staring after the retreating figure a little blankly. "It's a strange world! The gossips were right, after all."

But, being no gossip himself, and discreet as those in his profession usually are, the good old Doctor never divulged to a single soul what had taken place after Joe's departure.

Meanwhile, Dolly sped on her way. At first she walked quickly, her feet keeping pace with the tumult of her thoughts, but by-and-by the high nervous tension began to relax, the excitement which had borne her up in a measure died away, and her feet lagged wearily. A sort of stupor began to creep over her, the shadows of the trees formed themselves into fantastic shapes, which seemed to her distorted fancy like so many imps dancing round her and gloating over her misery.

She wondered whether her father had missed her, whether he would be very angry when he learned where and with whom she had been, whether even he would refuse to receive her into his house again. Well, it did not signify—nothing signified, now that Harry was dead. Dead! Oh, no, it could not be! They had been talking together, he had just told her how much he loved her, when someone had struck him from behind. It had all been so sudden, the assault and the deadly struggle that followed. She had been so alarmed that she had, after one feeble protest, buried her face in her hands that she might not witness that terrible fight. She had heard the deep breathing of the men, the muttered imprecations, a heavy fall, the sound of retreating footsteps, and then there was silence—a silence that lasted so long that she was fain to look up; and then she had seen that no trace remained of the combatants—only the grass trodden down and the brambles broken where they had fought close—great Heaven! close to the edge of those huge boulders! Fascinated, drawn thither by some force stronger than her own will, she had crept to the edge of the rocks and looked over, to see only a figure lying there still and motionless.

During that terrible and lonely walk she lived the whole scene she had just gone through again and again. That other man—Harry's murderer—who was he? She had not seen his face nor heard his voice—and yet, just for one horrible moment, she had fancied he bore a strange resemblance to——

Oh, no, no, a thousand times, no; it was not possible! The man who had struck her lover down must have been some one who owed him a deadly grudge, perhaps a poacher whom the young officer had been the means of getting convicted, and who had waited for an opportunity to avenge himself; and yet why had she—Dolly said it was an accident—why had she not boldly denounced the assassin?

Ah, why, indeed? What motive could have influenced her to make her endeavour to shield one whom she would naturally have been the first to denounce she could not tell. She was only conscious of a strange confusion of ideas, a dread of she knew not what.

When at last she reached home, she stood for a moment half hesitating before she timidly knocked with her hand on the door. A brief pause, and then there was a sound of approaching footsteps, the bolts were drawn slowly back, and a voice like—yet so unlike—her father's asked hoarsely, "Who is there?"

"It is I, father—Dolly. Don't you know me?" the girl said tremulously as the door was opened cautiously, and she crossed the threshold.

Adam drew the bolts again and followed Dolly into the kitchen. As the light fell upon him the girl uttered a little cry of alarm. Could that old, worn, haggard-looking man be her father, the jovial blacksmith? Surely he never before had that stoop in his shoulders, and his eyes—oh, why did they regard her so coldly, so strangely? Had she sinned so deeply as to have alienated his affection and wrought this terrible change in him within a few short hours?

"Well, girl, what have you to say?" Adam questioned sharply.

"Oh, father, father," Dolly cried, stretching out both hands towards him, and falling upon her knees before him, "don't look at me like that—it will kill me! I have done wrong; I should have trusted you and told you all; but, oh, if I have sinned, I have been bitterly punished!"

"How—how?" asked Adam huskily: and the girl shivered at the sound of that strained unnatural voice.

"He is dead!" the girl answered briefly, with something like a wail.

"Dead!" Had Adam spoken, or was it a groan?

Dolly raised her head and glanced fearfully up at him. He was standing with arms crossed on his brawny chest, his eyes staring straight before him—unconscious even of her presence.

"Father!" the girl repeated in frightened tones; and then her glance fell upon his shirt-front and travelled down to the wristbands. What were those dark red spots besprinkled here and there? Dolly's eyes grew dark and distended, whilst they looked like those of some hunted wild animal. "Father!" she gasped, staggering to her feet and taking a step backwards. "Speak! What is this, horrible thing? It—it is not true! Great Heaven—oh, say it is not true! I was wrong—when I suspected—ah, tell me that I am going mad!"

Then Adam Jarvis's strained gaze relaxed and his eyes, filled with a strange regret and hopelessness, met those of his daughter steadily, as he answered slowly and distinctly—

"You are not going mad, Dolly; but I was mad when, in a fit of ungovernable passion, I struck down the man who had dared to wrong my daughter."

Scarcely had the words left his lips when, with a cry that rang in Adam's ears until the day of his death, Dolly fell forward senseless at his feet.

CHAPTER VI.

Sir Ralph and Lady Braithwaite were entertaining a large circle of guests at the Hall. There were some old friends of the Baronet, and several young men, his sons' friends, for this was the eve of the twelfth of August, and the sportsmen were looking forward to having a fine time of it on the Yorkshire moors.

But the lords of creation were not to have it all their own way. A number of ladies had been invited to share their host's hospitality, and to keep Lady Braithwaite and Miss Mainwaring in countenance, as the latter laughingly protested.

It had been decided that there should be dancing every evening—not a regular ball, but just a homely affair—that form of amusement being the most in favour with the young people; whilst their elders repaired to the smoking-room, or sought refuge in the smaller drawing-room, where card tables were set out, for Sir Ralph had a great partiality for whist.

Geraldine Mainwaring was in her own room; she had been lying down to refresh herself for the coming festivities. Dinner had been delayed half an hour in deference to the expected arrival of more visitors. The first dressing-bell had not yet rung when a knock sounded at Miss Mainwaring's door; and, in answer to that young lady's "Entrez," her maid Celeste came in.

Geraldine was wearing a pale primrose tea gown, in which she had appeared during the afternoon, and which suited her style of beauty to perfection; she had loosened her hair, which fell in rich luxuriance below her waist. There was a happy light in her dark eyes, although her thoughts were evidently wandering, or she must have noticed the unusual perturbation of the Frenchwoman's manner.

But Celeste needed no encouragement to speak, for hardly had she crossed the threshold when she lifted both her hands and shook her head in a way that was exceedingly expressive.

"But, mademoiselle, this is terrible, n'est ce pas?" she cried. "Oh, what unhappiness—the beau monsieur—I can hardly believe it!"

"Believe what?" Geraldine asked sharply, resenting the maid's freedom of speech.

"Then mademoiselle has not heard? I am the first to bring the news so ill!"

"What do you mean? Tell me quickly!" Geraldine cried, a strange fear seizing her.

But it seemed that Celeste either could not or would not speak lucidly, for now she wrung her hands, exclaiming—

"Ah, le pauvre Capitaine—so young and si beau! Milady, it is too sad!"

"Do you mean Captian Braithwaite? Has anything happened to him?" asked Geraldine, her cheeks growing ashy pale, her dark eyes fixed piercingly upon the maid, as though she would read her inmost soul.

"Mais oui," Celeste said slowly. I heard it but just now. He has been found——"

"Well?"—impatiently, as the maid paused.

"Murdered—killed, what do you called it? at the bottom of a so dangerous precipice."

A low moan broke from Geraldine's white lips as she repeated the terrible word.

"Murdered? Great Heaven, it is impossible! There must be some mistake, Celeste; it is ridiculous. Harry—Captain Braithwaite could have no enemies who should want to harm him!" She spoke rapidly, trying, as it were, to convince herself of the falsity of Celeste's story, yet all the while feeling vaguely that it must be true. "Ah," she went on, as she noticed Celeste's ill concealed eagerness, yet evident timidity to say more, "you know something further—you have not told me all!"

"Pardon, milady, no; but it is only a canard—gossip perhaps. I would rather not say; mademoiselle will hear it soon enough."

"I insist on knowing now—at once," Geraldine cried, springing forward and clutching Celeste's arm in a vice-like grip, as though she feared she would endeavour to escape.

The maid gave a little scream of alarm, and that moment heartily wished she had left her news to be told by other lips than her own. It was too late however to draw back, she knew her mistress's character too well not to be certain that nothing but the whole truth would satisfy her now.

"Tell me, do you hear?" Miss Mainwaring repeated, giving her a shake that made her teeth chatter, partly from fright and partly from the suddenness of the assault.

"I—I—they say that Captain Braithwaite was pushed over the precipice by a girl," Celeste jerked out, "the daughter of a smith who is black. She is very pretty, on dit, and monsieur le Capitaine used some times to talk to her." The woman having found her tongue, went on glibly enough now. "And then it is supposed—for of course no one can tell for certain—that she had heard monsieur was going to be married and was jealous."

At the last word Miss Mainwaring released Celeste as suddenly as she had seized her.

"There—that will do!" she said, with a harsh laugh, that sounded strange in the circumstances. "I shall not need your services, Celeste; so you may go. No"—as the girl was about to speak—"I should prefer to be alone."

So the maid had no alternative but to obey, though she glanced a little dubiously at her young mistress as she turned to leave the room.

"Ma foi, but she shows a strange sang-froid!" Celeste muttered, as she traversed the corridor. "One would hardly believe that she has just received the news of her lover's death. And the other girl? Ah, I can understand that! If he were perfide, what else could she do?"

The girl shrugged her shoulders, and her black eyes flashed, as if in sympathy with that "other girl."

Meanwhile, Miss Mainwaring, left to herself, dropped no her knees, and stretching out her arms on the chintz-covered couch, bowed her head upon them in the very acme of despair.

It never occurred to her for one moment to doubt the truth of Celeste's statement. Her cousin was dead. She accepted the fact unquestioningly; but no tears came to relieve her tortured heart. She was stunned, paralysed, as it were; but it was not even Harry Braithwaite's tragical fate that caused that intolerable anguish. At that moment she felt she could have born to lose him, had she know he had been true to her. It was the fact of his having been the contrary that was the greatest blow of all.

That he was dead seemed to her but a small affair, since he had not loved her—nay, even in her bitter despair and degradation, she was almost glad that it was so—glad that he would never belong to another woman, since she had lost him. It was a poor satisfaction, after all, and it brought but temporary comfort. The little ormolu clock on the mantelpiece chimed the hour and still Geraldine crouched beside the couch, her dark unbound hair falling in wild disorder around her; great dark rims encircled her eyes, her hands were dry and feverish, but still she had not wept.

Presently there was a knock at the door. It was not like Celeste's brisk little tap; and, as if in a dream, Geraldine slowly rose and opened it.

On the threshold stood Lady Braithwaite white and trembling, with traces of excessive grief on her pale face and a general air of abandonment to sorrow.

"Forgive me, my dear, I could not come before," she said, entering at once, and closing the door softly behind her. "You have heard——"

"I know all," Geraldine answered, in a cold hard voice, so strangely unlike her own that Lady Braithwaite glanced at her nervously and shivered.

"Who told you?"

"Celeste."

After that brief question and answer there fell a silence upon the two women which neither of them seemed inclined to break.

"You will forgive him—oh, Geraldine, you must forgive him!" cried the elder lady at last, looking up with eyes swimming with tears. "I know you are judging him harshly. You said you knew all; but that is not possible—nobody knows! Yet there may be, there must be some explanation for his interview with that wretched girl!"

"No doubt he had deceived her, as—as he did me," Miss Mainwaring said bitterly, with no softening of her voice, but with the hard lines round her mouth growing still harder.

"You are cruel—cruel and unjust!" cried Lady Braithwaite, bursting into a fit of passionate weeping. "Oh, my boy, my bonnie boy!"

If the sight of her aunt's grief moved her, Geraldine made no sign. A statue of Parian marble could not have been more chill and calm and motionless. She stood with her hands loosely clasped in front of her, gazing steadily and unseeingly before her. Lady Braithwaite's fit of weeping ended at last—indeed, it seemed as if the fount of her tears were exhausted. She lay back in her chair now almost as motionless as Geraldine herself.

"Where have they taken him?"

It was Geraldine who asked the question in clear unfaltering tones.

"Into the library. If you could see him—oh, Geraldine, you loved him once—you would forget his faults, and—and think of him more kindly!"

"Yes; I loved him once," the girl repeated slowly. "How long ago that seems now! I made a hero of him, I believed him unselfish, true, and noble, a chivalrous gentleman, generous and brave—I believed him all this and much more—until an hour ago. Now that my idol has fallen from the pedestal on which I raised it, I can see of what very ordinary clay it was composed. Are you surprised that I am disappointed? No, aunt Bessie; it is because I loved your son so dearly that I cannot find it in my heart to forgive his——"

"Stop, stop!" broke in Lady Braithwaite, putting her hands up to to her ears. "If—if he has wronged you, remember he is dead!"

"Do not let us talk about it any more," Geraldine said, with a weary gesture. "He was your son, and——"

"And your lover," interrupted Lady Braithwaite again.

"Say rather Dolly Jarvis's," Miss Mainwaring rejoined, with a dangerous flash in her dark eyes.

Lady Braithwaite rose from her chair. Her face looked drawn and haggard; the shock had aged her terribly. Geraldine, glancing at her for the first time, noticed the change, and a sudden revulsion of feeling came over her. Her own trouble was great enough, but hardly so great as that of the mother who had seen her best-loved son struck down by a murderous hand while yet in the very prime of manhood and strength. Miss Mainwaring moved a step or two forward, and, as her aunt reached the door; she bent forward and kissed her gently.

"I am grieved for you, dear aunt," she said softly. "In thinking of my own wounds, I have overlooked yours. Forgive me if I have seemed harsh and unfeeling."

Lady Braithwaite only replied by a pressure of the hand, and the next moment Geraldine was left alone once more.

All through the hours of that memorable night the girl fought with her sorrow. Celeste came again to ask whether she could do anything for her young lady, but for the second time was summarily dismissed.

When all was still, in the small hours of the morning, a tall pale figure enveloped in a loose cashmere robe came slowly down the broad oak staircase. In one hand Geraldine carried a shaded lamp, with the other she held up her trailing skirts. Now and again she paused and glanced anxiously around, but at length she reached her goal. With fingers that trembled a little, she unfastened the library door and entered.

In the centre of the room, on a hastily improvised bier, the outlines of a figure could be clearly defined beneath the white covering. Half a dozen wax candles were sending a pale gleam across the chamber, making the shadows in the corners appear more deep by contrast.

Geraldine had closed the door softly behind her, and, now setting down the lamp she slowly drew near that central object. Her hands were clasped tightly on her bosom, which was heaving tumultuously, her breath came in thick gasping sobs, her eyes were fixed and strained, whilst her face in its ghastly pallor was almost as death-like as those other emotionless features upon which she was presently gazing.

How calm and peaceful he looked! There was one ugly wound on the left temple, otherwise the face itself was not disfigured, though the hair was in one place clotted with blood, and the left hand was terribly crushed. Death, even in that cruel form, had not robbed Harry Braithwaite of his good looks; he had been considered one of the handsomest men in the county. The fair locks still clustered round his broad white brow; but there was a strange expression on his face—a little tender smile was frozen on his lips which the half-open eyes belied in their startled appearance.

It seemed almost impossible to believe that he was really dead. Only a few hours ago he had ridden forth at Geraldine's side in all the abandonment of youth and good health. How gaily he had laughed and talked, how proud she had been of her handsome lover! And now—now, at the sight of his inanimate form, a wave of tender memory began to stir the girl's heart. In his presence she forgot all his failings, even that he had been untrue to her; she remembered him only at his best, she recalled the time when they were children together, and, later, when he had been her boyish slave and admirer—ay, even the happy days they had passed in each other's society up to a few hours ago. Dolly Jarvis slipped from her memory altogether, or was banished as a hideous nightmare.

And, so living over again the past, as she stood there, all Geraldine's cold, proud reserve gave way, the ice that had been encircling her heart melted sudddenly and her bitter resentment was replaced by the old tender feeling. In an agony of remorse and repentance, she flung herself upon her knees beside her cousin's still form; and, taking his cold hand in her own feverish palms, she bathed it with tears, kissing it passionately again and again.

"Oh, my love, my love," she cried, "forgive me that I ever entertained one hard or cruel thought against you! For who am I that I should judge another?"

And in that hour of bitter anguish Geraldine Mainwaring's wounded self-love was healed.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Bill Simpson's Darter.

No matter how hard and ugly the truth is, it is more pleasing than the affectation of what is not real. Exposure is certain to follow people who try to go through life behind a mask of false pretenses. We have little sympathy for people like "Bill Simpson's darter." A gentleman traveling from Toronto to New York city tells the story:

At Niagara, two ladies, dressed in the extreme of fashion, entered the car. Their manners indicated great affectation and consequent shallowness.

The only unoccupied seat in the car was directly behind a quite-looking lady, evidently from the country. Her dress was of calico, her bonnet of plain straw, and her her gloves were of cotton. She could not, however, have looked neater, and she had a good, honest face.

As the fashionable ladies adjusted their draperies in the unoccupied seat, one of them said to the other:

"Don't you think it too bad that there are now such poor accommodations on railroad trains?"

"How—in what way?" asked the companion.

"Why here we are crowded with all classes of people, some of them so common. Look at that person in front of us.

"Horrid, isn't she?"

"Perfectly dreadful."

"Looks like a common laborer.

"How annoying to have to come in contact with such people!"

"Belongs to some ordinary family. If one could only exclude one's self from such persons when traveling even short distance! I suppose its horrid in me to say it, but I have all my life had such a repugnance to common laboring people.

The lady in the calico dress must have heard a part of this conversation, but her face was perfectly composed.

At that moment, an elderly man in home-spun and home-made garments of a farmer, came down the aisle. He stopped before the ladies of fashion, closely scrutinized the features of the one havin "such a repugnance to common people," and just as the train stopped at a station, cried out loud enough to be heard by every person in the car:

"Lookee hyar, ain't you old Bill Simpson's darter? But I know you air 'thout askin'. How de do, anyhow? You dont change a speck. Got the same nose you had when you wor a little gal o' twelve or fifteen years, trottin' b'rfoot round my old farm in Podunk county.

"Yer mind how I youst ter give yer two bits a day an' yer dinner for helpin' my younguns dig taters! Ho! ho! ho!"

The young lady had dropped her beaded veil, and was nervously biting at her fan, but the farmer went on heedlessly;

"They's been mighty changes sinces then. Your pap went out to Coloraday, an' made a big fortin' thar, an' I hear you live in great style. But Bill Simpson ain't the man to fergit old frens, an' you tell 'im that you've saw old Jack Billings,, what youst to give him a-menny a day's work when he was so pore his family had ter wait till the hens laid 'fore they could hev any breakfast. You kin remember that yerself, I reckon. An' there wa'n't nobody gladder nor me when yer pap did git rich so suddint, for he was a mighty hard-workin' blacksmith, an' always pore 'cause of bad luck. My wife sez that she lost an awful good washer-woman when yer ma moved, an'—I git off here. Good-by! good-by!"

The meekest, most subdued person on that train during the rest of the trip was "Bill Simpson's darter,"

PIOUS SMILES.

A Georgia man has a hen twenty years old caring for a large brood of little chickens of her own hatching. This would go to show that hens are good for something else besides eating.

"Two hundred and forty bones in the human body," is the way it reads in the books; but a short acquaintance with a boarding house mattress will make almost any man of spare build bet his last collar button there hasn't been a fair count.

Digby met a friend who is terribly given to fibbing, and accosted him thus; "Been to church to-day, Jones?" "No," was the quick response; "I've been on the bed nearly all day," "Just as I expected," chimed in Digby; "you're always lying."

A young wife lately lost her husband, who was seventy years old. "But how did you happen to marry a man of that age?" asked one of her friends. "Why," said the young widow, "you see I only had the choice between two old men, and, of course, I took the oldest."

At a wake near Mallow one of the wakers named Horan fell asleep, and while he was unconscious a red-hot poker was put down his back. He sprang up, and in his writhing to get the poker out he only burned his body more. Finally he rushed out and jumped into a pool of water, and now he will probably die.

A story is told of the reporter of a Jewish paper who prepared an abstract of his rabbi's sermons, and on one occasion read it to the rabbi himself. "Stop! stop!" said he, at the occurrence of a certain sentence, "I didn't say that." "I know you didn't," was the reply; "I put that in to make sense."

An English clergyman asked an uneducated woman whether she liked his written or unwritten sermons the best. After thinking a few moments she said: "Why, I loike yo the best without the book, because yo keep saying the same thing over and over again, and that helps me to remember what I hear a good deal better."

When a man with two heavy satchels is running to catch a street car and a small boy turns the corner just in time to get all tangled up with his legs, it is not perhaps the most fitting moment to shove a tract into his pocket addressed to "the profane man," but it is very apt to strike the market for which it was manufactured.

Two men were discussing material used for building purposes, and among the rest laths. Commenting on the fact that the price of laths were comparatively high, one of them remarked: "I don't see what in the world keeps laths up," when a third party, who never lets a chance go when he sees it, made the simple reply: "Nails."

A Scotch minister was once ordered "beef tea" by his physician. The next day the patient complained that it made him sick. "Why, minister," said the doctor, "I'll try the tea mysel'." So, putting some in a skillet, he warmed it, and told the minister it was excellent. "Man," said the minister, "is that the way ye sup it?" "What ither way should it be suppit? It's excellent, I say, minister." "It may be gude that way, doctor; but try it wi' the cream and sugar, man! try it wi' that, and then see hoo ye like it!"

"Gentlemen are requested not to shoot when an honorable member is in line with the Augustus P. Collins window.' This pathetic inscription was once to be found in the place of meeting of a Western Legislature. Augustus P. Collins had patriotically presented the Senate with a valuable stained-glass window, and it was felt that it would be unworthy of an economic State to get it broken by casual revolver shots. Legislators could shoot each other or the Speaker just as well without "drawing a bead" on the Augustus P. Collins window.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued every Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch

Casual advertisements 5 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion 5 cents each subsequents insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the option of the publisher.

JOB PRINTING.

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.
Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.
A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.
OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-1y
J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown.
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.
Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel. Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.
122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,
WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERF CT FIT GUARANTEED.

W. C. RICHARDS,
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.
124ly

ISAAC STINSON,
Builder and Contractor
In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
MARKDALE, - - ONT.
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.
EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.
J. McAleer, - - Prop.
The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

MARKDALE
Roller Mill
Bran $9 a ton
J. W. FORD.

WM. G. GUTHERIE,
Plain & Ornamental Plaster
Opposite the new
Presbyterian Church Markdale.
Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.
Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.
Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.
126-1y.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.
The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of School Furniture,
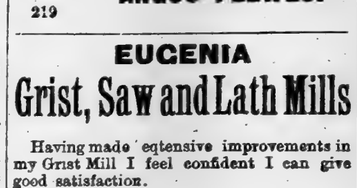
Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW McGILL.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor
Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.



Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.
—THIS NEW—
Patent Process Flouring Mill
Is now completed at great expense, on the
Most APPROVED
plans, and with the best machinery manufactured, making it, in every sense of the term, "A Model Mill."
I am therefore in a position to give the public a Superior Article of Flour.
A fair trial respectfully solicited and I have no fear but the result will be eminently satisfactory.
Cash paid for good hard Wheat.
Flour, Bran, Shorts, etc, etc, for sale wholesale & retail.
ANGUS PLEWES.
219

EUCENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills
Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.
GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND
Chopping Done Every Day.
Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.
LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.
Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied
Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.
A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.
—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM
FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LOOK! Look! Look!
James C. Russell's
NOTED JEWELLERY STORE,
FLESHERTON,
Is the place to buy
Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.
A large assortment just to hand.
A 1 Solid Silver Watches, Full Jewelled, from $8.50 up to $26, worth from $10.50 to $32.00, warranted from two to five years.
It will pay you to come twenty miles to have your Watch or Clock repaired by Russell.
Satisfaction guaranteed every time.
217-269 JAS. C. RUSSELL.

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.
Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble
Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

For Sale by Walker Bros.

MARKDALE.

NEW GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.
Having just received a
Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF Teas,
Sugars,
Tobacco, &c,
Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.
I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.
198 J. PLEWES.

J. J. DALTON.
DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R'Y
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE
Taking effect Monday, August 3rd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 45pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Caledon	9 25 "	6 46 "
Orangeville { Arrive	9 50 "	7 06 "
Orangeville { Leave	10 05 "	7 22 "
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	7 34 "
Shelburne	10 45 "	8 04 "
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 30 "
Flesherton	11 36 "	8 55 "
Markdale	11 51 "	9 10 "
Williamsford	12 12pm	9 32 "
Chatsworth	12 28 "	9 48 "
Owen Sound	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 35pm
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 10 "
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 30 "
Markdale	6 27 "	3 52 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 06 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 31 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 57 "
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "	5 22 "
Orangeville { Arrive	8 12 "	5 35 "
Orangeville { Leave	8 35 "	5 55 "
Caledon	8 55 "	6 13 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Toronto....Arrive	10 45 "	8 20 "

Special Steamship Express leaves Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays for Toronto and Points East, on arrival C. P. R. Steamship from Port Arthur and Points in Manitoba and North-West.

YOU CAN SUBSCRIBE
For any of The
FOLLOWING PAPERS
AT THIS OFFICE:

Daily or Weekly Mail,	Toronto.
Daily os Weekly Globe,	Toronto.
Daily or Weekly News,	Toronto.
Daily World	Toronto.
Family Herald and Weekly Star,	Montreal.
American Agriculturist,	Monthly.
Farmers' Advocate,	Monthly.

Subscription can commence at any time.
STANDARD OFFICE,
MARKDALE.

THE CELEBRATED DR CHASE'S MANDRAKE DANDELION LIVER CURE

HAVE YOU
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a deranged liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure and certain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with many other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood. 500,000 SOLD
Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Book were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE
Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Recipe Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful recipes pronounced by medical men and druggists as invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.
TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.
TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25 cts. per box.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
E. SOMANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Bradford

Speddings Speedy Saw
THE GREAT ONE MANS SAW, IT HAS no equal, average weight 35lbs., a boy ten years of age can run it. One man sawed 3 cords of hard wood in three hours and forty minutes. Avents write for particulars and secure territory at once. Address
SPEEDY SAW WORKS,
Byng, P.O., Ont.
152-65
June 30th, '85.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,
And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.
T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

Mar

VOL. 5.--No. 265.

erybody, Attention!
New Goods now in.
merican Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,
Spectacles,
Musical Instruments and Strings.
Warrants honestly kept goods or work.
W. A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller.

ocal and Other] tems.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit individual or Society will be charged ten cts a line for the first insertion and five cts a line each subsequent insertion.

THE Weekly Globe to 1st January 87 for $1.

THE Weekly Mail to 1st January 87 for $1.

THE Weekly News to 1st January 87 for $1.

SINGLE barrel gun for sale, apply to ith, the barber.

MRS. MONTGOMERY returned last k from Allenford.

MRS. E. SALYERDS, of Teeswater, is guest of Mr. Thomas.

HAVE you seen the elegant stock of Millinery at McFarland's?

THE STANDARD to 1st January 1887 new subscribers for $1. cash.

FOR Bedsteads, Mattrasses, and ring Beds, go to Grant & Co.

WE had a call on Friday last from e Keefer, now of Forest, Ont.

MISS CLARA BURNS, of Toronto, is ending a few days in Markdale.

40 cases Boots & Shoes, all solid ther, rattling value, at McFarland's.

MISS MINNIE DOUGLAS returned from iting friends in Toronto on Monday.

A LETTER from James A. Rowe, an., to hand and will appear next eek.

EAST Grey prize list is crowded out d will have to lay over until next eek.

THE next sitting of the Division ourt will be held in Flesherton the rd October.

FOR a Fleury, Wilkinson, or McGill ough, go to W. Jackson, opposite TANDARD office.

JOHN LARGE, of Shelburne, has rchased another fine new boat for ruiser's Lake.

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP is ghly recommended for all humors skin diseases.

Black Cashmeres 25, 35, 45 and 50 nts up, warranted fast dyes, Import-Direct, at McFarland's.

THE corner stone of a new ethodist church at Corbetton was d on Tuesday, the 29th ult.

THE Weekly Star for $1. to end of 86. Call and leave your subscription one or more of those papers.

Freeman's Worm Powders are eeable to take, and expel all kinds worms from children or adults.

GOOD HAND.—First class cooking ve No. 9, trimmed and complete $15.50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale.

NATIONAL acting on Bowels, re

MR. S. appointme County C

SHILOH relieve Cr Bronchiti

800,000 ling's mill Weber. presented.

W. McI choice lot can and than any

MRS. M was afflict of which w of Dr. Lo

SAY, bos his Boots one in tow for cash a Loss BY on the Gr troyed by ult. Loss

Scho plete asso other Scho the Medica

THE per brushes fr on Sunday them to R. as he is kn

A NASAL bottle of Price 50 c Co.

MR. W. this week f and the going thro R. before

SHILOH positive cu and Cank Turner & C

MRS. Jos J. W. Fore at Warsha after a sho by remitta

WHY Shiloh's C relief. Pr Sold by A

FIRE.—T Maple Val Plewes 26 owned by on Sunday

THE Re Bourbon, and wife Consumpti Turner &

WE noti M. Richar Flesherton East Grey that will e

PARK lo Beautiful reasonable born, Will office.

MR. ANI vertise, he for sale rec who purch after the a

FOR Dys you have every bottl never fail Turner & C

THE beat last two w present o showers of by flurries order.

THE catt Saturday w and a num and bough cattle. Ov in about an ADIAN PACIFIC R. R.

WEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
effect Monday, August 3rd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
....Leave	7 20am	4 45pm
l Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Arrive	9 25 "	6 45 "
Leave	9 50 "	7 08 "
ille Jun	10 05 "	7 22 "
ne	10 17 "	7 34 "
	10 45 "	8 04 "
on	11 10 "	8 30 "
e	11 36 "	8 55
sford	11 51 "	9 10
rth	12 28 "	9 32 "
ound	1 00 "	9 49 "
		10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
ound	5 20am	2 35pm
rth	5 50 "	3 10 "
sford	6 05 "	3 30 "
e	6 27 "	3 52 "
on	6 42 "	4 06 "
	7 06 "	4 31 "
ne	7 31 "	4 57 "
ille Jun	8 00 "	5 23 "
Arrive	8 12 "	5 35 "
Leave	8 35 "	5 55 "
Junction	8 55 "	6 13 "
....Arrive	10 45 "	8 20 "

l Steamship Express leaves Owen n Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays nto and Points East, on arrival C. P. nship from Port Arthur and Points
oba and North-West.

CAN SUBSCRIBE
For any of The LOWING PAPERS
AT THIS OFFICE:

Weekly Mail, - - - Toronto.
Weekly Globe, - - - Toronto.
Weekly News, - - - Toronto.
orld - - - - - - - Toronto.
Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal.
n Agriculturist, - - - Monthly.
Advocate, - - - - Monthly.
Subscription can commence at ne.
TANDARD OFFICE,
MARKDALE.

THE CELEBRATED
Dr CHASE'S MANDRAKE
DANDELION
LIVER CURE

HAVE YOU
plaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back, s, or any disease arising from a derange
CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
lified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is plaint rests solely with the fact that it is d from nature's well-known liver regulators, E AND DANDELION, combined with many luable roots, barks and herbs, having a fect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and
500,000 SOLD
alf million of Dr. Chase's Recipe in Canada alone. We want every man, d child who is troubled with Liver Com
y this excellent remedy.
OMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE round every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure ble Household Medical Guide and Recip ages), containing over 200 useful recipes by medical men and druggists as invalu orth ten times the price of the medicine.
SE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive
Price, 25 cents.
E'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25 cts. per box.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
ISON & CO., Sole Agents, Bradford.

dings Speedy Saw

GREAT ONE MANS SAW, IT no equal, average weight 35lbs., a ears of age can run it. One man cords of hard wood in three hours minutes. Agents write for parti l secure territory at once. Address
SPEEDY SAW WORKS,
Byng, P.O., Ont.
0th, '85. 152-65

urdock
BLOOD BITTERS.
LL CURE OR RELIEVE NESS, DIZZINESS,
SIA, DROPSY,
STION, FLUTTERING
CE. OF THE HEART,
ELAS, ACIDITY OF HEUM, THE STOMACH,
URN, DRYNESS
HE, OF THE SKIN, species of disease arising from ed LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH,
BOWELS OR BLOOD.
BURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 265. MARKDALE, ONT., OCT. 8, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH.

eryboby, Attention!

New Goods now in.

merican Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,
Spectacles,

Musical Instruments and Strings.

Warrants honestly kept goods or work.

W. A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller.

ocal and Other Items.

Notices in these columns intended to benefit individual or Society will be charged ten a line for the first insertion and five a line each subsequent insertion.

HE Weekly Globe to 1st January for $1.

HE Weekly Mail to 1st January for $1.

HE Weekly News to 1st January for $1.

INGLE barrel gun for sale, apply to ith, the barber.

Mrs. MONTGOMERY returned last k from Allenford.

Miss. E. SALYERDS, of Teeswater, is guest of Mr. Thomas.

AVE you seen the elegant stock of Millinery at McFarland's?

HE STANDARD to 1st January 1887 new subscribers for $1. cash.

OR Bedsteads, Mattrasses, and ring Beds, go to Grant & Co.

We had a call on Friday last from he Keefer, now of Forest, Ont.

Miss CLARA BURNS, of Toronto, is ending a few days in Markdale.

40 cases Boots & Shoes, all solid ther, rattling value, at McFarland's.

Miss MINNIE DOUGLAS returned from ong friends in Toronto on Monday.

A LETTER from James A. Rowe, q., to hand and will appear next ek.

East Grey prize list is crowded out d will have to lay over until next ek.

HE next sitting of the Division urt will be held in Flesherton the rst October.

OR a Fleury, Wilkinson, or McGill ough, go to W. Jackson, opposite TANDARD office.

JOHN LARGE, of Shelburne, has rchased another fine new boat for ater's Lake.

Prof. Low's MAGIC SULPHER SOAP is ghly recommended for all humors d skin diseases.

Black Cashmeres 25, 35, 45 and 50 nts up, warranted fast dyes, Import Direct, at McFarland's.

HE corner stone of a new ethodist church at Corbetton was id on Tuesday, the 29th ult.

HE Weekly Star for $1. to end of 86. Call and leave your subscription one or more of those papers.

Freeman's Worm Powders are easable to take, and expel all kinds worms from children or adults.

LOOK HERE.—First class cooking ve No. 9, trimmed and complete $16.50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale.

NATIONAL PILLS are a mild purgative, acting on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, removing all obstructions.

MR. S. J. LAKE has received the appointment of junior Judge of the County Court for the County of Grey.

SHILOH'S CURE will immediately relieve Croup Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

W. McLEOD has just opened out a choice lot of Boots & Shoes which he can and will sell cheaper for cash than any one in the trade.

MRS. MARY THOMPSON, of Toronto, was afflicted with Tape Worm, 8 feet of which was removed by one bottle of Dr. Low's Worm Syrup.

SAY, boss, how is it McLeod sells his Boots so much cheaper than any one in town? Why, because he buys for cash and gets the discount.

LOSS BY FIRE.—All the outbuildings on the Guelph Model Farm was destroyed by fire on Wednesday, the 30th ult. Loss $12,000, insured for $8,000.

School Books.—A complete assortment of new Readers and other School Books just received at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

THE person who took three paint brushes from Wm. Douglass' house on Sunday evening, will please return them to R. O. Whitby and save trouble, as he is known.

A NASAL INJECTOR free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

MR. W. F. DOLL passed through this week for Port Arthur, Winnipeg and the North-West. He intends going through to B. C. by the C. P. R. before returning.

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY—a positive cure for Catarrh, Dipthrie, and Canker Mouth. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

MRS. JOSIAH PAYNE, sister of Mrs. J. W. Ford, late of this village, died at Warshaw, Ont., on the 2nd inst, after a short illness from cold, followed by remittant fever.

WHY WILL YOU cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief. Price 10 cts., 50 cts., and $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

FIRE.—The Glandore Mill, near Maple Valley, built by the late Mr. Plewes 26 years ago, and recently owned by Mr. Wm. Reid, was burned on Sunday the 27th.

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourbon, Ind., says; "Both myself and wife owe our lives to SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE." Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

WE noticed an excellent cut of Mr. M. Richardson's new establishment, Flesherton, printed on dodgers at the East Grey Show. This is enterprise that will end in profit.

PARK lot in Markdale for sale Beautiful location, will be sold on reasonable terms. Apply to R. Freeborn, Williamsford, or enquire at this office. 125-tf

MR. ANDERSON says it pays to advertise, he having advertised a horse for sale recently, and had a customer who purchased in less than a week after the adv. appeared.

FOR DYSPEPSIA and Liver Complaint, you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

THE beautiful warm weather of the last two weeks terminated for the present on Saturday last, when, showers of rain followed on Monday by flurries of the beautiful were the order.

THE cattle fair in Markdale last Saturday was very largely attended and a number of buyers were present and bought up a great many fine cattle. Over 100 head changed hands in about an hour.

ARE YOU MADE miserable by indigestion, Consumption, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

W. J. McNEA has taken first prize for roadster team wherever shown, and in fact his beautiful bays would be hard to beat. Any person wanting such a team should see Mc., as he would sell.

IF you want to buy or sell a horse say so through the STANDARD: It is becoming a noted medium for reaching the public; only fifty cents for one insertion, and twenty-five cents for each additional.

WORK has been commenced in overhauling the furnace and otherwise fixing up the Flesherton Methodist church. The parsonage was recently received a much neeeded amount of repairing.—Advance.

WM. LAMB of Glenelg, a highly respected young man of 26 years, passed away last Monday after an illness of about three months. Dropsy was the disease. This is four out of that family within five years, each death taking place in the month of October.

CREDIT SALE.—Tuesday, October 15th, on lot 65, 3rd con. East T. & S. R. Holland. Sale at 1 o'clock. Farm stock, implements, &c., &c. As the proprietor, Wm. Jackson, has sold his farm, the sale will be genuine, Geo. Noble, Auctioneer.

THE Ladies of the Presbyterian church held their annual bazaar and dinner on the Agricultural grounds on the second day of the fall show, and did a successful business. They wound up the day's doings with a concert in Haskett's new hall, the proceeds of the day amounting to about $75.

MRS. ROBERT WALKER, of Holland, died on Tuesday the 29th ult., at the age of 41 years. Her remains were followed to their last resting place on Thursday by the largest concourse of people ever seen on such an occasion in that neighborhood. Rev. D. Perry preached a very impressive sermon on the occasion.

HONOR ROLL, S. S. No. 8, ARTEMESIA.—2nd Class—Elsie McKee, 91; Sarah McKee, 70; Elanor McKee, 63. 3rd Class—Minnie Morton, 215; Hannah Stafford, 179; Charlie Stafford, 174. 4th Class—Alice Nicholson, 230; Bella Thompson, 175; Esther McNally, 121. Elsie Inkster, Teacher.

HONOR ROLL.—The following are the names of those who received 60 per cent or over, in the 1st division of the Markdale public school: Class V—Herby Brown, Herbert Henry. Class IV, Sen.—Annie Cunningham, Harry Large, Charlie Casson, Elijah Jones, Lottie Mann. Class IV, Jun.—Ben Coleman. Class III—Jessie Grant.

Two hundred pair fine Specks and Eyeglasses now in stock. Concave and Convex Crystal Lenses, Lazzarus & Morris $2.00; same in Boss. Adamantine Lense $1.50. Cases furnished. Other lines well finished 25 cents to $1.00, Near Sight and Sun Specks. Every pair artistically fitted and warranted. W. A. Brown, The Reliable Jeweller.

LAST Wednesday night 30th ult., the safe in Foster's Woollen Mills, Thornbury, was blown open by burglars, who forced an entrance by boring through the door of the factory. Between $400 and $500 was secured. The tools were taken from an adjoining blacksmith shop to force the outer door. Besides the money valuable papers were also taken.

THE Grand Jury for the county of Oxford, has given a unanimous deliverance expressing gratification at the decrease of drunkenness and crime in the county under the Scott Act, as shown by the fact that since May 1st, when the Act came into force, there have been only seven persons committed as drunk and disorderly, while during the corresponding period of 1884, under license, there were 30 committed for this offence.

CAPTURED.—Government Detective Murray arrested Archibald Drinkwater about 80 miles from Chicago, Ill., and had him extradited to Canada, and took him last week to Owen Sound to answer several charges of forgery. This is the notorious apple-tree agent who did a rushing business through this district, and especially about Walter's Falls last winter.

McGREGOR & PARKE.

Of Hamilton, Ont., are the manufacturers of the greatest healing and purifying compound known for Sores, Burns, Cuts, Scalds, Salt Rheum, Frost Bites, etc. It is called McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Be sure and get the genuine McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate sold by Hill Bro's. at 25c. a box. 5

WE have heard from Mr. John Richards, of this town, who has been attending the Ontario Business College at Belleville, which is so well and favourably known throughout the Dominion. Mr. Richards is greatly pleased with the College, with the beautiful city of Belleville, its lovely bay and its charming girls; and it would seem that the latter are equally pleased with him if we are to judge by the invitations he has been receiving and the number of times he has lent his aid at social gatherings. Belleville sent two companies of volunteers to the North-West. On their return the boys told Mr. Richards that the Markdale girls, whom they caught a glimpse of on their way home, are fair to look upon.

HAMILTON HAPPENINGS.

There is now being manufactured here an article for instantly removing pain of any acute external nature, and it is certainly the most perfect cure for Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache and the like that has ever been tried. It is called Fluid Lightning from the rapid manner in which it acts, and is manufactured by McGregor & Parke. Sold in Markdale by Hill Bro's. 5

GOLDEN WEDDING.—One of those pleasant gatherings to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of a marriage, which are of rare occurrence, took place on Saturday last, at the farm of Mr. James Bowes, Sr., (father of the Reeve,) on the 11th con. of St. Vincent. Eleven children, forty-eight grandchildren, one great grandchild, together with numerous friends, made up a large company on the occasion, and the old couple were the recipients of numerous presents, as well as congratulations of their friends. Both of them looked as if they might yet see together many more anniversaries of their wedding day. An interesting feature of the occasion was the baptism of six of the grandchildren, the Rev. Mr. Perry having come from Meaford to officiate.—O. S. Times

A SURE INDICATION.

Whenever there are festering sores, blotches, pimples and boils appearing, it indicates an extremely bad condition of the blood which should be speedily cleansed by the best of all medicines Burdock Blood Bitters.

WE were very much pleased to meet Mr. Williscroft, who was accidentaly shot recently, at the Holland Centre Fair on Wednesday. He does not suffer any inconvenience from the wound, and is quite recovered. The bullet is supposed to be in his lungs.

FATAL ATTACKS.

Among the most prevalent fatal and sudden attacks of diseases, are those incident to the Summer and Fall, such as Cholera Morbus, Bilious Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, etc., that often prove fatal in a few hours. That very reliable remedy Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, should be at hand, for use in emergency.

OWING to the unfavorable weather, and being indisposed in body, we failed to put in an appearance at Priceyill Show on Tuesday. We hope however to give a report of it next week; perhaps steal one from the Advance.

A SAD CASE.

The poor victim of Chronic Dyspepsia apparently suffers all the ills of life, living in continual torture. Regulate the Liver and the Bowels and tone the Stomach with Burdock Blood Bitters and the dyspepsia trouble is soon gone.

IMPORTANT announcement to the public. See Wm. Brown's Adv. in another column.

East Grey Fall Show.

We gave last week a synopsis of the outside exhibit at the above show, but for want of time and space left the contents for this week. On entering the hall at the west end we found a very creditable display of Photographs exhibited by Mrs. Bulmer of Flesherton and Mr. Hamilton of Markdale; the latter was especially large and the pictures lifelike, in fact we have seen very little city work to surpass that turned out by Hamilton of Markdale. Then came a very good exaibit of harness by J. Gordon of Flesherton. Roots were good, especially potatoes, which were simply immense. The grain was good with the exception of spring wheat, which was a decidedly poor quality, but the quantity on show small throughout. Butter was a good quality, but not much of it. Fruit below the average in quality with about an average exhibit. In ladies' work there was a creditable showing. A very fine display of plants and flowers were nicely arranged, giving the interior of the hall quite an attractive and tasty appearance. The crayon sketches and scenery paintings were very handsome and creditable. An addition has been erected to the hall at the east end, for poultry, which is a needed improvement; in this department a decided improvement was neticeable, and a good exhibit of very fine poultry conveniently arranged, R. Montgomery of Markdale taking a lion's share of prizes. The brass band did their part most efficiently, which contributed in no small degree to the pleasure of the spectators.

PRIZE LIST.

CLASS 1.—HORSES.

Pr. Draught Horses—S Stokes. Draught Brood Mare—Wm Gallopp, D G Binnie. Draught 2 yaer old Colt—Wal Nicholl, Jas Knox. Draught 1 year old Colt—Saml Gregson. Spring Foal—D G Binnie, Wm Gallopp. General Purpose Team—Geo Dinwoodie, Alex Mercer Jr. General Purpose Brood Mare—Wm Henderson, Thos Stambuskie. General Purpose 2 year old Colt—Geo Glazier, D G Binnie. General Purpose 1 Spring Foal—Duncan Campbell, Thos Butler, A Kenney. Pr Roadster Horses—Dr Sproule M P. Pr Carriage—W J McNea, Jas Henderson. Buggy Horse—A & R Hannah, Thos Kells. Saddle Horse—W W Trimble, W G Pickell. Heavy Draught Stallion 3 years and over—Messrs Trimble & Pickell, Trimble & Pickell. Gen Purpose Stallion 3 years and over—Henry King, H Kenneda. Roadster Stallion 3 years and over—A & R Hannah, J R Trimble. H King, Special Colt from Ribant—Sam Greyson, Jas Knox, J Richardson. Judges—F Burten, John Golden, Wm. Henry.

TO BE CONTINUED NEXT WEEK.

"WHAT SAY YOU TO A PIECE OF ROAST BEEF AND MUSTARD?"

Well, there is much to be said. The question being asked of the banqueter at the average boarding house, calls up reminiscences of close contiguity to the horns, and beefstake three cuts south thereof. He, of course, will pass unless it occurs to him that he needs a hinge for his trunk. Should there be any suffering, the effects of an indulgence is such sinuous fare, use McGregor's Speedy Cure, a sure and effectual remedy for Dyspepsia, Constipation and all affections of the stomach and liver Sold by Hill Bro's. Trial bottles free. 5

Holland Centre Show.

Holland Centre Agricultural Fall Show was held on Wednesday and was largely attended. A large number from Markdale were to be seen at the fair. The Show was, on the whole, a success. A large number of horses were exhibited, other kinds of stock were not so plentiful. The exhibit of grain was good, spring wheat being very much superior to any we have seen this season. Roots were also good, especially potatoes, which were immense. The best samples of fruit we have seen was also at this show. The Ladies work was very creditable. Owing to want of space we are compelled to be brief but will endeavor to give further details next week. The secretary, Mr. Smith has done very much in making the show a success, and is justly entitled to a great share of credit.

CERTAIN CURE.

A CURE FOR CHOLERA MORBUS.—A positive cure for this dangerous complaint, and for all acute or chronic forms of Bowel Complaint incident to Summer and Fall, is found in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry; to be procured from any druggist.

HEALTH.

Physiological Aphorisms.

1. The foundation of three-fourths of all cases of consumption is laid before the age of twenty five years; in women, during their teens.

2. The hereditary element is not of special account as a cause of consumption, as less than twenty-five per cent. of cases are clearly of consumptive parentage.

3. One of the ruling causes of disease and premature death, in large cities, is found in an exhausting strain of the mental energies in the struggle for subsistence—a death-race for bread.

4. Insanity runs in families; but, as in the case of family likeness, it sometimes overlaps a generation or more.

5. Personal resemblance entails like characteristics of mind and disposition.

6. A current of the purest air from the poles, for half an hour, on a person sleeping, sitting still, or over heated, is a thousand-fold more destructive of health and fatal to life than the noisomeness of a crowded room or vehicle, or the stench of a pig-stye for thrice the time.

7. To exercise in weariness, increased by every step, is not only not beneficial, it is useless and worse than useless; it is positively destructive.

8. As a good traveler, after having fed his horse, renews his journey in a trot, but with a slow walk, gradually increasing his pace, so in getting up to address an assembly for a continued effort, the first few sentences should be uttered in a low, slow tone, gradually intensified, otherwise the voice will break down in a very few minutes, with coughing or hoarseness.

9. A growing inability to sleep in sickness is ominous of a fatal result; in apparent health, it indicates the failure of the mind and madness; so, on the other hand, in disease or dementia, a very slight improvement in the sleeping should be hailed as the harbinger of restoration.

10. No one can possibly sink if the head is thrust entirely under water, and in this position a novice can swim as easily as walk, and to get shore readily by lifting the head at intervals, for breath.

11. Intense thirst is satiated by wading in water, or by keeping the clothing saturated with water, even if it is taken from the sea

12. Water can not satisfy the thirst which attends cholera, dysentery, diarrhœa and some other forms of disease; in fact, drinking cold water seems, to increase the thirst, and induce other disagreeable sensations; but this thirst will be perfectly and pleasantly subdued, by eating a comparatively small amount of ice, swallowing it in as large pieces as practicable, and as much as is wanted.

13. Inflammations are more safely and far more agreeably subdued by the application of warm water than of cold.

14 Very excessive effort in a short space of time, as in running, or jumping a rope, etc., has repeatedly caused instant death, by apoplexy of the lungs, the exercise sending the blood there faster than it can be purified by the more infrequent breathing on such occasions.

15. No disease ever comes without a warning; hence endeavor to think back for the cause, with a view to avoid it in future, and on the instant of any unpleasant bodily sensation, cease eating absolutely until it has entirely disappeared, at least for twenty-four hours; if still remaining, consult a physician.

16. The more clothes a man wears, the more bed covering he uses, the closer he keeps his chamber, whether warm or cold, the more he confines himself to the house, the more numerous and warm his night-garments, the more readily will he take cold, under all circumstances, as the more a thriftless youth is helped, the less able does he become to help himself.

Taking Medicine.

Let it be remembered that it is not the medicine advised by the educated physician which has done the world so much injury, but it is the physic which the people swallow on their own responsiblity. When a narrow-minded person gets sick, he "calculates" the saving it will be to him to give twenty-five cents for a box of pills, instead of "employing a physician," besides avoiding the discomfort of "a course of medicine," as it is called. This answers for a while in many cases, but it is ultimately disastrous, and health and life are the fearful forfeit. A gentleman had been a dyspeptic, and hearing that a preparation of soda was "good for dyspepsia," he "tried it;" it acted "like a charm," and for six months he was so enraptured with its effects that he considered it a duty as well as a humanity to recommend it to every person who seemed to be affected as he had been. Not long thereafter, as he was standing at the gate of his newly married daughter, in London, in a passing call on his way to business, he dropped down dead. On examination, the cause was found in several ounces of soda impacted in the bowels.

Not long ago, a young lady of wealth called for a prescription at a Quaker druggist's. Being a conscientious man, he said to her very kindly that if she continued to take it in such quantities, it would destroy her. It was a preparation of morphine, chloroform and ether, which had an instantaneous and powerful effect on the whole system, and in her case excited the brain and kept it in that condition, requiring constantly increased doses. Within a month she was attacked with a very familiar disease, cured every day in its more peculiar seat. In her case, the brain having been so weakened by the continual over-excitement to which it had been subjected, became the point of metastasis. In familiar phrase, "it went to the brain." She was a model of unobstructive, self-denying piety, so retiring, so pure, as to be the admiration of those who knew her inner life. In an hour the malady made a wreck of the mind. No man could hold her. Her profanity was shocking to every attendant. A day or two and she died. We personally know that her sister perished a year earlier in consequence of a condition of the system induced by talking daily, for months popular "cough lozenge," or "troche." In these last two cases, economy was no object, for they had always been the pampered and petted children of lavish wealth. But it was so much easier to get rid of an ailment in this way than by the formality of calling in the family physician; besides parental solicitudes need not be unseemly excited; this, no doubt, was a ruling motive. The experienced practitioner well understands that the habitual taking of any efficient medicine is the certain road to a premature and very often a violent or agonizing death.

French and English Politics.

The old Parliaments of both France and England have finally adjourned, and will be replaced by freshly chosen Parliaments this autumn. The general elections for a new Chamber of Deputies in France will take place in October; and those for a new House of Commons in Great Britain and Ireland will occur in November.

It is rarely the case that these two great countries are plunged into exciting elections at the same time. Usually, the summer and autumn are a period of rest in politics. But this year, the noise of political rivalry and activity began in England and France amid the heat of August.

There are several points of resemblance in the political situation in the two countries. In each, the Cabinet now in power may be said to exist on sufferance, as it did not command a majority of the Parliament during which it took office.

Each Cabinet, too, came into power, in part at least, because the foreign policy of the former Government was unpopular. Mr. Gladstone owes his fall partly to the course which he took in regard to Egypt and India; and M. Ferry lost office on account of his proceedings in regard to the Chinese War.

The term of the President of the French Republic will expire in January next. It will, therefore, be the duty of the newly appointed representatives of France, in conjunction with the Senate, to elect a successor to M. Grevy for the long period of seven years. This fact naturally adds to the excitement of the coming French elections.

Aside from this, the contest in France is not, as it formerly was, between the Republicans and various factions of Monarchists, but between the moderate and radical Republican sections. The moderate Republicans will sustain M. Brisson, the present Prime Minister. The radicals are led by the energetic and able M. Clemenceau, who wishes to make many changes in the present constitution, especially in further limiting the privileges of the church and the priesthood.

In England, the division of parties in view of the elections which are to take place in November are still more interesting. The Tories are now in office, under the lead of the Marquis of Salisbury. They came into power with a hostile House of Commons, and have had a difficult task, which thus far they seem to have performed wisely. They will struggle vigorously to secure a majority of the new House. The House of Lords has, as usual, a Tory majority.

While the Tories are tolerably well united, there are serious divisions among their opponents, the Liberals. Of the latter party, there are two divergent sections. The moderate section is composed of the Whigs, under the lead of Lord Granville and the Marquis of Harrington. The advanced section comprises the radicals, who follow Joseph Chamberlain.

Mr. Chamberlain has boldly set out upon a very radical campaign, in which he is not joined by the moderate Liberals. He demands a sweeping reform of the system of taxation and the land laws, and would, no doubt, support Home Rule for Ireland and the disestablishment of the Church of England.

The third party—and the only one of which it can be said that it is certain to make a large gain in the coming elections—is the Irish party, led by Mr. Parnell. This party, in the last House, comprised about thirty-five members. There is every indication that, in the new House, it will comprise, at least, between seventy and eighty members.

In both Great Britain and France, the elections will be held under entirely new conditions. In Great Britain (and Ireland) two millions of new voters have been admitted to the suffrage; and the Parliamentary seats have been redistricted throughout the three kingdoms, In France, the system of voting in block for deputies by departments—so that each elector votes for all the deputies to which his department is entitled, instead of for only one—has been adopted instead of single districts. Each of these changes inparts uncertainty to the result of the elections.

Pat's View of It.

It is no less important that a boy understand what application to make of the lesson taught him than that he comprehend the lesson itself. The greatly admired power of knowledge consists not so much in knowing things, as in the ability to turn one's information to account. An unthinking acceptance of what is told one often leads to amusing results, as in the instance below:

In Ireland regulations for fasting are differently arranged in different parishes; in some, eggs are forbidden to beused, or even milk or cream in tea, on stated days. In a parish in the county of Kildare eggs were prohibited, and in confession, Paddy Blake, the little son of a celebrated cock-fighter, deposed to having infringed the order. Upon being told by the priest that the eggs might have contained chickens, Paddy replied,—

"Och, no, yer riverence! Sure, they were biled."

"No matter," replied the priest; "they might have had chickens all the same."

The priest, however, considered the offender's age, and pardoned him. A short time after the priest, wishing for some of the fine fowl bred by Paddy's father, asked the boy for a clutch of his last eggs. The eggs were placed under a careful hen, and at the end of three weeks inspection was made, but not a single egg was found chipped.

A month passed, and still no chickens. At length, after five weeks, the priest's patience was exhausted, and curiosity led him to break one of the eggs, when, to his astonishment, it was found to have been boiled, and was as hard as a bullet. He went through the ceremony of breaking the whole clutch, and having discovered that they were all alike, he sent for Paddy and thus accosted him: "You little rascal! the eggs you brought me were boiled."

"Och, yes, yer riverence! I was afraid I'd smash them if I brought them raw; and sure, yer riverence told me there might be chickens in them just the same!"

THE FARM.

The Old Dinner Horn.

I've heard many a strain that has thrilled me with joy,
But none, I will say, since the day I was born,
Has pleased me so much as, when a small boy,
I heard on the farm the old dinner horn.

The trumpet was tin a yard or so long,
And was blowed for "the boys" at noon and at morn;
The monotone strain was piercing and strong,
But sweet, for all that, was the old dinner horn.

When building the fence or tossing the hay,
Or reaping the grain or plowing the corn,
With appetite keen, at the noon of the day,
Oh! sweet to my soul was the old dinner horn.

A mother's fond lips pressed the trumpet of tin,
And blew her full soul through the barley and corn,
Oh! I hear even yet the "Welcome, come in.
Come in, my dear boys, to the sound of the horn."

Those lips are now still, and the bosom is cold,
Which sent to us boys the blast of the horn;
She is waiting in sleep beneath the dark mold,
The archangel's trump and eternity's morn.

Gleanings.

The aim of pork raisers should be to get rid of the poor hogs and keep none but the best sows for breeding. Some pork raisers contend that good common—what we may call "native"—animals are healthier than pure bred animals. We want the health, vigor, hardiness and powerful digestion of the native united with the quietness of disposition, fine bones, small offal, early maturity and fattening qualities of the pure-bred. To a large degree this can be accomplished by selecting the best native or grade sows, and breeding them to the finest and best pure-bred boars.

The Iowa Husbandman has these suggestive thoughts regarding basement barns: We notice, however, that those who have them do not always use them. They are liable to some objections. 1st. They are apt to be poorly ventilated. 2nd. They are apt to be damp and poorly lighted. 3rd. They are apt to keep cattle too warm and when turned out for exercise they take cold. If a basement were well ventilated and lighted and not damp, and cattle were kept in it all the time we could conceive of nothing better.

For feeding young calves oil-meal is best boiled in six times its own bulk of water, until it becomes a thin gruel. Then mix it at the rate of one gallon with two gallons of skim milk, and feed while it is "milk warm." For calves six months old or over, the milk may be gradually left off, and a small portion of corn-meal substituted, to be cooked with the oil-meal. One part of corn-meal to three parts of the oil-meal would be a good feed. A ration one part of oil-meal cooked into a gruel and mixed with two parts oat-meal and one part corn-meal is an excellent food for calves during winter.

FALL FALLOWING.—On every farm, as far as possible, the spring work should be done in the fall. Every spring, there is some delay on account of the season, and work is so hurried, that it cannot be well done. There is always an abundance of time in the fall, and the opportunity should not be missed of pushing everything ahead in good season for spring work. One special work should not be neglected, and that is plowing and working weedy stubbles, or fallowing the soil, in a season when nothing else can be done with it. This is a most useful work, which should occupy the farmer's attention, while no other work is pressing. To prevent the seeding of the weeds, is the principal thing; and this is a work, which calls for the strictest care at every season.

It is stated that a new method of washing butter has been patented in Germany. As soon as gathered in the churn in particles of about a tenth of an inch in size, it is transferred to a centrifugal machine, whose drum is pierced with holes and lined with a linen sack, that is finally taken out with the butter. As soon as the machine is set in rapid motion the buttermilk begins to escape; a spray of water thrown into the revolving drum washes out all foreign matter adhering to the butter. This washing is kept up till the wash-water comes away clean, and the revolution is then continued till the last drop of water is removed, as clothes are dried in the centrifugal wringer. The dry butter is then taken out, molded and packed. It is claimed that the product thus so fully and quickly freed from all impurities, without any working or kneading, has a finer flavor, aroma and grain, and far better keeping qualities than when prepared for market in the ordinary way.

COARSE FOOD FOR PIGS.—In pig-feeding in the diary districts, young pigs generally grew up in a healthy condition, owing to the refuse milk of the dairy, which furnished the principal food of young pigs. Skim-milk contains all the elements for growing the muscles and bones of young pigs. This gave them a good, rangy frame, and when desired, could be fed into 400 to 500 pounds weight. But the fault attending this feeding was, that it was too scanty to produce such rapid growth as is desirable. It took too long to develop them for the best profit. It had not then been discovered by the farmer that it costs less to put the first hundred pounds on a pig than the second, and less for the second than the third, etc.; that it was much cheaper to produce 200 pounds of pork in six months than in nine and twelve months. When it became evident that profit required more rapid feeding, then they began to ply them continuously with the most concentrated food—corn meal or clear corn. If this was fed in summer on pasture, no harm was observed, for the grass gave bulk in the stomach, and the pigs were healthy, and made good progress. But if the young pigs were fed in pen in winter upon corn meal or clear corn, the result was quite different; this concentrated food produced feverish symptoms, and the pigs lose their appetite for a few days, drinking only water, which after a while, would relieve the stomach, and the pigs would eat vigorously again. Now had they been fed a few quarts of turnips, carrots, beets or pumpkins, to give bulk in the stomach, and separate the concentrated food no harm would have come. This gives the gastric juice a free circulation through the contents of the stomach, the food is properly digested and applied to the needs of the body, instead of causing fever by remaining in the stomach.

WEED SEED IN MANURE.—Our farm-yard manure is full of seeds and they grow surer and quicker than the seeds we sow. Manure in which there are weed seeds, should be applied only to some hoed crop, or green manure crop! for in these, if we keep the crops clean the weeds will do no harm. Buckwheat is an admirable weed killer and ground cleaner, and may follow potatoes or even winter grain, but when sowed in the spring, and plowed under, its best effects are obtained, for there will be no trouble in their own seed.

THE CLEVER BURGLAR.

How the Glasgow Jewel Robbery was Accomplished.

The chef d œuvre of an astute and well-trained burglar is springing a mine on the public. As soon as the police get hold of a new mode of "cracking a crib," it is utterly useless for the knights of the crowbar, as a rule, to attempt an over and over repetition of tactics; because, the detective having made his little arrangements, it is ten to one but what he walks into a trap on the second attempt. In this way burglars are constantly on the qui vive and looking about them for new and novel modes of securing entrances to premises and getting possession of booty. Like the gentleman in the story book, however, who went about changing old lamps for new, they occasionally fall back on an old semi-dead and forgotten dodge when ingenuity fails to come to the rescue. In the jewel robbery case in St. Enock's Lane there is reason to believe that the robbery was effected by the old and barefaced mode of walking right up to the outside door, opening it with a false key—no doubt previously tested—and walking in as if the parties were perfectly entitled so to do, taking due care, of course, to see that the policeman had turned the corner a few minutes previously, and taking the risk of any passer-by taking notice of them—a most unlikely thing. Once in unobserved, their course is clear. The premises are untenated, being entirely used as warehouses. Every tenant's departure would be watched, and the moment for commencing operations decided upon. The "cracksman" is, as a rule, a crack mechanic, well up to the value of the contrivances laid ready to his hand and intelligence by the best heads of the age. We find in this case, as in many others before it, that the tools left behind them by the burglars are not only of the best and finest tempered material possible to obtain for the purpose intended, but that the workmanship put upon them bears evidence of the desire to make sure that the instruments they use will not break off or fail them at the moment of action, and the work they have accomplished in this case shows how great a strain the tools of the burglar stand. It is evident to the most ordinary observer that every detail of a burglary is mapped out by experts before the attempt is made; the amount of time required for carrying out each item is without doubt carefully calculated, and modes of retreat if possible arranged for in the event of a surprise before making the attempt. Once inside of Mr. Semlpe's warehouse they knew apparently exactly what to do. There were two safes to tackle, and this was gone about with all the method of a cracksman. A "bed" was made upon which the safe was shifted, and the keen edge of a "widener," driven home with a steel hammer, soon found its way to the bolts; hinges were attacked in a like manner, and the door drawn away from its place. The same process repeated in safe No. 2 left them masters of the situation, and the "guid gear that gangs in wee bulk" was very speedily secreted about the persons of the thieves, who no doubt quietly left the place, locking the doors with as complete assurance as Mr. Semple himself would have done. The question for the public is—Will the burglars be caught? which simply means whether are our detectives or the thieves the cleverest men. Our local official detectives seem to have jumped to the conclusion that the thieves are not Glasgow men; that they are from some of the big towns in England. We do not believe there are any thieves better able to "crack a crib" in London than what are to be found in our own city; and it will be well for the Glasgow detectives to consider whether, in looking so far away as London, we are not looking over the heads of the real culprits. We think it entirely unlikely that the jewellery left Glasgow.—Glasgow Mail.

Keeping His Balance.

There is a story, told among the Tartars which has a moral for the civilized men of the present day. It is to this effect: Robo, cousin of the Great Mogul, was condemned to death for participation in a rebellion. The most skilful swordsman in the empire was provided for the execution, and the Great Mogul and his court were present as spectators.

The thin, keen blade flashed in the sunlight and descended upon the bare neck of Robo, who stood upright to receive the stroke.

The executioner's work was so deftly done that though the head was severed, not a vital organ was disturbed. Robo remained standing.

"What, Robo, art thou not beheaded?" exclaimed the Great Mogul.

"My lord, I am," replied Robo, "but as long as I keep my balance right, my head will not fall off."

The Great Mogul was placated, a bandage was put on Robo's neck, and he recovered. He afterwards became a loyal subject and was made Cashier of the Empire, because, as the Great Mogul remarked,—

"He knows that if he keeps his balance right, his head will not come off."

The recent races between the English yatch Genesta and the Yankee yatch Puritan have set all the country talking "cutter" and "sloop." Both races were won by the Puritan, and our cousins are jubilant, not so much that they keep the America's cup, but because they take the victory to mean the superiority of the sloop over the "cutter." But we think the races have not demonstrated any such superiority. In the first trial, with a light wind, the Puritan won easily. In the second race, with a good stiff breeze, the Genesta lead until within a few miles of the end of the course, when the wind suddenly veered to another point of the compass and rapidly fell. The Puritan then gradually overhauled the cutter, winning by about a minute and a half. The races have proved nothing except that cutter yachts, with their deep draught and excellent sea-going qualities, are the only ones suitable for English waters, where there is nearly always a strong wind and a heavy sea.

Delicate Diseases

of either sex, however induced, [illegible] thoroughly and permanently cured [illegible] three letter stamps for large illustrated [illegible] tise. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Short and long waists are equally [illegible] able.

Years Teach More Than [illegible]

Among other valuable lessons [illegible] this teacher is the fact that for a very [illegible] time Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has been the prince of liver correctives, blood purifiers, being the household friend of the poor man, and the able counsellor and physician to the rich patient, and praised by all for its magnificent service and cures in all diseases of a chronic nature, as scrofula, blood poisoning, ailments of the respiratory and digestive systems, liver disease and kindred cases where the use of an alterative medicine is indicated.

Jackets with hoods are again [illegible] fashion.

Pile Tumors

however large, speedily and painlessly [illegible] without knife, caustic, powder or [illegible] Consultation free. Write for pamphlet, references, enclosing two letter stamps for reply. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Pale mauve is one of the fashionable colors.

It is a singular fact that the cheapest an article should even temporarily [illegible] sale, and yet that was the experience of Messrs. Tuckett & Son in the introduction of their now celebrated "Myrtle Navy" tobacco. People who had been in the habit of smoking the finest Virginia tobacco, could not for a time be made to believe that they were offered the same article at about half the old price, and it was only by degrees that they were induced to put the question to the test of an actual trial; but they did adopt that test, however, it never failed to satisfy them.

Stripes must be horizontal, not [illegible] in a fashionable frock.

£100,000,000 IN THE BRITISH COURT OF CHANCERY!—A large part of this vast sum belongs to the people of America (Booth & Co., 41, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, London, Eng., have just published a list of the heirs to this enormous wealth. Have you send a dollar and they will forward you a valuable LIST; and if you find by it that you are entited to any money or property, they will your own. COX & Co. will show you the way.

Small Mediterranean oysters, [illegible] by gourmands as the most delicate of [illegible] valves, are now canned for exportation to Italy.

Prevention Better Than [illegible]

Many of the diseases so prevalent in these days are caused by using soap containing impure and infectious matter. Avoid the risk by using PERFECTION Laundry Soap, which is absolutely pure. Ask your grocer for PERFECTION. Manufactured only by the Toronto Soap Co.

A.P.S.

FARMS FOR SALE.—All sizes.—Send to JOHN J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IMPERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACKING.

PURE BRED AYRSHIRES for sale; two yearling heifers and one bull. Write for description, price and pedigree to C. F. BAKER, Parkhill.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—100 miles east of the city of St. Thomas. Particulars address J. J. LEWIS, New Sarum, Ont.

WANTED—LADIES AND GENTLEMEN to work at home. Salary $5 to $25 weekly. Distance no objection. No canvassing. Work sent by mail. Home Manufacturing Company, 167 Broadway, New York City.

It is conceded by all that the DOMINION BUSINESS COLLEGE, Kingston, is deservedly the most popular business training school in Canada.

NOTICE

TO OUR NUMEROUS CONSUMERS.

On account of the tobacco crop of 1888 being poor, we did not buy much, and selected only a few of it, as we always wish to keep our "T & B. Myrtle" brand up to the standard; and as a result there may be a scarcity of "T & B. Myrtle" for a short time. If such is the case there will be a full supply on the market by the end of October.

The tobacco we are now about to manufacture is the finest we have ever had, and we know it will please our numerous consumers.

Yours respectfully,

GEO. E. TUCKETT & SON.

GURNEY & WARE

STANDARD SCALES

Are the Best, Attested by the Fact that there are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' & Butchers' Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.

Housekeepers, Consult Your Own Interests

By purchasing a scale, and in buying one [illegible] to get the best. Our scales are fully warranted in every particular. All sizes Railroad, Warehouse and Mill Trucks. Alarm Money Boxes. For sale by the Hardware Trade generally. Illustrated Catalogue and Price List forwarded on application.

GURNEY & WARE
HAMILTON.

WAREHOUSES—Montreal and Winnipeg

HOUSEHOLD.

Domestic Receipts.

COOKING FOR THE SICK.

MILK PUNCH.—With one well-beaten egg put a teaspoonful or so of sugar. Stir in a small glass of new milk and a cup of very hot coffee. Sweeten to the taste.

GRAPE JUICE.—Squeeze two pounds of ripe grapes in a coarse cloth, after picking them from the stems. Add three tablespoonfuls of loaf sugar, and when this is dissolved, add one cup of cold water. Surround with ice until very cold.

MUTTON BROTH.—Cut up a pound of lean mutton into small pieces and add a quart of cold water. Let it simmer for three hours, season and add a pinch of salt. Strain, cool and remove the fat if there is any.

RICE MILK PUDDING.—Take two tablespoonfuls of clean rice or sago and soak in warm water for two hours, then drain. Stir it in a pint of milk, add a little sugar and bake or boil for an hour.

LEMON JELLY.—Dissolve an ounce of isinglass in a pint of water, add a pound of loaf sugar, and the juice and rind of two lemons, boil for ten minutes and strain it into a mould.

LEMON CREAM.—Beat the yolks of four eggs, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and the rind (grated lightly) and juice of a small lemon, and orange. Add a teaspoonful of powdered sugar to the whites of the eggs and beat until stiff. Place the beaten yolks in a vessel over a pot of boiling water and cook gently, stirring all the time. When it thickens, stir in the whites until thoroughly mixed, then remove. Serve in small glasses.

LEMONADA.—Lay in a bowl two Boston or common crackers split; sprinkle on a pinch of salt and cover with boiling water. Set the bowl in a saucepan of boiling water, and let it stand thirty minutes, till the crackers look clear. Slide into a hot saucer without breaking and eat with cream and sugar. Serve always very hot.

INDIAN MEAL GRUEL.—Mix three tablespoonfuls of corn meal with a little cold water and stir it into a quart of boiling water with a teaspoonful of salt. Boil one hour, strain and serve.

APPLE WATER.—Roast two sour apples and pour over them a quart of boiling water. Cover and let it stand for half an hour. A few of washed dried apples may be used instead of the roasted apples.

Kitchen Hints.

To prevent flat-irons from scorching, wipe them on a cloth wet with kerosene.

Mortar and paint may be removed from window glass with hot, sharp vinegar.

Water weakens digestion and encourages the absorption of fatty and saccharine matter.

To bake pies to a fine brown, dip a clean linen cloth in fresh cream, and brush lightly over the top crust before putting into the oven.

Everybody should live on the sunny side of their houses as much as possible, and allow the sun's genial rays to penetrate the rooms.

Do not eat fruit skins or seeds. The skin of an apple is as bad for your child as a bit of your kid glove would be; that of a grape is indigestible than sole leather.

To remove mildew stains, mix together soft soap, powdered starch and half as much salt, and the juice of a lemon. Apply to the mildewed parts, and spread the garment on the grass.

To make linen beautifully white, prepare the water for washing by putting into every three gallons of water a large handful of powdered borax. Or, boil with the clothes one tablespoonful of spirits of turpentine.

To beautify the nails, hold them for fifteen minutes in warm water. Then, while soft, cut carefully. Polish them with a piece of chamois skin dipped in a mixture of sifted very finely powdered pumice stone.

Many forms of toothache may be promptly and pleasantly relieved by chewing cinnamon bark. And cotton, soaked in two parts alcohol, ten parts of oil of almonds and six parts of glycerine, often allays earache.

It is said that by the following simple means almost instant relief of earache is afforded: Put five drops of chloroform on a piece of cotton or wool in the bowl of a clay pipe; then blow the vapor through the stem into the aching ear.

Bags of hot sand are much better than bags of hot water to place in the beds of invalids who require artificial heat. The sand retains heat longer than water, and hot-sand bags are more comfortable "bed-fellows" than bottles.

Before the French Academy of Medicine Dr. Galippe has made a valuable communication respecting the destructive effects of the permanent use of morphia on the teeth. He has observed that the victims have not a sound tooth left after a year's addiction to this habit.

Three grains of iodine dissolved in an ounce of turpentine forms a solution eminently useful in the treatment of ringworm of the scalp, after the parts have been thoroughly washed and cleaned. It is a painless application, and may be employed at any age or to any part.

Lemon juice is said to be nothing better for a cut than powdered resin. Pound it until fine and put in an empty, clean pepper box, with perforated top, then it can be easily sifted on the cut; put a soft cloth around the injured finger and wet it with cold water once in a while. It will prevent inflammation and soreness.

When a fit the feet should be placed in warm water with mustard added, and the legs briskly rubbed, all bandages removed from the neck, and a cool apartment procured if possible. In many cases of bleeding at the nose, when other remedies fail, Dr. Rush says two teaspoonfuls of salt completely stops the blood.

To destroy ants: Drop some quicklime on the mouth of their nest, and wash it in with strong water; or dissolve some camphor in spirits, then mix with water, and pour into the haunts; or tobacco water, which has been proven satisfactory. They are averse to strong scents. Camphor will prevent moths by infesting a cupboard, or a sponge saturated with creosote. To prevent their climbing trees, place a ring of tar about the trunk of the tree, or a circle of rag moistened liberally with creosote.

A dish fam[illegible] much sought [illegible] thus: Boil a [illegible] then take it [illegible] boiled and [illegible] knuckle of [illegible] hours, then [illegible] carrots, a little [illegible] stalks of celery [illegible] table your taste [illegible] essential, as [illegible] When the tu[illegible] bits and put [illegible] removing the [illegible] Dumplings m[illegible] please. The[illegible] steam them [illegible] boiling gravy [illegible] certain to be [illegible] if steamed fo[illegible]

THE

"De fust [illegible] circulars has [illegible] as Waydown [illegible] cough and [illegible] Howker ende[illegible] "Hesh am a [illegible] number of p[illegible] an' axin' wh[illegible] Club will ap[illegible]

"It am de[illegible] has rung in [illegible] y'ar one, D[illegible] las' 6,000 ya[illegible] ed to ebery [illegible] as a class, an[illegible] at de start? [illegible] axed to give [illegible] pint dat de c[illegible] who practice[illegible] manage—wh[illegible] hev a perpet[illegible] shape of de[illegible]

"Who am [illegible] lyze him. A[illegible] to fish, hunt [illegible] shun or l'arn [illegible] stick by him. [illegible] He sots up d[illegible] a libin', an' h[illegible] He am poo', [illegible] marries de sa[illegible] ates it.

"De chari[illegible] $ 00,000 per[illegible] crime. It of[illegible] It prevents st[illegible] an' boys to h[illegible]

"Few men [illegible] omy an' keer[illegible] support all de[illegible] an' cheap thea[illegible] de shif'less po[illegible] an' drinks be[illegible] frows away d[illegible] wood an' clot[illegible] word he h'as [illegible] his job am go[illegible] appeals to de[illegible] man, who has[illegible] to whack up [illegible] mail on indus[illegible] to vise.

"All dis I [illegible] tell it again de[illegible] poo' man who [illegible] bored when w[illegible] shillings an' n[illegible] clothing—dat[illegible] kin depend up[illegible] Any odder pur[illegible] charity am a f[illegible] place of bread[illegible]

Prof. Gumbo[illegible] privilege. Th[illegible] ferred to him [illegible] and he had bee[illegible] members of th[illegible] insult. He w[illegible] President.

"My dear b[illegible] he looked dow[illegible] white men hea[illegible] men a s'coons [illegible] should kick. [illegible] nor make our i[illegible]

"I can't ag[illegible] nounced the I[illegible]

"De white ma[illegible] look out!'

"Brudder P[illegible] coons an' mok[illegible] bo'n, an' some[illegible] as you do! De[illegible] or, who gits hi[illegible] shoots off his r[illegible] asylum afore [illegible] Brudder Smith[illegible] face when call[illegible]

The Hon. A[illegible] up the case of [illegible] driver at Ann A[illegible] bership was m[illegible] the committee [illegible] ties in Ann Ar[illegible] Mr. Loney had [illegible] en his hair, au[illegible] scent. The co[illegible] who would go [illegible] enj y himself i[illegible] ther Smith no[illegible] run the story t[illegible] a ba e canard. [illegible] ing straight ha[illegible] water to make [illegible] a big-hearted, [illegible] it was hoped t[illegible] action of the co[illegible] discussion the [illegible] ber under a sus[illegible]

The S cretar[illegible] from Friday [illegible] anti, Mich., as[illegible] branch club in [illegible] bers he named [illegible] Hewson, Judge [illegible] the Great, Fatt[illegible] Bob Butler. [illegible] lifted a pullet [illegible] during the last [illegible] lievers in Beech[illegible]

The matter w[illegible] on Judiciary, w[illegible] on a freight tra[illegible] and the meetin[illegible]

"Yours is a [illegible] said the phila[illegible] "Officers are so[illegible] discharge of the[illegible] an thropist. "Y[illegible] "You're not afr[illegible] tainly not; our[illegible] sleep, and I ain[illegible]

Delicate Diseases

ther sex, however induced, promptly oughly and permanently cured. Send e letter stamps for large illustrated World's Dispensary Medical Asso
, Buffalo, N. Y.

ort and long waists are equally bad

rs Teach More Than Boo

mong other valuable lessons imparted teacher is the fact that for a very Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discov been the prince of liver correctives d purifiers, being the household phy of the poor man, and the able consu ician to the rich patient, and praised or its magnificent service and efficacy lise es of a chronic nature, as sca oning, ailments of the respiratory stive systems, liver disease and bl where the use of an alterative rem dicated.

ckets with hoods are again coming ion.

Pile Tumors

ever large, speedily and painlessly cu out knife, caustic, powder or ointm sultation free. Write for pamphlet rences, enclosing two letter stamps
y. World's Dispensary Medical As n, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

le mauve is one of the fashionable is a singular fact that the cheapest rticle should even temporarily retard and yet that was the experience

rs. Tuckett & Son in the introductio now celebrated "Myrtle Navy" to People who had been in the habi ing the finest Virginia tobacco, c or a time be made to believe that offered the same article at about the old price, and it was only by ees that they were induced to put tion to the test of an actual trial. W did adopt that test, however, it n d to satisfy them.

ripes must be horizontal, not verti fashionable frock.

00,000,000 IN THE BRITISH COURT NCERY!—A large part of this vast ngs to the people of America. C 41, Southampton Buildings, Holb ion, Eng., have just published a Li eirs to this enormous wealth. Ren a dollar and they will forward you able LIST; and if you find by it that ntitled to any money or property, c own. COX & Co. will show you hall Mediterranean oysters, consid ourmands as the most delicate of a s, are now canned for exportation

vention Better Than C

any of the diseases so prevalent in are caused by using soap contai re and infectious matter. Avoid by using PERFECTION Laundry S h is absolutely pure. Ask your g PERFECTION. Manufactured only
Toronto Soap Co.

A.P.9

RMS FOR SALE.—All kinds.—Send fo
JOHN J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR ERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACK

RE BRED AYRSHIRES for sale; two cow earling heifers and one bull. Write for d prices and pedigree to C. P. SAWER, Trafalga

ALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—100 ac miles east of the city of St. Thomas. F rs address J. J. LEWIS, New Sarum, Ont

ANTED—LADIES AND GENTLEME work at home. Salary $5 to $25 per nce no objection. No canvassing. No ris Home Manufacturing Company, 142 Fift rk City.

It is conceded by all that the DOMINION
BUSINESS COLLEGE, Kingston, is deserved e most popular business training sch da.

NOTICE

OUR NUMEROUS CONSUM

account of the tobacco crop of 1883 be we did not buy much, and selected only t as we always wish to keep our "T
" brand up to the standard; and th may be a scarcity of "T & B. Myrtle" P time. If such is the case there will be on the market by the end of October.
tobacco we are now about to manufa best we have ever had, and we know our numerous consumers.

Yours respectfully,

GEO. E. TUCKETT & SON

URNEY & WARE

STANDARD SCALES

he Best, Atd by the Fact ales are more of ominion than other makes ined. Hay, and Coal
s, Farmers' and Dairy Scales, Grocers' & Bak s, Scales for Domestic Use.

Housekeepers, Consult Your Bes Interests

rchasing a scale, and in buying one b the best. Our scales are fully warra particular. All sizes Railroad, Ware Mill Trucks, Alarm Money Dra sale by the Hardware Trade generall ted Catalogue and Price List forwarded asion.

URNEY & WARE
HAMILTON.

REHOUSES—Montreal and Winnipeg.

HOUSEHOLD.

Domestic Receipts.

COOKING FOR THE SICK.

EGG MILK PUNCH.—With one well-beaten egg beat a teaspoonful or so of sugar. Stir in a small glass of new milk and a cup of very hot tea. Sweeten to the taste.

GRAPE JUICE.—Squeeze two pounds of ripe grapes in a coarse cloth, after picking them from the stems. Add three tablespoonfuls of loaf sugar, and when this is dissolved, add one cup of cold water. Surround with ice until very cold.

MUTTON BROTH.—Cut up a pound of lean mutton into small pieces and add a quart of cold water. Let it simmer for three hours, then add a pinch of salt. Strain, cool and remove the fat if there is any.

RICE PUDDING.—Take two tablespoonfuls of clean rice or sago and soak in warm water two hours, then drain. Stir it in a pint of milk, add a little sugar and bake or boil half an hour.

LEMON JELLY.—Dissolve an ounce of isinglass in a pint of water, add a pound of loaf sugar, and the juice and rind of two lemons, boil for ten minutes and strain it into a mould.

BOILED CREAM.—Beat the yolks of four eggs, with three tablespoonfuls of sugar and the rind of a lemon (lightly) and juice of a small lemon, or orange. Add a teaspoonful of powdered sugar to the whites of the eggs and beat until stiff. Place the beaten yolks in a vessel over a pot of boiling water and cook gently, stirring all the time. When it thickens, stir in the whites until thoroughly mixed, then remove. Serve in small glasses.

ARROWROOT.—Lay in a bowl two Boston or Graham crackers split; sprinkle on a pinch of salt, and cover with boiling water. Set the bowl in a saucepan of boiling water, and let it stand thirty minutes, till the crackers look soft. Slide into a hot saucer without breaking, and eat with cream and sugar. Serve always very hot.

INDIAN MEAL GRUEL.—Mix three tablespoonfuls of corn meal with a little cold water and stir it into a quart of boiling water with a teaspoonful of salt. Boil one hour, strain and serve.

APPLE WATER.—Roast two sour apples and pour over them a quart of boiling water. Cover and let it stand for half an hour. A cup of washed dried apples may be used instead of the roasted apples.

Kitchen Hints.

To prevent flat-irons from scorching, wipe them on a cloth wet with kerosene.

Mortar and paint may be removed from window glass with hot, sharp vinegar.

Water weakens digestion and encourages the absorption of fatty and saccharine matter.

To bake pies to a fine brown, dip a clean piece of cloth in fresh cream, and brush lightly over the top crust before putting into the oven.

Everybody should live on the sunny side of their houses as much as possible, and allow mamma's genial rays to penetrate the rooms.

Do not eat fruit skins or seeds. The skin of an apple is as bad for your child as a bit of your kid glove would be; that of a grape more indigestible than sole leather.

For mildew stains, mix together soft soap, pulverized starch and half as much salt, and the juice of a lemon. Apply to the mildewed spots, and spread the garment on the grass.

To make linen beautifully white, prepare the water for washing by putting into every three gallons of water a large handful of powdered borax. Or, boil with the clothes one teaspoonful of spirits of turpentine.

To beautify the nails, hold them for fifteen minutes in warm water. Then, while white, cut carefully. Polish them with a piece of chamois skin dipped in a mixture of rose and very finely powdered pumice stone.

Many forms of toothache may be promptly and pleasantly relieved by chewing cinnamon bark. And cotton, soaked in two parts oil, ten parts of oil of almonds and six parts of glycerine, often allays earache.

It is said that by the following simple method almost instant relief of earache is afforded: Put five drops of chloroform on a piece of cotton or wool in the bowl of a clay pipe; then blow the vapor through the stem into the aching ear.

Bags of hot sand are much better than bags of hot water to place in the beds of those who require artificial heat. The sand retains heat longer than water, and the bags are more comfortable "bed-fellows" than bottles.

In the French Academy of Medicine Dr. Roche has made a valuable communication concerning the destructive effects of the persistent use of morphia on the teeth. He has proved that the victims have not a sound tooth left after a year's addiction to this habit.

Five grains of iodine dissolved in an ounce of turpentine forms a solution eminently useful in the treatment of ringworm of the scalp after the parts have been thoroughly washed and cleaned. It is a painless application, and may be employed at any age and to any part.

There is said to be nothing better for a cut than powdered resin. Pound it until fine and put in an empty, clean pepper box, with perforated top, then it can be easily sifted on the cut; put a soft cloth around the injured finger and wet it with cold water once in a while. It will prevent inflammation and soreness.

When the feet should be placed in warm water with mustard added, and the legs briskly rubbed, all bandages removed from the neck and a cool apartment procured if possible. In many cases of bleeding at the nose, when other remedies fail, Dr. Rush says, two teaspoonfuls of salt completely stops the blood.

To destroy ants: Drop some quicklime on the mouth of their nest, and wash it in with boiling water; or dissolve some camphor in alcohol, then mix with water, and pour into their haunts; or tobacco water, which has been proven satisfactory. They are averse to strong scents. Camphor will prevent moths infesting a cupboard, or a sponge saturated with creosote. To prevent their climbing up trees, place a ring of tar about the trunk of the tree, or a circle of rag moistened occasionally with creosote.

A dish familiarly known as "pepper pot," much sought for by the epicure, is made thus: Boil six pounds of tripe for one hour, then take it from the water in which it has boiled and put it into fresh water with a knuckle of veal. Let these boil for two hours, then put in some potatoes, onions, carrots, a little parsley, some celery salt or stalks of celery, and any other herb or vegetable your taste demands; plenty of salt is essential, and considerable black pepper. When the tripe is tender, cut it into small bits and put it back into the kettle. After removing the vegetables make a nice gravy. Dumplings may be served with this if you please. The best way to cook them is to steam them and then drop them into the boiling gravy just before serving. They are certain to be thoroughly cooked and be light if steamed for three-quarters of an hour.

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

"De fust annual installment of charity circulars has arrove," said Brother Gardner as Waydown Bebee ceased his mournful cough and Pickles Smith and Whalebone Howker ended their discussion on religion. "Hesh am a ciercular statin' dat werry large number of pussons will need help dis winter an' axin' what sum of money dis Lime-Kiln Club will appropriate.

"It am de same ole ding dong-bell which has rung in de ears of de world since de y'ar one. De poor hev bin wi'd us fur de las' 6,000 yar s, an' charity hez bin appeal-ed to ebery y'ar to help 'em. Am de poo', as a class, any better off to day dan dey war' at de start? De mo' we give de mo' we am axed to give, untie it hez come down to de pint dat de class who am willin' to work—who practice economy—who l'arn how to manage—who am determined to git ahead, hev a perpetual clog fastened to 'em in de shape of de shif less.

"Who am de shif'less man? Let us analyze him. As a boy he finds it mo' pleasant to fish, hunt an' loaf dan secure an' eddicashun or l'arn a trade. As a man dese habits stick by him. He works as a last resort. He sots up de claim dat de world owes him a libin', an' he makes de world support him. He am poo', unprincipled an' vicious. He marries de same sort of blood an' perpetuates it.

"De charity of a city like Detroit pours $ 00,000 per y'ar into de lap of idleness an' crime. It offers a premium on loaferism. It prevents stern Necessity from drivin' men an' boys to honest labor.

"Few men get ahead widout strict economy an' keerful management De rich doan' support all dese saloons an' tobacco stores an' cheap theaters. One an' all depend upon de shif'less poo' man. He chews an' smokes an' drinks beer and goes to de circus. He frows away de money he should spend fur wood an' clothes an' rent Economy am a word he h'as only when winter comes an' his job am gone. Den he turns about an' appeals to de keerful, savin' an' industrious man, who has denied himself all luxuries, to whack up wid him. It am simply black mail on industry. It am an encouragement to vice.

"All dis I may hev told you befo', but I tell it again dat you may not forgit it De poo' man who kin prove to me dat he has labored when work was to be had—dat his shillings an' nickels hev gone fur food an' clothing—dat he want airn instead of beg, kin depend upon me fur $2 a week all winter. Any odder pusson who axes me in de name of charity am a fraud who deserves a stone in place of bread."

NOT ALWAYS.

Prof. Gumboil Smith arose to a question of privilege. The other day a white man referred to him as a "coon" and "moke," and he had been severely censured by several members of the club for not resenting the insult. He would like a decision by the President.

"My dear brudder," said the President as he looked down upon him, "if it does sartin white men heaps of good to refer to cull'd men as 'coons' and 'mokes' I dunno why we should kick. It doan' spile our complexun nor make our hair kink any de wuss."

"I can't agree wid de President," announced the Rev. Penstock as he bobbed up. "De white man who insults me had better look out!"

"Brudder Penstock, sot down! Dar' were coons an' mokes long 'nuff afore you war' bo'n, an' some of 'em knowed fully as much as you do! De man no matter what his color, who gits his back up ebery time anybody shoots off his mouth will land up in de fool asylum afore he dies. De cha'r sustains Brudder Smith in preservin' a grin on his face when called a 'moke' and a 'coon.'"

RECONSIDERED.

The Hon. Anxiety Smith desired to call up the case of Jack Loney, LL. D, a 'bus driver at Ann Arbor. Application for membership was made some six months ago, but the committee reported unfavorably. Parties in Ann Arbor had informed them that Mr. Loney had purchased a liquid to straighten his hair, and intended to be of Indian descent. The committee decided that a man who would go back on his race would not enjoy himself in the Lime-Kiln Club. Brother Smith now desired to state that he had run the story to the ground, and that it was a base canard. Mr. Loney, far from wanting straight hair, was using aloes and alum water to make it kink the closer. He was a big-hearted, industrious, honest man, and it was hoped that the club would revise the action of the committee. After considerable discussion the applicant was made a member under a suspension of the rules.

A NEW CLUB.

The Secretary announced a communication from Friday Alexander Webster, of Ypsilanti, Mich., asking permission to organize a branch club in that city. As charter members he named James Embers, the Hon. Ed. Hawson, Judge Henry Gaines, Alexander the Great, Fatty Hawes, Edward Low and Bob Butler. None of these parties have lifted a pullet or carried off a watermelon during the last fifteen years, and all are believers in Beecher's latest theory.

The matter was referred to the Committee on Judiciary, with leave to visit Ypsilanti on a freight train, if positively necessary, and the meeting adjourned.

"Yours is a very dangerous occupation," said the philanthropist to the policeman. "Officers are sometimes killed while in the discharge of their duty," continued the philanthropist. "Yaas," yawned the policeman. "You're not afraid of death, then?" "Certainly not; our minister says death is only a sleep, and I ain't afraid of sleep."

YOUNG FOLKS.

The Little Dog's Lesson.

He was a very small dog, and a very restless and unhappy dog, because he considered himself a dog of no account. He envied the dog that was covered with spots, and ran all day under a great carriage. He envied the champion fighting dog of the town, because no one dared to pick him up by an ear or indulge in other familiarities unpleasant to a dog. And he was very jealous of the dog that wandered the streets without a home, because that dog did not have to submit to the indignity of a weekly bath.

One day when the unhappy little dog was running across the lawn in one of his most sorrowful moods, thoroughly dissatisfied with himself and the world generally, he espied a new ornament on the grass.

It was a large ball, apparently of quicksilver, and had great reflecting power; and when the dog saw himself in it he was simple electrified with surprise, for the ball magnified him into a dog of great size and dignity.

"I see," said the unhappy little dog, who was now happy, "that I am a large dog after all, and that I have been kept in ignorance of my size and strength that I might not become dangerous. I suppose it is the same with great animals. The elephant, in all probability, thinks he is no larger than a pig, and that is what makes him so gentle and kind. The next time that cat scratches me, I shall tell the mice to come out here some moonlight night and look at themselves, and they will discover that they are as large as sheep, no doubt, and that will be an end of Mr. Cat."

Then the little dog viewed himself with great pride and satisfaction. The silver ball did not increase his height as much as it did his breath; but it made him appear as high as a mastiff, and his muscles stood out like saplings and when he opened his mouth and saw what great teeth he had, he remarked:

"I think it a great shame that I did not know this before. Here I have been chased and wantonly bitten by little insignificant dogs, simply because I thought myself weak and harmless. But now that I know I am great, I shall have a big, brave heart to correspond. And I shall not deign to notice the small pet dogs I used to play with, but shall only associate with the large ones. I suppose I ought to go up the road now and have my revenge out of that bull-dog that gave me such a thrashing the other day."

So he bustled away, like a small man who has suddenly had greatness thrust upon him, and is full of his own importance. A little way up the road he met the bull-dog.

"How do you do?" said the bull-dog.

The other bowed haughtily.

"What's the matter with you?' asked the bull-dog; "haven't you had any dinner.?'

"Yes, and a good big one, too," replied the dog who had suddenly discovered his greatness.

"You seem to be rather out of sorts," said the bull-dog. "Perhaps your digestion is not good."

"I think I could digest you in a few minutes, Jack," replied the warlike.

"If you are going to treat me with haughty disdain," said the bull-dog, "you should call me by my last name, which is Stilton, with the prefix of Mr."

Here the warlike dog held his paw over his mouth to conceal the smile that played on his features.

"What are you laughing at?" demanded the bull-dog.

"I was just laughing at your name, and wondering if you are a member of the great Stilton Cheese family—that was all."

"That was enough," said the bull-dog: "in fact, a little too much. You should have controlled your features until you got off a little way. Don't you know it is not polite to snicker right in a dog's face?"

"I don't know whether it is or not, and don't care. I snicker whenever I please."

"Then you are no gentledog," said the bull-dog, "and I think I'll teach you such another wholesome lesson as I did when I thrashed you the other day."

"I was sick that day," relied the newmade warrior; "I had, only an hour before the fight, dined on lobster croquettes. But I am well to-day."

The details of a dog-fight are anything but entertaining. Therefore it is but necessary to state that the dog whose greatness existed only in a lawn reflector was taught a valuable lesson.

When he limped back home, all the other little dogs met him in the yard, and laughed until they had to hold their paws against their sides. And even the old hens caught the fit, and were obliged to put their heads under their wings to conceal their mirth.

And then the crest-fallen dog went down to look at himself again in the silver ball on the lawn. He was just as large as ever, but oh, how he was astonished at what he saw! He was covered with gashes, and every gash seemed an inch wide, and every mark of his opponent's teeth seemed as large as an auger hole; for the silver ball magnified the wounds just as it did the dog.

"Gracious!" said the vanquished champion, "that dog must be twice as large as he seems to be, and I am free to confess that I am about the saddest and wisest, if not the sorest, dog in this community. I shall fight no more, and I shall never again allow myself to be deceived into the belief that I am greater than any other dog."

Grandmother.

BY L. A. D. CHAMBERLIN.

I have a sunny corner in my home,
One corner where the shadows never come;
For when the glowing sun outside has set
Grandmother's sunshine lights the corner up.

Her features have the radiance of love;
Her voice the peaceful cadence of the dove;
Her silver hair a crown of glory shines,
Her winning way around all hearts entwines.

The very wrinkles on her placid face
Seem but to add a beautifying grace,
And to enchance her beauty as forsooth
Do dimples on the fair, plump cheek of youth.

The children know grandmother's corner well,
And run to her their troubles all to tell.
They're sure to find their clouds all scattered quite,
And hearts filled up again with sunshine bright.

No clouds e'er dim grandmother's corner bright,
For she has learned full well the source of light.
She draws in cheerful patience her supply,
And scatters it to every passer-by.

Dear Grandmother! would every home and heart
Had such a blessing in it as thou art.
Long be thy life, and lighter still thy days,
Until upon thee shall beam Heaven's perfect rays

HERE AND THERE.

A Madrid engineer is at work on a project for tunnelling from the mainland under Gibraltar and dynamiting the English garrison out of Spain.

In a household in Buncombe county, N. C., a large dish of peanuts has been placed on the dinner table for dessert every day in the year since the lady of the house took a fancy to fruit thirty years back.

The deaths in Europe from small-pox are said to be 60,000 annually. The mortality is almost wholly confined to civilians, as owing to constant vaccination and revaccination the armies are almost wholly free from the disease.

According to the Lancet, the recent visit to America of Dr. Keith, who came to perform a surgical operation, is the first instance since the Declaration of Independance of an American having summoned medical aid from the old country.

It is said that the king of Siam has 3,000 wives, and very few members of the male sex are allowed to enter the sacred precincts where they are housed. The king seems to have less confidence in his wives than does the average husband of an opera singer.

A cheese dealer states that much of the so called English cheese is made in this country and shipped to England, whence it is returned, enhanced in value by the sea voyage. Sometimes cheeses are shipped backward and forward two or three times, each voyage adding to the richness of their flavor.

The Practical Photographer suggests that in these days of convenient photographing appliances, those who visit in any official capacity scenes of murder, wreck, or riot should apply the camera before anything is disturbed, as the evidence thus gained, being incontrovertible, might possess incalculable value.

After a severe illness an Englishman shaved off his whiskers and otherwise disguised himself. He then went to his doctor and said he was a brother of the sick man, who, he asserted, was now dead. He thus obtained a certificate of his own death, had his own decease registered, drew the burial money from his lodge, and decamped.

Prize fighters evidently have not yet learned the most effectual methods of reducing their weight. The British Medical Journal tells of a fat pig which was buried under the chalk cliffs at Dover for 160 days. It weighed 160 pounds when immured, and when dug out turned the scale at 40 pounds. It thus lost 120 pounds in 160 days, and came out a very clean pig.

Frau Ruete, the wife of a Hamburg merchant and sister of Sultan Said Burgash, of Zanzibar, who for more than twenty years has been a resident of Germany, lately proceeded with her children to the native country on board the German man-of-war Ehrenfels, in order to reclaim the property wrongfully witheld from her by the Sultan. It is said that Admiral Knorr has been empowered to enforce her claim.

There is a patient in a Scotch infirmary suffering from a painful disease in which every person who uses a cane is interested. It is a sore of the hand, brought on by pressure of a round-knobbed stick against the palm; and in this case it has effected the muscles from the fingers to above the wrist. A speedy cure is not probable. The surgeons say that a stick with a handle instead of a knob on which the palm must press is the thing to carry.

A Frenchman claims to have discovered a method of preserving the body of the dead by a process of electro-plating, whereby statues of prominent people, "true to life," can be secured at comparatively small cost. Just think how pretty a room would look with the dear departed all standing about in full nickle, silver and gold. Unimportant relatives, mother-in-laws and such, could be done in copper-plate, which is comparatively inexpensive.

When in Norway Mr. Gladstone was much interested in the licensing system in vogue at Bergen, and requested the British vice-consul there to send him an account of its working. The public-houses of that town belong to a company, which, after deducting a percentage for the use of its capital, hands over the surplus profits to the municipality in aid of local improvements. A more easy way of paying for the latter could scarcely be devised.

Dr. Livingston, in the Zambesi, describes one of the most remarkable operations on record. A native woman had an arrow-head eight inches long in her back, slanting through the left lung towards the heart. She had been shot from behind while stooping. Air was coming out through the wound, and it was not deemed advisable to attempt an operation One of her relatives, however, cut out the arrow and part of the lung, and she not only became well, but stout.

Field Marshal Moltke, who spends his vacation at his country-sent, Creisau, devotes his time there to agriculture. He takes especial pride in his magnificent park, whose beauties he is fond of pointing out to visitors. He walks regulary every day to the Kapellenberg, a neighboring hill, where his wife and sister are buried, and where he too is to find his last resting place. A marble slab already marks the spot. The burial plot is surrounded by trees planted by himself.

There is now at Millwall, on the Thames, England, a small yacht, which will be propelled by electrical power. The boat is 36 feet in length by 7 feet in breadth. It is constructed of galvanized steel, lined inside with wood and lead. The accumulators are placed below the floor of the boat, so that, with the exception of a small compartment aft for the dynamos, the whole of the space is available for passengers. Two masts and a suit of sails are also fitted for use when required. In the course of a few days it is intended to take the yacht on a trial from Dover to Calais.

After a visit to some of the Alaska glaciers, Mr. Thomas Meehan states that beneath the Muir glacier, said to be four hundred miles long, flows a rapid torrent, which he estimates to be one hundred feet wide and four feet in average depth, and which runs summer and winter without interruption. At its termination the glacier hangs over the sea and gives off icebergs. Mr. Meehan remarks that the great ice sheets have their lakes, rapids, waterfalls, hills, valleys; that their waterways change their courses at times through the melting, and that melting proceeds freely in the sun's ray, but not in the shade.

AERIAL NAVIGATION.

Successful Experiments in Aerostation near Paris.

The new-born science of balloon navigation has advanced another step. There is no longer room to doubt that, given certain favorable atmospheric conditions, balloons may be guided for a time as easily as bicycles. Krebs and Renard, the Tissandier brothers, and the late Frederick Gower had all obtained partial success in steering their air ships; while a M. Clarin de la Rive, hailing from Burgundy, has just completed an aerostat which he claims will be infinitely more manageable and practicable than any yet invented. For two days recently thousands of people congregated on the banks of the Seine at Meudon to watch the fresh trial trips made by Captain Renard and his brother from the camp of Chalais.

MASTER OF THE AIR.

On the afternoon of each day their balloon rose suddenly in mid air, and, after remaining motionless for a short time, sailed off successively toward the east, west, north, and south, and finally took its course steadily toward the Point du Jour, about three miles from the starting point. Here the balloon, descending slightly, paused again; then, unresistingly obeying its steersman, it sailed back to the camp of Chalais, where it descended. The War Office authorities, who watched the trials, seemed satisfied that the problem had been solved; but experts tell me that the cost of working Captain Renard's balloon is still prohibitive, while even at the enormous cost it cannot be controlled for a long interval of time.

BALLOON STEERING.

The most recent feat in aerial navagation was performed in France on November 8, 1884, when Captains Renard and Krebs made a balloon voyage from Meudon to Bellancourt, and returned, alighting at the point from which they started in forty-five minutes. The aeronauts made a complete success in steering the balloon. This was the third attempt made by Captain Renard with his balloon steering apparatus. His second experiment was far from being satisfactory. He ascended at Meudon on September 13, expecting to go to the Champs Elysees, and was able for some seconds to sail against a strong breeze, but his attempt to rise or to return to his starting point was a failure, the propeller ceased to revolve after ten minutes, and he descended at Versailles. His first at empt was in August, 1884, when Captain Renard started from Meudon, and although the balloon moved against the wind it easily followed the course along which it was steered. It was then veered around and brought back to the point from which it started. The success of this feat created the greatest interest in all the military circles of Europe, and M. Herve Maujon brought the matter to the attention of the French Academy of Sciences. Captain Renard's balloon was cigar shaped, and pointed at each extremity—not simply underneath, as is usually the case. In the car were seats for two aeronauts, and the balloon had a directing apparatus and a rudder. The force was obtained by a series of electric accumulators of ten horse power, and the balloon was operative for four hours.

BRISSON'S FAILURE.

On October 29th, 1883, an experiment took place at the Place de la Defense, Courbevoie, Paris, which comprised a sensational balloon ascent and the use of a new contrivance for aerial navagation invented by M. Brisson. The apparatus was lozenge-shaped, and could be compared to the upper deck of one of the small passenger steamers which cross from Dover to Calais. It was a sort of a platform, safely surrounded by iron railings, one of which at the height of two yards served as a support for another platform, on which nine parachutes, in the shape of a cup, about 45 inches high, were placed side by side. These cupolas were supposed to reserve under their airtight domes a certain quantity of air considered to be less dense than the interior layer of air. The apparatus in its descent was expected to displace a volume of air equal to its proper weight, and consequently to find its support upon a layer of air more dense than that stored under the cupolas. At about 5 p. m. the balloon started, with M. Brisson's apparatus attached to it, with a sudden rush, and disappeared in less than two minutes in a thick fog. The next day one of the aeronauts reported that after leaving Courbevoie his party plunged into a thick fog, but at an altitude of 300 yards the sky was fine and bright, and the setting sun gave a brilliant light. A sudden expansion of the gas made them ascend 1,600 metres without having to throw out any ballast. Having reached that altitude a strong pull was given to the safety valve, and almost immediately the balloon descended with a certain rapidity which one of the aeronauts attempted to control in order to see whether M. Brisson's apparatus would offer any resistance, or, in other words, remain in the air by itself. The cable to which the apparatus was fixed did not even bend, and consequently the result of the experiment was entirely unsatisfactory. At about six hundred metres' altitude the aeronaut had to regulate the descent by throwing out ballast, as he was afraid to make the land too swiftly. Finally a successful landing was made at Maladrerie of Poissy.

GRIMLEY'S ATTEMPT.

In June, 1870, Professor Grimley started on a balloon voyage from Montreal for New York in the airship Canada, but he had a fearful experience, and came near losing his life. After ascending for the first few hundred feet it was found that the trip could not be made on account of the poor quality of the gas used. The wheels for steering and the rudder of the aerial car worked splendidly, and although the balloon had drifted away from the point of starting a few turns of the crank brought it to the same spot again. The aeronaut started at eighteen minutes to eight p. m., and landed in safety at ten p. m. in the village of St Jules, forty-five miles distant from Montreal.

THE BALLOON FALLACY.

In September, 1878, Professor C. R. Ritchell's air ship was sent up at Hartford, Conn. It consisted of a balloon above and a revolving vertical screw, worked by hand power, beneath for lifting purposes, and a horizontal screw for steering. It illustrated the balloon fallacy to a nicety. What it gained from the balloon in buoyancy it lost in the large surface exposed to the wind. The balloon was made to balance exactly at the earth's surface the weight to be carried. In a four mile breeze it could be steered, but at a little increase above that force it was drifted miles to leeward.

The Standard.

MARKDALE OCTOBER 8, 1885.

GLENELG FALL SHOW.

A DECIDED SUCCESS.

Glenelg Township Agricultural Society held its Fall Show in their grounds Markdale on Thursday and Friday last. The weather was all that could be desired, and the attend ance was largest yet seen on such an occasion. There were a greater number of entries than any previous year. Though everything passed off orderly and very satisfactorly to all concerned, yet one thing was lacking, and which in our opinion should not have been so on any consideration, viz., the presence of our brass band, the band offered to play the afternoon for $10, and we have no doubt had they been engaged, and advertised to that effect, the extra gate receipts would have paid the amount so that it would cost the society nothing, as it was however the receipts at the gate amounted to $87, being some $22 in excess of last year. There were a large display of horses, and a constant speeding was kept up through the greater part of the day. In cattle the exhibit was small though some fine animals were on the ground Thos. Brady showed a yearling bull which weighed on the morning of the show 1,420 lbs. Shepherdson of Euphrasia had a very large exhibit of good sheep, and carried off about all the prizes in that class. Mr. Mason had a number of fine carriages, and Noble of Markdale and Pulford of Walkerton had a fair display of agricultural implements. The poultry was a leading feature of the Show. A very convenient poultry house was erected a year ago. and enlarged this year, yet there is not room, there being this year 53 pens of the feathered tribe. R. Montgomery of Markdale had a very creditable exhibit having 34 birds which carried off a large number of prizes. The hall was well filled, and should be enlarged. W. A. Brown, Jewellar, had a fine display of Silverware, timepieces of various dimentions &c., Fred Moffat of this village had a handsome display of scroll sawing in various forms, one clock case made of 140 pieces was very handsome and disp'ayed great taste and ingenuity. We uudersland Fred intends exhibiting at Toron to Industrial next year. Thos. Moffat showed splendid specimens of pencil drawing, also pen and ink drawing; these were very much a laired. The ladies' department was indeed creditable. James Hamilton had a large and very fine display of photos. In fruit the exhibit was small, but the quality good. The quantity of butter was average, and the quality excellent. The roots and vegetables were much better than we expected to see, in fact in this department the show astonished the spectators. We noticed in one portion of this class the exhibitor had taken the trouble to mark the name of the exhibitor on the entry tickets, thus breaking the rules and doubtless throwing himself out of a number of prizes. The grain, except spring wheat, was good, though not very largely exhibited, only two entries of spring wheat was showed. Tnos. Mathews exhibited a number of sets of harness which showed fine workmanship.

LADIES ONLY.

The complexion is often rendered unsightly by Pimples, Liver Spots., and Yellowness. These it is well known are caused from an inactive Liver and bad blood. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure purifies the blood and whole system. See Recipe Book for for toilet recipes, hints and suggestions on how to preserve the complexion. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Oct.

Kimberly.

From our own correspondent.

Times are lively, and building brisk.

Wm. Stuart sold four village lots last week in two days, subject to building.

The long talked of Valley Road has been finally settled, by the most interested parties building the bridges and giving most of the loan gratis.

Municipal matters ar quiet. We think as each corner of the township has a councillor and the Reeve in the center, we cannot mend matters much.

Mr. J. Thurston found a bee tree. He is quite an expert in the business.

Mr. Samuel Gaudin, our school teacher, has been sick this last week and unable to teach. He is getting something better.

Rev. Mr. Wilson, Presbyterian Minister, preached here on Sunday of last week in the Methodist church. We wish he could visit us frequently.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, re duced at $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan, Elevator, Resturant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevat ed railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

LOST!

How many people of both sexes are suffering from lost vitality, all broken down, and on the verge of Consumption that might be restored, as many have been when given up to die, if they would use Burdock Blood Bitters, which restores lost vitality and gives new vigor to the debilitated system.

Flesherton.

From our own correspondent.

A case of theft was tried before J. W. Armstrong, J. P., on Thursday afternoon being that of charge of home theft preferred by one David McMullen against a Mr. Whitby of Eugenia. Mr. Whitby claimed to have purchased the colt from some tin pedlars. After the hearing of the case the magistrate committed Mr. Whitby to stand his trial at assizes. Constable Field escorted the prisoner to Owen Sound.

The Temperance, Convention held in this place on Friday afternoon last, was not as largely attended as was expected and desired. Mr. Provincial D. D. G. M. of the Sons organization was present to assist in the organization of County Districts or Divisions. In the evening the Flesherton Division gave a free entertainment consisting of music and short addresses. There were a good number present, and an enjoyable evening was spent. A. R. Fawcett, Esq., performed the duties of chairman in a very creditable manner.

The Educational sermons in connection with the Methodist church here on Sabbath last. The Rev. Wesley Casson, of Markdale, delivered a very impressive sermon in the morning and the Rev. Mr. Howell, M. A., of Owen Sound, (District Chairman), delivered a very carefully prepared and eloquent address from the words, "Am I my brother's keeper."

CALLED HOME.—Such can be said of the late Joseph Hind who died at his residence here on Sabbath evening at the ripe old age of 85 years. Deceased was among the first settlers in this township and endured many of the inconveniences of the pioneer. Retiring from farm life a number of years ago with part of his family became a resident in this village. Under all circumstance he was always happy and cheerful, and altho' for the last few months a great sufferer, he maintained that same happy cheerfulness to his last moment. Having lived the life of the righteous, he died the death of the same, and passed peacefully away to an inheritance which fadeth not away.

A cottage social, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid, held at the residence of Mr. Wm. Neal, in this village, on Monday evening, was fairly attended. Quite an enjoyable evening was spent in various amusements.

A SPEEDY CURE.

As a speedy cure for Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhœa, Colic, Cramps, Sick Stomach, Canker of the Stomach and Bowels, and all forms of Summer Complaints, there is no remedy more reliable than Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Dealers who sell it and those who buy it are on mutual grounds in confidence of its merits.

A Woman's Want of Pockets.

How amusing to notice, as one walks the crowded streets, that nearly every lady carries her pocket-book in her hand. But for the well-known fact that they generally have very little money in them, and are mainly stuffed out with recipes for cake, memoranda of articles to be gotten while shopping, bits of poetry cut from newspapers, and such trifles, valuable only to the owners, we can think on no greater temptation to the street thief than to snatch from their slender fingers the lightly held articles. Then, as though women hadn't care enough about their clothes, they generally carry a few small packages besides. It is almost a rarity to see a man go along the street with his arms fettered with bundles; it is almost an equal rarity to see a woman entirely free from them. Hence a walk usually invigorates a man and fatigues a woman. The main difference is in pockets. Every possible nook and corner of a man's suit that can be utilized has a neat safe substantial pocket in it. He puts his watch, his money, his handkerchief, knife, and other little personal conveniences safely away in these; he has no other concern for their safety. He is not constantly asking, "Did I lay down my purse here?" or, "Have you seen my handkerchief?"

HIGHEST PRAISE.

The well-known drug firm of N. C. Polson & Co., of Kingston, writes that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has long been considered the best remedy for Summer complaints in the market, and adds that their customers speak in the highest terms of its merits. Wild Strawberry is the best known remedy for Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and all Bowel Complaints.

How He Knew He Wasn't Married.

"Who's the new boarder over the way?" asked Mrs. Bluff of her husband?"

"I don't know," he replied.

"Is he married?"

"No."

"How do you know?"

"Oh, I know."

"I thought you said you didn't know him."

"I don't."

"Then how do you know he isn't married?"

"I heard him singing 'Heaven is my home,' as I came by last night."

MARVELOUS.

One dose of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure will cure Sick Headache, Dizziness, and Sour Stomach. 1 to 2 bottles are warrented to cure Liver Complaint, Indigestion and Biliousness. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Oct

Monthly Fairs.

Orangeville—The second Thursday in each month.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.

Markdale—Saturday before Orangeville.

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.

Chatsworth—Monday before Durham.

Holland Centre—Saturday before Chatsworth.

Priceville—Monday before Durham

Hanover—Monday before Durham.

Walkerton—Last Wednesday in every month.

Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.

Notices of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, twetnty five cents.

MARRIAGES.

MCLACHLAN—MCINNES.—On Wednesday, the 30th Sept., at the residence of the bride's mother, by the Rev. D. McLeod, Mr. Neil McLachlan, to Miss Mary Ann, daughter of the late Donald McInnes, all of Glenelg.

DEATHS.

LAMB—In Glenelg, on the 5th inst., William Lamb, brother of Mr. Joseph Lamb, of this village, aged 26 years.

KERR—At her late residence Euphrasia, on the 1st inst., Mrs. Ann Kerr, wife of the late James Kerr, aged 62 years.

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; Wm. Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer Meeting every Thursday evening from 8 to 9. Rev. Wesley Casson. Pastor; G. S. Bowes, S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in connection; Mrs. T. Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in their Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting brethren welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets in their Hall, McDougall's block, every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A visit from brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in their Hall on Friday on or before full moon each month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Blakely, Secretary.

FARM FOR SALE OR TO RENT.

LOT North ½ 16 on the 11th concession, Holland, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, 30 acres in good state of cultivation, the balance hay and pasture. There is on the farm a good log house and frame kitchen, a good well near the house also a log barn. School and Post-office on the next lot. Will rent for a term of years and take improvements for rent, or will sell on easy terms. For particulars apply to

JAMES BRUCE,
Lilly Oak,
Or to William Steele, Ionia, Michigan.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

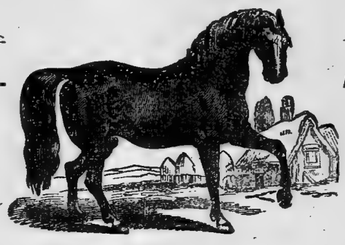
GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Goderich.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

—:o:—

Preparatory to taking in a partner and reorganizing my business, I have determined to reduce stocks to the lowest point; I shall therefore from this date sell for CASH ONLY the whole of my stock of

Dry Goods, Clothing, Boots & Shoes, &c., &c.,



At prices hitherto unheard of. My customers and the public are invited to give me a call at the TORONTO HOUSE.

Oct. 8th, 1885. WM. BROWN.

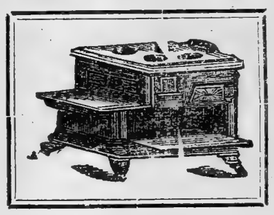
265-tf

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.



VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE.

Office & Infirmary: SYDENHAM ST., Opposite Markdale House, MARKDALE.

Stoves! Stoves!

Cook Stoves, $16.50 Trimmed Parlor Stoves, Coal Stoves, Box Stoves, All equally low.

Hardware, Lance tooth Saws Buck Saws, Hand Saws, Axes, Nails, Glass, Putty &c. At bottom prices.

☞ Intending purchasers will do well to give us a call as we cannot be undersold.

WALKER BRO'S,

MARKDALE.

3m

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities but if further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER &Co., - - Chemists and Druggists,

MARKDALE, ONT,

The only place in town where they can be obtained.

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

Burdock Blood Bitters

Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice. Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

Important Notice.

I take this means of informing the public generally, that I have opened in

MARKDALE

An Agency for the sale of the famous

DOHERTY ORGAN"

And world renowned

Singer Sewing Machine."

The Doherty stands at the head of the list as either a Parlor or Chapel Organ. For length and variety of tone, as well as beauty of finish and durability, it stands without a peer.

The Singer Sewing Machine is known all over the continent as the most perfect and durable machine in the market. Those who anticipate purchasing anything in the above lines will consult their own best interests by giving me a call before closing a bargain elsewhere.

Office in Dunlop's old stand, Markdale.

HUGH WILLIAMS.

Store to Rent in Makdale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent, Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

ESTRAY.

CAME to the premises of the subscriber on lot North ½ 14, con. 10, Holland, about the middle of July, a red yearling steer. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take him.

ROBT. BRADLY,
Lily Oak, P. O.

FARM FOR SALE.

THAT excellent farm in the township of Artemesia, Co. of Grey, known as Mount Hope, lots 117 and 118, con. 2, north-east of Durham and Sydenham Gravel Road, containing 100 acres, 80 acres cleared and in a high state of cultivation, well fenced in large fields and a lane through the center, has a good hardwood bush, large frame house and good stabling, frame driving house and a good frame dwelling house, never failing well, a good orchard, 14 acres fall wheat. This farm is 3½ miles from the thriving village of Markdale and 5½ miles from Flesherton. For further particulars apply on the premises, or letter to

A. NODWELL,
Markdale P. O., Ont.

Important Auction Sale Of Valuable Village Property.

THERE will be sold by Public Auction on Saturday, October 3rd, 1885, at 3 o'clock p. m. at the Revere House, Markdale, the following Village Property: One-half acre situated on Toronto Street, opposite the Markdale House, adjoining Hill Bro's Block, and within eight rods of the Post-Office. This is a very desirable property, and suitable either for a business site or for private dwelling; being situated in the centre of the Village and will be sold either in one parcel or divided to suit purchaser.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-fourth of purchase money payable at time of sale, balance to be paid in one or two annual payments from date of sale to suit purchaser; to be secured by mortgage with interest at 6 per cent. per annum. Title indisputable. For further particulars apply to

GEORGE NOBLE,
Auctioneer.

MENT.

and reorganizing my stocks to the lowest sell for CASH ONLY

Shoes, &c., &c,

customers and the
the TORONTO HOUSE.

M. BROWN.

, V. S., erinary College.

Horses Examined
For Soundness and Certificates
Given.

—o—

PT & DISPENSED
ARGES MODERATE.
e, MARKDALE.

oves!

Hardware,
Lance-tooth Saws
Buck Saws,
Hand Saws,
Axes, Nails,
Glass, Putty &c.
At bottom prices.

ll to give us a call as

BRO'S,
MARKDALE.

NCE'S
ye-Glasses

ARTICLES RKET.
in stock.
prove Genuineness.

ave been received from the ice-President of the Medical ge of Physicians and Sur-y of Laval University; the al of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

t to prove their qualities

hemists and Druggists,
NT.
can be obtained.
principle.

Indigestion, Biliousness,
f the Liver and Kidneys,
Salt Rheum, Scrofula,
ing from Impure Blood, action of the Bowels.

Important Notice.

take this means of inform-the public generally, that re opened in

MARKDALE

An Agency for the sale of famous

DOHERTY ORGAN"

And world renowned

Singer Sewing Machine."

The Doherty stands at the of the list as either a Paror Chapel Organ. For wth and variety of tone, well as beauty of finish and ability, it stands without peer.

The Singer Sewing Machine known all over the continent the most perfect and dure machine in the market.
ose who anticipate purch-g anything in the above will consult their own best ests by giving me a call fore closing a bargain else-ere.

Once in Dunlop's old stand,
arkdale.

HUGH WILLIAMS.

Store to Rent in Makdale.

E Store in Reynold's Block to rent,
Application as to terms can be obtained
Arthur Lyons, Markdale, or
JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

ESTRAY.

AME to the premises of the subscriber on North ½ 14, con. 10, Holland, about middle of July, a red yearling steer.
Owner is requested to prove property, charges and take him.

ROBT. BRADLY,
Lily Oak, P. O.

FARM FOR SALE.

HAT excellent farm in the township of Artemesia, Co. of Grey, known as Mount Lots 117 and 118, con. 2, north-east ct, and Sydenham Gravel Road, con-ns 100 acres, 80 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, well fenced in ous fields and a lane through the center, ains good hardwood bush, large frame rn and good stabling, frame driving house a good frame dwelling house, never failing ring good orchard. 14 acres fall wheat. This rm is 9½ miles from the thriving village of ndale and 5½ miles from Flesherton. For her particulars apply on the premises, or dress to

A. NODWELL,
Markdale P. O., Ont.

Important Auction Sale
Of Valuable Village Property.

HERE will be sold by Public Auction on Saturday, October 3rd, 1885, at 3 o'clock p.m. at the Revere House, Markdale, the following Village Property: One-half acre ground on Toronto Street, opposite the Revere House, adjoining Hill Bro's Block, and within eight rods of the Post-Office.
This is a very desirable property, and suitable either for a business site or for private dwelling, being situated in the centre of the Village, and will be sold either in one parcel or divided to suit purchaser.

TERMS OF SALE.—One fourth of purchase money payable at time of sale, balance to be made in one or two annual payments from date of sale to suit purchaser; to be secured by mortgage with interest at 6 per cent. per annum. Title indisputable. For further particulars apply to

GEORGE NOBLE,
Auctioneer.

Markdale, Sept. 14, 1885.

SELLING OUT!

SELLING OUT!

—o—

PRICES SLAUGHTERED!

Having fully decided to give up business in Markdale on Feb. 24th, 1886, that being the day on which my lease expires, I will offer at greatly reduced prices the whole of my very large and well assorted stock of General Goods, amounting in value to over "Twenty Thousand Dollars" ($20,000).

This is no humbug or advertising scheme. I am bound to sell out, and sell I will. No matter what other merchants may tell you, do not be humbuged by them. Don't you lay out even a ten cent piece until you have called and seen my stock and ascertained prices. I expect a tremendous rush for my goods during this fall and winter. I will make the prices right for you every time. Please call and see for yourself and be convinced that I will only sell you first-class goods at much lower prices than you can purchase the commoner goods for that are kept in other stores.

This great slaughter in prices will continue from now until Feb. 24, '86. Extraordinary value in Boots & Shoes and Ready-made clothing. Having purchased two very large wholesale stocks in the above lines away below regular prices, I can confidently offer you "Great Bargains."

Don't fail to see my five and ten cent counters, your choice of any article on them for 5 and 10 cents, worth from 15 cents to 75 cents each.

500 barrels prime Goderich Salt only 75 cts. per barrel.

Long Clear Bacon, choice quality, only 7 cents per lb. by the side. All other goods away down in prices. Remember don't you buy until you have seen my stock and inquired prices.

Thanking my numerous customers for their liberal patronage during the time I have been in Markdale, and soliciting a continuance of the same during the time I shall remain,

I am respectfully yours,

J. R. Trimble.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 20, con. 10, Euphrasia, nine miles from the flourishing village of Markdale, and one lot from Post Office. This farm is well watered, solid clay loam, contains 100 acres 45 of which is cleared and under cultivation and the balance fine hardwood timber, also a frame barn 36 x 56 thereon. Terms easy, for particulars apply to

THOS. MUXLOW,
Goring P. O.
263-73 Adjoining the premises.

STRAYED.

FROM the premises of Thos. Muxlow, lot 20, con. 11, Euphrasia, about the 20th May last, seven yearlings, (four heifers and three steers) one heifer nearly all red, one heifer light brindle and the others spotted red and white. Any person giving such information as will lead to their whereabouts will be suitably rewarded.

THOS. MUXLOW,
263-5 Goring P. O.

Public Notice.

IN the matter of Henry Foster, of the village of Williamsford, in the County of Grey, general merchant, Insolvent.

Take notice that the above named Insolvent has made an assignment to me under the provisions of "The Ontario Act" respecting assignments for the benefit of creditors, and you are hereby notified that if you have any claim or claims against the said Henry Foster, you are requested to file your claim or claims with me duly proven within one month from the date hereof, and also attend a meeting of Creditors to be held at the Albion Hotel, in the City of Toronto, on Friday, the 25th day of September instant, at 10 a. m.

WM. LUCAS,
Assignee.
Markdale, 18th Sept., 1885. 263-66

RUPTURED
AND DEFORMED.

CHAS. CLUTHE, the most practical and experienced man on this Continent for relieving and curing Rupture and Deformities of every description. It will be to your advantage to call on me, 45,000 Trusses adjusted in person. Thousands of Deformed treated. Established 15 years. I will have a full supply of these celebrated Trusses with me at the following places:—

Markdale, Markdale House, Monday, Oct. 26.
Orangeville, Paisly House, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

Send 6c. stamp for registered Illustrated Book on Rupture and Human Frame by

CHAS. CLUTHE, Surgical Machinist,
118 King Street West, Toronto, Ont.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

3 TEACHERS WANTED

FOR Markdale Public School, duties to commence 1st January next, one male holding second, and two females with third class certificates. Give salary wanted and grade of certificate held. Applications taken up to 20th of November.

B. COLEMAN,
Secretary.
264-65 Markdale, Ont.

STRAYED.

FROM the premises of the subscriber, lot 10, con. 10, Euphrasia, about the second week in July, 3 yearlings, two heifers and a steer, one heifer dark brindle, the other two spotted red and white. Any person giving such information as will lead to their recovery will be suitably rewarded.

W. J. BLAKELY,
264-67 Markdale P. O.

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING,
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

An Awful Adventure.

In the Teeth of a Tornado—A Thrilling Experience.

We were riding toward the northeast, having been to a ranch lying toward the Vega Pass, though a number of miles this side of it. That feeling which the birds had awakened had proved very transient. My sister suddenly asked in a tone of interest, untinged by fear, if we had noticed the cloud in the southwest, and was it customary for Colorado skies to exhibit such freaks? Upon that we all turned us about, and as Nan, with a quick cry, pulled up her horse, we also stopped our ponies and gazed. Speaking for myself, I only felt then a keen interest, without alarm, at the sight before me. Until I looked at my cousin's face I did not think of fear. A great way off it appeared to me, I was told afterward it must have been about ten miles distant when we first saw it, was a cloud absolutely black. For the first time I knew what the phrase "inky blackness" meant. Neither before nor since have I ever seen a cloud of that colour. It was roughly cone-shaped, the point toward the earth. But even its shape and colour were not the most terrible things about it. The mass was "boiling." No other word applies to the incessant rapid changes in its texture, which all the time preserved its blackness, and through it there were constant flashes of lightning. But we heard no thunder then. I shall never forget the whiteness that came to Nan's face. Without knowing that I saw them, I yet remembered afterward that her fingers clutched painfully about the bridle and that she reeled slightly in her saddle.

"Let me think," she said in a low voice. I did not speak, but my sister, who did not see Nan's face, said in a common-place voice:

"Is not that rather a belligerent specimen of a cloud?"

Nan did not apparently hear her; she sat silent for perhaps half-a-minute, then she turned to us and said quickly:

"I hope you can ride fast. We can't get home; what good if we could? There is a narrow gulch about a mile and a half from here. It's the only place I know."

She turned her horse sharply to the right and told him fiercely to go. We followed, riding as I had never ridden before. The horses caught fire from us and raced on in that wild way they have, which is not like the manner of horses in the East. In spite of the fear which now possessed us all, there was a certain glorious feeling in that ride. After we had turned we could look off at our right at the cloud, which was rushing on with terrible quickness, and which I now fancied was pursuing us, and us alone.

Suddenly there was a thunderous sound toward the west, and looking that way I saw a vast herd of cattle sweeping on, a dark surging mass, with tossing horns glancing white in the sunshine, for the sun was shining brilliantly at this time. It was a stampede. I never knew whether they were frightened by the cloud or had been urged on by the unexplained impulse that some times comes to them to flee madly over the plains. At another time this sight would have been of stirring interest; now I did not care to watch the flight of the cattle. I was too intent on our own race against the cloud. The lightning was playing through the black vapor incessantly. More clouds, having the appearance of common "thunder heads," rose and dispersed themselves over the sky, and at last obscured the sunlight. It was a relief to me when the sun ceased to shine, for the scene seemed less abnormally terrific.

Within a few rods of the opening of the gulch I heard a roar, as of oncoming wind. Nan cried out again to her horse, the animals lurched forward yet faster, and in a moment we were all entering the ravine. It was extremely uneven ground, and covered by broken sharp stones. My sister and I were watching Nan; she slipped off the saddle and hurriedly motioned to us to do the same. The instant we were dismounted the horses scrambled rapidly forward further into the gulch, and we did the same, Nan now in the rear, and driving us along. That night I found my shoes cut, and a gash in my foot, but I did not feel the wound when I received it. While we were thus hurrying to get to the deepest shelter of the gully, the roar above us was awful, and was increasing every moment. It reverberated strangely through the ravine. We could not have heard a word had we spoken. We all stopped simultaneously and looked at each other. They were two very white faces that I saw, with strained frightened eyes. Nan made a movement with her head that we were not to go on; and we crouched down against the rocky sides of the earth. The next instant Emma leaned heavily upon me, and silently pointed upward toward the chasm's opening, were we had entered. The black cloud was just going past our point of vision; it had dilated to twice its former size, but still retained its cylinder shape. If it could be possible it was more dense then ever, and boiling in its blackness. Balls of fire sped back and forth in the air; or my sight was under a hallucination to that effect. All the phenomena seemed to have their center in that cone of black cloud. The strangest, the most awful thing of all that fearful experience was what I saw now. Behind that black cloud, whether following it or driving it I know not, came a tall cloud of intensest, most dazzling white—a pillar of glory, growing every instant more like a pillar of fire, and soon appearing to control the inky shape. The roaring noise was now at its height. In a moment the two mysterious shapes had passed from our contracted line of vision; they marched on destroying as they went. The crash of timber along a stream not far off, the cannonading of the thunder, which had now opened its forces, and above all the overwhelming roar of the wind, made us shrink and cower closer together. A fiercer blast caused us to throw ourselves flat on the stony ground grasping at each other's hands. So ignorant was I that I believed at the time that we were in the full power of the tornado, instead of being sheltered by the walls of the gulch. Afterward I knew that we could hardly have saved our lives had we not been able to reach this ravine.

Once I felt a touch on my head, from which my hat had long since gone. I found that it was one of the horses. They had all come back from their first run up the gulch to be near us; the three stood huddled close by, when we had a chance to look. As I recall things in a dream, so I recall the incidents of the time while we remained in that refuge. Once, in a glare of the lightning, and while my eyes were open and my head raised, I saw several objects flying over the top of the gulch. They were sheep, and their dead, bruised bodies were found, as if they had been flung hard against the ground, after the storm. Once something came down close by me, hitting my hand where I had dug my fingers unconsciously down into the earth. It was a small prairie dog, and it lay still in death, near me. Many prairie hens the next day were found dead, with almost all their feathers stripped off by the wind. While the terror lasted there was hardly a lull in the ferocity of it. I thought we had been hours hiding there when at last the rain began to come down heavily, and a moment after the wind sensibly diminished to a hard gale. We were directly soaked thoroughly, but I think none of us cared for that. The hurling noise of the storm was still deafening, but we felt that the worst was over, for us at least. That demon cone of cloud was flying further on its road of destruction, but it had left us.

ADA GREEN'S QUEER HISTORY.

Coming All the Way from Cuba to Go to Jail in Company with her Husband

Ada Green, the young Cuban wife who traced her husband to Virginia some weeks ago, was brought before the court for burglary. Her story, as given in her testimony, is romantic.

"I was born in the West Indies eighteen years ago," she said, "and my occupation is that of a dressmaker. I left Cuba several years ago and went to Philadelphia. While in that city I became acquainted with William Hicks and married him. He deserted me, and I returned to my home in Cuba. Some time elapsed before I could obtain any tidings of his whereabouts, but finally I learned that he was in this country and in trouble. I immediately left Cuba and landed in New York. From New York I went to Philadelphia and Boston and diligently searched for him. At last I heard that he was in Richmond and in prison. I came on to Richmond, passing through Washington, where I put on male attire. When I found that my husband was in jail I set to work to know how I could get to him. I concluded to commit theft that I might be sent to jail, where I could be with him."

The wife told her story calmly, and excited much sympathy in its recital. She had no idea of the enormity of the crime she committed. After she got in jail she constantly talked with her husband, and was with him several times in his cell. She talked so loudly that she was overheard by some of her fellow prisoners, and they communicated their suspicions to the officers. The evidence was dead against her, and she pleaded guilty. Many bystanders were touched at the scene. The officers of the court will sign a petition requesting the Governor to commute her sentence to twelve months in jail. Even with this commutation her husband will be out of jail some months before her. During part of her varied experience she served as cabin boy on a ship.

The Phantom Headlight.

Hank Van Buskirk is one of the bravest and best engineers that ever set foot in a locomotive's cab. He is noted for nerve, and the daring speed to which he sometimes urges his fiery steed has made him a sort of a hero among the boys of the C. & A. road, over which he has pulled trains for many years and has been phenomenally successful in avoiding serious accidents. Hank has a world of warm friends, but they are mostly railroad chums, and we all know how they delight in joking each other when they get the age or rubber upon some luckless brother employe. When Hank first began service for the C. & A. he had no silver in his locks and no gold in his handsome pear y ivories. But for a peculiar circumstance that happened early in his career he might still be young and happy. He was pulling the "Denver Express" from Roodhouse to Bloomington at that time, they say, with Conductor Latham on deck. Suddenly the shrill-voiced whistle called a halt and the train slackened its speed as the air brakes pinched the grinding wheels. In a moment the long line of passenger coaches came to a stand-still. Fortunately the train was only a few rods from a switch, and it was but the work of a minute to side-track, to allow the approaching engine to pass. The passengers hurriedly dressed and secreted their valuables, thinking that the James brothers were about to make them an early and informal call. The train men all got down with their lanterns to see what the trouble might be. They sat down on the track to await the arrival of the strange engine and conjecture as to its possible mission. Some said it was an extra wild train, but no one could understand why it should encroach upon their time, as they were not late and had not been informed of any such extra. After they had smoked and guessed about the approaching intruder and swapped lies for about a half hour it began to dawn upon the boys all was not right. The headlight of the approaching engine had veered to the right a degree or so and was considerably higher than it was when first seen. The truth seemed to strike them all at once—it was the silvery moon—and not a headlight. But there it stood right in their way. Hank hung his head and stole quietly into his cab. The whistle sounded dolefully as Hank gave it a feeble pull. When the switch was cleared the throttle was pulled wide open, and no engine ever flew over the rattling rails as this one did. The train was less upon the track than in the air. It was the best time ever made on that road until the screeching and rumbling and hissing monster shot into Jacksonville like a catapult.

For a long time the boys called Hank "Silvery Moon," "Flying Dutchman," and other similar pseudonyms.

Smith—"Does Mr. Jimson live here?" Darkey—"No, sah; he did lib heah, but he moved away de odder night." "Left in bad odor, did he?" "Yes, sah; he had de wust bref yo' ebber smelt, sah."

A paper announces that "men make big and sudden jumps in the United States." Yes, and if they happen to have about their clothes a few hundred thousand dollars belonging to some one else, their jump usually brings them down on the Canadian side of the boundary.

STRANGE BUT TRUE.

Stanley, the explorer, says that on several occasions he bought his life of wild tribes for a pound of two-shilling powder.

A woman in Allentown, Pa., goes to sleep every evening at 9 o'clock, and sleeps soundly until 5 o'clock the next afternoon, and has been keeping up this practice uninterruptedly for eighteen months past. Her health is of the best.

The California papers report that a new species of bear has been discovered on Mt. Shasta which is found in no other part of the world. It is about the size of a shepherd dog, is white and very ferocious. Three have been killed lately.

The terrors of the cyclone have materially lessened to a certain Dakota farmer since he arranged a trap door and a system of pulleys so that when he hears a storm coming in the night he can pull a cord and his bed will sink into the cellar.

According to the observation of an Havana doctor, reported in the annals of the Royal Academy of Science in that city, mosquitoes may be agents for the transfer of the germs of yellow fever and of the parasites which produce elephantiasis.

Some charcoal burners at the foot of a Nevada mountain had a narrow escape from death in a terrific snowslide recently. As the mass descended into the heated atmosphere of the valley it melted almost instantaneously and changed from an avalanche into a roaring torrent, through which the men escaped by wading and swimming.

The healing power of earthquakes is a subject of discussion in the Spanish medical press. The statement is made that in the recent shake up at Malaga most of the patients forgot their diseases and took to the open air. The change agreed with them so well that a few only returned to the hospital.

The surest test for watered milk is said to consist in dipping a well polished knitting needle into a deep vessel of milk, and then immediately withdrawing it in an upright position. If the milk is pure a drop of the milk will hang to the needle, but the addition of even a small portion of water will prevent the adherence of the drop.

Among the new applications of cotton is its use, in part, in the construction of houses the material employed for the purpose being the refuse, which, when ground up with an equal amount of straw and asbestos, is converted into a paste, and this is formed into large slabs or bricks, which acquire, it is said, the hardness of stone, and furnish a really valuable building material.

Under certain conditions some common articles of household decoration may be sources of danger. An insurance company is reported to have refused risks in houses in which perfectly spherical fish globes or water bottles are kept. The company claims that through the coldest portion of the Winter three fires were started in parlors where articles were in such a position as to receive the direct rays of the sun through plate glass windows. It is said there is no danger if the vessel is oval or slightly flattened. A writer in the Price Current says a fire was started on his library table by the sun shining upon his paper weight made of four glass globes fastened together so that three rest upon the table and one rests above the others.

The Largest Land Animal in the World.

Since the death of Jumbo various statements have been published as to the exact stature of that giant elephant. The figures range from eleven feet to eleven feet and a half, but whether the height given is that at the shoulder does not appear. If Jumbo was eleven feet six inches high at the shoulder there is reason to believe that he was the largest land animal in the world.

The size of elephants is commonly overestimated. Their stature is almost always exagg rated in those countries where they are found wild. Even European travellers of scientific training have made notable mistakes in this respect. African elephants which Major Denham, one of the early explorers, supposed to be sixteen feet high proved to be less than ten feet when killed. In Ceylon the native elephant, which was formerly thought to be larger than the African animal, is rarely taller than nine feet; and Sir Emerson Tennent in his celebrated work on the natural history of that island says that in the district where the hunters agree that the largest specimens are to be found, "the tallest of ordinary herds do not average more than eight feet."

In India the same tendency to exaggeration prevails. Dr. Falconer was authority for the statement by Prof. Ansted, more than a quarter of a century ago, that "out of eleven hundred elephants from which the tallest were selected and measured with care, on one occasion in India, there was not one whose height equalled eleven feet." At the present day probably no one is better qualified to speak with reference to the size of Indian elephants than Mr. G. P. Sanderson, the officer in charge of the elephant catching establishment maintained by the British Government at Mysore. He does not believe that there is an elephant in India ten feet high at the shoulder. He has measured a great many, and the tallest was nine feet and ten inches. "The next largest are two tuskers belonging to his Highness the Maharajah of Mysore, each nine feet eight inches, captured in Mysore some forty years ago and still alive." Mr. Sanderson, in his very entertaining work on the wild beasts of India, says that twice round an elephant's foot is his height, within one or two inches. Generally this measurement will give the exact stature, but when persons unfamiliar with elephants are asked to guess how many times the circumference of the foot must be multiplied to ascertain how tall the animal is, they say from ten to fifteen times.

Not only may we reasonably conclude that Jumbo was the largest land animal in the world, or, at all events, without any superior in size, but it is safe to say that a much larger walking beast could not be made out of flesh and bones. This is mechanically demonstrable. In order to support a heavier creature, the size of the legs, even with practically solid bones, would have to be so increased as to render progression impossible.

These considerations indicate that we shall never see a larger land animal than Jumbo.

A BIG OFFER To introduce them, we will GIVE AWAY 1,000 Self-Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name. P.O. and express office. THE NATIONAL CO. 23 Dey St., N.Y.

AUGURS WELL BORING BUY THE STAR.

Will bore 5 to 25 inch hole; hand or horse-power; 3c foot per hour. Our combined auger and Rock Drill a grand success, worked by steam or horse-power. Send for Catalogue.

68 Mary Street, Hamilton, Ont.

JAMES PARK & SON, Pork Packers, Toronto.

L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Beef, Breast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock.

CLUB FEET.

CROWNED ONLY BY PARTIAL SUCCESS.

Heretofore a new instrument I invented five years ago, passed throught a series of improvements, and I now claim positively that every club foot may be straightened by this most valuable method. For particulars send six cent stamp for book on Rupture and Humane Frame. Address, CHAS. CLUTHE, 113 King Street West, Toronto, Ont.

CANADA PERMANENT LOAN & SAVINGS CO.

Incorporated, A. D. 1885.

Subscribed Capital	$3,000,000
Paid up Capital	2,200,000
Reserve Fund	1,100,000
Total Assets	8,600,000

OFFICE:
Company's Buildings, Toronto St., Toronto.

The Company has now on hand a large amount of English money which it is prepared to lend on first-class securities at low rates of interest. Apply to

J. HERBERT MASON, Managing Director

TRY PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER. Pure Gold Manufacturing Co., 13 Front St. East. Toronto.

The Eagle Steam Washer is the only Washing Machine invented that a woman or girl of years old, without the use of a washboard, can with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Samples sent on trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear of clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in 20, bedclothing in 10, or no sale. Address, FERGUS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 76 Jarvis Street, Toronto.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING —USE ONLY— Clapperton's Spool Cotton

Warranted FULL Length, and to run smoothly on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT, ANTISEPTIC placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc. They drive away and destroy Moths and other insects, imparting a delightful and delicate perfume to the clothing, carried or worn upon the person will protect by their powerful concentrated disinfectant properties, a perfect means of protection against infection of disease, giving off at the same time a most delightful odor; made entirely of satin in assorted colors, very pretty, unique, and neat. Every one should have them. Price 10c. each—three for 25c. Thymo-Cresol Soap, the great English disinfectant soap, awarded the gold medal, London, 1884. Large cakes, price 15c., or 35c per box of three cakes, postage paid to any address upon receipt of price. Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 759 Craig Street. Thymo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application. Agents wanted. Write for terms.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships

Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and also from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N. F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow line sail during summer to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Portland, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Liverpool and Philadelphia, fortnightly.

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B.; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Allan, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Grockie, Philadelphia; H. & A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

CUT THIS OUT

The New Co-Operative Sewing Machines

—ARE THE— BEST IN THE MARKET

NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE! Latest Improved Attachments

Agents price for similar machine $45. Our price only $25 each.

Before buying send us stamp for our elegant catalogue and sample of sewing. Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.

Any lady wanting a machine will do well to write us.

THE CO-OPERATIVE Sewing Machine Co.

92 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON.

PEERLESS OIL

Ahead of All Competitors.

HIGHEST HONORS AND GOLD MEDAL AT TORONTO.

Six Gold Medals in Three Years—Best Record in the World.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

Ask for PEERLESS, and be sure you get it, as there are imitations. The genuine is only made by

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO. Queen City Oil Works, TORONTO, ONT.

$10 Reward for the Conviction

Of Dealers who offer and Sell In- McCOLL'S Superior Oil of Our Manufacture

The Above Reward LARDINE FLUID

MACHINE OIL.

Eureka Cylinder, Bolt & Wool Oils. For sale by all leading dealers. McColl Bros. & Co. Toronto

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF

It is the only preparation of the kind that contains all the nutritious, together with the stimulating properties of beef, and the only one that has the power to supply nourishment for brain, bone, and muscle.

Examine Their Superior Merit

GURNEY'S NEW HARRIS HOT AIR FURNACE

FOR WOOD

The Most Effective, Clean, Durable and Economical Heaters in the Market for warming and ventilating Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Stores and Private Residences. Simple in construction and easily managed, capable of giving more heat with less consumption of fuel than any other heating apparatus. Absolutely Gas Tight. Seven sizes are made and can be set up in Brick or Portable Form. Correspondence solicited. For Catalogues and further information address

THE E. & C. GURNEY CO. (LIMITED.) HAMILTON.

The Collier's Dying Child.

[illegible] was a thatched one, its outside old and [illegible] within that cot was wondrous neat [illegible] clean; [illegible] night was dark and stormy,—the wind was blowing wild; [illegible] sat beside the deathbed of her [illegible] child,— [illegible], worn out creature—his once bright eyes [illegible] grown dim; [illegible] Collier's only child—they called him "Little [illegible]."

[illegible]! to see the briny tears fast flowing down her [illegible] cheek, [illegible] offered up a prayer in thought! She was afraid to speak, [illegible] might waken one she loved far dearer than [illegible] life; [illegible] had all a mother's heart that wretched Collier's wife. [illegible] hands uplifted, see, she kneels beside the sufferer's bed, [illegible] prays that God will spare her boy and take her instead; [illegible] his answer from the child—soft fell these words from him— [illegible] dear! the angels do so smile, and beckon Little [illegible]!"

[illegible] no pain, dear mother, now; but, oh, I am [illegible] dry; [illegible] moisten poor Jim's lips once more; and mother do not cry!

[illegible] gentle, trembling haste, she held a tea cup to [illegible] lips— [illegible] failed to thank her—then he took three tiny [illegible]. [illegible] father when he comes from work' I said "good night" to him; [illegible] mother, now I'll go to sleep,"——Alas, poor little Jim! [illegible] saw that he was dying! the child she loved so dear [illegible] heard the last words she'd ever wished to hear.

[illegible] cottage door is opened—the Collier's step is heard; [illegible] father and the mother meet, but neither speak a word; [illegible] felt that all was over..he knew the child was dead! [illegible] took the candle in his hand, and stood beside the bed; [illegible] quivering lip gave token of the grief he'd fain conceal; [illegible] see, the mother joins him! the stricken couple kneel; [illegible] hearts bowed down by sorrow they humbly ask of Him [illegible] heaven, once more that they may meet their own poor "little Jim!"

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

by the Author of "The Flower Girl," "Lovely Lady Lynhurst," &c., &c.

CHAPTER VII.

The little village of Midhurst was thrown into the wildest state of excitement and confusion when the tragical fate of Captain Braithwaite became known.

As is usual in such circumstances, the most strange rumours gained currency, and the widow Lane drove a roaring trade, only rivalling the honours with the landlord of the Gray Parrot, during the few days prior to the one fixed for the Coroner's inquest; wild and improbable as those conjectures were, they all fell short of the truth.

"It's only just what might have been expected!" Meg Smith declared, with a scornful toss of her untidy head. "I al'ays said good'd come of her gallivantin' about with betters; and now my words 'ave come true."

"Ay, poor lass; but it was hard for her that the man made a fule of her. I've heard tell as how the Capt'in could be awful fascinatin' when he chose, and it's not surprised me if he turned the gal's head!" one good-natured dame declared.

"Pooh!" rejoined Meg, who appeared to be one of her most vindictive moods. "I'd been warned often enough; but she was too grand for poor folks like us, and was always a-hankering after 'igh folks. I dare say"—with a harsh laugh—"it did make her feel a bit mad when she found the Capt'in meant nothin' for all his soft words; and I'm to think that she, who was such a stuck-up piece of goods, should actually have killed the Capt'in! I declare it makes me feel quite creepy when I think of it!"

"Stay!" interrupted a deep voice at the door. "It would be well, Meg Smith, not to say things you cannot prove, or you may be getting your self into trouble. No one has a right to accuse Dolly Jarvis of any evil as yet."

"Oh it's you, Tom Larkins, is it?" queried Meg, with a little disdainful shrug of her shoulders. "Of course we all know you would stand by Dolly, even if she had committed murder!"

A dark red flush rose to the young man's head.

"No one who deserves the name of man or woman would strike another in the dark!" he cried hotly. "Dolly Jarvis ought not to be condemned unheard and—and she is too good at this moment to defend herself or to explain matters."

"Ay, ay!"

"That's right, my boy!"

"Tom say's the truth!"

And the little group, who evidently sympathized with the young smith, gathered closer around him.

"Do you say she is ill?" questioned widow Lane anxiously. "Shall I step round and see her?"

"N-o, thank you!" Tom answered, a little confusion apparent in his manner. "I beg your pardon," he added quickly; But I know she does not wish to be disturbed; and Adam will admit no one."

"Of course not!" Meg sniffed spitefully. "It wouldn't do to have any eavesdroppers just now!"

There was a general cry of "Shame, Meg!" But Meg stood her ground

"Oh, you may pretend to be shocked, if you like!" she said. "But, for all that, I know you all think you as I do, that Dolly Jarvis killed the Capt'in out of jealousy!"

And, before any one could answer this bold assertion, the girl had stalked off, leaving a most decidedly uncomfortable impression behind her.

There had been whisperings, and mutterings, shaking of heads and uplifting of hands; but, until Meg gave utterance to these words, no one had dared to speak his or her thoughts. Now, however, the ice once broken, it soon became an accepted fact with the Midhurst folks that Dolly had really killed the young officer. But the excitement reached its climax when the day fixed for the inquest dawned.

In the grand old dining-room at the Hall, with its oak panelling and sombre oak furniture, the twelve good men and true were assembled to consider the circumstances attending Captain Braithwaite's death. They had viewed the body in the adjoining room;

PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
...perton's Spool Cotton
...FULL Length, and to run ... machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S ... For sale by all Dry-Goods...
...UMED DISINFECTANT SACHETS ... in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, &c. ... away and destroy Moths and other insects ... a delightful and delicate perfume ... carried or worn upon the person ... powerful concentrated disinfectant ... perfect means of protection against ... giving off at the same time a most delightful ... made entirely of satin in assorted ... unique, and neat. ... Price 10c. each—three for 25c. ... Soap, the great English disinfectant ... awarded the gold metal, London ... price 15c., or 35c per box ... paid to any address upon receipt of ... THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 759 ... Circulars and descriptions of our English ... preparations mailed free on application ... wanted. Write for terms.

...Line Royal Mail Steamships
... during winter from Portland every ... every Saturday to Liverpool, and in ... every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at ... to land mails and passengers for Scotland ... Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and ... Liverpool fortnightly during summer ... of the Glasgow lines sail during ... from Halifax, Portland, Boston and ... during summer between Glasgow and ... Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and ... Philadelphia, fortnightly.
... freight, passage, or other information ... A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore ... & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John ... Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N.B. ... Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, ... H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co. ... Wm. Brookie, Philadelphia; H. A. ... Portland, Boston, Montreal.

...T THIS OUT
...he New Co-Operative
...wing Machines
—ARE THE—
...T IN THE MARKET
...W STAND! NEW FURNITURE!
...st Improved Attachments
...s price for similar machines ...
Our price only $25 each.
... buying send us stamp for our elegant ... sample of sewing. ... chines guaranteed for three years and ... wanting a machine will do well to write
THE CO-OPERATIVE
...wing Machine Co.
...AMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON

...S OIL
...mpetitors.
...MEDAL AT TORONTO
...est Record in the World.
...ARANTEED.
...itations. The genuine is only made by
...een City Oil Works
TORONTO, ONT.

...he Conviction
...L'S ...ferior Oil of Other Manufacture
...INE
...E OIL.
... dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co. Toronto

...NSTON'S FLUID BEEF
... the only preparation of the kind ... all the nutritious, together with the ... properties of beef, and the only one ... power to supply nourishment for brain ... muscle.

...perior Merit!
...Y'S
...AIR FURNACE

... Heaters in the Market for ... and Private Residences. ... with less consumption of fuel than any ... sizes are made and can be set ... catalogues and further information ...
...URNEY CO.
...TON.

The Collier's Dying Child.

...was a thatched one, its outside old and mean;
...everything within that cot was wondrous neat and clean;
...night was dark and stormy,—the wind was blowing wild;—
...mother sat beside the deathbed of her child—
...worn out creature—his once bright eyes grown dim;
...a Collier's only child—they called him "Little Jim."

...to see the briny tears fast flowing down her cheek,
...offered up a prayer in thought! She was afraid to speak,
...night waken one she loved far dearer than her life;
...all a mother's heart that wretched Collier's wife.
...hands uplifted, see, she kneels beside the sufferer's bed,
...prays that God will spare her boy and take herself instead;
...her answer from the child—soft fell these words from him—
...the angels do so smile, and beckon Little Jim."

...no pain, dear mother, now; but, oh, I am so dry;
...moisten poor Jim's lips once more; and mother do not cry!
...gentle, trembling haste, she held a tea cup to his lips—
...smiled to thank her—then he took three tiny sips.
...father when he comes from work' I said "good night" to him;
...mother, now I'll go to sleep."——Alas, poor little Jim!
...that he was dying! the child she loved so dear
...utter'd the last words she'd ever wished to hear.
...cottage door is opened—the Collier's step is heard
...father and the mother meet, but neither speak a word;
...that all was over..he knew the child was dead;
...took the candle in his hand, and stood beside the bed;
...quivering lip gave token of the grief he'd fain conceal;
...see, the mother joins him! the stricken couple kneel;
...hearts bowed down by sorrow they humbly ask of Him
...heaven, once more that they may meet their own poor "little Jim!"

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

...the Author of "THE FLOWER GIRL," "LOVELY LADY LYNHURST," &c., &c.

CHAPTER VII.

The little village of Midhurst was thrown ...the wildest state of excitement and ...fusion when the tragical fate of Captain ...thwaite became known.

...is usual in such circumstances, the ...strange rumours gained currency, and ...widow Lane drove a roaring trade, only ...ding the honours with the landlord of ...Gray Parrot, during the few days prior ...the one fixed for the Coroner's inquest; ...wild and improbable as those conject... were, they all fell short of the truth.

"It's only just what might have been expected!" Meg Smith declared, with a scornful toss of her untidy head. "I al'ays said ...good come of her gallivantin' about wi' ...betters; and now my words 'ave come ..."

"Ay, poor lass; but it was hard for her ...the man made a fule of her. I've heard ...how the Capt'in could be awful fas... when he chose, and it's not surprised ...if he turned the gal's head!" one good-...ured dame declared.

"Pooh!" rejoined Meg, who appeared to ...in one of her most vindictive moods. ...She'd been warned often enough, but she ...too grand for poor folks like us, and was ...a-hankering after 'igh folks. I dare ...—with a harsh laugh—"it did make ...feel a bit mad when she found the Capt-...meant nothin' for all his soft words; and ...to think that she, who was such a ...up piece of goods, should actually ...killed the Capt'in! I declare it makes ...feel quite creepy when I think of it!"

"Stay!" interrupted a deep voice at this ... "It would be well, Meg Smith, not ...things you cannot prove, or you may ...getting your self into trouble. No one ...a right to accuse Dolly Jarvis of any evil ...yet."

"Oh it's you, Tom Larkins, is it?" queried Meg, with a little disdainful shrug of her shoulders. "Of course we all know you ...would stand by Dolly, even if she had committed murder!"

A dark red flush rose to the young man's forehead.

"No one who deserves the name of man or woman would strike another in the dark!" ...cried hotly. "Dolly Jarvis ought not to ...condemned unheard and—and she is too ...at this moment to defend herself or to ex...plain matters."

"Ay, ay!"

"That's right, my boy!"

"Tom say's the truth!"

And the little group, who evidently ...sympathised with the young smith, gathered closer around him.

"Do you say she is ill?" questioned widow Lane anxiously. "Shall I step round and see her?"

"N-o, thank you!" Tom answered, a ...confusion apparent in his manner. "I ...your pardon," he added quickly; But I ...she does not wish to be disturbed; ...Adam will admit no one."

"Of course not!" Meg sniffed spitefully. "...wouldn't do to have any eavesdroppers ...now!"

There was a general cry of "Shame, ...!" But Meg stood her ground

"Oh, you may pretend to be shocked, if ...like!" she said. "But, for all that, I ...you all think you as I do, that Dolly ...killed the Capt'in out of jealousy!"

...before any one could answer this bold ...challenge, the girl had stalked off, leaving a ...decidedly uncomfortable impression behind ...

There had been whisperings, and mutter..., shaking of heads and uplifting of ...; but, until Meg gave utterance to ...words, no one had dared to speak his ...thoughts. Now, however, the ice once ...broken, it soon became an accepted fact with ...folks that Dolly had really killed ...young officer. But the excitement ...reached its climax when the day fixed for the ...inquest dawned.

In the grand old dining-room at the Hall, ...with its oak panelling and sombre oak fur...niture, the twelve good men and true were ...assembled to consider the circumstances at...tending Captain Braithwaite's death. They ...viewed the body in the adjoining room; and now the Coroner called the first witness, Joe Smith. As he stepped forward, more than one noticed the dark sinister look on his brow.

"Tell us all you know about the sad affair," the Coroner, a neighbouring Squire and an old friend of the Braithwaites, commanded, as Joe stood twisting his cap, and never raising his eyes from the ground.

Thus adjured, he cleared his throat several times, and then began.

"Well, sir, I had been doing a day's work at the Hall——"

"I believe you are employed as under-gardener there?" interpolated the Coroner.

"Yes, sir, and I'd stayed rather late; there was some decorations being finished owing to the ball as was to come off in the evening. While I was busy cutting flowers in one of the conservatories, I sees the Capt-'in come out of the house and go across the park. That was about a quarter of an hour before I left. Well, sir, I walked rather slowly, for I was tired, and I'd forgot all about the Capt'in, and I'd got half-way across the pine-wood, when I heerd the awfullest shriek; it made my blood run cold, and then there came another cry, and I went as fast as I could in the direction the sound came from. When I got to Giant's Hollow, I stood still and listened, for I could see nothing, although the moon was shining, and it was as light as day. As I was a staring about me, I heard a woman's sobs; and then it flashed upon me quite sudden some one had fallen over into the Hollow; so I peeped over the rocks, and sure enough I saw two people——" Joe paused, and for the first time glanced round. By this time he was beginning quite to relish the position he occupied, for every one was listening to his story more or less eagerly.

"Well?" queried the Coroner sharply, seeing that Joe made no attempt to proceed with his narrative.

"You might 'ave knocked me down wi' a feather," Joe said then impressively, "for sure enough I knew those two to be the young Capt'in and Dolly Jarvis." There was a breathless silence now, as the under-gardener went on, speaking slowly and distinctly—"Whilst I was thinking what a queer thing it was, and of all the tales I'd heerd about the——"

"Stop!" interrupted the Coroner at this point. "Confine yourself to the subject in hand. What happened next? You said you recognised the two persons in the ravine."

"Yes," Joe said, a trifle sulkily at not being allowed to air his spite, which he had come fully prepared to do, for he was still smarting under Dolly's refusal and the pommelling he had received from her father. "Yes," he repeated, "I couldn't be off knowing 'em; the Capt'in he lay all of a heap like, and Dolly was sitting on the ground with his head on her lap. 'Dolly,' I calls out, 'what is it?' And then she looks up. 'It's—oh, Joe, come here!' she answered. 'Captain Braithwaite is very much hurt, I fear.' I didn't wait to hear more; but I clambered down the rocks where they're not quite so steep, and in a minute I was beside Dolly. I seed how it was with the Capt'in at the first glance. 'He's dead!' I said. 'How did it happen?' 'Oh no, no; he can't be dead!' Dolly cried out; and then she turned as white as a sheet. 'We must get help,' she said then, staggering to her feet. 'You stay with him, while I go for Doctor Seymour.' But I caught hold of her hand. 'Stop, Dolly,' I said; 'you can trust me—I want to know who did it!' 'My! You should have seen her then! I'd had my suspicions all along, and now I was more convinced I was right than ever. She just dropped like a stone at my feet, and, if you'll believe me, gen'l'men, I really thought she died of fright; but she came round after a minute or two, and, when I asked her the same question, she drew herself up and said she would explain everything to the proper people at the proper time. 'Very well,' says I; 'then I tell you straight I believe you killed the Capt'in yourself, all along of——' But, before I could finish, she had flown off like one bewitched."

"And what did you do then?" questioned the Coroner drily, as Joe paused for want of breath.

"Why, I didn't like to leave the poor gen'l'man, and he not dead, perhaps, after all; and so I stayed awhile; and then Doctor Seymour came."

Some one here leaned forward and whispered a few words to the Coroner, who nodded his head once or twice and regarded Joe thoughtfully for a few moments.

"I believe you aspired to marry Dolly Jarvis, and she had refused your offer. Was this so?" he asked, after that brief pause.

Joe fidgeted uneasily, colouring to the roots of his hair; then he answered evasively—

"Her father, Adam Jarvis, thought it 'ud be a good match for us both."

"Answer my question—did you at any time ask Dolly Jarvis to be your wife, and did she refuse?"

"I—yes, sir," admitted Joe reluctantly, mindful of the jeers such an avowal would expose him to from his companions.

"And you and the father had words about it, and Adam Jarvis knocked you down?" pursued the Coroner relentlessly.

"Well, he did take me unawares; and, if I'd done as I ought to a done, I'd have had him up for an assault," Joe said lamely.

"That will do. Call the next witness."

That was Doctor Seymour. He deposed briefly to being summoned on the night in question to attend Captain Braithwaite. It was Dolly Jarvis herself who came for him, and she accompanied him to the spot where the young officer lay. She had appeared quite calm, and, in answer to his question as to how it had happened, she had replied simply that it was an accident. There had not been much conversation, as they had walked very quickly, and, there being no high-road that ran anywhere near the scene of the so-called accident, he had been unable to drive over. A short examination had sufficed to convince him that Captain Braithwaite was dead—he had broken his neck, and of course his death had been instantaneous. There was also a deep wound on the left temple, which might or might not have been occasioned by the fall.

By the Coroner: "Could a blow from a woman's hand have produced such a wound?"

Doctor Seymour considered that to be highly improbable; the blow must have been inflicted with immense force.

There was a general movement when the next name was called—Dolly Jarvis; but, instead of the girl appearing, Adam Jarvis stepped forward. Yes, it was the blacksmith; but he looked strangely unlike the individual who had knocked Joe Smith down. There were many whispered comments on his appearance; his formerly erect figure was bent, his once jovial face was gloomy and worn—almost haggard.

"It's just broken his heart, any one can see that." "He'll never get over the disgrace." "She was the very light of his old eyes," observed some on the onlookers, sotto voce.

"My daughter is lying dangerously ill," Adam affirmed, in answer to a question from the Coroner; "she is not quite herself, and—and unable to give evidence to-day."

"Who is attending her?"

"Doctor Seymour."

"Adam is right," said that gentleman, when an appeal was made to him to confirm this statement. "Dolly Jarvis is suffering from brain-fever, and, when I saw her this morning, she was quite delirious. I think it would be useless to adjourn the inquest for her appearance, as, to judge from the present state of her health, it may be many weeks before she would be able to give evidence."

Adam cast a curious glance at the Doctor, and gave a sigh of relief, or something akin to it, as he heard this decision. His wandering thoughts were recalled by the Coroner.

"It is much to be regretted," that gentleman observed, "that the most important witness in the case should be unable to attend; but, from what Doctor Seymour says, I see no alte native but to proceed with the examination of the few remaining witnesses."

Adam Jarvis then stated that he had gone to Doctor Seymour's house on the evening in question, having previously learnt from old Sue that his daughter was out. He had returned about nine o'clock and found that she was still away. Sue had let him in, and he had then sent her off to bed, saying that he would sit up for Dolly himself.

The old woman corroborated her master's testimony, adding that she had understood from Dolly that she was going to have a chat with widow Lane; but she supposed the child was tempted by the beauty of the night to take a walk. It was a favorite stroll of hers through the pine-wood. Sue's eyes sought Adam's with a half trumphant expression as she turned away; but the blacksmith's chin had fallen upon his breast, and he was staring fixedly on the ground.

The blacksmith, recalled and cross-examined, admitted, with evident reluctance, that he had only that day heard from Joe Smith some scandal concerning his daughter and the deceased; and, on his return home, after leaving Doctor's Seymour's, he had sent Sue to bed because he wished to speak to Dolly on the subject when she came in.

How long did he wait up for his daughter?

It was close upon midnight when she arrived; she had seemed unlike herself, and, as was natural, was much upset by the accident to Captain Braithwaite. He had understood that the latter had had a fall; but Dolly had not been very explicit about it, and he had decided that it would be useless to question her in her then state of mind. On the following morning however she was so ill that Doctor Seymour was called in, and that gentleman had been attending her ever since.

Mrs. Maine, Doctor Seymour's house-keeper, stated that Adam had called at the Doctor's house on the evening that Captain Braithwaite had met with his accident. He had come to see her on private business, she went on to say, not without some confusion; but he had not stayed long, as he said Dolly would be sure to be at home and waiting supper for him.

That was all the evidence that was forthcoming and the Coroner, in a few lucid sentences, summed it up. He could not help repeating that Dolly Jarvis's absence was very much to be regretted for her own sake, as well as for the sake of justice, as it would seem that she alone could have supplied the details of the way in which Captain Braithwaite had met his sad fate. He also had to call attention to the manner in which one of the witnesses—Joe Smith—had given his evidence. That young man was evidently suffering from the smart of unrequited affection, and had endeavoured to wreak his spite by casting aspersions on those unable to defend themselves. Fortunately his motives were sufficiently apparent, and it would be for the jury to deal only with the bare facts of the case. The medical testimony was most important in the circumstances. If they were to credit Susan Green, Dolly Jarvis was in the habit of frequenting the pine-wood; therefore her meeting with the young officer might have been accidental. He, the Coroner, sympathised greatly with the bereaved family, and he was most anxious that the ends of justice should be served; but it was monstrous to ask them to believe that a young girl had, through pique and jealousy, pushed her lover over a precipice. Captain Braithwaite was a man in the prime of life, possessed of health and strength, Dolly Jarvis a young and somewhat fragile girl. She had, he understood, considerable personal attractions—was, in fact, the acknowledged village belle, and it was quite possible—nay, very probable that the deceased regarded her with the admiration which beauty, whether possessed by a high-born dame or a simple country maiden, ever excites in the breast of man; but to hint at there existing any further intrigue between them was a base calumny to the dead and a still greater wrong to the living. He would venture to say that the theory of Dolly Jarvis having in some way compassed the young officer's death had its birth in one crooked and distorted mind only. However, if the jury believed there was room for any reasonable doubt on the subject, they would return a verdict accordingly.

There followed a short whispered conference among the jurors, during which an ominous silence reigned in the room. Adam Jarvis stood, with folded arms, immovable, though a keen observer might have remarked that now and again he gave a curious intent glance around from beneath the shaggy brows; and, when the foreman presently announced that they were all agreed, he drew a long heavy breath and set his teeth firmly like a man in pain.

"We find that Captain Henry Clifford Braithwaite died from a broken neck; but how the injury was caused there is not sufficient evidence to show."

That was the verdict returned by the twelve good men and true; and Adam Jarvis, as he heard it, turned and staggered out of the room like one who had been suddenly smitten blind.

CHAPTER VIII.

Five years had passed away since that memorable day when Captain Braithwaite's mysterious and sudden death had caused so much excitement, pain, and wonder.

The village smithy still stood; but it was not Adam's brawny arm that wielded the heavy hammer now. Tom Larkins had stepped into his shoes, and gave promise of becoming as skilful in his craft and as popular as his old master once was.

He had just completed a job, and was pausing to rest, ere commencing a new one. Standing in the doorway, with one hand shading his eyes from the glare of the July sun, one could see that time had greatly improved him. From a somewhat slender youth he had developed into a sturdy man with a broad chest and a thick dark beard, and eyes that were honest and true looking as ever, though there was an expression in them now which was foreign to them in those old days—sad and watchful—one might almost say at times fearful; yet Tom's prowess had been proved on more than one occasion. As he dropped his hand, he remarked to a young man loitering in the road—

"That's one of the Braithwaites' carriages, Sam, isn't it?"

He spoke carelessly, and nobody could have guessed at the tumult raised in his heart by the mention of that name.

"Yes," replied Sam, after indulging in a prolonged stare at the approaching vehicle. "It belongs to the 'all right enuff, and Mr. Percy's driving; and, yes, the gray is as lame as 't can be! You're in for a job," he ended enviously.

Tom made no rejoinder to this, but went inside; and the next minute, sure enough, the gray was pulled up at the smithy entrance, and a groom ran to the horse's head as a young man prepared to descend.

"Don't be alarmed," he said reassuredly to the lady who sat on the high seat beside him. "Here, Larkins, or whoever's there, just come and look at this beast—he was all right when we started, and now he's dead lame."

Tom came out hastily and raised his cap, casting a startled and uneasy glance at the fair occupant of the T-cart as he stooped to examine the ailing animal.

"Cast his shoe, sir," Tom announced, after a brief examination. "I can put on another in half an hour."

"All right. It's an awful nuisance; but I suppose we must wait."

"I'm sorry I can't ask you in, sir—the lady especially," Tom said awkwardly, as he assisted the groom to unharness the horse. "You see, sir, they"—lowering his voice—"never receive visitors now."

"Who?"—some what puzzled. "Oh, yes, I understand!" Percy Braithwaite added hurriedly, a remembrance coming suddenly to him; and he too glanced at his companion apprehensively. "Shall we take a stroll through the village whilst this business is being settled?" he asked the lady quickly; and, she acquiescing, they set out and leisurely picked their way through the groups of dirty but smiling children, for the "purty lady" had a pleasant word and a penny for most of them.

They had passed the High Street, and had come into a lane where the cottages were sprinkled but sparsely, when Geraldine Mainwarning clasped her cousin's arm suddenly and startled him by an abrupt query.

"Percy, what did that young man say about the Jarvises?"

"My dear Geraldine, I——. He never mentioned the Jarvises, to my knowledge."

"No, no; but you know what I mean," she rejoined impatiently. "He made some reference to them, I am sure; though I did not catch the words, I saw him glance towards the house when he was speaking to you."

"Oh, ah, to be sure!" Percy said, with assumed sudden recollection. "He was apologising for not asking you to go in."

"Did he give any reasons for not doing so?"

"Only that 'they' did not receive any visitors now."

There was a little silence after this; then Geraldine spoke again.

"I wish, Percy, you would tell me all you know about these Jarvises. I went away immediately after—after poor Harry's death, and I have not been to the Hall until now—as you know."

"Why would you seek to recall what must be so painful to you as well as to me?" the young man asked, in a troubled voice. "I hoped you had learned to forget."

"Forget!" she cried, giving him one swift glance of reproach from her dark velvety eyes. "As if I ever could do that! As if I ever shall forget! No; during all these five years I have never for a moment ceased to think of poor Harry's sad fate; and—forgive me—I never can understand how Sir Ralph and aunt Braithwaite and you could let the matter drop."

"But why—what could we do? All the evidence that was obtainable was produced at the inquest, but it led to nothing."

"Not all; you forget Dolly Jarvis."

"No, I do not; but it was of no use to rake up a scandal that could reflect little credit on any one concerned in it, and nothing could bring poor Harry back to life."

"True; but I would have avenged his death."

Percy shrugged his shoulders. He had been sincerely attached to his brother, and had felt his loss keenly at the time, notwithstanding the fact that there had been little in common between the studious heir to the Braithwaite estates and the gay careless younger son. He had always regarded the young officer's death as the result of an accident; and, knowing his weak vacillating character, he had thought it highly probable that he had been carrying on a flirtation with the blacksmith's daughter, and had concurred in his father's decision that further investigation could lead only to unpleasant revelations without securing the end they had in view.

"I am more and more convinced that there has been some foul work," Geraldine went on, in a low constrained voice. "The way in which these Jarvises shun society points to their guilt."

"Hush, Geraldine!" Percy said warningly.

"I don't care," the girl cried passionately, "I'll ... but I will ... the truth before I leave the Hall."

"Then we may look upon you as stationary with us," the young man said; and there was an undercurrent of meaning in his words.

His cousin, however, did not heed them. She was gazing straight before her.

"Ah, what is that?" she questioned abruptly.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Rubber Cannon Balls.

Some queer expedients are resorted to in warfare when ammunition runs low. Frontiersmen have been known to use buttons and broken nails for bullets when the last ounce of lead had been expended in a vain attempt to repulse hostile Indians. In more than one siege, artillerymen have been compelled to serve their guns with pieces of railroad iron in lieu of orthodox cannon balls, and it is related that during an engagement at sea the sturdy Dutch commodore, Von Tromp, thoroughly demoralized the seamen of a British man-of-war by pouring into them a broadside of hard Dutch cheese, which broke and scattered all over the decks and turned defeat into victory.

During the year of the rebe ion the Con federate forces were often "put to their wits end" to supply themselves with ammunition, and they were not at all particular in selecting material to discharge at the Union soldiers. On one occasion a rebel battery resolved on attacking a Federal brigade that had taken quarters at Brook s station, Georgia. En route, they came to a point where there had been a monster passenger train wreck, the debris of which was scattered in all directions. The detail, consisting of artillery, cavalry and infantry, halted at the wreck to see if something that could be made useful might not be found. Among other things picked up, the artillery detail, consisting of six pieces, procured one or two bushels of rubber springs, used on the axles of all coaches, and put them in their caisons. Wearily they trudged along until in the early after noon of the next day they hove in sight of the enemy. They soon put their pieces in place and opened on the Federals. The duelling was kept up for several hours, with no perceivable rout of the encamped Union men. At last it was made known that all shells and shot of the Confederate artillery were exhausted. They were puzzled as to what should be done. Finally one of the artillerymen suggested that they should give them one round of rubber springs. Quickly the command was put into execution. Into each piece two springs were placed. At the command 12 springs went whizzing through the air. It is said that nothing on earth was ever before comparable to it. These springs did'nt just strike and drop down, but they leaped, bounced, bounded, killing a man here, another there, tearing down tents, batter-whanging around for at least fifteen minutes, leaving but few men and horses able to get away.

MECHANICAL ITEMS.

When it is not convenient to take a lock apart to fit a new key, the key blank should be smoked over a candle, inserted in the key hole, and pressed firmly against the opposing wards of the lock. The indentations in the smoked portion made by the wards will show where to file.

An important process has recently been initiated—namely, that of casting steel tires for locomotive and car wheels by running the metal directly from the furnaces into cast iron moulds, and ready when cooled, to be fitted and shrunk on. If the hopes in regard to this process are realized, the ordinary process of casting in sand moulds will be dispensed with at much saving of labor and cost.

In his instructions relating to sewer constructions, Sir R. Rawlinson observes that Portland cement and lias limes make good hydraulic mortar. The proportion of cement or of lime to sand should not exceed two and a half parts of clean, sharp sand to one part, by measure, of ground Portland cement or lias lime. If clean furnace ashes or slag should be available there may be two parts of sand one half part of ashes or slag employed, the whole to be mixed in a revolving pan, each panful to have 20 minutes' grinding. In making mortar or concrete it is of the utmost importance to use clean materials. The water for wetting bricks and for mixing mortar or concrete ought to be free from salt.

Herr Wenstrom, a Swedish engineer, has invented a machine for separating iron ore, apparently one of great utility as an adjunct to the appliances of iron furnaces and one for which use can be found at rolling mills and engineering works. A hollow cylinder is caused to rotate horizontally by means of cogwheels at its ends. In the centre of the cylinder is a kind of drum of iron bars which is made highly magnetic by an electrical apparatus. Iron ores are fed over the cylinder as it rotates, and the fragments adhere to it so long as the magnetic action of the iron drum suffices to offer the necessary action, but fall off on the reverse side in three distinct heaps, according to their richness. The feeding must be done very carefully and the ores must first be crushed. The power required is very small.

Fiber and Fabric said the calico marks can be boomed and a great improvement be effected in an industry in which thousands of people are employed. It suggests that husbands, fathers and brothers should bring all their persuasive influence to bear to induce wives, daughters and sisters to purchase their dresses from some of the great variety of prints which adorn the store windows and with which our markets are glutted. The milltreasurers, printers and cotton and cloth brokers, superintendents and clerks should be the first to lead in this matter, and the fashion thus set by their female relatives would undoubtedly lead to a vast sale of prints of every design and color, not only among the upper and middle classes of society, but among the great mass of the operatives. The number of women employed in the cotton mills of the United States is 84,359. Supposing these women bought ten yards of print cloth each, it would lessen the stock on hand to the extent of 843,590 yards. The whole number of operatives employed in these mills, men, women and children, is 172,544; if all these operatives bought ten yards of print each it would decrease the stock in the market 1,725,440 yards. We feel impelled to allude to this matter, owing to the stagnant and unprofitable condition of the print cloth market and the almost entire absence of prints as wearing apparel.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued evesy Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion. 5 cents each subsequents insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the aption of the publisher.

—JOB PRINTING.—

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel. Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.

122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.

124ly

ISAAC STINSON.
Builder and Contractor

In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
MARKDALE, - - ONT.
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.
EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.
J. McAleer, - - Prop.

The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

MARKDALE
Roller Mill
Bran $9 a ton
J. W. FORD.

WM. G. GUTHERIE,
Plain & Ornamental Plaster
Opposite the new
Presbyterian Church Markdale.

Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.

Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

126-ly.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of School Furniture.
Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW McGILL.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.

—THIS NEW—
Patent Process Flouring Mill
Is now completed at great expense, on the
MOST APPROVED
plans, and with the best machinery manufactured, making it, in every sense of the term, "A Model Mill."

I am therefore in a position to give the public a Superior Article of Flour.

A fair trial respectfully solicited and I have no fear but the result will be eminently satisfactory.

Cash paid for good hard Wheat.

Flour, Bran, Shorts, etc, etc, for sale wholesale & retail.

ANGUS PLEWES.
219

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied

Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.

Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.

—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

HAGYARD'S
YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S
WORM POWDERS.
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LOOK!
Look! Look!

James C. Russell's
NOTED JEWELLERY STORE.
FLESHERTON,
Is the place to buy
Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.

A large assortment just to hand.

A 1 Solid Silver Watches, Full Jewelled, from $8.50 up to $26, worth from $10.50 to $32.00, warranted from two to five years.

It will pay you to come twenty miles to have your Watch or Clock repaired by Russell.

Satisfaction guaranteed every time.

217-269 JAS. G. RUSSELL.

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.

Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.

248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.

JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

For Sale by Walker Bros.

MARKDALE.

NEW GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.

Having just received a
Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF Teas,
Sugars,
Tobacco, &c,
Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.

I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.

198 J. PLEWES.

J. J. DALTON.

DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R.
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE

Taking effect Monday, August 3rd,

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "
Caledon	9 25 "
Orangeville. Arrive	9 50 "
Orangeville. Leave	10 05 "
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "
Shelburne	10 45 "
Dundalk	11 10 "
Flesherton	11 36 "
Markdale	11 51 "
Williamsford	12 12pm
Chatsworth	12 38 "
Owen Sound	1 00 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.
Owen Sound	5 20am
Chatsworth	5 50 "
Williamsford	6 05 "
Markdale	6 27 "
Flesherton	6 42 "
Dundalk	7 06 "
Shelburne	7 31 "
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "
Orangeville. Arrive	8 12 "
Orangeville. Leave	8 35 "
Caledon	8 55 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "
Toronto....Arrive	10 45 "

Special Steamship Express leaves Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sa for Toronto and Points East, on arrival R. Steamship from Port Arthur and P in Manitoba and North West.

YOU CAN SUBSCRI
For any of The
FOLLOWING PAPE
AT THIS OFFICE

Daily or Weekly Mail,
Daily os Weekly Globe,
Daily or Weekly News,
Daily World
Family Herald and Weekly Star,
American Agriculturist,
Farmers' Advocate,

Subscription can commence any time.

STANDARD OFFICE,
MARKDALE

THE CELEBRATED
Dr. CHASE'S
MANDRAKE &
DANDELION LIVER CURE

HAVE YOU
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Costiveness, or any disease arising from a deranged liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a safe and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY
The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood.

500,000 SOLD
Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Book were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE
Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Recipe Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful receipts pronounced by medical men and druggists as invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25 cts. per box.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
EDMANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Toronto.

Speddings Speedy Saw

THE GREAT ONE MANS SAW. HAS no equal, average weight 35lbs. A boy ten years of age can run it. One man sawed 3 cords of hard wood in three hours and forty minutes. Agents write for particulars and secure territory at once. Address
SPEEDY SAW WORKS,
Byng. P.O., Ont.
June 30th, '85. 183-

Burdock
BLOOD BITTERS

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN
And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO

Mar

VOL. 5.--No. 266.

Everybody, Attention!

New Goods now in.

American Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,
SPECTACLES,
Musical Instruments and Strings.

Warrants honestly kept on goods or work.

W. A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

JUMBO'S heart weighed 1,600 lbs.

ADVERTISE stray animals in the STANDARD.

THE Weekly Globe to 1st January 1887 for $1.

THE Weekly Mail to 1st January 1887 for $1.

THE Weekly News to 1st January 1887 for $1.

MOURNING goods in great variety at McFarland's.

THE Meaford Mirror office possesses a 4 lb. potato.

SINGLE barrel gun for sale, apply to Smith, the barber.

THE Riel appeal case is to be heard next Monday, 19th.

THE Imperial Parliament will be dissolved November 17th.

HOUSE to rent, opposite the STANDARD office, apply at this office.

THE STANDARD to 1st January 1887 to new subscribers for $1. cash.

FOR Bedsteads, Mattrasses, and Spring Beds, go to Grant & Co.

LONDON, England, had a three million pound fire on Thursday last.

LARGE sales of Millinery and Dress Goods this week at McFarland's.

EXTRA copies of the STANDARD can be had any time at five cents each.

THE Christian Guardian balance of this year free to new subscribers for 1886.

OVER thirty stray animals have this fall been found by advertising in the STANDARD.

THE next sitting of the Division Court will be held in Flesherton the 23rd October.

FOR a Fleury, Wilkinson, or McGill Plough, go to W. Jackson, opposite STANDARD office.

J. G. HUNTER, of Dundalk, is preparing to keep four hundred hens and several roosters.

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP is highly recommended for all humors or skin diseases.

THE 7th of November has been appointed a day of thanksgiving throughout the Dominion.

POTATO-rot is very disastrous to the crop in many places. We have not heard of any in this district.

A Missouri editor has been arrested for supporting two wives. An editor with an income sufficient to support two wives must be engaged in some sort of crooked work.

NADIAN PACIFIC R. R.
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
ing effect Monday, August 3rd, 1885.
GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
to....Leave	7 20am	4 45
ell Junction	9 07 "	6 30
ou	9 25 "	6 45
ge-t Arrive	9 50 "	7 05
e.) Leave	10 05 "	7 20
eville Jun	10 17 "	7 30
rne	10 45 "	7 50
alk	11 10 "	8 05
erton	11 36 "	8 30
ale	11 51 "	8 55
nsford	12 12pm	9 10
worth	12 28 "	9 25
Sound	1 00 "	10 30

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Sound	5 20am	2 35
worth	5 50 "	3 10
nsford	6 05 "	3 30
ale	6 27 "	3 52
erton	6 42 "	4 05
alk	7 06 "	4 30
rne	7 31 "	4 57
eville Jun	8 00 "	5 23
e) Arrive	8 12 "	5 35
e..) Leave	8 35 "	5 55
on	8 55 "	6 15
ell Junction	9 07 "	6 30
to.....Arrive	10 45 "	8 20

cial Steamship Express leaves Ow on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sunda ronto and Points East, on arrival C amship from Port Arthur and Poi nitoba and North West.

U CAN SUBSCRIB
For any of The LLOWING PAPER
AT THIS OFFICE;
or Weekly Mail, - - - Toro os Weekly Globe, - - - Toro er Weekly News, - - - Toro World - - - - - - Toro
y Herald and Weekly Star, Mont ican Agriculturist, - - - Mont
rs' Advocate, - - - - Mont Subscription can commence ime.
STANDARD OFFICE,
MARKDALE

THE CELEBRATED
Dr CHASE'S MANDRAKE
DANDELI LIVE CURE
HAVE YOU
Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Bilio ce, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the ness, or any disease arising from a de
DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found rtain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
qualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver C Complaint rests solely with the fact th nded from nature's well-known liver reg SAKE AND DANDELION, combined with invaluable roots, barks and herbs, ha ul effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowe
500,000 SOLD
nc-half million of Dr. Chase's Recip old in Canada alone. We want every and child who is troubled with Live to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE
ed around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver luable Household Medical Guide and 84 pages), containing over 200 useful ceed by medical men and druggists as d worth ten times the price of the medi
CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and
Price, 25 cents.
CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25 cts. p
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
MANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Bu

eddings Speedy Sa
E GREAT ONE MANS SAW
HAS no equal, average weight 35 n years of age can run it. One 3 cords of hard wood in three h rty minutes. Agents write for and secure territory at once. A
SPEEDY SAW WORKS,
Byng. P.O., On e 30th, '85.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEA
DUSNESS, PEPSIA, GESTION, NDICE. SIPELAS, RHEUM, RTBURN, DACHE, ACIDITY OF THE STOMA DRYNESS OF THE SK
every species of disease arising fr
dered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMA
BOWELS OR BLOOD.
HILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORON

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 266. MARKDALE, ONT., OCT. 15, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH.

Everybody, Attention!

New Goods now in.

American Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,

SPECTACLES.

Musical Instruments and Strings.

☞ Warrants honestly kept on goods or work.

W. A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

Notices in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

JUMBO'S heart weighed 1,600 lbs.

ADVERTISE stray animals in the STANDARD.

THE Weekly Globe to 1st January 1887 for $1.

THE Weekly Mail to 1st January 1887 for $1.

THE Weekly News to 1st January 1887 for $1.

MOURNING goods in great variety at McFarland's.

THE Meaford Mirror office possesses a 4 lb. potato.

SINGLE barrel gun for sale, apply to Smith, the barber.

The Riel appeal case is to be heard next Monday, 19th.

THE Imperial Parliament will be dissolved November 17th.

HOUSE to rent, opposite the STANDARD office, apply at this office.

THE STANDARD to 1st January 1887 to new subscribers for $1. cash.

FOR Bedsteads, Mattrasses, and Spring Beds, go to Grant & Co.

LONDON, England, had a three million pound fire on Thursday last.

LARGE sales of Millinery and Dress Goods this week at McFarland's.

EXTRA copies of the STANDARD can be had any time at five cents each,

THE Christian Guardian balance of this year free to new subscribers for 1886.

OVER thirty stray animals have this fall been found by advertising in the STANDARD.

THE next sitting of the Division Court will be held in Flesherton the 23rd October.

FOR a Fleury, Wilkinson, or McGill Plough, go to W. Jackson, opposite STANDARD office.

A. G. HUNTER, of Dundalk, is preparing to keep four hundred hens and several roosters.

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP is highly recommended for all humors or skin diseases.

THE 7th of November has been appointed a day of thanksgiving throughout the Dominion.

POTATO rot is very disastrous to the crop in many places. We have not heard of any in this district.

A MORMON editor has been arrested for supporting two wives. An editor with an income sufficient to support two wives must be engaged in some sort of crooked work.

THE cheapest Horse Covers, Bed Blankets, Comforters and Flannels in town at McFarland's.

THE Weekly Star for $1. to end of 1886. Call and leave your subscription for one or more of those papers.

Freeman's Worm Powders are agreeable to take, and expel all kinds of worms from children or adults.

NATIONAL PILLS are a mild purgative, acting on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, removing all obstructions.

LEFT OVER.—Artemesia Show prize list, Waskada communication, and other matter crowded out this week.

LOOK HERE.—First class cooking stoves No. 9, trimmed and complete for $16.50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

IF you want to buy or sell a cow or horse, advertise in the STANDARD. It cost only from twenty-five to fifty cents for a week.

MRS. MARY THOMPSON, of Toronto, was afflicted with Tape Worm, 8 feet of which was removed by one bottle of Dr. Low's Worm Syrup.

House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

A WATCHMAKER of a neighboring village advertises that he will sell at lower prices than any dealer can honestly sell for. What does he mean?

School Books.—A complete assortment of new Readers and other School Books just received at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

PARK lot in Markdale for sale Beautiful location, will be sold on reasonable terms. Apply to R. Freeborn, Williamsford, or enquire at this office. 125-tf

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

MR. JAS. NELSON took 1st prize for 5 lb. roll of butter at Markdale Show, thereby securing W. A. Brown's special prize, viz., Silverplate butterdish, valued at $8.

CROUP, WHOOPING COUGH and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

IF you want pictures framed, call at Hamilton's photo. gallery and see his stock of mouldings, the finest ever brought into Markdale, and prices that are sure to suit.

SHILOH'S COUGH and Consumption Cure is Sold by A. Turner & Co. on a guarantee. It cures consumption. z

ROBERT WALKER a prominent Toronto merchant, head of the firm of R. Walker & Son, and for more than half a century a resident of the city, died on Monday 5th inst.

THAT HACKING COUGH can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

OWING to not having a proper list, several errors appeared in the Glenelg Fall Show prize list last week. We had to take it from the Secretary's book, which we did not fully comprehend.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

MR. ROBT. FREEBORN, of Holland, took first prize at Glenelg Show, held in Markdale, for "Sir Colin" colt, also for best colt on the ground, any kind; but, owing to some irregularity in making his entries, he was deprived of the prizes.

WILL YOU SUFFER with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

AN implement agent at Meaford, named H. Tottenham, was arrested last week on a charge of having obtained money by false pretence. He admits to some $2,000, but is under water to the tune of more than twice that amount.

BE sure and don't buy a dollar's worth of Boots until you have seen J. R. Trimble's very large and well assorted stock bought at 75c. on the $.

CATARRH CURED, health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

MR. W. A. BROWN, treasurer of the Methodist church building committee, is prepared to receive October payments on subscriptions. Those interested are respectfully requested to hand in their amount before the end of the month.

ELGIN WATCHES—New movements received this week; 11 Jewells, Pat. pinion quick train, slide dust bands, Warranted against defective breakages for two years. Ask for my cash figures on this grade, as it is to suit the times. W. A Brown, the reliable Jeweller.

THE Christian Guardian is published in Toronto, under the authority of the Methodist church, and is an excellent religious paper. It is ably written, well printed, and gives a large amount of home and foreign church and other news. The balance of '85 free to new subscribers.

E. S. RUTLEDGE, of the firm of Rutledge Bro's, general merchants, Fort William, arrived last week, and, after visiting friends a few days went to Toronto and Hamilton to purchase stock and returned this week to Fort William. They are doing an extensive business.

IF there is one article of diet in the world really worth enjoying, it is a cup of pure, fragrant, beautiful Tea. Those who wish to be sure of what they get, should patronize W. J. McFarland, who Imports Direct from place of growth, and guarantees every pound free from impurities.

THE NEW MILL.—Mr. J. S. Plewes has made arrangements for the entire outfit for his new Roller mill now in course of erection. Messrs. Goldie & McCulloch, of Galt, have the contract for furnishing everything. One car load of material arrived last week.—Shelburne Free Press.

WE are tickled to learn that Mr. James H. Little, editor and proprietor of the Owen Sound Advertiser, has taken unto himself a partner, "for better for worse," in the person of Miss Annie Howitt. We wish our brother and sister-in-law abundant and unceasing happiness.

W. A. BROWN'S jewelry store is a perfect jem. The quantity of fine jewelry and silverware, so tastefully arranged, is a credit to the village as well as to the proprietor. An excellent selection can easily be made for wedding presents, &c., and besides, you can rely on the goods being as represented.

SAFE HOME.—Mr. W. L. Young returned Saturday evening after nearly three months absence on a trip to Scotland. Our brass band met him at the train and gave him a hearty welcome. W. L. had a pleasant trip and looks well, but contrary to the expectations of many, he still enjoys single blessedness.

W. J. BENSON, our local yet noted comic singer, returned on Monday night last from attending a grand entertainment East of Toronto, where his services had been engaged. We understand his renderings brought down the house handsomely, and he was several times encored by the large audience. Good for W. J.

Two hundred pair fine Specks and Eyeglasses now in stock. Concave and Convex Crystal Lenses, Lazzarus & Morris $2.00; same in Boss. Adamantine Lense $1.50. Cases furnished. Other lines well finished 25 cents to $1.00, Near Sight and Sun Specks. Every pair optically fitted and warranted. W. A. Brown, The Reliable Jeweller.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER is what you need for Consumption, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

CREDIT SALE.—Tuesday, October 15th, on lot 65, 3rd con. East T. & S. R. Holland. Sale at 1 o'clock. Farm stock, implements, &c., &c. As the proprietor, Wm. Jackson, has sold his farm, the sale will be genuine. Geo. Noble, Auctioneer.

WE regret to learn that Mr. Blyth, of the Chatsworth News, has been confined to his bed with a severe attack of inflamation of the lungs; for this reason his paper has not put in an appearance for two weeks. We understand he is now on the mend.

MRS. MONTGOMERY has opened a well assorted stock of fresh candies, sweetmeats, and canned fruit in Benson's brick block, and as the old lady is in a great measure helpless from bodily infirmities, together with increasing years, we hope our citizens will render her their practical sympathy.

Years of experience and successful tria have proved McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate the most complete and satisfactory compound for healing Old Sores, Festerings, Ulcers, Cuts, Wounds, Burns, Frost Bites or Felons, and for keeping out the cold and to cleanse or prevent proud flesh, sloughing or decay. Insist on having McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate, sold at 25c. by Hill Bro's. 6

SELDOM OUT.—Mr. John McAleer, of the Eugenia Hotel, was in Markdale on Monday. He seldom leaves home, but his many friends here were pleased to see him. Mc sticks close to business and keeps a well regulated house, is very obliging and a man of unquestioned integrity. His better half is not a whit behind in matters pertaining to her department

Fluid Lightning is simply a marvellous Rheumatic Remedy. I was for two months a cripple, unable to get out of the house from Sciatica. One bottle gave me instant relief, and placed me on my feet again. I have driven fourteen miles to-day (something I could not possibly have done were it not for Fluid Lightning(for the express purpose of procuring another bottle. So says Wm. Dixon, Gananoque. Only 25 cents per bottle at Hill Bro's. 6

CHURCH FESTIVAL.—On Wednesday evening next, Oct. 21st, in Wesley Church, Meaford Road. Tea served from 5 to 7 o'clock. Program to consist of addresses by Revs. Casson and Grandy of Markdale, Auld of Eugenia, and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Ayers, also readings and recitations, and music by the choir. Admission 25 cents. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

ANOTHER FRAUD.—If any of our readers receive a circular from New York stating an "Organ is to be sent to you in order to introduce it in your locality, but that $4 must be advanced to pay freight," don't send the money, for the organ is simply a mouth organ. Now, don't conclude that we've been mulched for we haven't, but we have heard that somebody else was.—Acton Free Press.

REMOVE.—Mrs. Monigomery wishes to return thanks to her numerous customers for their liberal patronage during the past twelve years, and would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same. She has opened a large and well assorted stock of Confectionary and Biscuits, Canned Fish and Fruit, &c., &c. Bread and Cakes as usual. Remember the place, in Benson's new brick block.

I had for years been a miserable sufferer from Dyspepsia, and tried all known remedies and the best medical skill of my acquaintance, but still grew worse, until unable to eat any thing without great suffering, or do any kind of work. I began to think there was no hope for me, and that I must surely die; when, like a drowning man catching at a straw, I determined to give McGregor's Speedy Cure a trial, I at once began to Improve so rapidly that in two months I was as well as I had ever been in my life.—WM. EVERS LEAMINGTON. Sold by Hill Bro's. Free trial bottles. 6

THE following is the Honor Roll of S. S. No. 4, Holland, for Sept., the names being arranged in order of merit:—4th Class—Maggie C. Farley, Eddie Troughton, Annie C. Hannah. 3rd Class—Janie McAuley, Willie McAuley, Maggie Quinn. 2nd Class, Sr.—Thomas Farley, Annie Givens, Minnie Shute. 2nd Class, Jr.—Robert Minnion, Gracie Garbutt, Maggie Shute. Junior Divisions—Richard Hannah, Joseph Woice, William McLelland, James Givens, Annie Minnion. Alma U. Horton, Teacher.

Flesherton.

From our own correspondent.

EXPLOSION AT TF OLD DURHAM CORNERS.—An explosion, which created no little sensation, but fortunately did little harm, occurred in the dwelling of Mr. Thos. Omelia, 2½ miles east of this village, at what is known as the "Old Durham Corners," on Wednesday evening last. Mr. Omelia states, having a short time previous bought some stove wood from a neighbor, they had commenced burning the same, and on the evening in question, about 9 o'clock, they had put some blocks of wood into the stove and quietly seated themselves around the fire for the evening, when, with a terrible crash, the covers on the stove were blown off and the doors burst open, and in an instant the house was full of smoke and ashes, and the floor strewn with burning wood and coals, which fortunately they were able to extinguish before much harm was done; afterward among the ashes on the floor was found some cartridge shells, the ball of one was afterward discovered to have passed through an inch board in a partition about 12 inches from where Miss Omelia was at the time sitting. Upon examination of other pieces of the wood, in a soft or rotten part was found other cartridges imbedded in some dirt and leaves which Mr. Omelia thinks was placed there to do serious harm. We cannot think the neighbor from whom the wood was purchased would do such a diabolical act. The case as yet is a mystery.

The Rev. Mr. Ayers delivered his popular Temperance sermon, entitled "Dollars and Dimes," in the Methodist church here on Sunday evening last, selecting for his text "Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread, and your labor for that which satisfieth not?" Isaiah 55 and 2. As space does not permit a synopsis, to be brief, the rev. gentleman's discourse was a choice production very ably and feelingly delivered, and altho' the church was crowded almost to its utmost capacity, was listened to with wrapt attention by all. At the close of the sermon, Mr. Ayers called upon Dr. Christoe to make a few remarks on the Temperance question, when the Dr. very briefly delivered a few well chosen remarks. At the close of the service the choir sang "Where is my boy to-night?" the congregation joining in the chorus.

Considerable repairs and an addition is being made to the Methodist church. Messrs. Moore & Whitten secured the contract at $750.

The many farmers who sold their grain on this market last season will be pleased this year again to see the pleasant countenances of Messrs. Elder and Neilson to greet them again both here and at the Station. We understand other buyers are expected to be on this market this season as well, which, no doubt will tend to make this as good if not better than any other grain market in the country.

Indians Sentenced To Death.

THE MURDERERS OF PAYNE AND FREMONT TO HANG.

BATTLEFORD, N. W. T., Oct. 7.—The trial of the Indians charged with the murder of Payne and Fremont has been concluded, both being found guilty on the clearest evidence. Judge Rouleau, in passing the death sentence, told the prisoners he could hold out no hopes of mercy. He sentenced them to be hanged on the 27th of November, the day on which the unfortunate men previously condemned will meet their fate.

The three councillors who signed the celebrated Poundmaker letter were sentenced to two years each in penitentiary.

The murderer of Dill was placed on trial to-day, and the case will probably be concluded before the court rises, though as the evidence is expected to be voluminous, there being a number of witnesses, it may have to go over till to-morrow.

"C" company, Infantry School, leaves for home on Saturday.

THE TWO DOCTORS.

FOUNDED ON EXPERIENCE.

The New England village of R——contained two rival doctors, both of whom were also rivals for the favor of the lovely Miss Ella Deane. Dr. Simpson and Dr. Emmons were two quite different individuals. Dr. Simpson was somewhat more polished externally, more conventional, more fresh from his books, more given to routine, and, like many other physicians lately graduated, felt that he could walk right up to a patient, feel of his pulse, see his tongue, look wise, and then write off a Latin prescription that would scatter the disease to the winds. Dr. Emmons was formal, less fettered by the schools, lived close to nature, and, seeing how predisposed all men are to run in ruts, strove to think for himself, and to adapt his remedies to the condition and temperament of the patient. His hair was not so immaculately smooth as that of Dr. Simpson and his coat was not quite so fashionable, but he possessed a noble head and a genial soul shone out from his whole face, while the earnest contact of his hands with those of his patients as he greeted them seemed to give them new cheer and strength.

Both physicians were frequent visitors at the residence of Mr. Deane, and both considered it a great favor to have the society and sprightly conversation of the beautiful Ella, whose sweet simplicity of manner seemed to signify that she was quite unconscious of her own charms. Mr. Deane himself had a most tender affection for his daughter, and she in turn leaned on her father with all a daughter's love.

Gradually it became apparent to all that Ella's health was failing, and that her step, usually so elastic, was growing languid and her face becoming pale, while a severe cough was setting in. Dr. Simpson informed her father that she was in a serious condition and was rapidly running into phthisis pulmonalis Dr. Emmons also informed him that her case, though not yet dangerous, was leading into consumption and should be attended to at once Mr. Deane, noticing what learned words Dr. Simpson was in the habit of using and that he designated her disease phthisis pulmonalis at once, while Dr. Emmons didn't know any better than to call it consumption, concluded to employ the former to treat his daughter. In fact, he hadn't the least idea that both terms meant the same thing and that Dr. Emmons generally used plain English when talking to unprofessional people.

Dr. Simpson chuckled to himself over the fact that his system of technical claptrap had overawed Mr. Deane and gained his point. "Cure her?" said he to himself, "of course I shall cure her in a little while, and she in her gratitude will easily be led to commit herself to my care and keeping for the rest of her mortal life. As to Dr. Emmons, I pity him somewhat, but he is evidently not scientific and has lost the day. She must have some cod-liver oil for her lungs and some iron to tone up her blood, for she is afflicted with anæmia."

With these thoughts, the confident Simpson went forward to put his theory into practice, wholly unconscious of the fact that there were causes lying back of these conditions of stomach and lungs that must be reached if anything permament was to be effected.

"Preposterous!" said Dr. Emmons to himself, when he heard that cod-liver oil and iron were being forced down into a stomach that was so weak as to be unable to assimilate some of the simpler foods. "It looks now as if that angel girl was to be sacrificed to ignorance, for the real cause of her present difficulties will not be touched."

Dr. Emmons did not say this before the world at large, for they would have considered it as a manifestation of professional jealousy; nevertheless, he grieved night and day over the course which he felt sure would destroy that lovely temple of a human life. A few weeks served to prove the truth of his fears, for Ella steadily failed, the hectic flush made its appearance more intensely and her cheeks grew hollow. The poor girl was even tortured by blisters, while her stomach was filled with indigestible compounds. Finally, Dr. Simpson had a consult tion with other physicians of the same stamp as himself, and as a result it was communicated to Mr. Deane that he must prepare for the worst, as Ella's case was getting beyond human power to save.

Mr. Deane was almost beside himself with excitement, and turning sternly to the doctor, he exclaimed:

"Doctor Simpson, you have wronged me in this matter. When I placed my daughter's case in your hands she was not very low, and you declared that you would have her all right in a little while. Instead of that she has grown worse. My daughter herself declared that you were not reaching her chief difficulties, and now I have come to the conclusion that you are scientific only in the use of big words. Dr. Simpson, I want you to know that that dear girl is all I have in this world, and if she dies my sun will have gone from the sky, and I shall never want to see your face again."

This was uttered with tears and an energy that made the doctor tremble; but at the same time he tried to justify himself, declaring that God's providence is inscrutable and beyond human power to bend.

"It is more inscrutable," said Mr. Deane, "that a man can spend years at a medical college, and then when he commences practicing makes people worse than they were before. Allow me to say that I shall have no further use for your services."

It needed a thunderbolt of righteous indignation like this to set the conceited young man to thinking and to make him feel that something besides mere druggist's stuff should be used for upbuilding human systems.

Mr. Deane went to Dr. Emmons and begged him to make the most persistent efforts to save his daughter, although a council of medical men had considered the case quite hopeless

Dr. Emmons at once stated that he had given him a severe and discouraging case to deal with, although it might have been easily controlled at first. However, he would hope to save her, although it would be necessary for her to undergo a process for eliminating the impure elements caused by the disease and the treatment that might for the time being almost overwhelm her.

When Dr. Emmons went in to see Ella, she sent an appealing look into his very soul, exclaiming, gently, "Save me, doctor, save me. I am not afraid to go to the other life, and sometimes I wish for its blessed rests, but my dear father would be discouraged, and I feel that I must do some important work here before I go."

The doctor thought that even in her weakness and emaciation there was something almost unearthly in that radiant countenance, and taking her hand tenderly in his, he exclaimed: "You little woman, I will raise heaven and earth to save you if human power can do it."

He then told her that he would organize his forces and plans for a desperate encounter with her disease and appear in the morning to carry them into effect, but in the meantime he would like to have her nurse make downward passes over her spine and all her limbs with the object of drawing the congested blood away from the vital parts; also to practice transverse wringing movements over the same parts to kindle the blood.

That night Dr. Emmons felt a mighty weight of responsibility upon him. He prayed for light, for help, for power. He saw that the clogging and impure elements of her system must be thrown off, and yet the ordinary methods of sweating them off would be too weakening for one who was already very weak. He had read how Baron Dupuytren cured a lady after the most eminent physicians had failed by simply putting her into the light, and he had heard marvellous things about the sun-healing movement in the country, especially in lung difficulties. Ella had cheerfully promised to submit to any course of treatment that Dr. Emmons might consider best, but in the morning when he appeared with a big funnel-shaped instrument made of bright metal on one arm and a wooden frame somewhat resembling a chicken coop on the other, she gave a hearty laugh. He then explained that he had had them made in hot haste that morning—the funnel, which was about two feet long, being for the purpose of concentrating a large amount of light by reflection, while the frame was for the purpose of going around her as she sat up in bed. This had a large opening in the top through which her head could come, while blankets were to be spread over the crate-like affair, leaving her head outside in the pure air and shutting in the radiations of her body as well as the sunlight which might be introduced through the funnel. After a little laugh Ella was bolstered up in bed, the crate was placed over her, a white blanket placed over that, and the small end of the funnel inserted through an opening in the crate so as to throw the light directly on the skin over her lungs. The bed was then wheeled up to the window so that the full sunlight could come into the large end of the funnel, care being taken that it should not strike Ella's head.

"Doctor, you are a genius," said Ella, after the first trial. "This heat is delightful! My dormant lungs drink it in as if they were famished. If the sunlight is the great vitalizer, why shouldn't it kindle up human bodies when it can get to them? Doctor, it begins to burn."

"Let it burn a little," said the doctor, "for it will fire up the organs and draw some of the soreness outside."

After a little while the perspiration started, though it had hard work to release the impure elements from the fever-closed pores. This sweating process was allowed to run twenty or thirty minutes, the light having been thrown upon the upper spine for a portion of the time. The nurse then washed her in tepid water and was surprised to find sticky and even colored matter thrown out upon the skin.

"I feel easier and fresher than I have for days," said Ella.

"But I shall have to keep this up every day for a while," said the doctor, "even if it should weaken you somewhat."

Day after day the work went on. The struggle was severe. Sunlight and massage roused the turbid elements to the very foundation, and one night he was sent for with the announcement that she was dying.

"I don't believe it," said he, though at heart he was somewhat alarmed. "The crisis has come and I trust that with a little help she will get safely through." He found her almost smothering, but ordered a hot foot-bath, which drew the blood downward and gave relief.

She had passed the Rubicon. From that time onward she moved steadily upward, to the great chagrin of the other doctors. She soon sat up, then walked a few steps out of doors, then took short rides, then longer rides, and finally she declared her health was in as good condition as it had ever been The roses came back to her cheeks and elasticity to her steps. But another change had been going on between the patient and her physician. To each the approach of the other was like the coming of a new sun into the sky. With childlike simplicity and yet with delicacy they uttered their kind regards to each other. Finally, when the doctor determined to bring matters to an absolute crisis, Ella knew it as well as he.

"Sweetest of women," said he.

"Noblest of men," said she.

"You darling, you know well enough what I'm up to."

"Of course I do," was her answer, "but say it nevertheless."

"Will you be my sweeter half for ever and ever?"

"Certainly, dear, if you will be my stronger half for ever and ever."

The Yacht Livadia.

The Czar Alexander II.'s famous yacht, the Livadia, turned up long ago as a coal hulk in the harbor of Sebastopol. This is an ignominious ending for a craft which was expected to revolutionize marine architecture and which was certainly one of the most georgous vessels ever built. No such vessel had been since Noah navigated the eastern waters; her hull was hidden in a projecting basement which supported a row of pillars; she had four tiers of decks paved with black, white and red marble; there was a magnificent marble fountain; the baths were hewn from white marble blocks; rows of electric lights illuminated the saloons and avenue-like corridors, and the many sets of appartments were finished in rare woods and stones, furnished with the most costly trappings and ornamented with Oriental splendor. Although that Livadia was more like a fairy palace than a modern yacht, and it is not strange that the impression went abroad that one purpose of her creation was to dazzle the Asiatic mind and increase the awe and mystery with which it regarded the Czar. But the Livadia was not a safe sailor, and she was practically discarded as worthless.

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

Delegates to the annual election and picnic of the Lime-Kiln began arriving as early as Thursday, and by Friday night at least 600 honorary members had put in an appearance. Every State in the Union except Florida was represented, and the two Canadas, Nova Scotia and Winnipeg sent their best men.

Giveadam Jones, Pickles Smith and Whalebone Howker were a committee to receive all delegates coming by rail, and a warm and hearty welcome awaited each stranger as he stepped off the caboose of a freight train.

Trustee Pulback, Sir Isaac Newton and Elder Penstock were a committee appointed to patrol the river front day and night and receive such delegates as came by boat. Where the delegates had taken passage and paid his fare the work of the committee was very easy, but where he had stowed himself away among the boxes without saying anything to the captain it was a work of some to difficulty receive him.

Layback Jones, Peaceful Smith and Elder Cabiff were appointed a committee to receive such delegates as came in by highway, and their duties were performed in the most satisfactory manner. Each dusty delegate was welcomed in a feeling speech, given a drink of root beer from a gallon jug, and then loaded into a one-horse wagon and forwarded directly to Paradise Hall. From thence he was ticketed to the cabin of some local member.

It has hitherto been the practice of the club to hold the annual picnic on Fighting Island, eight miles below Detroit, but this year the owner of the island refused permission, claiming that the last meeting tore up thirty acres of ground in such an awful shape that even burdock would'n't grow there this season. The club therefore decided on a dry land excursion, and teams conveyed the members to a sylvan retreat about five miles from the city,

AN ADDRESS.

The first thing on the programme was an address of welcome by Brother Gardner, from which the following interesting statistics are called:

The Lime-Kiln Club now numbers 22,850 members in good standing.

It has about $7,000 in the general treasury, counting in Confederate money and bills on broken banks.

Its constitution now contains forty-seven sections or chapters, each one of the most vivid interest, and its by-laws number 12,460. It is hoped to increase the later to 20,000 before another year.

The club is the recognized organ of the colored race in America and Canada, and has been the direct means of saving 30,000 colored people from the gallows.

The club has thirty-six branches in this country and eight in Canada. Wherever one of these branches has been established all policy dealers have had to shut up shop, and the game of "craps" had died a sudden and painful death.

Since the organization of the club twenty-two colored poets have made their debut; fourteen orators have been discovered and brought to the front; twelve lecturers on various subjects have been encouraged to scatter over the country, and four weather prophets are now engaged in keeping the seasons greased to run without friction.

THE GAMES.

Previous to dinner the following games were indulged in and the following prizes awarded.

Throwing the (tack) hammer; prize, a volume of Capt. Kidd's poems; won by Old Man Jackson after breaking three suspenders.

Hop-skip-and-jump; prize, one pair of nankeen trousers for next summer; won by Concentric Saunders after a mighty effort which up-rooted two small trees and tore up forty rods of ground.

High jamp; prize, one gallon of lemonade, made by Worth of Paris; won by Waydown Beebe who came down on his head and did not recover from the shock until all the lemonade had gurgled down the throats of his compatriots.

Lifting the pullet, prize, one gallon of yellow paint, with instructions how to turn it into an Alpine landscape worth $25 in any sort of weather. Competitors for this prize were required to enter a temporary hen-coop and remove a very wild pullet off the roost without disturbance. There were twenty-one entries, but the prize was won by Shindig Watkins amidst unbounded applause.

THE DINNER.

At 12 o'clock noon the horn blew for dinner and the assemblage rushed to the tables and struggled with the following bill of fare:

Soup.	Soup. A la bean.	Soup.
Bread.	Beef.	Onions.
Mustard.	Chow-chow.	Pickles.
Knives.	Forks.	Spoons.

ENTREES.

Some of the mustard on some of the bread.

DESSERT.

Some of the onions tangled up with the pickles.

The dinner will long be remembered by all as a bright oasis in life's desert. After the fragments were removed to a safe distance to prevent explosion, pails of lemonade were passed.

THE ELECTION.

After a day of unadulterated happiness spent beneath the cool shadows of a grove worth $200 per acre, the club returned to the city at nightfall and gathered in Paradise Hall. Previous to the opening of the meeting, root beer, lemonade and pumpkin pie were served out with liberal hand, and several old plantation songs were rendered in a manner to call out the patrol wagons.

The election, which was first on the evening programme, resulted as follows:

President.—Bro. Gardner.

First Vice-President—Sorghum White.

Second Vice-President—Snowball Jackson.

Grand Treasurer—Slipout Smith.

Grand Recorder—Elder Cahoots.

Grand Finance Committee—Impecunious Green, Outlawed Stebbins and Currency Hart.

Speeches, songs, toasts and other festivities occupied the time to midnight, at which hour the meeting adjourned.

THE

"ECLIPSE"

KNITTING MACHINE.

The only machine suitable for family use. One machine, without change of cylinder or needles will knit all sizes of stockings and socks, full-fashioned and seamless. The Ribber is the simplest part of the machine, and the same needle is used in doing ribbed and plain work. The fitting of the stitches entirely dispensed with. Mitts, Gloves, Undershirts, Drawers, Sashes, Tuques, Jersey Suits, and almost every kind of knitted goods can be made on it Received First Prize at Dominion and Provincial Exhibition, and First Honors at every fair giving prizes this year. Do not confound it with others. It is a new invention. Send stamp for circular. Active agents wanted. Sold on instalment plan. Discount for cash. Instruction book sent with every machine, from which any person can learn to operate the "Eclipse."

The Toronto Knitting Machine Co.,

116 BAY ST., TORONTO.

NOTICE.

To our Numerous Consumers.

On account of the tobacco crop of 1883 being so poor, we did not buy much, and selected only the best of it, as we always wish to keep our T. "& B Myrtle" brand up to the standard; and therefore there may be a scarcity of "T. & B Myrtle" Plug for a short time. If such is the case there will be a full supply on the market by the end of October.

The tobacco we are now about to manufacture is the finest we have ever had, and we know it will please our numerous consumers.

Yours respectfully,

GEO. E. TUCKETT & SON.

The Eagle Steam Washer is the only Washing Machine invented that a woman or girl years old, without the use of a washboard, can with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent in trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear on clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in 20, bed clothes 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 76 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc., they drive away and destroy Moths and other insects, imparting a delightful and delicate perfume to clothing, carpets or wraps upon which they are placed; by their powerful concentrated disinfecting properties, a perfect means of protection against the spread of disease; giving off at the same time a most delightful odor; made entirely of satin in assorted colors, very pretty, unique, and neat Every one should have them. Price 10c each—three for 25c. Also Cresol Soap, the great English disinfecting toilet soap, awarded the gold medal, London, 1883. Large cakes, price 15c., or 35c. per box of three cakes, sent postage paid to any address upon receipt of price. Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 750 Craig street. Thymo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application. Agents wanted. Write for terms.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships

Sailing during winter from Portland every Tuesday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, and from Londonderry to land mails and passengers for the North of Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N.F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer. The steamers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Philadelphia, fortnightly.

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Halifax; Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N.B.; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Allan, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Ewing & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. & A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

CUT THIS OUT

The New Co-Operative

Sewing Machine

—IS THE—

BEST IN THE MARKET

NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE!

Latest Improved Attachments

Agents price for similar machine

Our price only $25 each.

Before buying send us stamp for our elegant circular and sample of sewing.

Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.

Any lady wanting a machine will do well to call.

The Co-Operative

Sewing Machine Co.

22 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON.

QUEEN CITY OIL WORKS

AGAIN VICTORIOUS! HIGHEST HONORS AND GOLD MEDAL FOR

Peerless Oil

At Toronto. Every Barrel Guaranteed. This Oil was used on the Machinery during the Exhibition. It has been awarded GOLD MEDALS during the last three years ☞ See that you get PEERLESS. It is only made by

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO., TORONTO

$10 Reward for the Conviction

Of Dealers who Sell in- McCOLL'S Superior Oil of Our Manufacture

THE ABOVE REWARD

LARDINE

MACHINE OIL.

Eureka, Cylinder, Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. | For sale by all leading dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co. Toronto.

MERIDEN

BRITANNIA

COMPANY.

FINEST

Electro Plate

CAUTION

Goods stamped Meriden Silver Plate are not our make. If you want reliable goods insist on getting those made by the MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO., HAMILTON, ONT.

Examine Their Superior Merit!

GURNEY'S

NEW HARRIS HOT AIR FURNACE

FOR WOOD

The Most Effective, Clean, Durable and Economical Heaters in the Market for warming Ventilating Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Stores and Private Residences. Simple in construction and easily managed, capable of giving more heat with less consumption of fuel than any heating apparatus. ☞ Absolutely Gas Tight. ☞ Seven sizes are made and can be set in Brick or Portable Form. Correspondence solicited. For Catalogues and further information address

THE E. & C. GURNEY CO.

HAMILTON.

Life's Chivalry.

BY ARTHUR L. SALMON.

There, in the busy city's care and strife,
Its thirst for riches, and its toil for bread,
I found that soul of chivalry in life,
Which some are mourning for as truly dead?
Shall we seek for it in the forest glade;
In hoary dim cathedral gray with age,
In chancel where the mailed knights are laid
With vested lance, no further war to wage;
In mouldering castle, or in ivied tower,
Where pomp and pageantry were wont to be?
Ah, no! But yet the ancient spirit's power
Is with us, and its form, if we would see,
In her cheerfully from hour to hour,
To do good gracious, is chivalry.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

The Author of "THE FLOWER GIRL," "LOVELY LADY LYNHURST," &c., &c.

CHAPTER VIII.—(CONTINUED.)

They had reached the old churchyard ..., and leaning on the low white gate, ... pointed to the further side, where ... granite pillar stood out conspicuously from ... the other surrounding tombs. At its ... a figure crouched, and it was this which ... attracted Miss Mainwaring's attention.

"Percy" she said slowly, "it is a murder- ... drawn towards the spot which conceals ... victim. Percy, I must go! Heaven ... directed my footsteps here to-day."

"—as he made a step forward by her ... "—stay here! I would go alone. ... that I have to say, must be said to her ... alone."

Mr. Braithwaite regarded his cousin with ... degree of apprehension. She was ... angely excited, and he saw that it would ... useless to attempt to thwart her; so he ... slowly agreed to let her have her own way.

"Very well," he said calmly. "I will remain here, as you wish it; only make your interview as short as possible."

He pulled out a cigar and proceeded ... purely to light it, whilst his cousin went ... swiftly forward, her footsteps making no ... sound on the short velvety grass, her ... skirts trailing behind her noiselessly.

Within a few feet of the monument erected ... to the loving memory of Harry Clifford ... Braithwaite she paused undecidedly. The ... kneeling figure had not moved. So quiet ... was it that for one terrible moment Geral- ... she fancied it was lifeless. The head was ... bent forward and rested on the cold granite, ... that no glimpse of the features was obtainable.

"She is guilty, or why does she come ... here? It is remorse which brings her," ... Geraldine said to herself, and hardened her ... heart against the sinner. "I know you, ... Dolly Jarvis," she said aloud, in clear firm ... tones. "What are you doing here at his ... grave?"

Then the bowed head was raised, and a ... face so beautiful in all its deathly pallor ... was disclosed that Miss Mainwaring could ... not repress an exclamation of surprise. ... Yes, the sweet sensitive drooping lips, the ... beautiful eyes, the pure complexion the ... perfect features were the same as of yore; ... but, instead of the sunny smile, instead of ... the eyes brimming over with mischief and ... mirth, they were filled with a great and ... white despair. A despair so profound, an ... agony so intense was written in every lineament of that lovely face that Geraldine ... was smitten dumb for the moment. Slowly the pained far-off look faded, and was replaced by one of recognition, as Dolly began ... to comprehend in whose presence she stood. ... Then the faintest rose-flush dyed her wan ... cheeks, and her lips parted, but no words ... came. But Miss Mainwaring had by this ... time in some degree recovered herself.

"I am Geraldine Mainwaring," she said, ... "once the betrothed of my cousin, who lies ... buried there." And it seemed that some ... inner force compelled her to speak almost ... against her will. "And you—you are his ... murderess!"

The last word was hissed into the kneeling girl's ears as she clutched her arm. ... Never would Gerald ne forget the look ... which Dolly Jarvis cast upon her, so full ... of horror, amazement, and terror was it. ... Slowly she rose to her feet, and, stretching ... out her arms as if to ward off some cruel ... blow, with faltering steps and with her eyes ... still fixed on her accuser, she moved slowly ... away, without uttering one word of exculpation or confession. And, strangely enough, ... Geraldine Mainwaring made no attempt to ... detain or follow her, or to wring the truth ... from her. Nay, as the small lithe figure ... disappeared in the opposite direction to the ... gate by which Geraldine had entered, that ... young lady murmured in a softened voice—

"Poor girl, she loved him too! I will try ... to remember that; and, if—if she has sinned—ah me, her sufferings have been even ... greater than mine!"

"If!" It was singular that Geraldine ... should have admitted that "if"; and yet, ... on the face of the blank and hopeless despair ... written on Dolly Jarvis's countenance, in ... the face of her manner, which had implied ... that she was guilty—or why should she not ... have refuted the charge brought against her? ... Miss Mainwaring felt less assured of that ... fact than she had hitherto done. There was ... something pathetic in the sadness of that ... beautiful face, something that told rather ... of sorrow than of guilt.

With a thoughtful look, Geraldine, after ... a few minutes spent by her lost lover's grave, ... slowly retraced her steps, her cousin's words ... persistently recurring to her. "It was of ... no use to take up a scandal that could reflect little credit on any one concerned in it, ... and nothing could bring poor Harry back ... to life!"

Well, perhaps, after all, he was right. ... She found Percy where she had left him. ... He hastened to open the gate for her as she ... approached; and, as she passed through it, ... glanced curiously at her; but she was unusually reticent.

"Well?" he queried, finding that, woman ... like, she was not use her tongue ... first. "Are you satisfied now, or ——"

"Quite satisfied. We will never speak ... on the subject again, Percy."

"Agreed!" the other said, quite cheerfully, for he had some hopes of winning ... Geraldine himself in these days, and he had ... had a dead rival, in the shape of poor ... Harry, far more difficult to overcome than ... a living one could have been.

CHAPTER IX.

"Oh, Gerald, I wish you'd be persuaded ... for us to leave this place! Let us go away ... somewhere where we are not known. I am ... sure you would be happier."

FUMED DISINFECTANT SACHETS
...ed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, &c.
...ve away and destroy Moths and other insects
...g a delightful and delicate perfume
... carried or worn upon the person
... powerful concentrated disinfectant
...rfect means of protection against infection
...e, giving off at the same time a most delightful
... made entirely of satin in assorted colors
...tty, unique, and neat. Every one should
...m. Price 10c each—three for 25c.
...oap, the great English disinfectant
...arded the gold medal, London, Eng.
...kes, price 15c., or 35c. per box of 3
...age paid to any address upon receipt of price.
THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 750 Craig St., Montreal.
...irculars and descriptions of our English
...ol preparations mailed free on application.
...anted. Write for terms.

... Line Royal Mail Steamships
...during winter from Portland every Thursday
...fax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer
...bec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at
... to land mails and passengers for Scotland
Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's Liverpool fortnightly during summer months.
...mers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter
...om Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia
... during summer between Glasgow and Montreal
...kly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow
...delphia, fortnightly.
...reight, passage, or other information
... A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore;
... & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's
...Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N.B.
... Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, N.Y.;
...H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co.
...; Wm. Brookie, Philadelphia; H. ...
...ortland. Boston. Montreal.

...T THIS OUT
The New Co-Operative
...wing Machine
—IS THE—
...T IN THE MARKET
...W STAND! NEW FURNITURE!
...t Improved Attachments
... price for similar machine
...ur price only $25 each.
...uying send us stamp for our elegant ...
... sample of sewing.
...hines guaranteed for three years and ...
... wan... a machine will do well to write
The Co-Operative
...wing Machine Co.
...MES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON.

...IL WORKS
...HONORS AND GOLD
...s Oil
This Oil was used on ...
It has been awarded ...
...ears ☞ See that you ...
made by
...CO., TORONTO.

...e Conviction
...L'S ...ferior Oil of ...
Manufacture ...
...INE
PAID.
... OIL.
...dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co., Toronto.

CAUTION
Goods stamped ...
...den Silver Plate Co.
are not our make.
you want reliable goods insist on getting the
made by the
MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.,
HAMILTON, ...

...erior Merit!
...Y'S
...IR FURNACES
...aters in the Market for warming
...and Private Residences.
... less consumption of fuel than any ...
...zes are made and can be set ...
...ogues and further information address
...RNEY CO.
...TON.

Life's Chivalry.

BY ARTHUR L. SALMON.

Where, in the busy city's care and strife,
Its thirst for riches, and its toil for bread,
Is found that soul of chivalry in life,
Which some are mourning for as truly dead?
Shall we seek for it in the forest glade;
In hoary dim cathedral gray with age,
In chancel where the mailed knights are laid
With rusted lance, no further war to wage;
In mould'ring castle, or in ivied tower,
Where pomp and pageantry were wont to be?
Ah, no! But yet the ancient spirit's power
Is with us, and its form, if we would see,
To labor cheerfully from hour to hour,
To do good gracious!, is chivalry.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

By the Author of "THE FLOWER GIRL," "LOVELY LADY LYNHURST," &c., &c.

CHAPTER VIII.—(CONTINUED.)

They had reached the old churchyard now, and leaning on the low white gate, Geraldine pointed to the further side, where a granite pillar stood out conspicuously from among the other surrounding tombs. At its base a figure crouched, and it was this which had attracted Miss Mainwaring's attention.

"Percy" she said slowly, "it is a murderess drawn towards the spot which conceals her victim. Percy, I must go! Heaven has directed my footsteps here to-day. Nay"—as he made a step forward by her side—"stay here! I would go alone. What I have to say, must be said to her alone."

Mr. Braithwaite regarded his cousin with some degree of apprehension. She was strangely excited, and he saw that it would be useless to attempt to thwart her; so he wisely agreed to let her have her own way.

"Very well," he said calmly. "I will remain here, as you wish it; only make your interview as short as possible."

He pulled out a cigar and proceeded leisurely to light it, whilst his cousin went swiftly forward, her footsteps making no sound on the short velvety grass, her skirts trailing behind her noiselessly.

Within a few feet of the monument erected to the loving memory of Harry Clifford Braithwaite she paused undecidedly. The kneeling figure had not moved. So quiet was it that for one terrible moment Geraldine fancied it was lifeless. The head was bent forward and rested on the cold granite, so that no glimpse of the features was obtainable.

"She is guilty, or why does she come here? It is remorse which brings her," Geraldine said to herself, and hardened her heart against the sinner. "I know you, Dolly Jarvis," she said aloud, in clear firm tones. "What are you doing here at his grave?"

Then the bowed head was raised, and a face so beautiful in all its deathly pallor was disclosed that Miss Mainwaring could not repress an exclamation of surprise. Yes, the sweet sensitive drooping lips, the beautiful eyes, the pure complexion the perfect features were the same as of yore; but, instead of the sunny smile, instead of the eyes brimming over with mischief and mirth, they were filled with a great and mute despair. A despair so profound, an agony so intense was written in every lineament of that lovely face that Geraldine was smitten dumb for the moment. Slowly the pained far-off look faded, and was replaced by one of recognition, as Dolly began to comprehend in whose presence she stood. Then the faintest rose-flush dyed her wan cheeks, and her lips parted, but no words came. But Miss Mainwaring had by this time in some degree recovered herself.

"I am Geraldine Mainwaring," she said, "once the betrothed of my cousin, who lies buried there." And it seemed that some inner force compelled her to speak almost against her will. "And you—you are his murderess!"

The last word was hissed into the kneeling girl's ears as she clutched her arm. Never would Geraldine forget the look which Dolly Jarvis cast upon her, so full of horror, amazement, and terror was it. Slowly she rose to her feet, and, stretching out her arms as if to ward off some cruel blow, with faltering steps and with her eyes still fixed on her accuser, she moved slowly away, without uttering one word of exculpation or of confession. And, strangely enough, Geraldine Mainwaring made no attempt to detain or follow her, or to wring the truth from her. Nay, as the small lithe figure disappeared in the opposite direction to the gate by which Geraldine had entered, that young lady murmured in a softened voice—

"Poor girl, she loved him too! I will try to remember that; and, if—if she has sinned—ah me, her sufferings have been even greater than mine!"

"If!" It was singular that Geraldine should have admitted that "if"; and yet, in the face of the blank and hopeless despair written on Dolly Jarvis's countenance, in the face of her manner, which had implied that she was guilty—or why should she not have refuted the charge brought against her?—Miss Mainwaring felt less assured of that fact than she had hitherto done. There was something pathetic in the sadness of that beautiful face, something that told rather of sorrow than of guilt.

With a thoughtful look, Geraldine, after a few minutes spent by her lost lover's grave, slowly retraced her steps, her cousin's words persistently recurring to her. "It was of no use to rake up a scandal that could reflect little credit on any one concerned in it, and nothing could bring poor Harry back to life!"

Well, perhaps, after all, he was right. She found Percy where she had left him. He hastened to open the gate for her as she approached; and, as she passed through it, he glanced curiously at her; but she was unusually reticent.

"Well?" he queried, finding that, woman though she was, she did not use her tongue for once. "Are you satisfied now, or——"

"Quite satisfied. We will never speak on the subject again, Percy."

"Agreed!" the other said, quite cheerfully, for he had some hopes of winning Geraldine himself in these days, and he had found a dead rival, in the shape of poor Harry, far more difficult to overcome than a living one could have been.

CHAPTER IX.

"Oh, father, I wish you'd be persuaded by me to leave this place! Let us go away somewhere where we are not known. I am sure you would be happier."

Dolly's voice was tremulous; but there was no mistaking the eagerness with which she awaited the old man's reply.

"Happier?" he repeated, in a tone of mockery. "As if that were possible! As if anything could make my life other than a hideous burden! But," he went on quickly, as he regarded his daughter with keen scrutiny, "you have heard something?" and his face reflected some of the anxiety and terror so plainly depicted on Dolly's wan features.

"Yes," the girl answered slowly, "I have heard something."

"Ah!" Adam's brow contracted, and he drew his breath heavily; then he asked, still outwardly calm—"What is it?"

The girl crossed the room with faltering footsteps, and came and knelt beside Adam, where he sat in an old arm-chair, his eyes, unseeing, gazing out into the narrow street where the twilight shadows were fast deepening.

"What is it?" Adam repeated, as Dolly twined her arms around his knees, and laid her soft cheek against the toil hardened hand.

"Miss Mainwaring is staying at the Hall," Dolly said, in a low voice. "I met her this afternoon, and—and she spoke to me."

"Well?" There was no sign of feeling in the carelessly spoken monosyllable; no one save Dolly perhaps could have guessed what it cost him to utter it

"Father, I am afraid—indeed I am almost sure she suspects."

"Ah!" This time it sounded almost like a sob; then, recovering himself instantly, he added—"Tell me what she said."

"Oh, no, no, I cannot!" the girl wailed passionately. "Only let us go away from this hateful place. Oh, father, it is killing us both!"

The hand which had been passing backwards and forwards over the soft chesnut hair ceased its caressing motion, and Adam, lifting the fair face which the girl had hidden on his knees, gazed at it long and earnestly.

"Yes," he said, at length, "you are right—it is killing us both. I have been selfish, Heaven forgive me—and cruel. That I should suffer is but just; but that you——"

"Nay, nay, do not reproach yourself. You were mad, and yes, I was mad too."

"You are an angel!" cried the old man fervently. "Oh, my child if aught could atone; but it cannot, it cannot! There is only one way open to me."

"You mean that we must leave here?" Dolly cried eagerly.

"Yes, I must leave here." And, in her joy and gratitude, the girl never noticed the personal pronoun he employed.

So they sat on in the gloaming, father and daughter, with the knowledge of a terrible secret between them, which yet could not destroy their love for one another.

When St. Jude's presently struck nine, Adam started from the reverie into which he had fallen.

"Go—leave me now, child; I have some preparations to make for the change we contemplate. It is getting late, and you must be tired. Light the lamp, and then I would be alone."

Dolly obeyed his wishes, and then came to his side.

"Good night, father," she said, stooping to kiss him, as was her wont.

He drew her down until her head lay on his breast.

"Good night, my child; may Heaven bless you! And remember, whatever happens, I have done it for the best."

And with those words still echoing in her ears, Dolly Jarvis fell asleep that night.

* * * * * * *

In the early dawn of the summer's morn, old Sue, entering the little parlour, was startled to see the blacksmith sitting in his favourite arm-chair beside the table. His head had fallen forward upon his breast, his hand still grasped the pen with which he had signed his name for the last time. With an exclamation of surprise, which was quickly turned in horror, Susan hastened forward. One touch of the cold nerveless hand, one glance into the wide staring eyes, revealed too plainly the fact—Adam Jarvis was dead!

For the life of her the old woman could not suppress the cry of mingled horror and grief which escaped her as the dreadful truth dawned upon her. "Now Heaven have mercy on me!" she sobbed. "Alas that I should have lived to see this day! and my bonnie bairn left fatherless as well as motherless! It will kill her, too, poor tender heart! How shall I break it to her? Ah me, I cannot tell her! She must not know—not yet. I'll just send for the doctor when t'forge is opened; he's a kind-hearted man, and 'll know what to say better'n a poor creature like mysel'. And—yes, of course; I wonder I didn't think of that first—Tom Larkins—he'll do it best of all. He'll be 't work soon, and I'll keep quiet till then, and maybe the child will not be roused afore."

But, even as she thus soliloquised, there was a fluttering of light feet down the stairs, and Susan had barely time to make her exit from the room and shut the door behind her, keeping one hand on the handle, before she found herself standing face to face with Dolly—Dolly looking so ghastly and weird in the pale dawn that old Sue, whose nerves had received a great shock, had much ado to keep herself from crying out again.

"Lor', miss," she managed to gasp, "what a turn you've give me! What is 't that has brought you down so early, and—and not dressed too?"—for Dolly had only a loose wrapper thrown over her night-dress. "You'll catch your death of cold, child, standing there with nothin' on. Take my advice and go back to bed at once before you get a chill."

But Dolly took no heed of this warning. On the contrary, she came a step nearer and laid her hand impressively on Sue's brown, bony, bare arm.

"You are trying to deceive me," she said calmly; "but it is useless. Where is my father—and what—has—happened?"

The words dropped out singly, and, before Susan could recover her scattered wits sufficiently to answer, Dolly had gently pushed her on one side and entered the room behind her. Then indeed the old woman sprang forward, but too late. Already Dolly had raised the bowed head and pillowed it on her arm. Not a tear did she shed, not a cry did she utter; only the beautiful eyes were filled with piteous entreaty as she asked, in a half-frightened whisper—

"What is it? Has he fainted?" Is he ill?"

"Hear her! Ah, Heaven save us all, but she never guesses he is dead!" ejaculated Susan, unconscious that she was speaking aloud.

"Dead?" repeated Dolly, in a bewildered tone. "Oh, no, not dead! We—he and I—arranged it all last night—to go away somewhere together. Yes, yes; he will be better when we have left Midhurst, and we shall be happy once more—poor father and I!"

* * * * * * *

In the poor little darkened room, with a solitary tallow candle, Dolly Jarvis jealously kept watch beside her dead father. Three days had come and gone since that terrible morning when she had come down only to find that she was an orphan, that Adam had indeed made his preparations, and had left the scene of so much happiness and, alas, misery also, for ever! During this space of time the girl had never broken her fast; old Susan's tearful entreaties and Tom Larkins had been alike unavailing. Her beauty had always been of the fragile order, now it was almost ethereal.

So at least thought a visitor who entered unannounced and stood in the chamber of death, silently and sorrowfully contemplating the ravages which grief had made in the young girl. Involuntarily she drew the comparison between this scene and a similar one in which she had herself figured five years ago. Then it had been a young man whose life had been cut off in the prime, mourned by the girl who should have been his wife. All the surroundings had spoken of wealth—the many waxen lights, the costly flowers, the rich perfumes, the polished oak coffin, with its brass plate and inscription. Now it was a prematurely aged man whose only child refused to be comforted because he was no more. Here, if there was no actual display of poverty, there was none of the trappings which take away at least some of the horrors which must always attend death.

A few half-blown monthly roses lay on the coffin-lid, which was of plain deal covered with cloth; the air was close and stifling, the solitary candle emitted a sickly light. Geraldine Mainwaring shuddered; then she went unhesitatingly forward.

"Dolly," she whispered softly, placing her cool hand on the girl's hot feverish ones, which lay tightly clasped in her lap—"Dolly," she repeated, "I have come to ask you in the presence of him—can you forgive me?"

Then, as once before, the girl raised her drooping head and gazed straight into Geraldine's eyes.

"Forgive!" she echoed, in a dazed tone. "Yes, I am sure he was forgiven at last; he suffered so—ah, how much! Poor father! And—and it was an accident. I can always say that truthfully—he never meant to do it."

The sweet piteous pleading in look and tone touched Geraldine greatly; her own eyes filled with tears.

"I know—we all know—now how it happened," she said soothingly, "and we do not blame the dead."

"Dead! Yes, they cannot harm him now, can they?" Dolly questioned feverishly. "He said he would go away; I had begged him to do so. I had told him I had seen you, but not what you said—oh, no, I would not hurt him by repeating that! But he kept his word, you see, and he has gone away. By-and-by I shall be glad perhaps; but not now—not now!"

And then relief came in a burst of hysterical tears, which may be saved poor Dolly's reason.

There had been an inquest the day before—in this as in that other case, five years ago—and it was then that Adam Jarvis's confession had been read—a statement which he had written during those silent hours when the angel with the sickle was already, unseen and unknown, hovering near him. Briefly explained, it amounted to this.

On that eventful evening, when Captain Braithwaite had lost his life, Adam had been returning from his wooing through the pine-wood, when he had recognised his daughter and the young officer talking together. A few words which he over-heard and misconstrued, had led him to believe that the Captain had acted even a baser part than he had really done; and, without preface or warning, the blacksmith had raised his mighty fist, and with one tremendous blow, had struck the betrayer of Dolly's affections.

Attacked thus suddenly and unawares, Captain Braithwaite made but a feeble resistance to his assailment, and in the struggle stumbled, and slipped over the precipice, while Adam, heedless of Dolly's wild cries, had stridden off, reckless of any injuries he might have inflicted on the young officer, but hardly dreaming of the consequences which had really attended what he termed the "drubbing he had given the rascal." He had grown uneasy as the time sped by, and Dolly did not make her appearance; but, when she at length returned, and in a few heart-broken words made her confession from beginning to end, he was horror-stricken. A fearless man, possessed of great strength, he became a coward at the vision of the hangman, and, in a moment of weakness, consented to carry out his daughter's suggestion, which was that the blame should be permitted to fall upon her. No one but herself knew of Adam's presence at the interview which had taken place between Dolly and her lover. The pine-wood was quite out of the blacksmith's way in going to and from Doctor Seymour's; so suspicion was hardly likely to fall upon him.

"Having made our plans, I was compelled to stand by them," Adam wrote "though many a time and oft, I felt I must confess the truth when I saw how my pretty lass was shunned and suspected. I had made up my mind that, if things went seriously against Dolly at the inquest, I would have cleared her and given myself up, and even that open verdict, which seemed to cast a doubt on my poor lass, nearly made me do it; but I thought of the hangman, and remained silent."

Then he went on to say that life became a living death to him, that he shunned his neighbors, because he feared they would read his secret in his guilty looks, and yet still more terrible was solitude; whilst even Dolly's presence, once so dear to him, seemed to be an everlasting reproach. But it was Miss Mainwaring he feared most. Instinct told him that she who had loved the dead man with a great and deep-seated passion, would never rest until she had discovered the truth. So he had come to the conclusion that she would no longer fight against fate. Dolly who had been an angel to him, who, while abhoring the sin, had yet loved and pitied the sinner so greatly, should have her innocence publicly declared. She had begged him to go away—well, he would go tomorrow; he would give himself up to justice.

It seemed strange that he should have written this confession when about to proclaim the truth in his own person—perhaps he thought it was less painful to break his intelligence first in this form, or maybe the shadow of the dark messenger was already with him. Some instinct, sure, but undefined, may have warned him that, if atonement were to be made, it must be done quickly.

Ah, Heaven had dealt mercifully with Adam Jarvis, after all! The contemplation of that "giving himself up" had been too much for him. He had "gone away" in the dark solemn night; but Death had been his companion.

The verdict that he had died of disease of the heart was true enough, for his heart had been slowly but surely breaking ever since that terrible moment when he had realised that his hand had destroyed a fellow-being.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Newspapers in Schools.

A writer in the Current, after deploring the lamentable ignorance of public affairs and transpiring events displayed by the average scholar of the schools of the country, thus argues for the introduction of newspapers into the public schools:—"Remove the old-fashioned reading-books from the schools, and replace them with the better newspapers of the country. Of course, this is not meant to apply to the primary reading-books—the primer, first and second readers. Because the child, until it has advanced beyond these branches, has not attained that degree of intelligence which would enable it to grasp the meaning or retain in its memory the facts contained in a newspaper article. But this objection does not apply to the child who has reached the age of twelve or fourteen years. At that age the average American youth is fully capable of understanding and remembering what he reads. It may be objected that the average newspaper contains a good-deal of so-called news that would be injurious, rather than beneficial, to the youthful reader; and that the style of language used by many newspaper writers is not of a sufficiently classic character to be utilized for the cultivation of the youthful mind. To the first of these objections it may be answered that, while it is true that much that would be at least worthless in the education of youth is published in all newspapers, yet the judgment and discretion of the intelligent teacher may be safely relied upon to select only that for perusal which will be both beneficial and instructive. As to the second objection, it may be said that while it holds good in many—alas! far too many—cases, yet there are plenty of newspapers in the country that can be relied upon as not only honest exponents of current events and public opinion thereon, but also equally as fair representatives of the purity of the English language as are the school readers. Of course, in the selection of newspapers for schools the judgment and intelligence of the school boards and teachers must be trusted, not only to make the discriminations already cited, but also to use due consideration in choosing between the partisan and the non-partisan press. A good deal of thought and some little investigation of this subject have convinced me that the adoption of some such policy as is here suggested would be a long stride toward perfection of what is already the best and greatest and grandest educational system in the world."

A LIFE ROMANCE.

A Couple Who Were Married After Forty Year's Separation.

Forty years ago the Rev. Thomas E. Myers, then a young man of 30 years, persistently courted Miss Elvina Cobb of Baltimore county. They afterwards had a misunderstanding and parted. Although they had a deep affection for each other, they never made any attempt to become reconciled. Some weeks ago the couple met at Emory Grove camp meeting for the first time since their separation. Each had been twice married and had buried both life partners. Their hair was silvered, and with the whilom lover time had dealt severely with his once sturdy frame. The matronly widow of 55 saw before her a feeble and bent form, but it seemed none the less capable of exciting a romantic interest. Mr. Myers, who was noted for his piety and fine theological learning, seemed to regard the widow with great interest, and soon became her accepted escort in walks around the camp. There were a few friends on the camp ground who had heard of the early romance, and the venerable lovers at once became the subject of tender interest.

On the day before the camp broke up a young belle of 18 in passing rapidly along a favorite walk near the camp turned a corner and suddenly saw the Rev. Mr. Myers in the act of presenting a bouquet of wild flowers to the blushing widow. The gallant lover was making a graceful and courtly bow when the astonished beauty met his gaze. He blushed, trembled, and dropped the flowers, and seemed overwhelmed with confusion as the intruder turned away with a merry laugh.

The episode seemed to convince Mr. Myers that he should clear himself of the suspicion of flirting, and he forthwith proposed to Mrs. Hall, who, after some persuasion, agreed to change her name for the third time and become Mrs Myers. The engagement was at once announced, and Mr. Myers expressed his desire to have the ceremony performed just forty years after the date of their separation. On the desired anniversary, which fell on a recent Tuesday, they were married. The Rev. Dr Thomas Poulson officiated, and the bride and groom stood under a huge silver bell while the knot was being tied. After the ceremony Mrs. Myers, whose friends had insisted on attiring her in full bridal array, not excepting the orange blossoms, was congratulated by hundreds of her friends and her husband's parishoners.

PEOPLE.

Lord Randolph Churchill was almost seriously ill some time ago, but his health is now restored.

Kossuth, from feeble health, has been compelled to stop teaching English at Turin, and has gone to live in the Alps on a farm, where his sons will hereafter support him.

Angeli of Vienna is the favorite portrait-painter of Queen Victoria, who has sent for him to come to Windsor in November expressly to paint pictures of Beatrice and Battenberg.

The venerable Prof. Calvin E. Stowe was famous for years as a wit, a scholar and a fine public speaker but was suddenly and completely relegated to dense obscurity by Harriet Beecher Stowe, and she was his second wife at that.

Mr Stead, the editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, is described by a London correspondent as being the type of a fanatical reformer with his hair standing in all directions, his light blue eyes bloodshot, his face red with ill-suppressed excitement, and his slight frame swaying to and fro, but looking like a brave man.

In one of his most frequently quoted poems Alfred de Musset asked that a willow tree be planted above his grave. Years after his death the request was tardily granted, but the tree refuses to grow and remains to this day a stunted skeleton And no one in all France cares to replace it with a living plant.

Senor Campero, a merchant of Pueblo, Mexico, recently advertised that he would give a dollar to every needy man who applied, actually doing so for a week or more. Incidentally, and in no connection with this charity, it is mentioned that Senor Campero proposes to run as Mayor of Pueblo.

Victor Hugo died worth about $1,000,000, his royalties amounting to $220,000 yearly Jules Grevy, Leon Say and Leon Gambetta were the executors named in his will. Death incapacitated the last, the first refused to act, and the great financier, left alone, found his other business to be too pressing; so he has nominated M. G. Pallain to take his place and execute the poet's will.

Killed by Bee Stings.

Thomas Fader of Gouldville keeps several hives of bees in his garden. The other forenoon he was at work among his bees. A man with whom he had some buisness dealings called at his house to see him. Mrs. Fader went out to call her husband into the house. As she approached the bee hives a number of bees flew into her face, and she was stung several times. One of the bees stung her in one of her nostrils, and another one stung her on the upper lip, at the base of the cartilege dividing the two nostrils. Mrs. Fader's cries brought her husband to the spot. He extracted the stingers and applied wet earth to the wounds. He went with his wife back to the house, and had no thought of any consequences resulting from the bee stings more serious than the swelling and pain. He left his wife in the kitchen applying ammonia to the wounds, and entered a front room, where his visitor was. A few minutes later he heard a heavy fall in the kitchen. He ran out, and found his wife lying in convulsions on the floor. Her nostrils were swollen shut, and her lips were twice their natural size, and had turned dark blue. She breathed short and quick through her mouth. Her face was so swollen that its identity was entirely lost. Mr. Fader hurried his visitor after a doctor, but before one arrived his wife died in her husband's arms. The doctor said that the stings in her lip and nostrils had sent a shock like electricity to her brain, and from that to her lungs and heart, so severe that she was unable to rally from it. Mrs. Fader was 28 years old. It was but forty-five minutes from the time that she was stung until her death.

Appetite of the Primitive Man.

Paleolithic man used to eat his brethren; and so used his comparatively highly civilized successor (we must not say descendant) of the new stone age In Italy, in the dried up lakes (terramares), which contains remains of the old stone age, one finds human bones not gnawed only, but broken for the sake of the marrow—treated just like the beasts' bones among which they lie. In France it is the same; experts say they can tell the difference between the marks of a rat's or tiger's tooth and that of a man, and no animal has ever got so far as breaking the bones that it mumbles. In our British barrows there is not the slightest doubt, from the arrangement of the remains, that, when a chief was buried, not only were his slaves killed and buried with him, but their bodies first furnished out the funeral feast. The horrible old Hellenic myths, such as Tantalus cooking his son Pelops as a meal for gods, and Atreus dishing up his brother Thyestes' children and asking him to dine off them, are survivals of a time when the man cooking oven was as much of an institution in Greece as it was the other day in new Zealand or in Fiji. Dog does not eat dog; very few animals will devour their own kind, unless, like sows or rabbits, they do it under the influence of terror; but man in this, as in some other matters of conduct, soon got below the brutes, even if he was not a cannibal at the outset.

"The canny Scot" ought to go into the fruit-canning buisness.

There is a man in Gorham so round shouldered that he has to stand on his head to put his boots on.

"A new policeman on the beat," remarks an esteemed contemporary. Well, that's too bad. The old policeman was on the beat, too. Times don't seem to improve any.

A lady in Logan county, Ky., sleeps two or three days and nights at a stretch, and then remains awake for a like period. She would be a pleasant kind of a companion to sit up with, were it not that she is 80 years old.

Customer (entering unexpectedly)—"So, sir, I've caught you putting water in the milk." Milkman—"Yes—er—no—that is, sir, I'm only washing it. You don't s'pose I'm going to serve my customers with dirty milk, do you?"

The Standard.

MARKDALE OCTOBER 15, 1885.

OBITUARY.

We are called upon this week to chronicle the death of an old and highly respected resident of Artemesia, in the person of Mr. Thomas Elliott, Sr., who passed away on Monday evening, 12th inst., age 69 years 9 months. Mr. Elliott has been a resident of above township over a quarter of a century, and was one of our most successful farmers. He was very unassuming, and kind in disposition, while his character was unspotted. He was taken with cancer in the mouth about two years ago, which continued its slow but sure and painful work, in the under part of the mouth towards the throat, causing great suffering, the last week especially with the above result. His wife passed on before in January, 1884. Their family, consisting of three sons and three daughters, all survive them. The funeral on Wednesday was largely attended.

BAND CONCERT.

As was advertised, the brass band of this place gave a grand concert in Williamsford on Wednesday evening, the 7th inst., consisting of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc.; financially and otherwise it was a success. The following are those whose names appeared on the programme, all of whom did their part admirably well:

Music, by the Band; Recitation, Miss McDuff; Song, Miss Dundas; Trio, Messrs. Jones, Jackman and Armstrong; Song, W. J. Benson; Recitation, Miss M. Dundas; Song, Miss L. Rorke; Music, by the Band; Song, Miss Armstrong; Recitation, W. J. Benson; Duett, Miss & Master Dundas; Quartette, Messrs. Benson, Lyons, Jones and Porter; Recitation, F. Porter; God Save the Queen, by Band.

The members of the band wish to tender a vote of thanks (passed at their last meeting) to the ladies who so ably assisted them at the above concert.

THE SHEPPARD LIBEL SUIT.

Mr. E. E. Sheppard, editor of the Toronto News, has shown commendable ability and rare honor throughout his recent persecution. In the first place he conducted his own case with a degree of cleverness that would do credit to any lawyer, and, had the trial taken place where the shadow of justic was possible, would have won it; and, in the second place, he respectfully declined proffered pecuniary assistance in the shape of subscriptions to defray his heavy expences in the suit, and also declined demonstrations of sympathy further than that which was so enthusiastically given him on his return from Montreal after the trial, when over 5,000 leading citizens of Toronto assembled at Union Station to welcome him and to present an address. The sympathy of the Dominion is with Mr. Sheppard, and public opinion echoed and re-echoed through the press in a manner seldom if ever before witnessed.

The independent and outspoken stand taken and carried out by the News, is giving it a position in Canada which no other leading paper occupies, and if continued (as we have no doubt it will) will be the leader of public opinion.

DYNAMITE IN ORANGEVILLE.

TWO HOUSES DAMAGED.

On Wednesday morning, the 7th inst., about 1 o'clock, the residences of F. Monro, Police Magistrate, and Thos. Anderson, License Inspector of Orangeville, were badly shattered; supposed to have been done by dynamite. It appears that one or two cases of infraction of the Scott Act were tried before Monro on the previous day and it is thought that this was the cause of the dastardly attempt to destroy life and property. The town has offered a reward of $500 for the detection and conviction of the guilty parties.

MARVELOUS.

One dose of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure will cure Sick Headache, Dizziness, and Sour Stomach. 1 to 2 bottles are warranted to cure Liver Complaint, Indigestion and Biliousness. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Oct

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

Scott Act.

To the Editor of the Standard.

DEAR EDITOR,—I am anxious that you should carry the Scott Act in Grey, hence I ask the privilege of saying a few words of encouragement.

There is no use wasting time now in scolding for past mismanagement. Be sure you're right this time. Do not be influenced by the cry of "failure". It certainly is failure to the liquor traffic, and that is what we mean. Intoxicating liquor stands in the way of the moral and spiritual welfare of hotel keepers and their families. It cannot be otherwise, for God says, "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that puttest thy bottle to him and makest him drunken." Do not blame them so long as they observe the law. Do not even blame those who make the law. The electors are responsible for the existence of the law which licenses the traffic. "Vote it out." Here in Bruce the Act is doing great good. I am within five miles of a village which was notorious for drunkenness, now it is a model of society. In our own town, according to reliable testimony, there is on an average, about $30 per day less realized from the sale of liquor. I do not say there is not considerable sold secretly, nor that none are seen drunk. But the bar trade is killed, and that means new life to hundreds of homes. There are difficulties in the way of enforcement, but they are becoming less. Hitherto the Government has not assumed the responsibility of prosecuting unless security for costs were forthcoming. This is no longer the case. The Government officers are instructed to spare no effort in loyally and faithfully carrying out the provisions of the law. "The new order in council," which has caused so much uneasiness, certainly does not "facilitate" the operations of the Act, yet it does not in reality weaken it. The order simply allows distillers to sell (not in Scott Act counties) in quantities of 10 gallons. Hitherto they were not permitted to take out of bond at any time less than 40 gallons. The Scott Act totally prohibits the sale of liquor in counties where it is in operation, except by those who are licensed according to its provisions; and any distiller, or any other person disposing of it in such counties can be prosecuted. Cheer up friends in Grey. "Is not the Lord gone out before you?" Many eyes are on you, and many prayers are going up for you. "March on nor fear to win the day."

Yours sincerely,

I GREENE.

PortElgin, Oct. 5th, 1885.

Artemesia Fall Show.

Our Township fair, which was held at Priceville last Tuesday, was a very successful affair. There were a large number more enteries this year than last, the worthy Secretary, Mr. Jas. Brodie, being obliged to use a large number of blank entry tickets besides the printed ones.

This shows a healthy state of things, and is due in a large measure, no doubt, to the fact that such staunch, enterprising men as Robert Oliver and Jas. Brodie are connected with the management. The attendance of visitors was large.

The exhibit of horses in the various departments was unexceptionally fine—the speeding in the ring as usual forming one of the principal features in connection with the exhibition. The show of cattle, sheep, and hogs are really good, although there was rather a small array of thoroughbreds. The poultry exhibited attracted considerable attention. Mr. T. Conkey exhibited three very fine pair of Hamburghs. For full particulars see prize list next week.

The exhibits in the hall were numerous and good, roots particularly; also big pumpkins and squashes. We noticed some fine cabbage and celery. Horseshoes were plentiful and good. In the ladies work, there was as usual a good display.—Advance.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan, Elevator, Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

The Canadian Pacific.

THE OPENING OF THE LAKE SUPERIOR SECTION POSTPONED.

The Canadian Pacific railway intended opening the Canadian all rail route by the north shore of Lake Superior to Winnipeg on the 18th October, but have decided not to do so in order that they may have the road completed and in perfect order before opening the passenger service. It will, however, be open for freight traffic on that date, and for passenger traffic on the 2nd November, the time intervening being taken up in completing the road in the minutest details for the comfort of travelers.

Notices of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, twenty five cents.

BIRTHS.

THOMAS—In Markdale, October 9th, the wife of Mr. L. J. Thomas, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

BROWN—RUTLEDGE—On the 6th October, in Atchison, Kan., Mr. L. K. Brown, to Miss Mary E. Rutledge, eldest daughter of the late William Rutledge, of this place.

AVERILL—MCKEE—On the 14th inst., at the residence of the bride's parents, by the Rev. Wesley Casson, Mr. Frank Averill, of Tecumseth, to Miss Susan M., eldest daughter of Mr. Hugh McKee, Glenelg.

DEATHS.

ELLIOTT—In Artemesia, on the 12th inst., Thos. Elliott, Esq., aged 69 years, 9 months.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 75	to	$0 80
Spring Wheat	0 70	to	0 85
Barley	35	to	55
Peas	48	to	52
Oats	25	to	27
Butter	10	to	12½
Eggs	14	to	00
Apples	25	to	40
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	5 50	to	6 00
Pork	5 00	to	5 00
Flour	4 00	to	4 75
Wool	17	to	18

Important Notice.

I take this means of informing the public generally, that I have opened in

MARKDALE

An Agency for the sale of the famous

"DOHERTY ORGAN"

And world renowned

"Singer Sewing Machine."

The Doherty stands at the top of the list as either a Parlor or Chapel Organ. For strength and variety of tone, as well as beauty of finish and durability, it stands without a peer.

The Singer Sewing Machine is known all over the continent as the most perfect and durable machine in the market. Those who anticipate purchasing anything in the above line will consult their own best interests by giving me a call before closing a bargain elsewhere.

Office in Dunlop's old stand, Markdale.

HUGH WILLIAMS.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Preparatory to taking in a partner and reorganizing my business, I have determined to reduce stocks to the lowest point; I shall therefore from this date sell for CASH ONLY the whole of my stock of

Dry Goods, Clothing, Boots & Shoes, &c., &c.,

At prices hitherto unheard of. My customers and the public are invited to give me a call at the TORONTO HOUSE.

Oct. 8th, 1885. WM. BROWN.

265-tf

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE.

Office & Infirmary: SYDENHAM ST., Opposite Markdale House, MARKDALE.

Stoves! Stoves!

Cook Stoves,
$16.50 Trimmed
Parlor Stoves,
Coal Stoves,
Box Stoves,
All equally low.

Hardware,
Lance tooth Saws
Buck Saws,
Hand Saws,
Axes, Nails,
Glass, Putty &c.
At bottom prices.

☞ Intending purchasers will do well to give us a call as we cannot be undersold.

WALKER BRO'S,

MARKDALE.

3m

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities but if further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER & Co., - - Chemists and Druggists,

MARKDALE, ONT.

The only place in town where they can be obtained.

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle.

Burdock Blood Bitters

Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice. Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

...ing Fall Show.

...rizes list.

The prizes were awarded in the order given below.

Class 1.—Horses.

Stallion General Purpose—Geo. Dimmondy, Alex Lithgow, James Deary.

Span Carriage Horses—W J McNeil, Jas Henderson, John Boland.

Buggy Horse—J E Morris, Thos Kells.

Saddle Horse—Jas Trimble, Wm Walker.

Mare, foal by her side—John Mercer, Robt Elliott.

Spring Colt, general purpose—Jas Nelson, Wm Douglass.

Spring Colt, roadster—J Bruce, Robert Freeborn.

Colt or Filly, 2 years, general purpose—Richard Douglass, James Quinn.

Colt or Filly, 1 year, general purpose—Wm Sargent, Wm Sargent.

Colt or Filly, 2 years, roadster—Dr. T S Sproule, Robt Elliott.

Colt or Filly, 1 year, roadster—J Bruce, Jas Nelson.

Speeding in ring for beauty and speed—Ed Large, Thos Elliott.

Class 2.—Cattle.

Bull over 2 years—Jas Bell, Colin O McFadden.

Bull under 2 years—Thos Brady, Thomas Elliott.

Durham Cow with pedigree—E & W S O'Brian, 1st and 2nd.

Grade Cow, giving milk—Thos Elliott, Ed Davis.

Heifer, 2 years—E & W S O'Brian, Frank Burton.

Heifer, 1 year—W & J Anderson, Ed Davis.

Spring Calf—E & W S O'Brian, Jas Bell.

Yoke Oxen—Hamilton McFadden, Robert McBride.

Pair Steers 2 years old—E & W S O'Brian.

Pair Steers 1 year old—Ed Butledge 1st and 2nd.

Class 3.—Sheep, long wool.

Aged Ram—Wm Shepherdson 1st and 2nd.

Shearling Ram—Wm Shepherdson 1st and 2nd.

Pair Shearling Ewes—Wm Shepherdson 1st and 2nd.

Ram Lamb—Wm Shepherdson 1st & 2nd.

Pair Ewes, raised lambs 1895—Wm Shepherdson 1st and 2nd.

Pair Ewe Lambs—Wm Shepherdson 1st and 2nd.

Class 4.—Sheep, fine wool.

Aged Ram—Thos Ellis.

Shearling Ram—Wm Shepherdson.

Pair Shearling Ewes—Thos Ellis.

Ram Lamb—Thos Ellis 1st and 2nd.

Pair Ewes, raised lambs 1895—Thos Ellis, Wm Shepherdson.

Pair Ewe Lambs—Thos Ellis.

Class 5.—Swine.

Berkshire Boar, aged—R Coleman, Robert McBride.

Berkshire Boar, spring—Robt McBride, R Coleman.

Berkshire Sow, aged—R Coleman, Robert McBride.

Berkshire Sow, spring—R Coleman, Robt McBride.

Spring Boar, any other kind—Thos Elliott.

Suffolk Boar, aged—R Coleman, Thomas Elliott.

Suffolk Sow, spring—R Coleman.

Class 6.—Poultry.

Collection Fowls (five)—Wm Mason, R Coleman, Wm Hiskett.

Pair Geese—R Coleman, J W Ford.

Pair Turkeys—J W Ford, W J Cosey.

Pair Ducks, large—John Mercer, W J Cosey.

Pair Ducks, small—C Irwin, W J Cosey.

Plymouth Rock Rooster—Wm Haskett, Ed Large.

Plymouth Rock Hen—Wm Haskett 1st and 2nd.

Leghorn Rooster—Wm Haskett, Wm Mason.

Leghorn Hen—Wm Mason, Wm Haskett.

White Brahma Rooster—Robt Montgomery 1st and 2nd.

White Brahma Hen—Robert Montgomery, R Coleman.

Dark Brahma Hen—Robert Montgomery 1st and 2nd.

Spanish Rooster—Wm Haskett 1st & 2nd.

Spanish Hen—Wm Haskett 1st and 2nd.

Hamburg Rooster—John McGee 1st & 2nd.

Hamburg Hen—John McGee 1st and 2nd.

Class 7.—Grain.

Bushel Fall Wheat—Thos Ellis, Thomas Kells.

Bushel Spring Wheat—Thos Kells, James Wilson.

Bushel Barley—Thos Kells, Jas Nelson.

Bushel Peas, large—W J Cosey, W & J Anderson.

Bushel Peas, small white—Samuel Edge, W & J Anderson.

Bushel White Oats—C Irwin, Samuel Edge.

Bushel Black Oats—Wm Norton, Thomas Kells.

Half bushel Timothy Seed—Thos Ellis.

Six ears Indian Corn—Samuel Edge, Wm Norton.

Class 8.—Roots.

Col. Potatoes, 6 varieties, 6 of each—J Bruce, R Coleman.

Bushel Potatoes, Early Rose—Ed Butledge Charles Littlejohns.

Bushel Potatoes, any other kind—Ed Purvis, Saml Edge.

Six Swede Turnips—Samuel Edge, Andrew Nodwell.

Six Turnips, any other kind—Wm Douglass R Coleman.

Six Mangold Wurtzels—Samuel Edge, H Matheson.

Six Field Carrots—W J Coosy, Thos Ellis.
Six Early Horn Carrots—Thos Gilray, Robt McBride.
Six Parsnips—Wm Norton, J O Henry.
Three roots Celery—J E Marsh, Thomas Gilray.
Two Cabbages—S Coleman, Dr Sproule.
Six Tomatoes—Wm Norton, Saml Edge.
Gal Seed Onions—Thos Gilray, J O Henry
Gal Onions, any other kind—Robt Watson, E J Purvis.
Two Squashes—Henry Matheson, Charles Littlejohns.
Two Pumpkins—Jas Quinn, C Littlejohns.
Five Cucumbers (pickling)—Charles Littlejohns, Edward Rutledge.
Three Citrons—J Brass, Wm Norton.
Three Water Melons—Charles Littlejohns

CLASS 9.—FRUIT.

Six Winter Apples—W J McKee, Wm Norton.
Six Fall Apples—Thos Gilray, Ed Davis.
Three varieties Apples, 3 of each—Thomas Gilray, W J Coosy.
Twelve Crab Apples—Thos Gilray, W J Coosy.
Four varieties Crab Apples, 3 of each—W J Coosy, Thos Gilray.
Six Pears—Thos Gilray, John McGee.
Three bunches Grapes—Geo Bowes, Thos Gilray.
Six Blue Plums—Thos Gilray, Wm Norton.
Six Plums, any other kind—Ed Rutledge, John McGee.

CLASS 10.—DAIRY.

Tub Butter (50 lbs.)—Samuel Edge, Jas Quinn, H Matheson.
Roll Butter (5 lbs)—Jas Nelson, Sheppard Boyce, Wm Norton.
Home-made Cheese (10 lbs)—Wm Norton.
100 lbs. Wheat Flour, must be shown by manufacturer—J W Ford 1st and 2nd.
Two Loaves Bakers Bread—Robert Montgomery 1st and 2nd.
Two Loaves Bred, home-made—Wm Norton, H Matheson.
5 lbs. Maple Sugar—Charley Littlejohns, James Quinn.
5 lbs. Honey in comb—Robert Askin.
Half gal Maple Syrup—Jas Quinn, James Nelson.

CLASS 11.—MANUFACTURES.

Democrat Waggon—Wm Mason 1st & 2nd.
Buggy—Wm Mason 1st and 2nd.
Double set Team Harness—Thos Mathews 1st and 2nd.
Double Carriage Harness—Thos Mathews 1st and 2nd
Specimen Cabinet Work 1885—Moffat Bros. 1st and 2nd.
Specimen Tinware 1885—Haskett Bro's
Specimen Penmanship—Moffat Bro's 1st and 2nd Collection Photographs—James Hamilton.
5 yds Fullcloth, home-made—Wm Norton, John McGee.
Fancy Flannel—S Coleman, Robt Mellish.
Plain Flannel—Sheppard Boyce, Richard Watson.
Pair Blankets—Sheppard Boyce, Thomas Gilray.
Pair Horse Blankets—Edward Rutledge, Hamilton McFadden.

CLASS 12.—LADIES' WORK.

Pair Woollen Mits—Wm Norton, John McGee.
Pair Mens Socks—Charley Littlejohns, C Irwin.
Ladies Stockings—Charley Littlejohns, C Irwin.
Patch Quilt—Wm Robinson, Saml Edge.
Fancy Quilt—Samuel Edge, Thos Gilray.
Log Cabin Quilt—Thos Gilray, Wm Norton.
Knitted Counterpane—Thos Gilray, Richard Watson.
Crochet Counterpane—Wm Robinson.
Embroidery in Cotton—Thos Gilray, Robt Askin.
Embroidery in Silk—W H Haskett, Thos Gilray.
Berlin Wool, raised—Richard Watson, Wm Haskett.
Berlin Wool, not raised—Dr Sproule, Mrs Turner.
Fancy Knitting Cotton—C Irwin 1st & 2nd
Fancy Knitting Wool—Samuel Edge, Thos Gilray.
Braiding in Cotton—Dr Sproule, Samuel Edge.
Knitted Lace—C Irwin, Saml Edge.
Collection Berlin Work—Thos Gilray, Samuel Edge.
Gents' Fine Shirt, hand-made—Wm Norton, Wm Douglass.
Rag Mat—James Nelson 1st and 2nd.
Any other variety Mat—Charley Littlejohns, Samuel Edge.
5 yds Rag Carpet—J E Marsh, John McGee.
Collection Flowers—George Bowes, Robert Askin.
Bouquet Natural Flowers—George Bowes, Thomas Ellis.
Macrame Lace or Twine work—Geo Bowes Richard Watson.
Wax Work—Thos Gilray, Thos Kells.
Ornamental Leather Work—Thos Gilray.
Pencil Drawing—Moffat Bro's.

SPECIAL PRIZES.

Walking Team—Ed Rutledge, Jas Brady.
Six Sweed Turnips—Samuel Edge.
Single Driving Horse—Edward Large.
Spring Colt (Sir Colin)—James Nelson.
Onions (Dutch Set)—John McGee, Edward Rutledge Pair Ducks—W J Coosy.
Pair Game—Robert Montgomery.
Cage Canary Birds—J E Marsh.
Pair Brahmas—Robt Montgomery.
Pen of Sheep—Wm Shepherdson.

MENT.

r and reorganizing my ce stocks to the lowest e sell for CASH ONLY

& Shoes, &c., &c.,

My customers and the
at the TORONTO HOUSE.

M. BROWN.

N, V. S., eterinary College.

Horses Examined
For Soundness and Certificates
Given.

EPT & DISPENSED HARGES MODERATE.
use, MARKDALE.

toves!

Hardware,
Lance tooth Saws
Buck Saws,
Hand Saws,
Axes, Nails,
Glass, Putty &c.
At bottom prices.

well to give us a call as

R BRO'S,
MARKDALE.

Optician.

INCE'S
Eye-Glasses

H ARTICLES
ARKET.
ot in stock.
o prove Genuineness.

s have been received from the x-Vice-President of the Medical College of Physicians and Surculty of Laval University; the ouncil of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

icient to prove their qualities

Chemists and Druggists,
ONT.
ney can be obtained.
ific principle.

titte, Indigestion, Biliousness, oms of the Liver and Kidneys,
mors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula,
arising from Impure Blood,
ular action of the Bowels.

East Grey Fall Show.

(Continued from last week.)

CLASS 2.—CATTLE.

Durham aged Bull—Robt Black, obt Plantt. Durham Bull Calf—D tinson. Durham Cow—E & W S Brien, Robt Black. Durham 2 year d Heifer—Robt Black. Heifer Calf—obt Black, Robt Black. Ayrshire ed Bull—A Cairns Sr. Ayrshire ow.—A. Cairns Sr. Ayrshire 1 year eifer—A Cairns Sr. Devon aged ull—R Oliver. Devon Bull Calf—Oliver. Devon Cow—R Oliver. evon 2 year old Heifer—R Oliver. rade Cow—A White, D Stinson. rade 2 year Heifer—E & W S O'Brien, d ditto. Grade 1 year Heifer—J erris, W & J Anderson. Grade eifer Calf—Jas Stewart, E & W S Brien. Working Oxen—Irwin weet, Jas McNicholl 3 year old eers—E & W S O'Brien. 2 year d steers—E & W S O'Brien, D inson. Herd 1 Bull & 4 females—& W S O'Brien. Durham Bulls year old, exhibited by A urns Sr. and a two year old one by Lover highly commended by judges. Plantts Special—Jas Stewart. dges—Walter Nicholl, Jas Stuthers, hn Rundall.

CLASS 3.—SHEEP.

Cotswold aged Ram—Geo Swanton, J Shepherdson. Cotswold Shear-g Ram—W J Shepherdson, W J hepherdson. Cotswold Ram Lamb—J Shepherdson, W J Shepherdson. otswold aged Ewes—W J Shepherd-n, W J. Shepherdson. Cotswold earling Ewes—W J Shepherdson, J Shepherdson. Cotswold Ewe mbs—W J Shepherdson, Geo. anton. Leicester aged Ram—W Shepherdson, Geo. Stewart. Leices-Shearling Ram—W J Shepherd-, W J Shepherdson. Leicester m Lamb—W J Shepherdson, W J epherdson. Leicester aged Ewes—J Shepherdson, W J Shepherdson, icester Shearling ewes—W J Shep-rdson, W J Shepherdson. Leices-Ewe Lambs—W J Shepherdson, J Shepherdson. Shropshire aged m—Thos Ellis. Shropshire Shear-g Ram—W J Shepherdson. ropshire ram Lamb—Thos Ellis, os Ellis. Shropshire aged Ewes—s Ellis, W J Shepherdson. ropshire Shearling Ewes—Thos s. Shropshire Ewe Lambs—Thos s. M Akitt showed a pair of ropshire Ewe lambs highly com-nded but were too late to receive a e Judges—Thos Paul, A Lyons, C Parker.

CLASS 4.—SWINE.

Berkshire aged Boar—R Oliver, Swanton. Berkshire Boar Pig—Nixon, Geo Nixon. Berkshire d Sow—D Stinson, Geo Swanton, rkshire sow Pig—Geo Stewart, D nson. Suffolk or other white ds, aged Boar—Jacob Holley. r Pig—Geo Stewart, D Stinson. d Sow—Jacob Holley, W Barn-se. Sow Pig—D Stinson W Barn-e. Judges—Thos Paul, A Lyons, C Parker.

CLASS 5.—POULTRY.

ight Brahmas—R Montgomery, Montgomery. White Leghorns—Montgomery, W Barnhouse. wn Leghorns—Duncan Campbell. mouth Rock—Wm Fletcher, H luewson. Black Hamburg—W Trimble. Silver pencilled Ham-s—J McGee, J McGee. Houdans—Bates, J W Bates. Game Black —R Montgomery, R Montgomery. e Bantoms black red—R ntgomery, John Lyons. Aylesbury ks—Chas Bellamy, W J Cooey. er kinds Ducks—W J Cooey, Geo wart. Geese—Jas Beecroft, Jas ne. Turkeys—S Stokes, W J ey. Judges of Poultry—H Meld-, E Large, R H Stinson.

CLASS 6.—GRAIN & SEEDS.

hite Fall Wheat—Jacob Holley. wson Fall Wheat—T B Carruthers, e Kells. Other var. Fall Wheat—mas Ellis, Robt Black. Glasgow ng Wheat—D. Stinson. Russian ng Wheat—Jas Stewart, Thos s. Other var. Spring Wheat—J art. Barley 6 rowed—J Brodie, Kells. Oats white—R Black, J art. Oats black—D Stinson, Beecroft. Peas small—R Ruth-J Brodie. Peas large—J Brodie, Cooey. Indian Corn white—H luewson. Indian Corn yellow—Norton. Timothy Seed—J Brodie, Norton. Col. Beans—J Brodie, McGee. Judges—Geo Wright, wes, R J Sproule.

CLASS 7.—ROOTS & VEGETABLES.

rly Rose Potatoes—Ed Rutledg, Henderson. Any other variety—ng, Wm Richardson. Collection es—James Brodie, Robt Black. olds Globe—Chas Bellamy. olds long—H Matthewson, W ooey. Turnip Sweedish—Jacob , John Lyons. Turnips other field—Jas Ferris, Jas Beecroft. Turnips Table—J Milnor, Jas Ferris. Beets long blood—Wm Norton, J G Carson. Beet any other kind—Joseph Smith, Wm Barnhouse. Carrots field—Henry Johnston, Thos Ellis. Carots early horn—W Norton, J Milnor. Parsnips—S Damude, W Norton. Onions from Black Seed—John Beecroft, Jas Beecroft. Onions Potato—James Beecroft, John McGee. Cabbage Winds't—Jas Brodie, A Teeter. Cabbage Drumhead—Mrs Bulmer, W Norton. Cabbage any other variety—A Teeter, Jas Ferris. Cauliflower—Jas Beecroft, R Oliver. Celery red—Jas Ferris, Wm Barnhouse. Celery white—Jas Ferris, R Gilray. Pumpkins—R Lever, Mrs Bulmer. Squashes—H Matthewson, Mrs Bulmer. Citrons—Mrs Bulmer, Wm Norton. Tomatoes—Jas Beecroft, W Norton.

CLASS 8.—FRUIT.

Crab Apples—R Plantt, J I Graham. Early Fall Apples 3 varieties—John Beecroft, R Gilray. Late fall Apples 3 varieties—J I Graham, R Gilray. Fall Apples 1 variety—R Gilray, R Ruthvan. Winter Apples 3 varieties—R Ruthvan, W Norton. Winter Apples 1 variety—W Norton, R Ruthvan. Fall Pears—John Beecroft, Thos Stombuskie. Winter Pears—John Brodie, J G Carson. Plums red or blue—W Norton, Robt Plantt. Plums yellow or green—Ed Rutledge, Alex Madill. Grapes—J I Graham, R Gilray. Canned fruit assorted—Mrs W W Trimble, Mrs Jas Beecroft. Judges—Geo Nixon, W Wright, Alex Erskine.

CLASS 9.—DAIRY PRODUCE.

50 lbs Tub butter—Jas Ferris, John Abbott, Geo Buskin. 15 lbs Pail or Crock—Jas Ferris, R Oliver, W Norton. 5 lbs for table Butter—John Abbott, Wm Norton, Geo Buskin. Cheese factory make—Geo Stewart. Cheese home made—Geo Buskin, W Norton. Warden's Special prize 50 lbs Tub Butter—Jas Ferris, John Abbott, Geo Buskin. A R Fawcett's for Bread—H Matthewson. Ed Rutledge. Judges—R J Sproule. Geo Nixon, Wm Wright.

CLASS 10.—IMPLEMENTS & GEN. MANUFACTURES.

Democrat Waggon—Geo Cruickshank. Farm Gate—J H Heard, recommended. Judged by W Guy, F Waite, R H Stinson. Heavy team Harness—J C Griffiths. Carriage Harness—J C Griffiths. Buggy Harness—J C Griffiths. Gents fine Sewed Boots—W Barnhouse. Gents Stoga Boots—W Barnhouse, Joseph Smith. Pair Ladies Boots—W Barnhouse, Joseph Smith. Judges—R J Sproule. Geo Wright, A Plewes.

CLASS 11.—DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES, LADIES WORK &c.

Pair Blankets home made—Mrs R Gilray. Fulled Cloth home made—Mrs Wm Norton, Mrs Joseph Richardson. Fulled Cloth factory—Mrs Norton, Mrs Joseph Richardson. Union Flannel home made—Mrs J Abbott, Mrs Milnor. Stocking yarn—Mrs J Abbott, Mrs S Stokes. Woolen Mitts—Mrs Norton, Mrs Milnor, Woolen Socks—Mrs Abbott, Mrs Norton. Woolen Stockings—Mrs S Stokes, Mrs J Abbott. Patchwork Quilt—Mrs J Brodie, Mrs Gilray. Knit or Crotchet Quilt—Mrs Gilray, Mrs J Ferris. Any other kind of Quilt—Mrs Norton, Mrs H Johnston. Collection berlin wool work—Miss Richardson, Mrs Gilray. Arasene work—Mrs Jas Beecroft, Miss Damude. Braiding in cotton—Mrs Jas Ferris, Mrs Matthewson. Embroidery in Silk—Miss Hickling, Miss Gilray. Embroidery in Cotton—Miss Hickling, Miss Ruthvan—Embroidery in worsted—Mrs Milnor. Crotched in cotton—Miss Gilray, Mrs Matthewson. Point and Hon. Lace—Mrs Munshaw, Miss Hickling. Crotchet in Wool—Mrs H Fletcher, Miss Anderson. Fancy Knitting in wool—Miss Gilray, Mrs Milnor. Woollen work on Canvass—Miss Armstrong, Miss Gilray. Needle work ornamental—Miss Hickling, Miss McGee. Man's Shirt handmade—Mrs Norton, Mrs Ferris. Rag mat—Mrs W W Trimble, Mrs McGee. Macrame Lace—Mrs Milnor, Mrs Munshaw. Leather work ornamental—Miss Gilray. Worked Slippers—Miss Hickling, Mrs Milnor. Tatting—Mrs Ruthvan, Miss Gilray. Wax Fruit—Mrs Milnor. Wax Flowers—Miss Armstrong, Miss Gilray. Photos—Jas Hamilton, Mrs Bulmer. Crayon Drawing—Miss Armstrong, Miss Richardson. Cretonne work—Mrs Milnor, Miss Armstrong. Rag Carpet—Mrs Ruthvan, Mrs Thibaudo. Pencil Drawing—Miss Armstrong, Miss Damude Water Color Painting—Miss Armstrong, Col. Paintings and Drawings—Miss Armstrong, Miss Richardson. Feather Wreath—Mrs Milnor. Cotton Batting Wreath—Miss Gilray, Mrs Milnor. Farmer's Wreath—Mrs Milnor.

CLASS 12.—FLOWERS AND PLANTS.

Table Bouqu't—Mrs Ellis, Mrs Beecroft. Foliage Plant—Mrs Jas Beecroft. Geranium—Mrs Anderson, Mrs James Beecroft. Fuschia—Mrs Jas Beecroft. Begonia—Mrs Jas Beecroft, Mrs Hickling. Hanging Basket—Mrs Jas Beecroft. Calla Lily—Mrs Damude, Mrs Beecroft. Heliotrope—Mrs Jas Beecroft. Col. Cut Flowers—Mrs Jas Beecroft, Mrs H Johnston. Col. Plants—Mrs Jas Beecroft. Yarn Mat, by T G Broughton, highly commended. Judges—Mrs J R Trimble, Miss Dean, Mrs W Brown, Mrs Erskin.

Holland Centre Fall Show.

PRIZE LIST.

CLASS 1.—HORSES.

Span Draught Horses—Jno Atchison, Geo Sinclair, H Hamilton.

Span General Purpose—Alex Lilburn, Jno Middleton, James Quinn.

Span Carriage—Jas Henderson, Richard Green, Robert Boyd.

Mare, foal by her side—A Philps, John McCauley, M Rammage.

Buggy Horse—M Rammage, Robt Greenaway.

Saddle Horse—John Atchison, Patrick Gillan.

Colt or Filly, 2 years, general purpose—John Atchison, James Quinn.

Colt, general purpose, 1 year—Wm McRoy, Wm Sargent.

Colt, general purpose, 2 years, roadster—Wm Henry, John Atchison.

Colt, general purpose, 1 year, roadster—John McCauley, Wm Bruce.

Spring Colt—Thos Dixon, Wm Ashbury.

CLASS 2.—CATTLE.

Bull, any age, with pedigree—Jas McComb Robert McKessock.

Cow giving milk, grade—John Fitzgerald, Wm Robinson.

Heifer 2 years old—James McComb.

Yoke Working Oxen—Jno Dixon, Michael Hamilton

Pair Steers 2 years old—Robt Greenaway.

Pair Steers 1 year old—Wm McRoy.

Spring Calf, grade—John Adams, Moses Smith.

CLASS 3.—SHEEP.

Aged Ram, Leicester—J McCauley, Patrick Hamilton.

CLASS 4.—SWINE.

Berkshire Boar, any age—Carson Price.

Berkshire Sow, any age—J McCauley.

CLASS 5.—POULTRY.

Col Barnyard Fowls—N Hanley, Robert Freeborn.

Pair Geese—Jas Quinn, A Shute.

Pair Turkeys—Jas Quinn, Wm Sargent.

Pair Ducks, large—Thos Tronton, John Hewitt.

Pair Ducks, small—Thos Dixon, William Crowther.

CLASS 6.—GRAIN.

Bushel Fall Wheat, any kind—John Cameron, Michael Green.

Spring Wheat, any kind—John Cameron, John Murray.

Peas—John Cameron, John Murray.

Oats, any kind—Jno Cameron, Wm Norton

Peck White Beans—Wm Norton, A Calcut

CLASS 7.—ROOTS.

Col Potatos, 6 var—J Atchison, John Cameron.

Bushel Potatoes—Robt McKessock, A Philp

Six Turnips — Robert McKessock, Wm Robinson.

Six Mangol Wurtzel—Robert McKessock.

Six Blood Beets—A Calcut, R Greenaway.

Six Field Carrots—Robt McKessock, John Cameron.

Six Parsnips—Wm Norton, Thos Dixon.

3 roots Celery—Geo Dunbar.

2 heads Cauliflowers—Thos Trouton.

2 Cabbage, any kind— Wm Norton, H Hamilton.

6 Tomatoes—Wm Edmunds, Wm Norton,

1 gal. Onions—Robt McKessock.

2 Squashes—J H Seabook, R McKessock.

2 Pumpkins—Geo Ptolemy, John Adams.

6 Cucumbers, pickling—Wm Norton, John Hewitt.

3 Citrons—Wm Bruce, Robt Greenaway.

CLASS 8.—FRUIT.

6 Winter Apples—John Cameron, William Norton.

6 Fall Apples—Rich Green, Jno Cameron.

3 var. of Apples, 3 of each var.—Richard Green, John Cameron.

12 Crab Apples—Moses Smith, J H Seabook.

6 Pears—John Murray, J Atchison.

3 bunches Grapes—Thos Williscroft.

6 Blue Plums—Wm Norton.

CLASS 9.—DAIRY.

Tub of Butter—John Cameron, A Philps.

Butter, 5 lb rolls—Thos Trouton, William Norton.

Cheese, home-made, 10 lbs—Wm Norton, John Cameron.

2 loaves of Bread, home-made—N Hanley, Robert Clark.

100 lbs Flour (wheat)—A McNab.

Honey in Comb, 5 lbs—N Hanley 1st & 2d

CLASS 10.—MANUFACTURES.

Plough—A McArthur 1st and 2nd.

Iron Harrow—A McArthur.

Farmers' Waggon—P Aljoe, John Spears.

Buggy—A Williamson 1st & 2nd.

Bob-Sleighs—George Dunbar.

Pair Mens' Coarse Boots—James Ireton. J Gawley.

Set of Horse Shoes, left from hammer—John Spears.

Pump—Robert Bailey.

Specimen Cabinet Work—Geo Perira, Jas Foster.

Specimen Doors and Sash—R Bailey, L Anderson.

5 yds Full Cloth, home-made—Wm Norton John Hewitt.

Fancy Flannel, home-made—Jno Cameron

Plain Flannel, home-made—D Squires, Wm Howey.

Pair Blankets, home-made—Wm Howey, John Cameron.

Horse Blankets, home-made—John Hamilton, John Middleton.

CLASS 11.—LADIES' WORK.

Pair Woollen Mits—Wm Norton, John Cameron.

Pair Woollen Socks—John Cameron Wm Norton.

Patchwork Quilt—Wm Robinson, John Cameron.

Fancy Quilt—Wm Norton, John Hewitt.

Log Cabin Quilt—Wm Norton, J Atchison.

Embroidery in Cotton—J Fitzgerald John Hewitt.

Embroidery in Wool—Thos Williscroft, John Fitzgerald.

Berlin Wool, raised, knitted or crochet—Wm Norton.

Berlin Wool, not raised—Geo Dunbar, Wm Howey.

Fancy Knitting Cotton — Moses Smith, John Cameron.

Fancy Knitting Wool—Geo Dunbar John Cameron.

Braiding in Cotton...Wm Robinson John Cameron.

Knitted Lace...John Cameron.

Col. Berlin Wool Work...Thomas Williscroft, Geo Dunbar.

Hair Work...Geo Dunbar.

Rag Mat...P Gillen 2nd.

5 yds Rag Carpet...Robt McKessock Wm Howey.

Col. Flowers...Thos Williscroft.

Work of Art...A Calcut, Thomas Williscroft.

SPECIAL PRIZES.

Tub Butter, 50 lbs...Mrs. P Gillen.

10 lbs Butter...Mrs J Fitzgerald.

General purpose Bob-Sleighs...Geo Dunbar.

20 lbs Butter...Mrs W Norton.

Col. Wax Work...Mrs M Smith.

Col. Fruit...Thomas Williscroft.

EXTRAS.

Table Carrots...Thos Dixon, Wm Crowther, recommended.

Maple Sugar...John Hewitt, recommended.

Maple Syrup...John Hewitt, recommended.

Kensington Painting...Miss Williscroft, very highly recommended.

Chenille Work...Mrs M Smith, recommended.

Gent's hand-made Shirt... Mrs J Fitzgerald, recommended.

Gent's machine-made Shirt...Mrs Fitzgerald, recommended.

Embroidery in Cotton...Miss Hamilton, wrongly entered but highly recommended.

Japaneze or Crazy Patchwork...Miss Williscroft, recommended.

Bracket Drape...Mrs. Hanley, recommended.

Crochet Tidies...Mrs W Crowther, and Miss Green, recommended

Col Crochet in Cotton...Miss Hewitt recommended.

Berlin Wool Wreath...Mrs Hanley, recommended.

Victor Roller Mills, MARKDALE.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	34	..	18
55	..	32	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.

219 ANGUS PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mill.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	34	..	18
55	..	32	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

J. W. FORD.

TEACHER WANTED.

TEACHER, holding third class certificate, duties to commence next January. Applications received up to 2nd November by R. H. STINSON, Sec.-Treas., S. S. No. 16, Euphrasia, Markdale, P. O. 265-67

MONEY TO LOAN

ON first Mortgage security, a sum of money belonging to the Markdale Lodge of Oddfellows. 266-67

R. S. RAE,
GEO. GRANT,
A. TURNER, } Trustees.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 20, con. 10, Euphrasia, nine miles from the flourishing village of Markdale, and one lot from Post Office. This farm is well watered, solid clay loam, contains 100 acres 45 of which is cleared and under cultivation and the balance fine hardwood timber, also a frame barn 36 x 56 thereon. Terms easy, for particulars apply to

THOS. MUXLOW,
Goring P. O.
263-72 Adjoining the premises.

Public Notice.

IN the matter of Henry Foster, of the village of Williamsford, in the County of Grey, general merchant, Insolvent.

Take notice that the above named Insolvent has made an assignment to me under the provisions of "The Ontario Act" respecting assignments for the benefit of creditors, and you are hereby notified that if you have any claim or claims against the said Henry Foster, you are requested to file your claim or claims with me duly proven within one month from the date hereof, and also attend a meeting of Creditors to be held at the Albion Hotel, in the City of Toronto, on Friday, the 25th day of September instant, at 10 a. m.

WM. LUCAS,
Assignee.
Markdale, 18th Sept., 1885. 263-66

ESTRAY.

CAME to the premises of the subscriber lot North ½ 14, con. 10, Holland, about the middle of July, a red yearling steer. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take him.

ROBT. BRADLY,
264-66 Lily Oak, P. O.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Godrich.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

STRAYED.

FROM the premises of the subscriber, lot 10, con. 10, Euphrasia, about the second week in July, 3 yearlings, two heifers and a steer, one heifer dark brindle, the other two spotted red and white. Any person giving such information as will lead to their recovery will be suitably rewarded.

W. J. BLAKELY,
264-67 Markdale P. O.

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING,
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

THAT excellent farm in the township of Artemesia, Co. of Grey, known as Mount Royal, lots 117 and 118, con. 2, north-east Toronto and Sydenham Gravel Road, containing 100 acres, 80 acres cleared and in first-class state of cultivation, well fenced in 10 acre fields and a lane through the center, 20 acres good hardwood bush, large frame barn and good stabling, frame driving house and good frame dwelling house, never failing well, good orchard, 14 acres fall wheat. This farm is 3½ miles from the thriving village of Markdale and 5½ miles from Flesherton. For further particulars apply on the premises, or by letter to

A. NODWELL,
264-67* Markdale P. O., Ont.

Store to Rent in Makaafe.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent. Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143-tf Strathnairn, P. O., Owner.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Hints.

The tiny red ants which are such a nuisance in many pantries may be easily driven away if kerosene is freely used. Those who have been troubled by them know that they always come in lines, coming through some crevice in the wall or floor, and following one after the other, in regular order, until they reach the shelf above. If kerosene is turned the entire length of this line, also on the place where they come in, the floor, etc., they will soon depart. You may need to repeat this a few times, but it is an easy and effectual method of getting rid of them. Leave the door and windows open awhile and the scent of the kerosene will soon be gone.

If your flatirons trouble you by dropping black specks from the top or sides when ironing, take them in a pan of soapsuds and give them a thorough washing, and dry quickly, to prevent rusting.

Paper bags, in which many articles are sent from the grocery stores, should be saved for use when blacking a stove. You can slip the hand into one of these and handle the brush just as well, and the hand will not be soiled at all, and when through with them they can be dropped into the stove being much preferable to the cloth bag or mitten, which requires frequent washing.

To make lamp-chimneys look beautifully clean, wash them in warm soap-suds, turn scalding water over them, wipe dry with a soft cloth, and rub with a piece of newspaper. This will give a nicer polish than can be obtained in any other way. Windows treated in the same way will be found to look much nicer than if simply washed and rinsed.

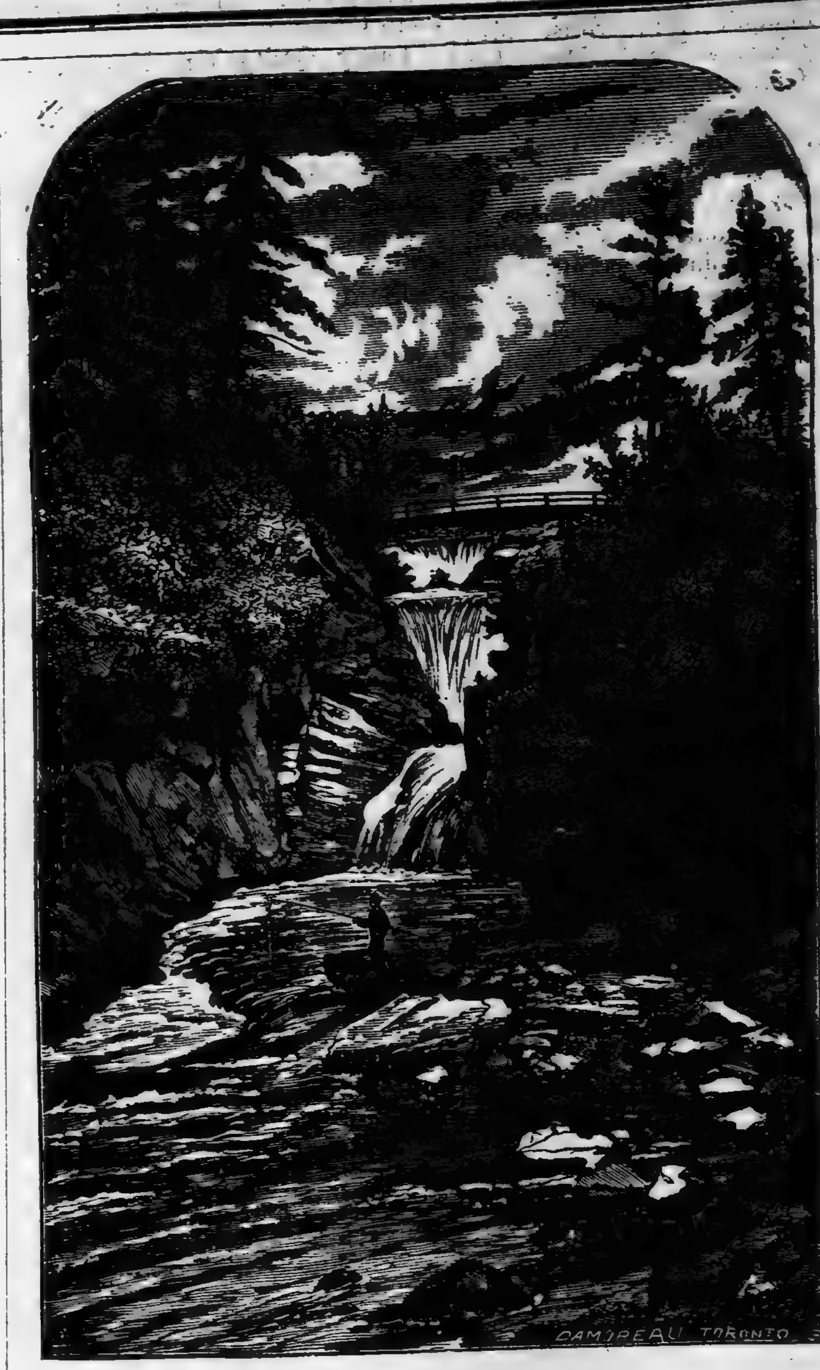
To take ink stains out of table cloths, napkins, etc., put the article to soak immediately in thick sour milk, changing the milk as often as necessary.

A few drops of hartshorn put into a little water will clean a hair brush nicely. If very dirty use a little soap also. After cleaning, rinse in clean water, tie a string to the handle, and hang up to dry.

Choice Recipes.

PUMPKIN PRESERVES.—Take a good sound, ripe pumpkin, peel, and cut in inch squares. Let stand over night in a weak solution of alum water, and in the morning spread on platters set in the sun for two hours, or in a warm oven. Then take three-quarters of a pound of sugar to a pound of pumpkin, some raisins, and a lemon or two. Cook till pumpkin can easily be pierced with a straw, then skim out and cook juice till thick enough to keep, as other preserves. If properly made it can't be told from citron.

EGG PIE.—Make two very thin cakes of Indian meal, flour, and soda, just as for corn bread, and wet it with sour milk, and bake them in a quick oven. Make a gravy of one teaspoonful of butter, the same of flour, a cup of milk, and salt and pepper. When it is boiling drop in cold, sliced, hard-boiled eggs; leave them in long enough to heat, but don't let them boil up, or they will fall to pieces. Butter one of the hot Indian cakes, lay it in a round pan or dish, pour on the gravy and eggs, and lay on the other cake, buttering it on the top and sprinkling on pepper and salt.



A DELICIOUS SIDE DISH.—Cut the remnants of a cold boiled or roasted chicken in small pieces. Make a sauce of one pint of cream, two ounces of butter, the yelk of one egg, beaten, and a tablespoonful of cornstarch or arrowroot, seasoning with salt and white pepper, a little sugar, one teaspoonful of anchovy sauce, and one bay leaf. Put the pieces of chicken in this sauce in a stewpan and simmer half an hour. Stew some rice quite soft in milk, seasoning with salt and pepper. Put the chicken in the centre of a dish, place the rice around it as a border, and serve.

SWEET PICKLES.—Eight pounds of fruit, four pounds of the best brown sugar, one quart of vinegar, and one cup of mixed whole spices, stick cinnamon, cassia buds, allspice, and cloves—less of the latter than of the former. Tie the spices in a bag, and boil with the vinegar and sugar. Skim well, then add the fruit. Cook ten minutes, or till scalded and tender. Skim out the fruit and put into stone jars. Boil the sirup five minutes longer and pour over the fruit. The next day pour off the sirup and boil down again, and do this for three mornings. Keep the bag of spices in the sirup.

GREEN CORN AND PEACH PUDDING.—One cup of green corn, which is obtained by cutting the kernels with a silver knife and pressing out the pulp with the knife, being careful that the kernels are not loosened from the cob, one cup of sliced ripe peaches, crushed slightly, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, and one cup of water. Mix thoroughly, and put in an earthen pudding dish, placing thin slices of peach on the top. Bake from twenty minutes to half an hour in a moderate oven. Serve cold.

CRANBERRY SAUCE.—Pick over and wash the cranberries, and put in the preserving kettle, with half a pint of water to one quart of berries; now put the sugar—granulated is the best—on the top of the berries; set on the fire and stir about half an hour: stir often to prevent burning; they will not need straining, and will preserve their rich color cooked in this way. Never cook cranberries before putting in the sugar. Less sugar may be used if you do not wish them very rich.

Those people who have imbibed prejudices against vaccination would be edified by reading the history of the Bath Vaccine Association, which is the oldest establishment of the kind in England. To test the efficacy of vaccination, it long ago adopted a peculiar plan. Persons occasionally applied for vaccination who were already well marked—in some cases thrice marked. After operating successfully upon any of this latter class, thus giving the individual concerned a fourth mark, the Association presented him or her with a bond for one hundred pounds—$500—to be redeemed in cash by the Association whenever the person thus vaccinated should take small-pox. In other words the Association was willing to pay $500 for any proof that it was possible for any person thoroughly vaccinated to take small-pox. This proof has never been given. It is stated that some of those so vaccinated placed themselves in contact with small-pox and in instances went so far as to attempt to inoculate themselves with the disease in order to claim the reward, but that their attempts to such it failed.

MUSKOKA FALLS.

"Or watch some noble cataract bound
From giddy height to lowly ground."

ALONE WITH GOD IN NATURE'S TEMPLE

BY JOHN IMRIE, TORONTO

'Tis sweet to sit in pensive mood,
'Mid Nature's wild grand solitude,
Where warbling bird pour forth their lays,
In happy, joyous songs of praise.

Or watch some noble cataract bound
From giddy height to lowly ground,
Where echoes ring from peak to peak,
And God in Nature seems to speak.

With praise to God the woods resound,
Surrounding hills repeat the sound,
And in my heart an echo rings,
Which joy and consolation brings.

There doth my soul find sweet relief,
And gather strength for future grief;
For life's stern duties now prepare,
By supplicating God in prayer.

Oh, God! to be alone with Thee,
In Nature's Temple—rich and free;
And for a time forget strife
Of man with man—of Death with Life.

Oh, happy hour! oh, sweet retreat!
With thee, my Father, thus to meet;
And learn from Nature to adore
The God of Nature evermore!

STRANGE BUT TRUE.

In France, as well as in Italy, Mary is frequently added to a distinctively masculine name as a remembrance of the Virgin. Thus Hugo was Victor Marie, and the late Pope was Giovanni Maria.

The term "Nihilist" was invented by Turgheneff in 1862, and was used to designate a set of freethinkers and students who destroyed no life but those of many thousands of frogs, experimental physiology and medicine being their favorite study. The revolutionary movement to which the name of "Nihilism" was afterwards applied in 1871-72, and for five or six years was quite a pacific propagandist movement, accompanied by no act of violence.

In the camp of a New York regiment was a pet crow belonging to Henry Duval. This crow had but one leg. It was fed in the presence of other crows, that looked with wonder at its fearlessness. They evidently supposed his loss of a leg accounted for the care he received, for one day, when it was whistled for to come to its dinner, a crow stepped from a crowd of visiting crows, hopped on one leg to the soldier, ate heartily, and hopped twenty feet away. Then it let down its other leg, which had been hidden under its wing, and flew away.

Young women in white, with pages in green at their heels, made the eye of the Austrian Emperor twinkle as the procession at Pilson filed past him the other day. But Pilson is celebrated for its breweries; consequently the bar of Gambrinus was the chief attraction of the cavalcade. The Beer King, a giant, when opposite the Emperor emptied an enormous bowl to his health with a mighty "Hoch!" in which thousands joined. Casks innumerable, large and small came next, with coopers at work on the carts. The gardeners, surrounded with palm trees and flowers, rolled past, with the goddess Flora, attended by children. A newly married couple, with hundreds of the peasantry wearing their national costumes, and 230 miners from the mines of the neighborhood closed the procession.

The famous village of totem poles at Wrangel, Alaska, lies along the beach, the mountains rising high in the rear, with snow on their tops. About a dozen white people live there. There are about 20 native houses or huts. The designs of the totem poles are different. On the top of one perched a raven—they are all of wood, and sometimes the tree or log from which they are made is hollowed out in the back, another tops off with a fish or a bear, and humour and gravity are comically intermingled. One of the simplest, and yet most interesting poles, has a bear on the top looking down with a grin, as much as to say, "Here I am, high and dry, and well out of your way." Tracks of the bear are cut in the upright pole—a foot and a half thick on three sides of it, the toes all pointing up. An Indian grave, built of logs laid up "corn-cob house" fashion, is surmounted by a life-size wooden figure that closely resembles an alligator, although it is a mystery where these Indians get the idea of an alligator.

On a farm at Pottstown, Pa., rabbits girdled a lot of young apple trees some years ago. In two cases of choice fruit the owner undertook to save the trees. The young shoots which usually spring up from below the "girdle" were allowed to grow long enough to reach the sound bark above the "girdle," and then inserted under the bark, after the manner of inoculating trees, and securely tied. They grew and nourished the main stem of the tree above, and now, after some years, the trees rest entirely upon their inserted supports and are as vigorous as any in the orchard. One of these trees has five of these "legs," which have now by growth been almost consolidated. The other tree has seven, all entirely distinct as yet, but growing closer. The old stem below the insertion is dead and decayed in the one tree and in the other it is entirely gone, and they look as if standing upon stools.

HERE AND THERE.

So many Martini-Henry cartridges jammed during the late Egyptian war that it has been decided to adopt a better form of ammunition.

Baseball is older than we thought, as a squint at history has made apparent. The Emperor Dominitian occupied his leisure in catching flies.

There is a great deal of red tape in the French army. It took a French soldier, who was reported to be dead, five years to prove that he was alive.

The youngest Mayor in the United States, Mayor Aaron of Van Buren, Ark., 21 years of age, recently quarrelled about a woman with a man named Taylor, and shot him to death.

A book recently published in Paris is "The Sad Influence of the Pianoforte Upon Medical Art," and the aim is to disestablish the sovereignty of that instrument in the homes of the land.

The inventor of a process for refining sugar by electricity at an expense of 40 cents a ton has appeared, and asks $12,000,000 for the patent. It is said that the process is to be tested in England.

Some experiments in London recently showed that the native English fishes are unable to survive in water heated much, if any, in excess of 80 deg. Fahr., yet in the low country of India and Burmah streams are filled with fish, where the water becomes from ten to fifteen degrees hotter than this every noonday.

A son of the Duke of Westminster is not the only English aristocrat who owns hansoms that are used by the public daily in London. His horses are of fine stock, and the cabs contain the latest improvement—a lamp to read by at night, a place for an umbrella, a looking glass, and many other conveniences

Japan is in a fair way to have great trouble with epidemic diseases. From January to July there were 4 472 cases of small-pox, with 1,191 deaths, and recent reports say that at Nagesaki, between Aug. 26 and Sept. 1, there were 300 cases of Asiatic cholera. Of typhoid fever 7,984 cases are reported for the first half of the year.

An English traveller proposed to make a walking tour in the neighborhood of Vichy. Upon inquiry he found that the only food he could expect to find at the village inns was a potage made of cabbage, a few slices of bread, an onion or two, and a piece of lard. This was the habitual food of the peasants, and there was nothing else to be had except black bread. The intended journey was not taken.

The Revue Scientifique places France in the front rank of breeders of carrier pigeons for military purposes. Eight French cities now have extensive dove-cotes, and $20,000 a year is inserted in the budget for their support. The Austrian Government also encourages the rearing of homing pigeons, and pairs are given to soldiers of the reserves, who compete for prizes offered to the most successful breeders.

A room full of skeletons has just been added to the exhibition space at the South Kensington Natural History Museum, in London. The most striking features are the skeletons of six elephants—African, Indian, and Sumatran. Besides these there are four elephants' skulls, one of which was killed by Sir Samuel Baker, and another belonged to an elephant that was long the terror of a jungle district near Meerut.

In "agitating" an oil well at Stone Hill, Henry Sutton was struck by a twenty-foot polishing rod, which entered just below and back of the right ear, and, knocking out the the two first ribs, came out through the chest. It then penetrated several inches of the man's thigh and pinned him to the ground. Polishing rods are blunt and nearly an inch in diameter, and this one had fallen from a 74-foot derrick. Yet the man is sitting up and gaining strength rapidly.

The famous Victoria Bridge at Montreal is to be supplemented by another bridge crossing the St. Lawrence from Lachine to Caughnawauga, four miles above the city. It will be of iron trusses, the eight spans measuring 3,000 feet, and will cost, with its approaches, a million and a quarter of dollars. The owners are the Canadian Pacific Railway, who expect to have it finished by November of 1886. No such bridge as the Victoria (a tubular one) will ever be built again.

The Indian Medical Gazette says that owing to the low price of Indian hemp, ganja smokers are becoming very numerous and troublesome in Bombay. One of the habitues recently discarded the classic method of running down peaceable people with a knife, and took to grabbing up children by the ankles and dashing their heads upon the ground. The man was sentenced to only six months' imprisonment; Indian magistrates are tender toward the men who create a good market for their best paying drug.

One of the most useful of last summer's picnic excursions was that of the Anglican Bishop of Algoma (whose diocese covers the upper lake region of Canada), who, with a Toronto rector as associate, formed the passenger list of the steamer Evangeline. The party skirted the northern coast of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay on a pious quest for "isolated settlements along those rock-bound coasts in which scattered members of the Church of England might be found in need of the sympathy and public and private ministrations of their own communion. It is said that the clergymen found much to do, besides getting excellent fishing.

A Belgian has invented a new species of coffin for the special benefit of persons unfortunate enough to have been buried alive. The pressure of the earth thrown on the coffin liberates a sort of stiletto, which is so placed that on being disengaged it pierces the heart of the occupant. An idea prevails in France that the mistake of burying a living person is by no means so rare an occurrence as could be desired. Had the "cercueil perfectionne" been known in Meyerbeer's time he need not have asked his friends on his death bed, as he did, to bury him with a loaded pistol in each hand.

Whale fishing in small steamers off the coasts of New England is getting to be a business of some importance, four steamers (formerly catching menhaden) having been steadily engaged during the past season. They cruise off the Maine and Massachusetts shores as far south as Cape Cod. A lance, fired from a gun held at the ... is the weapon employed in killing ... about fifty of which have been ... year. They will average 60 feet ... and 25 tons in weight. Each ... about 20 barrels of oil, 2 barrels ... tons of dry chum, and two tons of ... value of which amount to about ... the men become expert in the ... whales become shy and keep more ... water. This will be fatal to the ... as at present conducted, since a dead ... usually sinks, and can hardly be ... from a depth of more than forty ...

Morbid News-Making.

Journalists, literary men, those who ... it their occupation to write or ... ter for the newspapers, are, as a class, ... lers for respectability, and if one's ... that behalf be casually impugned his ... nation is aroused and he declares ... "insulted." Yet who that reads ... newspapers does not know the want of ... mon decency exhibited in some of ... Sensation appears to be the controlling ... tive in the management of certain ... and it is reflected by the large, flaring ... lines that meet the eye at the top of ... column; it glows in the startling ... impress the reader that he is about ... formed of something much out of ... dinary; and it is salient in the ... treatment of the subject, in every ... word.

In some of these a straining for ... the prominent characteristic, and the ... ial and reportorial wit is exerted to ... everything into fun. If there be a ... the grotesque, however small, in any ... against social order, it is seized and ... fied until it becomes the chief element ... published item. A hideous crime, ... murder, is treated with facetious ... In certain dailies the cardinal "... completeness of detail, especially as ... the vices that abound in society, ... everything" is the mandate issued ... chief to his reportorial staff—and the ... ers of such papers are "feasted" with ... screeds of diluted fact and high-colored ... tion concerning events in private ... life. Floating bits of scandal, ... ferences, church troubles, theatrical ... the divorce courts, furnish the ... fills whole pages with disgusting ... There is much rivalry shown in ... detail regarding events that embody ... A suicide, a murder, a riot, an ... blazoned in great capitals, and ... are published to feed the public ... such morbid stuff. An English ... notes his impressions of the literature ... prominent in our news sheets:

"Take up a New York morning ... and you will find the platform ... your chief statesmen dismissed in ... words, while its leading pages will be ... ed with headings such as 'She S... self,' 'Attacked by a Negro in Her ...' 'The Child Polygamist,' 'Mi... Elopes,' 'She Left Him Forever,' '... ed Her too Well,'—and so on, ad ... In London this kind of newspaper ... entrusted to The Police News and ... Talk, and other such papers which ... able citizens would never admit in ... houses and no respectable hotel would ... on its tables."

Meanwhile the public appetite ... stuff has been stimulated and cultivated ... the newspapers, and its mephitic ... has been sown in the blood of the ... masses, to bring forth in time ... vice, crime, disease, and death.

Why can not something be done ... the press and make it the teacher of ... duty, manliness, honor, and purity ... will not our respectable brothers ... who write for the columns of the ... newspaper aim to treat facts ... suppress the unnecessary and ... leave punishment for wrong-doing ... legal authorities, turn a deaf ... scandal-monger, and let private ... main private property? Phillip B... in Boston not long ago: "If we ... intemperance out of the country ... wipe out almost all the poverty in ... He might have added: "Gentlemen ... press, if you would frown upon ... rupting influence that now finds ... through your pens to the pages of ... papers and periodicals, you ... such power in the land ever ... impurity and wrong that intemperance ... other forms of vice, would be ... inished."—Phrenological Journal.

Striking It Rich.

"Have you called on the Browns?" she asked as the new minister was ... take his leave after making a call.

"I'm just going," he replied. "... third house from the corner, I ...

"Yes—third house. They ... very nice people, and I know ... 'em."

When the minister rang the bell ... was some delay in answering it. ... the screen doors permitted him ... from the interior. Brown, who ... be up stairs, called over the ...

"Say; Helen, where in thunder ... old vest I spoke of?"

"Who are you talking to?" ... voice from below.

"To you, of course! If you ... sort of a wife you'd put things ... could be found."

"Solomon Brown, don't you ... slurs on me. If I don't know ... housekeeping than all the Browns ... I'll commit suicide."

"You do, eh? What did ... Smiths have to keep house on?"

"Solomon, you are a vile wretch."

"Much obliged, but it's living ... that's done it!"

At this juncture the minister ... in, and Mrs. Brown soon entered ... lor, extended both hands, and ... claimed:

"Ah! I'm so glad! Solomon ... both wanted to see you so much! ... —Solly, dear, hurry up and come ... our new preacher is here!"

And Solomon came down, ... on his face, and greeted the good ...

"Well! well! but this is ... you! Wifey and I were just ... call."

A process has been devised by ... inventor of so impregnating ... certain chemical that matches ... can be used several times over.

THE FARM.

Song-Seeds.

BY O. C. AURINGER.

Gather in the seeds of song,
Poet, while the year is mellow,
And the fields of God lie yellow
In the sunshine broad and strong.
Gather in the goodly grain
To the storehouse of the brain,
Fill the heart's deep granary
With rich increase, royally;
Brim their liberal spaces o'er
With the season's choicest store;
Let the treasure-laden plains
Echo with the reaper's strains,
Fill the pleasant harvest ways
With the sickle's fiery blaze;
Get the pearl-seed of the dew
Where 'tis nightly laid anew;
Win the pliant grace that plays
In the flag-leaves of the maize;
Catch the syllables, that pass
Whispering twixt the trees and grass;
In the garden watch an hour
For the soul of shrub and flower.
Ask the West Wind, coursing fleet,
For the charm of music sweet;
Hear the plaintive notes that fall
Through each dying interval.
Glean while genial light is here.
Winter cometh on apace,
When there's need of singing cheer
Winter's storm and gloom to chase.
Spirits blithe shall with thee go
Where the richest harvests grow.

Pickings.

... FATTENING OF PIGS.—It is time to ... fattening pigs. Cold weather will ... rive, when a large proportion of the ... ill be used up in maintaining the an... at. A pound of fat may be made now, ... the cost of that which may be made ... A good many pigs that have been neg... until too late, will cost all they are ... for their feeding, and might better be ... d on the head at once, and the food ... better uses. Every farmer should ... hat the first fat pigs that are sold are ... the most profitable.

... STICKS.—October, November, December ... sticks, retain their toughness and ... y longer than those cut at any other ... the year. There should be a number ... every year such as will be useful ... nding poles, plow-beams, wagon... and similar things. Don't cut a sin... ling that ought to stand to make a ... Leave the bark on, and lay the sticks ... season. White oaks, grown on up... l-sides, if you can spare them, con... that they will be worth a great deal ... ars hence, are the sticks to cut.

... FLECKS IN BUTTER.—The white ... ch occur in butter when it is taken ... e churn, disappear if properly work... e butter should be removed from the ... after washing in the granular form. ... d be salted before working, with ... ore salt than is desirable to have re... in the butter, working it in slightly. ... ill form, and collect in the bowl. ... he butter over in the brine, and divide ... times with the ladle. After three ... ours, work the butter to a uniform ... ncy, but no more, rinsing with a lit... water. The specks will have disap...

... TER FROM STORMS.—As the weather ... colder, shelter for sheep and ... especially the young animals, is ... ecessary. It is equally necessary in ... mer southern climate, as in the north, ... it is not the actual, but the relative ... ich hurts. A reduction of tempera... m fifty to thirty degrees, is not so ... as that from eighty to fifty degrees ... orms prevail, because the suffering is ... The heavy rains, too, which pre... he South, load down the sheep with ... weight of water, under which those ... ick fleeces, are sometimes unable to ... roof overheard, with a few boards ... nd the upper part, leaving all sides ... r the bottom, is convenient, and ... ade.

... OF STRONG BUTTER.—There are ... ons for butter becoming strong. ... them are: using pails and pans that ... thoroughly cleansed from stale milk; ... he milk in damp, badly ventilated ... milk-houses; keeping the milk ... until it gets very sour; churning ... , or in an unclean churn; not tak... the butter-milk out of the butter; ... the butter in a warm, badly-aired ... dy place; these all cause the butter ... me strong, which is the effect of de... tion in it. The food or water of the ... ll also cause this trouble.

DESTROYING NEST EGG.—An ex... describes nest eggs, made by filling ... gg-shells with plaster of Paris, to ... few drops of carbolic acid is added. ... s accomplished: by making a large ... one end of an egg, and a pin-hole in ... , the contents may be blown out. ... of Paris, which may be bought at the ... 's, or of the dealer in mason's and ... supplies, when wet with water to ... sistency of thick cream, will soon set ... as stone. The mixture with water ... , the carbolic acid stirred in, and the ... filled. It makes a perfect nest egg, ... warmth of the hen gradually eva... the carbolic acid. This is said to be ... th to the lice; at least, it prevents ... coming such a harbor for them as ... ually are.

... MILK ON THE RIGHT SIDE OF THE ... It is a mere matter of custom. The ... nd is usually strongest, and ought ... rt to those teats which are hardest ... or which have the most milk, in ... all may be finished about the ... It is a clear waste of time to ... ith the one set of teats, before the ... e half milk milked out. Still, while ... cows will allow themselves to ... d from either side, many will not, ... most convenient to milk all the ... one stable on the same side, because ... quickly learns to put herself in a ... position, and because several ... may be at work at once, and would ... with one another, should they go ... side of the cow indiscriminately. ... the right side is right.

... COB MEAL.—An Ontario far... : "My neighbors, men of experi... stock raising, claim it is not desir... grind corn and cob together; please ... me whether it is or not?" Your ... are right, and we are glad to ... ybody's neighbors, who are at ... practical, old-fashioned far... do not cling to the absurd prac... feeding their cattle on cob-meal, ... ttle, if any better than so much ... In fact, they would digest a por... sawdust ... tolerably fine.

It is li... "dosey... all its o... So if ca... eat, the... more vi... tribute ... actually ... for stoc...

Bog o... once mo...

Only ... White B...

A wh... serves a... Zoo,

Statis... land has... years.

The w... greenbac... pounds.

The d... Wales is... affected ...

Dr. Bi... says that... color bli...

Fire h... farmer in... flint and ...

Congr... that the ... ber more...

Every ... reach Ca... and deta...

The bo... thedral, ... and cost ...

Five m... annually ... tory west...

The po... never lay... where up...

The old... celebrate ... shop was ...

The St... bank, Col... each en ... but no ta...

It is no... brains. ... for the b... ments hav...

An exp... with the ... double the ... the same ...

San Fr... and sea li... consume 4... to supply ...

Among ... telling gho... and the st... with a flav...

In a sing... 852 bears ... pays a bo... animals we...

Mail ca... with some ... carrier fail... from his d... kept on hi... gone fifteen ... was found ... his mail b... wild anima...

A P...

A corros... the followi... many, duri... "The Prin... due, and th... I took my ... on tight by ... me, at the ... woman ben... snow-white ... of pins and ... hands. Sh... hawker beg... struggle o... The crowd ... royal corte... tracting ra... for Prince, ... were all lo... eyes of the ... figure of ... quick look ... has no disd... cess's face, ... The next ... old woman, ... tears were s... (with the p... in the attitu... with passio... Lord lay (le... ful head u... only take it... the place of...

The eclips... the 24th ult. ... sive sight, a... celestial cloc... visible to the... earth crossin... miles away ... beholding, fo... and long sha... to us except ... across it f... there is no ... view of the... the supersti... to its present... than the hist... is affrighted ... cients were a... seemed to th... the moon. ... is the shadow... moon in an e... merly would... terror passes ... serves as one ... oment of ... there are s... norance mist... astronomers ... yet es as far south as Cape Cod. A bomb-, fired from a gun held at the shoulder, e weapon employed in killing the whales t fifty of which have been taken this . They will average 60 feet in length 25 tons in weight. Each one yields t 20 barrels of oil, 2 barrels of meat, of dry chum, and two tons of bone, the e of which amount to about $400. men become expert in the capture les become shy and keep more in deep r. This will be fatal to the business present conducted, since a dead whale lly sinks, and can hardly be recovered a depth of more than forty fathoms urnalists, literary men, those who make eir occupation to write or prepare or the newspapers, are, as a class, for respectability, and if one's claim behalf be casually impugned his in on is aroused and he declares him sulted." Yet who that reads seve papers does not know the want of decency exhibited in some of the ation appears to be the controlling in the management of certain dailies it is reflected by the large, flaring that meet the eye at the top of mn ; it glows in the startling titles ress the reader that he is about to be ed of something much out of the ry ; and it is salient in the phrase, tment of the subject, in every line i.

Morbid News-Making.

some of these a straining for humor prominent characteristic, and the edit nd reportorial wit is exerted to conv ything into fun. If there be a phase rotesque, however small, in any offe nst social order, it is seized and mag until it becomes the chief element of ished item. A hideous crime, der, is treated with facetious garruli ertain dailies the cardinal "virtue" pleteness of detail, especially as rega vices that abound in society, " ything" is the mandate issued by to his reportorial staff—and the of such papers are "feasted" with eds of diluted fact and high-colored concerning events in private and pu Floating bits of scandal, family nces, church troubles, theatrical dispu divorce courts, furnish the stock whole pages with disgust. re is much rivalry shown in fullness il regarding events that embody hor icide, a murder, a riot, an epidemi oned in great capitals, and extra editi published to feed the public appetit morbid stuff. An English visitor s his impressions of the literature minent in our news sheets :

Take up a New York morning you will find the platform utteranc r chief statesmen dismissed in a ds, while its leading pages will be with headings such as 'She Shoots ' 'Attacked by a Negro in Her He e Child Polygamist,' 'Miss pes,' 'She Left Him Forever,' 'He Her too Well,'—and so on, ad naus London this kind of newspaper rested to The Police News and k, and other such papers which re citizens would never admit into ses and no respectable hotel would ts tables."

Meanwhile the public appetite for has been stimulated and cultivat newspapers, and its mephitic corru been sown in the blood of the ses, to bring forth in time harve , crime, disease, and death. Why can not something be done to press and make it the teacher of v, manliness, honor, and purity? not our respectable brothers and o write for the columns of this vspaper aim to treat facts press the unnecessary and imp e punishment for wrong-doing l authorities, turn a deaf ear dal-monger, and let private affa n private property ? Phillip Brook Boston not long ago : "If we could mperance out of the country e out almost all the poverty in the might have added : "Gentlemen se, if you would frown upon every ing influence that now finds easy ough your pens to the pages of your ere and periodicals, you would h power in the land over the mi urity and wrong that intemperan er forms of vice, would be rapidly hed."—Phrenological Journal.

Striking It Rich.

"Have you called on the Browns asked as the new minister was e his leave after making a call. "I'm just going," he replied. rd house from the corner, I believe "Yes—third house. They are y nice people, and I know you

When the minister rang the bell some delay in answering it. screen doors permitted him m the interior. Brown, who up stairs, called over the banister "Say; Helen, where in thunder vest I spoke of?" "Who are you talking to?" de ce from below. "To you, of course! If you t of a wife you'd put things wh ld be found." "Solomon Brown, don't you rs on me. If I don't know more usekeeping than all the Browns commit suicide." "You do, eh? What did the iths have to keep house on?" "Solomon, you are a vile wretch" "Much obliged, but it's living at's done it!"

At this juncture the minister was and Mrs. Brown soon entered , extended both hands, and imed : "Ah! I'm so glad! Solomon th wanted to see you so much! Solly, dear, hurry up and come r new preacher is here!" And Solomon came down, painted his face, and greeted the good m "Well! well! but this is u! Wifey and I were just wishi ll."

A process has been devised by a ventor of so impregnating wood rtain chemical that matches made n be used several times over.

THE FARM.

Song-Seeds.

BY O C AURINGER.

Gather in the seeds of song,
Poet, while the year is mellow,
And the fields of God lie yellow
In the sunshine broad and strong.
Gather in the goodly grain
To the storehouse of the brain,
Fill the heart's deep granary
With rich increase, royally;
Brim their liberal spaces o'er
With the season's choicest store;
Let th treasure-laden plains
Echo with the reaper's strains,
Fill the pleasant harvest ways
With the sickle's fiery blaze;
Get the pearl-seed of the dew
Where 'tis nightly laid anew;
Win the pliant grace that plays
In the flag-leaves of the maize;
Catch the syllables, that pass
Whispering twixt the trees and grass;
In the garden watch an hour
For the soul of shrub and flower.
Ask the West Wind, coursing fleet,
For the charm of music sweet;
Hear the plaintive notes that fall
Through each dying interval.
Glean while genial light is here.
Winter cometh on apace,
When there's need of singing cheer
Winter's storm and gloom to chase.
Spirits blithe shall with thee go
Where the richest harvests grow.

Pickings.

EARLY FATTENING OF PIGS.—It is time to begin fattening pigs. Cold weather will soon arrive, when a large proportion of the food will be used up in maintaining the animal heat. A pound of fat may be made now, for half the cost of that which may be made later. A good many pigs that have been neglected until too late, will cost all they are worth for their feeding, and might better be knocked on the head at once, and the food put to better uses. Every farmer should know that the first fat pigs that are sold are always the most profitable.

CUTTING STICKS.—October, November, December sticks, retain their toughness and elasticity longer than those cut at any other time of the year. There should be a number secured every year such as will be useful for binding poles, plow-beams, wagon-tongues, and similar things. Don't cut a sapling that ought to stand to make a tree. Leave the bark on, and lay the sticks away to season. White oaks, grown on upland hillsides, if you can spare them, considering that they will be worth a great deal in ten years hence, are the sticks to cut.

WHITE FLECKS IN BUTTER.—The white specks which occur in butter when it is taken from the churn, disappear if properly worked. The butter should be removed from the churn, after washing in the granular form. It should be salted before working, with no more salt than is desirable to have retained in the butter, working it in slightly. A brine will form, and collect in the bowl. Pour the butter over in the brine, and divide a few times with the ladle. After three or four hours, work the butter to a uniform consistency, but no more, rinsing with a little cold water. The specks will have disappeared.

SHEEP SHEDS.—As the weather grows colder, shelter for sheep and lambs, and especially the young animals, is necessary. It is equally necessary in a warmer southern climate, as in the north, because it is not the actual, but the relative cold which hurts. A reduction of temperature from fifty to thirty degrees, is not so injurious as that from eighty to fifty degrees where storms prevail, because the suffering is greater. The heavy rains, too, which prevail in the South, load down the sheep with a heavy weight of water, under which those with thick fleeces, are sometimes unable to rise. A roof overheard, with a few boards around the upper part, leaving all sides open near the bottom, is convenient, and easily made.

CAUSE OF STRONG BUTTER.—There are several reasons for butter becoming strong, among them are: using pails and pans that are not thoroughly cleansed from stale milk; keeping the milk in damp, badly ventilated cellars or milk-houses; keeping the milk too long, until it gets very sour; churning too slowly, or in an unclean churn; not taking all the butter-milk out of the butter; keeping the butter in a warm, badly-aired or mouldy place; these all cause the butter to become strong, which is the effect of decomposition in it. The food or water of the cow will also cause this trouble.

LICE-DESTROYING NEST EGG.—An exchange describes nest eggs, made by filling empty egg-shells with plaster of Paris, to which a few drops of carbolic acid is added. This is accomplished by making a large hole in one end of an egg, and a pin-hole in the other, the contents may be blown out. Plaster of Paris, which may be bought at the drug store, or of the dealer in masons and builders' supplies, when wet with water to the consistency of thick cream, will soon set as hard as stone. The mixture with water made, the carbolic acid stirred in, and the shell is filled. It makes a perfect nest egg, and the warmth of the hen gradually evaporates the carbolic acid. This is said to be death to the lice; at least, it prevents the nest becoming such a harbor for them as they usually are.

WHY MILK ON THE RIGHT SIDE OF THE COW.—It is a mere matter of custom. The right hand is usually strongest, and ought to be next to those teats which are hardest to milk, or which have the most milk, in order that all may be finished about the same time. It is a clear waste of time to strip with the one set of teats, before the others are half milk milked out. Still, while most gentle cows will allow themselves to be milked from either side, many will not, and it is most convenient to milk all the cows in one stable on the same side, because a cow quickly learns to put herself in a convenient position, and because several milkers may be at work at once, and would interfere with one another, should they go on either side of the cow indiscriminately. In general, the right side is right.

CORN AND COB MEAL.—An Ontario farmer says: "My neighbors, men of experience in stock raising, claim it is not desirable to grind corn and cob together; please tell me whether it is or not?" Your neighbors are right, and we are glad to know of anybody's neighbers, who are at the same time practical, old-fashioned farmers, who do not cling to the absurd practice of making their cattle eat cob-meal, which is little, if any bet er than so much sawdust. In fact, they would digest a portion of the sawdust were it tolerably fine. It is like making a fire of water-soaked, "dosey" wood, which in burning consumes all its own heat in evaporating its own water. So if cattle had nothing but corn cobs to eat, they would starve to death. It costs more vitality to digest them, than they contribute in the from of nutriment. They are actually so much worse than nothing as food for stock.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Bog oak and Irish diamond jewels are once more worn in London.

Only two children have been born in the White House since it was built.

A white camel is an odd object that serves as a nine days' wonder at the London Zoo, Statistics show that the population of Ireland has decreased 3,200,000 in forty-five years.

The weight of 1,000,000 dollar bills in greenbacks is within a fraction of 2,841 pounds.

The depression of the coal trade in South Wales is so serious that over 40,000 men are affected by it.

Dr. Bierme Betsof, an eminent oculist, says that the common electric light produces color blindness.

Fire has not left the hearthstone of one farmer in Georgia since it was kindled with flint and steel in 1842.

Congressman Holman does not believe that the Indians in the United States number more than 210,000.

Every defaulter and thief striving to reach Canada by way of Chicago is arrested and detained in that city.

The bones of Pizarro lie in the Lima Cathedral, a building that was finished in 1540 and cost nine millions.

Five million pounds of dynamite are used annually for blasting purposes in the territory west of the Missouri river.

The popular supposition that an ostrich never lays but one egg, and drops that anywhere upon the sand, is nonsense.

The oldest apothecary shop in Berlin will celebrate in 1888 its 400 h anniversary. The shop was recently sold for $3,000,000.

The St. Paul Globe says a man at Milbank, Col., has a chicken with a head at each en , one white and the other black, but no tail.

It is now denied that fish diet make brains. There never was any foundation for the belief except theory, and experiments have proved its falsity.

An experiment has been made in France with the result that ducks lay more than double the number of eggs that hens do in the same period of time.

San Francisco fishermen say the seals and sea lions in the harbor must go. They consume 44,000 tons of fish a year—enough to supply the whole city.

Among the negroes of the Carolina coast telling ghost stories is a favorite amusement, and the stories are not spoken but chanted with a flavor of exaltation.

In a single province of Japan last year 852 bears were killed. The Government pays a bounty, and it looks as though the animals were bred by the hunters.

Mail carrying in Arizona is attended with some danger. Lately the horse of a carrier failed him while he was thirty miles from his destination, Agua Caliente, but he kept on his way on foot. After he had gone fifteen miles he became exhausted, and was found on the road in a dying condition, his mail bags having been dragged off by wild animals and torn to pieces.

A Princess's Beautiful Smile.

A correspondent of the Spectator gives the following interesting incident, one of many, during the royal visit to Ireland: "The Prince and the Princess were nearly due, and the streets were packed with people I took my stand on College Green, holding on tight by the lamp post. Close behind me, at the edge of the curbstone, stood a woman bent with age, miserably clad, with snow-white hair. She held a meagre paper of pins and a few boot-laces in her wasted hands. She was the barest figment of the hawker beggar, whose existence is a constant struggle or compromise with the police. The crowd thrilled with expectation, the royal cortege came up, without the distracting rapidity that is the London pace for Prince, and, as the carriage for which we were all looking passed my lamp-post, the eyes of the Princess of Wales fell upon the figure of the old woman beside it. A quick look of compassion—the pity that has no disdain in it—passed over the Princess's face, and then a swift, bright smile. The next instant she was gone, and the old woman, down whose wrinkled cheeks tears were stealing, stretched out her hands (with the pins and the boot-laces in them) in the attitude of fervent prayer, and said with passionate earnestness: "May the Lord lay (leave) the crown on your beautiful head until it's as white as mine, and only take it off to put one of His own in the place of it.'"

The eclipse of the moon on the morning of the 24th ult. was an interesting and impressive sight, as are all the movements of the celestial clockwork when they are rendered visible to the eye. To see the shadow of the earth crossing the face of the moon 240,000 miles away was certainly a spectacle worth beholding, for although the earth has a big and long shadow, it never becomes visible to us except when the moon happens to run across it far out in space. Perhaps there is nothing which gives a clearer view of the progress of our race from the superstitious ignorance of its childhood to its present knowedge of the laws of nature than the history of eclipses. As the child is affrighted by its own shadow, so the ancients were alarmed when they saw what seemed to them a black monster devouring the moon. Now every schoolboy knows it is the shadow of the earth that hides the moon in an eclipse, and an event which formerly would have convulsed millions with terror passes without even the notice it deserves as one of the most impressive phenomena of the visible universe. But there are still other shadows that ignorance mistakes for monsters. Even the astronomers have plenty of things to learn yet

HEALTH.

Air and Sunshine.

The disinfecting power of freely circulating pure air is now fully recognized by sanitarians. The secret of it is, in part, the rapid diffusion of the morbid particles, thus greatly diluting them, as mineral poisons may be rendered harmless by dilution. So great is this diffusive tendency, acting with the constant circulation of the air in vast currents, that though every variety of harmful gases and miasms is incessantly thrown into the air of our large cities, no difference can be detected by analysis between the air of the latter and the air of our rural districts.

But another explanatory fact is the actual disinfecting power of sunshine and oxygen. It is the inhaled oxygen that changes the dark, impure venous blood into the pure scarlet blood of the arteries. It is the chemical power of sunshine that gives us our wonderful photographs. It is the sunshine that bleaches the cotton cloth laid on the grass, and, on the other hand, changes the pure white of a potato-vine grown in a cellar to dark green when transferred to the open air.

Hence, in our late armies, notwithstanding so many unhealthy conditions, typhoid fever never tended to spread, and was almost never fatal. It is for this reason that, in all infectious diseases, the physician insists on a free circulation of air in the sick-room.

An interesting illustration of the same thing is furnished by the celebrated Dr. Richardson, of England. He finds that the vagrant class, who have no homes, but sleep anywhere and get food anyhow, rarely contract contagious diseases, and more rarely convey them, and that, too, though they wear cast-off, and, often, infected clothing and occupy the worst of lodging-houses.

The gypsies also are remarkably free from preading diseases; they know little of small. pox, though little protected by vaccinations One seldom finds among them diseases of a scrofulous nature. Dr. Richardson concludes that poverty in itself has nothing to do with the occurrence of zymotic (infectious) diseases; that fresh air is the one mighty disinfectant, and that luxury and density of population are the two bad spirits which conjure up the great physical evils of humanity.

Notes.

At the recent French Conference for the advancement of science, some interesting experiments were made on hysterical patients with drugs which were not actually administered, but were placed on the back of the patients' heads, and were used without their knowledge. Under these circumstances opium produced sleep, alcohol caused drunkenness, and absinthe brought on paralysis of the legs. In women, camphor gave rise to religious ecstasy, and in men convulsions; many drugs were employed, and all of them gave their characteristic effects, though they were all contained in phials or wrapped in paper.

It seems that from a scientific point of view, perfectly clean hands are an impossibility. In the Gazetta Medica Italiana Dr. Forster says that after the most diligent washings and brushings with soap and water and rinsings with carbolic acid and other disinfectants, the hands remained so impure that upon touching the fingers to sterilized gelatine micro-organisms were rapidly developed. The Doctor found, indeed, that on rinsing the hands with a solution of 1 to 1,000 of corrosive sublimate they became "scientifically cleansed" for the time, but that in wiping them upon a towel not previously disinfected they returned to their sad condition of uncleanliness.

Dr. Black of Philadelphia gives ten laws of health, the observance of which, he says, will lead men and women to 'live as they ought to live, free from disease, and die as they ought to die, from old age." They are —1. Breathe pure air. 2. Take wholesome food and drink. 3 Take adequate out-door exercise. 4 Use adequate and unconstraining covering for the body. 5. Observe sexual continence. 6. Live where the climate is adapted to your physical needs. 7. Avoid constraining and dangerous occupations. 8. Regard personal cleanliness. 9. Keep the mind tranquil. 10. Avoid marriage with a blood relation.

What is a Cold?

A cold is the product of two factors; one is a certain condition of the within, the other a certain condition of the without. The only soil in which this plant can flourish is a certain condition of the system, the predominate feature of which is a deranged stomach. If the system is prepared, through a certain gross condition of stomach and liver, it requires but a slight exposure to draught or dampness to provoke a cold.

The system being ready, a cold is not unfrequently excited by a close, heated atmosphere I think in a sore-throat cold the proximate cause is generally an unventilated room and rarely external cold.

Some habits which give tendency to colds should be mentioned. Among these are hot drinks (which in addition to flooding and weakening the stomach, open the skin and increase the sensibility to external changes), the use of warm water baths, especially hot foot-baths, sleeping in close, unventilated rooms; but tenfold more mischievous than all these is the eating excessive quantities of rich meats and pastry.

The old saw, "stuff a cold and starve a fever," has been the source of much mischief. When you have taken a cold and have some local inflammation, as a nasal catarrh or an inflamed throat, it is just as improper to eat simulating food as when you are suffering from any other inflammation. If, for example, the cold takes the form of pleurisy no one feeds it on beef and mince-pie; but I see no reason why a pleuritic stitch may not be thus fed if lungs inflamed by a cold may be.—Dio Lewis.

Hints to Dyspeptics.

Strive in diet to combine always, the greatest nutriment with the least bulk, as we live by what we digest and not what we eat. The food should be chewed carefully and slowly. A faulty state of the teeth is a potent cause of dyspepsia. If the natural teeth are faulty, artificial ones should be employed; or, if these cannot be tolerated, the food should be minced. Regularity in the hours of meals cannot be too strongly insisted upon. The stomach ought not to be disappointed, for, if it is, a diminished amount of food will be taken later on without appetite. If this often happens, the secretions become deficient in quantity, and the muscular action of the stomach, so necessary for complete digestion, becomes impaired. As to food, hot meat is more easily digestible than cold, and under-done more easily than over-done. The flesh of young animals is less digestible than that of full-grown ones. The flesh of wild is more digestible than that of domestic animals. With the exception of the "sweet-bread," visceral parts of animals are difficult to digest. White-fleshed fish is easier to digest than red. Shellfish are to be avoided. Fried food must not be taken; broiled, roast, or boiled is all that is admissable. Hashes, stews, and made dishes are to be avoided. Other prohibited articles of diet are pastry, sweetmeats of all kinds, and sugar. We have enumerated a somewhat lengthy list of substances to be avoided by the dyspeptic, and we fear that many sufferers would rather go on suffering than deny themselves so many luxuries; but to fight a foe with his own weapons, one must be as relentless as that foe.

A Clean Head.

A clear head is rarely found beneath an unclean scalp; but a clean head and good health are generally, associates. A distinguished physician, who has spent much time at quarantine, said that a person whose head was thoroughly washed every day rarely took contagious diseases, but when the hair was allowed to become dirty and matted, it was hardly possible to escape infection.

Many persons find speedy relief for nervous headache by washing the head thoroughly in weak soda water. Cases are reported to have been almost wholly cured in ten minutes by this simple remedy.

Some persons find that it relieves "rose cold;" the cold symptoms entirely leave the eyes after one thorough washing of the hair. The head should be thoroughly dried afterward and one should avoid draughts of air for a little while.

A Lovely Complexion.

"What a lovely complexion," we often hear persons say. "I wonder what she does for it?" In every case the purity and real loveliness of the complexion depends upon the blood. Those who have sallow, blotchy faces may make their skin smooth and healthy by taking enough of Dr, Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" to drive out the humors lurking in the system.

Jackets are in great favor, and are of a number of varied shapes and styles.

The Poor Little Ones.

We often see children with red eruptions on face and hands, rough, scaly skin, and often sores on the head. These things indicate a depraved condition of the blood. In the growing period, children have need of pure blood by which to build up strong and healthy bodies. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is given, the blood is purged of its bad elements, and the child's development will be healthy, and as it should be. Scrofulous affections, rickets, fever-sores, hip joint disease or other grave maladies and suffering are sure to result from neglect and lack of proper attention to such cases.

Red-haired girls can now rejoice with exceeding great joy, for "strawberry blondes' are in fashion.

Mild, soothing and healing is Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

There is no secret or patent in the production of "Myrtle Navy" tobacco. It could be produced by any manufacturer, but no manufacturer could make it pay at the price, unless he could purchase on a large scale and sell on a large scale. He could not sell below the present price without a loss even if he could purchase on the lowest advantageous terms. To get a large market therefore, without which he would have no inducements to go on, would be the work of many years. That is the reason why Messrs. Tuckett & Son have the command of the market, and they are wise enough to know that they can retain it only by keeping the price down to hard pan figures Large flat buttons are the style for street jackets, Newmarkets, and long ulsters.

£100,000,000 IN THE BRITISH COURT OF CHANCERY!—A large part of this vast sum belongs to the people of America. Cox & Co., 41, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, London, Eng., have just published a LIST OF the heirs to this enormous wealth. Reader, send a dollar and they will forward you this valuable LIST; and if you find by it that you are entitled to any money or property, claim your own. Cox & Co. will show you the way.

We are to have another velvet and velveteen season.

Prevention Better Than Cure.

Many of the diseases so prevalent in these days are caused by using soap containing impure and infectious matter. Avoid all risk by using PERFECTION Laundry Soap, which is absolutely pure. Ask your grocer for PERFECTION. Manufactured only by the Toronto Soap Co.

A. P. 249.

A "duck of a girl" may be very closely watched, or ten to one she'll go off and marry some quack.

FARMS FOR SALE, CHEAP.—All kinds.—JOHN J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
IMPERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACKING

PURE BRED AYRSHIRES for sale; two cows, two yearling heifers and one bull. Write for description, price and pedigree to G. F. BAKER, Trafalgar.

It is conceded by all that the DOMINION BUSINESS COLLEGE, Kingston, is deservedly the most popular business training school in Canada.

FARMS FOR SALE.—60 acres, in the Township of Scarboro, 17 miles east of Toronto, first class land, well fenced, good buildings; also 100 acres of first class hardwood, in Dufferin, five miles from railroad station. A bargain. Apply to J. A. HIGGINS, Dundalk P. O.

FOR SALE—SMALL CIRCULAR SAW MILL—water power and Steam Shingle Mill; also 40 Acres of Land with small Dwelling Houses, and large Dwelling with small Store connected, situated on Black River, on Lot 16, in the 7th Con. of Rama. Satisfactory reasons given for selling. Apply to W. I. TRENOUTH, Fawkham P. O., Ont, VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—100 acres, 3 miles east of the city of St. Thomas. For particulars address J. J. LEWIS, New Sarum, Ont.

A CENSUS AGAINST ALL PREJUDICE. Williams' Eye Water has proved itself a success by all who have used it according to directions, if their eyes were curable, as will be seen by the undersigned certificates. It cured me, 8 years blind, oculist failed O. Fortin; it has cured me, oculist would not try me, Alexander Wann; 6 years blind, Chas. Amiott; 4 years, Elie Dufour; 33 years blind and now I see, John Lecroix. Ask your druggists for it. Wholesale—Lyman Sons & Co., 384 St. Paul St., Montreal.

WATER STAR AUGUR
$20 Per Day
WELL BORING
has no superior; 20 feet per hour, hand or horse-power combined boring and rock drilling machine; grand success; first prizes and diplomas. Send for Catalogue.
68 MARY STREET, HAMILTON CANADA

FOR PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
Clapperton's Spool Cotton!
Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. For sale by all Dry-Goods Dealers.

JAMES PARK & SON;
Pork Packers, Toronto.
L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock.

BUY THE
IMPROVED CONBOY
Carriage Tops
AS THEY ARE THE MOST STYLISH, CONVENIENT, AND MOST DURABLE TOP IN THE MARKET.

There are over Twenty Thousand of these Tops now in use, and are giving better satisfaction than any other.

The manufacturer of these Celebrated Carriage Tops, owns more patents for improvements, and makes a greater variety than any other firm in Canada or the United States.

THEY ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE LEADING CARRIAGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT CANNOT BE SURPASSED BY ANY THAT IN ANY WAY APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY.

FACTORY & SALEROOM,
407 to 413 King St. West,
TORONTO.

TRY PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER
Pure Gold MANUFACTURING CO.
13 FRONT ST EAST. Toronto.

Coleman's Improved Plough Harness
Adapted to Orchard Work.
No whiffletrees to injure trees. Easy on man and team. Working qualities guaranteed. Money refunded if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Price, $10 without collars and bridles.
DEWEY & CO.,
COLBORNE ONT.

GURNEY & WARE'S
STANDARD SCALES

Are the Best, Attested by the Fact that there are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' & Butchers' Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.

Housekeepers, Consult Your Best Interests

By purchasing a scale, and in buying one be sure to get the best. Our scales are fully warranted in every particular. All sizes Railroad, Warehouse and Mill Trucks. Alarm Money Drawers.

For sale by the Hardware Trade generally. Illustrated Catalogue and Price List forwarded upon application.

GURNEY & WARE
HAMILTON.
WAREHOUSES—Montreal and Winnipeg.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued evesy Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequents insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the aption of the publisher.

—JOB PRINTING.—

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.
Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.
122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,
WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERF CT FIT GUARANTEED.

W. C. RICHARDS,
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.
124ly

ISAAC STINSON.
Builder and Contractor
In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
MARKDALE, - - ONT.
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.
EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.
J. McAleer, - - Prop.
The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

WM. G. GUTHERIE,
Plain & Ornamental Plaster
Opposite the new
Presbyterian Church Markdale.
Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.
Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.
Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.
126-ly.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.
The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of School Furniture.
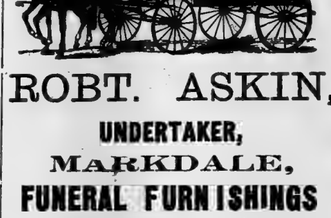
Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW McGILL.



ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
Thos. MATTHEWS, Proprietor
Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.
EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills
Having made eqtensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.
GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND
Chopping Done Every Day.
Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.
LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.
Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied
Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.
A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.
—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM
FREEMAN'S
WORM POWDERS.
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

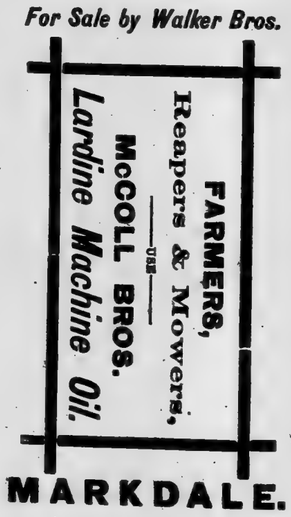
FARM FOR SALE OR TO RENT.
LOT North ½ 16 on the 11th concession, Holland, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, 30 acres in good state of cultivation, the balance hay and pasture. There is on the farm a good log house and frame kitchen, a good well near the house also a log barn. School and Post-office on the next lot. Will rent for a term of years and take improvements for rent, or will sell on easy terms. For particulars apply to
JAMES BRUCE,
Lilly Oak,
Or to William Steele, Ionia, Michigan.

RUPTURED
AND DEFORMED.

CHAS. CLUTHE, the most practical and experienced man on this Continent for relieving and curing Rupture and Deformities of every description. It will be to your advantage to call on me, 45,000 Trusses adjusted in person. Thousands of Deformed treated. Established 15 years. I will have a full supply of these celebrated Trusses with me at the following places:—
Markdale, Markdale House, Monday, Oct. 26.
Orangeville, Paisly House, Tuesday, Oct, 27.
Send 6c. stamp for registered Illustrated Book on Rupture and Human Frame by
CHAS. CLUTHE, Surgical Machinist, 118 King Street West, Toronto, Ont.



Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,
and every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD.
T. MILBURN & CO., PROPRIETORS, TORONTO.

LOOK! Look! Look!
James G. Russell's
NOTED JEWELLERY STORE,
FLESHERTON.
Is the place to buy
Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.
A large assortment just to hand.
A 1 Solid Silver Watches, Full Jewelled, from $8.50 up to $26, worth from $10.50 to $32.00, warranted from two to five years.
It will pay you to come twenty miles to have your Watch or Clock repaired by Russell.
Satisfaction guaranteed every time.
217-269 JAS. G. RUSSELL.

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.
Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble
Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

For Sale by Walker Bros.

MARKDALE.

NEW GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.
Having just received a
Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF Teas,
Sugars,
Tobacco, &c.
Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.
I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.
198 J. PLEWES.

J. J. DALTON.
DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R
OWEN SOUND BRANCH
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect Monday, August 30th

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "
Caledon	9 07 "
Orange- Arrive	9 25 "
ville. Leave	9 50 "
Orangeville Jun	10 05 "
Shelburne	10 27 "
Dundalk	10 45 "
Flesherton	11 10 "
Markdale	11 36 "
Williamsford	11 51 "
Chatsworth	12 15pm
Owen Sound	12 25 "
	1 00 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.
Owen Sound	5 20am
Chatsworth	5 50 "
Williamsford	6 05 "
Markdale	6 27 "
Flesherton	6 49 "
Dundalk	7 06 "
Shelburne	7 31 "
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "
Orange Arrive	8 12 "
ville.. Leave	8 35 "
Caledon	8 55 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "
Toronto.....Arrive	10 45 "

Special Steamship Express leaves Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thuredays and Saturdays for Toronto and Points East, on arrival of G. T. R. Steamship from Port Arthur and points in Manitoba and North-West.

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a.m. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.
Services for October, 4th at 7 p.m.; 7 p. m.; 18th, 7 p. m.; 25th, 10:30 a.m. November 1st, 7 p. m.: 8th, 10:30 and 7 p. m.; 22nd, 10:30 and 7; 29th, Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent.

METHODIST CHURCH.
Services every Sunday at 10:30 a.m. 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30. Meeting every Thursday evening from Rev. Wesley Casson. Pastor; G. S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid nection; Mrs. T. Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 their Hall, McDougall's block, every Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A brethren of neighboring lodges MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets Hall on Friday on or before full month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. Secretary.

YOU CAN SUBSCR
For any of The
FOLLOWING PA
AT THIS OFFICE:

Daily or Weekly Mail,
Daily os Weekly Globe,
Daily er Weekly News,
Daily World
Family Herald and Weekly Star,
American Agriculturist,
Farmers' Advocate,

Subscription can com any time.

STANDARD OFFICE,
MARKD

THE CELEBRATED Dr. CHASE'S MANDRAKE DANDELION LIVER CURE
HAVE YOU
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in Costiveness, or any disease arising from a Fever, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found and certain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Complaint rests solely with the compounded from nature's well-known Mandrake and Dandelion, other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Blood. 500,000 SOLD Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's were sold in Canada alone. We want every woman and child who is troubled with Dyspepsia to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY
Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's is a valuable Household Medical Guide Book (84 pages), containing over 900 pronounced by medical men and druggists able, and worth ten times the price of the TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A sure remedy. Price, 25 cents.
TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PAD. Price $1.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
T. EDMANSON & CO., Sole Agents, TORONTO.

Map

VOL. 5.--No. 267.

erybody, Attention!
New Goods now in.
erican Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,
PECTACLES,
usical Instruments and Strings.
Warrants honestly kept goods or work.
W. A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller.

ocal and Other Items.

OTICES in these columns intended to benefit individual or Society will be charged ten a line for the first insertion and five a line each subsequent insertion.

MR. R. B. CURRIE visited Elora last k.

PARKDALE is to be a town some of se days.

MR. MADILL of Corbetton paid Markdale a visit last week.

MR. JOHN ORR returned from his to Ireland last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kough of Owen Sound re in town last Friday.

THE Northern Exposition in Collingood was a grand success.

THE STANDARD to 1st January 1887 new subscribers for $1. cash.

DR. SPROULE is having his brick cement house pushed forward rapid-

TARA proposes loaning $2,000 toards the establishment of a woollen tory.

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP is ghly recommended for all humors skin diseases.

THERE is a perceptible improvement the Collingwood Bulletin under the w editor, Mr. Currie.

WIARTON is considering the loan of 10,000, or bonus of $5,000 to a paper tory for that village.

MR. JACKSON has leased his house pposite the STANDARD office to J. J. win, Veterinary Surgeon.

Freeman's Worm Powders are reeable to take, and expel all kinds worms from children or adults.

NATIONAL PILLS are a mild purgative, ing on the Stomach, Liver and wels, removing all obstructions.

LOOK HERE.—First class cooking ve No. 9, trimmed and complete $16.50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale

SIMSON'S CURE will immediately lieve Croup Whooping Cough and onchitis. Sold by A. Turner & Co.x

MR. E. DAVIS' brick dwelling on ueen St. will be ready for a tenant a month, and the tenant is ready r it.

MR. DAVID JONES, of Meaford, has en banquetted on the event of his parture from that town for South Vales.

MR. WM. DOUGLAS has moved into s fine new brick residence, which one of the finest private dwellings in arkdale.

Some of the go-ahead citizens of ngerville are endeavoring to form Agricultural Implement Manufactory & Foundry Company, with 0,000 capital. Their prospects so r appear good.

SEE our paper.

MARKDA last Saturd

MR. AND for their ho

RUSSELL to repair al

THE mo smallpox c week.

FOR styli prices, Hi them.

JOHN E. Belleville C as affable a

REMEMBE tends to all faction is g

COL. Or through wit from the N

REV. W. Ont., has re Old Count health.

THE peo say Russell to repair Jewelery.

ANOTHER Shoes this greater valu to see them.

A FINE st Jewelery. at Russell's Flesherton.

800,000 ling's mill, Weber. Al presented.

JOSH BIL Shaw, better died sudden in Californi

MR. KOUG in Markdale the 6th No error on th

MR. C. Moberly of last week, Scott Act v

THE dedi Methodist 20th and 2 tea-meeting

THE new church will 25th inst., on Monday

MRS. MA was afflicte of which w of Dr. Low

H Stre appl ton P. O., or

S. J. LA has been ap for South Macpherso

RAILWAY of a branc Tara to Ow Meaford is

RICHARD potato this lbs. and m and 32 the Scho

plete assort other Schoo the Medica

MR. RITC len Mills, and thereby accommode

AN exten ing of whi Owen Soun completed fall.

PARK lo Beautiful l reasonable born, Willi office.

ANADIAN PACIFIC L
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect Monday, August 3rd, 188

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
ronto....Leave	7 20am	4 45
rdwell Junction	9 07 "	6 99
ledon	9 25 "	6 45
ange- | Arrive	9 50 "	7 00
ille. | Leave	10 05 "	7 25
angeville Jun	10 17 "	7 36
elburne	10 45 "	8 04
ndalk	11 10 "	8 30
esherton	11 36 "	8 56
rkdale	11 51	9 10
lliamsford	12 28 "	9 47
atsworth	12 12pm	9 30
ven Sound	1 00 "	10 30

GOINC SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail
ven Sound	5 20am	9 45
atsworth	5 50 "	3 15
lliamsford	6 05 "	3 30
rkdale	6 27 "	3 52
esherton	6 42 "	3 58
ndalk	7 06 "	4 06
elburne	7 31 "	4 32
angeville Jun	8 00 "	5 02
nge | Arrive	8 12 "	5 20
ille.. | Leave	8 35 "	5 55
ledon	8 55 "	6 15
rdwell Junction	9 07 "	6 28
ronto.....Arrive	10 45 "	8 00

Special Steamship Express leaves O nnd on Tuesdays, Thuredays and Sun
Toronto and Points East, on arrival
Steamship from Port Arthur nd Po
Manitoba and North-West.

arkdale Church Directo

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a ayer Meeting every Wednesday evenin o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; own, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services for October, 4th at 7 p. m
. m.; 18th, 7 p. m.; 25th, 10:30 a vember 1st, 7 p. m.: 8th, 10:30 and 7;
. m.; 22nd, 10:30 and 7; 29th, 7
v. Jas. Ward, Incumbent.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m
. m. Sunday School at 2:30.
eting every Thursday evening from
v. Wesley Cassan, Pastor; G. S.
S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in tion; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets ernate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in ll, McDougall's block. Visiting-bre come.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 mee ir Hall, McDougall's block, every alte nday evening at 8 o'clock. A visit thren of neighboring lodges solicited

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in ll on Friday on or before full moon nth. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. B retary.

OU CAN SUBSCRI
For any of The OLLOWING PAPE
AT THIS OFFICE:

ily or Weekly Mail,
ily os Weekly Globe,
ily or Weekly News,
ily World
mily Herald and Weekly Star, erican Agriculturist,
rmers' Advocate,

Subscription can comme
y time.

STANDARD OFFICE,
MARKDA

THE CELEBRATED
Dr. CHAS
MANDRAKE
DANDE
LIVE CUR

HAVE YOU
er Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, ndice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in tiveness, or any disease arising from a r, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be fou certain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
e unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver er Complaint rests solely with the fact pounded from nature's well-known liver
NDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined er invaluable roots, barks and herbs, werful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach,
od.
500,000 SOLD er one-half million of Dr. Chase's Reci e sold in Canada alone. We want ev man and child who is troubled with Li nt to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE
apped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Li valuable Household Medical Guide k (84 pages), containing over 800 valu nounced by medical men and druggists e, and worth ten times the price of the Y CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A sure
edy. Price, 25 cents.
Y CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS 25 c
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
ROMANSON & CO., Sole Agents,

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 267. MARKDALE, ONT., OCT. 22, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH. }

verybody, Attention!

New Goods now in.

merican Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,

SPECTACLES.

Musical Instruments and Strings.

Warrants honestly kept n goods or work.

W. A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

MR. R. B. CURRIE visited Elora last week.

PARKDALE is to be a town some of these days.

MR. MADILL of Corbetton paid Markdale a visit last week.

MR. JOHN ORR returned from his trip to Ireland last week.

MR. and Mrs. Kough of Owen Sound were in town last Friday.

THE Northern Exposition in Collingwood was a grand success.

THE STANDARD to 1st January 1887 to new subscribers for $1. cash.

DR. SPROULE is having his brick tenement house pushed forward rapidly.

TARA proposes loaning $2,000 towards the establishment of a woollen factory.

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP is highly recommended for all humors or skin diseases.

THERE is a perceptible improvement in the Collingwood Bulletin under the new editor, Mr. Currie.

WIARTON is considering the loan of $10,000, or bonus of $5,000 to a paper factory for that village.

MR. JACKSON has leased his house opposite the STANDARD office to J. J. Irwin, Veterinary Surgeon.

Freeman's Worm Powders are agreeable to take, and expel all kinds of worms from children or adults.

NATIONAL PILLS are a mild purgative, acting on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, removing all obstructions.

LOOK HERE.—First class cooking stoves No. 9, trimmed and complete for $16.50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale

SHILOH'S CURE will immediately relieve Croup Whooping Cough and Bronchatis. Sold by A. Turner & Co.x

MR. E. DAVIS' brick dwelling on Queen St. will be ready for a tenant in a month, and the tenant is ready for it.

MR. DAVID JONES, of Meaford, has been banquetted on the event of his departure from that town for South Wales.

MR. WM. DOUGLAS has moved into his fine new brick residence, which is one of the finest private dwellings in Markdale.

SOME of the go-ahead citizens of Orangeville are endeavoring to form an Agricultural Implement Manufactory & Foundry Company, with $50,000 capital. Their prospects so far appear good.

SEE our list of credit sales in this paper.

MARKDALE cheese factory closed last Saturday.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK AVERELL left for their home on Monday.

RUSSELL has the tools and material to repair all kinds of Watches properly.

THE mortality in Montreal from smallpox continues at about 400 per week.

FOR stylish Hats & Bonnets at right prices, Hill Bro's is the place to get them.

JOHN E. RICHARDS returned from Belleville College on Tuesday, and is as affable as ever.

REMEMBER Russell, Flesherton, attends to all work himself and satisfaction is guaranteed every time.

COL. OTTER is expected to pass through with his Company homeward from the North-West on Sunday.

REV. W. H. W. BOYLE, of Paris, Ont., has returned from his trip to the Old Country, much improved in health.

THE people are right when they say Russell, Flesherton, is the man to repair Watches, Clocks, and Jewelery.

ANOTHER large arival of Boots & Shoes this day at J. R. Trimble's; greater value than ever. Don't fail to see them.

A FINE stock of Watches, Clocks, Jewelery, Violins, Spectacles, &c., at Russell's noted Jewelery Store, Flesherton.

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

JOSH BILLINGS DEAD.—Henry W. Shaw, better known as "Josh Billings," died suddenly of appoplexy last week in California.

MR. KOUGH'S sale of village property in Markdale takes place on Friday, the 6th Nov., not the 7th as stated in error on the bills.

MR. C. WIGGINS and Mr. Frank Moberly of Collingwood were fined last week, each $50 and costs, for Scott Act violation.

THE dedicatory services of the new Methodist church is to be held on the 20th and 27th Dec., and the annual tea-meeting on Christmas.

THE new Corbetton Presbyterian church will be opened on Sunday, the 25th inst., followed by a tea-meeting on Monday evening, 26th.

MRS. MARY THOMPSON, of Toronto, was afflicted with Tape Worm, 8 feet of which was removed by one bottle of Dr. Low's Worm Syrup.

House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

S. J. LANE, Junior County Judge, has been appointed revising barrister for South and East Grey, and Judge Macpherson for North Grey.

RAILWAY EXTENSION.—The extension of a branch line from Allenford or Tara to Owen Sound, and also from Meaford is being discussed in O. S.

RICHARD DOUDLE showed us a Rose potato this week which weighed 3½ lbs. and measured 26 inches one way and 32 the other in circumference.

School Books.—A complete assortment of new Readers and other School Books just received at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

MR. RITCHIE, of the Markdale Woollen Mills, has enlarged his factory, and thereby increased his facilities for accommodating his increasing trade.

AN extensive hatchery for the breeding of white fish is being built at Owen Sound and is expected to be completed in time to be stocked this fall.

PARK lot in Markdale for sale Beautiful location, will be sold on reasonable terms. Apply to R. Freeborn, Williamsford, or enquire at this office. 125 tf

MR. MESSEROLL, of Dundalk, has secured the contract for the erection of the brick Methodist parsonage in Priceville, which is to be complete in July, '86.

A NASAL INJECTOR free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

FOUND—A bag of flour on the street in Markdale, one night about 11th Oct. The owner can have it by proving property and paying for this adv. E. Large.

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY—a positive cure for Catarrh, Dipthrie, and Canker Mouth. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

IF you want pictures framed, call at Hamilton's photo. gallery and see his stock of mouldings, the finest ever brought into Markdale, and prices that are sure to suit.

MISS LOVE, Hill Bro's Milliner, is working night and day. She has trimmed out over forty Hats & Bonnets in the past few days. Hurrah, this is the place to get Millinery.

WHY WILL YOU cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief. Price 10 cts., 50 cts., and $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

YOU can't stop us; we will sell cheap. Kash is King at J. R. Trimble's Mammoth Store. We are always ahead with low prices. It is wonderful how we do it, but we do.

WE had a pleasant call on Tuesday from Mr. A. R. Macdonald, of Toronto, brother of Mrs. A. McDougall of this place. He left by the early train on Wednesday for Toronto.

WILL NOT GO.—At a meeting of the Presbytry at Mt. Forest last week, Rev. A. Wilson was solicited to remain at Markdale, and the congregations of Flesherton and Markdale agreed to advance his salary $50 each. Rev. Mr. Wilson decided to remain.

ELGIN WATCHES—New movements received this week, 11 Jewells, Pat. pinion quick train, slide dust bands, Warranted against defective breakages for two years. Ask for my cash figures on this grade, as it is to suit the times. W. A Brown, the reliable Jeweller.

MR FRANCIS EATON, of the township of Euphrasia, took from a tree grown from seed planted by his son William, about thirty-five bushels of Apples. This speaks well for Euphrasia as a fruit growing district. The seed was sown about twenty-five years ago.—Meaford Monitor.

"THE proof of the pudding is in the eating," So is Mantle making. When the Ladies get a good fitting Mantle, they know it. Don't you forget that Miss Love has proven herself to be a first-class Mantle-maker, Hill Bro's popular Milliner.

CONCERT.—Mrs. R. D. Irvine will give a grand concert in Haskett's Hall on Thursday evening, 29th, commencing at 8 o'clock. This is to be a rare treat, chiefly instrimental music, piano, violin, claronette, &c., &c. Admission only fifteen cents.

DON'T.—The evening shades are gathering, the full moon is partially hidden by flying clouds. They are sauntering slowly down Mill street. Their heads drop closer and yet closer, when suddenly the stillness is broken by a faint feminine voice, and "Oh! don't, Jim, you hurt my vaccination."

SAY, my friend, where are you bound for this morning? Why, J. R. Trimble's of course. You know he is giving wonderful bargains in fall and winter goods. No, Mc., you can't stop me; I have only $30 to lay out and I can get more goods for that amount than the other merchants will give me for $50.

DISTRESS AFTER EATING, a feeling of weight in the stomach—often painful, —gnawing, burning sensations, belching of wind, sour eructations of food, variable appetite, etc., indicate Dyspepsia, which Burdock Blood Bitters taken in time, will relieve and cure.

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourbon, Ind., says; "Both myself and wife owe our lives to SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE." Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

Two hundred pair fine Specks and Eyeglasses now in stock. Concave and Convex Crystal Lenses, Lazzarus & Morris $2.00; same in Boss. Adamantine Lense $1.50. Cases furnished. Other lines well finished 25 cents to $1.00, Near Sight and Sun Specks. Every pair optically fitted and warranted. W. A. Brown, The Relable Jeweller.

FOR DYSPEPSIA and Liver Complaint, you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

W. J. BLAKELY had three young cattle which strayed away last July, and had almost dispared ever finding them. when he thought he would try an advertisement in the STANDARD, and a week later word was sent him from three different parties near Rocklyn of their whereabouts. It doesn't pay to loose a week looking for srtray cattle to no purpose when $1 will find them through this medium.

BEETON VILLAGE, NOT A VILLAGE.—Chief Justice Wilson gave judgment last week, quashing the by-law passed by the County Council of Simco last year, incorporating Beeton a village. It had not 750 inhabitants, the number necessary to incorporate. This will be very awkward for the people of Beeton, as they have organized under the by-law, and elected their Council.—Dufferin Advertiser.

Convenience.—If you wish to subscribe for or renew your subscription for any of the following papers, you can do so at this office and thus save the trouble and risk of mailing:—Globe, Mail, News, Daily World, Montreal Star, Farmers' Advocate, or American Agriculturist. The balance of this year free to all new subscribers for 1886 for any of the above weeklies or monthlies.

GOLDFINDER AT WALKERTON.—The celebrated trotting stallion, "Goldfinder," (2.29¼) owned by Messrs. McGirr & Hannah, won the stallion race in Walkerton, at the Great Northern Exhibition, beating one of the fastest trotting stallions in Canada, viz., "Crown Imperial," record 2.31½ at the late Barrie races; and also beat the noted stallion, "Joe Gale." "Goldfinder" won the last heat of the race on a jog.—Flesherton Advance.

DOES IT PAY.—Spring wheat is so badly rusted that if properly cleaned for market, the greater bulk would be left at home for chicken feed, and the question naturally arises, will it pay this year to clean wheat well? In our opinion it always pays to clean grain thoroughly before marketing, for as a rule, the reduction in price, caused by being improperly cleaned, amounts to as much as the extra weight comes to, so that you are simply bestowing the small grain. Better keep at home and feed it.

ENCOURAGING.—As a result of the special services just closed, one hundred and sixty-nine have been received as members (on trial) of the Methodist church. To these may be added over eighty, who were received previously, at the different appointments making a total of 250 members received by Revs. Dr. Strongman and W. J. Mahood, since July last. Besides these a number (we cannot say how many) have joined the Presbyterian, and Episcopalian churches, and others have not as yet given in their names to any church. During the services Rev. Mr. Ross showed his liberal christian spirit by being occasionally present, giving earnest words of exhortation, and christian counsel.—Dundalk Herald.

FLUID LIGHTNING.

All sufferers from the terrible torment, Neuralgia, can be made happy in one moment by a single application of Fluid Lightning briskly robbed on painful parts, and without using any disgusting medicine day after day with little or no result. Fluid Lightning also cures as effectually Toothache, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Headache, and is only 25 cents per bottle at Hill Bro's. 1

THE many friends and customers of Miss Blades, of Williamsford Station, will be pleased to hear that she has returned from her trip to the North-West, and has resumed her business of Millinery and Mantle-making. Having recently purchased a choice selection of goods in the millinery line for fall and winter, she is prepared to suit and to make up to the tastes and wishes of all ladies who may kindly favor her with their orders. Both Mantles and Millinery are a specialty, and satisfaction guaranteed to every customer.

GLENELG SHOW.—The Glenelg Ag. Society, held their fall show in Markdale, on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 1st and 2nd. We would have endeavored to have attended this show, and given as favorable a report as possible, but from appearance the society and others interested don't want their show known outside of Markdale. The Society never sent the usual press invitation to this office, and the editor of the Markdale Standard either purposely or otherwise, neglected to send us a copy of his issue with a prize list in. If these Markdale people want to run a little show of their own, all right. We have the largest circulation of any paper, in Glenelg, and are in a position to help along their show, and if they are fools enough to ignor us—there's is the loss, not ours.—Grey Review. In reference to the insinuation that we purposely neglected to send a copy of our paper with the prize list in, we have only to say, we printed said prize list on a supplement and were not aware of sending out a copy without a copy being enclosed therin; and in regard to our little show, it bids fair to eclipse the South Riding Show even without the aid of Ben's valuable assistance.— [ED. STANDARD.

Credit Sale Register.

Friday, Oct. 23rd, on lot 3, con. 6, Euphrasia, farm stock, implements, &c., also farm for sale same time. Richard Bennett, proprietor; George Noble, auctioneer.

Saturday, 24th Oct., at 11 o'clock, in Markdale, Horses, Cows, Buggies, Cutters, Harness, Pigs, &c. Twelve months credit on approved paper. Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

Thursday, October 29th, at 1 o'clock, at lot 19, con. 10, Euphrasia, Robert Varey, proprietor; farm stock, implements, &c. Terms, 12 months on good paper. Joseph Manary, auctioneer.

Wednesday, 4th Nov., at 12 o'clock, two and a half miles from Markdale, general farm stock, implements, &c. The proprietor, Mr. John Mercer, has sold his farm and is going to British Columbia, and the chattels must be sold. Terms, 12 months on approved joint notes. Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

Important auction sale on Friday, 6th Nov., of village property in Markdale, comprising lot No. 5, Queen St., opposite the residence of Mr. G. S. Bowes, and lot No. 4, Brown St., opposite the residence of Dr. Sproule, M. P. There is on the former a fine commodious concrete dwelling house, and on the latter a large brick residence. Wm. Kough, Owen Sound, owner; Geo. Noble, auctioneer. See posters for full particulars.

Tuesday, Nov. 3d., on lot North ½ of 19, con. 12, Euphrasia, Mr. Wm. T. Jordan will sell his farm stock, implements, household furniture, &c. Terms 12 months credit on approved paper. Sale at 1 o'clock p. m. J. Manarey, auctioneer.

Monday, the 2nd., Nov. on lot 19, con. 9, Euphrasia, 7 horses 24 cattle and a large quantity of other stock implements, &c. The proprietor, Mr. Andrew Manarey, having leased his farm will sell without reserve. Terms 13 months credit on good paper. Joseph Manarey, auctioneer.

Friday, October 30th, on lot 8, con. 14, Glenelg, a large stock of good cattle, horses, implements, &c. Sale at 12 o'clock. Terms, 14 months credit on approved joint notes. The farm will be offered for rent for a term same time. Wm. G. Lamb, proprietor; Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

HEALTH.

Vaccination.

BY D. N. PATTERSON, M. D.

The prevalence of small pox throughout New England and Canada at the present time has suggested the above subject as a timely topic for our health talk this week.

The steps leading to the discovery and demonstration of vaccination have now passed into history, and are too well known to require repetition here. Like every discovery which has proved a blessing to mankind, vaccination has been obliged to contend with ignorance, superstition and malicious intrigue on every hand. It is not difficult at any time to find certain persons who are ever ready to set themselves up against any truth. As some one has aptly remarked, "Noise and asertion are the stock in trade of such people." Their principle is the old one, "That a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth." It took years, and a large amount of accumulated facts and statistics, to demonstrate conclusively the positive benefits to be derived from such a process as vaccination. Although the centennial of its discovery has not yet been celebrated, yet there is no axiom more clear than are the possible achievements of vaccination. To-day the truth of this statement is admitted by all candid thinkers, and denied only by the wilfully ignorant.

In proof of this assertion we have only to note an array of facts gleaned from standard authorities to substantiate this truth These have been so plainly set forth by an eminent writer that they are here given without change, The conclusions referred to are as follows:

"(1.) That this disease, cow pox, causally communicated to man, has the power of rendering him unsusceptible to small pox. (2) That the specific cow pox alone, and not other eruptions effecting the cow which might be confounded with it, had this protective power. (3) That the cow pox might be communicated at will from the cow to the hand of man by the hand of the surgeon, whenever the requisite opportunity existed; and (4) That the cow pox once ingrafted on the human subject might be continued from individual to individual by successive transmissions, conferring on each the same immunity from small pox as was enjoyed by the one first infected from the cow."

Through the lights and shadows of over three-quarters of a century these facts have been thoroughly tested, again and again, under almost every conceivable condition. As a result of these investigations it may be safely stated that with such exceptions as are always allowed in everything, persons who are thoroughly, properly and sufficiently vaccinated will not take the small pox. Instances without number can be gathered from medical and other authorities where persons have been successfully vaccinated, and who have served as assistants and nurses in small pox hospitals for weeks and months, without the disease.

Again, if there is no virtue in vaccination, as some claim, why is it that only a few generations ago small pox was so prevalent and fatal that one in six of the whole population in Europe died of that disease? Certainly during the past twenty-five years no such record as that can be found in that or any other country. It is true that epidemics have occasionly broken out in different localities of each, but it is not difficult to prove that it was often in those very towns and cities where the claims of vaccination were the least regarded, and in some instances almost entirely ignored.

The question here properly came up for discussion, when and how often shall a person be vaccinated. In order to rightly answer this question, a careful and thorough examination of a large amount of medical literature upon the subject has been made. From this study and investigation the following deductions are here offered.

It is well known that whenever an epidemic of small pox has occurred, there has always been a larger rate of mortality among the chidren of a few weeks old to five years of age than among older children and adults. It is therefore logical to suppose that a child should be vaccinated as early as possible, of course other things at the same time being favorable. If a child is strong and healthy he may be vaccinated any time from six weeks to three months old. But if the child is of a feeble, delicate constitution, or is sickly, then a much longer time is best to elapse. Of course if small pox should be prevalent in the community it would be necessary to be governed by the surrounding circumstances.

A child thoroughly vaccinated before he is one year old, is protected from small pox until he reaches the age of from twelve to fourteen, provided he has continued in fair health during those years. But if he has been subjected to a long succession of severe attacks of illness, re-vaccination may be necessary several years earlier.

At the age of twelve or fourteen a person should again be vaccinated. Subsequent vaccination will depend largely upon personal habits, modes of living, occupation, and general condition of health. Certainly once in fourteen years every one who has not had either small pox or varioloid should submit to the protective influence of vaccination. If at that time the vaccination does not take it should again be repeated within two or three years, for the old inoculation may not have continued to prove effectual.

In conclusion, one word with reference to the best means of vaccination. In reply we have but one word to say; that is, use only bovine virus. There are those who make it a business to provide this virus, and the process has been perfected so that now the danger or the possibility of obtaining any but pure matter is reduced to a minimum. From these firms, whose names are household words among physicians, good and reliable virus can always be obtained. It is not wise to vaccinate from one person to another. This was formerly the custom, but it is now fast going out of use, and their is no good reason why it should not soon be entirely set aside. Vaccination, if properly performed, is safe, and it should be employed by all, as in this way the scourge of small pox may eventually be reduced to a few isolated cases.

The Anthropological Congress, which is soon to be held at Rome, will have a feature in a collection of 700 skulls of criminals. It will no doubt be a skullary gathering, but with so many "dead heads" it will hardly pay expenses.

Lord Shaftesbury.

News was received in Canada on Oct. 1, 1885, that the Earl of Shaftesbury was dead. The public mind had been prepared for an event which was almost in the nature of a bereavement to charitable people of all countries. By a long career of active philanthropy the deceased nobleman did untold good among the lowly, gave powerful aid to co-workers in the promotion of human progress, and was the example and admiration of all toiling amidst manifold discouragement to relieve, enlighten, and improve the moral condition of the poor, ignorant and depraved. He was a man of ability and high culture, an aristocrat by birth, and began a public career which was promising of high honors, but he preferred to spend the greater part of his life in the pursuit of those benevolent activities which will immortalize his name. His life honors human nature, because it is a revelation of the self-denial, perpetual sweetness and charity which are possible to it.

Anthony Ashley-Cooper, Earl of Shaftesbury, was born in London, April 28, 1801. He was educated at the University of Oxford, where he took high standing for his scholarship. As Lord Ashley, he sat in the House of Commons as the representative of various constituencies until 1851, when he succeeded his father as Earl of Shaftesbury with a seat in the House of Lords. While in the House of Commons he supported the Governments of Liverpool and Canning, was Commissioner of the Board of Control under the Duke of Wellington, and Lord of Admiralty under Sir Robert Peel. When this great statesman was called to the Premiership the second time, Lord Ashley refused office under him, because the Prime Minister would not support the Ten Hour Bill which he had in charge. From that time forward he was independent in politics, and as a statesman devoted himself chiefly to the amelioration of various forms of suffering. He agitated for laws reducing the hours of labor; for improving workshops, factories, and lodging-houses; for the protection of children, and for improving the sanitary and moral condition of the humbler classes. Seven years before he assumed his earldom, he was chosen president of the Ragged School Union, at the time of its formation, in 1844, and continued to hold that position, also that of President of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and of the Victoria Institute, until the time of his death. The noble earl wae influential in the evangelical party in the Church of England, and assisted many religious and social organizations by his pen, personal advocacy and purse. He was oftener a chairman of public meetings than probably any other man. His activity in advocating the abolition of slavery was most remarkable. Wise as well as large-hearted, the record of his benefactions is as creditable to his head as to his heart.

He was conscious when he died, and his mental faculties were preserved until the last. The death scene was one of consummate calmness and beauty.

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

Mons. E. E. Blavier, the eminent French electrician, associates earth currents, which at times so powerfully affect telegraphic operations and the mariner's compass, with trade winds, and thereby indirectly with the sun. He favors De la Rive's theory that the aurora borealis is due to the circulation of electric currents in the higher regions of the atmosphere.

Dr. R. C. Kedzie gives an explanation of the discrepancy in thermometer reading taken simultaneously at places within the vicinity of one another. He says: "In the absence of wind which mixes up the strata of air of different temperatures, and consequently of different specific gravity, the cold air of the night will flow in streams, and gather in ponds or lakes the same as water. Under such circumstances the temperature will vary with the level."

Sea water has been converted into a beverage. A little citric acid or citrate of silver is added to the briny liquid, chloride of silver is precipitated, and a harmless minera water is produced. An ounce of citrate renders a half-pint of water drinkable. Seven ounces would furnish a shipwrecked man with water for a week. The question is how to secure the citrate to the shipwrecked man. It is recommended that those who go to sea carry with them a bottle of the citrate protected by an India rubber covering, or that such bottles should be furnished in life preservers. In the latter case, however, the people about to be shipwrecked must not leave the life-preservers behind. If, with presence of mind, they remember to take them, all the agonies of thirst portrayed in nautical stories may remain unrealized fiction.

A remarkable salt lake, which has attained a widespread celebrity, is situated in the county of Hidalgo, Texas, about 40 miles north from Edinburgh, the county seat, which fronts the old Mexican town of Reynosa, on the opposite side of the Rio Grande del Norte, and about 70 miles north-west from Brownsville. It is in form an eclipse, about one mile in length and five miles in its circumference. Its depth nowhere exceeds three or four feet, and its bed consists of pure rock crystal salt. The water is a brine of unusual strength, which crystallizes with such rapidity that no matter how large a quantity of salt is removed from the bed of the lake one day, its place will be found filled with salt of a similar quantity the next. This indicates that the supply of salt is practically inexhaustible, while in purity it ranks with the best rock salt productions of this continent or of Europe, being composed of 99.0897 parts chloride of sodium, or pure salt.

"There is only one thing that I regret about my execution," observed the condemned murderer. "What is it?" "The suspense."

The stage robber on the plains sometimes makes a thousand dollars in one night, but the stage robber of the theatre seldom gets over fifty cents.

King Alfonso of Spain is described offhand as a monarch who is "neither liked nor respected by any considerable portion of his people. He is a pleasure-loving King, brave, but narrow-minded, with a certain shallow brilliancy which impressed the Emperor Wilhelm of Germany, though it did not deceive Prince Bismarck."

HOUSEHOLD.

But Don't You Tell.

Dear Mrs. Jones, I'm glad you called!
I hoped you'd come to day!
Now have you heard what awful things
They tell of Elder Gray?
You haven't. Way, I heard last night,
That some one heard in town,
He went to see the Black Crook show,
Along with Deacon Brown.
But don't you tell—I'm sure you won't!
Perhaps it isn't so;
But, really, that is what they say—
I don't pretend to know.

Now, Mrs. Jones, do you suppose
That Mr Smith will cheat?
I'm told by those who ought to know
He swindles on his meat
Two ounces short a pound they say,
And just the same on tea,
And he a member in the church,
And a deacon, with you and me!
But don't you tell—I'm sure you won't!
Perhaps it isn't so;
But, really, that is what they say—
I don't pretend to know.

They say that Thompson and his wife
Just quarrel night and day,
He's jealous. Well, perhaps there's cause—
That's not for me to say.
The way that woman puts on airs—
New hat and diamond ring,
And gad, gad, gadding all the time,
With beaux upon her string.
But don't you tell—I'm sure you won't!
Perhaps it isn't so;
But really, that is what they say—
I don't pretend to know.

They say that Mrs. Johnson's got A new silk dress, and she Don't pay her washing bill I'm told—
It came quite straight to me.
It's hinted that her husband drinks
And gambles on the sly;
But, really, that is what they say—
I don't pretend to know.

Domestic Curiosities.

1. One who is always suspicious of others; always afraid of being cheated; always carefully watching others; one who does not need much watching.

2 One who is excessive in his use of tobacco; who is either careful and tasty in his personal appearance, or who has a reasonable regard for the rights, comforts and refined feelings of his neighbor.

3. A glutton; one who "lives to eat," demanding much animal food, particularly that of the swine, but who will not more readily than others form the habit of using tobacco and alcoholic liquors, aside from unusual preventive influences.

4. One who spends largely his funds for rum and tobatco, and yet provides bountifully for his family.

5. A man who spends the most of his evenings at the saloon, the club-house, the stable or the slaughter-house, who will care much about reading good books and papers, and who exerts a good influence in his family.

6. A boy who loves to torture small animals, who kills all of the birds within his reach, pulls the legs and wings from insects as a pastime—who will be kind to his brothers and sisters and to his associates, eventually becoming a good citizen, unless most thoroughly changed.

7. A boy who uniformly cheats at his games, who will not do the same at the grocery, at home, and in all his dealings.

8 One who makes eating the great object of mortal life, eating whenever an opportunity may present without any regard to quantity or quality, who will not at some day become a miserable dyspeptic, wishing to remove to another climate—one more favorable to his constitution.

9. A scold; always fretting, complaining of the weather, expecting some "awful calamity," never satisfied with present circumstances—who can be a comfortable companion, a true friend, or who can be reasonably happy and healthy.

10. A man with a single idea, who sees only through his own glasses, spending all of his energies upon his fanciful theories, who makes a success of mortal life.

11. One who has once cheated you, or shamefully abused you, who will afterward think well of you, or who will not still represent himself as the abused.

12. One who is unusually selfish, overreaching on all possible occasions, who, in any matter of difficulty with his neighbors, is willing to refer the matter to disinterested persons, while he regards himself as "able to manage his own affairs." (Such should have "broad acres" and decent people between them, as a means of avoiding frequent troubles)

13. One who boasts of his goodness, who claims to be much better than his neighbors, who will always prove a "peace maker."

14. One ever ready to advise others, assuming to be very wise, who is equally willing to be advised.

Receipts.

Omelet Souffle.—Add to the yolks of six eggs a table poonful of flour, pepper and salt; stir well together; add the whites of the eggs and fry in a saucepan in which has been melted three ounces of butter.

Codfish Minced.—Flake up cold boiled cod and to three cups of fish add one large mashed potatoe, a small piece of butter, one-half teaspoonful of cornstarch, one beaten egg; make into small cakes and fry in butter.

Fried Herring.—Clean well, cut off the head and take out the back bone; cut into good size pieces, dip into a beaten egg and roll in cracker crumbs and fry in hot lard.

Doughnuts.—Two cups of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, two cups of sugar, one teaspoonful of melted butter, three eggs and flour sufficient to roll; cut into any desired shape: fry in boiling hot lard; skim out and drain until dry.

Egg Rolls.—Two cups of sweet milk, two eggs, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, three and one-half cups of sifted flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder; bake in gem pans.

Naval Examiner—"Now, sir, I will examine you for color-blindness. What color is this light?" "How on earth can I tell unless you take that red globe off it?"

India women do not like to be doctored by men. Lady Dufferin is president of a society to educate women for medical practice.

"My dear Miss Smith," said a pseudo old minister, "I trust that your thoughts tend toward the gospel everlasting!" "Oh, yes, sir," replied Miss Smith, "but not to the gospel everlastingly."

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT SACHETS, placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc.—They drive away and destroy Moths and other insects, imparting a delightful and delicate perfume to the clothing, carried or worn upon the person they are by their powerful concentrated disinfectant properties, a perfect means of protection against infection of disease, giving off at the same time a most delightful odor; made entirely of satin in assorted colors, very pretty, unique, and neat. Every one should have them. Price 10c. each—three for 25c. Thymo-Cresol Soap, the great English disinfectant toilet soap, awarded the gold medal, London, Eng., 1884. Large cakes, price 15c., or 25c. per box of 3 cakes, sent postage paid to any address upon receipt of price. Address Thymo-Cresol Company, 759 Craig St., Montreal. Circulars and descriptions of our English Thymo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application. Agents wanted. Write for terms.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships.

Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N. F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow line sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia fortnightly.

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; Sheppard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co, St. John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B. Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. A. Allan, Proprietor Bonsecours Market, Montreal.

BUY THE
IMPROVED CONBOY
Carriage Tops
AS THEY ARE THE MOST STYLISH, CONVENIENT, AND MOST DURABLE TOP IN THE MARKET.

There are over Twenty Thousand of these Tops now in use and are giving better satisfaction than any other.

The manufacturer of these Celebrated Carriage Tops, owns more patents for improvements, and makes a greater variety than any other firm in Canada or the United States.

THEY ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE LEADING CARRIAGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT CANNOT BE SURPASSED BY ANY THAT IN ANY WAY APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY.

Factory and Saleroom,
407 to 413 KING ST. WEST,
TORONTO

CANADA PERMANENT LOAN & SAVINGS CO.
Incorporated, A.D. 1855.
Subscribed Capital..... $6,000,000
Paid up Capital..... 2,500,000
Reserve Fund..... 1,100,000
Total Assets..... 6,000,000
OFFICE:
Company's Buildings, Toronto, Toronto.

The Company has now on hand a large amount of English money which it is prepared to lend on first-class securities at low rates of interest. Apply to
J. HERBERT MASON,
Managing Director.

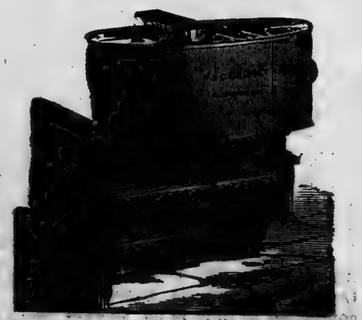
NOTICE
To our Numerous Consumers.

On account of the tobacco crop of 1883 being so poor, we did not buy much, and selected only the best of it, as we always wish to keep our "T. & B. Myrtle" brand up to the standard; and therefore there may be a scarcity of T. & B. Myrtle" Plug for a short time. If such is the case the c will be a full supply on the market by the end of October.

The tobacco we are now about to manufacture is the finest we have ever had, and we know it will please our numerous consumers.

Yours respectfully,
GEO. E. TUCKETT & SON.

CUT THIS OUT!
The New Co-Operative
Sewing Machine!
—IS THE—
BEST IN THE MARKET.
NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE
Latest Improved Attachments
Agents price for similar machine $50
Our price only $25 each.
Before buying send us stamp for our elegant photograph and samples of sewing.
All Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.
Any lad wantin a machine will do well to write us
THE CO-OPERATIVE
Sewing Machine Co.
22 JAMES ST SOUTH, HAMILTON



$10 Reward for the Conviction
Of Dealers who offer and Sell Inferior Oil of Other Manufacture for McCOLL.'S
THE ABOVE REWARD
LARDINE
WILL BE PAID.
MACHINE OIL.
Eureka, Cylinder, Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. | For sale by all leading dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co. Toronto.

GOLD MEDAL
JUST AWARDED AT THE TORONTO EXHIBITION FOR PEERLESS
AND OTHER MACHINE OILS.
Six Gold Medals have been Awarded this Oil during the last Three Years. Be Sure to get PEERLESS, no other genuine.
WE WILL PAY FREIGHT BOTH WAYS IF NOT ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY
Queen City Oil Wroks | Samuel Rogers & Co.

JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF
It is the only preparation of the kind which contains all the nutritious, together with the stimulating properties of beef, and the only one which has the power to supply nourishment for brains, and bone and muscle

Examine Their Superior Merits!
GURNEY'S
NEW HARRIS HOT AIR FURNACES
FOR WOOD AND COAL

The Most Effective, Clean, Durable and Economical Heaters in the Market for warming and ventilating Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Stores and Private Residences. Simple in construction and easily managed, capable of giving more heat with less consumption of fuel than any other heating apparatus. Air Absolutely Gas Tight. Ten Seven sizes are made and can be set either in Brick or Portable Form. Correspondence solicited. For Catalogues and further information address
THE E. & C. GURNEY CO.
(LIMITED.)
HAMILTON.

A TALE OF TEXAS.

Between the mouth of the Rio Pecos and the headwaters of the Brazos, in the great State of Texas, lies a broad belt of country in which, during the last fifty years, there have occured adventures as daring and desperate as any the most reckless dime-novellist has been able to depict.

Settlers, ranchmen and scouts have here battled with Apaches and Comanches, encountering almost every possible phase of peril, but with this difference from the novelists version, that in these actual conflicts the redskin has been only too often the gallant and the victor.

Erastus Parsons, a youth from the good State of Connecticut, started a "cattle run," some fifteen years ago, on the upper creeks of the Big Wichita.

Young Parsons had come down here from Topeka, Kansas, having already spent a year there endeavoring to establish himself as a gunsmith, without success.

But if unsuccessful as a gunsmith, he had caught the true spirit of success in the West—which is to be frank, open and expert in whatever business one attempts to do. Hence, as starting a ranchman, his first efforts were directed to become a good shot and an adept at casting the lariat or lasso.

It was only after two months of assiduous practice at this latter accomplishment that he mastered it at last, so efficiently that not a herder on the Wichita could approach or excel him in skill as a "rope slinger,"—and this among fifty cowboys and ranchmen from eight or ten ranges.

It was in June that the adventure which we are about to relate happened. All hands on the ranges had been out for two days, pursuing the extreme limits of their grazing territory near the sources of Pease River. Quite early the second morning, Parsons had become separated from the other riders, and finding the fresh trail of a number of cattle that had been moving westward, he followed it, overtaking the scattering animals, until, by the middle of the afternoon, he had gathered up quite a "bunch." Toward sunset he started these cattle in a direct line for camp, where the main herd, which had already been gathered, was held by a number of riders, waiting to receive them.

Considering the lateness of the hour, he had a long drive before him, and he was hurrying the bunch of cattle across a level strip of mesquit prairie, when suddenly the lead steers took fright at some object among the brush in front of them, and throwing up their tails, went scampering back, bringing the whole drove flying along with them.

In vain Parsons shouted and tried to head them off; they went past him like a whirlwind, and looking back to see what might be the cause of this sudden stampede, he discovered seven Comanche Indians riding out of the mesquit bushes at a racing gallop, and coming directly towards him! They were not more than two hundred yards distant!

Young Parsons did not hesitate for an instant as to his own course. He turned his horse's head, and dug his spurs into its flanks. Seeing him turn, the Indians raised a yell, and followed him at the top of their ponies' speed.

He gave one glance over his shoulder, then felt for his revolver, but suddenly remembered that he had fired away his last cartridge during the forenoon.

Another quick glance backward showed him that the ponies of the redskins were fresh, and were keeping all the space that they had gained.

He was no coward, but he admitted to himself that he had "got himself in the worst fix" he was ever in. For as the redskins were between himself and his camp, in fact, between himself and all hope of help from the other herdsmen, he knew the race must be a long one, and felt pretty well satisfied, too, that it would be his last run.

There was only one hope: his horse was an exceedingly tough and long-winded animal, half mustang, half Morgan, and a genuine racer. If the horse could only hold out, and keep out of reach of the bullets and arrows of his pursuers until dark, there would be a fair chance of dodging them among the mesquit bushes, which grew thick and tall in many places.

He glanced at the sun. It was an hour high yet. Then he looked back at the Comanches, coming steadily on, and could not but feel that even this one chance of escape was small.

He soon noted that one of the Comanches had begun to draw away from the rest, and was rapidly gaining on him. He urged his pony along faster, but though for a few moments, owing to the unusual speed of his horse, he gained ground fast over the main body of his pursuers, this one redskin more than kept pace with him!

Erastus at first could hardly credit the fact; he had great confidence in the running powers of his own horse, which was clattering over the hard-baked soil at the highest speed. It was a long run for his much-ridden pony that he had most feared; but here was the Comanche, on a small, cream-colored pony, racing down on him, and gaining a length in every fifty yards.

Nearer and nearer the Indian came, though both pursuer and pursued were fast distancing the rest; and ere many minutes the Indian got so close that Parsons began to wonder why he did not shoot; for he had noticed a bow slung at his back, and also that he carried a long lance in one hand, while he plied the quirt with the other.

Parsons could hear him urging on his horse, in harsh, gutteral sounds: "Huh! huh! huh!" keeping time with the short, quick springs of his pony, which ran with close down, and seemed literally to be flying over the surface of the smooth prairie.

Twice Parsons turned in his saddle and threatened his pursuer with the revolver, at which the Indian threw himself flat down upon his pony's neck and lowered the point of his lance; but the latter came straight on with speed undiminished, seeming, indeed, to have a strong suspicion of the disadvantage of his enemy in the matter of cartridges. Every moment he gained somewhat, his little pony running easily along, while Erastus's horse was already panting hard.

Seeing that the Comanche could not be checked by an unloaded pistol, and that something must be done quickly, if he would escape the lance-thrust, he nearly ready to be delivered, Parsons determined upon a desperate move.

He thrust the revolver in his belt, caught

CANADA PERMANENT
AN & SAVINGS CO.
Incorporated, A.D. 1855.
ubscribed Capital..... $6,000,000 id up Capital..... 2,500,000 eserve Fund..... 1,100,000
tal Assets..... 8,600,000
OFFICE:
pany's Buildings, Toronto St., Toronto.
Company has now on hand a large nt of English money which it is pre-to lend on first-class securities at low of interest. Apply to
J. HERBERT MASON,
Managing Director.
NOTICE
ur Numerous Consumers.
count of the tobacco crop of 1888 being so did not buy much, and selected only the
, as we always wish to keep our "T. & B. brand up to the standard; and therefore y be a scarcity of T. & B. Myrtle" Plug for ime. If such is the case the e will be a full n the market by the end of October.
bacco we are now about to manufacture is the have ever had, and we know it will please erous consumers.
Yours respectfully,
GEO. E. TUCKETT & SON.
T THIS OUT
The New Co-Operative ving Machine!
—IS THE—
IN THE MARKET.
STAND! NEW FURNITURE
Improved Attachments rice for similar machine $60
r price only $25 each.
ving send us stamp for our elegant photo mples of sewing.
nes guaranteed for three years and sent on wantin a machine will do well to write to
HE CO-OPERATIVE
ing Machine Co.
28 ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON Conviction
Superior Oil of Other Manufacture for NE WILL BE PAID.
OIL.
ealers. | McColl Bros. & Co Toronto.
EDAL EXHIBITION FOR SS
Oil during the last Three no other genuine.
ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY
l Rogers & Co.
STON'S FLUID BEEF
ly preparation of the kind which con-tritious, together with the stimulating eef, and the only one which has the ly nourishment for brains, and bone.
ior Merit
Y'S
R FURNACES
AND COAL
rs in the Market for warming and Private Residences. Simple in consumption of fuel than any other are made and can be set either in s and further information address
NEY CO.
ON

A TALE OF TEXAS.

Between the mouth of the Rio Pecos and the headwaters of the Brazos, in the great State of Texas, lies a broad belt of country upon which, during the last fifty years, there have occured adventures as daring and desperate as any the most reckless dime-novelist has been able to depict.

Settlers, ranchmen and scouts have here battled with Apaches and Comanches, encountering almost every possible phase of peril, but with this difference from the novelists version, that in these actual conflicts the redskin has been only too often the assailant and the victor.

Erastus Parsons, a youth from the good State of Connecticut, started a "cattle run," some fifteen years ago, on the upper creeks of the Big Wichita.

Young Parsons had come down here from Topeka, Kansas, having already spent a year there endeavoring to establish himself as a gunsmith, without success.

But if unsuccessful as a gunsmith, he had yet caught the true spirit of success in the West—which is to be frank, open and expert in whatever business one attempts to do. Hence, as starting a ranchman, his first efforts were directed to become a good shot and an adept at casting the lariat or lasso.

It was only after two months of assiduous practice at this latter accomplishment that he mastered it at last, so efficiently that not a herder on the Wichita could approach or excel him in skill as a "rope slinger,"—and this among fifty cowboys and ranchmen from eight or ten ranges.

It was in June that the adventure which we are about to relate happened. All hands on the ranges had been out for two days, coursing the extreme limits of their grazing territory near the sources of Pease River. Quite early the second morning, Parsons had become separated from the other riders, and finding the fresh trail of a number of cattle that had been moving westward, he followed it, overtaking the scattering animals, until, by the middle of the afternoon, he had gathered up quite a "bunch." Toward sunset he started these cattle in a direct line for camp, where the main herd, which had already been gathered, was held by a number of riders, waiting to receive others.

Considering the lateness of the hour, he had a long drive before him, and he was hurrying the bunch of cattle across a level strip of mesquit prairie, when suddenly the head steers took fright at some object among the brush in front of them, and throwing up their tails, went scampering back, bringing the whole drove flying along with them.

In vain Parsons shouted and tried to head them off; they went past him like a whirlwind, and looking back to see what might be the cause of this sudden stampede, he discovered seven Comanche Indians riding out of the mesquit bushes at a racing gallop, and coming directly towards him! They were not more than two hundred yards distant!

Young Parsons did not hesitate for an instant as to his own course. He turned his horse's head, and dug his spurs into its flanks. Seeing him turn, the Indians raised a yell, and followed him at the top of their ponies' speed.

He gave one glance over his shoulder, then felt for his revolver, but suddenly remembered that he had fired away his last cartridge during the forenoon.

Another quick glance backward showed him that the ponies of the redskins were fresh, and were keeping all the space that they had gained.

He was no coward, but he admitted to himself that he had "got himself in the worst fix" he was ever in. For as the redskins were between himself and his camp, in fact, between himself and all hope of help from the other herdsmen, he knew the race must be a long one, and felt pretty well satisfied, too, that it would be his last run.

There was only one hope: his horse was an exceedingly tough and long-winded animal, half mustang, half Morgan, and a genuine racer. If the horse could only hold out, and keep out of reach of the bullets and arrows of his pursuers until dark, there would be a fair chance of dodging them among the mesquit bushes, which grew thick and tall in many places.

He glanced at the sun. It was an hour high yet. Then he looked back at the Comanches, coming steadily on, and could not but feel that even this one chance of escape was small.

He soon noted that one of the Comanches had begun to draw away from the rest, and was rapidly gaining on him. He urged his pony along faster, but though for a few moments, owing to the unusual speed of his horse, he gained ground fast over the main body of his pursuers, this one redskin more than kept pace with him!

Erastus at first could hardly credit the fact; he had great confidence in the running powers of his own horse, which was clattering over the hard-baked soil at the highest speed. It was a long run for his much-ridden pony that he had most feared; but here was the Comanche, on a small, cream-colored pony, racing down on him, and gaining a length in every fifty yards.

Nearer and nearer the Indian came, though both pursuer and pursued were fast distancing the rest; and ere many minutes the Indian got so close that Parsons began to wonder why he did not shoot; for he had noticed a bow slung at his back, and also that he carried a long lance in one hand, while he plied the quirt with the other.

Parsons could hear him urging on his horse, in harsh, guttural sounds: "Huh! huh! huh!" keeping time with the short, quick springs of his pony, which ran with nose down, and seemed literally to be flying over the surface of the smooth prairie.

Twice Parsons turned in his saddle and threatened his pursuer with the revolver, at which the Indian threw himself flat down upon his pony's neck and lowered the point of his lance; but the latter came straight on with speed undiminished, seeming, indeed, to have a strong suspicion of the disadvantage of his enemy in the matter of cartridges. Every moment he gained somewhat, his little pony running easily along, while Erastus's horse was already panting hard.

Seeing that the Comanche could not be fooled by an unloaded pistol, and that something must be done quickly, if he would escape the lance-thrust so nearly ready to be delivered, Parsons determined upon a desperate move.

He thrust the revolver in his belt, caught up the raw hide lariat which hung coiled about his saddle-horn, and quickly let out the noose. As he did so, he reined his horse abruptly to one side, so as to turn on a short, sharp circle, in time to bring him face to face with his antagonist, by the time the latter came up. He had practiced this sudden manœuvre many times before, and, swaying his body in, to keep the horse at a sharp turn, he succeeded in it, in time to get a good throw at the Indian.

The Comanche, on his part, understood the trick well; but instead of driving straight at him, as Parsons had feared, the confident redskin straightened up in his saddle, threw forward his lance to ward off the noose, and rode past, with a whoop of derision and defiance.

But he had reckoned without an accurate knowledge of the Yankee's proficiency.

The long, wide noose was thrown, swift and hard, directly against the lance-pole above the Comanche's head, and as the now double loops flew apart, one of them dropped neatly over the Indian's tasselled head and shoulders.

Parsons instantly jerked sharply at the line and spurred his horse. The Comanche was twitched from his saddle, as though knocked off by a cannon-ball. In another moment he was trundling over the prairie at the end of the raw-hide.

But the savage was neither killed nor senseless; and luckily for him, the prairie was smoothly carpeted with soft mesquit grass. The noose had caught partially about his body, leaving one arm free from the elbow down. With this free hand, he contrived—as he was bowled along—to draw a knife from his belt, and after several desperate efforts, succeeded in cutting the lariat.

Glancing back, Parsons saw the Comanche stagger to his feet and reel heavily about, as if stunned, then start off after his pony, which had galloped away to a considerable distance. His first impulse was to ride down the Indian, or try another cast of the lariat upon him. But he saw that the other redskins were still coming on in pursuit, though nearly half a mile distant; and as he knew that the country grew rougher and more broken in front, he now had strong hopes of getting away from them altogether.

This he finally did, escaping, as night fell, among the bushy hills which skirt the north branch of Pease River, and reaching the cattle-camp next morning, in time to relate the adventure to his fellow-herdsmen before breakfast.—Youth's Companion.

Some Sentiments of Sam Jones.

"BUT."

Do you notice that when we talk about people we never use the copulative conjunction? We use the disjunctive "but." You ask about Brother A, and the answer is, "Well, he's good, but he don't pray in his family." "How about Brother B?" "Well, he's a good man, a very good man, but seems to like his dram." You can take this disjunctive conjunction "but" and chip character all to pieces with it in a minute. You can just take any man in this town nearly and say all about him. "He's good and kind. Then commence to "but" him, and the first thing you know they butt him off the bridge, and that's the last of him

GLAD THAT HIS CHILD DIED.

If I have anything special, in reference to my wife and children, to be grateful for, it is this: I have no child that ever looked into my face when I was not a consecrated Christian man. God gave us one when I was wrecked and wayward and godless. That little child lived and looked in my face when I was godless and profane and wretched, and God took her to heaven. I shall live a Christian as long as God gives me a child to look in my face, and when I get to heaven I will fall down and beg pardon of that sweet little angel that she ever saw me when I wasn't a Christian.—[Tears.]

MONEY AND COMMUNISM.

"Yes," you say, "Jones is preaching communism." I am not. I tell you this today, there isn't a man in this country that fights communism stronger than I do. I have no sympathy with this low-down rack of God's creation going round here doing nothing and wanting everything that everybody else has, and I have got no sympathy with the fellow that has got a big pile of it, and won't give any away. That's the way I feel about it. I have found out that money is like a walking-stick. One will help you along if we are lame, but fifty loaded on your back will break you down. That's so, and the matter with some of you people is that you are loaded down with money. Money is like guano: if you will put it on too thick it will burn up everything. And so money, if you load it on too heavily, will spoil a man. The richest man the world ever saw was also one of the best. Abraham could have bought out Vanderbilt, and scarcely have missed out of the bank the money of the check he drew to pay for Vanderbilt's estate, and yet he was one of the best men on earth. It is not so much the money as the sort of fellow that has it.

VARIOLOID PIETY.

There's a varioloid type of piety. They just put you in bed a day or two and you were out before anybody found out you were sick. The varioloid type of piety has taken possession of this country; but it ain't catching. But you get one of the old-fashioned, confluent cases of small-pox, and everybody will catch it that goes in the room. This varioloid type of religion that you see nowadays ain't catching, but you take an old-fashioned confluent rash, and when a man has got it, the first thing you know his wife will get it, and it will break out over the family, and the whole family will be consecrated to God.

Our true knowledge is to know our own ignorance. Our true strength is to know our own weakness. Our true dignity is to confess that we have no dignity, and are nobody and nothing in ourselves, and to cast ourselves down before the dignity of God, under the shadow of whose wings and in the smile of whose countenance alone is any created being safe.

The wear and tear of life comes chiefly from straining after the impossible. Nervous excitement, alternate hope and disappointments, unvailing struggles, feverish anxieties, bitter failures—these are the worst enemies of health and happiness, the most fatal destroyers of peace and prosperity. They come for the most part from taking up needless burdens.

BRILLIANTS.

The laws of our religion tend to the universal happiness of mankind.

The mind is its own place, and in itself can make a heaven of hell, a hell of heaven.

Men respect the religion of those who are ready to lend a helping hand in times of trouble.

A man has no more right to say an uncivil thing than to act one; no more right to say a rude thing to another than to knock him down.

If we could read the secret history of our enemies we should find in each man's life sorrow and suffering enough to disarm all hostility.

Laughing, if loud, ends in a deep sigh. wrote Jeremy Taylor, and all pleasures have a sting in the tail, though they carry beauty on the face.

It is much easier to find a score of men wise enough to discover the truth than to find one intrepid enough, in the face of opposition, to stand up for it.

Every man has his chain and his clog, only it is looser and lighter to one man than another; and he is more at ease who takes it up than he who drags it.

Character is made up of little things, and it is only through watchfulness over the details of right and wrong that we can hope to build it into fair or enduring proportions.

Hard work hurts no one; it would not, perhaps be saying too much to assert that those who have lived what are called "busy" lives have kept the vital spark longest aglow.

Men and women, to lead worthy lives, must have a just respect for themselves and a just respect for others Whatever tends to realize and to strengthen these promotes human welfare.

No way has been found for making heroism easy, even for the scholar. Labor, iron labor, is for him. The world was created as an audience for him; the atoms of which it is made are opportunities.

Our homes are like instruments of music. The strings that give melody or discord, are the members. If each is rightly attuned, they will all vibrate in harmony; but a single discordant string destroys the sweetness.

Who can tell the value of a smile? It costs the giver nothing, but is beyond price to the erring and relenting, the sad and cheerless the lost and forsaken. It disarms malice, subdues temper, turns hatred to love, revenge to kindness, and paves the darkest paths with gems of sunlight.

It is the triumph of civilization that at last communities have obtained such a mastery over natural laws that they drive them and control them. The winds, the water, electricity, all agents that in their wild form were dangerous, are controlled by human will, and are made useful servants.

Ruined by Watermelons.

"This year has taught me a sad experience in the watermelon business," he remarked, as the boat left Memphis.

"Have you been shipping?" asked the tourist from Ohio.

Not a ship. I live over thar on the Arkansaw bottoms. I heard so much about the watermelon bizness—the profit which could be made—that I planted a hull side hill last spring. It was a bad move."

"Didn't the seed come up?"

"Come right up as if somebody had a rope and tackle on 'em."

"And the melons grew?"

"Growed up like a mud-hole in wet weather. That was the trouble—they growed too large."

"Couldn't be handled?"

"Not without the help of two niggers and a yoke o' steers, and that was too expensive. When you get an eight-hundred pound watermelon on a side-hill you've got to leave it thar. The steamboats won't handle 'em if you git 'em down to the landing."

"You don't tell me that you had melons weighing eight hundred pounds?"

"Oh! those were only the little ones. The big ones cum nigher a ton. I hadn't no scales, but all my neighbors are mighty peart on guessing."

"And what became of them?"

"That's what occasions my grief, stranger. Them melons threatened to roll down and do me damage. I drew logs to prop 'em up, and I started for town to get some dynamite to blow some of the biggest to pieces. While I was gone the calamity took place. You see before you a ruined man."

"Wh—what calamity?" gasped the tourist.

"Why, them 'ere melons broke loose and rushed down hill in a body. House, barn, corn-cribs, and orchard were clean swept away."

"You don't say!"

"I'm serious, stranger—very serious. I might have recovered from that, perhaps; but one 'o them melons rolled into the creek, dammed up the water, and the inundashun carried the sile off my farm clean down to the rocks. There wasn't nuff dirt left on 120 acres to put in your eye."

"Well, that is tough, and I pity you."

"Don't stranger—don't talk to me that way! I kin face hurricanes, cyclones, airthquakes, and sich as brave as a lion; but when anybody pities me—when soft words of sympathy are shot into my soul by a total stranger—it breaks me down, and I have to shed the childish tear. Stranger, excuse me while I cry real hard."

The Ohio man considerately withdrew from that sacred spot, and the watermelon man wrestled with a broken heart.

It has been shown that the odoriferous molecule of musk is infinitesimally small. No power has yet been conceived to enable the human eye to see one of the atoms of musk, yet the organs of smell have the sensitiveness to detect them. Their smallness cannot even be imagined, and the same grain of musk undergoes absolutely no diminution in weight. A single drop of the oil of thyme, ground down with a piece of sugar and a little alcohol, will communicate its odor to 25 gallons of water. Haller kept for 40 years papers perfumed with one grain of ambergris. After this time the odor was as strong as ever. Bordenave has evaluated a molecule of camphor sensible to the smell to 2,262,584,000th of a grain. Boyle has observed that one drachm of assafœtida exposed to the open air had lost in six days the eighth part of a grain, from which Keill concludes that in one minute it had lost 1,69,[illegible]th of a grain.

A Druggist's Revelations.

He was handling some mysterious little parcels at the toilet counter of a fashionable drug store. "I'll trouble you to send it to my quarters, if you don't mind. You'll send it early? Ah, thanks, awfully!" Then with a few languid strides he carried himself to the door and strolled down the street throwing his heavy horn handled cane right across his path at every step, then dexterously jerking it away just in time to let himself by.

"Vanilla cream," said a newspaper man, tossing a nickel on the marble in front of the soda fountain. The druggist looked amused as he drew the water, and stood smiling at the scribe as he disposed of it. "What is it?" asked the scribe.

"A dude," was the reply.

"Oh I thought it was something the matter with the water," and the reporter finished his glass freed of awful suspicion.

"He's one of 'em," continued the druggist.

"Ah!"

"What do you think he buys? You could not guess." Then he bent over and whispered in the scribe's ear.

"What?"

"Rouge. Yes, rouge, for the cheeks and lips, and face powder, too, and he wears corsets," replied the druggists in a hoarse whisper. Then he proceeded to let out some astonishing secrets. "There are lots of them in the city, more than anywhere I have been, and I have stood in a drug store in most of the large cities. We sell more cosmetics, to men here than to women. Comparatively few women in Washington paint and most of them have good complexions. It's the men. They buy all the fancy French powders and paints, color their cheeks and lips, and pencil their brows. I could stand at the door a few minutes with you and point out any number who do all this, and you can see for yourself, if you take the trouble to notice, that they all wear corsets. You didn't know that? Pshaw; it's a common thing among these fellows, who don't have anything to do but fix themselves up to please silly girls."

"But what kind of fellows are they?" asked the scribe, becoming interested in the new discovery.

They are mostly young men whose fathers have had some money and then died and left them to spend it. Then there are the are the—" Here his voice sank to a whisper.

"Do you mean to say—"

"No, no; I wouldn't tell anybody for the world," broke in the druggist. "I only imply it—that's the word. Of course its only the young ones None of the men who have ease in service would do such a thing. But you know some of these young fellows who are on duty here and spend their time in ladies' society get very effeminate. I suppose if we should have war they would get over it or resign. Don't mention it, please—' Then the druggist became more confidential. "But they use lots of powder," and then he laughed at his own joke.

"Yes," he continued, "it is sad to see how men use cosmetics. They seem to care more about looking pretty than girls do. Why, the girls themselves get ashamed of it, and declare they are disgusted and will depend upon long walks, cold water and flannel for their complexions, and will stop using powder of any kind. There are lots of them who never use a bit, and there's where they are sensible. The best thing for the complexion is exercise and flannel underwear. Flannel stimulates the skin brings about a healthy action of the blood, which is essential for delicacy and clearness of tint. Frequently those who have the best complexions bother about it most."

"The Proper Study of Mankind is Man," says the illustrious Pope. If he had included woman in the list, he would have been nearer the truth, if not so poetical. Dr. R. V. Pierce has made them both a life study, especially woman, and the peculiar derangements to which her delicate system is liable. Many women in the land who are acquainted with Dr. Pierce only through his "Favorite Prescription," bless him with all their hearts, for he has brought them the panacea for all those chronic ailments peculiar to their sex; such as leucorrhœa, prolapsus, and other displacements, ulceration, "internal fever,' bloating, tendency to internal cancer, and other ailments. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

Hounds' heads are shown for umbrella handles.

We guarantee the speedy, painless and permanent cure without knife, caustic or salve, of the largest pile tumors. Pamphlet and references sent for two letter stamps, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Grasshoppers and ants are the latest fancy for brooches. Some lace pins are simply a black enamel ant carrying its egg, a single pearl, by its antennæ. The effect is singularly realistic, the industrious insect being just life size.

Blowing Up Hell Gate

has been a laborious and costly work, but the end justifies the effort. Obstruction in any important channel means disaster. Obstructions in the organs of the human body bring inevitable disease. They must be cleared away or physical wreck will follow. Keep the liver in order, and the pure blood courses through the body, conveying health, strength and life; let it become disordered and the channels are clogged with impurities, which result in disease and death. No other medicine equals Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" for acting upon the liver and purifying the blood.

If you want to know how small a man is, give him an office or let him become suddenly wealthy.

IMPERIAL COUGH DROPS will give Positive and Instant Relief to those suffering from Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, etc., and are invaluable to orators and vocalists. For sale by druggists and confectioners. R. & T. WATSON, Manufacturers, Toronto.

The latest in ladies' watches is a larger size than those of last year, and studded with diamonds.

It is the testimony of all men who have tried it that "Myrtle Navy" tobacco has the most delicious flavor of any tobacco in the market, and that it leaves none of the unpleasant effects in the mouth which most tobaccos do. The reason for this is the high class quality of the leaf, which is the finest known in Virginia, and the freedom of all deleterious matter in the manufacture.

Prevention Better Than Cue.

Many of the diseases so prevalent in these days are caused by using soap containing impure and infectious matter. Avoid all risk by using PERFECTION Laundry Soap, which is absolutely pure. Ask your grocer for PERFECTION. Manufactured only by the Toronto Soap Co.

Some people are always finding fault with Nature for putting thorns on roses; I always thank her for having put roses on thorns.

£100,000,000 IN THE BRITISH COURT OF CHANCERY!—A large part of this vast sum belongs to the people of America. COX & Co., 41, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, London, Eng., have just published a LIST of the heirs to this enormous wealth Reader, send a dollar and they will forward you this valuable LIST; and if you find by it that you are entitled to any money or property, claim your own. COX & Co. will show you the way.

A.P. 250.

FARMS FOR SALE.—All kinds.—Send for list. JOHN J. DALEY, Guelph.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
IMPERIAL FRENCH SHOE BLACKING

WILL SOME RESPONSIBLE SALESMAN (or lady) who considers himself worth $100 a month write to W. K. BOWERMAN, Brantford.

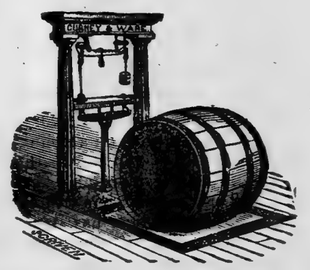
PURE BRED AYRSHIRES for sale, two cows, two yearling heifers and one bull. Write for description, price and pedigree to G. F. RANKE, Trafalgar.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—100 acres 84 miles east of the city of St. Thomas. For particulars address J. J. Lewis, New Sarum, Ont.

It is considered by all that the DOMINION BUSINESS COLLEGE, Kingston, is deservedly the most popular business training school in Canada.

MACHINERY FOR SALE—ENGINES AND Boilers, Saw and Shingle Mills, Planing Factory Outfits, Stove and Heating Machines, water wheels, Chopping Mills, etc. Send for descriptive catalogue and mention what you want. (Mention this paper). H. W. PETRIE, Brantford, Ont.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
Clapperton's Spool Cotton!
Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.



WATER STAR AUGUR $30 Per Day WELL BORING
has no superior; 20 feet per hour; hand or horse-power; combined boring and rock drilling machine's grand success; first prizes and diplomas. Send for Catalogue.
65 Mary Street, Hamilton, Canada.

JAMES PARK & SON,
Pork Packers, Toronto.
L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tubs and Pails The Best Brands of English Flax Dairy Salt in Stock.

The Eagle Steam Washer is the only Washing Machine warranted that a weakly woman or girl 14 years old, without the use of a washboard, can wash clean with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent for trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear on clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in 30, bedclothes 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., patentees and Manufacturers, 78 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada

TRY PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER
PURE GOLD MANUFACTURING CO., 18 FRONT ST. EAST, Toronto.

Coleman's Improved Plough Harness
Adapted to Orchard Work.
No whiffletrees to injure trees. Easy on man and team. Working qualities guaranteed. Money refunded if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Price, $10 without collars and bridles
DEWEY & CO.,
COLBORNE, ONT.

GURNEY & WARE'S
STANDARD SCALES

Are the Best, Attested by the Fact that there are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' & Butchers' Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.
Housekeepers, Consult Your Best Interests
By purchasing a scale, and in buying one be sure to get the best. Our scales are fully warranted in every particular. All sizes Railroad, Warehouse and Mill Trucks. Alarm Money Drawers.
For sale by the Hardware Trade generally. Illustrated Catalogue and Price List forwarded upon application.
GURNEY & WARE
HAMILTON
Warehouses—Montreal and Winnipeg.

The Standard.

MARKDALE OCTOBER 22, 1885

PISCATORIAL.

Some eight years ago Mr. Wilmott, of the Canadian Fisheries Department, deposited some ten thousand salmon trout ova in the Rocky Saugeen, near this town. Since that time no trace of the expected fry has been discovered, and occasionally we have heard speculations as to the fate of the deposit, the general opinion being that the ova had been destroyed by the speckled trout. Last summer, however, a salmon trout, weighing over five pounds, was caught in the Rocky, near Chaffey's Mills, some eight miles down the river; and two years ago another one was caught in a tributary rivulet near the same place, weighing about three pounds. This is satisfactory, as there is no better hatching ground than this branch of the Saugeen, being entirely free from the vermin which prey upon fish ova in other waters.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

To the Editor of the Standard.

Warkada, Sept 27th, 1885.

DEAR SIR,—Since I last wrote you I have been over the greater part of the North-West territory. During the rebellion, which had'nt either a pleasant sight or sound, I had the pleasure, if you might term it that, of being in four battles, and between the cracking sound of the gatling and rifles and the deafening bang of the cannons, it would almost take one's senses away. The cries and moans of the wounded and dying were heart-rending. The hair would almost stand on my head when one of my comrades would roll over dead. They didn't have to drop, for they fought lying or kneeling behind some kind of defence. Just then I would take courage and fire again. I tried to kill two rebels, so that if I had been called away there would have been one for me and one to the good. There is a very large number of Indians in the N. W. T., and when dressed for war they present a very wild appearance, and in their war dance they make more noise than a thousand excited geese, the gibberage being much the same. Their mode of living is very rough, their bread being made of flour and water and often shorts and water baked in the ashes, their meat being mostly fish and birds, which they kill, and keep them till they get good and stale before using. When out, I was in Prince Albert, Battleford, Fort Pitt, Victoria, Fort Saskatchewan and Edmonton, all of which have very nice town sites. Prince Albert, Battleford and Edmonton are very nice towns the rest being only a few houses collected together. I guess my letter is growing long, so I will just say that my opinion of the land in the N. W. T., for farming, is a very small one. I think that it would be well named if the initials were used in other words, viz., "Not Worth Taking." Harvest is over in these parts. The grain is an average yield. Threshing will commence next week with straw burning steam engines. More anon.

JAMES A. ROWE.

Williamsford.

From a Correspondent.

We have a little unfavorable weather here just now, on account of a woodpile falling on our weather prophet, and leaving him in a bad condition to go out to order fine weather.

A new saddler has struck this town and is going to open up shop to-day.

J. Spears will soon have his new house and stable complete.

T. Williscroft is going around again apparently quite well.

J. Gauley has opened up a boot & shoe shop in this village.

Our cattle fair here on Saturday was a grand success. A large number of cattle were out and a goodly number sold.

The Green Bush Hotel has almost given up the business, and is fading fast.

ARE YOU MADE miserable by indigestion, Consumption, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 3

Flesherton.

From our own correspondent.

On Saturday last a team owned by Mr. Thomas Carruthers broke loose from where they were tied in this village and started to run, after a brief struggle one of the horses broke from the vehicle, a democrat, which the other at the same time was connected by one tug only. Before the animal was captured he turned the vehicle over twice, doing considerable damage to the box and seating.

The Sacrement of the Lords Supper was dispensed in the Presbyterian church here on Sabbath last. There was a large congregation present. Major Sutherland, of the Gospel Army, who labored here successfully some months ago, paid the village a flying visit on Monday last. The Major looks hale and hearty.

Mr. M. Richardson has secured the grain houses, formerly occupied by R. J. Sproule, Esq., at the Station and intends buying grain on this market this season. We think this is a step in the right direction. More buyers was what we wanted, and now with three other grain buyers on this market we have no doubt it will, as of old, be the leading market in this part of the country.

Meaford Road.

(From our correspondent.)

Mr. J. C. Buchanan has moved into his new brick house.

Mr. W. Gilbert has moved into the house just vacated by Mr. Buchanan.

There is a rumor to the effect that the Vandeleur blacksmith shop and premises are about to be occupied by a resident of Kimberley. Let us hope that it will not turn out a mere rumor.

Quite an improvement has been affected in connection with the Wesley church premises. The shed has been thoroughly repaired and the grounds stoned and levelled.

Harvest operations for this year were finished last week. Better late than never.

SAD AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—The only son, aged two years, of Mr. O. Irwin, fell into a pail of boiling water last week and was so badly scalded that, after enduring intense suffering for two days, death at last put an end to its misery. The parents have the sympathy of the entire neighborhood.

Artemesia Prize List.

CLASS 1.—HORSES.

Span Draught Horses—Daniel McDonald, Donald McMillen.
Span General Purpose Horses—George Dinwoody, Alex. McMillen.
Span Carriage Horses—W. J. McNea, John Beatham.
Lady driver—Miss Nea, Miss Stewart.
Hack Horse—George Hawk, M. Bolger.
Brood Mare—C. McKinnon, J. Gowland.
2 year old Gelding or Filly—G. Binnie, Daniel McDonald.
1 year old Gelding or Filly—D. McLeod.
Spring Colt—G. Bennie, C. McKinnon.
Saddle Horse—Alex. Stewart, W. Trimble.

CLASS 2.—CATTLE.

Durham Bull—R. Plantt.
Devon Bull—R. Oliver, R. Oliver.
Devon Cow—R. Oliver, R. Oliver.
Ayrshire Bull—A. Cairns.
Ayrshire Cow—A. Cairns.
Grade milch Cow—James Stewart, Thos. Ferguson.
2 year old Heifer—Thos. Ferguson, R. Oliver.
1 year old Heifer—M. Reily, A. McMillen.
Heifer Calf—James Stewart, T. Ferguson.
Yoke of Oxen—John McLean, A McMillen.
3 year old Steer—John White, C. McKinnon.
2 year old Steer—R. Whittaker, R. Oliver.
1 year old Steer—D. Harrow.

CLASS 3.—SHEEP.

Long wool aged Ram—G. Swanton, R. Oliver.
Ram Lamb—R. Oliver, R. Oliver.
Aged Ewes—G. Swanton, R. Oliver.
Shearling Ewes—R. Oliver, G. Swanton.
Ewe Lamb—G. Swanton, R. Oliver.
Leicester aged Ram—G. Stewart, J. Stewart.
Aged Ewes—R. Oliver, R. Oliver.
Shearling Ewes—J. Stewart, R. Oliver.
Ewe Lambs—J. Stewart.

CLASS 4.—SWINE.

Berkshire Boar—R. Oliver.
Berkshire Sow—G. Swanton, T. Ferguson.

CLASS 5.—POULTRY.

Pair of Game—T. Conkey.
Pair Hamburgs—W. McAuly, W. McAuly.
Pair Leghorns—W. Wilcock, W. Wilcock.
Plymoth Rocks—J. Fletcher, H. Mathewson.
Ducks—W. Cooey, A. Stewart.
Turkeys—T. Ferguson, W. Cooey.
Geese—J. Brodie, D. G. McLean.

CLASS 6.—GRAIN & SEEDS.

Fall Wheat Clawson—R. Plantt, C. McKinnon.
Other kind—D. McMillen, R. Plantt.
Spring Wheat White Russian—A. Stewart, J. Brodie.
White fife—J. Brodie, J. Stewart.
Other kind—J. Brodie.
Barley—J. Brodie, J. Stewart.
White Oats—J. Brodie, J. Stewart.
Black Oats—J. Brodie, D. McMillen.
Large Peas—J. Brodie, W. Cooey.
Small Peas—J. Stewart, J. Brodie.
6 ears Corn—H. Mathewson, T. Ferguson.
Timothy Seed—J. Brodie.
Collection Beans—J. Brodie, W. Cooey.

CLASS 7.—ROOTS.

Early Rose Potatoes—J. Simpson, D. McMillen.
Cup Potatoes—A. McMillen, J. Stewart.
Other kind—J. Brodie, D. McMillen.
Collection Potatoes—J. Stewart, D. McMillen.
Sweed Turnips—D. McMillen, R. Oliver.
Other Turnips—R. Oliver.
Mangolds—W. McAuly, H. Mathewson.
Beets—W. Cooey, J. Brodie.
Cabbage—J. Brodie, J. Watson.
Potato Onions—J. Brodie, T. Ferguson.
Top Onions—W. Wilcock, W. McAuly.
Parsnips—W. McAuly, J. Brodie.
Field Carrots—J. Aussum, W. McAuly.
Table Carrots—J. White, J. Aussum.
Pumpkins—T. Conkey, W. Watson.
Squash—H. Mathewson.
Celery—R. Oliver, W. Barnhouse.
Citrons—R. Plantt, W. Watson.
Tomatoes—T. Ferguson, W. Wilcock.

CLASS 8.—FRUIT.

Winter Apples—W. J. McNea, R. Plantt.
Fall Apples—J. Stewart, W. J. McNea.
Variety Apples—J. Brodie, J. Stewart.
Crab Apples—J. Fletcher, T. Ferguson.
Plums—E. Plattt, J. Brodie.
Pears—J. Brodie.

CLASS 9.—FLOWERS.

Hand Bouquet—Miss Brodie, Mrs. Bentham.
Table Bouquet—Miss Brodie, Mrs. Bentham.

CLASS 10—DAIRY AND OTHER PRODUCE.

Honey—W. Watson.
10 lbs Roll Butter—D. Harrow, H. King.
50 lbs tub Butter—H. King, J. White.

CLASS 11.—MANUFACTURES.

Horse Shoes—J. McRae, D. G. McLean.
Iron Harrows—J. H. Campaign, D. G. McLean.
Mens Boots——T. Conkey, Dougald McLean.
Womens Boots—W. Barnhouse, T. Conkey.
Full Cloth—A. McMillen, D. McMillen.
Plain Flannel—J. Simpson, A. McMillen.

CLASS 12.—LADIES WORK.

Mens Socks—Mrs. Wilcock, Miss Stewart.
Mitts—Mrs. A. McLeod, Miss Stewart.
Gloves—Miss White, Miss Brodie.
Patchwork Quilt—Mrs. J. H. Campaign, Mrs. J. Brodie.
Quilt other kind—Mrs J. H. Campaigne, Mrs. J. Brodie.
Bread—Mrs. H. Mathewson, Mrs. D. Harrow.
Berlin wool work raised—Mrs. W. Wilcock, Mrs. W. Watson.
Collection berlin wool work—Mrs. W. Trimble, Mrs. T. Ferguson.
Hair Flowers—Mrs. W. Hooper.
Hooked Mat—Mrs. W. Trimble, Mrs. H. King.
Crotchet Work in Cotton—Mrs. H. King, Mrs. H. Mathewson.
Crotchet Work in wool—Mrs. D. Harrow, Miss Stewart.
Fancy Knitting in wool—Miss M. Brodie.
Fancy Knitting in Cotton—Miss Brodie, Mrs. W. Hooper.
Brading in Cotton—Mrs. D. Harrow, Mrs. H. Mathewson.
Tatting in Cotton—Mrs. J. Fletcher.

CHOLERA PREVENTATIVE.

In order to withstand Cholera and such like epidemics a perfect purity of blood, and the proper action of the stomach are required. To insure that end, in the cheapest, most available and complete manner, use McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, and Impure Blood. There is no purer, safer or more reliable remedy in existence for indigestion, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, etc. Ask your neighbor or any person who has used it. Sold by Hill Bro's. Trial bottle given free. 1

WHY EMPLOY DOCTORS.

Consult a doctor, for a 6 or 8 oz. bottle of medicine $1—consult A. Turner & Co. and he will give you a 12 oz. bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure for $1, and a valuable Recipe Book free. Nov.

CONSTIPATION.

This evil habit neglected, brings a multitude of miseries, and is the source of much illness. Burdock Blood Bitters cures Constipation by toning and regulating the Bowels to a natural action.

Notices of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, twenty five cents.

BIRTHS.

BUSKIN—In Euphrasia, on the 16th inst., the wife of Mr. John Buskin, of a daughter.

WATSON—At Mt. Pleasant, Holland, on the 15th inst., the wife of Mr. John Watson, of a son.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 75	to	$0 80
Spring Wheat	0 70	to	0 85
Barley	35	to	55
Peas	48	to	52
Oats	25	to	27
Butter	10	to	12½
Eggs	14	to	60
Apples	25	to	40
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	$ 80	to	$ 00
Pork	5 00	to	5 50
Flour	3 90	to	4 25
Wool	17	to	20

TO THE PUBLIC.

We have opened a SHOEMAKER SHOP in connection with our business, under the management of Mr. Kay, well known as a superior workman, and purpose turning out a class of goods of unsurpassed excellence at prices which cannot be beaten.

Repairing Done Neatly, Cheaply & Expeditiously

We continue to sell our genuine Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes, &c., &c., at figures which astonish the shoddy men who make such loud "blowing."

GIVE US A TRIAL.

☞ N. B.—Salt only 70 cents per barrel.

WM. BROWN & CO.

Markdale, October 20, 1885.

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE

Office & Infirmary: SYDENHAM ST., Opposite Markdale House, MARKDALE.

Stoves! Stoves!

Cook Stoves, $16.50 Trimmed Parlor Stoves, Coal Stoves, Box Stoves, All equally low.

Hardware, Lance tooth Saws, Buck Saws, Hand Saws, Axes, Nails, Glass, Putty &c. At bottom prices.

☞ Intending purchasers will do well to give us a call as we cannot be undersold.

WALKER BRO'S,

3m MARKDALE.

SavE MoneY

By buying your

Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Spectacles, Pipes, &c.

—AT—

JAS. G. RUSSELL'S

FLESHERTON.

A Beautiful Stock to Select from.

☞ It is a fact, as every one says, that RUSSELL is the man to repair your Watch or Clock properly.

GIVE HIM A TRIAL.

Every job warranted to give satisfaction.

JAS. G. RUSSELL.

217-269

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 20, con. 10, Euphrasia, nine miles from the flourishing village of Markdale, and one lot from Post Office. This farm is well watered, solid clay loam, contains 100 acres 45 of which is cleared and under cultivation and the balance fine hardwood timber, also a frame barn 36 x 56 thereon. Terms easy, for particulars apply to

THOS. MUXLOW,
Geeing P. O.
Adjoining the premises.

263-72

MARVELOUS.

One dose of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure will cure Sick Headache, Dizziness, and Sour Stomach. 1 to 2 bottles are warranted to cure Liver Complaint, Indigestion and Biliousness. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Oct

FARM FOR SALE

THAT excellent farm in the township of Artemesia, Co. of Grey, known as Lot Royal, lots 117 and 118, con. 2, north-east Toronto and Sydenham Gravel Road, containing 100 acres, 80 acres cleared and in first-class state of cultivation, well fenced, 10 acre fields and a lane through the centre, 20 acres good hardwood bush, large frame barn and good stabling, frame driving house and good frame dwelling house, never failing well, good orchard, 14 acres fall wheat. The farm is 3½ miles from the thriving village of Markdale and 5½ miles from Flesherton. For further particulars apply on the premises, or by letter to

A. NODWELL,
Markdale P. O., Ont.

264-67*

LADIES ONLY.

The complexion is often rendered unsightly by Pimples, Liver Spots and Yellowness. These it is well known are caused from an inactive Liver and bad blood. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure purifies the blood and the whole system. See Recipe Book for toilet recipes, hints and suggestions on how to preserve the complexion. Oct

Sold by A. Turner & Co.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan, Elevator, Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

Glenelg Council.

Council met in the Town Hall, Glenelg, Sept. 28, 1885, pursuant to adjournment. All the members present; the Reeve in the chair. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. McCuaig, that Felix McGrogan be paid $10.25 for work on townline between Glenelg and Artemesia, and Wm. Mullah $9.75 for work at same place.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Dunsmore, seconded by Mr. Neil, that the following accounts be paid, viz.:—M. Cameron, ploughing at lot 8, con. 1, E. G. R., $7; Neil McDonald, building culvert at lot 20, con. 1, $4; W. Morrison, building culvert at lot 35, con. 2, $11; A. McMillie, culvert and filling at lot 16, con. 1, $12.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. Neil, that Norman McDougald be paid $6.50 for repairing bridge on townline at lot 50, con. 3, S. D. R.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. Dunsmore, that the clerk be instructed to write to Co. Treasurer to erase the arrears of taxes against lot 26, con. 8, the same having been paid in error.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that the Treasurer be instructed to re-insure Township Hall and Stables.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Dunsmore, seconded by Mr. Neil, that John Cameron, Durham, agent for Mr. McGill of Chatsworth, be paid $18 for two steel road scrapers.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. Dunsmore, that C. L. Grant be paid $1.25 for pair boots for Mrs. Anderson, an indigent.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil seconded by Mr. Dunsmore, that $5 be granted to Mrs McIsaac to assist in paying for her husband's coffin.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. Neil, that the Clerk be instructed to get printed bonds for Road Commissioners to bind parties taking road jobs, for the faithful fulfilment of contracts.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Dunsmore, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that the Clerk be paid $2.51, postage and stationery from June 15th to Sept. 28th.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that N. G. Dunsmore and P. Neil be paid $5 each for three days, letting and inspecting road jobs.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Dunsmore, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that the Clerk be paid $15 for placing the rates for the several school sections in the municipality on collector's roll.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. Neil, that the clerk note on the minutes $5 returned by Alexander Bell, being the amount of charity grant to Robert Bell.—Carried.

Council adjourned till Dec. 14th.

J. S. BLACK,
Clerk.

BILIOUSNESS.

When the Liver does not act promptly the bile accumulates to excess in the blood, causing yellow eyes sallow akin, sick stomach, diarrhœa, etc., and the sufferer is termed bilious. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the Liver, Stomach, Bowels and Blood, curing Biliousness.

Holland Council.

Council met at Holland Centre, Oct. 7th, 1885, for the transaction of business. Members all present; Reeve in the chair. Minutes of former meeting read and approved.

A letter from the solicitor of the C. R. regarding appeal to the County Judge was read; no action taken.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Shute, that we pay Wm. Norton for putting up notices and letting the Bruce Bridge, $4, as we consider the amount sufficient for the amount of work done.

Moved by Deputy-Reeve, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that the Clerk write Trust & Loan Society with reference to Shea's deviation.

Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Galbraith, that the Clerk notify Mr. Crouse to remove obstructions out of stream opposite pound otherwise steps will be taken to remove the same at his expense.

Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that we adjourn till the 14th Dec., 1885.

CARSON PRICE,
Clerk.

A WARNING.—Every time Hagyard's Yellow Oil is used for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Aches and Pains, Sore Throat or Deafness, Frost Bites or Burns, a certain victory is gained.

Osprey Prize List.

Class 1.—Horses.

Draught team—D McInnis, D McDonald.
General purpose team—Jas Thomson, H McDonald.
Carriage team—J A Livingston, Isaac Hamilton.
Brood mare—Wm Gallop, D McDonald.
Single driver—A McIntyre, Wm Sproule.
Saddle horse—Chas Tupling, Jas Alliston.
2 year colt—A Kinney, J Kerton.
1 year colt—J Hudson, Wm Brewster.
Spring colt—A Kinney, D McIntyre.
2 year roadster—Wm Hamilton, Josiah Gamey.
1 year roadster—S Taylor, Wm Arnott.
Spring roadster—D Madill.
2 year old draught—Wm Hollingshead, Hector Bell.
1 yr draught—D McIntyre, Wm Brewster.
Spring draught—Wm Gallop, D McDonald

Class 2.—Cattle.

Bred bull—J Hudson, J Speers.
Bred cow—J Todd, Wm Pearson.
Grade cow—Wm Pearson 1st & 2nd.
Working oxen—A Kinney, J Speers.
2 year heifer—Wm Sproule, Wm Inkster.
1 year heifer—Wm Pearson, Wm Milne.
Spring heifer—Wm Pearson, Wm Inkster.
Grade bull—R Lunow.

Class 3.—Sheep.

Aged ram—R Heron, Wm Inkster.
Shearling ram—Wm Sproule.
Ram lamb—J Hudson, E McCallum.
Aged ewes—J Hudson, Wm Milne.
Ewe lambs—Wm Milne 1st & 2nd.

Class 4.—Swine.

Aged sow—E McCallum.
Spring boar—Isaac Hamilton
Spring sow—Thos Maxwell 1st & 2nd.

Class 5.—Poultry.

White Leghorn—Wm Guy.
Plymoth Rock—H McDonald, Wm Guy.
Hamburg—M Morrison.
Black Spanish—Wm Hamilton.
Brahma—Wm Hamilton.
Pair Geese—Wm Hamilton 1st & 2nd.

Class 6.—Grain & Seeds.

Fall wheat—J Hudson, Thos Scott.
Spring wheat—Jas Brownlee.
Barley—J Hudson.
Black oats—J Hudson 1st & 2nd.
White oats—Thos Scott, A McIntyre.
Peas—Thos Saidgeon, Wm Inkster.
Timothy seed—J Hickling.
Flax seed—J Taylor.

Class 7.—Roots.

Aberdeen turnips—J McKinnon, E McCallum.
Sweed turnips—S Taylor, R Maxwell.
Potatoes any kind—M Morrison, J Taylor.
Potato onions—R Y Burk, Wm Hamilton.
Seed onions—R Y Burk, H McDonald.
Top onions—R Y Burk.
Blood beets—R McCallum, H McDonald.
Cabbages—H McDonald, R Y Burk.
Ears corn—J Hamilton, J Taylor.
Citrons—J Thomson.
Pumpkins—J Taylor.
Squash—J Taylor.
Mangolds—J McKinnon.
White carrots—J McGuire, D McDonald.
Orange carrots—Wm Hamilton, H McDonald.
Parsnips—J Taylor, Wm Hamilton.
Celery—R Y Burk, J Gamey.
Tomatoes—R Y Burk, J Gamey.

Class 8.—Fruit.

Dos apples—Wm Arnott, Wm Milne.
Assortment of fruit—J Taylor, J Kerton.

Class 9.—Manufactures.

Farmers waggon—Norval & Vodden, 1st & 2nd.
Democrat waggon—Norval & Vodden.
Covered buggy—Norval & Vodden.
Set harrows—J Little, 1st & 2nd.
Set harness—J Govier.
Pair boots—D Holman, 1st & 2nd.
Satinett—Wm Pearson, 1st & 2nd.
Full cloth—R Heron, Wm Pearson.
Flannel—Wm Pearson, R Heron.
Pair blankets—R Heron, Wm Pearson.
Maple Sugar—Wm Hamilton.

Class 10.—Dairy & Other Produce.

Cheese—Thos Scott
Butter—Mrs A McIntyre, Mrs Wm Sproule, Mrs J Verton.

Class 11.—Ladies Work.

Patch quilt—Mrs J Taylor, Mrs J Little.
Quilt any other kind—Mrs R Y Burk.
Pair socks—Mrs J Little, 1st & 2nd.
Pair mitts—Miss Inkster, Mrs Wm Hamilton.
Berlin wool—Mrs J Taylor.
Knitting—Mrs J Little.
Braiding—Miss Madill.
Embroidery—Mrs J Hickling.
Tatting—Mrs J Hickling.
Hearth rug—Miss Madill.
Mottos—Mrs J McKinnon.
Mat—Miss Inkster.
Pillow sham—Mrs R Y Burk.

Special Prizes.

By D Madill, one year colt,—Wm Arnott, 1st & 2nd.
Spring colt—D Madill, 1st & 2nd.
Fanning mill—J M Davis.

Extra.

Pair rabbits—R Fenwick.
Pair pidgeons—R Fenwick.

PUBLIC.

ER SHOP in connection
gement of Mr. Kay, well
d purpose turning out a cellence at prices which ply & Expeditiously.

Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes
sh the shoddy men who

TRIAL.

cents per barrel.

BROWN & CO.

265-4

N, V. S.,

Veterinary College.

Horses Examined

For Soundness and Certificates Given.

KEPT & DISPENSED

CHARGES MODERATE.

House, MARKDALE.

Stoves!

Hardware,
Lance tooth Saws,
Buck Saws,
Hand Saws,
Axes, Nails,
Glass, Putty &c.
At bottom prices.

o well to give us a call as

R BRO'S,

MARKDALE.

ARM FOR SALE.

AT excellent farm in the township of Artemesia, Co. of Grey, known as Mount lots 117 and 118, con. 2, north-east to and Sydenham Gravel Road, containing 100 acres, 80 acres cleared and in a state of cultivation, well fenced fields and a lane through the centre, good hardwood bush, large frame and good stabling, frame driving house, good frame dwelling house, never failing good orchard, 14 acres fall wheat. The 3½ miles from the thriving village of dale and 5½ miles from Flesherton. For particulars apply on the premises, or to

A. NODWELL,
Markdale P. O., Ont.

LADIES ONLY.

complexion is often rendered tly by Pimples, Liver Spots, Yellowness. These it is well are caused from an inactive and bad blood. Dr. Chase's Cure purifies the blood and system. See Recipe Book for let recipes, hints and suggestions w to preserve the complexion by A. Turner & Co. Oct.

IMPORTANT.

en you visit or leave New York City, aggage Express and Carriage hire and the Grand Union Hotel, opposite rand Central Depot. Elegant rooms up at a cost of one million dollars, at $1.00 and upwards per day. eau plan, Elevator, Restaurant supplied he best. Horse cars, stages and elevated road to all depots. Families can live for less money at the Grand Union than at any other first class hotel in y.

Glenelg Council.

Council met in the Town Hall, Glenelg, Sept. 28, 1885, pursuant to adjournment. All the members present; the Reeve in the chair. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. McCuaig, that Felix McGrogan be paid $10.25 for work on townline Glenelg and Artemesia, and Wm. Welsh $9.75 for work at same place.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Dunsmore, seconded by Mr. Neil, that the following amounts be paid, viz.:—M. Cameron, ditching at lot 8, con. 1, E. G. R., $7; Neil McDonald, building culvert at lot , con. 1, $4; W. Morrison, building culvert at lot 35, con. 2, $11; A. McKechnie, culvert and filling at lot 16, con. 1, $12.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. Neil, that Norman McDougald be paid $6.50 for repairing bridge on sideline at lot 50, con. 3, S. D. R.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. Dunsmore, that the clerk be instructed to write to Co. Treasurer to erase the arrears of taxes against lot 26, con. 8, the same having been paid in work.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that the Treasurer be instructed to re-insure Township Hall and Stables.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Dunsmore, seconded by Mr. Neil, that John Cameron, Durham, agent for Mr. McGill of Chatsworth, be paid $18 for two steel road scrapers.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr Dunsmore, that C. L. Grant be paid $1.25 for pair boots for Mrs. Anderson, an indigent.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Neil seconded by Mr Dunsmore, that $5 be granted to Mrs McIsaac to assist in paying for her husband's coffin.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. Neil, that the Clerk be instructed to get printed bonds for Road Commissioners to bind parties taking road jobs, for the faithful fulfilment of contracts.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Dunsmore, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that the Clerk be paid $2.51, postage and stationery from June 15th to Sept. 28th.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that N. G. Dunsmore and P. Neil be paid $5 each for three days, letting and inspecting road jobs.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Dunsmore, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that the Clerk be paid $15 for placing the rates for the several school sections in the municipality on collector's roll.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McCuaig, seconded by Mr. Neil, that the clerk note on the minutes $5 returned by Alexander Bell, being the amount of charity grant to Robert Bell.—Carried.

Council adjourned till Dec. 14th.

J. S. BLACK,
Clerk.

BILIOUSNESS.

When the Liver does not act promptly the bile accumulates to excess in the blood, causing yellow eyes sallow skin, sick stomach, diarrhoea, etc., and the sufferer is termed Bilious. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the Liver, Stomach, Bowels and Blood, curing Biliousness.

Holland Council.

Council met at Holland Centre, Oct. 7th, 1885, for the transaction of business. Members all present; Reeve in the chair. Minutes of former meeting read and approved.

A letter from the solicitor of the C. P. R. regarding appeal to the County Judge was read; no action taken.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Shute, that we pay Wm. Norton for putting up notices and letting the Bruce Bridge, $4, as we consider the amount sufficient for the amount of work done.

Moved by Deputy-Reeve, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that the Clerk write Trust & Loan Society with regard to Shea's deviation.

Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Galbraith, that the Clerk notify Mr. Creuse to remove obstructions out of stream opposite pound otherwise steps will be taken to remove the same at his expense.

Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that we adjourn till the 14th Dec., 1885.

CARSON PRICE,
Clerk.

A VICTORY SCORED.—Every time when Hagyard's Yellow Oil is used for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Aches and Pains, Sore Throat or Deafness, Frost Bites or Burns, a certain victory is the natural result.

SELLING OUT!

SELLING OUT!

PRICES SLAUGHTERED!

Having fully decided to give up business in Markdale on Feb. 24th, 1886, that being the day on which my lease expires, I will offer at greatly reduced prices the whole of my very large and well assorted stock of General Goods, amounting in value to over "Twenty Thousand Dollars" ($20,000).

This is no humbug or advertising scheme. I am bound to sell out, and sell I will. No matter what other merchants may tell you, do not be humbuged by them. Don't you lay out even a ten cent piece until you have called and seen my stock and ascertained prices. I expect a tremendous rush for my goods during this fall and winter. I will make the prices right for you every time. Please call and see for yourself and be convinced that I will only sell you first-class goods at much lower prices than you can purchase the commoner goods for that are kept in other stores.

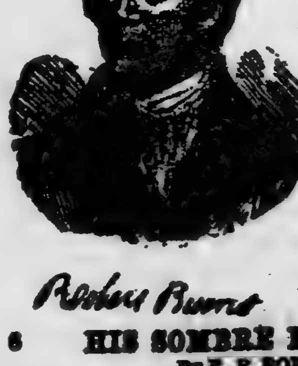
J. R. Trimble.

GRAND PREMIUMS

FOR TWO SUBSCRIBERS TO

The Weekly Mail

We have had a large number of letters from people who sent in Clubs last year and received the prize books, in which they say, "We had no idea that the prizes would be such good, well bound, valuable books. If your subscribers only knew what good value in prizes you were offering, there is not one of them who would not send in a club." This year we are offering a much more attractive and in every way better list of prizes.



Anyone sending in TWO Yearly Subscriptions to THE WEEKLY MAIL, at the regular rate of One Dollar a year each, will receive as a present a choice of one of the following valuable Books, which will be forwarded postage prepaid.

1 A WOMAN'S REASON
BY W. D. HOWELLS
Author of "A Chance Acquaintance," "Our Wedding Journey," etc., etc. 370 pages. Well printed on fine paper, and handsomely bound in extra cloth, black and gold.

2 BESSIE'S FORTUNE
BY MARY J. HOLMES
400 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with handsome stamps, black and gold.
A charming story by this ever popular authoress

3 QUEENIE HETHERTON
BY MARY J. HOLMES
411 pages. Bound in cloth extra and gold. One of the best stories ever published, with handsome designs.

4 WITHOUT A HOME
BY E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "A Young Girl's Wooing," etc., etc. 420 pages Handsomely bound in cloth.

5 A YOUNG GIRL'S WOOING
BY E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "Without a Home," etc. 358 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth in black and gold. A most entertaining and popular story and one which should be read by every member of the household.

6 HIS SOMBRE RIVALS
BY E. P. ROE
372 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth, in black and gold. This book has had an immense sale in the United States, and is one of the best efforts of this popular author.

7 THE EARL'S ATONEMENT
BY BERTHA M. CLAY
[illegible]

8 HAWORTH'S
BY FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT
Author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." 320 pages. Bound in cloth extra.

9 INFELICE
BY MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
Has deservedly won a splendid reputation. Her "St. Elmo" is a powerful picture of a bad man with latent traits of goodness, which are developed by the gentle influence of a pure woman. Her "Infelice" is a thrilling story of the stage, and shows a clear analysis of human nature.

10 ST. ELMO
BY MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
450 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with gold stamps.

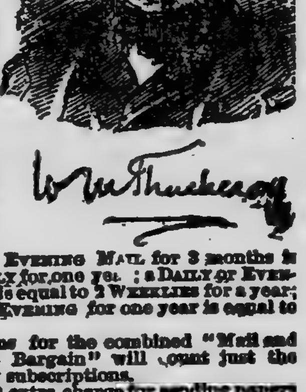
11 SPY OF THE REBELLION
BY ALLAN PINKERTON
A true story of the spy system of the United States army during the late rebellion; revealing many secrets of the war hitherto not made public. Compiled from official reports prepared for President Lincoln, General McClellan and Provost Marshal General, by Allan Pinkerton, who was Chief of the United States Secret Service. 380 pages. Illustrated.

12 COMMON SENSE IN THE HOUSEHOLD
BY MARION HARLAND
320 pages. Bound in oil-cloth. This is acknowledged by everyone to be the best, most complete, and easiest understood Cookery Book ever published. The directions are exact, and the quantities, qualities, times, etc., are given with such exactness, that success is certain to the housekeeper who uses it.

13 EVE'S DAUGHTERS
Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother, by Marion Harland, author of "Common Sense in the Household."
340 pages. In cloth binding, neat. A book that should be found in every household.

14 OUR DEPORTMENT
Or the manners, conduct and dress of the most refined society, including forms for letters, invitations, etc., etc. Also valuable suggestions on home culture and training. Compiled from the latest reliable authorities by John H. Young, A.M. 380 pages. Illustrated and handsomely bound extra cloth, with gold and black stamps.

15 FOUR GREAT PREACHERS
A collection of choice sermons by Spurgeon, Moody, Talmage and Beecher, with short biographical sketches of these celebrated divines. [illegible]



16 MOODY'S SELECT WORKS
BY D. L. MOODY
412 pages. With portrait of the evangelist. This is a collection of anecdotes and illustrations from Mr. Moody's Speeches and Sermons.

17 GETTING ON IN THE WORLD
BY WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
340 pages. Bound in cloth, in blue and gold. This is one of the most popular books, by a writer who combines knowledge with the ability to impart it in a most attractive form. There is no better book for a young man, in fact for any-one, to read than "Getting on in the World."

18 HOURS WITH MEN AND BOOKS
BY WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
352 pages. Bound in cloth, in green and gold. "Worth any day ten times its cost for the tenth part it contains." Full of useful information.

19 THE COTTAGE HEARTH
A large, finely printed monthly magazine, made up of attractive literature, pure in tone and illustrated. Its price is $1.50 a year. Anyone sending THREE yearly subscriptions to the WEEKLY MAIL at the regular rate of one dollar each will receive as a present the above capital magazine for one year. Specimen copies will be sent free on application to The Cottage Hearth Co., Boston, Mass., U.S.

RULES.

1.—The full prices of the papers subscribed for must in all cases accompany the order. The prices are WEEKLY MAIL, $1.00 a year, 60 cents for 6 months; DAILY MAIL, $7.00 a year, $3.50 for 6 months, $1.75 for 3 months; EVENING MAIL, $2.50 a year, $1.25 for 6 months, 65 cents for 3 months.

2.—In counting up your subscriptions to see how many prizes you are entitled to: A subscription to the DAILY or EVENING MAIL for 3 months is equal to a WEEKLY for one year; a DAILY or EVENING for 6 months is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year; and a DAILY or EVENING for one year is equal to 4 WEEKLIES.

3.—Subscriptions for the combined "Mail and Sewing Machine Bargain" will count just the same as ordinary subscriptions.

4.—There is NO extra charge for sending papers to Great Britain or the United States, and subscriptions for those points count as ordinary subscriptions.

5.—To entitle to a prize a club must consist of at least two subscribers, and as many more as possible; that is to say, the sending in of one subscription to the DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY MAIL would not entitle the sender to a prize, but a yearly subscription to both DAILY and WEEKLY, or several subscriptions to either one or both, will be all right.

6.—A subscription to THE MAIL for two years, with the money in advance, will count as two subscribers; or, a subscription for three years as three subscribers.

When this list is sent in to the MAIL office a new list will be sent containing a larger list of prizes.

These books are all handsomely bound in Cloth. They are by excellent authors, and will be welcome in any family.

Remember, we prepay all postage on the papers and on the books.

Send for specimen numbers and illustrated prize list to THE MAIL, Toronto, Canada.

The Canadian Pacific.

The Canadian Pacific railway is now an accomplished fact. From one shore of the continent to the other the iron road stretches across interminable plains, over magnificent ruins, through savage passes, and up mountain ranges that were unknown before the pioneers of the line made their memorable survey. From Winnipeg to Calgary the work was easy, but the line of the railway from Calgary to Kamloops must be regarded as one of the engineering triumphs of the world. For the first time in the history of men the passage of the Silkirk range has been made as easy as that over Salisbury Plain. The benefits of this great undertaking to Canada will be inestimable. British Columbia has now been joined to the sister States. New Westminister is within a week of Ottawa. The great timber supply of Puget Sound; the Columbia fisheries; the Alaska seal industries; the agricultural produce of Vancouver's Island have now a new and speedy outlet to the devouring East. The population there now fear no longer, in the same degree, their want of coast defences. Within seven days troops, and artillery, ammunition may reach them from military headquarters. Portions of Asia, too, may find this new space of civilization a shorter and cheaper route to European markets. The work is a great monument to humane skill, courage, and endurance. It is the greatest work yet accomplished by Canada, and we join hands with our brothers across the Atlantic in celebrating its completion.—London Echo.

SORE THROAT.

To cure this oft-occuring trouble use Hagyard's Yellow Oil internally and externally. Yellow Oil cures Croup, Asthma, Pain in the Side, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Ear Ache, Deafness and all sore and painful complaints.

Fell Between The Cars.

Last Wednesday 14th, a brakesman named Wm. Jones was walking along on top of the way freight going north at Orangeville junction, and fell between the cars to the track. Four cars and the van passed over him and cut his body in two. When his mangled form was picked up by his comrades a few moments afterward life was extinct. He was formerly a conducter on the Northern railway, and resided at Devenport, where he leaves a wife and small family to mourn his sudden demise. The remains were taken to that place the same evening.

HORSEMEN, ATTENTION!

When your horse is galled, scratched or cut, or has an ugly sore, bathe twice daily, and apply McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It is undoubtedly the finest healing and cleansing application for it. Be sure you get McGregor & Parke's. Sold for 25c. per box, at Hill Bro's. 1 RUPTURED AND DEFORMED people should not forget that CHAS. CLUTHE, the celebrated Surgical Machinist, of 118 King Street West, Toronto, will be found at the Markdale House, Monday, Oct. 26th. Mr. Chas. Cluthe has attained a wide spread reputation for the cure of Rupture and Deformities by Mechanical Treatment; and is known all over the Dominion as a man of very rare ability and skill. Few have mastered this difficult Profession as thoroughly as he has, and certainly none have attained public fame and confidence as rapidly. He deserves his success, so give him a call if you require anything in his line.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM.

Cures Throat, Bronchial and Lung Diseases that lead to Consumption; breaks up Coughs and Colds; cures Hoarseness and Sore Throat, by loosening the cough, allaying irritation and removing the cause of distress.

A PROFITABLE LIFE.

Few men have accomplished the same amount of work and good in this world as the celebrated Dr. Chas. Over 500,000 of his works have been sold in Canada alone We want every person troubled with Liver Complaint, Byspepsia, Headache, Kidney or Urinary Troubles, to call in at A. Turner & Co. and buy a bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, it will cure you. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Nov.

Monthly Fairs.

Orangeville—The second Thursday in each month.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.

Markdale—Saturday before Orangeville.

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.

Chatsworth—Monday before Durham.

YOUNG FOLKS.

Day-Dreams.

There were yellow heads in the mountain,
And yellow heads by the sea;
And now they are in the school-room,
As busy as they can be.

But the yellow heads from the mountains
Remember the dear old rocks;
And how they would climb and clamber
About with their "alpenstocks."

And the yellow heads from the seaside
Sit dreaming of sands and caves;
Of bright blue skies and of sunshine,
Of foam on the "white-cap" waves.

And its very hard to remember
The lessons they learned before,
When folks are dreaming of mountains,
And sands, and the dear seashore.

What Bertie and Lion Found.

"Where are you going, Bertie?" said Mrs. Wilbur, as her little daughter came into the kitchen one morning, with her hat on.—"Out into the woods," said Bertie.—"What for?" asked her mother, unconcernedly, for Bertie was in no danger of being lost, as she was perfectly acquainted with every part of the wood.—"I am going to hunt for a fairy," answered Bertie. "Don't you think, mamma, that if I should go very easy and look very carefully, I might find one asleep under a fern?"—"But said Mrs. Wilbur, "the fairies play all night and go home in the morning."—"Well," said Bertie, "you know one little girl fairy might be very tired, and lie down a minute to rest and go to sleep, and not wake up until it was noon."—"Very well, don't stay too long; and find a good fairy, for my little girl's playmates must be good" And Mrs. Wilbur went on with her work, soon forgetting all about Bertie and the wished-for fairy.—Bertha Wilbur was ten years old. She was the only child of educated and well-to-do parents; but although she lived very happily with papa and mamma, and had many advantages of books, pictures, music, etc., which are denied to many country children, she often felt very lonesome, and would wish for a little brother or sister to play with. The neighborhood in which Bertie lived was rather aristocratic and old, and there being no children in it, with the exception of Bertie, the two adjoining school districts had been united, so the nearest school was three miles away. On account of the distance, and because Mrs. Wilbur was very strict in regard to Bertie's choice of playmates, the little girl had never been to school and her parents had been her only teachers. But being an only child, she was more advanced in many things than most children of her age. She was a nice little reader, could write very well, and played the piano with some grace. But Bertie's favorite occupation was reading; and as she was furnished with a plenty of books suited to her age, she was seldom in the house without a story book in her hand. She was very fond of fairy stories, and had read a great many tales of sylphs and sprites. She had a large dog, with whom she had roamed over the fields and woods of her father's farm until she was at home in its remotest part. When Bertie left the house she went to find Lion, her dog, and calling "Lion!" "Lion!" once or twice, in a moment he came bounding along with his pink tongue lolling out of his great mouth, and his great tail wagging like the top of a fir tree in a storm. Bertie gave him a pat on the head, and away he went gamboling along ahead, now and then stopping to wait for his mistress, and then rushing on far ahead. The woods were about a quarter of a mile from the house, and were on rising ground; so Bertie did not hurry, for she was not a strong child, and climbing was rather tiresome to her. By the time she had reached the top of the hill, Lion was nowhere to be seen, but as he made a point to hunt rabbits whenever his mistress went into the woods, she was not at all surprised. Wandering along, picking here and there a wild flower and occasionally stopping to watch a squirrel or bird, Bertie had forgotten all about Lion, until far in the woods she heard him barking vigorously. But supposing he had treed a squirrel, or had found something else of interest, she paid no heed, until Lion came crashing through the underbrush, and made Bertie follow him by pulling at her dress, and then running along before her. "Why, Lion, what is the matter?" asked Bertie. "What have you found? Well, you're a nice doggie, and we'll go right and find it."—"Bow, wow, wow," said Lion, and soon disappeared from Bertie's sight, but kept up his call. Bertie followed as quick as the tangled vines and thick bushes would let her, and at last found herself in the middle of the wood beside an old wood-road, which had not been used since the winter before. Lion was there and ceased to bark when he saw his little mistress, and ran to her, frolicking around so gleefully, that Bertie was for a minute quite bewildered. "Now, Lion, I've come, why don't you show me what you've found? Oh! oh! oh! My sakes! You blessed little darling!" cried Bertie in delight—for what do you think Lion showed her? A tiny bit of a baby in a market basket

Of course Bertie did not stop to think of any thing else but to take the basket and hurry home as fast as she could. Her burden was quite heavy, and she could not carry it without some difficulty; but she was too much delighted and excited to rest. Lion trotted along beside her, and every minute or two he would put up his nose to the basket to see if its contents were safe. Bertie was very tired when she reached the house, but she scarcely realized it, being so wrought up with delight. She did not think but what she should keep the baby always, and forgot that the wee thing had a mother, who was perhaps now seeking after it, and nearly frantic with sorrow at its loss. No, Bertie was only ten years old and did not think of those things. Bang went the sitting-room door, and in rushed Bertie with her basket.

"Oh! Mamma, see what I've got. See it's little hands; and oh, its going to open its eyes, I guess! It was asleep, and I took it and came home quick! Oh, my! and Lion barked first and I went, and oh, oh, oh—e!" and Bertie was actually obliged to stop and take breath.—"Why Bertie! What have you done, where did you find this baby?" and Mrs. Wilbur opened her eyes in great astonishment. After Bertie had sufficiently gained her breath she told her mother all about the finding of her "fairy," as she persisted in calling the little thing. The baby was not over three weeks old, and was so small that it was almost a fairy. It was a little dark-eyed girl, and even at that tender age evinced so much brightness and good humor, that the family fell in love with it at once. Bertie's father immediately made inquiries about the neighborhood in respect to the parents of the child, and endeavored to find out the facts relating to the abandonment of so small a child. After some trouble Mr. Wilbur learned from a distant farmer, that a band of gypsies had been camping in the woods near his farm, but having appropriated the poultry of some neighboring farmers they had been driven away. According to this man's story, there were in the party two men, three women, and several children large enough to walk and run. So no evidence as to there being a very small child in the party, was found. After obtaining this information, Mr. Wilbur had the woods searched for miles around, but with no success, and finally, the search was given up, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur decided to keep the child (to Bertie's unbounded delight), until some one should claim it, or its history should be cleared up. It need not be told how proud and fond Bertie was of her little "fairy," and when the baby grew old enough to laugh and chatter, and run about, she watched it with patient care.

As soon as the child was old enough, Bertie taught her to read and write, and do various little things becoming to childhood. For we must remember that as fast as baby grew, Bertie advanced in years, and was now quite a little lady. No other name than Fairy had ever been given to the child, because Bertie declared that she was a little black-eyed sprite whom she had found in the woods. So Fairy grew as fast as a daisy and when she was about five years old Bertie induced her parents to adopt her, and she was christened with the name of Fairy Wilbur. Fairy was such a pretty, cheerful, and clever child, that she won the love of everybody, and from Bertie she was inseparable. Bertie always said that she had a good fairy, but that Lion must have the praise of finding her, and when Bertie would ask Lion if he ever found a fairy, he would run to Fairy with a loud "bow wow," and a vigorous wag of his tail.

THERE BE SHARPERS ABROAD.

How the Victim is Sought—Then the Racket.

Time and again has our farming community been done up by cute sharpers, who have some wonderful patent invention, a lightning rod, a reaper and mower, a patent steam thresher hay rake, corn mill, wind or fanning mill, seed sower, potato digger, or some one or other of the very many and useful inventions calculated to lighten labor and at the same time expedite the gathering of crops. Even that cruel invention, the barb wire fencing, has been introduced into the scheming racket to do up the industrious husbandman, and we regret to add the operation too often proves successful. The modus operandi of the sharper goes about thus:—First, he is careful to select for his victim some farmer who is fairly fixed with this world's goods, and if one can be found who has a cute aspiration to speculate—so much the better. Then, the next point is the bank where he deposits. He is then laid wait for at the city, town, or village hotel where he is known to put up. Here he is carefully sized up. His habits are fully studied, and an acquaintance scraped. In a sort of free and easy careless way the article to be disposed of is mentioned; the enormous success its sale has met; how farmer Rutger cleared in one season's deal a cool $5,000, and so on ad finitum, as the story goes. After a long streak of fabrications comes the finale. "Say, look here; you are just the man to take hold of this; you have the reputation of being the most successful farmer in all this country. I don't want to put this in everybody's hand. There's Joe. Littlejohn, he's ambitious to get hold of it, but he ain't the man from Galway. I'll put it in your hands, give you the sole—the only right to sell." Thus flattered up a contract is entered into, and an order signed, accepting the agency. This document is so cunningly arranged that it is torn in two, and a bona fide note is then left in the hands of the dodger that on presentation at the bank is cashed and poor farmer Dobson has to foot the bill. This is only one form—there are many more. The inventive genius of this class who rack their brains to carry out a swindling trick to raise money, is ever ready to concoct some new dodge. One of the latest is in the form of silver table ware—or some other household article that will catch the eye of the thrifty housewife. This trick is even carried into the stores of general dealers and may have already been nipped. Although repeatedly warned by the newspaper press. our country cousins fall into the trap. Either their ambition to turn an easy penny is too strong to resist the temptation—or their straight greed for gain carries them clear past what they should see, a fraud, on mature reflection, or still worse they are ignorant, because they have been too penurious to subscribe for a newspaper, and thus obtain a fair warning. Just now there are many of this class of dandy business speculators hustling around Ontario, and we say to one and all—look, look thoughtfully;—don't look at the amount to be gained, but look at the way that end is to be reached. Just remember that you have had a fair warning to be on the alert for sharpers, and then if you will bite, why of course you alone are to blame for making yourself a victim.

Ismail Pasha, the ex-Khedive of Egypt, whose marked ability and luxuriant fashion of living have made him conspicuous among Egyptian rulers, asked permission recently to visit Constantinople. But the Porte has refused his request.

The Rev. Dr. George Jeffrey, of Glasgow, Scotland, has preached more than forty-six years to the same congregation. To one of his former parishioners, now a New York merchant, Dr. Jeffrey explained the secret of his being able to interest the same audience so long. "I read every new book that has a bearing upon my special work" he said, "and make extracts from it, and index them, so I can find them when wanted. In this way I keep myself from moving in a rut. I work as hard as I used to at twenty, and I keep so far ahead with my sermons that there are always ten or more unfinished ones lying in my drawers ready to receive the results of my latest readings. I call them 'sleeping sermons,' but it is they that sleep, and not the people who hear them."

PEOPLE.

Although Sir Charles Dilke's mother died of consumption, he shows no signs of the disease. He is tall, strong, robust and decidedly handsome. His voice, however, is hollow and unpleasant.

Lord Vernon and his young wife, who was Miss Fanny Lawrence, are now at their country estate, where they were greeted with an enthusiastic welcome-home by Lord Vernon's tenantry.

Madame Wolter, who had the odd experience of acting before a darkened and empty house recently, with King Ludwig of Bavaria as an invisible spectator, is known socially as the Countess O'Sullivan.

Mr. Andrew Lang thinks that Poe had an ingenuity, a luxuriance of fancy, and a wealth of jewel-like words that Hawthorne—whom Mr. Lang regards as our greatest writer in prose fiction—did not possess.

The Empress Eugenie intends to remove the remains of the late Emperor Napoleon and of the young Prince Imperial from Chiselhurst to Aldershot. Arrangements will be made for carrying out this project as soon as the Empress returns from the Continent.

The legacy of $10,000 which Victor Hugo left in one of his wills to the poor of Paris has the curious informality of lacking his signature, although the clause is written entirely with his own hand. The executors and heirs will of course treat it as a legalized bequest.

The black President of Hayti, Solomon, has a French wife of great intelligence and courage. She has helped him over many rough places, and is very popular among the Haytiens. Although a white woman, she considers herself identified with their interests and welfare.

Dr. William Hayes Ward, who was in Bulgaria last year, says: "The Bulgarians are the most ambitious of all the late subjects of the Turkish Empire, and they are perfectly crazy for self government and education. They have had less culture than many of the Armenia races, who have an almost equal ambition to form a nationality of their own. But there are a superior vigor and executive capacity among the Bulgarians.

Americans, it is promised, will be received cordially in the new Salisbury Club at London, which Lord Randolph Churchill, who has naturally much sympathy with social feeling here, will have some hand in directing. The club-house was formerly the residence of the Duke of Marlborough, and is crowded with historic memories. William Henry Hurlbert, formerly the editor of the World here, is an active American member of the Salisbury.

As two out of twenty-two Presidents have been assassinated, or about 10 per cent. the risk in life insurance is extra hazardous. It is said that Arthur had a policy of $10,000 on entering the office of Vice-President, and that after becoming President he obtained a second for the same amount. Five thousand dollars were lost on Lincoln and twelve on Garfield. Cleveland had policies for $16,000, all issued before his election, and a month ago application was made for $10,000 more. This will be granted at ordinary rates.

The Rev. Mr. Talmage was greeted with enthusiasm last week in Brooklyn, at the Tabernacle, on his return from Europe. He gave a facetious account of his experience on shipboard and in England, describing both the Queen and the Princess of Wales with eloquent appreciation, and heard himself praised by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. There was a striking picture when Mr. Talmage and Mr. Beecher clasped hands in the presence of three or four thousand persons. Mr. Talmage's coach was dragged home afterward by some of his affectionate Sunday-school boys.

The oak tree planted by Lord Byron at Newstead Abbey is large and flourishing, although the alder on which he cut the names "Byron and Augusta" long since died. The portion of the tree on which the names were carved is preserved among the treasured mementoes of the poet in the Abbey. The tree planted by Dr. Livingstone is on the lawn, as well as the one planted by Stanley. The present owner of Newstead was the one white friend and bosom companion of Livingstone during his years of wonderful work in Africa. This Col. Webb who bought the Abbey of Col. Wildman, the wealthy West Indian planter who bought it of Lord Byron, is the man who saved Livingstone's life by shooting the lion which, after fearfully mutilating him, still stood over his prostrate body.

A great agitation is now going on among the Raskoininks or Dissenters of Russia. Two years ago the Czar promised a degree of toleration and granted certain civil rights. But the Holy Synod has determined to check their peaceful progress. Meantime, a schism of importance occurred among the Dissenters themselves. Under these circumstances they deemed it advisable to assemble a Council of their own. This was held last month in Moscow, under the auspices of those who not only deny the authority of the Czar and the Established Church, but refuse to recognize marriage, and pretend to live in celibacy. The best men of both parties hoped for reconciliation. The anti-marriage faction, however, won the day, not by an open and thorough consideration of the disputed points, but by expelling the leaders of the new party at the very opening of the Council.

Bishop Spaulding saw a most pronounced case of dandy drag itself inertly past. The fellow had all the symptoms of acute idiocy so markedly visible that there was no mistaking the social disease. Anglomania, that had pitifully altered him from the healthy, vigorous, sensible young fellow that he might otherwise have been. "Well, here's a thought for comfort," the Bishop is quoted as saying: "I happen to know who he is. His family are wealthy and very fashionable. He has been brought to think that work is not for him to think of, and that his life is destined to be perfectly idle. In that view, don't you comprehend, the best course for him to pursue is the one that is most harmless, and what could have less actual viciousness in it than the career of an assiduous fop? Just think of it. He might be a gambler, a brawler, a sensualist; or he might even take to burglary, arson, murder. Oh, yes, if a young man is bound to be nothing useful, then by all means encourage him to be an innocuous dandy."

THE WORLD OVER.

A carrier pigeon started from Montgomery, Ala., the middle of August, reached its home in Fall River, Mass., last week in good condition.

The mental condition of the Empress Carlotta is said to have so much improved of late that the physicians do not despair of the entire recovery of her reason.

Major Powell of the Geological Survey has discovered in New Mexico, near California Mountain, what he pronounces to be the oldest human habitations upon the American continent.

The largest apothecary's establishment is said to be that of Waldemar Ferrain of Moscow, in which 800 laboratory and other assistants are employed and over 1,000 prescriptions are dispensed daily.

A scientific writer says that alcohol is one of the constant and necessary results of the process of yeast fermentation, and it seems a pity that about 1,000 gallons of it should be wasted daily by evaporation in the making of bread for New York alone.

While riding in a procession at New Haven a few days ago, Lieutenant Howard of Gatling-gun fame in the Riel Rebellion, was thrown from an ugly horse, which then attacked him with both hind heels and fore feet. Howard conquered the animal, nevertheless, remounted, and continued his march.

Doctors say that mothers who take pride in the weight of their newly-born children should weigh them as soon as possible after birth. Children lose weight during the first three days of life, and the loss sometimes amounts to twelve ounces or more. It takes them nearly a week to regain the weight they had at the time of birth.

A twelve-year-old Dakota girl, taken up into the air by a cyclone, carried out of sight, and brought easily down in a field a quarter of a mile away, describes her sensations while in transit as that of being rapidly and constantly pricked by thousands of needles. Since her experience she has been affected similar to a person with St. Vitus's dance.

A manufacturer in Breslau has recently built at his factory a chimney over fifty feet in height entirely of paper. The blocks used in its construction, instead of brick or stone, were made of layers of compressed paper jointed with a silicious cement. The advantages are the fire-proof nature of the material, the minimum of danger from lightening, and great elasticity.

Senator Walker of Nevada was attacked by a band of coyotes near Wamsley Gulch recently, and was obliged to take to a tree to save his life. He had a rifle with him, and killed a number of the animals, which were quickly devoured by their comrades. He remained in the tree all night, closely watched by the coyotes, but was rescued in the morning by a party of hunters.

The gardens of the Tuileries are just now being taken possession of by groups of Paris roughs, who render this favorite resort unapproachable by visitors. These ruffians mutilate the statues, and their latest exploit has been to break off the quiver held by a nymph. The Director of the Louvre has expressed the intention of taking back into the building all the statues under his administration which are now in the gardens.

It is said that the first restrictive liquor law ever passed in the States was enacted in town in Rhode Island and read as follows: "Every saloon keeper who sells more than one gallon of liquor to a minor shall be fined one dollar and costs." The first temperance pledge remembered in circulation in New England was thus worded: "I solemnly swear to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors on all occasions except on training days, wedding days, banquets, and other great occasions."

In the register of deaths of the parish of San Lorenzo, Seville, there is an entry under date of the first of November, 1788, of the burial in the crypt of of the church of Don Juan Manuel Bustamanteey Calderon, vicar and chaplain of the church, who died at the age of 130 years. He was married five times and had fifty-one children before he became priest. He was noted for his piety and benevolence, and at the time of his death was engaged in writing a religious work. He was 90 years old when he was ordained priest.

Mme. Lotinga, a very smart Jewess, who, in imitation of Mrs. Weldon, has been posing as her own lawyer in the English courts, pursued gentler and more effective methods. She came to court every day with a very beautiful daughter, who sat beside her. One day of the proceedings she offered a photograph to Mr. Justice Hawkins, who is trying the case with a special Jury. His Worship refused it. She quietly turned to her daughter and desired her to give it to his Honor, which, with much grace, Rebecca did. The Justice blushed beneath his wig and took it. This has not been tried here yet.

Amoskeag Falls, on the Merrimac River, was once the great fishing place of New Hampshire. It was here Passacanaway and his tribe of Indians lived and had their noted fishing place in primitive times, when the water teemed with salmon, shad, and lamprey eels. Forty years ago a high dam was built at Lawrence and another lower down. These stopped all the fish, of course, and the upper river became barren. Ten years ago fishways were put in the dams, but they did little good. In 1881 a citizen carried 200 lamprey eels above the dams and put them into the Merrimac. The result is this year thousands of eels have appeared, gone up the fishways, and up the river 150 miles above Amoskeag Falls, showing that the river has been successfully restocked.

Mr. Boucicault is 63, not 68 as stated in the Australian papers, having been born in Gardiner street, Dublin, on the 22nd of February, 1882. His birth is registered in the Episcopal Church in that street. He was announced by Mr. Charles Mathews, on introducing him as the author of "London Assurance" to the Covent Garden audience in 1840, as 18, but with his then black curly hair and very boyish appearance he seemed much younger. His present fair bride, who is not as old as represented, is of respectable family, but her father is not a Major-General, and has never been on the staff of the Prince of Wales, which is already crowded with fictitious creations. She was educated for a governess and turned to the stage, and is very pretty and accomplished. He has been three times married. His second wife, Agnes Robertson, is still living, and though his present marriage may possibly hold good where British ... cannot in the States George IV., when Prince of W... Brighton a humble little fishing ... left it an aristocratic and splend... second empire in France virtu... Trouville and Biarritz; and th... Blanc, disgusted with the ... Monaco, created Monte Carlo ... ham, driven from Nice, where ... rife went away, and was the mak... nes; and half a dozen pretty ... settlements sprang up with ... denness round Norwood and Sy... most as soon as the Crystal Pala... ed its glittering head. Trieste, ... virtually a created city, designed ... ty, malevolent Austrian statesm... the maritime trade of Venice; ... horn was equally the creation of ... ened Florentine Grand Duke, wh... solved that in his dominions there ... at least one city of religious tolera...

A Word to Boys.

The boy who has just left school ... looking about to see what he shall ... may perhaps be told by some unwi... "The world owes you a living." ... so? Listen:—At one time this co... a wilderness; where no man could ... by fighting the wild beasts. Some... away the bears and wolves, cut ... forests, laid out roads, built towns, ... canals. Somebody spent vast sums ... in constructing railroads, steamboats, ... lighthouses, schools, libraries, and ... fine things you enjoy so freely. ... this, somebody pays the policeman, ... man, the soldier, sailor, the lightho... er, and schoolmaster. From the ... were born your father and mother ... clothed, and sheltered you. It has ... nothing. None of these great publ... roads, canals, towns, navies, and ... cost you anything. How can you ... world owes you a living? Is it not ... who are in debt? What has a boy ... deserve all this? Not a thing. ... who must pay—not the world. ... he was a foolish creature who first sa... world owes me a living!" He told a ... ly fable. The world owes no man a li... he has done some worthy deed, ... work to make the world a better and ... er place to live in. Those old fell... dug canals and laid out towns, ... cities and invented all these splendi... —these telegraphs, these ships, th... nificent engines—had the right id... worked manfully, and the world ... owe them a living, and paid it ... over. If you mean to get out of the ... debt you owe the world, do someth... to work, and show you are a man, ... when you have shown the world ... work, it will gladly pay you a li... the finer and more noble your work ... er will be your reward.

Floating Diamonds.

About twenty miles below N... sighted some object drifting with ... rent of the great river, and after the... had taken a look through the glass ... plained to the passengers:

"That's a scow loaded with loop... New Orleans. She's sprung a leak ... water-logged."

Pretty soon we made out that ... the fact, and further discovered th... crew, consisting of a man and his w... still aboard. He was up to his ... water and using an oar to keep the ... the current, while the woman was ... a box in the centre of the craft with ... feet hanging in the water. The ... signaled the steamer to stop, and ... drifted near him he called out:

"Captain this is sad."

"Yes, very sad."

"I want to git to Orleans."

"I see."

"How much to transfer my c... take us all down"

"A hundred dollars."

"Shoo! Wife, dy'e hear that?"

"I hear it offer him ten."

"Captain, I'll give ye ten dollars" ... the man.

"Umph! A hundred is the least."

"Then you may git up and hump ... off!" shouted the woman as she sw... feet about. "This old thing can't ... lower, and we've got bread and ... eucher deck to kerry us through!"

The steamer started, and as the ... way the woman stood up and call... us:

"We ain't purty, and our old b... by steam, but we're just as good as ... on this earth—and maybe a leetle b...

The Bones of Columbus.

An attempt is about to be made to ... vexed question as to whether the ... Columbus rest in Cuba or in San D... Until 1877 no one ventured to doubt ... bones of the great navigator were ... from the Cathedral of San Domingo, ... they had lain for two centuries and ... and transferred to the Cathedral of H... In that year, however, it was annou... the people of San Domingo had dis... to their great gratification, that the ... supposed to be those of Columbus, ... had been conveyed to Havana with ... pomp, were spurious bones, and the ... genuine bones still lay in Dominican ... These bones, alleged to be authentic, ... accordingly interred again in San D... on the 10th of September, 1877, and ... siderable sum of money was raised to ... monument over them. The Spanish ... ment, nevertheless, and the Historical ... emy of Madrid, still decline to adm... authenticity of the Dominican relic, ... declare that the veritable bones lie ... Havana Cathedral. With the view ... tling this point in dispute, the Gove... of San Domingo, it is stated, has ... large number of savants to attend an ... national Congress which will open ... capital of that Republic on the 10th ... month. The Government will ... to the judgment of this Congress ... that San Domingo possesses the only ... in existence of Columbus. The ... of the question seems to be a ... Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to ... and as both cathedrals claim the ... possessing the veritable bones a ... joyment is under existing circu... extracted from the relics.

A lie has no legs and cannot ... it has wings and can fly far and wide.

A Woman's No.

BY ARTHUR GRAHAM.

... a parcel, small and round,
... lovely afternoon last Summer;
... as in duty bound,
... to take it from her.

... thanked me with a gracious smile
... sweet as rosy lips could make it;
... so small 'twas not worth while
... to let me take it.

... I offered, as before,
... slight burden to relieve her.
... rather not: "Pray say no more!"
... would really grieve her.

... to plead; she seemed content;
... thing was small, and neatly corded,
... along our way we went
... where she boarded.

... upon the stoop she stood,
... our last adieus were uttered,
... me in a roguish mood,
... and softly muttered,

... the door to let her through,
... left me there all unresisting:
... think very much of you
... for not insisting."

...RIBLE TRAGEDY.

...thor of "THE FLOWER GIRL," ... LADY LYNHURST," &c., &c.

...APTER X., AND LAST.

...ad gone down in a blaze of splendor ... a grateful breeze came sweeping ... Mediterranean, refreshing alike ... earth and the hundreds of ... who were leisurely strolling ... public promenade chattering ... only foreigners can chatter, with ... ulations and shrugs of shoulders ... of hands, interspersed with ... musical laughter.

...picturesque scene, for Marseilles ... cosmopolitan in character, and ... European nationality was represented among the gay throngers of the promenade. Life seemed made ... ment, one would have thought, ... animated eager faces of these ... the South; at any rate, all care ... for the moment.

...lcony of the Hotel d'Albert sat ... exceeding beauty was noticeable, where good looks are the ... the exception. She had been ... the book lay face downwards ... ow, and she was regarding the ... below with some amusement. ...re, Dolly," she said presently, ... ards a young girl who sat some ... industriously plying her needle. ... pretty sight? Look, for in... those peasant-girls! What im... of beautiful glossy hair they ... spotless are the neckerchiefs, ... t elegance they are arranged! ... d you find an English girl in ... osition of life present such a ... pearance?"

...is smiled, for at that moment ... Meg Smith presented itself be... d's eye—Meg, with her tawny, ... and her slovenly dress. And ... hed, she could hardly have ex... what reason.

...cy, or did the beautiful girl at ... the sigh? Her next remark ... nt.

... g ago is it since we left England,

...wo years," the other answered ... e.

...rs!" repeated Miss Mainwaring ... "And we have been wandering ... t time 'seeking rest and finding ... It has been pleasant, this Bo... —I don't deny that; but it palls ... time. In fact, Dolly, I must con... schoolgirlish feeling of home-sick... do you say to our turning our ... ward?"

...rt gave a sudden throb, and a ... ged her cheeks; but she an... ly—

...e as you wish. Of course, Miss ... I am only a humble companion, ... ly be expected to have a voice ... You have been too kind, too ... or me already."

...!" Geraldine rejoined, a little ... "You know I should do no... thought would give you pain. ... ites to me very urgently to ... She is not well; and, remem... nch I owe to her, I do not like ... her wishes. Still, if you do ... t revisiting a place which must ... such unhappy associations for ... for you more especially, I dare ... sily arrange for you to——" ... , pray, Miss Mainwaring, don't ... y from you!" entreated Dolly, ... "I—I could not bear to go ... ngers; and I am quite ready to ... pany you to Midhurst, if you ...

...ook the trembling little hand ... d pressed it reassuringly. ... girl," she said gently, I have ... rt with you, as you must know ... thout any assurance from me; ... ld I find another so devoted ... as yourself? So we will say no ... "

...ce followed. The idea of re... gland awoke a train of thought ... They had been living so much ... g, hurrying from one gay scene ... that during these two years ... little time for reflection. ...ade was growing more and ... peopled. Snatches of little ... s floated on the evening air, ... the tinkling of the bells at... collars of the sleek mules trot... g, harnessed to the cars filled ... seekers; and still Geraldine ... nion sat mute.

...e former gave herself a little ... alled herself together, as it ...

...e said, and the other started ... sound of her voice, "during ... he that we have lived together ... miling with one another we ... nded to a subject which is very ... ot both. Poor Harry Braith... now, and it can do his mem... hen I say that, looking back ... that both of us wasted our ... unworthy object. Remem... y had given a little dissenting ... true to neither, for, while ... would have ... married me for my money.

Now that the gl... eyes, his conduct ... light. I am sayi... any bitterness tow... penalty of his fa... you, child, and I ... that it would be ... to remember that ... to do, and that t... lowed to interfere ... cold and heartless ... frankly the Harry ... ed, and whose lo... cre ture; the rea... a totally different ... even esteem, muc...

Dolly listened ... hardly follow Mi... The man she had ... love, she felt, wo... her heart There ... unworthy though ... who would be so ...

Geraldine had s... was intolerant of ... She could not—a... ter she had ceased ... that the wound w... cousin's faithlessn... long ago healed. ... different; she wa... child, with loving ... —as in her father ... the sin, she went ... was something of ... that Geraldine co... a subject the bare ... power to bring a t... to her heart.

That conversati... good effect. Gera... mentioned to Dolly ... contained in her a... her. instinctively ... shrank from all all... the tragedy of h... but now she began ... from her voluntar...

At first Dolly lis... one day, when Tom ... tioned in connecti... the girl's attention ...

"He must be a fi... dine said, as she fi... of how, at the risk ... lad had dashed thr... and saved two chi... otherwise have be... name seems familia... collect! This same ... was your father's a... she added, looking ... sure the little eager ... lips.

"Yes; poor Tom ... spoke: but Miss M... to question her fur...

They lingered on ... another month, and ... autumn the traveller... wards.

It was with ming... stepped once more ... little familiar statio... Braithwaite ... prominently among ... ed to greet the retu... after giving Dolly ... smile, he drew Geral... with an air of propri... amused that young ... means as yet made ... him the privileges of ...

The companion fel... for the first time sin... utter desolation of h... her almost crushing ... tle sob rose into unt... she was raising her h... choke it back, when ... by a great brown pa... firmly, whilst a st... murmured a hearty ... her ears. And at the ... friendly tones, the cl... the look in the frank ... comforted.

. . . . .

St. Jude's bells w... and Midhurst was in ... excitement. Not e... which had occurred ... the more subsequent ... smith's confession had ... lic interest as the dou... about to take place ... church. True, the b... different station in lif... been difficult to know ... palm of merit.

Geraldine Mainwa... eign beauty had so ri... velvet dress she had ... orthodox Honiton lace ... real orange-blossoms, ... circling her slender th... and bracelets of the ... was superb, whilst D... mousseline de soie tr... lace, and a tiny princ... and with natural flow... ments, was simply per...

Geraldine Mainwa... fatherless girl abroad ... had sufficiently reco... painful illness which ... Jarvis's death; and, ... her past unjust suspici... ously devoted herself ... the girl from the dull ... had fallen, and which ... even to cloud her intel... attention had been rev... Dolly, if no longer the ... little maiden who had ... young officer's roving ... and gentle, if a trifle s... intellect, notwithstandi... fered, was as bright an...

They had been back ... year now, and the gr... time had been spent a... Lady Braithwaite, wh... firmed invalid, was gl... reins of government t... Harry's death she had ... Percy to favour his suit ... at first it had been bo... shock to find that the ... quiet reserved way, had ... tachment for Geraldine ... mained silent because h... he coveted was already ... other, for the heiress h... secret of her preference ... grace. Percy's fidelity ... in the end, for, during t... dine had grown to beli... offer her no greater h... which would fall to her aibly hold good where British law cannot in the States.

George IV., when Prince of Wa
Brighton a humble little fishing vil left it an aristocratic and splendid cond empire in France virtually Trouville and Biarritz; and the Blanc, disgusted with the insolence
Monaco, created Monte Carlo. Le ham, driven from Nice, whose chair rife went away, and was the maki nes; and half a dozen pretty settlements sprang up with denness round Norwood and Sydn most as soon as the Crystal Palace ed its glittering head. Trieste, again virtually a created city, designed by ty, malevolent Austrian statesman the maritime trade of Venice; wh horn was equally the creation of an ened Florentine Grand Duke, who solved that in his dominions there sh at least one city of religious toleration

A Word to Boys.

The boy who has just left school looking about to see what he shall do may perhaps be told by some unwise
"The world owes you a living."
so? Listen:—At one time this coun a wilderness; where no man could li by fighting the wild beasts. Someone away the bears and wolves, cut do forests, laid out roads, built towns, canals. Somebody spent vast sums of in constructing railroads, steamboats, lighthouses, schools, libraries, and fine things you enjoy so freely. Mea this, somebody pays the policeman, man, the soldier, sailor, the lighthous er, and schoolmaster. From the da were born your father and mother clothed, and sheltered you. It has nothing. None of these great publi roads, canals, towns, navies, and cost you anything. How can you world owes you a living? Is it not who are in debt? What has a boy deserve all this? Not a thing. It who must pay—not the world. Ah, he was a foolish creature who first said world owes me a living!" He told a ly fable. The world owes no man a liv he has done some worthy deed, some work to make the world a better and er place to live in. Those old fellow dug canals and laid out towns, wh cities and invented all these splendid —these telegraphs, these ships, thes nificent engines—had the right idea.
worked manfully, and the world owe them a living, and paid it many over. If you mean to get out of the debt you owe the world, do something to work, and show you are a man.
when you have shown the world y work, it will gladly pay you a living the finer and more noble your work the er will be your reward.

Floating Diamonds.

About twenty miles below Natch sighted some object drifting with the rent of the great river, and after the had taken a look through the glass plained to the passengers:

"That's a scow loaded with loop-po
New Orleans. She's sprung a leak water-logged."

Pretty soon we made out that the fact, and further discovered th crew, consisting of a man and his wife still aboard. He was up to his water and using an oar to keep the the current, while the woman was a box in the centre of the craft with her feet hanging in the water. The signaled the steamer to stop, and drifted near him he called out:

"Captain this is sad."

"Yes, very sad."

"I want to git to Orleans."

"I see."

"How much to transfer my cargo ake us all down"

"A hundred dollars."

"Shoo! Wife, dy'e hear that?"

"I hear it offer him ten."

"Captain, I'll give ye ten dollars!"
he man.

"Umph! A hundred is the least."

"Then you may git up and hump ff!" shouted the woman as she swu et about. "This old thing can't sink oker, and we've got bread and pork ucher deck to kerry us through!"

The steamer started, and as she got ay the woman stood up and called
:

"We ain't purty, and our old box y steam, but we're just as good as any n this earth—and maybe a leetle bet

The Bones of Columbus.

An attempt is about to be made to set xed question as to whether the bo olumbus rest in Cuba or in San Do til 1877 no one ventured to doubt th es of the great navigator were re om the Cathedral of San Domingo, ey had lain for two centuries and a d transferred to the Cathedral of Ha that year, however, it was announced e people of San Domingo had disco their great gratification, that the pposed to be those of Columbus, d been conveyed to Havana with mp, were spurious bones, and th nuine bones still lay in Dominica ese bones, alleged to be authentic cordingly interred again in San Do the 10th of September, 187 erable sum of money was raised to nument over them. The Spanish Go nt, nevertheless, and the Historical y of Madrid, still decline to admit thenticity of the Dominican relics, clare that the veritable bones lie in vana Cathedral. With the view of ng this point in dispute, the Gover
San Domingo, it is stated, has invi ge number of savants to attend an I ional Congress which will open in pital of that Republic on the 16th of nth. The Government will the judgment of this Congress its t San Domingo possesses the only xistence of Columbus. The res the question seems to be, if here ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to d as both cathedrals claim the essing the veritable bones, doubt ment is under existing circum
racted from the relics.

He has no legs and s wings and can fly far and

A Woman's No.

BY ARTHUR GRAHAM.

had a parcel, small and round,
e lovely afternoon last Summer;
ed, at in duty bound,
To take it from her.

thanked me with a gracious smile
sweet as rosy lips could make it;
so small 'twas not worth while
To let me take it.

Jeffreys, as before,
that slight burden to relieve her.
rather not: "Pray say no more!"
Twould really grieve her.

ed to plead; she seemed content;
thing was small, and neatly corded,
so along our way we went To where she boarded.

when upon the stoop she stood,
ed ere our last adieus were uttered,
ered me in a roguish mood,
And softly muttered,

ning the door to let her through,
left me there all unresisting:
think very much of you
For not insisting."

RRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Author of "THE FLOWER GIRL," LY LADY LYNEURST," &c., &c.

CHAPTER X., AND LAST.

had gone down in a blaze of splen-ow a grateful breeze came sweep-the Mediterranean, refreshing alike rched earth and the hundreds of s who were leisurely strolling e public promenade chattering ly foreigners can chatter, with culations and shrugs of shoulders ing of hands, interspersed with t musical laught r.

picturesque scene, for Marseilles ly cosmopolitan in character, and y European nationality was re-among the gay throngers of the promenade. Life seemed made yment, one would have thought, the animated eager faces of these f the South; at any rate, all care ten for the moment.

alcony of the Hotel d'Albert sat ese exceeding beauty was notice-here, where good looks are the t the exception. She had been but the book lay face downwards now, and she was regarding the ses below with some amusement.

here, Dolly," she said presently, wards a young girl who sat some y industriously plying her needle.
a pretty sight? Look, for in-those peasant-girls! What imfls of beautiful glossy hair they spotless are the neckerchiefs,
th telegance they are arranged!
you find an English girl in position of life present such a ppearance?"

rvis smiled, for at that moment
Meg Smith presented itself be-
's eye—Meg, with her tawny, ls and her slovenly dress. And hed, she could hardly have ex-what reason.

acey, or did the beautiful girl at the sigh? Her next remark ant.

ng ago is it since we left England, two years," the other answered ce.

ars!" repeated Miss Mainwaring
"And we have been wandering at time 'seeking rest and find-
It has been pleasant, this Bo-—I don't deny that; but it palls time. In fact, Dolly, I must con-schoolgirlish feeling of home-sick-at do you say to our turning our ward?"

eart gave a sudden throb, and a inged her cheeks; but she an-ed—

be as you wish. Of course, Miss
, I am only a humble companion, ly be expected to have a voice
. You have been too kind, too for me already."

ne!" Geraldine rejoined, a little
. "You know I should do no-
I thought would give you pain.
ries to me very urgently to
She is not well; and, remem-much I owe to her, I do not like her wishes. Still, if you do ot revisiting a place which must fresh unhappy associations for or you more especially, I dare easily arrange for you to——" ay, pray, Miss Mainwaring, don't ay from you!" entreated Dolly, ars. "I—I could not bear to go sagers; and I am quite ready to mpany you to Midhurst, if you took the trembling little hand and pressed it reassuringly.

ld girl," she said gently, I have urs with you, as you must know without any assurance from me;
uld I find another so devoted it as yourself? So we will say no it."

nce followed. The idea of reand awoke a train of thought They had been living so much ck hurrying from one gay scene that during these two years en little time for reflection.

ade was growing more and peopled. Snatches of little ous floated on the evening air, the tinkling of the bells ate collars of the sleek mules trot-ng, harnessed to the cars filled seekers; and still Geraldine sion sat mute.

the former gave herself a little pulled herself together, as it she said, and the other started the sound of her voice, "during ths that we have lived together familiar with one another we luded to a subject which is very t of both. Poor Harry Braith-now, and it can do his mem-when I say that, looking back that both of us wasted our s unworthy object. Remem-ly had given a little dissenting true to neither, for, while would have ruthlessly sacrimarried me for my money.

Now that the glamour has faded from my eyes, his conduct appears to me in its true light. I am saying this, not because I feel any bitterness towards one who has paid the penalty of his faults; but I am older than you, child, and I want you to feel as I do, that it would be wrong ceaselessly to repine, to remember that life still holds work for us to do, and that the past should not be allowed to interfere with it. You think I am cold and heartless—not so; but I tell you frankly the Harry Braithwaits whom I loved, and whose loss I mourned, was an ideal creature; the real Harry Braithwaite was a totally different person, whom I could not even esteem, much less love."

Dolly listened quietly, though she could hardly follow Miss Mainwaring's sophistry. The man she had given her first pure girlish love, she felt, would always hold a place in her heart. There could never be another, unworthy though he had proved himself, who would be so unutterably dear to her.

Geraldine had a hot passionate nature and was intolerant of all meanness and deceit. She could not—as she herself said—love after she had ceased to esteem; and so it was that the wound which the knowledge of her cousin's faithlessness had inflicted had been long ago healed. With Dolly Jarvis it was different; she was gentle and simple as a child, with loving, clinging ways; and even—as in her father's case—when she hated the sin, she went on loving the sinner. It was something of a shock to her to find that Geraldine could thus speak calmly on a subject the bare mention of which had still power to bring a thrill of exquisite anguish to her heart.

That conversation was attended with one good effect. Geraldine had hitherto never mentioned to Dolly any of the home-news contained in her aunt's frequent letters to her, instinctively guessing that the girl shrank from all allusion to the place where the tragedy of her life had been enacted; but now she began to read little extracts from her voluminous correspondence.

At first Dolly listened apathetically; but one day, when Tom Larkin's name was mentioned in connection with some heroic deed, the girl's attention was visibly aroused.

"He must be a fine fellow indeed," Geraldine said, as she finished reading the account of how, at the risk of his own life, the brave lad had dashed through a burning casement and saved two children from what would otherwise have been a horrible fate. "The name seems familiar to me. Ah, now I recollect! This same Tom Larkins, no doubt, was your father's apprentice; was he not?" she added, looking up and noting with pleasure the little eager smile that parted Dolly's lips.

"Yes; poor Tom!" She sighed as she spoke; but Miss Mainwaring wisely forbore to question her further.

They lingered on in the balmy South for another month, and then one day in early autumn the travellers set their faces homewards.

It was with mingled feelings that they stepped once more on to the platform of the little familiar station at Midhurst. Percy Braithwaite's handsome figure stood out prominently among those who had assembled to greet the returning wanderers, and, after giving Dolly Jarvis a pleasant nod and smile, he drew Geraldine's arm within his own with an air of proprietorship that infinitely amused that young lady, who had by no means as yet made up her mind to accord him the privileges of a favoured suitor.

The companion fell silently behind; and, for the first time since her orphanage, the utter desolation of her situation fell upon her almost crushing her by its force. A little sob rose involuntarily to her throat, and she was raising her hand hastily, as if to choke it back, when it was suddenly seized by a great brown palm and held fast and firmly, whilst a strangely familiar voice murmured a hearty "Welcome home!" in her ears. And at the sound of those deep friendly tones, the clasp of the strong hand, the look in the frank blue eyes, Dolly was comforted.

. . . . . .

St. Jude's bells were chiming merrily, and Midhurst was in a state of bustle and excitement. Not even the fatal tragedy which had occurred eight years ago, nor the more subsequent event of the blacksmith's confession had caused so much public interest as the double wedding which was about to take place in the little country church. True, the brides were in a very different station in life; but it would have been difficult to know to which to award the palm of merit.

Geraldine Mainwaring—whose dark foreign beauty had so rich a setting in the white velvet dress she had elected to wear with orthodox Honiton lace veil and wreath of real orange-blossoms, a diamond necklet encircling her slender throat, diamond earrings and bracelets of the same costly stones—was superb, whilst Dolly Jarvis, in white mousseline de soie trimmed with Brussels lace, and a tiny princesse bonnet to match and with natural flowers as her only ornaments, was simply perfect.

Geraldine Mainwaring had taken the fatherless girl abroad with her as soon as she had sufficiently recovered from that long painful illness which had succeeded Adam Jarvis's death; and, as if in atonement for her past unjust suspicions, she had assiduously devoted herself to the task of rousing the girl from the dull apathy into which she had fallen, and which threatened at times even to cloud her intellect. Her unwearied attention had been rewarded with success. Dolly, if no longer the light-hearted, merry little maiden who had attracted the reckless young officer's roving fancy, was a sweet and gentle, if a trifle staid-eyed, girl, whose intellect, notwithstanding all she had suffered, was as bright and vigorous as of yore.

They had been back in England for over a year now, and the greater portion of the time had been spent at Braithwaite Hall. Lady Braithwaite, who had become a confirmed invalid, was glad to hand over the reins of government to her niece. Since Harry's death she had been won over by Percy to favour his suit for his cousin, though at first it had been both a surprise and a shock to find that the elder brother, in his quiet reserved way, had formed a deep attachment for Geraldine, and had only remained silent because he saw that the prize he coveted was already in possession of another, for the heiress had never made any secret of her preference for the young sailor-grace. Percy's fidelity had had its reward in the end, for, during this last year, Geraldine had grown to believe that life could offer her no greater happiness than that which would fall to her lot as her cousin's wife. True, he was totally different from his brother in character and appearance; but Geraldine had proved his worth, and was thankful to repose in an honest man's affection.

Happy herself, she was anxious that those around her should be the same; and, when Dolly, in a fit of confidence, confessed that Tom Larkins had been "bothering her" again, it was Miss Mainwaring who urged his suit for him and who finally persuaded Dolly to look favourably on her old playmate and most constant lover.

As the wedded pairs passed out of the porch, the eyes of both brides involuntarily sought that corner in the old churchyard where a granite column was gleaming in the sunlight. Neither could quite forget, even at this happy moment, the handsome, debonair, though fickle, young officer who had played so important a part in their two lives, and for whose affection they had once been rivals.

THE END.

WHAT SORT?

What sort of morality is that which satisfies a man in the non-payment of a debt as long as his creditor refrains from "dunning?"

What sort of morality is that which satisfies itself in non-payment of a debt because it is a small amount—a trifle?

What sort of morality is that which calls the attention of the creditor to an overcharge, but is silent about an undercharge?

What sort of morality is that which seeks to evade meeting his creditor lest he should be more plainly reminded of his indebtedness?

What sort of morality is that which satisfies itself in the non-payment of a debt because the creditor is presumed by the debtor not to need what the debt calls for?

What sort of morality is that which satisfies itself in the non-payment of a debt because of a failure in farming, or other enterprise or undertaking?

What sort of morality is that which gets offended when asked to pay a debt which the debtor promised to pay long before the time of dunning?

What sort of morality is that which provides for his own wife and children by defrauding the wife and children of another man, dead or alive, to whom he is justly indebted for things which have been used by the debtor's family for their own enjoyment or profit?

What sort of morality is that which ignores moral obligation as to a debt, and pays only when the civil law compels?

What sort of morality is that which lightens his obligation to pay a just debt in proportion to the length of time since it was contracted?

In short, what sort of morality is that which disregards the command, "Thou shalt not steal?"

Sir Robert Peel.

Sir Robert Peel was a popular man in private life, with the few persons whom he really liked or loved. But in anything approaching to bonhomie or geniality, he is said to have been singularly deficient. Even to the ordinary courtesies of society he was sometimes incapable of conforming; and the squires and the rectors who were invited to meet him at great country houses were often mortified by a demeanor which was needlessly frigid and repellent. I have heard that, while the guest of a well-known baronet in the midland counties, the clergyman of the parish, an old gentleman of most venerable appearance, ventured to ask him some questions about public affairs, and was answered only by a freezing stare, which speedily drove him off to the more congenial society of the whist table. Lord Beaconsfield or Mr. Gladstone would have smiled and put the question by. I have been told another anecdote of Sir Robert, which it is not quite so easy to believe. He had invited a London friend, a professional man of high standing, to visit him at Drayton. In riding round the neighborhood the gentleman, who belonged to that district, passed the house of an old acquaintance, and he proposed to Sir Robert that they should call. Peel agreed; they were shown in and regaled with an excellent luncheon. But from the moment he entered the house to the moment he left it Peel never spoke a single word. Among his parliamentary supporters the same infirmity was apparent; and when contrasted with his leading contemporaries, Palmerston, Stanley, Melbourne, or the Duke of Wellington, who was the soul of frankness and simplicity, it told much to his disadvantage. There are many men who, in trying to be dignified, only succeed in being pompous, and create difficulties for themselves in transacting the affairs of life which those who are more natural escape. But Sir Robert Peel, according to all tradition, must have done more than this, and relied often upon downright rudeness to protect himself from possible familiarities. He was a keen sportsman and an excellent shot, and he and Lord Eversley used to be considered at one time among the two best game shots in England. In cover shooting Sir Robert Peel, who, perhaps, did not like pricking his legs, usually took the outside, while the speakers preferred walking with the beaters. He was a scholar and fond of scholarship, though, perhaps, too much given to quotations which had "previously received the meed of parliamentary approbation." One of these, which I always thought very happy, though it came a little oddly from Peel, was in answer to a whig during the reform debates, who wished Mr. Canning had been there. "I wish to heaven that he was, said Peel:

"How is your son getting along, Charley?" "Oh, pretty well; only that he is a little puffed up with his own importance. Knows more than his father, you know." "Ah! then the boy is not quite an idiot!"

A correspondent who has evidently given serious study to the character and thought of Cardinal Newman says: "If I were asked what strikes me most forcibly about Cardinal Newman, what is his leading characteristic, I should be inclined to answer, not the depth and earnestness of his religious convictions, nor the subtlety of his intellect, nor the profundity of his learning, nor his marvellous dialectical skill, nor his incomparable mastery of the English tongue, but the breadth of his sympathies."

GREAT ROBBERIES.

How Royal Treasuries Have Been Rifled by Thieves.

The recent robbery of the Turin Armory causes the London Standard to review the many similar crimes committed in the past in England and other countries. The story of Colonel Blood, who all but managed to make off with the English crown jewels from the Tower, is so well known that it need only be referred to. But there are several other instances less known, though scarcely less peculiar. Nearly 600 years ago the great treasury in Westminster Abbey was cleared of some of the most valuable of its contents, the sacristan and several of the monks acting in complicity with certain thieves outside the wall. Some of the objects were never recovered; but the richness of the booty hampered the robbers so much that when the chief of them was captured £2,000 worth was found in his possession. So carefully was the robbery planned that the rogues sowed the graveyard with hemp in order that four months later it might serve to conceal the proceeds of the burglary. This crop, it may be added, was utilized for quite a different purpose. In 1440 the Republic of Venice narrowly escaped being plundered of its vast hoard of valuables by a man named Stammato, who, after secreting himself behind an alter in the cathedral, managed to gain access to the treasury by means of false keys. Night after night he removed objects of value, and there seems little doubt that he might have escaped with his booty had he not been tempted to show one of his countrymen the ducal cap of the Doge, which he had just conveyed to his lodgings. This misplaced confidence led to his apprehension with more than 2,000,000 ducats in his possession. Anne of Denmark, Queen of James VI. of Scotland, was robbed by her maid of pearls and other valuables under the plea that these jewels were taken to dress dolls for the royal children. On the death of Queen Charlotte an enormous quantity of precious stones, including diamonds to the value of nearly a million, was missing. On a previous occasion a gold ewer and a basin enriched with gems disappeared from the royal chambers. The latter were subsequently found behind a bookshelf in the King's study. At a later date it was officially announced that the diamonds had, for the most part, been recovered, with the exception of the late King's Star and Garter, valued at $7,000. It is believed that George III. had removed them during one of his fits of insanity, and had forgotten where he had put them. The garter is, however, still missing. During the disorders following the revolution the French crown jewels were stolen by the robbers, who climbed the colonnades at the side of the palace of Louis XV, and thus gained entrance to the Garde Meuble, where they had been placed by the Commune of Paris. A portion of the treasure was recovered from a ditch in the Alee des Veuves, in the Champs Elysees, but though Napoleon made every effort to collect the stones, which had been dispersed throughout Europe, many have disappeared, it is believed forever. In this, as in almost all the cases of robberies of crown jewels, all the guardians of the treasures were suspected of complicity, and to the end of his life Citizen Sargent bore the title of "Agate," owing to a popular belief that, on the basis of the proverb which gives thieves credit for knowing their own hiding places, he had no difficulty in finding the agate-onyx chalice which formed part of the treasure fished out of the ditch in the Champs Elysees. Since that time several more of the crown jewels have vanished, and in 1848, during the transport of these valuables to the treasury, two pendelques of diamonds and the button of a hat in brilliants suddenly disappeared. In 1804 the celebrated "Cup of the Ptolemies" was stolen from the Paris Museum, and within the last three years the church of St. Denis was despoiled of some of the regal ornaments. In 1859 the Princess of Orange was robbed of her jewels at Brussels, and in 1877 the treasures of the Cathedral of Toledo were withdrawn from public inspection, owing to the numerous thefts to which they had been subjected for many years previously. As for the Duke of Brunswick notwithstanding the elaborate precautions which he took to keep his diamonds, he was plundered more than once, and to the scandal of legitimacy, some of Don Carlos' orders went astray in a peculiar manner. Charles I helped himself to the contents of the jewelhouse when funds failed, and Charles II. immediately after his accession, issued a proclamation commanding all persons in whose possession there were any of the crown jewels sold by the Commonwealth to restore them to their rightful owners. But, though several persons were arrested for not doing so, the scattered valuables came in so slowly that a new regalia became necessary. Edward III. pledged his crown and jewels to the merchant of Flanders, and Henry V. put his diadem in pawn to the Abbot of Westminster in order to raise funds to carry on the war with France. Not to enumerate many similar transactions, Gustavus III. of Sweden, purchased two large diamonds, a ruby and some pearls which the Young Pretender had failed to redeem from the Lombardy Arms. It would thus seem that royal treasures are quite as apt to go astray as any others.

Women On Wheels.

An Englishman—an enthusiastic tricycler—declares that "the woman who has never been on wheels has not tasted half the innocent joys of life. Your tricycle is at the door; you mount the saddle and press the pedals with feet which seem as languid and spiritless as the heart within you. A few turns and the quickened circulation begins to act upon you. Your sad eye brightens; the colour mounts to your pale cheek; you draw a long breath, and settle down, no longer languidly, to your work. A few minutes and the dreary town surroundings are left behind. You ride and ride, till the calm, fair beauty of wood and stream sinks deep into your weary heart, and you feel young, and strong, and happy again all on a sudden, and you reach home refreshed and invigorated in body and mind, feeling as you alight as if you were treading on air and could scarcely keep from bursting out into singing as blithe as that of the lark you left behind you an hour ago. That night you sleep the sleep of tired childhood, and you wake to feel the world a very good place after all, and duties not so irksome by half as you thought them yesterday."

THE FARM.

The Jolly Farmer.

BY OATH BRITTLE.

"A farmer's life is mine by choice,
Said jolly Farmer Gray,
As he laughed with a loud and musical voice
That chased my blues away.

"Far from the noisy marts of trade,
The crowded city's din,
I labor safe and undismayed,
Until the light begins to fade,
When the hours of rest begin.
Jolly? Well jolly I am indeed,
And you'd be jolly, too,
Watching the sowing and sprouting of seed
That will help two hungry worlds to feed—
The old as well as the new.
Look at my meadow-lan', rich with gold,
The gold of the ripening grain;
Where is the mine that can unfold
Such life-giving wealth as the warrior bold Might peril his life to gain?"

A broad smile lightened the farmer's face;
It rippled from brow to chin,
As his stout hands spread a road in space,
As to take all the landscape in.

"You city folk never can feel at ease;
No wonder you have the blues;
While I am tending my cattle and bees,
And corn, and wheat, and beans, and peas,
You're neglecting your P's and Q's;
My stock's at peace; your bulls and bears
In quarreling spend the days;
They bother about the world's affairs.
My only sublunary cares
Are touching the crops I raise:
Their constant task it is to quote
The stock-board's shifting range;
While I—I have no change to note,
And, save at insurrections remote,
Have hardly a note to change.
So life is very sweet to me;
Toil wins me well-earned rest;
And I am jolly, for, you see,
Of all the happiest lives there be,
The farmer's is the best."

Sundry Suggestions.

Much of the swill fed to pigs is allowed to become too sour before using. This is particularly the case in warm weather. It sours faster than is supposed, passing sooner from wholesome, nutritious feed to alcohol, and then to vinegar. It should stand only long enough before using for the meal to become thoroughly soaked and but slightly soured, never until it "carries a head" or bubbles rise and burst on the surface.

The best breed of fowls will never satisfy the man who takes no interest in them. Fowls must have care and attention, just the same as any other live stock. They cannot find their own living and at the same time yield a satisfactory profit to the owner. Good, clean, pure water and a food of egg-producing and nourishing constituents, fed regularly and wisely, will pay the owner of any flock.

Pumpkins should be broken open and the seeds taken out before feeding them to cattle or hogs. The seeds act as a diuretic, and animals should never be allowed to eat them except for the purpose of stimulating the kidneys to action.

When corn is the principal food of hogs, as it is apt to be at this season, a little charcoal fed daily is an excellent appetizer. There is some alkali in the charcoal, and this corrects acidity of the stomach, from which overfed pigs often suffer.

No good, thorough farmer can afford to keep geese about his premises. If given all the grain they want they will eat their heads off very quickly, and are scarcely less destructive on grain or newly seeded grass or clover. A flock of a dozen geese will eat and destroy as much grass as would keep a cow, and their manure is of little value until thoroughly composted.

With the approach of pig-fattening time an exclusively corn diet is too apt to be the fare of fowls. The tendency of this to fatten poultry is very possibly one reason for the increasing scarcity of eggs at this season of the year. In winter a daily feed of corn is allowable, as it is necessary to keep the fowls warm in cold weather; but until winter sets in almost any other grain is preferable.

Testing Eggs

At this season of the year many nests will be found in out of the-way places, where fowls have stolen away with the laudable intention of hatching a brood without molestation. Earlier in the season a nest thus discovered with a good setting of eggs is better left alone. A brood of chickens is more desirable than eggs to sell at low prices. Now the eggs are worth more than late-hatched chickens would be, especially of the less hardy breeds. It is desirable to find some method of determining whether the eggs are good. We know none better than rolling a paper in a cone shape, placing the egg in the large end, and looking through it at the sun. If it shows clear, the egg is good, no matter how discolored the shells may be from rains or dews. An egg should never be shaken to test its soundness. Doing so, even with perfectly fresh specimens, breaks the film which separates the yolk from the white, and, running together, the two soon become worthless.

An egg that has been laid but a few days will rattle if shaken, from evaporation of the substance of the egg through the shell. Yet, if used at once, the egg may be perfectly good. A discolored egg rarely keeps good long; for almost every one who sees it gives it a shake to see if it is fresh or not. This habit of shaking eggs to test them should be discontinued. It at once destroys the vitality of most so shaken, and is the main reason why eggs transported long distances usually hatch poorly.

Judge—"Do you understand what you are to swear to?" Witness—"Yes, sah. I'm to swear to tell de truf." "And what will happen if you do not tell it?" "I 'spects our side 'll win de case, sah."

Some localities seem to be exercised over the question: "Is the negro in need of help?" He is, perhaps, if the fence around a melon patch is over seventy-five feet high, otherwise he is quite able to help himself.

"A Philadelphia chemist says that the American habit of kissing is what plays hob with the teeth," says an exchange. Can't help it. We can get a new set of teeth if necessary, but we know of no substitute for kissing.

"Is the musical critic in? My name is Higgins. I've just arrived from Hengland, and am about to sing 'ere. I would like to 'ave you mention in your notice my chest notes—" Here the umpire of the concert room glared at him and growled: "Chest-nuts is plenty around here at this time of year. Get over in the dark corner there."

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,

(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,

199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.

Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.

122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,

Fashionable Tailor,

OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.

A PERF CT FIT GUARANTEED.

W. G. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.

124ly

ISAAC STINSON,

Builder and Contractor

In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.

Estimates given.

All work guaranteed.

Orders by mail promptly attended to.

195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

MANSION HOUSE,

MARKDALE,

Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,

MARKDALE, - - - ONT.

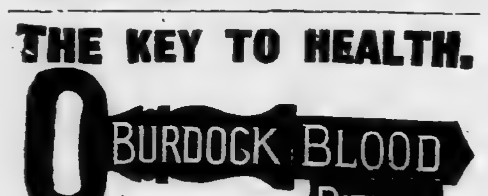
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor



EUGENIA HOTEL.

EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.

J. McAleer, - - Prop.

The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Sample Bottles 10c; Regular size $1.

For sale by all dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto

WM. G. GUTHERIE,

Plain & Ornamental Plaster

Opposite the new

Presbyterian Church Markdale.

Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

JOSEPH GIBSON

CONTRACTOR.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

126-ly.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of

School Furniture,

Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.

181 ANDREW McGILL.

ROBERT S. RAE,

TAILOR,

Sydenham Street,

MARKDALE.

MARKDALE

HARNESS EMPORIUM

ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.

THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSESHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Also agent for the celebrated

CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made eqtensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted ly.

M. AKITT, Eugenia.

J. T. QUINN,

MARKDALE,

Manufacturer of all kinds of

PUMPS,

Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.

Iron Pumps Supplied

Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

Also Agent for Sargent's

PATENT LOAD LIFTER

For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.

☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

FARM FOR SALE OR TO RENT.

LOT North ½ 16 on the 11th concession, Holland, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, 30 acres in good state of cultivation, the balance hay and pasture. There is on the farm a good log house and frame kitchen, a good well near the house also a log barn. School and Post-office on the next lot. Will rent for a term of years and take improvements for rent, or will sell on easy terms. For particulars apply to

JAMES BRUCE,

Lilly Oak,

Or to William Steele, Ionia, Michigan.

MARKDALE

Woolen Mills.

Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.

248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND

MARBLE WORKS

H. B. HARRISON,

MANUFACTURER OF

MARBLE AND GRANITE

MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,

Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.

JUST RECEIVED

3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.

H. B. HARRISON.

J. J. DALTON.

DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

RUPTURED

AND DEFORMED.

CHAS. CLUTHE, the most practical and experienced man on this Continent for relieving and curing Rupture and Deformities of every description. It will be to your advantage to call on me, 45,000 Trusses adjusted in person. Thousands of Deformed treated. Established 15 years. I will have a full supply of these celebrated Trusses with me at the following places:—

Markdale, Markdale House, Monday, Oct. 26.

Orangeville, Paisly House, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

Send 6c. stamp for registered Illustrated Book on Rupture and Human Frame by

CHAS. CLUTHE, Surgical Machinist, 118 King Street West, Toronto, Ont.

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
62	40	13
61	39	14
60	38	14
59	37	15
58	36	16
57	35	17
56	34	18
55	32	19
54	31	20
53	30	20
52	28	20
51	26	20
50	25	20

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.

219 ANGUS PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mill.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
62	40	13
61	39	14
60	38	14
59	37	15
58	36	16
57	35	17
56	34	18
55	32	19
54	31	20
53	30	20
52	28	20
51	26	20
50	25	20

J. W. FORD.

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; Wm. Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services for October, 4th at 7 p. m; 11th, 7 p. m.; 18th, 7 p. m.; 25th, 10:30 and 3. November 1st, 7 p. m.: 8th, 10:30 and 7; 15th, 7 p. m.; 22nd, 10:30 and 7; 29th, 7 p. m. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer Meeting every Thursday evening from 8 to 9. Rev. Wesley Casson, Pastor; G. S. Bowes, S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in connection; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in their Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting brethren welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets in their Hall, McDougall's block, every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A visit from brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in their Hall on Friday on or before full moon each month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Blakely, Secretary.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,

Druggist,

Durham.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,

Barristers,

253-tf Godrich.

Store to Rent in Makaale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,

143-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

TEACHER WANTED.

TEACHER, holding third class certificate, duties to commence next January. Applications received up to 2nd November by R. H. STINSON, Sec.-Treas., S. S. No. 18, Euphrasia, Markdale, P. O. 265-67

MONEY TO LOAN

ON first Mortgage security, a sum of money belonging to the Markdale Lodge of Oddfellows. 265-67

R. S. RAE,
GEO. GRANT,
A. TURNER, } Trustees.

Important Notice

I take this means of informing the public generally, I have opened in

MARKDALE

An Agency for the sale the famous

"DOHERTY ORGAN

And world renowned

"Singer Sewing Machine

The Doherty stands at the top of the list as either a Parlor or Chapel Organ. For strength and variety of tone as well as beauty of finish and durability, it stands without a peer.

The Singer Sewing Machine is known all over the continent as the most perfect and durable machine in the market. Those who anticipate purchasing anything in the above line will consult their own best interests by giving me a call before closing a bargain elsewhere.

Office in Dunlop's old stand, Markdale.

HUGH WILLIAMS

FARM FOR SALE

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East to & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared, well fenced, and under good cultivation; frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x ..., well finished; good frame barn, ... house, straw house, concrete stable, ... stable, open sheds, and all necessary ... ings; two good wells; orchard of 3 ... healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at ...

For particulars apply on premises or by letter

JOSEPH FANNING

Williamsford Station,

Co. Grey, O.

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the ... Costiveness, or any disease arising from a disordered liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver remedies, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood.

500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Books were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE.

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Receipt Book (84 pages), containing over 200 ... pronounced by medical men and druggists ... able, and worth ten times the price of the ...

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and sure remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. ...

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS

T. EDMANSON & CO., Sole Agents, ...

Ma...

VOL. 5.--No. 268.

Everybody, Attention!

New Goods now in.

American Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,

SPECTACLES,

Musical Instruments and Strings.

☞ Warrants honestly kept in goods or work.

W. A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

MR. J. G. IRVING was in Markdale last week.

RIEL'S chances to escape the gallows are faiding.

MT. FOREST Methodist church has a new pipe organ.

MR. D. J. SHANAHAN returned from Penetang. last week.

THE date to which Riel is respited is the 10th November.

THE daily death rate from smallpox in Montreal is not decreasing.

THE new circle roller rink, in Owen Sound, was opened last week.

THE STANDARD to 1st January 1887 to new subscribers for $1. cash.

THE new post office building at Orangeville is nearing completion.

MISS A. J. WHITE has been re-engaged in S. S. No. 5, Glenelg, for 1886.

MRS. W. M. CLARK, of Toronto, spent a few days in Markdale this week.

THOSE in need of surveying should call on or write to J. J. Dalton, Chatsworth.

WM. CONDY of the Kimberley Hotel, will have a shooting match on the 5th November.

THANKSGIVING day has been changed from the 7th to Thursday the 12th November.

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP is highly recommended for all humors or skin diseases.

MARKDALE Methodist S. S. anniversary will be held on Thursday, the 12th November.

REV. MR. CASSON, and Rev. Dr. Strongman of Dundalk, exchange pulpits next Sunday.

WE had a pleasant call from Mr. Fawcett, of the Advance, and Mr. Hall, of the Herald, last week.

MR. THOS. PORTER, of Orangeville, brother to our head school teacher, visited Markdale last week.

THE Markdale Orange Lodge will give a concert in the Orange Hall on the evening of the 5th prox.

THE stores in Markdale will be closed on Thursday the 12th November, it being a public holiday.

Freeman's Worm Powders are agreeable to take, and expel all kinds of worms from children or adults.

NATIONAL PILLS are a mild purgative, acting on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, removing all obstructions.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 268. MARKDALE, ONT., OCT. 29, 1885. {COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH.}

Everybody, Attention!

New Goods now in.

American Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,

SPECTACLES,

Musical Instruments and Strings.

☞ Warrants honestly kept on goods or work.

W. A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

MR. J. G. IRVING was in Markdale last week.

RIEL'S chances to escape the gallows are faiding.

MT. FOREST Methodist church has a new pipe organ.

MR. D. J. SHANAHAN returned from Penetang. last week.

THE date to which Riel is respited is the 10th November.

THE daily death rate from smallpox in Montreal is not decreasing.

THE new circle roller rink, in Owen Sound, was opened last week.

THE STANDARD to 1st January 1887 to new subscribers for $1. cash.

THE new post office building at Orangeville is nearing completion.

MISS A. J. WHITE has been re-engaged in S. S. No. 5, Glenelg, for 1886.

MRS. W. M. CLARK, of Toronto, spent a few days in Markdale this week.

THOSE in need of surveying should call on or write to J. J. Dalton, Chatsworth.

WM. CONDY of the Kimberley Hotel, will have a shooting match on the 5th November.

THANKSGIVING day has been changed from the 7th to Thursday the 12th November.

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP is highly recommended for all humors or skin diseases.

MARKDALE Methodist S. S. anniversary will be held on Thursday, the 12th November.

REV. MR. CASSON, and Rev. Dr. Strongman of Dundalk, exchange pulpits next Sunday.

WE had a pleasant call from Mr. Fawcett, of the Advance, and Mr. Hall, of the Herald, last week.

MR. THOS. PORTER, of Orangeville, brother to our head school teacher, visited Markdale last week.

THE Markdale Orange Lodge will give a concert in the Orange Hall on the evening of the 5th prox.

THE stores in Markdale will be closed on Thursday the 12th November, it being a public holiday.

Freeman's Worm Powders are agreeable to take, and expel all kinds of worms from children or adults.

NATIONAL PILLS are a mild purgative, acting on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, removing all obstructions.

THE woolen factory by-law has been defeated in Tara.

REMEMBER the concert in Haskett's Hall this (Thursday) evening.

MR. JAS. PLEWES returned Tuesday from an extended trip through Simcoe Co.

THERE'S a material improvement in the markets. See our market report.

MARKDALE "Murphy" Merchant has purchased several car-loads of potatoes this week.

THE last spike in the Canadian Pacific Railway is to be driven on the 5th November.

MRS. REV. CASSON spent last Sunday in Meaford. Her many friends were delighted to see her.

HANLAN was defeated in the single scull race at pleasure Island last Saturday by Teemer.

THE exterior of Haskett Bro's hardware establishment is receiving a coat of paint this week.

LOOK HERE.—First class cooking stoves No. 9, trimmed and complete for $16.50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale

THERE is a move on potatoes. A man near Shelburne had a pit of fine "murphies" stolen one night recently.

COL. OTTER, with "C" Company, passed through on Monday. They were enthusiastically received in Toronto.

NEW Shapes in Hats, new Laces, Flannel Embroideries, Mantles and Ornaments, opened this week by McFarland.

ALWAYS leave weights, key and ball at home when bringing clocks to me for repairs. W. A. Brown, Jeweller, Markdale.

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

MISS ANNIE CUNNINGHAM has accepted a situation as second teacher in Manitowaning school and has gone to take charge.

REV. A. WILSON, of Markdale, conducted the dedicatory services of the new Presbyterian church at Corbetton last Sabbath.

MR. JAS. NOBLE, of Meaford, has purchased a half interest in the mail stage line between that place and Owen Sound.

MRS. MARY THOMPSON, of Toronto, was afflicted with Tape Worm, 8 feet of which was removed by one bottle of Dr. Low's Worm Syrup.

House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

TWO YEAR old Bull, with pedigree, for sale, cheap for cash or good mark. R. Freeborn, one mile from Williamsford. Also two good Colts. 268-tf QUARTERLY meeting will be held in Markdale Methodist church next Sunday. Dr. Strongman, of Dundalk, will conduct the services morning and evening.

AN hostler named Richard Brown, employed at the Wilcox House, Stayner, fell throught an opening in the loft of the stable and broke his neck a week ago.

MR. J. H. MEIR, grocer of Owen Sound, has removed to Meaford, having purchased the business of Bailey Bros., and will carry on the same business.

EUPHRASIA Mission Quarterly Meeting will be held next Sunday in New England church. Business meeting the following day same place, at 2 o'clock p. m.

IF you want pictures framed, call at Hamilton's photo. gallery and see his stock of mouldings, the finest ever brought into Markdale, and prices that are sure to suit.

MR. M. E. BEBEE, of Chatsworth, who got his leg broken some six or seven weeks ago, is around on crutches and will soon be able to push his business with his usual enterprise.

VALUE RECEIVED Waltham Watches, 14, 17, 20 dollars. 3 grades, 3 oz. coin cases. Warrants cover breakages for 2 years 5 p.c. off for cash. W. A. Brown, the reliable Jeweller, Markdale.

J. J. IRWIN, our Veterinary Surgeon, has a large practice and is kept very busy. He may now be found in his new stand opposite the STANDARD office. He boards at the Markdale House.

MARKDALE cattle fair on Saturday, the 7th November. This will be one of the best fairs of the season: Some of the outside buyers have already engaged cars for that day, with a view to heavy purchases.

BARRHEAD MILLS.—Both the Grist and Saw Mill are now in full blast and in a position to turn out better work than heretofore. Farmers will do well to remember this, for no person is more honorable with his customers than is W. J. Rowe.

SPRINGFIELD WATCHES—fine movements—fully guaranteed for 2 years, 3 & 4 oz. coin cases, key and stem wind, 14, 18 & 21 dollars. 5 p.c. off for cash. These are close prices. W. A. Brown, Markdale.

MISS MARY ANN SMITH, sister of Alex. Smith, died last Saturday after a short illness. She caught cold which settled on her lungs, causing inflammation of the lungs, which hastened her to a premature grave at the age of 24 years.

MISS LOVE, Hill Bro's Milliner, takes the bun. She has turned out an immense number of bran new head dresses recently. She threatens to resign her situation and get married if she has to continue working so hard.

MR. R. H. BYERS, Rochester, will please accept thanks for renewal of subscription for 1886. In remitting, he asks us to excuse him for not renewing sooner, while over two months yet remains of the present year. That's the kind of subscribers we like.

DROPPED DEAD.—A gentleman named Hall, a resident of Trafalgar township, dropped dead on Mill street, Orangeville, last Thursday morning, while walking with Mr. Jull. The cause of death was heart disease.—Shelburne Free Press.

CONCERT.—Mrs. R. D. Irvine will give a grand concert in Haskett's Hall on Thursday evening, 29th, commencing at 8 o'clock. This is to be a rare treat, chiefly instrimental music, piano, violin, claronette, &c., &c. Admission only fifteen cents.

MISS LIZZIE PEARSON, third daughter of Mr. Thos. Pearson of Artemesia, passed away last Saturday, after a lingering illness at the age of about 25 years. This is the second daughter Mr. Pearson has buried in about a year. Consumption was the disease.

IF you have a Waltham, Elgin Swiss or English Watch, out of repair, leave it with me. I have lathes, material, and 16 years practical experience, and will guarantee a satisfactory job to all who intrust me with work. W. A. Brown, Watchmaker.

MISTAKEN.—One day recently, two persons were passing along Mill St. when one says to her companion, who'e dead? Why, I saw a man "laying out" a dead man. Where? Why, just across there. Oh, that's the barber shop, and Smith is shaving a man.

CATARRH CURED, health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

DISTRESS AFTER EATING, a feeling of weight in the stomach—often painful,—gnawing, burning sensations, belching of wind, sour eructations of food, variable appetite, etc., indicate Dyspepsia, which Burdock Blood Bitters taken in time, will relieve and cure.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS, made miserable by that terrible cough, Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

MR. T. WILSON of Brampton and bride spent a week with friends in this district, and will return this week. Mr. Wilson's many friends were much pleased to meet him, especially under such circumstances. The happy couple have the best wishes of the STANDARD.

WILL YOU SUFFER with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

BOYS, whatever you do hallowe'en, do not destroy property. There's many ways of having sport and playing tricks without doing damage to anyone's property, and besides it is not at all manly to break and smash things generally as is often the case. Fun is fun, and there's lots of room for sport without doing any serious damage.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

W. J. MCFARLAND has just been advised of shipment via, steamship City of Brooklyn from London, England, one case Colored Plushes, 1,570 yards Dress Goods, newest colorings; 24 Velvet Shawls; 44 boxes Frillings, Laces, Silk Handkerchiefs, and one case Ladies Ulsterings and Ornaments Nobbiest out.

SHILOH'S COUGH and Consumption Cure is Sold by A. Turner & Co. on a guarantee. It cures consumption. z

ACCIDENT.—An accident of a serious nature occurred at Mr. John Thompson near Massie on Monday last. He unfortunately got his foot entangled in a horse-power, crushing his heel and ankle and tearing a large portion of the flesh off his leg. The doctors are hopeful that his feet may be saved.—O. S. Times.

CROUP, WHOOPING COUGH and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

NO FAMILY should be without the local paper. Nothing will give the yongsters a taste for reading as fast as the local news, and when properly conducted and free from that class of literature which is unwholesome to the youthful mind, it becomes a valuable instructor and material aid to both parents and teacher.

THAT HACKING COUGH can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

Convenience.—If you wish to subscribe for or renew your subscription for any of the following papers, you can do so at this office and thus save the trouble and risk of mailing:—Globe, Mail, News, Daily World, Montreal Star, Farmers' Advocate, or American Agriculturist. The balance of this year free to all new subscribers for 1886 for any of the above weeklies or monthlies.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER is what you need for Consumption, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

HONOR ROLL for S. S. No. 5, Glenelg, for the months of August and September. 4th Class—Marion McNab, 304; Hugh McNab, 271. 3rd Class—May Robson, 356; May Edwards, 324; Bella Kennedy, 260. 2nd Class—Tena Glencross, 388; Ella Cook, 337; Ellen Davis, 301. Senr. 1st Class—Annie McNally, 257; Annie Davis, 212; Adeline Neil, 133. Jun. 1st Class—Angeline Lauder, 245; Tommie Glencross, 241; Anabella Blair, 215. Agnes J. White, Teacher.

THE many friends and customers of Miss Blades, of Williamsford Station, will be pleased to hear that she has returned from her trip to the North-West, and has resumed her business of Millinery and Mantle-making. Having recently purchased a choice selection of goods in the millinery line for fall and winter, she is prepared to suit and to make up to the tastes and wishes of all ladies who may kindly favor her with their orders. Both Mantles and Millinery are a specialty, and satisfaction guaranteed to every customer.

MCGREGOR & PARKE'S Carbolic Cerate is invaluable for Wounds, Sores, Salt Rheum, Cuts, Burns, Scalds and Festers, as a healing and purifying dressing. Do not be imposed on with other useless preparations, recommended to be as good. Use only cGregor & Park's Carbolic Cerate. Sold by Hill Bro's. 2

WE are always happy to note any novelty in the shape of an introduction of approved articles of domestic economy. The latest article introduced is the brand of Triumphant TEA, of which W. J. McFarland has the exclusive control. This shows what energy and foresight can accomplish. Triumphant Tea being a pure article, is destined, we predict, to triumph in the estimation of our readers. For sale only at W. J. McFarland's.

The discovery of the instantaneous process of taking photographs has been quickly followed in the medical world by a perfect and instantaneous remedy for all acute aches and pains, as Neuralgia, Toothache, Rheumatism, etc. This valuable remedy is called Fluid Lightning, and is sold at 25 cents a bottle by Hill Bro's. 2

A FRIGHTFUL OUTRAGE IN GLENELG.—On Tuesday morning last, Mr. Peter Neil of the 4th Con. Glenelg, found a mare in his pasture with one leg broken in several places, evidently done with an axe by some scoundrel. Summonsing some of his neighbors, Messrs. Patric Haley, David Burnett and Thos. McCocklin, a search of the field was made, when tracks of two persons were discovered. One track was a large one, being an 11 course boot, the other one smaller. The place was also found, where the cowerdly outrage was committed, and the mark of the axe was distinctly visible in the ground, at one place where the miscreant had missed his mark, the head burying itself in the soft earth. About two rods from this, the poor animal had from the tracks, gone on three legs for over 40 rods, when it fell exhausted, and was found by its owner the following morning. Mr. Neil offers a reward of one hundred dollars for the conviction of the guilty party, and the township should supplement it, for deeds like these, are a lasting disgrace to Glenelg.—Durham Chronicle.

Rev. J. G. Fallis, Dutton, certifies: "For some years my wife has been troubled with Dyspepsia, and has tried one thing after another recommended but with little or no effect till advise to give cGregor's Speedy Cure a trial. Since taking the first bottle I have noticed a decided improvement, and can with confidence recommend it to be one of, if not the best medicine extant for Dyspepsia. This invaluable medicine for Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Kidney Complaint, is purely vegetable. Sold at Hill Bro's. Trial bottles given free. 2 STALLION RACE AT WALKERTON.—The above named race was won by "Goldfinder;" but, as the Advance says, he won the last heat in a jog. Such was not the case, as "Goldfinder" had to do considerable running in order to win this race; and, in the words of his driver he said, "if he had not done considerable running he would not have got a piece of the race. He, "Goldfinder," being in good condition and drawing a very light wagon, while "Joe Gale" was in very poor condition, having struck his ankle at Collingwood races, and drawing a heavy waggon through a very muddy track at Walkerton. We think "Joe Gale" trotted a remarkably good race having beaten "Crown Imperial" last two heats of the race; and "Joe Gale" has also a broken ankle which interferes with his speed considerably. Mr. Trimble, his owner, informs us that a colt, 4 years old, sired by "Joe Gale," trotted a mile track at [illegible] Michigan, last week in 2:28; he has also sired many other colts. This is what few of trotting stallions can say to-day. Mr. Trimble, as stand, purchased "Joe Gale" purposes, not for trotting, as he is not in condition to trot and from the grand breeding many good races he has United States and Canada make a very successful sire and trotting horses.

A VICTORY SCORED.—[illegible] when Hagyard's Yellow [illegible] for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pains, Sore Throat or Deep [illegible] Bites or Burns, a certain [illegible] the natural result.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

HOME IS HOME, HOWEVER LOWLY.

A Proverb Paraphrased.

Home is home, however lowly,
Fenced around by many a spell;
If within its precincts holy Room be found for Love to dwell
There is, sure, no spot on earth,
Wherescoe'er our steps may roam,
Can outshine the smiling hearth
Of a tranquil, happy home.

Home is home, however lowly;
There is magic in the word;
Strife, avaunt, and Melancholy,
Whilst its comforts I record!
Woman dear my song approves,
To my aid, Penates, come!
Whilst I hymn, with dulcerus love,
Home, however homely, home.

Home is home, however lowly;
Peaceful pleasures there abide;
Soothing thoughts and visions holy
Cluster round our own fireside.
Though the outer world be dark,
And its ocean lashed to foam,
Safe within its sheltering ark,
All is calm and bright at home.

Home is home, however lowly;
Oh, how sweet when storms are rife,
And our feet have struggled slowly
Through the tangled ways of life;
Sad, encumbered, faint, and weary,
Spared the grief again to roam,
To lay down our burden dreary,
At the blessed door of home.

Cookery for Beginners.

The pleasing custom in many families is to make the daughters responsible for "fancy cookery." Mamma turns naturally, when company is expected, to her young allies for the manufacture of cake, jellies, blanc-mange, etc., and for the arrangement of fruit and flowers, and seldom cavils at the manner in which they do the work.

The difference in the appointment of feasts in houses where there are girls growing up and grown, and in those where there are none, is so marked that I need not call attention to it.

LEMON OR ORANGE JELLY.

One package of gelatine soaked in two cups of cold water. Two and a half cups of sugar. Juice of four lemons and grated peel of two (same of oranges). Three cups of boiling water. A quarter-teaspoonful powdered cinnamon.

Soak the gelatine two hours; add lemon juice, grated peel, sugar and spice, and leave for one hour. Pour on the boiling water, stir until disolved, and strain through double flannel. Do not shake or squeeze, but let the jelly filter clearly through it into a bowl or pitcher set beneath. Wet moulds in cold water and set aside to cool and harden.

RIBBON JELLY.

Take one third currant jelly, one third lemon jelly, and as much plain blanc-mange.

When all are cold and begin to form, wet a mould, pour in about a fourth of the red jelly and set on the ice to harden; keep the rest in a warm room, or near the fire. So soon as the jelly is firm in the bottom of the mould, add carefully some of the white blanc-mange, and return the mould to the ice. When this will bear the weight of more jelly, add a little of the lemon, and when this forms, another line of white.

Proceed in this order, dividing the red from the yellow by white, until the jellies are used up. Leave the mould on ice until you are ready to turn the jelly out.

A pretty dish and easily managed if one will have the patience to wait after putting in each layer until it is firm enough not to be disturbed or muddied by the next supply.

BUTTERCUP JELLY.

One half package of gelatine soaked in half a cup of cold water for two hours. Three eggs. One pint of milk. One heaping cupful of sugar. One teaspoonful of vanilla. Bit of soda the size of a pea stirred into the milk.

Heat the milk to scalding in a farina-kettle and stir in the soaked gelatine until the latter is disolved, and strain through a coarse cloth. Beat the yolks of the eggs light, add the sugar and pour the boiling mixture gradually upon it, stirring all the time.

Return to the farina-kettle and stir three minutes, or until it begins to thicken. Let it cool before you flavor it. Whip the white of one egg stiff, and when the yellow jelly coagulates around the edges, set the bowl containing the frothed white in cracked ice or in ice-water and beat the jelly into it, spoonful by spoonful, with the egg-whip, until it is all in your sponge thick and smooth. Wet a mould and set it on the ice to form. Lay about the base when you dish it.

WHIPPED CREAM.

I have been assured by those who have made the experiment, that excellent whipped cream can be produced, and very quickly, by the use of our incomparable Dover Egg-beater. I have never tried this, but my pupils may, if they have not a syllabub-churn.

Put a pint of rich sweet in a pail or other wide mouthed vessel with straight sides, and set in ice while you whip or churn it.

As the frothing cream rises to the top, remove it carefully with a spoon and lay it in a perfectly clean and cold colander, or on a hair sieve, set over a bowl. If any cream drips from it return to the vessel in which it is whipped to be beaten over again. When no more froth rises, whip a tablespoonful of powdered sugar into the white syllabub on the colander, and it is ready for use.

Hints.

Lemon juice will remove tan and stains from the hands. For the face, mix the lemon juice with an equal quantity of the white of egg. Beat them together, then put the mixture into a porcelain or granite-ware dish over a slow fire, and stir until it thickens slightly, but not until it is hard. Put it on the face at night.

Sweet oil is said to whiten the skin, and also to increase the flesh, when eaten in quantities. Yet, when sickening or unpleasant to the stomach, it sometimes turns the skin brown, and of course under such circumstances not enough of it could be taken to make much difference in the flesh.

When the skin of the face, neck, and hands has become hard from exposure to the elements, whether in summer pleasure trips or outdoor occupation of a more utilitarian character, it may be softened and much benefited by using a mixture made of four ounces of the emulsion of bitter almonds and twenty grains of borax. It should be applied to the skin with a piece of soft sponge, and washed off in a little while with a soft towel and tepid water.

Oatmeal is excellent for softening the hands. Rubbing the hands with cold cream and drawing on a pair of loose kid gloves at night is also good. Dogskin gloves help to whitten the hands and do not irritate the skin. Cold boiled potatoes are extremely good for whitening and softening the hands and skin. Take them when not quite done, though they should not be to hard, and use in the place of soap.

The Launch of England's Crack Cruiser.

A large gathering of spectators assembled in the dockyard at Chatham to witness the launch of her Majesty's ship Severn. This vessel, when completed, will be one of the most important additions which have been made to the royal navy. The Severn is an unarmored fast steel cruiser, belonging to the class of the twin screw protected corvette, which includes the Thames and the Mersey. She is a more powerful vessel than the cruisers of the Leander type, and possesses greater steam power. The principle followed in her construction has been that of the water-tight hull, and the main object which the designers have had in view is to guard as much as possible the boilers, engines, and magazines from danger.

The Severn has been about two years in the course of construction, and is estimated to cost about £160,000. If the anticipations of her designers are realized, it is believed she will turn out to be one of the fastest cruisers in the service. Her principal dimensions are as follows: Length between the perpendiculars, 300 feet; extreme breadth, 46 feet; mean draught of water, 17 feet 9 inches; load displacement, 3,600 tons. Her armament will consist of two 8 inch breech-loading guns, ten 6 inch breech-loading guns, one 9-pounder boat and field gun, one 7-pounder boat and field gun, six 1-inch Nordenfelt guns, and two-forty-inch Gardner guns. She will carry Whitehead torpedoes, and discharge them above and below water on each broadside. Although the hull is unarmored, the vessel is provided with a nine-inch thick armor steel faced conning tower, steel protective horizontal deck plating two inches thick, and three inches of the same on slopes. She will be fitted with horizontal compound engines of 6 000 indicated horse power, made by Messers. Humphry, Tennant & Co., of Deptford. There are two propellers, and the vessel is estimated to attain a speed of 17½ knots per hour. The authorized complement of her coal bunkers is 500 tons, and accommodation is provided for 300 officers and men.

Three o'clock was the hour appointed for the proceedings to begin. As the hour approached a large staff of workmen made all preparations for the christening ceremony, which was performed by Miss Daisy Watson, daughter of Admiral Watson, C. B., Admiral Superintendent of the dockyard. Prayers having been read by the Rev. Mr. Dearden, a signal was given by the chief constructor, in response to which Miss Watson moved the lever holding the ropes. As the last support was knocked away a pause of a minute or two occurred, during which the vessel remained fast on the stocks. There was a momentary bustle and a flicker of excitement; but presently the vessel, obeying the slight pressure which had been applied to it, began to move from the fastenings which had retained it so long, and amid a storm of enthusiastic cheers slid swiftly into the Medway. As the Severn got fairly out of the slip the cheers were again renewed; the royal standard, the union jack, and the Admiralty flag were hoisted on board the cruiser, and the band of the Royal Marines brought the proceedings to a close by playing "Rule, Britannia."

It is expected that the Severn will be ready for her first commission in a few months.

Giving Way To a Sister.

Not many sisters would be as obliging as was the one mentioned in one of the following incidents, which illustrate some peculiar customs existing among French Canadian peasants. For these people, as indeed is the case for almost all communities, the chief social event is a wedding. Among the habitans it is almost the only set occasion for festivities. The priest then permits dancing, and allows unusual expenses to be incurred. Courtship is short, and engagements are made frequently with a view to pecuniary interests, as in France.

A widower recently went to spend an evening with a neighbor who had a sister—a spinster whom no one had thought of marrying. When the visitor left the house the brother accompanied him, and suggested that he marry the spinster. They returned to the house, and went to the bedside of the lady who was asleep. When she had been awakened, the visitor said to her,— "Mademoiselle G——, take a good look at me; I am rather worse than I look by candle-light, and I've nine small children, and not much land. Will you marry me?"

The elderly maiden, still half-asleep, rubbed her eyes, looked the frank suitor over for a moment, yawned, and replied, "Yes."

"Then be ready next Tuesday."

And that was all there was of that courtship, which was certainly brief, simple and to the point.

In another case, the would-be bridegroom found his betrothed crying after the banns had been published.

"Whatever is the matter, Marie?" he asked.

"Well, Baptiste," she replied, "my sister Louise wants very much to marry, because she is older than I, and it is her turn first. And it makes me sad to see her disappointed. Now, if you would only marry her! Everything is ready, and it would be such a relief!"

"Well, well," cheerily replied the young man, "don't cry about a little thing like that. Louise will do; go and tell her to get ready."

Daudel, the Fench novelist, is a man, rather under middle height, but strikingly handsome. His black hair, which is parted in the middle, hangs down upon his coat collar. His forked beard is dark brown and a little thin, his eyes are large, dreamy, and southern, with a soft, melancholy expression.

A wine merchant in Hamburg has bequeathed 1,000 thalers per annum, the interest of his capital, to the baldest man in the city, with the proviso that should a man turn up with no hair at all on his head, he is to take the entire capital.

From the Red to the Bow River.

The Southern route through Manitoba from the Red River westward has been well brought before the notice of the reading public and is the portion of the province which is most densely settled. Along the river south of the capital we have the railway towns of Emerson and Morris besides several villages where railways have not reached. In this stretch we have the houses of the old settlers and native farmers with their narrow river frontage and in many respects the appearance they presented forty years ago. On the other hand the two railway towns mentioned show the effects of more enterprise than judgment. Morris had at one time a population of some six hundred, but has not much more than half of that number now. It has suffered severely from overbooming, and is only now beginning to show a reaction of a favorable kind. It is surrounded by a beautiful country, which may be looked upon as one of the best agricultural districts in Manitoba, and now that the boom ideas of its speculators have been rudely wiped out, its healthy growth is setting in. It must yet take its place as a market town of some importance, and there are points about it which renders it attractive to the capitalist looking for an industrial location. With the main line of the C. P. R. Southwestern running through it, and the Red River nigh at hand it has good shipping facilities for manufacturing concerns. At present its business institutions number about twenty, and include a flour mill which has been sometime silent. Emerson, the gateway city of Manitoba, is another point where over speculation has lain like a load upon progress, and seldom has a town suffered so much from bubble speculations. It has its fine business blocks, some of them built by scheming speculators who never paid for them, and thereby forced quite a number of traders into insolvency, and has altogether the appearance of a town of considerable pretensions. At one time its population was considerably over 3,000 but now does not number more than 1,500. Besides having every facility for business in the way of buildings it has a well settled country tributary to it, and but for the scheming of speculators would now have been a prosperous town, and contending for the position of second trade point in the province. It is the key to the Northwest by the river route, and will yet be a busy point of transfer, especially in the event of the Hudson's Bay Railway being constructed. Its prospects are good for the future, and there are evidences that a better era has set in, and that the town will from this move on towards prosperity. It has still nearly forty places of business of every kind including a flour mill, a saw mill, a brewery and several small industrial institutions, and has good solid business men, who will survive to see the day of rushing prosperity.

From Emerson westward we advance into the garden of the Northwest, the famed Southern Manitoba, acknowledged by all who have been through it to be the finest grain raising country in the world. From Gretna north and west to Morden is the first fine stretch of this district, and at the latter place we leave the beautiful natural valley, which the energy and industry of the Mennonite settlers from Russia have made a huge grain field. In Gretna the boundary town there are some sixteen business places, and an amount of business is done which would only be credited by those who have been frequently there in winter, and seen the long lines of grain-laden wagons coming to market. Although unpretentious in appearance, Gretna is undoubtedly a wonder from a business point of view, especially when we consider that its population does not exceed one hundred and fifty.

At Morden the end of the Mennonite settlement is reached, and the town itself draws its trade from a country settled by people from different countries, and all settled on farms, which for grain raising advantages have no equals outside of Southern Manitoba. The town has a population of about 400, and has over forty business institutions in it. It is as yet too young to have any important industrial institutions, but these must come in time, while at present it is probably the best grain point of its size in the whole Canadian Northwest. About seven miles from it stands the remains of the town of Nelson, which promises soon to be a thing of the past, nearly all its merchants having moved into Morden with their effects.

Leaving Morden for the west by rail, we commence the ascent from the valley to the table land above, passing through the villages of Thornhill and Dalingford, and surrounded by waving grain fields as far as the eye can see, we in time reach Manitou the present terminus of the Pembina Mountain section of the C. P. R. Here we have a population of at least 500, and over thirty places of business. As Morden is the grain market of the valley, so Manitou is the grain market of the upland plateau on which it is located. It is simply dropped in the centre of a huge grain field, so to speak, and is a rushing western town in every respect. Like Morden it is too young for important industries, but its day of industrial growth cannot be far distant.

From Manitou westward the work of extending the railway is now going onward, while millions of bushels of grain are waiting to be carried out of the country beyond. On the western side of the Pembina Valley, which is crossed about ten miles west of Manitou, there are numerous villages awaiting the approach of the locomotive, some of which may be fortunate enough to secure a station, while others are likely soon to be numbered among the towns of the past. We have Pilot Mound with some twenty business institutions including a mill, where several thoroughly enterprising business men can be found with their stores around the base of the mound which over-hangs the place. Then there is Crystal City with nearly as many business houses, Clearwater with about a dozen, and quite a number of smaller villages scattered along the north side of the proposed new line until Souris is reached, and on the south side of it away down to the Turtle Mountain district, where hundreds of settlers have for years been waiting anxiously for a line of railway.—Winnipeg Commercial.

The Prince of Wales's lost dog, Bang was recovered, I learn, in Stockholm, after His Royal Highness's departure [for Hungary recently] through its collar with the Prince's name on. It was dispatched after its Royal master, who was delighted at its recovery.

A WESTERN DESPERADO.

The Person who Shot Ten Men in Ten Minutes.

An Eastern journal recently published an account of the shooting of eight Texans by Matt Riley in Kansas some years ago. The article concluded with the statement that Riley, some years after the tragedy described, was attacked with paralysis and died in the Eastern States. Riley did not die in the East, but, on the contrary, is alive and a resident of San Francisco, where he has lived the greatest portion of the time since his celebrated adventures in Kansas caused a sensation throughout the Southwest. Matt Riley, or Matt Foster—the latter being his right name—was at the date of the occurrence referred to one of the most noted and desperate of the professional fighters and gamblers of the West. He was about 30 years old, and in physique the counterpart of the redoubtable John L. of Boston. His whole life has been passed in scenes of rough adventure. When a boy he entered the civil war on the Confederate side, being a native of Arkansas, and finally graduated as a full-fledged bushwhacker. At the burning of Lawrence, Kan., he obtained a considerable share of booty, and, growing tired of fighting for his party, concluded to do something for himself. At that time the sparse population and peculiar conditions of life in Kansas offered great inducements to a desperate man, and Riley made the great State his abode. He filled several positions—was Sheriff of Ellsworth and was deputy marshal at Newton at the time of the sensational adventure with the Texans. McClusky, the Marshal of the town, was Riley's partner.

Riley had formed McClusky's acquaintance at Laramie, where he met him in company with some of the most desperate characters that ever infested the West. Subsequently McClusky and Riley met on the Atchison and Topeka road, and they became partners in the preservation of the peace, and the proprietors of a hurdy-gurdy and gambling house at Newton. On the day of McClusky's death Riley had been out hunting a horse thief, and got back in the afternoon. While standing outside the dance house he noticed that the place was doing a lively business. There were eight women dancing on the floor and as many more peddling drinks, and the cowboy element was numerous and uproarious. McClusky was sitting on a chair with his back to the wall looking at the proceedings, when of a sudden a party of Texans who had planned to kill him sprang forward from the crowd and began to shoot at him. McClusky had killed one of their men some time before, but was wholly unsuspicious of an attack, and he was before he could draw his pistol. The desperate character of the man asserted itself in the death agony, and his last movement was to cock his pistol and point it at his assailants. He had not strength to press the trigger, however, and fell on his face, dead.

RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

At the first report of the Texans' pistols, Riley started for the dance house. His quick eye took in the tragic situation of his partner at a glance, and in an instant he had seized the nearest Texan by the neck, and, holding him up before him as a living target opened a fusillade on the assassins. When the firing ceased there were nine men lying on the floor dead and wounded. When Riley loosened the grasp of his herculean arm from the neck of his human shield the tenth victim of the terrible encounter dropped lifeless to the boards.

Riley formed a partnership with the notorious Jack Wiggins, and opened a large saloon in Salt Lake City. On the opening night a Mormon known as Dutch John, who figured as a destroying angel, entered the saloon and intimated to Wiggins that no Gentile would be allowed to run such an establishment in the city. Some hot words following, the destroying angel seized a bottle and hurled it through the large mirror behind the bar, shivering the glass into fragments. Wiggins had his pistol out almost before the destroying angel swung the bottle, and the crash of glass was drowned in the report of a shot that sent

DUTCH JOHN TO ETERNITY.

For the inauspicious incident of the opening night Wiggins was arrested and sentenced to death.

With that lofty consideration which distinguished Mormon justice, Wiggins was given the choice of death by hanging or shooting. He chose the rope, although exhorted by his rough friends to select the bullet as the most expedient and respectable agent of extinction. When reasoned with by Riley, he stated that he preferred to be hanged, "for," said he, "I've seen many a good man shot, and I want to see one hanged."

A few days before the day of execution Riley managed to secure an opportunity for Wiggins to break jail, which that worthy improved with alacrity. The fugitive was concealed for eight days in the cellar under the Hotel. Riley had sold his saloon and spent all his money to secure the escape of Wiggins. He had hired a notorious character named Bill Bean to take the fugitive to Evanston, Wy. T., on horseback, as from that point he could get East in safety. On the night when Bean was to have taken Wiggins away the latter asked Riley to give him his pistol, as he had only two of his own, and he wanted another for Bean, whom he expected to fight for him if necessary. Riley refused at first, as the pistol was an old friend, but finally yielded to Wiggins's importunities and handed him the weapon. The moment Wiggins got the pistol he became almost insane with passion, and, seizing Riley, thrust the muzzle of the cocked revolver down the latter's throat till it nearly choked him. Before Wiggins could carry out his threat to

BLOW THE HEAD OFF HIS PARTNER

Bean and others interfered, and Riley made his escape. He at once went to his lodgings, and, getting another pistol, rushed back to the cellar, but Wiggins had set out on his journey and tragedy was averted. It subsequently transpired that Wiggins was jealous of Riley, whom he suspected of paying attention to his enamorata while he was hiding from the officers of the law in the cellar. After escaping from Utah Wiggins could not rest. He soon made his whereabouts known by several daring escapades, and was finally arrested and taken back to Salt Lake. He again escaped and some years after he was shot in a row in New Mexico.

Riley moved to Nevada from [illegible] City, and figured in that section as a gambler and a hard case generally, finally descended on San Francisco, in conjunction with Charles Marion, known as Boston Charley, a well [illegible] now serving a term in an [illegible] tiary, opened the first bunco shop in San Francisco, and did a thriving business, capital being furnished by [illegible] men of the city. While in this [illegible] Riley, alias Foster, fell desperately [illegible] with a 16-year-old girl of Hebrew [illegible] and finally married her, despite the opposition of her parents, when she was [illegible] 16 years of age. After this exploit he settled down to the comparatively quiet life of a faro dealer, in which profession he became paralyzed under remarkable circumstances. One night when dealing "a flyer" a gambler won eleven successive bets. Foster, for by that name he was now known, burst into the wildest profanity, wound up his exhibition of anger with a wish that he might be paralyzed if the man won the next bet. The man won, and the faro-box dropped from the nerveless hand of the dealer the players looked on him in horror, for he was stricken of the left side. Some time after the [illegible] down desperado, no longer a stalwart specimen of humanity, but a poor cripple hobbling on crutches, was committed to the [illegible] house by his wife. It seemed impossible that he could ever again return to the world, but the tremendous vitality of the man brought him back from the very [illegible] death, and he is again struggling [illegible] ing, a cripple sustained only by the fact that he may somehow regain the affection of his former wife, now separated from him by divorce and married again.

HELPLESS WITH PARALYSIS

STATISTICAL.

The Prince of Wales has 75 uniforms, a score of official costumes, as Governor of the Charter House, President of the Institute of Arts and innumerable other distinctions. His dress by which he is chiefly known, is that of an ordinary English gentleman, but he has many costumes to a wardrobe which would enchant the most fastidious dandy.

There are existing more than forty Egyptian obelisks; many of them are fallen and broken. There are seventeen of these in Italy, seven in England, two in France, one in Constantinople, and one in America. The smallest is at Berlin, which is twenty-two and a half inches high. An unfinished obelisk in the quarries at Syene is estimated to weigh 1,500,000 pounds.

The centre of population in the United States is moving rapidly westward. It is now a little to the south of Cincinnati, having long since crossed the Alleghanies. The movement has been about 44.5 miles for every mile south. In 1890 the movement westward will probably be even greater, so rapid has been the settlement of the far west, the centre of population will be found north than at present.

To meet the requirements of a classic figure a lady should be 5 feet 4½ inches tall, 36 inches bust measure, 24 inches waist, 36 inches around the hips, 15 inches around the arm and 6½ around the wrist. Her hands and feet should not be too small.

The new railroad station belonging to the North Western Railway Company at Birmingham, England, has been completed. It is the largest structure of the kind in the world. It covers twelve acres of ground and $5,000,000 have been expended upon its construction; one thousand workmen have been employed upon it for two years and a half. The platform exceeds a mile and a half in length and four hundred trains pass through the tunnels.

The people of the United States consume about two gallons of liquor for every bushel of wheat they consume. According to official reports the liquor annually consumed includes 69,156 903 gallons of spirits, 953 barrels of fermented liquor, and 345 gallons of wine. Estimating the population at about 58,000,000, the average consumption appears to be about 12 gallons of whiskey for each person yearly, over 20 gallons of beer, and .35 of a gallon of wine. The quantity of beer consumed appears to be about 595,000,000 gallons.

The Czar Alexander I. died Dec. 1, 1825. In 1833, his friend and adviser, M. Speranski, deposited in the Imperial Bank of Russia fifty thousand roubles (about $25,000) to remain at interest till the hundredth anniversary of Alexander's death, when two-fourths of the sum is to be awarded to the St. Petersburg Academy of Sciences for the person who shall write the best history of his reign, and one-fourth reserved for the expenses of publication. At four per cent. interest, the whole amount will be 1,000,000 roubles, or $1,079,415. Perhaps the man is already born who is to receive this money.

Few persons are aware of the extent and nature of the victualing on board the large ocean steamers. Each vessel is provided as follows for the passengers and crew: Three thousand five hundred pounds of butter, 3000 hams, 1600 pounds of bacon, exclusive of those supplied for the crew, 2000 pounds of grapes, almonds, figs and other dessert fruits; 1500 pounds of jam and 3000 tinned meats, 6000 pounds; dried fruits, 3000 pounds; rice, 3000 pounds; flour, 5000 pounds; potatoes, 40 tons; fresh meat, barrels, and eggs, 1200 dozen. Fresh meat, tables, meats and live bullocks, sheep, geese, turkey, ducks, fowls, fish and vegetables are generally supplied at each port, and it is difficult to estimate them.

The Bird of Evil Omen.

The rooks which for many centuries have frequented the spires of the ancient cathedral of Rat sbon, have suddenly disappeared, and not a bird is now to be seen in the vicinity. This circumstance has excited the greatest consternation in South Germany, where at the time that the rooks took flight from Ratisbon Cathedral their departure heralded the outbreak of cholera.

Extreme cold converts tin into a crystalline mass containing large crystals. The pipes of a church organ have been so affected by cold as to be no longer sonorous.

YOUNG FOLKS.

My Ships.

[illegible] my good ships come sailing in [illegible]ith cargoes great and rare
[illegible]all in truth, be rich indeed,
[illegible]nd have enough to spare.

[illegible]ld me down and study up,
[illegible]hat I had better do
[illegible] all my treasure on its way
[illegible]cross the briny sea.

[illegible]m I'll buy of goodly size,
[illegible]nd have the soil well till'd,
[illegible] when the autumn fully comes [illegible] barns shall all be fill'd.

[illegible]usand sheep shall wander forth,
[illegible]ng the verdant hills,
[illegible]nd cows and horses feed beside [illegible]e meadows' limpid rills.

[illegible]uild a "home" for couples old,
[illegible]here they can live together,
[illegible] pass the remnant of their days
[illegible]rough bright and stormy weather.

[illegible]ere my plans are all prepared
[illegible] wait to see my ships.
[illegible] fear the adage might come true
[illegible]hich tells of slips 'twixt cups and lips.

How Boy Blue Mended the World.

Boy Blue was listening while grandpa and [illegible]er old gentleman talked. I don't [illegible] why they called him Boy Blue, un[illegible] was because he had such blue eyes, [illegible] would have been the very last boy to [illegible]t asleep under the haystack while the [illegible] were getting into the corn. Not he, [illegible]; those bright eyes of his would have [illegible] them before they got within smelling [illegible]oe of the corn, and he would have [illegible]on hand with his big dog to make [illegible]scamper the other way in a hurry.

[illegible]ou asked that dog's name Boy Blue [illegible] answer, "Guess;" and then, after [illegible]d guessed Rover, and Dash, and Fido, [illegible]arlo, and all the other dogs' names [illegible]ver heard of, and got tired of it and [illegible] "Well, what is his name, then?" [illegible]Blue would still answer, "Guess," [illegible]is eyes just brimful and running over [illegible] fun. And then if you began again, [illegible]uessed all the dogs' names you never [illegible]ar of, and got quite out of patience [illegible]me, and declared you would not guess [illegible]ore and he must tell you, Boy Blue [illegible] laugh so hard that he would tumble [illegible]and roll around the ground, shouting, [illegible]s, Guess!" for that was the dog's [illegible]ll, as I said, Boy Blue and Guess [illegible]stening to grandpa and another old [illegible]man talking. Boy Blue was very [illegible]interested in listening, for they were [illegible] about something which he thought [illegible] to be attended to right away. They [illegible]ying that the world needed mend[illegible]at it was in a very bad way and get[illegible]orse all the time; that things were [illegible] all as they used to be, and nobody [illegible]ell where it would all end.

[illegible]randpa," said Boy Blue, "is it really [illegible]hat the world needs mending?"

[illegible]es, indeed, child, badly enough," [illegible] the old man, shaking his head but [illegible]ooking down at Boy Blue's earnest [illegible]t, where, grandpa? where does it [illegible]ending?"

[illegible]verywhere child. You can't take a [illegible]ight or left, without seeing it."

[illegible]Blue looked around. Sure enough, [illegible]as a big hole in the middle of the [illegible] It had been there ever so long, and [illegible] had stumbled into it, and wagons [illegible]nced off part of their loads by run[illegible]wheel into it, and the drivers had [illegible] and grumbled, but nobody had ever [illegible]mend it. Boy Blue stood still and [illegible]e about it. The world was getting [illegible]ut, it was plain.

[illegible]ll have to be mended, that's all about [illegible]d he to himself. "I should think [illegible]e and Mr. Peter would go right to [illegible]it now. I know that I can mend [illegible]e in the road, anyhow, and that'll [illegible]uch done. Come along, Guess."

[illegible] came along, and did not hang back [illegible]en he saw the little cart pulled out, [illegible]e was not at all fond of drawing. [illegible] learned by melancholy experience [illegible] Boy Blue made up his mind to have [illegible] done it had to be done sooner or [illegible]d he might as well be good-natured [illegible]o back and forth he trotted, [illegible] doing his part to mend the world. [illegible]a good deal of hard work to get big [illegible]nd little stones and gravel enough to [illegible]hole, but Boy Blue and Guess kept [illegible]d when the last cartful of gravel [illegible]ly stamped down hard you would [illegible]ave known there had ever been a [illegible]re.

[illegible]at time Grandpa and Mr. Peters [illegible]d talked and shook their heads, [illegible] Blue did not mind them any more. [illegible]found out what needed to be done, [illegible]nt to do his part of it anyway.

[illegible] the hole was filled up he looked [illegible]for something else to mend, and saw [illegible]pping through a gap in the fence, [illegible]wo pickets were off. Up jamped [illegible], as eager as ever, and trudged off [illegible]mer and nails, and was soon pounding [illegible]y at the pickets as if his life de[illegible]on getting them in place. He re[illegible]d now how many times mother [illegible] out yesterday to scare the hens [illegible]People get worn out, too, some[illegible]d had to be mended, he reflected. [illegible] this should be one more thing

When he got the pickets on he [illegible] go and nail down the loose board [illegible]back doorsteps. Mother had said [illegible]ning that she believed she should [illegible]r leg on that board. It would be [illegible]mend the board than the leg, and [illegible]t take so long, either. When the [illegible] the steps were in good condition [illegible]y Blue stood still a few minutes, [illegible]ediately seeing any more work to [illegible]ently he caught sight of a broken [illegible]me of the square, hollow pillars of [illegible]d staved it in one day with the [illegible] his rake, and Boy Blue remem[illegible]t Grandpa said that it must be [illegible]en, or it would not have broken [illegible]. He looked at the hole and poked [illegible] into it; then he pulled out his [illegible] proceeded to investigate further. [illegible]ent and examined the other pil[illegible]e the result of that examination [illegible] outside the porch and shouted [illegible]," at the top of his lungs.

[illegible], who had finished his talk with [illegible], and was taken a quiet doze on [illegible]-room lounge, sprang up and [illegible] on the porch, expecting at least [illegible] Blue lying on the ground under [illegible]ple tree with his leg broken. But [illegible]'s legs appeared to be perfectly moved to Nevada from Salt Lake d figured in that section as a miner and a hard case generally. He escended on San Francisco, and, in tion with Charles Morton, broke a Boston Charley, a swell mobsman, rving a term in an Eastern penite-pened the first bunco shop in San o, and did a thriving business, the being furnished by some brother the city. While in this eventful lias Foster, fell desperately in love

6-year-old girl of Hebrew descent, lly married her, despite the opposiher parents, when she was arrived of age. After this exploit he set wn to the comparatively quiet life of dealer, in which precaution he be-aralyzed under remarkable circumtances. One night when dealing r" a gambler won eleven straight oster, for by that name he was then burst into the wildest profanity, and up his exhibition of anger with the at he might be paralyzed if the next next bet. The man won, and as o box dropped from the nerveless the dealer the players looked in horror, for he was stricken
HELPLESS WITH PARALYSIS
eft side. Some time after the broken esperado, no longer a stalwart specihumanity, but a poor cripple totter-rutches, was committed to the asy-by his wife. It seemed impossible could ever again return to the but the tremendous vitality of rought him back from the grave, and he is again struggling for a life ripple sustained only by the left e may somehow regain the affection former wife, now separated from him rce and married again.

STATISTICAL.

Prince of Wales has 75 uniforms of official costumes, as Governor arter House, President of the Society and innumerable other distinctions ss by which he is chiefly known, is ordinary English gentleman, and costumes to a wardrobe which would t the most fastidious dandy.

e are existing more than forty Egyptian lisks; many of them are fallen
. There are seventeen of them even in England, two in France, two stantinople, and one in America. That t is at Berlin, which is twenty-two half inches high. An unfinished obelisk quarries at Syene is estimated to weigh 00 pounds.

centre of population in the United States is moving rapidly westward. It is little to the south of Cincinnati, having g since crossed the Alleghanies. The ent has been about 44.5 miles west ry mile south. In 1890 the movement ard will probably be even greater, as d has been the settlement of the North the centre of population will be farther han at present.

neet the requirements of a classic ady should be 5 feet 4½ inches tall, bust measure, 24 inches waist, 9 inches rmpit to waist, long arms and neck enly woman, however, should be 5 e tall, 31 inches about the bust, the waist, 35 over the hips, 11½ inches the ball of the arm and 6½ inches the wrist. Her hands and feet should too small.

new railroad station belonging to the Western Railway Company at am, England, has been completed. It largest structure of the kind in the
It covers twelve acres of ground
,000,000 have been expended upon it nction; one thousand workmen are mployed upon it for two years to The platform exceeds a mile and a length and four hundred trains daily hrough the tunnels.

people of the United States drink two gallons of liquor for every head eat they consume. According to the ports the liquor annually consumed 69,156,903 gallons of spirits, 19,1 rrels of fermented liquor, and 20, llons of wine. Estimating the popuabout 58,000,000, the average ion appears to be about 1 2 gallons ey for each person yearly, over s of beer, and .35 of a gallon of wine.
uantity of beer consumed appears to 595,000,000 gallons.

Czar Alexander I. died Dec. 1, 3, his friend and adviser, M. A , deposited in the Imperial Bank fifty thousand roubles (about $37, ain at interest till the hundredth y of Alexander's death, when the s of the sum is to be awarded by tersburg Academy of Sciences to n who shall write the best history and one-fourth reserved for the of publication. At four per cent the whole amount will be 1,4 s, or $1,079,415. Perhaps the child y born who is to receive this vast m.

y persons are aware of the extent e of the victualing on board the steamers. Each vessel is provi-lows for the passengers and thousand five hundred pounds of 000 hams, 1600 pounds of biscuits, e of those supplied for the crew;
ls of grapes, almonds, figs and t fruits; 1500 pounds of jam and l meats, 6000 pounds; dried pounds; rice, 3000 pounds; pounds; potatoes, 40 tons; flour, is, and eggs, 1200 dozen. Fresh , meats and live bullocks, sheep, turkey, ducks, fowls, fish and enerally supplied at each port, so difficult to estimate them.

The Bird of Evil Omen.

e rooks which for many centuries tented the spires of the ancient cathe-t sbon, have suddenly disappeared.
bird is now to be seen in the vicicircumstance has excited the ut-ernation in South Germany, as the that the rooks took flight from Ra-edral their departure heralded a rereak of cholera.

xtreme cold converts tin into a sort ne mass containing large cavities.
s of a church organ have been so old as to be no longer sonorous.

YOUNG FOLKS.

My Ships.

When my good ships come sailing in
With cargoes great and rare
I shall in truth, be rich indeed,
And have enough to spare.

I'll sit me down and study up,
What I had better do
With all my treasure on its way
Across the briny sea.

A farm I'll buy of goodly size,
And have the soil well till'd,
That when the autumn fully comes
My barns shall all be fill'd.

A thousand sheep shall wander forth,
Along the verdant hills,
Whilst cows and horses feed beside
The meadows' limpid rills.

I'll build a "home" for couples old,
Where they can live together,
And pass the remnant of their days
Through bright and stormy weather.

But ere my plans are all prepared
I'll wait to see my ships,
For fear the adage might come true
Which tells of slips 'twixt cups and lips.

How Boy Blue Mended the World.

Boy Blue was listening while grandpa and nother old gentleman talked. I don't ow why they called him Boy Blue, un-ss it was because he had such blue eyes, r he would have been the very last boy to ot asleep under the haystack while the ws were getting into the corn. Not he, deed; those bright eyes of his would have ed them before they got within smelling stance of the corn, and he would have en on hand with his big dog to make em scamper the other way in a hurry.
If you asked that dog's name Boy Blue uld answer, "Guess;" and then, after u had guessed Rover, and Dash, and Fido, d Carlo, and all the other dogs' names ever heard of, and got tired of it and id, "Well, what is his name, then?"
y Blue would still answer, "Guess," th his eyes just brimful and running over th fun. And then if you began again, d guessed all the dogs' names you never hear of, and got quite out of patience time, and declared you would not guess more and he must tell you, Boy Blue ld laugh so hard that he would tumble wn and roll around the ground, shouting, Guess, Guess!" for that was the dog's me.

Well, as I said, Boy Blue and Guess re listening to grandpa and another old ntleman talking. Boy Blue was very ch interested in listening, for they were ing about something which he thought ded to be attended to right away. They re saying that the world needed mend-that it was in a very bad way and get-worse all the time; that things were at all as they used to be, and nobody ld tell where it would all end.

"Grandpa," said Boy Blue, "is it really e that the world needs mending?"

"Yes, indeed, child, badly enough," ed the old man, shaking his head but looking down at Boy Blue's earnest

But, where, grandpa? where does it mending?"

Everywhere child. You can't take a right or left, without seeing it."

oy Blue looked around. Sure enough, was a big hole in the middle of the
. It had been there ever so long, and e had stumbled into it, and wagons jounced off part of their loads by run-a wheel into it, and the drivers had led and grumbled, but nobody had ever to mend it. Boy Blue stood still and ght about it. The world was getting ost, it was plain.

He'll have to be mended, that's all about id he to himself. "I should think pa and Mr. Peter would go right to it now. I know that I can mend les in the road, anyhow, and that'll unch done. Come along, Guess."

uess came along, and did not hang back when he saw the little cart pulled out, he was not at all fond of drawing.
d learned by melancholy experience Boy Blue made up his mind to have g done it had to be done sooner or
, and he might as well be good-natured
it. So back and forth he trotted, ily doing his part to mend the world.
k a good deal of hard work to get big and little stones and gravel enough to hole, but Boy Blue and Guess kept and when the last cartful of gravel ally stamped down hard you would have known there had ever been a re.

that time Grandpa and Mr. Peters d talked and shook their heads, oy Blue did not mind them any more.
found out what needed to be done,
t out to do his part of it anyway.
n the hole was filled up he looked for something else to mend, and saw topping through a gap in the fence, two pickets were off. Up jumped e, as eager as ever, and trudged off mmer and nails, and was soon pound-away at the pickets as if his life ded on getting them in place. He reered now how many times mother n out yesterday to scare the hens People get worn out, too, some-and had to be mended, he reflected.
, this should be one more thing
. When he got the pickets on, he to go and nail down the loose board back doorsteps. Mother had said orning that she believed she should her leg on that board. It would be o mend the board than the leg, and n't take so long, either. When the nd the steps were in good condition
Boy Blue stood still a few minutes, mediately seeing any more work to resently he caught sight of a broken n one of the square, hollow pillars of rch.

had stayed it in one day with the
of his rake, and Boy Blue rememthat Grandpa said that it must be rotten, or it would not have broken
y. He looked at the hole and poked into it; then he pulled out his and proceeded to investigate further.
went and examined the other pil-as the result of that examination aped outside the porch and shouted e top of his lungs.

Peters, who had finished his talk with ers, and was taken a quiet doze on ing-room lounge, sprang up and ent on the porch, expecting at least oy Blue lying on the ground under apple tree with his leg broken. But y's legs appeared to be perfectly sound, and he remarked, calmly, "I wouldn't stand under that porch roof if I were you, Grandpa, 'cause the pillars are so rotten it might come down almost any time."

"Pillars rotten!" said Grandpa. "Oh, nonsense! Is that all you're screaming about?"

"Come out here and give me leave to give 'em one good hit?" asked Boy Blue, eagerly, longing for a bit of fun after all his hard work. But Grandpa thought it prudent to examine before giving his permission, and the result of his examination was that he immediately went to work to prop up the porch roof with stout poles.

"May I now?" asked Boy Blue.

"Well, yes," responded Grandpa; "if they'll come down with one hit, they can't be of much use."

Boy Blue rushed off for a club, and aimed a valiant blow at one of the pillars. Crack and with a splintering and crumbling noise the decayed wood fell into so many pieces there was hardly one large enough to pick up. The other pillar met with a like fate.

"My patience!" exclaimed Grandpa, surveying the ruins, "that thing might have come down on our heads any evening when we were sitting out here, and broke all our skulls for us. How did you come to find out 'twas so rotten, sonny?"

"Why, I was looking for something to mend, and I thought I'd mend that hole Joe punched in the pillar, and then I found it was so rotten I was afraid it would come down on my head; so I hollered at you."

"What did you want something to mend for?" asked the old man in surprise.

"Because I heard you and Mr. Peters saying the world needed mending, and I thought I'd do my share; and I mended the hole in the road while you stood there talking, and then I fixed the fence and the doorstep——"

"Mended the hole in the road!" interrupted Grandpa, greatly astonished; and down he went to the gate to see for himself; the dreaded hole was actually filled up and smoothed over as if it had never been.

"And he did it while we stood groaning over the world needed mending," muttered Grandpa, under his breath; "and its been there for months, and neither of us ever thought of touching it. Such little hands too! I hope the next generation will be like Boy Blue."—Harper's Young People.

BRIGHAM AND AMELIA.

The Twenty-third Wife Ruled the Roost.

While the majority of the "faithful" in Salt Lake City are agitated and excited over the turn affairs have taken, and not a few of them are packing up preparatory to journeying to the new Mormon stronghold, wherever that may be, Amelia Young, the twenty-third and last wife of Brigham Young, goes quietly and serenely about her household duties as usual. She has no love for the Mormons, and she takes no trouble to conceal the fact. Her present residence is one of the most desirable and handsome in the city, and yet it cannot compare with the palatial mansion which old Brigham had built and presented to her, and which still bears the name "Amelia's palace." Old John Taylor holds forth in it at present. But his time, as well as that of the rest of them, bids fair to be short.

The story of Amelia's marriage to Brigham, and a few incidents of after life are very interesting. An old lady who at one time was Amelia's school teacher at Council Bluffs, Iowa, tells me the following tale:

Upon one occasion when Brigham Young was passing through Council Bluffs, on his way to Salt Lake he caught sight of Amelia's pretty face and fine figure, and immediately resolved to add another one to his harem. The girl's parents were good Mormons and their consent to the union was joyfully given. Not so with the girl. She had a stout will as well as a handsome form and pretty face, and she declared that she would not marry "the ugly old heathen." Her parents, however, were determined not to lose the chance of getting so near heaven by such an alliance, and sternly commanded Amelia to don her robes and take the hand of the all-powerful Brigham. Seeing that she would be compelled to marry him if she stayed at home, the girl made her way to a neighbor's, told them her story, and received their sympathy and protection. Her parents instituted a search, during which Amelia hid in a root cellar, over the door of which was a wood house. The kind people carried her meals to her without attracting suspicion until on the third day one of the spies employed observed steam arising from a basket which the gentleman was carrying to the wood house.

This led to her discovery, and, as she was under age, her parents took charge of her.

After a hard struggle, Amelia finally consented to marry the great Mormon, but declared: "If I do marry him, I'll have my own way, and he will find it out." He did.

Several years after their marriage, upon one occasion Amelia told Brigham to buy her a Singer sewing machine. The old man promised to send it up that day, and walked off with his hands in his pockets, thinking, doubtless, how many tithes it would take to pay for it. By the time he got down town he forgot what kind of a machine he wanted, consequently it was a Wheeler & Wilson that the men brought up stairs to Amelia's sitting room. As soon as that lady saw that her orders had not been obeyed to the letter, she deliberately pulled the offensive machine to the head of the stairs, and, giving it a push down it went, bumpty-bump, until it reached the bottom, all broken to pieces.

The next day a "Singer" stood in the place allotted for it, and nothing more was said of the affair. Upon another occasion, when Brigham had a number of distinguished guests, Amelia, who was present at the dinner table, amused herself by hulling some nuts that were on the table and throwing the shells out of the window. Brigham manifested his annoyance at this proceeding without effect, when finally he exclaimed: "Amelia, my dear, I wish you would not throw those shells out upon the grass. They make such a muss."

"If you don't like to have them there you can pick them up," said the wayward favorite, as she arose from her chair and left the room.

When she had left, Brigham turned to his guests, and said:

"I hope you will excuse my wife. She is so headstrong that I cannot control her."

MISS ELLA ON THE FARM.

The True Story as Related by the Farmer Himself.

To the Editor: Noticin' in your columns quite recent a pararagph to the followin': "Miss Ella Witchazel, a charming young school teacher of Villisca, Iowa, finding the close confinement and arduous duties of the school-room injuring her health, tried the out-door cure. Instead of spending her winter's salary and summer vacation in a crowded hotel at the seashore, she went on a farm, cut twenty acres of prairie hay, harvested forty acres of wheat, gained twenty pounds in weight, a coat of tan for her hands and face, and a rugged health that cannot be equalled anywhere off a farm. That's the girl you are looking for, young man."

Now, what I want to say: I am well acquainted with this young school marm. Fact is, it was my farm she spent the summer on. Nice girl, Ella is, as ever run wild in the sun. We was glad, wife an' me, to have her come, an' she did 'bout as she pleased on the farm. I'd often read in the papers 'bout these young women that taught school in the winter and farmed in the summer, but I never had any experiences of 'em before.

Well, sir, she farmed. First day, nothin'd do but she must drive the hoss rake. Well, every man and woman that comes from town wants to drive the hoss rake, an' they call that gettin' in the hay. My little Janey, eleven years old next May, usually drives the rake for us, but she ain't been feelin' overly peart this summer, an' I kinder kept her out of the sun. So Miss Ella gits herself boosted up on the hoss rake—my boy Joe he boosted her—an' then she screamed and fell off; then she got on again, hit the hoss a crack an' away she went on the dead jump out o' the field into the road, hoss a-goin', dust a flyin', and Miss Ella screechin'. Some of the men headed her off an' stopped the hoss. Then she tried it again. This time she stuck right through the standin' grass where it was tallest and thickest, and tangledest; hoss a balkin' and tuggin' away by turns, grass holdin' on or comin' up by the roots, rake teeth a snappin'.

We got her out of that, an' lost a whole day on the rake, gettin' it mended.

Then she tried drivin' a load into the big barn. Had to send to the house for a ladder, an' then all the men had to go clear out of the field while she climbed up on the load. Drivin' in, she got the wagon caught in a hedge gap as wide as the Missouri River, run over two stands of bees, upset the load and buried herself under three hundred pounds of hay. It was the safest place for her under the excitin' circumstances; so we just left her there until the bees got calmed down, an' we got some work done.

Next load she went in on, and then turned all of the men out of the barn while she climbed up into the mow, an' then she wandered around until she stepped into a chute an' shot out about twenty-eight feet into the cow barn, and lit right on the back of a Jersey calf that was worth two hundred and fifty dollars of any man's money, an hour before.

Miss Ella wa'n't killed, but she was that jammed up that she lay in bed two days, an' but for that providence, we'd hev been workin' at that hay yet. An' anybody that wants a broken-back calf can have one at his own figgers.

Well, come wheat harvest, she must drive the self binder. That was a little too risky, but she had her own way. But she couldn't be trusted up above the knives, so somebody had to set up there an' hold her on. My boy Joe held her on—I told Joe she was a mak'n a fool of him—an' if she didn't make him drive around every poppy an' every blossomin' weed in that field, to save it. Never mind the wheat, but save the blamed weeds.

There was only one stump on that three hundred and twenty acres of prairie land—just one stump—an' I hope I may go to second before Thanksgivin' if that girl didn't run into it an' break the reaper. We lost all the rest of that day mendin' it.

An' yet, we all liked the girl. But the idee of her farmin'! Why, do you know, sir, one day in hayin' she went to town—took one of my best work horses an' was gone all day—an' came home with 'bout twenty yards of blue an' white ribbons, an' tied it on the men's hats, and the rake handles, an' wanted us all to wear biled shirts, with the sleeves looped up with blue ribbon, an' go marchin' out to the hay-field, me at the head, with the most an' longest ribbons, a singin':

"We are merry haymakers, tra, la, la, la, la!"

She saw it done that way once in a concert or theatre, an' thought that was the way hayin' was always done. An' she was so vexed that she cried when we wouldn't wear 'em.

Law, when I put on that hat, ma laid back an' laughed till the tears ran down her dear old cheeks.

"Job Thistlepod," she said, "if you go out an' work in that rig, you'll scare away the grasshoppers."

My boy Joe, he did wear his hat out, but he hid it under a hedge when he got out of sight of the house.

I told Joe he was the biggest fool I ever see.

Well, Miss Ella got along fairly well after wheat harvest. She gathered some "graceful sprays," she called 'em, of poison ivy, one day, and couldn't see out of one eye for nigh a week.

One day she took a tin pail to go out after berries, and when she went through the cow pasture the cows saw her and thought there was salt in the pail, and they chased her till she was nigh ready to drop.

And she went to the barn once an' tried to harness a young Tuckahoe colt that had never had a halter on him; an' now she got out of that stable alive is more than I can ever tell you.

But what I wanted to say, is, that that's about the way the young women who farm so graceful in the newspapers, usually farm on the farm. But we liked her, an' we hated to see her go. An' she will make a splendid wife for some man, if she can't run a farm; but I don't know about your young men comin' out to look after her, for when she said good-bye to me to go back to town, she throwed her arms around my neck, an' give me a kiss, an' I says to my boy Joe, standin' by the wagon to take her to town, he was always somewhere round,

"Joe," I says, "you'd give your share in the farm for that!"

But Joe, he didn't seem to care for anything of the kind, an' Miss Ella, she up an' give me another squeeze an' a kiss, an' I saw her lookin' over my shoulder at my boy Joe, and—haw! haw! haw!

FOR PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
Clapperton's Spool Cotton!
Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.

AUGURS WELL BORING
BUY THE STAR.
Will bore 5 to 25 inch hole; hand or horse-power; 25 feet per hour. Our combined auger and Rock Drill; grand success, worked by steam or horse-power. Send for Catalogue.
62 Mary Street, Hamilton, Ont.

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT SACHETS, placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc.—They drive away and destroy Moths and other insects, imparting a delightful and delicate perfume to the clothing, carried or worn upon the person they are by their powerful concentrated disinfectant properties, a perfect means of protection against infection of disease, giving off at the same time a most delightful odor; made entirely of satin in assorted colors, very pretty, unique, and neat. Every one should have them. Price 10c. each—three for 25c. Thymo-Cresol Soap, the great English disinfectant toilet soap, awarded the gold medal, London, Eng., 1884. Large cakes, price 15c., or 35c per box of 3 cakes, postage paid to any address upon receipt of price. Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 759 Craig St., Montreal. Circulars and descriptions of our English Thymo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application. Agents wanted. Write for terms.

CAUTION.
EACH PLUG OF THE MYRTLE NAVY
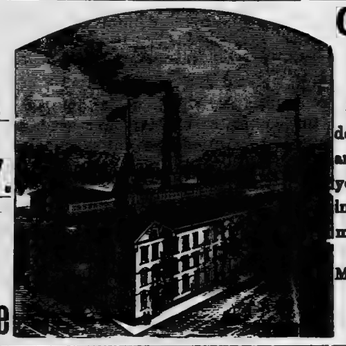
IS MARKED
T & B.
IN BRONZE LETTERS.
NONE OTHER GENUINE

Pure Gold MANUFACTURING CO., 13 FRONT ST. EAST. Toronto.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships.
Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N. F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow line sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia, fortnightly.
For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Ramsacker & Co., Baltimore; H. Ormerod & Co., Halifax; Shaw & Co., St. John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B.; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.



CUT THIS OUT
The New Co-Operative
Sewing Machines!
—ARE THE—
BEST IN THE MARKET.
NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE!
Latest Improved Attachments
Agents price for similar machine $60
Our price only $25 each.
Before buying send us stamp for our elegant photograph and sample of sewing.
Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.
Any lady wanting a machine will do well to write to
THE CO-OPERATIVE
Sewing Machine Co.
22 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON.

The Eagle Steam Washer is the only Washing Machine invented that a weakly woman or girl 14 years old, without the use of a washboard, can with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent for trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear on clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in 30, bedclothes 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 76 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada.

PEERLESS OIL!
Ahead of All Competitors.
HIGHEST HONORS AND GOLD MEDAL AT TORONTO.
Six Gold Medals in Three Years—Best Record in the World.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
Ask for PEERLESS, and be sure you get it, as there are imitations. The genuine is only made by SAMUEL ROGERS & CO. } Queen City Oil Works, TORONTO, ONT.

$10 Reward for the Conviction
Of Dealers who offer and Sell Inferior Oil of Other Manufacture for
The Above Reward McCOLL'S LARDINE Will be Paid
MACHINE OIL.
Eureka Cylinder, Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. | For sale by all leading dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co., Toronto

MERIDEN BRITANNIA COMPANY.
FINEST
Electro Plate

CAUTION
Goods stamped Meriden Silver Plate Co., are not our make. If you want reliable goods insist on getting those made by the MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.,

Examine Their Superior Merit!
GURNEY'S
NEW HARRIS HOT AIR FURNACES
FOR WOOD AND COAL.

The Most Effective, Clean, Durable and Economical Heaters in the Market for warming and ventilating Churches, Schools, Public Buildings, Stores and Private Residences. Simple in construction and easily managed, capable of giving more heat with less consumption of fuel than any other heating apparatus. Absolutely Gas Tight. Seven sizes are made and can be set either in Brick or Portable Form. Correspondence solicited. For Catalogues and further information address,
THE E. & C. GURNEY CO.
(LIMITED.)
HAMILTON.

The Standard.

MARKDALE OCTOBER 29, 1885

The Riel Case.

Before Privy Council.

The Appeal Dismissed.

Canadian Court Sustained on all Points.

Law Committee of the Privy Council on Thursday last gave their decision in the appeal case of Louis Riel, affirming his conviction, holding that the Canadian Court in first instance had jurisdiction of treason, that six men on jury were sufficient, that shorthand notes were lawful reports of proceedings, and that substantial justice had been done to Riel.

The Times, London, England, says it is the universal opinion in England that Riel deserves death.

Riel's council are endeavoring to have a commission of experts appointed to examine whether Riel is real sane or not, but the prospects appear to point towards his execution being carried out on the 10th Nov.

COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE.

We took occasion this week to visit Mr. Moffat's new residence on George St., Markdale, which is now nearing completion. It is not remarkable for size; but, it is for convenience, and the workmanship is particularly attractive, especially the plastering. Mr. Guthrie, the plasterer, is a workman of more than ordinary ability and taste, as clearly shown on this residence in moulding, pannelling and ornamental work, besides the beautiful hard finish. This house will have to be visited in order to get a proper idea of its convenience and compact design. Every room is ventilated, a point in itself sadly overlooked in the erection of private residences. Then the bath room is convenient and will be one of the most desirable acquisitions of the house, and should be in every dwelling in town or country. We are gratified to see our very highly respected residents making such substantial improvements, and trust their integrity and industry may bring its merited reward.

BEAR HUNT IN EUPHRASIA.

Several sheep has recently been killed by bears in Euphrasia. One morning last week Mr. James Johnston, lot 15, con. 6, found two of his flock killed, and at once prepared to trace the tracks of bruin. The neighbors were immediately made acquainted with the proposed chase, and in a short time some forty or fifty were in pursuit of "grizzly" and tracked her to the swamp. It was soon ascertained that the old bear had three cubs, and by some means they became separated and the old one escaped, but not so the cubs. All fear of personal safety left the multitude. One caught a cub by the tail, while another took aim with his musket, but suddenly the one with the taily hold bethought himself safer a distance off, and let go, when bang! went the old musket, and missed them both. The excitement ran high, and shots were heard in various directions. The battle, however, soon ended, and the dead collected. Messrs. James Johnston, Robert Donnelly and Knott having shot one each. The weight of the cubs went from 80 to 90 lbs. each, and their hides, we are informed, brought over $3 apiece.

Flesherton.

From our own correspondent.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.—At the regular meeting of Prince Arthur Lodge A. F. & A. M. in this village on Friday evening last, our esteemed citizen, Mr. S. Damude, who is the immediate Past Master of the Lodge, was quite pleasantly surprised in the presentation to him of a very handsome Past Master's Jewel. The Jewel is of solid gold, very artistically engraved and set in a very handsome case, all of which was purchased from our popular Jeweler, J. G. Russel, Esq., of this town. Past Master M. Richardson made the presentation, accompanied by a very appropriately worded address, to which Mr. Damude made a brief and fitting reply. His honor Judge McPherson, of Owen Sound, was present on the occasion as a visiting brother.

Last Friday was Court day here. There were few cases and the court was closed early in the afternoon.

The Methodist church, undergoing repairs at present, rendered it unfit for worship on Sabbath last. The Presbyterian people kindly offered the use of their church, which was accepted and will be used for a few Sabbaths by the Methodist people morning and evening. As was announced, Rev. Mr. Ayers preached a very impressive sermon on "Daniel in the Lions Den" on Sabbath evening. His subject for Sabbath evening next will be "Woman."

Quite a brisk grain market here now. The buyers are on the alert for every load of grain coming into town, and good prices are being paid.

Williamsford.

From a Correspondent.

Business is getting a little lively as the farmers are teaming in their grain.

Can't I hold you? A ship-wreck in the bush took place not far from here last week. A well known citizen of our town was out driving, and on his way home, thought he would get out of his buggy and light his pipe. The match hung fire, and Polly took fright and ran away, leaving the rig in a bad condition between two trees. The driver took a short smoke and started in pursuit, and captured the beast. She was all right. He would have enjoyed his smoke better if all had gone smooth.

A very independent wedding party drove through here to-day, and never as much as said, come, boys, and wet your whistle. Never mind, we will catch them coming home.

Captured last week, a large black bear, by R. Bailey of this village. He was caught in a trap and was taken into the swamp where R. B. shot him about 10 o'clock that night by the light of a lantern. The huge bear was lying on his back when advantage was taken of him and a great volly of buckshot poured into his mouth. One of the spectators says, "Dog on me, boys, don't go near him, he is foxing," and half the head blown off him.

George Sinclair, of the North-West, is home on a visit, and is looking quite well. He is going to return soon. We wish him a safe trip.

LADIES ONLY.

The complexion is often rendered unsightly by Pimples, Liver Spots, and Yellowness. These it is well known are caused from an inactive Liver and bad blood. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure purifies the blood and whole system. See Recipe Book for for toilet recipes, hints and suggestions on how to preserve the complexion. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Oct.

Berkeley.

From a correspondent.

Thomas Clark trapped a very large bear last week.

One day last week some person or persons piled a number of dry sticks of wood against the house of Mr. Davis and set fire to them. Had the fire not been immediately detected, the house, which was a log structure, would, no doubt, have been burned to the ground.

A PROFITABLE LIFE.

Few men have accomplished the same amount of work and good in this world as the celebrated Dr. Chas. Over 500,000 of his works have been sold in Canada alone We want every person troubled with Liver Complaint, Byspepsia, Headache, Kidney or Urinary Troubles, to call in at A. Turner & Co. and buy a bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, it will cure you. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Nov.

New and Renewed Subs.

We purpose publishing every alternate week the names of new subscribers as also those who have renewed their subscription to the STANDARD during the fortnight, with the date to which their subscription is paid. Those not marked new are all renewals. Many thanks to all those whose names appear below. Who will add to the list next two weeks?

John Large, Primrose, Jan. 1, '86.
John Carter, Markdale, (new) Jan. 1, '87.
Wm. Wilson, Markdale, (new) Jan. 1, '86.
Robt. McGrother, Flesherton, Jan. 1, '85.
Rich. Heron, Maxwell, Jan. 1, '86.
D. J. Lewis, Gorrie, (new) Jan. 1, '87.
John Pickett, Berkeley, Aug. 6, '86.
Jas. Lackey, Berkeley, Sept. 24, '86.
Robt. Anderson, Berkeley, Jan. 1, '86.

WORTHY OF MENTION.

Mr. W. J. Shepherdson, councillor, auctioneer, sheep farmer, etc., of Euphrasia, has been a very successful prizewinner at the different fall shows at which he has exhibited his sheep this year. He exhibited at the Collingwood township show, held at Clarksburg; the East Grey show, at Flesherton; the Glenelg, at Markdale; the Sydenham at Woodford; the St. Vincent, at Meaford; and the Euphrasia, at Rocklyn, and succeeded in taking over $130 in prizes. This is a very good record for one season, and proves plainly that Mr. Shepherdson's stock must be of the best.—Mirror.

BILIOUSNESS.

When the Liver does not act promptly the bile accumulates to excess in the blood, causing yellow eyes sallow skin, sick stomach, diarrhœa, etc., and the sufferer is termed Bilious. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the Liver, Stomach, Bowels and Blood, curing Biliousness.

Incendiarism at Collingwood.

COLLINGWOOD, Oct. 21.—A most outrageous piece of incendiarism occurred here at an early hour this morning. The large and handsome brick dwelling just completed, situated on the corner of St. Marie street and Ontario, built for the Rev. Father Kiernan, was completely gutted by fire, which started in an upstair wing of the structure. The house was not yet occupied and was not taken off the contractor's hands. The loss will be from three to four thousand dollars; no insurance.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 70	to	0 85
Barley	35	to	55
Peas	50	to	55
Oats	25	to	28
Butter	10	to	12½
Eggs	17	to	00
Apples	25	to	40
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	9 00	to	0 00
Pork	5 00	to	5 50
Flour	4 00	to	4 75
Wool	17	to	18

Notices of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, twetnty five cents.

BIRTHS.

OLDHAM—In Chatsworth, on the 26th Sept., the wife of Dr. Oldham of a son.

NOBLE—In Markdale, on the 27th inst., the wife of Mr. Geo. Noble, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

SMITH—PEDLER—On Wednesday, 14th inst., by Rev. A. Wilson, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. David R. Smith, to Miss Rachel Clendenning Pedler, both of Artemesia.

CROFT—SIMMONS—On Wednesday, the 21st inst., at the residence of the bride's mother, by Rev. A. Wilson, Mr. Charles Wesley Croft, to Miss Sarah Ann Simmons, of Artemesia.

CUTTING—BOLES—On the 14th inst., at the Methodist parsonage, Markdale, by Rev. Thos. Grandy, Mr. Cutting of Keppel, to Miss Bowles of Euphrasia.

WILSON—DODGSON—On the 21st inst., by Rev. T. Griffith, at his residence, Spadina Avenue, Toronto, Mr. T. Wilson, to Miss Sarah Jane Dodgson, all of Brampton.

DEATHS.

SMITH—In Glenelg, on the 24th inst., Miss Mary Ann Smith, aged 24 years.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM.

Cures Throat, Bronchial and Lung Diseases that lead to Consumption; breaks up Coughs and Colds; cures Hoarseness and Sore Throat, by loosening the cough, allaying irritation and removing the cause of distress.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan, elevator, Resturant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

CONSTIPATION.

This evil habit neglected, brings a multitude of miseries, and is the source of much illness. Burdock Blood Bitters cures Constipation by toning and regulating the Bowels to a natural action.

MARVELOUS.

One dose of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure will cure Sick Headache, Dizziness, and Sour Stomach. 1 to 2 bottles are warranted to cure Liver Complaint, Indigestion and Biliousness. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Oct

TO THE PUBLIC.

—:o:—

We have opened a SHOEMAKER SHOP in connection with our business, under the management of Mr. Kay, well known as a superior workman, and purpose turning out a class of goods of unsurpassed excellence at prices which cannot be beaten.

Repairing Done Neatly, Cheaply & Expeditiously.

—:o:—

We continue to sell our genuine Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes &c., &c., at figures which astonish the shoddy men who make such loud "blowing."

GIVE US A TRIAL

☞ N. B.—Salt only 70 cents per barrel.

WM. BROWN & CO.

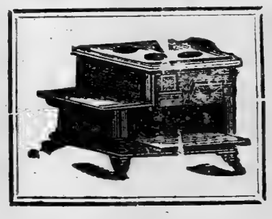
Markdale, October 20, 1885. 965-6

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.



VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE

Office & Infirmary: MILL ST., Opposite Standard Office, MARKDALE.

Stoves! Stoves!

Cook Stoves,
$16.50 Trimmed Parlor Stoves,
Coal Stoves,
Box Stoves,
All equally low.

Hardware,
Lance tooth Saws
Buck Saws,
Hand Saws,
Axes, Nails,
Glass, Putty &c.
At bottom prices.

☞ Intending purchasers will do well to give us a call as we cannot be undersold.

WALKER BRO'S,

3m MARKDALE.

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities, but if further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER &Co., Chemists and Druggists,

MARKDALE, ONT.

The only place in town where they can be obtained.

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

TEACHER WANTED.

TEACHER, holding third class certificate, duties to commence next January. Applications received up to 2nd November by R. H. STINSON, Sec.-Treas., S. S. No. 16, Euphrasia, Markdale, P. O. 962-67

Store to Rent in Makvale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent, Strathnairn, P. O., Ont.

149-tf.

...UBLIC.

...ER SHOP in connection
...gement of Mr. Kay, well
...d purpose turning out a
...cellence at prices which

...ply & Expeditiously.

...Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes
...sh the shoddy men who

... TRIAL.
... cents per barrel.
...BROWN & CO.
265-tf

...N, V. S.,
...Veterinary College.

Horses Examined
For Soundness and Certificates
Given.

...KEPT & DISPENSED
CHARGES MODERATE.
MARKDALE.

...Stoves!

Hardware,
Lance tooth Saws
Buck Saws,
Hand Saws,
Axes, Nails,
Glass, Putty &c.
At bottom prices.

...do well to give us a call as

...ER BRO'S,
MARKDALE.

...ANCE'S
...Eye-Glasses
...LY—
...H ARTICLES!
...ARKET.
...ept in stock.
... to prove Genuineness.

...ials have been received from the ... Ex-Vice-President of the Medical
...e College of Physicians and Sur-
...Faculty of Laval University; the
... Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

...fficient to prove their qualities

Chemists and Druggists,
...E, ONT,
...they can be obtained.
...tific principle.

Store to Rent in Makaale.

...E Store in Reynold's Block to rent.
...Application as to terms can be obtained
...John Lyons, Markdale, or
JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
Strathnairn, P. O., Ont.

Fall Assizes.

From the O. S. Times.

The Fall Assizes for this County opened ...the Town Hall on Monday afternoon, ...Justice Rose presiding. The criminal ...was unusually heavy, there being ...cases to go before the Grand Jury, ...ing a case of wounding with intent, ...cases of forgery, two of conspiracy, ...larceny and other crimes. Mr. A. ...was Crown prosecutor. The number ...cases on the docket was six. The ...wing gentlemen composed the GRAND JURY:

...r Laug, Foreman, James C. Miller, ...Goodwin, John K. Reid, Elias Edge, ...Bell, James Bradner, Andrew Shore, ...Keefer, Hy. Burley, Jas. C. Paterson, ...Goodchild, Hy. Bonnell, Jas. Brown, ...Laidlaw, Robt. Lynn, Wm. Whitelaw, ...Sproule, John H. Burchill, J. M. Fettis, ...McBride, Robt. Ledingham.

Before proceeding with the business, Jno. ...Q. C., on behalf of the bar of the ...in a short address congratulated ...Justice Rose on his elevation to the ...this being the first court he has held ...Judge Rose made a brief reply.

...LAND vs. CHARLTON.—This case was ...out of court.

CHRISTIE vs. BURNETT.—This was a case ...which Mr. Christie of Owen Sound sought ...from Jas. Burnett of the Manitoulin ...the price of machinery shipped by ...ted Jane Miller to his address, but ...her. The defendant contended ...there was no written contract, and as ...was no delivery of the articles there ...liability. The plaintiff contended ...the correspondance between them con- ...contract. The Court held that the ...not show a contract, and entered ...for defendant, with leave for plain- ...to before fall Court for a verdict ...Creasor & Morrison for plaintiff, ...Masson for defendant.

...vs. BLANSHARD.—Action for se- ...undefended. Verdict for plaintiff, ...Masson & Masson for plaintiff.

...Grand Jury brought in a true bill against ...for larceny, and against Allan ...wounding with intent.

TUESDAY.

...ALLAN BOWIE.—The prisoner ...for stabbing Alex. Mitchell at ...on 29th July last, as published ...at that time. Mr. A. Frost ...Masson defended the prisoner. ...apparent from the evidence that ...young men under the influence ...and that afternoon attacked Wm. ...other of the prisoner, evidently ...at colored men. They after- ...attacked Ezekiel Bowie, another ...and while this attack was going on ...prisoner came to his brother's assistance ...row, Allan Bowie stabbed Alex. ...in the neck with a knife. The ...the view that he acted in self-defence ...acquitted the prisoner.

...conclusion of the case the Judge ...Alex. Mitchell and Mathew Wilson bound ...keep the peace for five years.

...Grand Jury brought in a true bill ...Wm. H. Whitney for larceny, and ...against H. L. Tottenham for forgery.

QUEEN vs. WM. FOSTER.—The prisoner ...accused of larceny in appropriating to ...own use a cheque given to him by Chas. Baines for the purchase of lumber. The ...stances appeared to be that Baines ...given him a cheque for $50, payable to ...order, to purchase lumber for him; that ...Foster had endorced the cheque and got it ...and then bought lumber which he ...in his vessel to Owen Sound. When ...here. Baines said the lumber was ...kind he ordered, and claiming that ...instructed Foster not to cash the ...but to pay it over to the firm from ...the lumber was to be purchased, had ...arrested for larceny of the cheque. ...subsequently took the lumber which ...Foster offered him. On hearing the ...of the prosecutor, His Lordship ...the case, and directed that the ...was acquitted. A Frost for the ...Masson & Masson for the defence.

...Grand Jury brought in two true bills ...Almond Drinkwater for forgery.

...vs. TRAIN.—This was a very tedious ...Mr. J. C. Grant of Meaford sought to ...damages from Mr. Train of the same ...for injury to his property, one-half of ...having been carried away by the ...of defendent's dam on the 31st of ...last. There were about forty witnesses, ...the case occupied most of Tuesday ...till 10 o'clock at night, and all day Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY.

The Grand Jury brought in a true bill ...Wm. G. Gardner for wounding.

The Grand Jury brought in two more true ...against H. L. Tottenham for forgery, ...a true bill against Jas. White for a ...in having a glandered horse on the ...way; one against Henry Seabrook for ...and on bill against James McLaren ...

...vs. TRAIN.—Verdict for defendent. ...Masson and W D. Pollard for plaintiff. ...Q. C., and J. S. Wilson for ...

...et al vs. QUIN et al.—Action on an ...to set aside a conveyance. Case against John Quin dismissed; and a verdict for plaintiffs against Wm. Quin for $300 Wilson & Evaus for plaintiffs. W. D. Pollard for defendant John Quin.

QUEEN vs. WM. H. WHITBY.—The prisoner, who resides in the village of Eugenia, was accused for stealing a 2-year-old filly from a pasture near there. The horse was missed from the field, and was recovered from a man in Osprey, to whom the prisoner had disposed of it, he in ths meantime having made some statements in respect of it not in accordance with fact. For the defence it was contended that he bought the horse from gypsies, and there was some evidence that it was seen in their possession and him bargening with them. The jury found him guilty of receiving the animal, knowing it to be stolen. A. Frost for the Crown. Jas. Masson for the defence.

THURSDAY.

CALDER vs. MCMASTER.—Ejectment suit from property near Mount Forest. Defence contended for title by over ten years' possession and improvements under mistake in title. Verdict for plaintiff. Masson & Masson for plaintiff. Creasor & Morrison for defendant.

QUEEN vs. SEABROOK.—Prisoner was accused of the robbery of a horse in the township of Holland. Defence was that the prisoner owned the horse and had a right to take it. Verdict not guilty. A. Frost for the Crown. Jas. Masson for defence.

HENRY L. TOTTENHAM, against whom several true bills for forgery had been found pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to seven years in penitentiary.

The Court is still sitting as we go to press.

WHY EMPLOY DOCTORS.

Consult a doctor, for a 6 or 8 oz. bottle of medicine $1—consult A. Turner & Co. and he will give you a 12 oz. bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure for $1, and a valuable Recipe Book free. Nov.

Standard Sale Register.

☞ Parties getting their sale bills printed at this office will receive a free notice similar to the following in the STANDARD.

Wednesday, 4th Nov., at 12 o'clock, two and a half miles from Markdale, general farm stock, implements, &c. The proprietor, Mr. John Mercer, has sold his farm and is going to British Columbia, and the chattels must be sold. Terms, 12 months on approved joint notes. Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

Important auction sale on Friday, 6th Nov., of village property in Markdale, comprising lot No. 5, Queen St., opposite the residence of Mr. G. S. Bowes, and lot No. 4, Brown St., opposite the residence of Dr. Sproule, M. P. There is on the former a fine commodious concrete dwelling house, and on the latter a large brick residence. Wm. Kough, Owen Sound, owner; Geo. Noble, auctioneer. See posters for full particulars.

Tuesday, Nov. 3d., on lot North ½ of 19, con. 12, Euphrasia, Mr. Wm. T. Jordan will sell his farm stock, implements, household furniture, &c. Terms 12 months credit on approved paper. Sale at 1 o'clock p. m. J. Manarey, auctioneer.

Monday, the 2nd., Nov. on lot 19, con. 9, Euphraaia, 7 horses 24 cattle and a large quantity of other stock implements, &c. The proprietor, Mr. Andrew Manarey, having leased his farm will sell without reserve. Terms 13 months credit on good paper. Joseph Manarey, auctioneer.

Friday, October 30th, on lot 9, con. 14, Glenelg, a large stock of good cattle, horses, implements, &c. Sale at 12 o'clock. Terms, 14 months credit on approved joint notes. The farm will be offered for rent for a term same time. Wm. G. Lamb, proprietor; Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

Tuesday, Nov. 3, at lot 44, con. 2, West T. & S. Rd, Holland. Mr. Jas. Freeborn will sell 9 head of cattle, nineteen sheep, a lot of hay, implements, &c., &c. Sale at 1 o'clock. 12 months credit. Geo. Noble, auctioneer

SORE THROAT.

To cure this oft-occuring trouble use Hagyard's Yellow Oil internally and externally. Yellow Oil cures Croup, Asthma, Pain in the Side, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Ear Ache, Deafness and all sore and painful complaints.

Jottings From Euphrasia.

From the Mirror.

The township treasurer has received through Messrs. Trout & Jay, agents for the Glasgow and London Fire Insurance Company, $825 being the full amount claimed for damage to the township hall. This will be good news to all the ratepayers, except, perhaps, a few prospective candidates for municipal honors. It is reported that one of these wrote to the company setting fourth grounds upon which payment of the claim might be disputed.

His Honor Judge Macpherson held a court of revision at Rocklyn on Wednesday last Mr. Enoch Ball of Meaford, was the only appellant. His name was duly placed on the Voter's List.

There is not as yet much talk being indulged in regarding the approaching municipal elections, but there will likely be, a host of aspirants. The present members will all seek re-election.

Mr. Robert Myles has not yet definitely announced whether or not he will be a candidate for the reeveship.

Mr. Alex. Erskine is almost certain to oppose Mr. Gilray if Mr. Myles does not.

Mr. James Erskine will likely again oppose Mr. Fawcett for the deputyship. Mr. W. J. Black is also spoken of as a candidate for this position.

It is not likely that Mr. James Loughead will again seek election to the position of councillor. It is understood that Mr. Joseph Hawkins intends to run.

The ninth-liners state that they will place Mr. James Webster of the mills in the field for councillor.

Mr. James L. Wilson, the energetic secretary and treasurer of the agricultural society, is spoken of as a probable candidate for some of these positions.

Quite an amount of interest is centered in the Orr—Farewell libel suit, which is to be heard at the assizes now in progress at Owen Sound. Some thirty witnesses have been summoned from Euphrasia.

The Fairmount post office is in charge of Master Ernest Jordan, son of the Epping P. M., during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Orr.

A farmer near Rocklyn is reported to have absconded. Several persons are financially interested.

STRAYED

FROM the premises of Mr. D. J. Lewis, lot 19, con. 10, Euphrasia, about the last of June, two ewes, one ram lamb and a ewe lamb. Any person giving information as to their whereabouts will be liberally rewarded. 267-3in.

TEACHER WANTED.

FEMALE, holding 3d class certificate, duties to commence 1st January, '86, for S. S. No. 15, Euphrasia. State salary. Applications received up to noon the 14th November.

JAMES ELLIOTT, Sec.-Treas.,
268 70 Markdale P. O.

Important Notice.

I take this means of informing the public generally, that I have opened in

MARKDALE

An Agency for the sale of the famous

"DOHERTY ORGAN"

And world renowned

"Singer Sewing Machine."

The Doherty stands at the top of the list as either a Parlor or Chapel Organ. For strength and variety of tone, as well as beauty of finish and durability, it stands without a peer.

The Singer Sewing Machine is known all over the continent as the most perfect and durable machine in the market. Those who anticipate purchasing anything in the above line will consult their own best interests by giving me a call before closing a bargain elsewhere.

Office in Dunlop's old stand, Markdale.

HUGH WILLIAMS.

SavE MoneY

By buying your
Watches, Clocks,
Jewelry,
Spectacles,
Pipes, &c.
—AT—
JAS. G. RUSSELL'S
FLESHERTON.
A Beautiful Stock to Select from.

☞ It is a fact, as every one says, that RUSSELL is the man to repair your Watch or Clock properly.

GIVE HIM A TRIAL.

Every job warranted to give satisfaction.

217-269 JAS. G. RUSSELL.

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

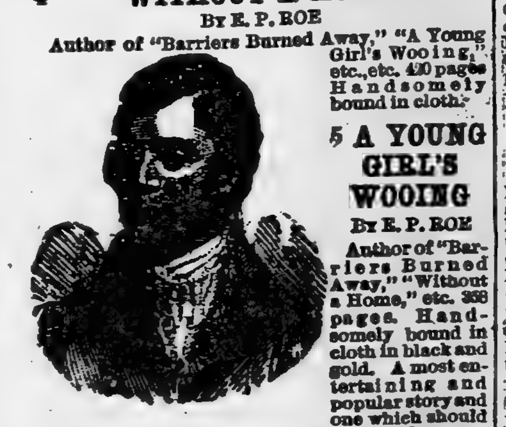
LOT 20, con, 10, Euphrasia, nine miles from the flourishing village of Markdale, and one lot from Post Office. This farm is well watered, solid clay loam, contains 100 acres 45 of which is cleared and under cultivation and the balance fine hardwood timber, also a frame barn 36 x 56 thereon. Terms easy, for particulars apply to

THOS. MUXLOW,
Goring P. O.
263-72 Adjoining the premises.

Good investment, The STANDARD 14 months for $1,

GRAND PREMIUMS
FOR TWO SUBSCRIBERS TO
The Weekly Mail

We have had a large number of letters from people who sent in Clubs last year and received the prize books, in which they say, "We had no idea that the prizes would be such good, well bound, valuable books. If your subscribers only knew what good value in prizes you were offering, there is not one of them who would not send in a club." This year we are offering a much more attractive and in every way better list of prizes.



Anyone sending in TWO Yearly Subscriptions to THE WEEKLY MAIL, at the regular rate of One Dollar a year each, will receive as a present a choice of one of the following valuable Books, which will be forwarded postage prepaid.

1 A WOMAN'S REASON
By W. D. HOWELLS
Author of "A Chance Acquaintance," "Our Wedding Journey," etc., etc. 370 pages. Well printed on fine paper, and handsomely bound in extra cloth, black and gold.

2 BESSIE'S FORTUNE
By MARY J. HOLMES
400 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with handsome stamps, black and gold.
A charming story by this ever popular authoress

3 QUEENIE HETHERTON
By MARY J. HOLMES
411 pages. Bound in cloth extra and gold. One of the best stories ever published, with handsome designs.

4 WITHOUT A HOME
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "A Young Girl's Wooing," etc., etc. 420 pages Handsomely bound in cloth.

5 A YOUNG GIRL'S WOOING
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "Without a Home," etc. 358 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth in black and gold. A most entertaining and popular story and one which should be read by every member of the household.

6 HIS SOMBRE RIVALS
By E. P. ROE
372 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth, in black and gold. This book has had an immense sale in the United States, and is one of the best efforts of this popular author.

7 THE EARL'S ATONEMENT
By BERTHA M. CLAY
370 pages. Bound in cloth extra. An entertaining story of modern society life.

8 HAWORTH'S
By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT
Author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." 320 pages. Bound in cloth extra.

9 INFELICE
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
Has deservedly won a splendid reputation. Her "St. Elmo" is a powerful picture of a bad man with latent traits of goodness, which are developed by the gentle influence of a pure woman. Her "Infelice" is a thrilling story of the stage, and shows a clear analysis of human nature.

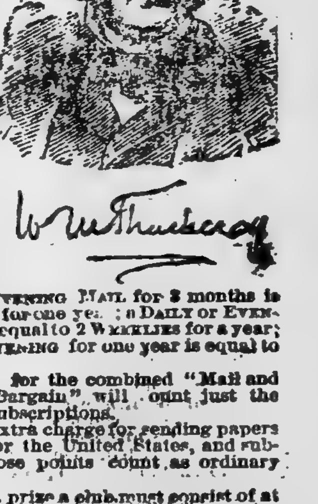
10 ST. ELMO
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
450 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with gold stamps.

11 SPY OF THE REBELLION
By ALLAN PINKERTON
A true story of the spy system of the United States army during the late rebellion; revealing many secrets of the war hitherto not made public. Compiled from official reports prepared for President Lincoln, General McClellan and Provost Marshal General, by Allan Pinkerton, who was Chief of the United States Secret Service. 340 pages. Illustrated.

12 COMMON SENSE IN THE HOUSEHOLD
By MARION HARLAND
320 pages. Bound in oil-cloth. This is acknowledged by everyone to be the best, most complete, and easiest understood Cookery Book ever published. The directions are exact, and the quantities, qualities, times, etc. are given with such exactness, that success is certain to the housekeeper who uses it.

13 EVE'S DAUGHTERS
Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother, by Marion Harland, author of "Common Sense in the Household."
340 pages. In cloth binding, neat. A book that should be found in every household.

14 OUR DEPORTMENT
Or the manners, conduct and dress of the most refined society, including forms for letters, invitations, etc., etc. Also valuable suggestions on home culture and training. Compiled from the latest reliable authorities by John H. Young, A.M. 330 pages. Illustrated and handsomely bound extra cloth, with gold and black stamps.



15 FOUR GREAT PREACHERS
A collection of choice sermons by Spurgeon, Moody, Talmage and Beecher, with short biographical sketches of these celebrated divines. 332 pages. Printed in good clear type, and handsomely bound in extra English cloth.

16 MOODY'S SELECT WORKS
By D. L. MOODY
412 pages. With portrait of the evangelist. This is a collection of anecdotes and illustrations from Mr. Moody's Speeches and Sermons.

17 GETTING ON IN THE WORLD
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
340 pages. Bound in cloth, in blue and gold. This is one of the most popular books, by a writer who combines knowledge with the ability to impart it in a most attractive form. There is no better book for a young man, in fact for anyone, to read than "Getting on in the World."

18 HOURS WITH MEN AND BOOKS
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
352 pages. Bound in cloth, in green and gold. "Worth any day ten times its cost for the tenth part it contains." Full of useful information.

19 THE COTTAGE HEARTH
A large, finely printed monthly magazine, made up of attractive literature, pure in tone and illustrated. Its price is $1.50 a year. Anyone sending THREE yearly subscriptions to the WEEKLY MAIL at the regular rate of one dollar each will receive as a present the above capital magazine for one year. Specimen copies will be sent free on application to The Cottage Hearth Co., Boston, Mass., U.S.

RULES.

1.—The full prices of the papers subscribed for must in all cases accompany the order. The prices are WEEKLY MAIL, $1.00 a year, 50 cents for 6 months; DAILY MAIL, $7.00 a year, $3.50 for 6 months, $1.75 for 3 months; EVENING MAIL, $2.50 a year, $1.25 for 6 months, 65 cents for 3 months.

2.—In counting up your subscriptions to see how many prizes you are entitled to: A subscription to the DAILY or EVENING MAIL for 3 months is equal to a WEEKLY for one year; a DAILY or EVENING for 6 months is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year; and a DAILY or EVENING for one year is equal to 4 WEEKLIES.

3.—Subscriptions for the combined "Mail and Sewing Machine Bargain" will count just the same as ordinary subscriptions.

4.—There is NO extra charge for sending papers to Great Britain or the United States, and subscriptions for those points count as ordinary subscriptions.

5.—To entitle to a prize a club must consist of at least two subscribers, and as many more as possible; that is to say, the sending in of one subscription to the DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY MAIL would not entitle the sender to a prize, but a yearly subscription to both DAILY and WEEKLY, or several subscriptions to either one or both, will be all right.

6.—A subscription to THE MAIL for two years, with the money in advance, will count as two subscribers; or, a subscription for three years as three subscribers.

When this list is sent in to the MAIL office a new list will be sent containing a larger list of prizes.

These books are all handsomely bound in Cloth. They are by excellent authors, and will be welcome in any family.

Remember, we prepay all postage on the papers and on the books.

Send for specimen number and illustrated prize list to THE MAIL, Toronto, Canada.

HEALTH.

Immunity From Disease.

The Lancet, of June, 1885, has an article explaining acquired immunity from infectious diseases. We give the leading points.

As a rule, one attack f these diseases confers immunity from a subsequent attack. A like immunity from certain infectious diseases is conferred by inoculation by a modified form of small-pox, generally protects against the violent form.

Pasteur, of France, explains such phenomena by supposing that the first attack exhausts some substance in the patient essential to the development of a microscopic parasites which cause the disease; and that those who are born with such immunity are naturally free from this substance—just as some lands, which have been fertile in certain plants, may lose this fertility by exhaustion of a single element of the soil; while other lands are naturally without this element, and hence unable to grow them. This is the exhaustion theory.

If this theory were true, then the flesh of an animal thus destitute of this essential substance should not, if made into a broth, furnish material for the growth of infectious germs, purposely introduced. But these germs do flourish in it.

The antidote theory is advocated by Klebs of Germany, and Klein of England. According to this, during the first attack some chemical substance is produced which is antagonistic to the infectious parasite or germ, and which remains in the body of the animal and prevents the subsequent development of the latter; this chemical substance exists naturally in such as are insusceptible to the disease. The proof against this is essentially the same as that against the exhaustion theory. Blood from the veins of animals characterized by immunity does not kill the infectious germs purposely introduced into it. Besides, the poisons thus generated must be supposed to remain in the veins for many years, or for life; while we know that accidental poisons, if not mortal, are always soon eliminated from the system.

The theory advanced by the writer is called "the vital resistance theory." Vital characteristics are inherited. Some persons inherit a feeble, and some a robust, constitution; some a tendency to long life, some to early decay; some a strong and some a weak resistance to morbific influence. Further, whatever lowers the vitality for a time, lessens this resistance. Whether feeble or strong, this vital resistance is a property of the living matter of the body and resides in its elementary cells. These cells incessantly produce their kind. Hence, when the cells have survived the first attack, they have acquired a new power of resistance, and this new power is transmitted, in constant succession, to the new progeny of cells.

As for inherited immunity, it results from the "survival of the fittest." The negro, as a race, is tolerant of malaria, because, living in malarial regions for ages, the most susceptible have been gradually killed off. Herbivorous animals are peculiarly susceptible to the poison of putrefaction. It is the reverse with the carnivorous. The latter, often feeding on putrid flesh and wounding each other with their teeth, have ever been greatly exposed to the poison. Only those of least susceptibility have survived.

Food and Sleep.

The adage of "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise" is a good one if carried out, that is, if the early to bed induces early rising of itself: but the waking of children to have an early breakfast with the family is an old time notion that, like many others held to extreme strictness in youth, is apt to be departed from in later years. Sensible people sometimes talk of sleep as though it were an accident of life that overtakes us—something we must at times succumb to, but as of no importance to our well being; its hours can be broken in upon, or be done away with as well as not, forgetting, or not realizing, that sleep and proper food are absolutely necessary for our life. If sleep comes not, we die; if we eat not, we die; therefore it is essential to health and comfort that both be furnished in sufficient quantities and at regular intervals. The writer has known an excellent mother who brought up her family wisely and well in every other way, except in regard to these two points To the early breakfast at 6 o'clock, both summer and winter, the children must come, or go without; and the very fact that always going to bed early, and then were inclined to sleep longer in the morning, shows it was needed, and they should have been allowed to awaken of themselves. Then, too, the older children, coming home hungry from school and finding the dinner distasteful (salt fish, perhaps) —dinner that must be eaten or have nothing. "It was good, wholesome food—good enough for anybody"—therefore the logic was, "You must eat it," and so the child, nibbling the distasteful food and finishing on the lighter dessert, leaves the table unsatisfied and really unfed, for when the sharpened appetite is met by agreeable food the pleasure of eating causes the saliva to flow readily, and mixing with the food is made ready for the stomach's digestion. Much of the discomforts and ills of later years come from the utter ignorance and disregard of these truths; and children should be taught not by strict rules in regard to it, but by pleasing conversation in the family, that sleep and eating are God-given blessings, not to be abused.

In the Firelight.

BY EUGENE FIELD.

The fire upon the hearth is low
And there is stillness everywhere—
Like troubled spirits here and there
The firelight shadows fluttering go.
And as the shadows round me creep,
A childish treble breaks the gloom,
And softly from a further room
Comes: "Now, I lay me down to sleep."

And, somehow, with that little pray'r
And that sweet treble in my ears,
My thought goes back to distant years
And lingers with a dear one there;
And as I hear my child's amen,
My mother's faith comes back to me—
Crouched at her side I seem to be,
And mother holds my hands again.

Oh! for an hour in that dear place—
Oh! for the peace of that dear time—
Oh! for that childish trust sublime—
Oh! for a glimpse of mother's face!
Yet, as the shadows round me creep
I do not seem to be alone—
Sweet magic of that treble tone
And "Now I lay me down to sleep."

The Diamonds of the French Crown.

To a traveller who visits the Tower of London the most interesting possessions he is likely to see are the crown jewels of England. Her Majesty Victoria, Queen of Great Britain and Empress of India does not wear the famous and costly crown except on rare occasions. With that eye to the practical, characteristic of the English, the gems and and jewels of the three kingdoms, carefully guarded in the Tower of London, are exhibited to any one payingy the price of admission, and it is said that the revenue derive by the Royal Treasury from this source is $100 000 a year.

The French crown jewels are not so famous or so valuable as those of England. As it is well known, the Koh-i-Noor is the most brilliant large diamond in the world, and is worth many million of dollars. There is nothing to be compared with it among precious stones. Yet the French collection is very valuable, and contains many jewels, famous historically, and rare and beautiful in themselves.

Public attention has been called to them recently from the fact that the question of selling them was agitated. A republican government has no use for such regal magnificence, and it must be said that they are an expensive luxury, when it is considered that they can never be worn as long as they remain public property, and are really of no earthly utility to the possessors.

The present collection is, of course, the result of the accumulation of centuries, but there have been no additions since the time of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette. When the Jacobins confiscated the property of king, nobility and clergy in 1789, the crown jewels were part of the spoil. The Democratic government, however, did not know what to do with their treasure. They adopted a neutral position, and ordeed an inventory to be drawn up. This decree of the National Assembly was passed on the 22d of June, 1791. The inventory was to be superintended by three deputies appointed as a comittee for that purpose, Messieurs, or rather Citizens Bion, Delattre, and Christin.

When published, the report of the committee filled a volume of two hundred and seventy pages, containing descriptions of substantially the following jewels:

The French crown in June, 1791, was composed of diamonds to the value of $3 300,000; pearls estimated at $200,000; colored stones, $73,000.

Besides these there were various chains, watches, brooches, regalia of different orders of chivalry, etc., etc., valued at $1,170,000.

The total value of the entire collection was about $5,000,000, not a startling sum when compared with the crowns of other countries.

The unique gems of this inventory, as of all inventories past or future, is the Regent diamond, estimated by the experts at the sum of 12 000,000 francs, or $2,400,000. The stone derived its name from Philippe, Duc d'Orleans, who was Regent of France during the minority of Louis XV. He did not pay a quarter of its present value for the diamond. Considered as a business transaction, the purchase may be reguarded as a remarkably good bargain on the part of the duke.

Among the principal gems may also be noted a diamond in the form of a pear lying on a peach blossom, weighing about twenty-four carats, and valued at 200,000 francs.

Another diamond, cut in the shape of a boat, is very beautiful, and is regarded as worth the sum of 250,000 francs.

But that which above all, after the Regent, holds the first place, is the Saucy diamond, one of the half a dozen historic stones of Europe. This is estimated at 1,000,000 francs in round numbers.

Several other diamonds, also very remarkable, vary in price, according to their weight, their cut and their water between 10 000 and 250,000 francs

There are many pearls enumerated in the inventory of 1791 which attainvery high figures, 150,000 and even 200 000 francs.

The most beautiful rubies of this collection are none of them worth 50,000 francs, and few even approach that value.

The finest emerald cost 12 000 francs, but a sapphire of thirty-two carats is estimated at 100,000 francs.

The stones of the Order of the Holy Spirit (Corden Bleu), worn by the king, are valued at double that amount.

The Order of the Fleece of Gold (Toison d'Or), with its various little stones, reaches the value of about 3,000 000 francs. The large blue diamond cut in the shape of a triangle, which was the principal piece of this decoration, is valued at $600,000 in itself alone. A second diamond, also blue, but of a clearer shade, at $60,000

There is a large ruby cut in the form of a dragon, the "king's epaulette," a very handsomely arranged set of colored stones, and la parure Blanche (the white set) also a beautiful arrangement.

The King's Sword is a very pretty piece of work; on its handle, its hilt, its scabbard, and its guard there are three hundred and twenty-two rose-cut diamonds.

The plaque of the Holy Spirit contained two hundred and ninety white brilliants, and a little ruby, without counting the large diamond of oval from which constituted the body of the mystic dove, the heart-shaped diamond which formed its head, the oval diamond which served for its tail, and the two elongated diamonds which represented its two wings. The price of each of these diamonds varied from 15,000 to 70,000 francs.

Besides the plaque, which the king wore over his coat, the Order of the Holy Spirit had a cross attached to a large Corden Bleu. This cross contained one hundred and sixty diamonds.

A certain number of the crown jewels had been mounted as buttons on the clothing of the monarch.

There were twenty-eight large buttons for the coat, eighteeen smaller for the vest, and ten little stones for another garment. Each one of these twenty-eight large buttons of the coat has at the centre a very beautiful diamond worth 10,000 francs. Around this central diamond is a circle of thirteen brilliants, and beyond this another circle of smaller but much more numerous stones Each button represents a little fortune.

The eighteen buttons of the vest are made up in a smilar fashion. The whole suit cost a little less than $60,000. But this is not all. The artist who conceived the details of this remarkable outfit left nothing undone. The buckle of the garters were composed of forty-four brilliants, those of the shoes eighty. The rim of the hat was adorned in the same way.

The watch of the king was ornamented with brilliants of remarkable water and cut. The square diamond which formed the medallion of the chain was worth 80,000 francs. The watch had two keys, one of them enclosing a round and the other an oval stone. The two keys cost $4000.

The seal is a brilliant of square shape, and its stamp is the three fleur de-lis of France.

This is far from being all, but enough has been described to give an idea of the marvellous collection known as the crown jewels of France.

Gone with a Handsomer Man.

JOHN.

I've worked in the field all day, a-plowin' the "stoney streak;"
I've scolded my team till I'm hoarse; Ive tramped till my legs are weak;
I've choked a dozen swears (so's not to tell Jane fibs)
When the plow-p'int struck a stone and the handles punched my ribs.

I've put my team in the barn, and rubbed the sweaty coats;
I've fed 'em a heap of hay and half a bushel of oats.
And to see the way they eat makes me like eating feel,
And Jane won't say to-night that I don't make out a meal.

Well said! the door is locked! but here she's left the key,
Under the steps, in a place known only to her and me:
I wonder who's dyin' or dead, that she's hustled off pell-mell;
But here on the table's a note, and probably this will tell.

Good God! my wife is gone! my wife is gone astray!
The letter it says, "Good-bye, for I'm going away!
I've lived with you six months, John, and so far I've been true;
But I'm going away to-day with a handsomer man than you."

A han'somer man than me! Why, that ain't much to say;
There's han'somer men than me go past here every day,
There's han'somer men than me—I ain't of the han'some kind;
But a lovin'er man than I was I guess you'll never find.

Curse her! curse her! I say, and give my curses wings!
May the words of love I've spoken be changed to scorpion stings!
And now, with a scratch of a pen, she's let my heart's blood out!
Oh, she filled my heart with joy, she emptied my heart of doubt.

Curse her! curse her! say I; she'll sometime rue this day;
She'll sometime learn that hate is a game that two can play,
And long before she dies she'll grieve she ever was born;
And I'll plow her grave with hate, and seed it down to scorn!

As sure as the world goes on, there'll come a time when she Will read the devilish heart of the han'somer man than me
And there'll be a time when he will find as others do,
That she who is false to one can be the same with two.

And when her face grows pale, and when her eyes grow dim,
And when he is tired of her and she is tired of him,
She'll do what she ought to have done and coolly count the cost;
And then she'll see things clear, and know what she has lost.

And thoughts that are now asleep will wake up in her mind,
And she will mourn and cry for what she has left behind;
And maybe she'll sometimes long for me—for me—but no!

And yet in her girlish heart there was something or other she had
That fastened a man to her, and wasn't entirely bad,
And she loved me a little, I think, although it didn't last;
But I mustn't think of these things—Ive buried 'em in the past.

I'll take my hard words back, nor make a bad matter worse;
She'll have trouble enough she shall not have my curse;
But I'll live a life so square—and I well know that I can—
That she always will sorry be that she went with that han'somer man.

Ah, here is her kitchen dress! it makes my poor eyes blur;
It seems when I look at that, as if 'twas holdin' her.
And here are her weekday shoes, and there is her week-day hat,
And yonder's her weddin' gown; I wonder she didn't take that.

'Twas only this morning she came and called me her "dearest dear,"
And said I was makin' for her a regular paradise here;
O God! if you want a man to sense the pains of hell,
Before you pitch him in just keep him in heaven a spell!

Good-bye! I wish that death had severed us two apart,
You've lost a worshipper here—you've crushed a lovin' heart.
I'll worship no woman again; but I guess I'll learn to pray,
And kneel as you used to kneel before you ran away.

And I thought if I could bring my words on heaven to bear,
And if I thought I had some little influence there,
I would pray that I might be, if it only could be so,
As happy and gay as I was half an hour ago.

JANE (entering).

Why, John, what's the litter here! you've thrown things all around;
Come, what's the matter now? and what've you lost or found?
And, here's my father here, a waiting for supper, too;
I've been a riding with him—he's that "handsomer man than you."

Ha! ha! Pa, take a seat, while I put the kettle on And get things ready for tea, and kiss my dear old John.
Why, John you look so strange! Come, what has crossed your track?
I was only a-joking, you know; I'm willing to take it back

JOHN (aside).

Well, now, if this ain't a joke with rather a bitter cream!
It seems as if I'd woke from a mighty ticklish dream;
And I think she "smells a rat," for she smiles at me so queer;
I hope she don't; good Lord! I hope that they didn't hear!

'Twas one of her practical drives—she thought I'd understand!
But I'll never break sod again till I get the lay of the land.
But one thing's settled with me—to appreciate heaven well,
'Tis good for a man to have some fifteen minutes in hell.

Lyell estimated that the gorge of Niagara river was cut out in about 35,000 years, but surveys to determine the present rate of recession of the falls indicate that the work may have been done in 10,000 years. During forty-one years the average annual wear of the rock was 2½ feet.

EPIDEMICS.

BY W. [illegible], M.D., [illegible] HEALTH OFFICER OF THE CITY OF MONTREAL.

The modern Anglo-Saxon leads the world in Sanitary Science, or the art of preventing the origin and spread of contagious diseases —and he, too, is hard pressed by the Teutons (Germans) ever in the front rank in Experimental Science.

That this is due in a great measure to the enlightenment which these two races enjoy in consequence of their emancipation from intellectual serfdom and superstition, may be inferred from the fact that all restrictions and sanitary regulations are as irksome and as much neglected, and epidemic diseases are as frequent and fatal among the dark-skinned races of to-day as they were in the 14th and 15th centuries, and any attempt at enforcement of sanitary regulations among such people, whether they be Italians in Italy or New York; Spaniards in Spain or Panama; French in Marseilles or Montreal, is met with prejudice and opposition, and excites the masses to open rebellion or mob violence.

This is demonstrated by the cholera epidemic in Italy, Spain and France, and nearer home, by the present lamentable epidemic of small-pox in Montreal.

Sanitary officials are regarded much as rats regard cats, as their natural enemies, and are opposed and deceived at every point, while Death gathers unhindered an abundant harvest throughout the land.

The principal factor in the spread of epidemic diseases among the Latins in Eastern towns and cities is their general poverty, and the overcrowding which prevails, living huddled together in old and dilapidated mansions that have ceased to be serviceable as hotels, warehouses or dwellings for the rich, abandoned to the poor who swarm through them like ants in an anthill, but unlike ants, living in filth and squalid poverty with its concomitant conditions.

Such was overcrowded London in 1348 when the Black Death claimed a holocaust of 100,000 as the penalty for violation of natural law, while at the same period, in the towns and cities of the continent of Europe where the conditions among the masses were even worse, and the most horrible neglect of the most ordinary sanitary precautions prevailed, 25 millions of persons, or a fourth part of the entire population, was swept away by it.

Other epidemics occurred equally destructive to human life. All of them owed their origin and maintained their violence through the favoring uncleanly habits and fearful unsanitary conditions under which they lived.

In England, small-pox pestilences were of frequent occurrence, and so widespread and terrible was their devastating effects, carrying off from 30,000 to 60 000 souls in one year in the Midland counties of England alone —that philanthropists were moved to seek a remedy, and found one in the practice of inoculation of the disease itself as practised in Turkey and introduced into England in 1721 by Lady Mary Montague, wife of the then Turkish Ambassador. This practice had the effect of conferring an immunity from further attacks, but often resulted in a severe attack and in spreading the disease by contagion. Finally, in 1794, Jenner, acting upon the popular idea prevalent among the peasantry, that persons who had accidentally acquired horse or cow pox from handling animals, could nurse small-pox patients without risk of taking the disease, and, an opportunity occurring, introduced the practice of vaccination, which he tested three months after on his first case—the boy Phillips—by re-vaccination (called Bryce's test) and inoculation with the small-pox virus itself, when, to his great satisfaction the boy was found to be proof against either. And thus began practically, the greatest boon ever conferred by sanitary science—although in Gottingen, in Germany, and in the neighborhood of Cork, Ireland, vaccination appears to have been practised among the peasantry by the mothers themselves long anterior to Jenner's discovery. Indeed there is a tombstone in a village in Herefordshire, which bears an inscription some years prior to Jenner's discovery, to show that the party buried there was the first to practice vaccination in England; but Jenner made it popular.

The epidemics of the Middle Ages, graphically depicted by Heckel are attributed by Dr. Guy, in his excellent treatise on public health, to overcrowding in walled towns and cities in which no attention was paid to sewerage, water supply, or habits of personal cleanliness; and it must be remembered that these epidemics were not local, appearing only here and there, but wide spread, sometimes devastating whole countries or traversing an entire continent, and in the ignorance and superstition of the people were regarded as visitations of God's anger with national disaster.

In the twelfth century there were fifteen widespread epidemics and nineteen famines; and in the thirteenth century twenty epidemics and nineteen famines; and in the fourteenth century eight epidemics and nine famines, sweeping away whole communities of people living in filth and dependant upon some one source of food supply which, failing, brought about famine and pestilence in its wake. Witness the Irish ship fever and famine of 1847—a malignant and contagious form of typhus fever, engendered purely by starvation, filth, and overcrowding.

But the world progresses, and with the general march of improvement sanitary science grows apace, and is fighting the battle between life and death with much success, crowning its victories with daily marches which astonish its most devoted enthusiasts, and making it impossible for such a state of things as before described ever again to recur among respectable, civilized nations, because sanitarians, physicians, legislators, and people, all are combining to eradicate evils and to secure efficient drainage, water supply, and sanitary regulations, conserving life and modifying disease by isolation of the infected and by progressive medicine, providing humane hospital management, and skilful nursing for the sick.

Epidemics of cholera have, from time to time, arisen in the East and spread over the entire commercial North, devastating town, and cities in its progress—thus in 1832-47-54 it reached and raged in Canada, wiping out the inhabitants of slums and filth-acumulating regions, and sweeping away in most cases the entire list of customers of the tavern and restaurant. The inference is plain, Southern Bengal and the delta of the Ganges is the reputed home and birth place of cholera, where all the conditions favorable to its [illegible] progress exist. Here it is said to [illegible] but the enlightened management [illegible] ish Military, Medical and Sanitary [illegible] with movable camps, has so reduced [illegible] danger to garrisons that almost [illegible] immunity is now enjoyed, and the [illegible] will escape without a loss even when [illegible] raging in the surrounding villages [illegible] ravages of the present epidemic [illegible] and this, in Italy, Spain and the [illegible] France, is an evidence of the great [illegible] tion and ignorance which still [illegible] some communities among the dark [illegible] races causing them to openly rebel against their best benefactors, the medical [illegible] sanitarians. And the experience of the present small-pox epidemic in Montreal, [illegible] was imported originally on the steamer [illegible] dis from London, England via New [illegible] Chicago, and thence by Pulman car [illegible] ors to Montreal, where all the [illegible] favorable to its spread were found [illegible] with negligent official supervision, no [illegible] pox hospital, and isolation consequently [illegible] possible; the bitterest opposition and [illegible] judice among the masses against [illegible] tion, so that from two original cases, in [illegible] of every effort to prevent and stay its [illegible] gress, it has increased until now, Oct. 1, [illegible] are probably, at least 5000 cases in the [illegible] with as many more people infected. [illegible] Health Department, without competent leadership, paralysed before the spectacle [illegible] a city with its commerce in ruins, its [illegible] deserted by visitors, its people rioting [illegible] destructive; a war of races inaugurated, and all sanitary measures arrested, [illegible] such a prospect as is truly appalling, [illegible] cause its people are misled by demagogues who seek only popularity through opposition.

Epidemics are preventable visitors, [illegible] where this is not possible their severity [illegible] be so modified by modern improvements [illegible] Sanitary Science, as will make them easy to cope with. Let us hope, then, that the [illegible] sons of the past will not be lost on the [illegible] of the present and future generations.

PERSONAL.

The Duke of Abercorn, father of [illegible] Lansdowne, who celebrated not long [illegible] his golden wedding, lives now almost [illegible] ly at home, Baronscourt, in the north of [illegible] land, in a sort of patriarchal style. He [illegible] no neighbors, scarcely, as he owns [illegible] acre for miles around, but the immense mansion is always full of his children, grand-children and great-grand-children. The Hamilton family are looked upon by [illegible] people as semi-royal, and are very popular by reason largely of gracious manners [illegible] good books.

The only son of the Duke of Norfolk [illegible] boy of six, the heir of all the Howards [illegible] successor to his father's domains and [illegible] father's good works, is sightless, and no [illegible] of intelligence has yet dawned on the [illegible] fragile, high bred little face. Hope [illegible] at last in the breast of both parents. [illegible] reluctantly, mournfully begin to admit [illegible] fact that this child of many prayers [illegible] never be but an object of pity and compassion, and while the father bravely carries his heavy cross, it must be admitted that its weight is a crushing one for the Premier Duke of England.

M. Plateau, the physiologist of Ghent [illegible] has been occupied upon some interesting experiments to solve the question whether [illegible] sects can distinguish the shapes of objects with their eyes. Can a fly recognize the person who is upon destroying it? Or does [illegible] wasp exactly know which of a group of [illegible] sons it intends to sting? M. Plateau says "No." The result of his experiment [illegible] to confirm the theory already laid down [illegible] Exner, namely, that an insect perceives with its eyes the intensity of the light [illegible] an object, and also takes note of the movements of an object, but that it is not able [illegible] distinguish one object from another by [illegible] outward shape.

The Queen has consented to celebrate [illegible] jubilee anniversary of her reign by a [illegible] progress through London. This will be [illegible] lowed by a monster volunteer review [illegible] Hyde Park, and banquets and illuminations of the most elaborate description will [illegible] ceed the review, and fill out the night [illegible] general rejoicings The special and [illegible] observation of the jubilee will not be [illegible] fined to the metropolis, but similar [illegible] will be taken in all the larger cities to [illegible] brate her Majesty's ascent to the throne and even in the smaller towns every [illegible] able means will be utilized to render [illegible] affair a notable one. The day will be a [illegible] day all over the country, and special [illegible] tions will be made to bring the people [illegible] the nation into harmonious action.

It is related that the Earl of Shaftesbury lost his watch while walking in the [illegible] Cut, a neighborhood infested with vile characters. He advertised his loss. Within twenty-four hours his household was [illegible] by a ring at the street door, and the [illegible] of a vehicle were heard rapidly departing. On opening the front door, a sack was found filled with something that moved. On investigating, a boy of the Artful Dodger [illegible] was found in it, bound hand and foot [illegible] gagged. Round his neck was the missing watch, and underneath was a placard [illegible] the words: "Lock 'im up, Mi lord, he [illegible] Disgrace to ourn Prefession, he order [illegible] as how yer lordship was Free of the [illegible] giv' 'im five Years 'ard. Yer friends." The earl kindly went to work to reform [illegible] young thief; and eventually he became [illegible] honest member of the London shoeblack brigade.

In 1808, Haydn was present for the last time at the performance of his own "Creation." The presence of the old master, [illegible] en down by age, wheeled in as he was [illegible] a chair, roused intense enthusiasm in [illegible] audience, which could no longer be suppressed when the chorus and orchestra [illegible] full power upon the grand passage, [illegible] there was light." Amid the tumult of [illegible] enraptured audience Haydn was seen [illegible] ing to raise himself. Once on his feet, [illegible] mustered up all his strength; and, in [illegible] to the applause of the audience, he [illegible] out, "No, no, not from us, but, [illegible] heaven cometh all!" He fell back in [illegible] chair, and had to be carried out of [illegible] room. His last days were a veritable [illegible] of the swan. He was led to the piano [illegible] played thrice the "Hymn to the Emperor" [illegible] as well he might; for a shot of French cannon had just fallen into his garden. [illegible] days after he was dead. He could not survive his country's degradation.

[illegible] DAISY'S SAKE.

BY NORAH LAUGHER, TORONTO.

[illegible] of "Pansy," "Homeless," "Lady Ingledine's Sin," etc., etc.

[illegible] moss grown rustic gate of the pic[illegible] sweet-smelling, old-fashioned gar[illegible] the Glebe Farm two lovers were stand[illegible] The golden June sunlight streamed [illegible] the wide branches of the apple trees [illegible] them. The one, a tall, fair-haired, [illegible] shouldered young man, evidently a [illegible] do yeoman, the other, a slight, gold[illegible] ed girl of not more than seventeen [illegible]

[illegible] rich mild rose color of the girl's dim[illegible] cheeks deepened, and the dark blue [illegible] drooped sadly at something she was [illegible] g to. At last she replied: "Philip I [illegible] you are rather unkind to me; if you [illegible] y spoken thus last week I would have [illegible] the invitation; but now, I have [illegible] d to go and it is so long since I had [illegible] you are very, very cruel to me."

[illegible] ll, well, Daisy, don't think any more [illegible] I have said, dear, but go and enjoy [illegible]," said Philip Ashlin, kindly, harsh[illegible] ing himself for the jealous feeling [illegible] g into his heart, for he could not bear [illegible] ears on the lovely, child-like face of [illegible] re bride. "Go and be happy, dar[illegible] nd taking her in his strong young [illegible] kissed her tenderly, and then with a [illegible] troubled sigh he walked away to his [illegible] m a mile distant.

[illegible] p Ashlin sighed heavily, knowing [illegible] aisy Vernon could not love him as [illegible] as he loved her or she would not care [illegible] d the dance at the Hall when he was [illegible] luded in the invitation.

[illegible] Hall at Westleigh was occupied—as [illegible] een for many centuries—by the West[illegible] mily. The present Lord Westleigh [illegible] give a tenants' ball that evening, to [illegible] Miss Vernon, as a friend of one of the [illegible] daughters, was invited [illegible] ony Vernon, although not a wealthy [illegible] as of a good family and farmed his [illegible] ate; he had been a widower for many [illegible] nd Daisy was his only child.

[illegible] ball room at the Hall presented a bril[illegible] ght, many of the aristocracy of the [illegible] rhood gracing it to mingle for a few [illegible] with the tenants of their friend. The [illegible] shone on many lovely women, but on [illegible] fair as the golden-haired Daisy Ver[illegible] ho was clad in a simple white muslin [illegible] th a single white rose nestling in her [illegible] urls.

[illegible] o is that lovely child?" enquired a [illegible] ndsome man of some thirty-five years, [illegible] dark moustache and a somewhat mil[illegible] k. "Introduce me will you, West[illegible]

[illegible] tain Beaumont, Miss Vernon," re[illegible] Lord Westleigh, introducing his [illegible] after he had himself shaken hands [illegible] aisy.

[illegible] aptain Beaumont bowed low she [illegible] "what a handsome and distinguished [illegible] man, and"—with a little sigh— [illegible] ifferent he is to Philip."

[illegible] g Daisy's card, Captain Beaumont [illegible] his name upon it for three round [illegible] of which the next waltz was one.

[illegible] ak you very much, Miss Vernon," [illegible] when it was ended, "that is the [illegible] licious dance I have ever had. But [illegible] ake you to the conservatory; it is so [illegible] oler there."

[illegible] g Daisy on a seat near a large foun[illegible] entertained her with interesting an[illegible] of camp life and peculiar people he [illegible] abroad, noting with pleasure each [illegible] l feeling betrayed in the lovely sen[illegible] e at his side.

[illegible] in Beaumont bit his nether lip sav[illegible] nd a Mephistophilian look came into [illegible] eyes as he tried not to appear an[illegible] the intrusion of a servant who some[illegible] erwards entered with a message for [illegible] "If you please, sir, Mrs. Beaumont [illegible] o speak to you."

[illegible] r wife," faltered Daisy, with a deep [illegible] d a shy, frightened look in her dark [illegible] s [illegible] Miss Vernon, you do not think I am [illegible] surely. Mrs Beaumont is my cousin's [illegible] will take you back to the ball room [illegible] go and speak to her."

[illegible] andsome, bronzed face of Captain [illegible] t haunted Daisy's vision all the [illegible] y. He had asked permission to call [illegible] lebe Farm, but several days passed [illegible] ad not done so.

[illegible] was walking homeward slowly [illegible] the Westleigh woods one evening [illegible] e heard the clatter of a horse's hoofs [illegible] er. Turning round she beheld Cap[illegible] mont, who instantly alighted to [illegible] r. Retaining her small hand he [illegible] through his arm, and as she listened [illegible] ft, false, musical voice, the homely, [illegible] ace of Philip Ashlin was entirely [illegible]

[illegible] n Beaumont had much to relate and [illegible] nid, just then on his way to call at [illegible] Farm. "But is it not much bet[illegible] y, that we met here instead? Tell [illegible] one, that you are pleased to see [illegible] ailing to make the sweet blue eyes [illegible] passionate dark orbs, he placed his [illegible] ingly around Daisy's waist; but [illegible] child grew shy and frightened and [illegible] into bitter tears she told him of her [illegible] nt to Philip Ashlin.

[illegible] Beaumont kissed away the tears [illegible] pretty, blushing face now nestling [illegible] ly on his breast, while he told her [illegible] d never be the wife of a poor coun[illegible]

[illegible] p is not poor, Captain Beaumont, [illegible] ves me."

[illegible] ou do not love him, Daisy, and [illegible] loves you better than he does. Do [illegible] me well enough, darling, to leave [illegible] e and come with me!" Gathering [illegible] ately in his arms, he kissed over [illegible] again the pansy-like eyes and child[illegible] while he explained to her that [illegible] their marriage must be kept secret, [illegible] but the youngest son of Lord Gar[illegible] had other matrimonial views for [illegible] having but small income from the [illegible] greatly feared disinheritance.

[illegible] after week passed by with repeated [illegible] ings in the Westleigh woods, for [illegible] Beaumont rarely called openly at [illegible] Farm.

[illegible] ver Daisy, listening to the music[illegible] g voice of her lover, and beneath [illegible] of his passionate, dark eyes, forgot [illegible] her white-haired old father [illegible] honest, true heart of Philip Ashlin, [illegible] d her so faithfully—forgot every[illegible] the handsome, dark, pleading face [illegible] and at last with many tears, promised to con[illegible] riage.

Before t[illegible] gathered i[illegible] Daisy Ver[illegible] leaving a[illegible] father, beg[illegible] and telling[illegible] again, as C[illegible] knowledge[illegible] her back t[illegible]

That nig[illegible] sun stream[illegible] house upon[illegible] Vernon, a[illegible] face—now [illegible] Ashlin, wh[illegible] lifted his e[illegible] ly before G[illegible] this man w[illegible] trived by h[illegible] of the simp[illegible] been his bri[illegible]

The Chris[illegible] newly made[illegible] when Philip[illegible] London in a[illegible] guided Dais[illegible] to that grea[illegible] of detectives[illegible] to get a clue[illegible]

Months d[illegible] he was still [illegible] when he saw[illegible] Beaumont h[illegible] ed for Afri[illegible] Dead? Oh, w[illegible] he thought a[illegible] ed to Westle[illegible] tered the vil[illegible] the churchya[illegible] grave whose [illegible] of Anthony [illegible] he was horrif[illegible] lying sensele[illegible] He raised he[illegible] knew it was [illegible] ferent was th[illegible] against his he[illegible] who had so c[illegible] choose the D[illegible] ashes of false[illegible]

"I will wi[illegible] he kissed the[illegible] "and, please [illegible] shall be happ[illegible] my love, look[illegible] tle word? It i[illegible] speak to me!" [illegible] in vain; Daisy[illegible]

* *

Near to a H[illegible] rica an Englis[illegible] Far away fr[illegible] ing sun shone[illegible] man—an offic[illegible] His handsom[illegible] with the dew [illegible] eyes still wore[illegible] look.

The tall form[illegible] another soldier[illegible] over him, who,[illegible] raised his eyes[illegible] knees. "At la[illegible] Daisy, my love,[illegible] forgive me; this[illegible]

A[illegible]

In traveling, [illegible] some times ope[illegible] tragedy. For [illegible] fragments noted[illegible] senger on a rail[illegible] which a fatal [illegible] blonde woman,[illegible] was languidly [illegible] champagne at h[illegible] when her husba[illegible]

"Daisy," he [illegible] ting on the train[illegible]

"Oh, good gr[illegible] ed angrily.

He pointed t[illegible] shabby clothes,[illegible] car.

"Had I not [illegible] car?" he said. [illegible] lows in that one.

"Does she kno[illegible]

"No."

"Then never [illegible] mamma to the[illegible] some of her comp[illegible]

